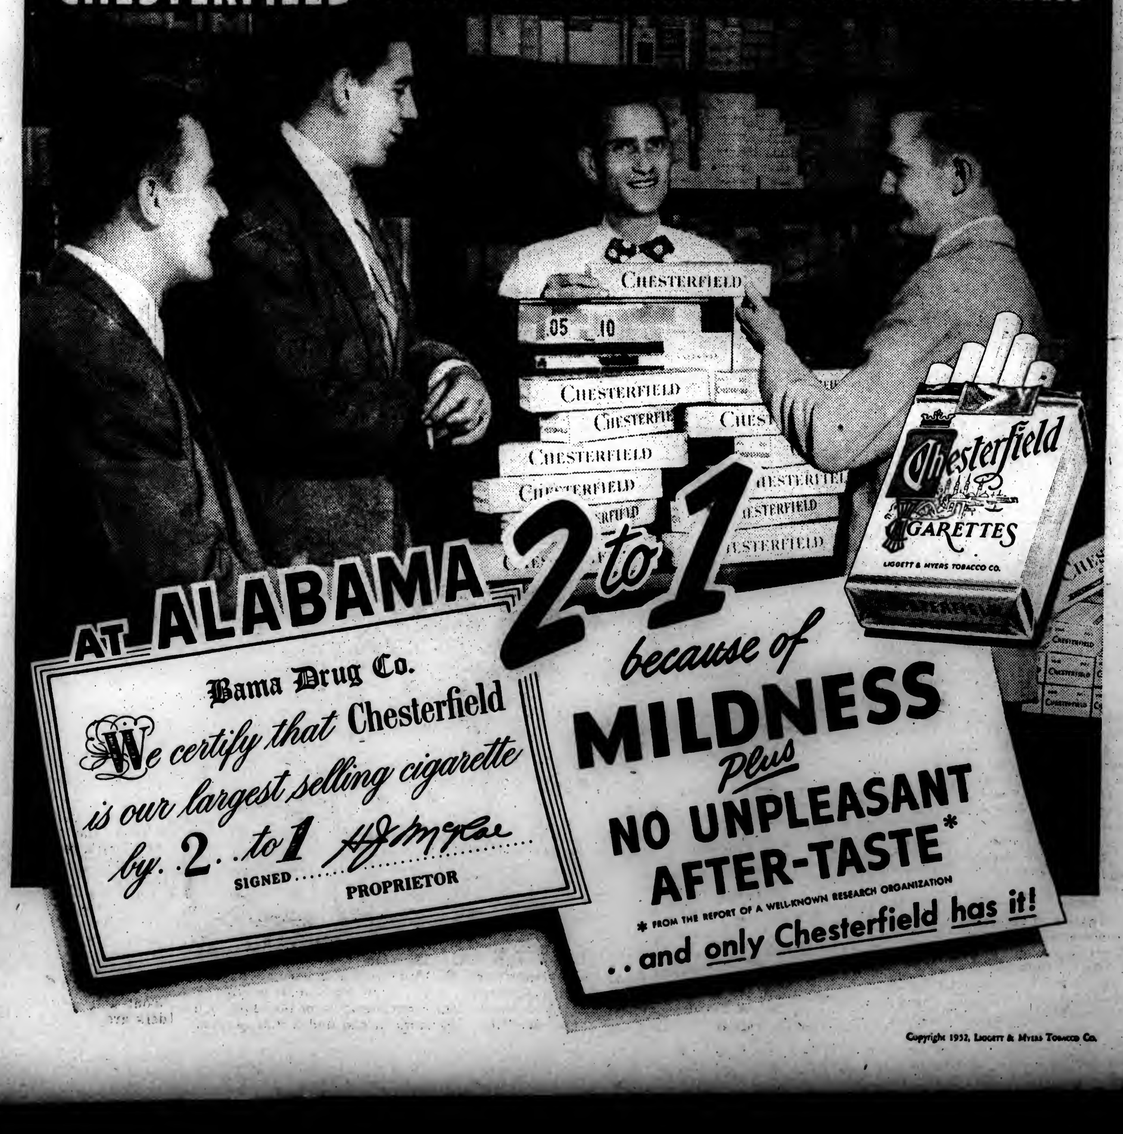
An exhibit on ATOMIC ENERGY prepared by the editors of LIFE Magazine, which was observed with great interest here last year, will again be shown beginning Monday and continuing through Feb. 29 at the college library.



This display was prepared in consultation with the United States Atomic Energy Commission which has urged nation wide education on the subject.

The thesis of the exhibition is that science is truly international; and that atomic energy is not exclusively scientific matter but will inevitably involve social and political questions. More concerned with the practical use of atomic energy to date than with nuclear physics, the numerous photographs emphasize the importance of the layman's understanding the social and political aspects of this great new source of energy.

ATOMIC ENERGY follows the developments of nuclear physics from its origin through to the latest developments in the fields of warfare, industry, therapy and commerce.

Prom Goes 'On The Town' Friday

Scenes Of Old New York Echo To Charlie Spivak

CHARLIE SPIVAK
Plays in Field House Friday night for Senior Prom.

A night "On the Town" in New York, with music by Charlie Spivak and his orchestra highlights Senior Weekend, the last group of social functions for the Class of '52 when the Seniors present the annual Belle Air Ball in the Field House Friday night.

Chairman Bob Beers this week released details of the theme inspired by a weekend in New York city, and carried out with a decorations scheme promised to surpass even the Parisian motif that set precedents for the Class during last year's Junior Week.

Blue Notes Play

Dancing will be continuous from 9 p. m. until 1 a. m., with a popular local combo, the Blue Notes, supplying intermission music.

Tickets are still on sale daily during lunch hours in the Pie Shop and Mendel at five dollars per bid, a price reduced from the usual cost of admission to a major social event on campus.

Ticket chairman Joseph Mascuch reports that a capacity attendance of some six hundred couples is anticipated, and that few bids will be available at the door.

Washington Bridge

Centering the theme around an 80 foot replica of the George Washington bridge that spans the entire dance floor from side to side, decorations chairmen Bill Shilling and Andy Markey have designed flats and scenery to represent familiar landmarks and nightspots of New York, including the Palisades, Central Park, the Stork Club and the G. A.

The first "name" band to appear at a Class function, the

'52's Fling Opens At Dinner-Dance

The Senior Class launches its social farewell to the College Thursday night in the main ballroom of the Broadwood hotel in Philadelphia at the annual Senior Dinner-Dance.

Held the night before a College free day, Washington's birthday, the function opens this year's Senior Weekend as the members of the graduating class gather formally and act as hosts to many of the members of the administration who have followed the Class since its first days at Villanova.

Zollo Will Play

Leo Zollo, popular Philadelphia orchestra leader and his group will play for the dancing and also provide dinner music in the earlier part of the evening. Dinner is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. sharp by chairman Thomas Pasha, and dancing will continue until 1 a. m.

The Broadwood's main ballroom, one of the most beautiful and spacious banquet facilities in the city, will hold a capacity crowd of Villanova seniors, according to late in-

March Deadline Set For April 24 Deferment Exam.

Students who intend to take the Selective Service College Qualification Test in 1952 should register at once for the test scheduled to be given April 24, according to the Educational Testing Service, of Princeton, N. J., which administers the test. Applications must be postmarked no later than midnight, March 10, 1952.

It is pointed out that with the April 24 administration of the examination all students presently in college will have had ample opportunity to take the test.

Thus, any student who has not taken the test after that date will probably not be considered eligible for deferment under present Selective Service regulations.

Apply to Local Board

An application and a bulletin of information may be obtained at any local selective service board. Following instructions in the bulletin, the student should fill out the application immediately and mail it in the special envelope provided for that purpose.

Results will be provided to the student's local Selective Service board of jurisdiction for use in consideration of his deferment as a student.

Recommended For All

Every college student should take the test by April 24. Any student now in college who has not taken the exam yet was strongly urged by Selective Service National Headquarters to do so immediately. Even students who are presently deferred due to their status in a reserve unit, ROTC, or due to their class standing are requested to take the test.

Rules governing deferment in the above cases are subject to change, thus to be certain of consideration for deferment as a college student, every student should take the test.

Villanova resident students may obtain their applications from the Bryn Mawr board (main corner, Bryn Mawr, in the civic building that is

DEADLINE WED.

Because of the holiday Friday, the deadline for the next issue of the "Villanovan" will be tomorrow (Wednesday) afternoon at 4 p. m.

All copy for that issue is due in the "Villanovan" office at that time.

Sr. Week Climax Concert Sunday

Senior Weekend will have a musical climax Sunday night when the Main Line Symphony Orchestra opens its 1952 program in the Field House.

The program, which will be given for the benefit of the Villanova Building Fund, will feature selections from Wagner, Mozart, Verdi, and Tschaikowsky.

Two former winners of the "Voice of America" contests, Miss Angela Giordano and Mr. Jan Gbur will be the guest soloists. Miss Giordano, won the award in 1951, and at present is in concert and television work.

'Star of Tomorrow'

Mr. Gbur, a graduate of the Curtis Institute of Music, has also won the Stars of Tomorrow and the Marion Anderson awards for his bass-baritone voice.

Miss Giordano and Mr. Gbur will feature a duet from Verdi's Don Giovanni and will also perform individually in the presentation of various solos.

Vyner's Third Year

Louis Vyner is presently serving his third year as conductor of the Main Line musicians. He has gained widespread fame for his great ability in interpreting and arranging the works of some of the greatest composers.

Mr. Vyner is also a graduate of the Curtis Institue of Music in Philadelphia. He has appeared as violinist and guest conductor with Stokowski, Fritz Reiner, and Emil Mlynarski.

ANGELA GIORDANO
Concert Soloist

Following these successes, Mr. Vyner turned his talents to the formation of community orchestras, and the Main Line Symphony has been one of his greatest triumps. This will be the third concert that the group has presented this year.

Lewis James to "MC"

Combining the offerings of the orchestra and the soloists into a well rounded program will be Lewis James, who will serve as master of ceremonies.

Mr. James is noted for his outstanding concert and operatic singing and for his ability as a vocal instructor.

Student Council Is Awarded Its First Financial Powers

An unprecedented move by the College administration granting the Student Council financial powers over four campus organizations was announced by Council president Tom Delaney last Monday at a meeting of the group.

The new plan, experimental in nature, gives the Council a budget of an undisclosed amount which will be appropriated among the Beta Gamma Debating Society, the National Federation of Catholic College Students, the Industrial Relations Commission and the International Relations Commission.

Six Steps

All expenditures of these groups will now be approved and covered by the Council.

The new responsibility, which was previously held by the Administration, entails a six step process, according to Delaney:

1. Submission of an itemized budget from the organization.
2. Discussion, cutting and

FROSH ELECTIONS

The Student Council announces that there will be a meeting of the Freshman class this afternoon at 5:30 in the Commerce and Finance Auditorium to nominate members of the class for seats on the Council.

In charge of the nominating convention and the elections which will be held at a later date are Council members George McGoldrick, Joe Newberry, and Bob Quinn.

Editorials

Plus and Minus

Last week our editorial writer batted exactly 500, judging from the effects those few paragraphs of deathless prose had on campus. On the minus side, you can take a look at the picture at the right and draw your own conclusions.

But as ineffective as the words about campus parking were, the mention of spirit and cheering at basketball games brought thunderous response. And it's this "plus" side of the column that deserves further comment. To wit:

Many of the old-timers on campus (those who remember the days of the rafter-rocking cheers for Tall Paul and cage cohorts) were amazed during the Field House game against Rider when cheers like those of long ago came from the recently torpid cheering section. And not without results did they come—as the din at the start of the third quarter proved to be inspiration for the players to spurt ahead and stay there.

Again during the Louisville game, sounds from the Villanova rooters matched those from the Ivy League side of the Palestra. Again the spirit behind the cagers payed off with a victory. And who can say that the cheers didn't help put that extra two-pointer through the hoop?

Anyway, here's a word of thanks to the young and energetic cheerleaders who started the ball rolling and brought results in just this one week. And another acknowledgement to the students who are showing that the spirit really is here.

Money Is Power

What is described on page one as an "unprecedented" move was made by the administration that week when the College gave the Student Council power to regulate and control budgets of four campus organizations.

This is another "giant step"—one taken in the direction of improving student government, and to be commended since it improves both prestige and authority of the Council.

But with this new power there comes a number of obligations for both the administration and the Council. And in the flurry of excitement over putting the plan into operation, these may easily be overlooked.

The Council's duties are almost evident, concerning fair and sensible apportionment of funds. But the administration, to sincerely foster the program, must not have in mind making the Council the whipping boy in a plan to reduce necessary expenditures of campus groups.

But we are certain that the Council will be allotted a workable budget and that we can chalk up another advance in student-administration relations.

'Jr. Week's Queen' Entries Open Today

The annual contest for the "Queen of Junior Class and "The Villanovan," will get underway next week. The Queen is traditionally crowned during the Junior Prom, listed this year for the evening of May 9.

"The Villanovan" will print pictures of the entrants, who must be Juniors' dates for the prom, beginning next week. The Queen, her Lady-in-Waiting, and her four-member court will be announced for the first time in the Junior Week edition of the paper.

Well-Known Judges

Paul Sollami, Junior Class President, reported that three well-known personalities have been contacted to act as judges for the contest. Their identities will be revealed at a later date. Sollami added that the Queen will be awarded several attractive prizes at the prom, and that her Lady-in-Waiting and court would also receive gifts.

Only Juniors are eligible to make entries in the contest.

April 24 Deadline

Thursday, April 24 has been set as the contest deadline. The judges will be shown the entries shortly after the deadline. Their top choice will be the "Queen of Junior Week." The runner-up will serve as the Queen's "Lady-In-Waiting," and the next four girls will compose the Queen's court. The Lady-In-Waiting and the court will be presented, along with the Queen, at the Junior Prom.

The contest opens today. Check the rules below, then enter your date.

Rules of the contest:

1. Entries must be a photo (3" x 5" minimum) of the date of a Junior for the Junior Prom. (Junior Class officers, Juniors on the staff of the "Villanovan," and Junior Prom committee chairmen may not enter their dates).

2. The following information must either be attached to the photo, or written on the back of it: Name of Girl, name of Junior entering photo, address of both Junior and his date, occupation of entry, and this information about the entry-age, height, weight, and color of eyes.

3. Photos should be left in the envelope for that purpose in the "Villanovan" office, C&F basement, or given to Jim Glavin, Room 310, Alumni Hall.

4. Entries may begin immediately. Deadline for entries is April 24.

SYMPATHY

Sympathy is extended to Rev. Henry Egan, O. S. A., on the death of his mother by the staff of the Villanovan and the student body. Mrs. Egan died in her home on February 4.

Masses have been celebrated in the college chapel for the happy repose of her soul.

Catholics Here Not Representing Full Number In Important Matters

By James Mason

Catholics in the United States today number approximately thirty millions, toward whom almost ten time that number abroad look for moral and material support and guidance. We are the only group of Catholics in the world who have any appreciable amount of wealth and power with which to assist in the defense of the Faith.

American Catholics, in turn, look for leadership to those who have had the opportunities of advanced education, the college graduate. Within relatively short periods of time, all of us will be assuming positions in the secular world where we will be inevitably looked to for the Catholic viewpoint on a multiplicity of subjects.

Position of Church

With this in mind, we are taught the Church's position in history, Christian Ethics, etc. There is of necessity, however, a large range of important matter which it is not feasible to directly treat in a college curriculum, and it is to this that we would call your attention.

Though constituting one-fifth of this nation's population, Catholics are represented with singular weakness in matters political. There are today, as there always have been, a few outstanding Catholics in our state and federal governments, but they are far less than our numbers would warrant.

Voice In Matters

More serious, however, the Catholic voice in important matters rarely makes itself heard, a state of affairs directly traceable to our own apathy. The members of Congress, being human, cannot be blamed for ignoring matters in which their consititutents apparently take no interest. There rests with us the responsibility of making our voices heard, and, in addition, of speaking for those of our brethren abroad who cannot speak for themselves.

Jewish Americans, very properly, have consistently petitioned their congressmen regarding their co-religionists in Israel, with notable results. Yet many American Catholics have remained silent while Catholic nations were betrayed into the hands of Red atheists; while the government could for several years scarcely conceal its desire for revolution in Catholic Spain; while the nation went unrepresented at the Vatican. Yet there are several times as many Catholic as there are Jewish citizens.

The sad explanation is that many Catholics have failed in their duty to lead. Some of us have never written to a Congressman and do not even have opinions concerning these matters.

With the responsibility devolving upon us today it would seem to be nothing less than a solemn obligation for Catholic college students to thoroughly acquaint themselves with every policy of our government. The task of defending Catholic interests rests upon the laity, and if we fail, whence will help come?

It Must Be True

Campus Study Agrees With 'Time'; Young Generation Lacks Old Punch

By Joe Mascuch

A few months ago, TIME magazine increased its circulation on campus by presenting a study of the Younger Generation. The "Villanovan" has been studying this problem too and now, after endless hours of research and statistical analysis, we can reveal a number of useless facts about today's youth, the Freshmen in the barracks.

"What of the Class of 1955?" We paid a suprise visit to the barracks and we found no one smoking marijuana. This was encouraging. No one was making $400 a week in television, no one was raising high towers, running fastest machines, wearing Dior gowns. No one wanted to vote straight Democratic or fly to the moon. What does this mean in the ultimate scheme of things? What has happened to todays Freshman?

Silent Generation

"The most startling fact about the young generation is its silence." The roars of laughter, the tinkling of beer bottles, the slapping of cards, the rolling of dice and numerous other sounds are missing from the halls. This is indeed, The Silent Generation. Listen to their subdued voices in a college bull session: "I think History 126 has upset the fellows . . . those quick quizes . . . don't know when to go out . . . the future's so uncertain."

Youth's ambitions have shrunk. Few Freshmen want to get A's in Logic, eat three meals a day in the chow hall, cut classes, conceive new identities in Trig., or teach Latin in Afghanistan. Some would settle for a $50,000 a year position in their home town. Yes, they lack ambition.

They Are Content

We agree with TIME in their conclusion that they are no longer individuals. They are content to live together, to eat together, to study together. They have no wild desire to leave the campus and camp in Valley Forge with a can of beans and a copy of Thoreau.

The younger generation can still raise cain. Most of the younger generation never seem to lose their heads; even when they let themselves go. In the middle of a wild, free-for-all water fight, they worry about getting wet. They seem to drink less too. This is obvious from a quick inventory of the half-filled beer bottles in the trash cans.

"Name" band Spivak and the local Blue Notes appear to lend flavor to the Prom theme of "On the Town." Together they present several ingredients that college proms desire, "name" band, local talent, return engagement and dancable music.

Seniors' 'Miniature' Bridge Tops Record Eiffel Tower

By Jim Gallagher

If you were one of the prom trotters last year who raved over the spectacular Eiffel Tower centerpiece at the Class of '52's Junior Week event—and thought that nothing could ever surpass it—prepare yourself for a revelation.

It is admitted that the 30 foot replica of the famous Parisian landmark highlighting the Junior Prom's "Evening in Paris" theme was something not often seen at any college dance. Taking this as a challenge, the planners of Friday night's Belle Air Ball decided to prove that the Class of '52 can outdo even itself. Especially when the occasion happens to be the group's farewell offering to four highly social years at Villanova.

Given the same men who constructed the Eiffel Tower last year, practically boundless imaginations, and of course, the incentive mentioned above, you'll conclude that all signs point to success for this year's prom, its "On the Town"theme and its "greatest yet" decor fashioned around the centerpiece, a far-from minature replica of the George Washington Bridge.

See 'It' Here

When you are ushered through the Field House doors to dance to the music of Charlie Spivak Friday night, you'll see not only "it", as the decorations men have come to refer to the product of their work, but in addition, replicas of the New Jersey Palisades, famous bistros of New York city, and a scaled-down version of Central Park to transform the Main Line Field House into the "Big City" for a night "on the town."

It all started soon after the Class of '52 decorations men had torn down last year's Tower, and began wondering how they could ever manage to think up something just as novel for the senior year function.

Bob Beers, last year's decorations chairman, moved up to general chairman of the Belle Air Ball, and in his place two of his best workers and idea men, Bill Shilling and Andy Markey, took over as decorations committee heads.

Long In Planning

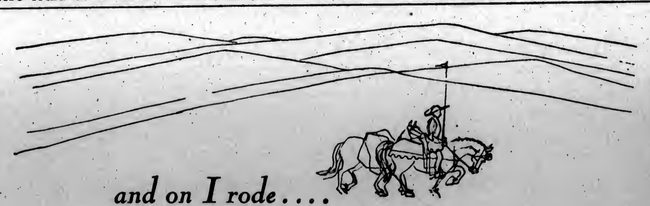
Together, they devised — there could be no other word for it—the current theme, and long before the Thanksgiving recess, went to work on construction of the bridge, afternoons and weekends in the Field House.

Statistically speaking, the Senior Class version of the span that crosses the Husdon river from New Jersey to New York City is 80 feet long, or in this case wide, since it will arch across the dance floor from one side of the field house to the other.

Cross Dance Floor

The towers at either side, exact replicas of the ones supporting the original, are about 20 feet high, so that the roadway of the bridge arches across the dance floor to a height of about ten feet at the center.

There is some five hundred feet of wood in it, several hundred yards of rope used as cables, and more man hours of senior labor than any of the committeemen would dare to estimate.



Showman of Mark

And why do these seniors go to all the trouble to produce something so unique, something that has to excel all previous offerings in the way of prom themes and decorations? Could be that they are just born showmen, men who get a kick out of making people's eyes light up. But it's a better guess that they are working for one of the best classes ever to leave a mark on the history of Villanova.

Of course, there can really be no answer to that question, as you found out when you asked it last year. Only this year the question, like the Prom itself, is even more outstanding.

Medical Alumnus Describes Army Doctor's Life To LKD

Dr. Paul C. Carmichael a Villanova alumnus and member of the Medical Corps Reserve of the United States Army spoke to the Lambda Kappa Delta fraternity last Wednesday evening about the life of the army doctor.

JAN GEUR
At Field House Sunday

In his talk Dr. Carmichael stressed the fact that he was not recruiting for the Army Medical Service but only recounting his experiences as an army doctor in both this country and in Korea.

He showed that the service doctor is likely to run into a large variety of experiences that civilian medical training will not prepare the doctor to meet.

Appeal For Red Cross

Dr. Carmichael closed his talk with an appeal that the students help in the blood campaign of the Red Cross. This should be an easy task as a bloodmobile will be on campus March 4. He illustrated his lecture with slides of Korea.

The meeting was followed by a smoker and the next meeting was scheduled for March 5.

Concert Sunday

For this concert a special student rate of $2.50 has been set for Villanova students and their dates. Regualr subscription rate for adults is $5.00. All the proceeds will go toward the college's Building Fund.

With the exception of one final appearance later in the spring, this will be the only opportunity students and friends of Villanova will have to hear this popular Main Line function.

Invitations and tickets have been mailed out to all parents of students in an effort to insure as large a turnout as possible.

Jr. Decorators Meet On Prom

Lou Goerringer, chairman of the Junior Prom Decoration Committee today announced that there will be an important meeting of the group tonight at 7:15 in room 201 C & F.

He added that all Juniors who have joined the Decoration Committee and others who wish to join are urged to attend. This will be the last meeting, according to Goerringer, before work gets under way about March 1.

Bids are priced at $7.50 per couple and include admission, the turkey dinner, and dancing.

Summer Camp Offers Jobs

Applications for councilorships at one of the nation's outstanding boys' camps in the Adirondack Mountains are being sought through Eastern colleges and universities.

William H. Abbott, director of the Adirondack Woodcraft Camps, explained that students interested in an eight-week summer counciling position at the camp may apply by writing to him at P. O. Box 237u, Fayetteville, N. Y.

He said that councilors are needed in the three divisions of the camp: The Stockade which serves youngsters 7 and 8 years of age; The Intermediate Camp, for boys 9 to 13; and the Horse Camp for teen-agers 14 to 16 years of age.

The Woodcraft camps are located in the heart of the Adirondack Mountains on Lake Kan-ac-to, near Old Forge, N. Y.

Principal requirement for councilors is an ability to work with youths of all ages, and an interest in camping and wood-lore.

No. 34...THE FERRET

Descended from a long line of distinguished researchers, this studious scholar has burned too many gallons of midnight oil to gloss over a subject lightly. Especially such an important item as cigarette mildness. He burrowed into the matter with his usual resolution and concluded that a "quick puff" or a "fast sniff" doesn't offer much evidence. Millions of smokers agree there's but one true test of cigarette mildness.

It's the sensible test...the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

Cats Down Louisville, 86-84, With Surge In Final Period; Dwyer Drops From AAU Mile

Stitch Forces Fred To Quit Race With 2½ Laps to Finish

By TED SHEEHAN,
Sports Editor

The Villanova track team put on a singularly unimpressive performance in the sixty-first edition of the National indoor track and field championships at Madison Square Garden, last Saturday night.

Fred Dwyer, book favorite for second in the mile run behind Fred Wilt was forced to drop out of that eleven lap jaunt at the three quarter mark with a painful stitch..

Prior to this Fred had fought his way up to second position after some early jockeying in the six-man field. Off to third on the first turn, Fred found himself boxed in and was fifth with ten laps remaining.

With six laps left, Fred moved up to second passing Walt Molineaux of Brown. It appeared that the race would work itself into a dual between Wilt and Dwyer until the stitch started to affect him.

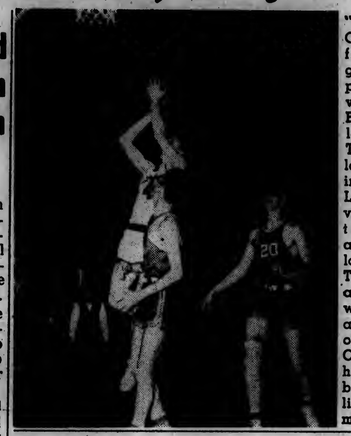
Mack Wins

After being in second with five laps to go, he was sixth with four to go and that was all. As it turned out Wilt was to be deprived of victory, too, when Bill Mack, formerly of Michigan State took first honors in 4:11.4.

Ray Wheiler won his heat in the 1,000 yard-run and found himself in the finals with Don Gerhmann, Reagie Pearman, Roscoe Browne and George Thompson, formerly of Villanova and now competing for the New York Athletic Club.

Gerhmann, maddened by his loss the week before in the mile, completely outran the field and created a new world's record for the 1,000 of 2:08:2, eclipsing the thirteen year standard of the late John Borican.

Thompson Fourth



The final in that event read Don, Pearman, Browne and Thompson, in that order. Wheiler was last in the lightening fast field.

Another world's record was broken when Manhattan's invincible relay team cracked the mark for the sprint med-

This is the first action picture we have been able to obtain of the speedy Cat guard that hasn't been blurred by his lightening fast movements.

Ben Stewart's Sad Story: Wildcat "Cinderella" Caught After Midnight

By Joe Corcoran

As a sophomore, the kid didn't have too much of a chance to play. The club that featured Paul Arizin also had the likes of Brooks Ricca, Leo Wolf, and Joe Hannon on its roster. Junior year rolled around, and Ben Stewart still spent most of his time on the Wildcat bench, for, promoted to the varsity, were the stalwarts of the previous winter's undefeated freshmen squad.

Palestra Host to Xavier, Duquesne; Ricketts Is Ready

By Carl Valenti

Two important contest are on the agenda for Villanova this week, both games being played at the University of Pennsylvania's Palestra. Tomorrow night the Wildcats clash with Xavier University and Saturday the foe will be Duquesne.

Xavier is a newcomer to the schedule this year. The Musketeers, who hail from Cincinnati, are having a mediocre season, having won about half of their games to date. Captain Gene Smith, 6' 5", is their leading scorer. Last year he

Dwyer Defends Mile Crown In IC4A Meet At Garden Sat.

By George McCann

The Second title meet in as many weeks will claim the attention of Jim Elliot's cindermen when the annual IC4A championships take place this Saturday night in Madison Square Garden.

Villanova holds a dark horse position with Seton Hall Georgetown, Cornell, and Army. Manhattan, winner of last year's meet will be the choice to duplicate its previous performance.

As in former years, Villanova will be represented. Leading prospect to carry away honors will be Fred Dwyer, the defending champion in the featured mile race. From all appearances Dwyer should better his winning 4:16:2 timing of last year.

Molineaux To Run

Walt Molineaux of Brown, Larry Ellis of NYU, Joe LaPierre of Georgetown and Pat Duffy of Manhattan are expected to extend little Fred to a worthy performance.

John Joe Barry will try to redeem his weak showing of the indoor season with a win in the two-mile run. Dick Shea of Army, however, will be highly favored.

Wheiler In 1,000

In the middle distances will be Joe Gaffney, Pete Simigan Jim Reardon and Ray Wheiler. Wheiler, in the 1,000, will receive stiff competition from Carl Joyce of Georgetown and Bob Carter of Seton Hall.

Halftime Deficit Overcome; Bob Lochmeuller Scores 30

By Tom Egan

The Villanova Wildcats rang up win No. 14, Saturday night, in the Palestra, in what was by far the finest team victory of the year, as they upset the nationally-ranked Louisville Cardinals, 86-84.

The game was highlighted by the return of the "weave" with its resulting pick-offs, screens and easy layups, which has for long been the trademark of winning teams at Villanova. Every man who played contributed in some way to the victory.

In the first quarter, Larry Hennessey, Ben Stewart and Steve Gepp scored 20 of Villanova's 22 points but Louisville lead 24-22.

Trail At Half 47-44

Sam Glassmire, in the second period, collaborated with Hennessey and then Stewart on cutoff plays out of the weaving offense. Despite another 22 point output, the Main Liners trailed at the half, 47-44.

The Wildcats finally went ahead 56-55 on a jump shot by Jim Mooney after about four minutes had elapsed in the second half. The aroused Cardinals then went on a 12 point surge to open up a ten point, 67-57, advantage with three minutes remaining in the quarter.

Seton Hall Skins 'Cats, 85-61, But Rider Caught, 83-61

Last Monday night, the Villanova Wildcats traveled to South Orange, New Jersey, to absorb a sound trouncing at the hands of the speedy Pirates of Seton Hall, 85-61.

The first half was closely contested and both teams played a cautious, deliberate brand of basketball. Seton Hall left the floor leading 36-33.

In the second half, Seton Hall threw caution to the wind and in a sizzling display of fast breaks ran the Wildcats into the boards. The Pirates literally stole the show as time after time, one of them seeped through the porous Villanova defense unmolested to sink an easy basket.

Many Mistakes

The many defensive mistakes by the bewildered Cats put too heavy a burden on the offense and the Villanova shooting, which had been bad in the first half was even worse in the second half. Seton Hall, with a 30 point outburst led at the three-quarter mark 66-48.

The Wildcats returned to the victory, rolling to an overwhelming decision over Rider College, 83-61, last Wednesday night in the Field House. Regulars Jim Mooney, out with an injured foot, and Sam Glassmire, stricken with an attack of virus, were missing from the Villanova lineup.

After leading, 16-11, at the quarter and 39-35 at the half, Villanova's superior height and fight turned the game into a rout in the second half.

Apparently inspired by the enthusiastic cheering of their rooters, the Wildcats reeled off 13 straight points after the intermission and continued driving to build up a commanding lead at the end of the third quarter, 64-42.

The Cats maintained the 22 point spread throughout the fourth quarter to win. Larry Hennessey and Steve Gepp both had 20 points for Villanova.

Tom Brennan started the Wildcat's comeback with a tap in and by the end of the quarter, the Louisville lead was only six points, 71-65.

Devine Goal Timely

Villanova, with a determined drive, knotted the count at 77 all on a basket by freshman Jack Devine. Hennessey's set up ut the Wildcats in front to stay, 83182. Nick Maguire, dribbling out of the "freeze" scored the clinching basket and Gepp sank an important foul to make the final score 86-84 in favor of Villanova.

Hennessey with 24 and Stewart with 23 led the victors in scoring. Bob Lochmueller, an All-American if ever there was one, had 30 points and 25 rebounds for the losing Louisville five.

IC4A GAMES HAVE HAD THEIR THRILLS

By TED SHEEHAN, Sports Editor

The pantywaist patrol-Collegiate chapter—will hold their annual Garden get together when the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America conduct their annual track and field championships in Madison Square Garden.

Although the meet is thirty one years old it is really a johnny-come-lately (its fresh air brother has been going for seventy six years). Despite its apparent youth, this meet annually gives the railbirds their keenest team competition of all the indoor board fiascos.

Asa S. Bushnell, major domo of the IC4A meet(and for that matter all that is athletic in the East) gave out some interesting figures early this week about the meet this Saturday.

Bushnell announced that there will be 703 athletes from forty-two colleges prancing about the track (luckily, not all at once.) Among the 42 colleges are Manhattan, defending indoor titlist, Cornell, outdoor IC and heptagonal champs; Army, indoor Heptagonals, and Maryland, Southern conference kings.

Besides the conference champs will be Seton Hall, Georgetown, Princeton and 35 other, including a "representative delegation" from Villanova. How Villanova's delegation will stand up against the 48 man team of Manhattan, or the 48 man team of Yale, or Army's 41 or Duke's 1, is difficult to say. Things have a way of reversing themselves when this meet gets underway. With 703 men giving the old college try it is no wonder that things start to reverse themselves.

1950 Meet Memorable

Take, for example, the games two years ago. Manhattan entered the meet with a dark horse chance of winning. Actually no one except their coach, George Eastment took it seriously. Along comes the 60-yard sprint and their once great sprinter, Joe Cianciabella.

Joe was good in '48, but in '50 he seemed to have passed his peak. He was figured for a fifth in the finals—if he was lucky. So what happens? Little Joe comes in second and the Jaspers are on their way.

They had the point lead almost in the bag going into the final event of the evening—the mile relay. They only needed a third in the event to win the championship and besides, this relay had beaten every one of the five teams that opposed them in that race, earlier in the season.

So the fun starts. Some kid from Princton thoughtlessly stumbles on to the track and trips Army's Jimy Cain, who in turn trips the Manhattan runner. Down he goes and when he gets up he is third.

On the next leg another Princetonian walks on the track and down goes the Manhattan runner. with the relay baton flying off the track. By the time the embittered Jasper finds it he is in fifth place and hopelessly behind. Seton Hall wins the relay and jumps ahead in the point score which finally reads: Michigan State, 21; Seton Hall, 20; and Manhattan, 19½.

Blozis Throws Shot

Another memorable meet was in 1941 when the late Al Blozis of Georgetown threw the shot put 56 feet, 6 inchs. Up to that time the fans had only seen three athletes win the event with a toss of 50 feet or better. So what does Al do but pick the metal pill up, gently toss it back and forth in his hands, rear back and project it 56 feet, 6 inches. That would correspond now to some college kid going over the pole vault at 15 feet.

This year, with the Olympics only a few months away, the Garden has been filled for every meet and this Saturday should find the same situation. The fans, who get only two occasions to see a team battle during the indoor season have always favored this meet.

The oracles seem to favor Manhattan to walk away with the team trophy. Starting with the three best sprinters in the East, plus Vern Dixon, jumper Frank Gaffney and their swift mile relay team they appear unbeatable.

We Should Know Better

This corner hates to go around predicting things but we just can't fight the opportunity to pick Saturday's winners. Throwing caution to the wind—here goes:

60-yards: Either Manhattan's Remigino or O'Connell. One vote for Remigino.

600-yar run: Vern Dixon of Manhattan, if he is running in this event, is superb.

1,000: Either Ray Wheiler or Cary Joyce of Geogretown.

Mile: Who but Fred Dwyer.

Two Miles: Either Georgetown's Charley Cappozzoli or Army's Dick Shea, with Barry to finish.

Mile Relay: If Manhattan keeps their team together they are unbeatable. Otherwise it's either Fordham or Seton Hall.

Two-Mile Relay: Don't be silly. Georgetown.

35-pound weight throw: Gil Borjeson of Brown.

High Jump: Poppa Hall can't compete, so Frank Gaffney of Manhattan looks good.

Broad Jump: Bob Carty if he comptes or George Shaw of Columbia.

16 pound shot and pole vault: Some dark horse, unseen by these eyes.

Rider JV's Slip By IM All-Stars 50-48; Jets Jive, 48-37

By John Gillman

In spite of Jude O'Donnell's game high of 17 points, the Rider College J.V.'s handed the I-M All-Stars their first defeat in seven outings, 50-48.

The game might have had a different ending had the All-Stars been more accurate from the foul line, since they converted only 8 of 20 charity tosses. They outclassed Rider from the field, 20-18.

College Competition

All-in-all they did very well in their first game against collegiate competition. High men for Rider were Waloski and Kerlin with 11 and 10, respectively.

Prior to last night the All-Stars had beaten St. Catherine's from Wayne, one of the leaders in the Phila. Suburban League, 58-32, Manoa A.A., 59-57, and the Mainliners, 60-52.

O'Brien Chief Spook

In the American League, the Haunts, paced by O'Brien's 20 points, rolled the Aces. 76-44 to strengthen their hold on second place. The Aces were led by Ranieri who garnered 18.

Matecki and Ricciani collaborated for 23 counters to enable the Darts to squeeze past the Rumrunners, 42-40 and reversed the two teams places in the standings.

Redmen Take Sixth

Over in the Barracks League, the Redmen, paced by Donnelly with 33, scalped the Kingpins 74-37 for their sixth straight league win.

The Kingpins jumped back into the win column, however with a close 50-49 victory over the Blue Eagles. DeRenzo. Ennis and Dunne garnered 41 of the losers total.

Air power entered into the league's only other game when the Jersey Jets sent the Bombers crashing to defeat by a 48-37 count. Heaman proved to be the Jets big gun as he hit the target for 15.

A, B, Where's C?

The alphabet leagues managed to squeeze only two games into the weeks work—one each in the 'A' and the 'B' Leagues. Ranchetti led the Bullets to a 32-30 win over the Good Counsel five with his 12 points in the 'A' league action.

A 31-30 squeek kept the Bombers undefeated slate clean as the Characters al-upset the dope. The Bombers Markey and Brabson of the losers had 10 each.

T-Squares, Spiders, Win

The T-Squares dumped the Double E's with singular ease 47-26 when they held the losers to 9 points in the second half. Kazmierzcak and Usher paced the victors with 17 apiece.

established an all-time Xavier scoring record of over eighteen points a game.

The Iron Dukes of Duquesne need no introduction to Villanova fans. They are the only major college quintet in the country that have yet to taste defeat. Utilizing a methodical, well-balanced offense and a tenacious defense, the Dukes have managed to go through their first seventeen games without a loss.

The big suprise in Duquesne's lineup this year is Dick Ricketts, a 6' 6" freshman, who has developed into a steady, dependable performer. Ricketts was high scorer in the Saint Bonaventure game, which was the most important contest they have had this campaign. Center Jim Tucker, 6' 7", is a consistent scorer and an excellent rebound man.

Ben's Sad Story

touch, a perfect "poor man makes good" theme. Bouncin' Ben, York, Pa.'s pride and joy, would, with his fiery competitive spirit and added bit of experience, take over the reins and lead the Blue and White Severance basketeers to a repeat performance of their 1951 tournament escapades.

That the script underwent some major alterations is obvious to any Wildcat fan this season. Stewart hasn't jumped into the driver's seat, hasn't snared the rebounds of player of his ability could be expected to get, hasn't netted the baskets you know him capable of.

Can't blame it on the boy, tho'. He tallied 21 points in the first Louisville affair to stay the Mainliners from complete humiliation. Another 21 in the N. C. State game at Raleigh, and 17 to aid in the 72-67 decision over Boston College. The C&F senior sparkled in the two-point setback by Seton Hall, his opening period play being the only thing that held the 'Cats together as Larry Hennessey took time adjusting his sights.

Rates Third As Scoree

With a 9.3 average in the first twenty contests, Stewart ranks third on the club, scoring-wise. Yet, Ben has seen 50% less action than any of the "regulars".

Hopeful Thinking

Too bad all the boys can't get together for the remaining third of the campaign. Perhaps then, Villanova's Wildcats would display the brand of hardwood talent that stamped them as one of the nation's top quintets back in November. With St. Bonaventure's, Siena, and Xavier still to be met, plus a return engagement with Duquesne's undefeated five, there is plenty of time left to salvage their reputation — and who knows? Perhaps even a tourney bid.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

POOR PAUL was having a fowl time. Even his best gal didn't give a hoot for him. "Wise she hate me so?" he asked his roommate. "Simple, you stuffy old bird—because your hair's always ruffled up! Better try Wildroot Cream-Oil hair tonic. It's non-alcoholic. Contains soothing Lanolin. And does tree things: Relieves annoying dryness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Grooms hair neatly and naturally all day long. (Even limb-ers up your scalp. And helps you pass the Finger-Nail Nest-er. Test!)" Paul got Wildroot Cream-Oil and now he's a 'owling success. So why don't you take a taxi-dermist to any drug or toilet goods counter to get a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil. It's your hair's best friend! And ask for it at your barber shop. Then there's no talon how the chicks'll go for you.

A test case for the new system arose at the meeting when the Debating Society presented its budget covering traveling expenses and awards. Action is now in the hands of the Council's newly-formed committee on finances.

Other business transacted at the meeting included the appointment of a committee to conduct elections of the Freshman class this month. The Councils Reform Committee was asked to recommend opening the college tennis courts as early as possible this spring.

Those absent from the meeting included: William Lohr, Belle Air; Jerry Guarch, Belle Mosque; Bob Natiello, L. K. D.; Jim Moser, Junior Arts representative; and Paul Sollami, Junior Class president.

Labor-Management Problems
CIO Leader's Topic For IRC

Mr. H. E. Harity, Vice-President of the International Union of Electrical Workers, CIO, will speak to the Industrial Relations Commission of Villanova tonight in Room 201 C&F.

Mr. Harity's speech will be the first of a series of speeches entitled "Industrial War or Peace—Poverty or Prosperity" to be delivered here at Villanova.

The Commission's planned series of speeches, together with seminars and trips to various local industries, are intended to inform Villanovans and their friends of present day troubles in the field of labor-management relations.

Mr. Harity's speech is to be preceeded by a short business meeting which will start at 7:15 this evening. Plans for the next activity in the club's itinerary are to be decided on.

Civil Service Talks Thurs.

Twenty Govt. Interviewers To Discuss Various Jobs

"Civil Service Day" at the College Placement bureau will be held this Thursday for all seniors interested in getting information about and making application for jobs with various agencies under the U. S. Civil Service program.

In cooperation with officials of the Third U. S. Civil Service Region, the one covering the Philadelphia area, Villanova placement director George A. Harris has arranged for all agencies to visit the campus and conduct interviews on the same day.

20 Interviewers

In addition to some twenty interviewers who will be stationed at various spots on campus throughout the day, Mr. John White, qualifications expert of the Third Civil Service Region, will be in the placement office, 102 Mendel from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

As a qualifications expert, Mr. White is familiar with the type of graduate being sought by the various agencies conducting interviews, and will channel seniors to the interviewer most interested in them.

Standard procedure for the day will be for a senior to indicate to Harris that he is interested in being interviewed and arrange for a talk with Mr. White. Then he will be directed to one or more interviews to be conducted in the Library and other locataions on campus. The complete schedule of companies and locations will be available in the Placement Office, Thursday.

Many Opportunities

Some of the companies and agencies seeking graduates through civil service, and that will hold interviews on campus Thursday are:

Navy Underwater Sound Lab., New London, Conn.; Wright Air Development Center; Geological Survey, Arlington, Va.: National Bureau of Standards: U. S. Army Engineers, Phila. District; Philadelphia Ordinance Dist. of Dept. of Army.

Soil Conservation Service, Upper Darby, Pa.; Phila. Naval Shipyard; Naval Air Material Center, Navy Yard, Phila.: N.A.D.C., Johnsville, Pa.: Frankford Arsenal.

Aberdeen Proving Ground: Picatinny Arsenal, Dover, N. J.; Fort Belvoir, Virginia: and U. S. Army Engineers, Pittsburgh.

Weekly List Of Interviews

In cooperation with Villanova placement director George Harris, this paper will print a weekly resume of the companies holding interviews for graduating seniors on campus during the course of the week.

For appointments with the representatives of any of the scheduled companies, and for any additional information concerning the interviews, consult Harris in the placement office, 102 Mendel.

Bloodmobile At Campus In Drive For Fighting Men

Villanova students will be given a convenient opportunity to donate blood to the armed forces March 4 when the Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit the campus for the first time.

Setting up its headquarters in Barry Hall, donations will be received between 10.30 a. m. and 4:00 p. m. A booth will be set up in the Pie Shop in the near future in order that students can make appointments.

Blank forms will be available at these booths and each donor will fill out an application blank. Forms to obtain parents' consent will also be available for those donors under 21 years of age. The minimum age for donors is 18.

"Insurance" Plan

Under the new Red Cross Blood program, a person donating becomes a member of the program and he, and his dependents, receives blood when it is needed.

Pre-Cana Conferences Begin With First Session In March

The Pre-Cana Conferences for 1952 will begin on Sunday March 9th, and will continue for four successive Sundays.

These Conferences are a series of pre-marriage instructions designed to enlighten youthful minds on the nature, function, dignity, responsibilities, and opportunities for good of the marriage vocation.

While intended primarily for the benefit of Villanova College students, these conferences are open to all young men and women of eighteen years and over, who have any interest in the vocation of marriage. It is hoped and expected that students from neighboring colleges will attend.

C & F Auditorium

The Conferences will be held in the Commerce & Finance Auditorium at 3 o'clock on the afternoons listed below.

After a talk of about a half hour's duration, there will be a question and answer period. These question-answer sessions generally prove most interesting and helpful.

These Conferences are not held exclusively for engaged persons. All single persons over eighteen years of age are welcome to attend.

Fill Modern Need

The complexities of modern life make it imperative that one approach the married state well instructed and motivated. These conferences are directed towards filling this need.

The speakers and themes are as follows:

Sunday, March 9th: The Nature and Ideals of Christian Marriage. Rev. Robert E. Regan, O.S.A., S.T.D., Associate Professor of Religion, Villanova College, Director of Cana and Pre-Cana Conferences, Villanova College.

Sunday, March 16; Choice of a Life Partner. Rev. Gilbert J. McDevitt, J.C.D., Pro-Synodal Judge. Matrimonial Court of the Archdiocese of Philadelphia.

New Ticket Policy For Silver Whistle

Tickets for the Belle Masque production of "The Silver Whistle," which will be presented on March 20th, 21st, 22nd, and 23rd at the Villanova Field House, will go on sale February 28th. They may be obtained from any Belle Masque member.

The tickets committee announced that, unlike previous years' promotions, this year's sales-campaign will be systemized.

The residential area surrouning the College will be canvassed. In addition, several days before the initial performance, ticket salesmen will visit every room on campus.

Best Attended

Although Belle Masque's plays are the best supported collegiate productions in the Philadelphia, area, attendance has, during the past two years, dropped from an aver-

Students Urged To Submit Blood Donation Notices

Donors Apply At Barry Hall And Pie Shop

Appointments for donating blood to the armed forces are now being taken in the Pie Shop. George Crist, student representative for the Red Cross, announced that the Student Council has taken over the assignment of being on hand to make the appointments.

Members of the N.R.O.T.C. unit will sign up for donation in the main office of Barry Hall rather than in the Pie Shop.

The application blanks will contain the time that the student wishes to donate and also a form for parent's consent in the event that the applicant is a minor. Donors under 18 will not be accepted.

All blood received during this visit will go directly to the armed forces, and the donor will also be enrolled in the Red Cross blood "insurance" program.

Donors are not to eat any solid food for at least four hours before donating, but it is advisable to drink plenty of water.

Donuts and coffee will be served following the donation.

Father Lord To Speak Tues. On Christ - Catholic Culture

Daniel A. Lord, S. J., author and lecturer, has been secured as the guest speaker in the fourth Villanova Forum of the current series which will be held in the Commerce and Finance auditorium next Tuesday, March 4, at 8:30 P. M.

Mr. Charles Bruderle, chairman of the Forum, stated that Father Lord will speak on the topic, "Christ as the Center of Catholic Culture."

Father Lord, a native of Chicago and a graduate of Chicago's Loyola University, was received into the Jesuit order in 1909 and ordained in 1933. He is now director of the Knights and Handmaids of the Blessed Sacrament.

Mr. Bruderle stated that next Tuesday's address by the prolific author of pamphlets and full-length books promises to be a highlight of the 1951-52 Forum series which has presented Miss Elizabeth Bentley: Hubert Schimmer, S. J., and John Henry Chamberlin.

TV Visit Planned At Marketing Club Field Trip Thurs.

Villanova's Marketing Club will sponsor its annual Field Trip Thursday, February 28, under the direction of Mr. Hugh Johnson, club moderator. The trip this year will be highlighted by a visit to the radio and television studios of Station WCAU (WCAU-TV).

Mr. Johnson reported that a limit of 125 men has been placed on the trip. Thus, he urged all those desirous of making the trip to sign up immediately.

WCAU First Stop

The trip will get underway at 8:55 A. M. that morning, at WCAU. The group will witness the televising and broadcasting of a show from the studios. Then, actors, producers and technicians of the station will answer questions from the group. Several of the men making the trip will appear on the program which they will see.

Noted Guest Speakers

Following the WCAU sojourn, a luncheon wil be held at 12:15 P. M., when several outstanding guest speakers will address the group, and submit to a question-and-answer period. Among the guests will be Mr. Joseph Tenney, Jr., Television Producer of WCAU-TV, Mr. Landon Haynes, of the Atlantic Refining Company, and Mr. John J. Sheehan, General Manager of Loos and Dilworth.

At 2:30 P. M. the group will tour the Smith, Kline and French Wholesale Drug warehouse. An interviewing question-and-answer period will also be held here.

4 Important Points

Mr. Johnson pointed out these salient factors to interested students: 1) Reservations should be made by February 26; 2) Those making the trip will be charged $2.25 for luncheon; 3) Bus transportation will be provided at a cost of 50c, leaving Mendel Hall at 8 A. M., and 69th Street Loop at 8:30 A. M.; 4) Cuts will be excused for the day for those making the trip.

All Reservations will be made in the Villanovan Office, 12:20-2:20 P. M. today.

Freshmen to Vote For Council Men In Thursday Polls

The Freshman class will go to the polls Thursday to elect two men to seats on the Student Council, it was announced last Tuesday by Council President Tom Delaney at a meeting of the class. Balloting will be held at the Pie Shop between 10:30 A. M. and 2:30 P. M.

Delaney added that matriculation cards of the voters will be examined prior to the voting. In a statement to the candidates nominated for the seats, he advised that all campaign posters and other publicity material be placed on campus bulletin boards only.

MASS SCHEDULE

Mass schedule during Lent will remain the same as during the rest of the school year.

Daily Masses are at 6, 6:45, 7:30, 8, and 12 noon.

Confessions are heard at all the daily Masses except the 6 o'clock.

You can be here, too! Give your Blood!

Blood For Life

A week from today the Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit the campus as part of the nation-wide drive for blood for the armed forces.

As you have seen on posters around the campus and in articles in the "Villanovan", appointments for making donations are now being made in the Pie Shop and in Barry Hall.

This is more than just a drive for money or a plea to back up some charity or movement. This is, in a sense, a non-material way in which we can help out the men fighting in Korea who are so desperately in need of blood plasma.

With the long drawn-out talks of truce negotiations which have taken place through the past few months, and the recent lack of banner headlines carrying large casualty lists so evident a year ago, there has been a lack of interest in the needs of the men over there.

And with this there has been a steady decline of blood donations with the result that the reserve stockpile has reached a dangerous low. The casualties are still mounting, but the amount of blood collected has not been proportional.

The blood collected during this visit next Tuesday will go directly to the government and from there overseas to the fighting fronts or wherever else it is needed by the various armed services.

So without trying to hark back to the old tear-jerker of "doing our little bit for the boys who—", and merely stating a few facts and leaving the rest to you, we strongly recommend every Villanovan to help out in this campaign for blood.

It is urgently needed.

U. S. Moral Breakdown Predicted By Lincoln

By Carl Steffin

Abraham Lincoln was speaking before the Young Men's Lyceum in Springfield, Illinois, in 1837 whe he remarked: "Shall we expect a transatlantic military giant to crush us at a single blow?"

"Never! All the armies of Europe, Asia, and Africa combined with all the treasure of the earth in their military chest, with a Bonaparte for a commander, could not by force take a drink from the Ohio or make a track on the Blue Ridge in a trial of 1,000 years."

Danger From Within

"At what point then is the approach of danger to be expected? I answer, if it ever reaches us it must spring up from amongst us; it cannot come from abroad."

"If destruction be our lot, we must ourselves be its author and finisher. As a nation of freemen we must live through all times or die by suicide."

These words were spoken over 115 years ago, and yet, how aptly they apply to U.S.A. —1952.

In this year 1952 as we look about us, as we examine our communities, our society, our civilization, we see many signs—unpleasant, dangerous, and disturbing ones—which indicate only too clearly that our great country is rotting from within.

Toynbee, the historian, points out that sixteen of the nineteen civilizations which have decayed form the beginning of history until now, decayed from within.

Bishops Report

The Catholic Bishops of America in their widely publicized annual report compared our nation to the Roman Empire prior to its fall. They noted the deplorable lack of moral principles in our family relations, in government, business, and education.

A nation cannot live immorally and expect to survive. It cannot ignore God without dire consequences. Lincoln realized this when he said: ". . . We have been the recipients of the choicest bounties of heaven; we have been preserved these many years in peace and prosperity: we have grown in numbers, wealth, and power as no other nation has ever grown. BUT WE HAVE FORGOTTEN GOD."

Contest Initiates Search For 'Queen of Junior Week'

The search for the "Queen of Junior Week" got off to a flying start last week, and promised to roll into high gear this week.

MARY ANN MORAN

Judging from the early entries, Juniors seem to have a knack for selecting cute lasses. (Note the accompanying pictur-e, one of the early entrants in the "Queen Derby"). Juniors' dates for the Junior Prom, May 9, are eligible. The "Queen" her "Lady-in-Waiting," and "Court" will be crowned at the prom. The rules for the contest are reprinted this week for those who missed them.

Rules of the contest: 1) Entries must be a photo (3"x5" minimum) of the date of a Junior for the Junior Prom. (Junior Class officers, Juniors on the "Villanovan" staff, and the Junior committee chairmen may not enter their dates). 2) The following information must either be attached to the photo or written on the back of it: Name of girl, name of Junior entering photo, address of both Junior and his date, occupation of entry, and this information about the entry—age, heights, weight, and color of eyes. 3) Photos should be left in the envelope for that purpose in the "Villanovan" office, C&F basement, or given to Jim Glavin, Room 310, Alumni Hall. 4) Entries are now underway. Deadline for entries is April 24.

Morning After

Senior Reminisces Over Weekend Nursing 'Tall, Cool' Bromo-Seltzer

By Joe Mascuch

Senior weekend is over and recuperating socialites will soon return to classes. A steady diet of aspirin and tomato juice has done wonders for them.

The weekend was interesting, to say the least. It all began, as I remember, with the Dinner-Dance. This was a very nice affair. A meal of turkey, rather than hot-dipped pigeon, was a welcome relief, even without the regular Alka Seltzer chaser! It was worth seven-fifty not to have to show my Matric Card. (I know, Marge didn't have to look at it either.)

Bridge Holds Horatio

The Prom was quite a success too, although it was given rather early. I never could dance immediately after breakfast. "The" bridge certainly was impressive. See what happens when you give a frustrated engineer a job. All in all, it was remarkable. Remarkable that it stood up!

Everyone didn't have to step into the water in Central Park to appreciate it, but I'm a skeptic. As a matter of fact, things looked so real that a rushing Junior walked through the door of the G.A.

All the smart money got together after the Prom for a quiet party. It was fun, but trying. No one can shake hands while holding a glass. And no one, but no one, would put a glass down. Most people got home just in time to go out again.

Forgets One

There was another social function after the Duquesne game. I haven't talked to anyone who saw me there, so I don't know if I had a good time or not.

Sunday afternoon I drove my girl home. I think it was my girl. Who ever she was, she said she had a good time.

Now I'm resting up for the Junior Prom which is only seventy three days away. I hear the Juniors are building a scale model of the Power Plant as a center piece. I understand this one will even supply heat.

PASHA THE PIT

By "Yankee" Pasha

ROSYMONTFOLLIES: The girls from the red school house across the tracks have been poking jolly at that illustrious group of campus pretenders to whom we refer as the Belle Masque Society . . . The girls entertained the boys with some very unusual-situation-producing refreshments a few days back . . . The Result: The Belle Masquers are singing that hit song of a few years back—"Running Wild" . . . Oh, well, it's all in the game.

THE GREATEST: This is the only way that the past weekend might be fully described . . . It proved once again that the presence of Frat Houses on a campus is not necessary in the planning of a week-end of social events . . . All of our out-of-towners said that this was without a doubt the most enjoyable and well planned week-end that they had ever attended at any college . . . And those gals know what they're talking about . . . You just can't beat that Villanova hospitality . . . It's the greatest.

THE AFTERMATH: Sunday morning found the campus rather quiet after a hectic four days of merry-making . . . These days had everything that one might find in New Orleans during Mardi-Gras time including costumes of many descriptions. Tom Fucigna, of course, led the parade with his straw hat, cigarette holder, lantern, and someone else's girl . . . The big question of the four days is—What that bridge constructed so that it would sway or were there other forces at work on the men's minds that gave it that appearance?

HUCKSTERS HIBERNATE: Now that the market for tuxedos and flowers has fallen off considerably, we find that Bill Landis and Don Blaha are old friends again and that it is no longer necessary for them to send out scouts to see what the soup-and-fish are going for at the competitors haberdashery . . . Those men deserve a lot of credit after all the difficulties they go through endeavoring to match a coat with a pair of trousers that someone's dad gave him when he was a frosh in high school . . . Everything fitted fine, but who was the wise guy in tails that rode around on skis all evening singing "Kool, Kool, Kool?"

IN THE FOOCHUR: Apparently there will be an answer to this columns remark of last week which was directed towards Rosemont . . . Seems that the Rambler will have a snappy retort ready in the next issue . . . We can't wait . . . It is always noted for its wholesome witties.

CONCERT CAPERS: The concert which was held at the Field House Sunday evening was very successful and highly entertaining . . . It was attended by the cream of the Main Line social set . . . The topper of the evening was made after seeing the midshipmen in uniform—"Gosh, it looks just like the opening of an A&P market." . . . The orchestra had a new French horn player . . . He was formerly a trombonist; but that was before his attempt to carry the slushpump through the turnstile at Franklin Field.

SOLITUDE: The campus will now quiet down to a mild roar with the ending of the Senior Week-end, and all will begin to make preparations for the storm of Junior Week which is not in the too distant future . . . Oh, where will we ever get the money, and etc?

Pictorial 'Post-Mortems' Of Sr. Weekend

3. Larry Scores

2. Dinner-Dance

No term quite so opprobrious as "post-mortem" could reasonably be applied to these pictures showing the highlights of four such enjoyable days of social activity as the past Senior Weekend. But for the want of a better description, here are the "Villanovan" photographers' post-mortems:

1. George Washington Bridge, in model size, formed the centerpiece for Friday's Belle Air Ball theme, "On The Town," which transformed the Field House into New York for a night for a capacity crowd of Villanovans and their dates.

2. Dinner-Dance Chairman Tom Pasha and his lovely date, Betty Shay, listen as Class moderator, Rev. Dante Girolami, O.S.A., welcomes Seniors to Broadwood hotel ballroom Thursday night extends blessing on Class weekend activities.

3. Toppling Dukes from undefeated streak, Wildcats thrilled Senior Weekenders with a two point overtime victory, 64-62 at Palestra Saturday night. Larry Hennessey swished 27.

4. Prom Chairman Bob Beers, left, and Class president Phil Brennan take time out from dancing to music of Charlie Spivak to pose amid the New York atmosphere of the Belle Air Ball with dates, Liz Miller and Kathy McCosker.

5. Weekend Climax came Sunday night as Main Line Community Orchestra presented concert for benefit of Villanova Building Fund at the Field House which was by this time shorn of all signs of Friday's Prom. Soloists with orchestra were Jan Gbur and Angela Giordano, with Louis Vyner conducting.

Communists Have 'Religion' Wilson Informs IRC Group

"The Communist has a 'religion' in his beliefs and will fight for it" declared Mr. C. Wilson, first vice-president of the Camden Local of the International Union of Electrical Workers in his address before the Villanova Industrial Relations Commission last Tuesday night.

Mr. Wilson outlined the battle that he and other "right-wing" members of the union had fought for three years to oust the Communists from their positions of power in the union.

Must Arouse Interest

He stated that the hardest thing that the anti-communists had to do was to arouse the interest of the average union member in their fight.

The "right-wing" labor man is a man who too often gets tired of long, drawn out union meetings and goes home, while the Communist has a 'religion' in his beliefs and will fight for it. He'll stay at meetings until midnight or later and then when most of the members have gone home the Communiists are able to ram through their propositions.

Pensions Sought

In the question period which followed his speech the speaker revealed that pensions and health benefits are the things that the unions are interested in securing today.

Mr. Wilson also stated, in answer to a question from the floor, that while the Taft-Hartley Act had not harmed his union until now and had some good provisions, the unions knew that the damaging portions of the Act have not yet been used. They fear that such provisions will be invoked in time of depression when many people are unemployed.

A short business meeting conducted by IRC President Louis J. Lamanna preceeded the speech. It was agreed upon to invite a speaker to inform the club on the matter of the current steel negotiations and threatened strike. Plans for a trip to Washington were also discussed.

CALLING FROSH

An "SOS" has gone out from the band for a freshman manager, for the coming concert season.

Interested freshmen should contact Rev. Joseph J. Burns, O.S.A., band moderator, at the Monastery.

Band CommitteeStalls On Junior Prom Choice

The Band that will play at the Junior Prom cannot be announced in the immediate future. This information was forthcoming from Paul Sollami, Junior Class President, last week.

Sollami reported, "We have met several contractual difficulties in the securment and announcement of the band we want. We'll announce the band as soon as we possibly can."

The band committee has already polled the class on its choices, and contacted one of the desired bands, which possibly has an open night for the date of the prom.

"It's just one of those things," commented Sollami. "We know who we want. We hope we can arrange for them to come to the prom. But it is naturally impossible to announce a "probable" band. Possibly we'll have an announcement within the next ten days or two weeks."

Alumnus Speaks About GE Course At Joint Meeting

The combined forces of the AIEE and the IRE held their formal monthly meeting last Tuesday night in Mendel Hall. The speaker for the evening was Mr. Joseph Kleschick, who was campus secretary of the AIEE last year.

Mr. Kleschick, having been in General Electric's Training Course for nine months, was well qualified to present his topic, "Training Programs."

Outlined Company Aims

In the course of his talk, he outlined the companies' aims and purposes in providing the training programs. He also pointed out what the student engineer himself should watch for while in the program. "The best engineers," he said, "show themselves after they are in the field for five years."

'Silver Whistle'

age of 1000 to an average of 800.

Reverend William Krupa, O.S.A., director, does not believe that this decline is due to any lowering of quality in Belle Masque's productions. He attributes partial blame to a lack of enthusiastic ticket-sales-promotion.

Al Hevey, tickets-staff member, holds another view. "I think," he said, "that the interest in our plays. A lot of them would rather go to a movie."

"Good Comedy"

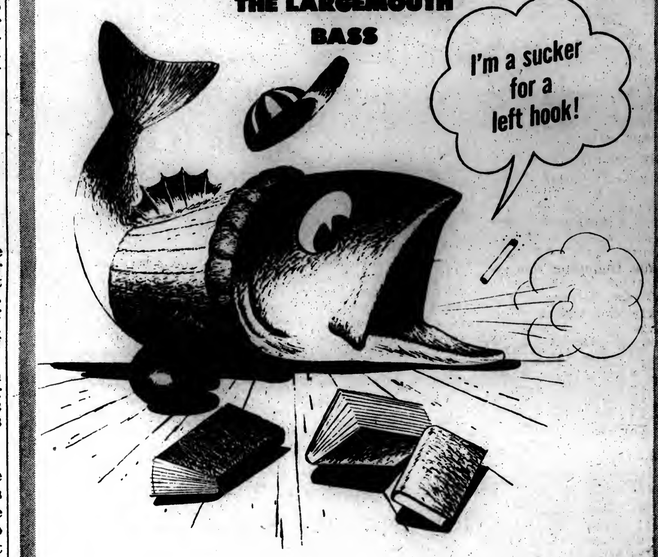
William Vincent, tickets committee co-chairman, commented, "Father's view and Al's are both true. This year we must work to reach every prospective audience-member and hope that the Villanovans are serious-minded enough to want to see the "Whistle". It is a good comedy".

In the properties department of the "The Silver Whistle," a problem has arisen. The "prop list" calls for a cage in which there is to be a live rooster. His name is "Omar," and the hobo-hero of the play, Oliver T. Erwenter, carries him about during a large portion of the action.

The difficulty of securing a well-behaved rooster has been likened by prop-man Joseph Wynn to that of finding "an affable wildcat". "But," he added, "we have started the search hopefully."

See Professionals

Several weeks ago, Father Krupa arranged for members of the "Whistle" cast to see the play as it was presented by a little theatre group in Philadelphia.



Commenting that he believed the play to be a natural audience-pleaser, Father predicted that the Belle Masque's rendition would be as capable as the one he had seen.

No. 35...

THE LARGEMOUTH BASS

Always a sucker for attractive bait, our aquatic brother went off the deep end and got caught on the quick-trick cigarette hook! But he wormed his way out when he suddenly realized that cigarette mildness can't be tossed off reel lightly. Millions of smokers have found, too, there's only one true test of cigarette mildness.

It's the sensible test—the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

Dwyer Keeps IC4A Mile Title; Team Ends 4th, 'Cats Hand Duquesne First Defeat, 64-62

Overtime Goal By Stewart Provides Margin of Victory

By Tom Egan

The Main Line Tournament Trolley shifted into high gear last Saturday night, at the Palestra, before a capacity audience of 8866 onlookers, as the rampaging Villanova Wildcats rolled to an impressive overtime triumph over the previously unbeaten—and reputedly unbeatable — Iron Dukes of Duquesne, third ranked team in the nation, 64-62.

In a game which was tied 16 times and in which the two teams were never separated by more than 7 points, the Wildcats, playing under tremendous pressure, toppled the Dukes, only recently chosen to play in the National Invitation Tournament, from the ranks of the unbeaten. At the same time the Main Liners bolstered their own hopes for post season activity.

Hit From Far Out

The game was both won and lost from outside the foul circle. Villanova, on the uncanny set shooting of Larry Hennessey, was able to hit consistently from far out. Meanwhile, Duquesne, conceded long shots by the collapsing Wildcat defense, could not locate the basket from long range.

With 6'7" Jim Tucker tossing in 11 points, mostly on a deadly hook shot, the Dukes held an 18-16 first quarter advantage.

By the second quarter, Hennessey had adjusted his sights and started throwing in shots from all angles. The game was developing into a brilliant scoring duel between Tucker and Hennessey. Last Garden Meet Of Season Has Dwyer, Gehrmann, Wilt

By George McCann

The Knights of Columbus Meet at Madison Square Garden, Saturday night, promises to be a source of more laurels for the Wildcat cindermen.

In the featured mile run, the great duel expected between Wilt and Gehrmann could be upended by Fred Dwyer, who thus far has remained on their heels. A provisional starter is Bill Mack, upset victor over Wilt in the National AAU meet, who will add more luster to this great event.

Siena Invades Palestra Tonight With Hopes of Avenging '51 Loss

By Carl Valenti

Well on their way down the homestretch of this year's race for basketball honor and glory, Villanova's Wildcats meet the first of two tough foes for the week, tonight. Siena's Indians journey into the Palestra this evening to meet the Cats, with Notre Dame visiting Penn in the afterpiece.

Cats Score 78 in '51

The Indian-Wildcat rivalry is an abbreviated one. The Cats have won two of the three games between the two schools. Last year the Severancemen scored 78 points, the highest total ever tallied against Siena, in a 79-57 romp.

In that same game last year Larry Hennessey propelled 28 counters thru the nets, to share individual honors against Siena with Bill Mlkvy, who tallied a like number. This is no mean feat, when one considers the Loudonville, N. Y., Indians were the 7th defensive team in the nation last year.

Siena Rates Larry, Sam

Hennessey, on the crest of his scoring job, and Sam Glassmire were both named to Siena's All-Opponent five last year.

Harrell Rated Greatest

Indian mentor Dan Cunha's starting five has height to spare: Tom Pottenburg (6'9), Bill Hogan (6'3), Jack Curry (6'5), Bill Harrell (6'1) and Glenn Bissell (6'0). Harrell is rated the greatest player in Siena annals. Holding most of the school's scoring records, Harrell is also rated as a top rebounder. Indian rooters claim he can outjump men six and seven inches taller.

Harrell, Hogan and Bissell are all averaging over 10 points per game.

Team Finish Makes VC Mark; Wheiler, Barry, Gaffney Tally

By TED SHEEHAN
Sports Editor

Highlighted by the successful defense of Fred Dwyer's mile crown, the Villanova track team amassed thirteen points to finish fourth in the final standings of the 31st annual indoor IC4A) track championships at Madison Square Garden, last Saturday night.

In reaching this total, the track team created a new Villanova record. This was their highest total in the twelve years that they have been competing in the meet.

Besides Dwyer's first, Ray Wheiler's second in the 1,000; John Joe Barry's third in the two-miles and Joe Gaffney's fifth in the 600 conglomerated to from the 13-point total.

Manhattan repeated its '51 task by winning the team championship with 40½, followed by Army with 18, Georgetown with 14, Villanova with 13 and Cornell with 12½.

Dwyer, picked by most to retain the crown ran a beautiful race from start to finish. After coasting in the afternoon trials he was in fine shape for the evening's final. Off at the crack of starter Eddie O'Shea's pistol, Fred was second on the first turn. With ten laps to go he was in the same position.

Field Spreads Out

After the third lap Fred and Joe LaPierre of Georgetown began to pull away from the rest of the nine-man field and the race turned into a duel between these two. At the three quarter mark Dwyer wrested the lead from La-

FRED DWYER

Pierre and was never headed after that.

His rival made a bid with a single lap remaining but Fred had plenty left and effortlessly fought him off. Fred finished seven yards ahead of LaPierre and the rest of the field was spread out 80 yards in the rear. His time for the mile was 4:13, compared to his '51 clocking of 4:16.2.

In winning the mile race two years in a row he duplicated a feat that has been turned in by only four other men in the meet's 31-year history. (Counting the outdoor crown, Fred has won three IC4A miles in succession).

Cats Clip Xavier By Score of 93-74; Larry Scores 30

The Villanova Wildcats continued their late season surge last Wednesday at the Palestra, overwhelming an outclassed outfit from Xavier University of Ohio, 93-74.

Off to a slow start, the Wildcats trailed at the end of first quarter, 22-21, as Larry Hennessey had 13 points, making 6 out of 12 shots.

Cats Click

After trailing by seven points, 33-26, the Villanova offense started to click in the second period as the Wildcats put together 22 points while holding the Ohioans to 4, to lead at halftime 48-37. Hennessey, with some fine outside shooting, had 20 points in the first half.

The Main Liners pulled away in the third period, leading at times by as many as 20 points. The quarter ended with Villanova ahead 74-55. By this time. Hennessey had accumulated 28 points.

Larry Scores 30

Both teams got 19 points in the final stanza, as Hennessey, who was still willing but no longer able, had 2 points to bring his evening's output to 30, high for the game.

Jim Mooney played a fine all-around game, adding 18 rebounds to his 14 points. Freshman Bob Schafer needed only 10 shots to amass his 17 point total. Gene Smith led the Xavier attack with 21 points and 19 rebounds.

NIT Tourney Dates Set; Seven Squads Accept

The National Invitational Tournament announced this week that their annual post season classic will begin on March 8th and run until March 15th.

At the same time, Asa S. Bushnell, selections chairman, announced that bids have been accepted by St. John's, Duquesne, St. Bonaventure, Dayton, Seton Hall, Holy Cross and St. Louis.

The tournament begins on March 8th with a triple header, and a second three-game bill on the 10th. Two games are listed on the 11th with the semi-finals on the 13th and the finals on the 15th.

Basketball League Proposed

By TED SHEEHAN, Sports Editor

Peter A. Keyrouze is the sports editor of the "Troy Observer—Budget". His other claim to fame is that he is the author of a novel idea for a basketball league, or to be more exact, a group of basketball leagues of the Catholic colleges throughout the nation.

This plan of Mr. Keyrouzi came to this writer's attention in the issue of the "Observer" of Feb. 3, 1952. At this point, it should be added that the "Observer" is not a diocesan paper and Mr. Keyrouze has no purpose in this plan other than to see the final crowning of one NATIONAL basketball champion.

In this article he points out that there are four post season basketball tournaments: the N. I. T., the N. C. A. A., the N. A. I. B. (small colleges) and the National Catholic Invitational Tournament. He further mentions that the winners of these tournaments, although called THE national champions, never meet each other in an elimination to pick the true national champion. As a result, there are four winners—but no real national champion.

Keyrouzi goes on to say that the N.C.A.A. picks their squads from 10 conferences, comprising 86 colleges, and that the other six berths go to "independents". The N.I.T. (sometimes referred to as the Ned Irish Tournament since it is controlled by Madison Square Garden) usually picks from the leading independents and also at times from the N.C.A.A.'s sectional champs. The N.A.I.B. is comprised of the cream of the nation's small colleges and that the N.C.I.T. is just as the name implies.

One Real Champ

Keyrouze with the aid of a well-drawn map divides the nation's Catholic colleges into eleven conferences. He plans for the winners of each conference to play each other with one single winner to emerge as the National Catholic champion and that this team would meet the winners of the other three tourneys with the winner coming out as the true national champion.

In this set-up, Villanova would be in the Middle Atlantic League with such teams as LaSalle, St. Joseph's, Loyola, Georgetown, Catholic U. and Mt. St. Mary's.

Among the other ten leagues, are included every Catholic college basketball team in the nation. A few of the interesting leagues are the Metropolitan league with all its present Catholic teams plus Seton Hall; the Northeast loop with Niagara, Duquesne, Canisus, St. Bonaventure, Siena and John Carroll; the Midwest league with Notre Dame, St. Louis, Xavier, DePaul, Detroit and Dayton.

Keyrouze brings out one point that is becoming more evident every year. That point is that the colleges should band together and form conferences; that the independents are slowly being forced out of the picture.

The position of an independent college is extremly difficult when the task of planning schedules comes around. When the independent school seeks to make athletic relations with another school belonging to a conference all sorts of difficulties arise. The conference school has to have a certain number of games with the other teams in the conference. These games come first and the non-conference teams are left with the crums that fall from the table.

Another interesting point is that almost all of the 30-odd teams that have dropped football in the past two years belonged to no conference and it didn't take a college graduate to see through the claims that it was the draft and man power shortage that was to blame. Perhaps it was scheduling difficulties that helped change the minds of the college authorities.

This plan of Keyrouzi has its good points but the answer to Villanova's problem (if there exists one at all) is not in this league. It is readily apparent that Villanova has one of the top quintets in the nation-consistently. We also have the ideal arena for our big games in the Palestra, and for the smaller teams we have our field house. We do not find much trouble in getting the better teams in the nation to play us in basketball.

Trouble With Football

Our trouble lies in football. We are independent; We have no real home stadium; and we have not been consistently powerful enough to build up a large following. In the past few years we have come up with some excellent football squads and this has put us in a peculiar situation.

The smaller teams won't play us because we're too strong and the larger teams won't risk a loss to us because we haven't enough prestige. We are definitely caught in the middle.

It is in this sport that Villanova should become alligned with a league and there are many schools in the East which are in the same situation.

In saying that there is no real national champion, Keyrouzi is right. But will the situation necessarily be cleared up through this plan? Will all the Catholic teams agree to it? Will the other tournaments agree to meet the winner of this tournament?

Common sense would hardly think so.

In this writer's opinion, let this plan of Keyrouzi go by the boards. We don't need a basketball league. But, in the realm of football, let's get moving. The trend is towards consolidation — towards conferences. Let eight or nine colleges in the East, in similar circumstances get together and form a league.

That is our need and our salvation. Let's not get caught in the old mouse-trap play.

IM Bowling Season Enters 11th Week; Several Top 200

The I-M Bowling league, youngest member of the I-M setup, has now completed ten of its proposed fourteen week season. The standings of the teams which go by numbers, are:

Team	W	L
4	27	3
5	23	16
3	18	22
7	18	22
8	17	23
1	11	29
6	4	35

Cool Cats Kegle

Several of the keglers have succeded in toping 200. They are: Stan Staniones, 233; Joe Staniones, 225; Stamba, 222; Chemlewski, 220; Cardinale, 211; Bogan, 201; and Klepper, 200.

Upon completion of the season a sweepstakes will be held, open to all the bowlers who have participated in three out of the last four season games. It is also hoped to arrange a post-season I-M tournament with Temple and Penn.

Banquet To Be Held

During the last meeting of the league it was decided to hold a banquet for the members sometime after the end of the season. At this banquet awards will be presented to the outstanding bowlers.

In the basketball division, with two weeks left in the season, the big battles will probably be between the teams in the middle of the standings, to see who gets into the top four in each league. These teams will battle it out in a tournament for the All-Villanova championship.

One of the biggest games of the week was in the A league, in which the Doms paced by Tom Brydon with 11 and 10, respectively, had to come from behind to edge the Cats, 36-35 and thus retain both their unblemished record and their first place tie with the Toppers.

Zips Unzipped

Also in the A league the Bullets took two. The first from Good Counsel, 32-30. In the second, led by Begley's 17 points, they topped the Zips, 53-30, and thus tied the latter for third place.

In the National league the Ramcats knocked off the Spiders, 35-32.

Team Finish

Ray Wheiler employed practically the same tactics in the 1,000. After qualifying in the afternoon heats he was in the six man final. Bolting to first on the initial turn, Ray was forced to relinquished the lead to Georgetown's Carl Joyce.

Gaffney Leads

Joe Gaffney, No. 3 of Villanova's track Big Four, was fifth in the 600 after leading for three of the 3½ lap race. Joe sprinted to the first turn to lead the field and held that position until ½ lap remained.

Then Vern Dixon, Manhattan's 400 meter Olympic hope, and teammate Lou Jones passed the tiring Gaffney—but not without a fight. The task of holding back these speed demons was too much and Joe was badly tired. Although fifth in the final, Gaffney's 2:11:7 trial time would have won the event last year.

John Joe Barry put on his best show since he won the 2 miles outdoors last May, coming in third in the same event last Saturday. He worked his way up to fifth at the one mile mark and sprinted to second with two 2½ laps to go. He later had to drop back one place but he gave Charley Cappozoli a good battle for second with a blazing sprint in the last 80 yards. Jerry Utter was second in the slower heat of this race, but this didn't count in the final standings.

Cats Change Tactics

After the Dukes deadlocked the score at 38 within two and a half minutes of the second half, the lead see-sawed back and forth for the remainder of the game. At this point, the Main Liners called a time out and decided to change their defensive strategy. They began dropping back on Tucker and resulting outside shots by the Dukes were very rarely successful. Duquesne was in front 52-51 heading into the final ten minutes.

The lead changed hands four more times before Hennessey smashed a 56-56 tie with a set and a jump shot. Breaking up an attempted three and a half minute freeze, the Dukes again knotted the score at 60 at the end of the regulation game.

Hennessey's set made it 62-60 and then Stewart dunked the deciding duece as the cool 'Cats taunted the desperate Dukes in another three and a half minute freeze.

Cats vs Uconns

Uconns are celebrating their fiftieth anniversary in basketball this year and have added to their schedule so that they are now listed as a "major" college team.

Coach Hugh Greer has an outfit dominated with seasoned basketeers. Leading the list is Captain Vin Yakabaskas who led the New Englanders into the NCAA postseason tournament last year and was named to a number of honorary quintets. He also holds the all-time Connecticut scoring record.

Ebel, Potent Scorer

Transfer student Burr Carlson, at 6'6", is the tallest man on the squad and has been an invaluable asset. Bill Ebel, also a potent scorer, is a flashy rebound man. Guard Clyde Brouker is a dangerous setshot artist. Mel Klecker is known for his tremendous spring and good driving on the court. Harold Garner and Lou Orlando head a deep list of promising reserves.

Phaedrus philosophized:

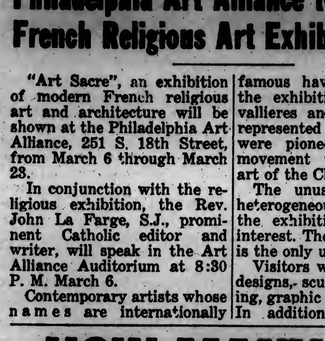
Philadelphia Art Alliance to Present French Religious Art Exhibition

"Art Sacre", an exhibition of modern French religious art and architecture will be shown at the Philadelphia Art Alliance, 251 S. 18th Street, from March 6 through March 23.

In conjunction with the religious exhibition, the Rev. John La Farge, S.J., prominent Catholic editor and writer, will speak in the Art Alliance Auditorium at 8:30 P. M. March 6.

Contemporary artists whose names are internationally famous have contributed to the exhibition. George Desvallieres and Maurice Denis, represented in the exhibit, were pioneers in the new movement to revitalize the art of the Church.



The unusual variety and heterogeneous character of the exhibition heighten the interest. The Christian theme is the only unifying agent.

Visitors will see architects' designs, sculpture and painting, graphic arts, and enamels. In addition there will be chalices, crosses, monstrances, ciboria, and patens from the shops of the leading silversmiths of France.

JOHN SMITH, ESQ.

A revival of "John Smith, Esq." will be presented by Turf and Tinsel this spring, according to an announcement by Rev. Michael O'Donnell, O.S.A., moderator of the organization. Father O'Donnell stated that due to many requests the group decided to bring back "John Smith, Esq.", a previous T&T hit, rather than present the originally intended production, "Jessica James".

Navcad Program Enrollment Open To College Students

Opportunities for Villanova students to enroll in the Navy's Aviation Cadet Program will be discussed early in March when Commander William H. Ginn, U.S.N. visits the campus.

Commander Ginn is the Public Information Officer at Willow Grove Naval Air Station. Men who are interested in the program can obtain information by contacting him at the Station or when he comes here at a date that will be announced in the next issue of the "Villanovan".

To be eligible for the program, a man must be unmarried, between the ages of 18 and 26, and must have completed two years of college at the end of this semester.

In the Navcad program, as it is known in the Navy, several thousand young Americans receive training each year as Navy and Marine pilots at the "Annapolis of the Air", Pensacola, Fla.

As a cadet he masters three distinct phases of flight training before he is designated as a pilot in the Naval or Marine Air Reserve. These are preflight, basic, and advanced flight training.

In pre-flight school the Navcad learns fundamental subjects essential to his future as a pilot. These include navigation, weather forecasting, engineering, and many other aviation courses.

After four months he enters the eight month basic flight training. Here he learns aerial acrobatics, dive-bombing and gunnery, cross-country navigation, and finally carrier landings.

His advanced training teaches him how to handle bigger and heavier service type aircraft.

After 18 months of advanced training the Navcad receives his Navy "Wings of Gold" and is now ready for approximately two and one half years of duty with the fleet.

During this time with the fleet, he is seasoned by experience and his combat skills are sharpened.

Southern Program Offers Fellowships To '52 Graduates

Students interested in public affairs and public service careers who receive their bachelor degrees in June are offered an opportunity to apply for fellowships carrying stipends of $1200 per year.

These fellowships provide opportunity for study at three universities: the University of Alabama, University of Tennessee, and University of Kentucky.

Beginning in June 1952, Fellows will serve an internship with a public agency such as the Tennessee Valley Authority, a city manager's office, or a department of state government.

CARS ON CAMPUS

Announcement has come from the vice-president's office that all cars are to be parked in the parking lot.

Failure to do so will result in their being towed to a garage at the owner's expense.

Completion of the twelve months training period entitles Fellows to a certificate in Public Administration. Fellows may also be awarded a Master's degree at either of the participating universities upon satisfactory completion of the Master's thesis and after passing examinations for the Master's degree.

For eligibility requirements and other information, seniors should see Dr. Harold Hartman, Professor of Political Science, or write to: Educational Director, Southern Regional Training Program in Public Administration, University of Alabama, University, Alabama.

The deadline for submitting applications is March 1.

'Career' Here For Seniors

"Career," an annual publication whose expressed purpose is aiding the graduating college senior in finding the right place in the business world, has been made available to each Villanova senior, free of charge, by George A. Harris, Placement director.

Some 600 copies of the hundred-page prospectus are now in the placement office, 102 Mendel, and each senior may pick up his copy during the next three days.

Invaluable Aid

The book is described by Harris as an invaluable aid to Villanova students who haven't yet made up their minds about the particular phase of business or industry they will enter.

It contains reviews of more than 50 leading national and eastern companies, giving word-pictures of their organizations, products, past actions and future aims.

"Career" Recommended

In addition, and especially useful to the graduates, is a scholastic index giving a listing of the types of majors in which companies are interested.

In cooperation with the Religion department, "Career" will recommended reading during the portion of the senior course that deals with choosing a life's work. This will be given about the middle of next month, according to the course syllabus. Before that time all four senior religion professors will remind students to pick up the book at placement office.

Other Features

Other features of the book include an index of job possibilities according to geographical locations, a preface by Clarence B. Randall, president of Inland Steel Company, and an introduction of employment outlook prepared by the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

REV. ROBERT REGAN
First Cana Lecturer

The 1952 Pre-Cana Conference series will get underway next Sunday, March 9. "The Nature and Ideals of Christian Marriage" will be the subject of the first talk, to be delivered by Rev. Robert E. Regan, O.S.A.

Father Regan, presently teaching religion at Villanova, received his Doctorate of Sacred Theology from the Catholic University of America. Recently he participated in a panel on religion at Bucknell University, Lewisburg, Pa., as the Catholic representative on the panel.

The Pre-Cana conferences, which are informal talks and discussions, are arranged primarily for the benefit of Villanova students. They are concerned with the functions and responsibilities of the vocation of marriage.

Sunday afternoon's talk, the first in a series of four, will be held in the Commerce and Finance auditorium at 3 p. m.

Topics of the succeeding talks have been announced as follows: "Choice of a Life Partner," March 16; "The Law of Marriage—Canonical and Civil," March 23; and, "A Catholic Physician Looks At Marriage," March 30.

Selective Service Exam Deadline Set for March 10

A release from the office of Major General Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, reminds all students that applications for the April 24 Selective Service Qualifications Test must be postmarked not later than midnight next Monday, March 10.

The deadline is necessary to allow the administrators of the test, the Educational Testing Service at Princeton, N. J., time to process the applications and assign each applicant to the testing center requested by the student—or to the closest possible alternate center—also to make administration arrangements consistant with the number who will take the test.

There are more than 1000 testing centers throughout the United States and the Territories.

National Headquarters estimate that upward to 100,000 will apply to take the April 24 test. This will be the last test given during the current academic year.

Applications can be obtained by residents at the local board in Bryn Mawr, or by day-hops at home boards. Students do not have to return home to the local board having jurisdiction over them.

At the present time, a score of 70 is considered satisfactory for exemption. Of the approximately 340,000 men who took the first four tests, 63 per cent made a score of 70 or better.

B'mobile Here Has Overflow On Pint Quota

Blood donor applications far exceeded the goal set up for the Red Cross Bloodmobile's visit here today.

The quota of about 200 was reached last Thursday, announced student representative George Crist, and many more students were turned away. Among those who were turned away were more than 85 seminarians from St. Mary's Hall.

The Bloodmobile unit is now stationed in Barry Hall, and will handle about forty donors an hour until 4:30 p. m.

The Student Council took applications at booths set up throughout the campus last week, and in addition, NROTC students were registered in Barry Hall.

NEWS STAFF

There will be a meeting of the news staff of the "Villanovan" tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the "Villanovan" office.

All members of the news staff must be present at that time for reorganization of staff.

Cats' Mooney, Penn's Beck Get Second Sport Awards

For the second year running, Jim Mooney, agressive red-headed guard of the Wildcat basketball team, and Ernie Beck, sensational Penn junior center, have been awarded the University of Pennsylvania's Class of '48 Sportsmanship Awards.

Both Mooney and Beck were selected this year, as they were previously, on the basis of votes by the Villanova and Penn basketball squads. Presentation of awards will take place Thursday evening, March 7, at the Franklin Inn during the Class of '48's annual mid-winter banquet.

The awards are presented to further promote friendly relations between the two colleges sharing Palestra doubleheaders, and to help keep intercollegiate basketball at highest level of sportsmanship.

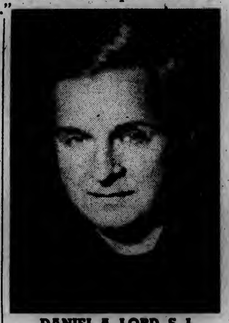
JIM MOONEY, husky Wildcat guard, displays during U. Conn. game, some of the fine work that won him Penn's Class of '48 Sportsmanship Award for the second straight year. Mooney, along with Ernie Beck, Quaker center who was named the Red and Blue's recipient, will be presented with the award at banquet March 7.

Forum Presents Fr. Lord Tonight

An American Jesuit of considerable prominence comes to Villanova tonight when Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S.J. appears as guest speaker at fourth Forum of the current series in the Commerce and Finance auditorium at 8:30 p. m. The author and lecturer will deliver his address on the topic "Christ as the Center of Catholic Culture."

Father Lord's work as an author, pamphleteer, religious playwright and youth counselor won him the 1951 Marian award, conferred by Dayton University for outstanding service in the United States to the Mother of God.

The writing of Father Lord is concerned with two ideas: the fundamental truths as seen with the eyes of a modern Catholic: and the modern problems with their solutions obtained by going to Christ's teachings.



Over 100 Books

This he has accomplished by the publication of more than one hundred brief booklets in addition to a number of full-length books. His latest work is a prayerbook, "Christ Jesus Our King."

Playwriting and producing have long been major interests of Father Lord. Civic shows of a spectacular nature are his forte: in 1951 he wrote and produced "City of Freedom" to commemorate the 250th anniversary of the founding of Detroit.

Catholic Action

Father Lord as a leader of Catholic youth in 1931 organized the Summer School of Catholic Action to provide training for young men and women to perform their share in the work of the Church. He is currently director of the Knights and Handmaids of the Blessed Sacrament.

Council to Solicit Gift for Arizin

Villanova's Student Council will initiate a campaign tomorrow to raise funds for the purchase of a gift for Paul Arizin, Villanova's great former All-American. The gift will be presented to Arizin at the Philadelphia Arena March 11, when the Warriors take on Boston's Celtics.

The drive, which will last three days, will include a door-to-door canvass of campus residents for donations. Also, containers for donations will be placed in the Pie Shop and other prominent campus

Student Council Sees Green; No School St. Patrick's Day

Quick, favorable results followed the Student Council's declaration of Monday, March 17, St. Patrick's Day as its second annual holiday. The action, taken at the group's meeting last Monday night, received the sanction of the administration within three days.

NROTC March Cancelled

On the tail of this approval came the announcement from Commodore John Barry Hall that the scheduled participation of the NROTC Unit in the Philadelphia pre-St. Patrick's Day parade had been cancelled.

Through the courtesy of the Council, Villanovans now find themselves with a three-day weekend in mid-March.

In deciding the date for the holiday, a right contained in a series of amendments to the Council Constitution passed two years ago, the Student Council experienced its second non-unanimous vote of its current tenure. A 14½ to 7 vote carried the March 17 proposal.

Debater's Budget Passed

In other business transacted at the meeting, the test case for the new extra-curricular finance system passed without incident. The Council unanimously approved the Beta Gamma Debating Society's travel budget for $78.86. According to the committee on finances, machinery for the efficient operation is now being set up.

Do They Sell It?

Today's Bloodmobile drive turned out to be a hearty success—in spite of some ugly rumors on campus during the signing-up period. Seems that some of the men had heard from a friend who knew a friend that the Red Cross was selling the blood donated to it and beguiling charitable Americans in this big hoax.

Such reports demanded investigation, and this paper checked with the people running the campus campaign. The conclusion is this: nobody could say for sure that such rumors were groundless regarding Red Cross solicitation of blood in hospitals, but they emphatically stressed that there is none of this type doings with the Bloodmobile program, the one on campus today.

The blood you are giving today over at the Navy building becomes immediately the property of the Department of Defense, and is not, repeat, not, sold by the Red Cross. You can be sure that your blood will be put to good use medicating wounded members of the armed forces.

This paper is not defending the Red Cross on any other point than this one, because, frankly, we don't know anything about how the rest of the organization works. But as for the campus Bloodmobile, you can be sure that it is on the up-and-up.

So the authorities tell us, and so long as we are assured that the blood does reach the service wounded, we know you were glad to give it. And thanks for making the program a success.

Good Signs

It was with a good deal of satisfaction and no less pride that the results of the Freshman elections last week showed close to 250 members of the Class of '55 turning out to vote for their first Class officers, two Student Council members.

Official figures regarding the size of the Class have not been released yet, but an unofficial estimate would place the percentage of voters at about 65%. A good average, all things considered.

And in addition to this, the pre-election campaigns proved to be the eye-openers that showed the Freshmen have caught onto the Villanova spirit and are eager to show it. Signs plastering the campus, though not all of them in the best taste, showed a spirited group.

From the exalted position of Villanova seniors, this paper offers congratulations and advice, i.e., keep up the spirit in the Class and try to get an even better percentage next election. You've already got a good start for what can turn out to be the best four years of your life if you work together. So go to it, Mister Frosh.

Junior Queen Title Competition Leaps

Betty Montgomery, Junior Prom date of Joe Kearns, is the entrant in the "Queen of Junior Week" contest who is pictured this week. Betty is a student at the Franklin School of Science and Arts, in Philadelphia.

Miss Montgomery and the other entrants in the contest will have their pictures submitted to the contest judges, who are to be announced shortly.

The "Queen," "Lady-in-Waiting," and her Court will be announced for the first time in the Junior Week edition of the "VILLANOVAN."

Crowning At Prom

The girl chosen as queen will be crowned at the Junior Prom, Friday evening, May 9. The Lady-in-Waiting and court will also be presented at the prom. The Queen, and her runner-up, the Lady-in-Waiting, will receive several gifts at the time of the crowning.

Although the deadline for entries in the contest is still more than a month away, Juniors are urged by the contest committee to enter their dates' photos early, thus enabling the publication of the pictures in this paper.

Rules for the contest were printed in the last two issues of the paper. The pictures may be left either, 1) in the "Villanovan" office, in the basement of the Commerce and Finance Building, or) 2) in Jim Glavin's room, 310 Alumni Hall.

Student's Rating For Faculty Is Proposed

By Jim Glavin

Several week ago the Philadelphia dailies took a brief note of the fact that Temple University had joined with many other colleges in the utilization of students' opinion for rating faculty members.

The idea is not new. Various colleges from coast to coast, including many of the most prominent, have long used the system. But, how many students know that Villanova's Engineering Department has utilized the idea? Dean Stanley Morehouse, and several of his faculty, have already given themselves the "acid test" of student rating.

To many the idea is comparatively recent. When the news of Temple's venture hit the papers, "Just what is this student evaluation test" was heard more than once on the Villanova campus.

Why Not The Students

The student evaluation test is just that, a test—for the faculty! Day in and day out during each scholastic year, faculties give their opinions, their ratings of their students' abilities. But who rates the faculties? Why not the students?

Such fields as the instructor's knowledge, ability to present facts, fairness of tests, fairness of marking, hostility or respect for students and their opinions, general classroom manner, and rating as compared to other instructors are covered.

Temple University, which assured frank student opinion by allowing its student council to handle the administration of the tests, is one of many colleges to recently adopt the idea. Perhaps it will spread from the engineering department to the entire school at Villanova.

Bleak Prospect

Less Food And More Fish Blaring Bleakness Of Holy Lenten Season

By Jim Mason

Well, it's Lent again. To many of us this probably conveys a set of mixed impressions. Perhaps we think of fish on Wednesdays, exhortations to self-denial and, in the remote future, an Easter recess. Some are faced with the expectation of only one full meal daily for several weeks.

It is a rather bleak prospect. The student naturally is inclined to wonder why the Church should impose these discomforts upon him, especially at a time of year when the dreariness of nature only adds to the general gloom. He can see no particular benefits which accrue to himself or anyone else as a result of his mortifications.

Everything Has Purpose

Now the Church, in her ancient wisdom, does nothing without a purpose, and she has a very grave purpose indeed when she thus disrupts the private lives of her millions of members. Broadly speaking, her purpose is that through our physical self-denal we should achieve spiritual sanctity. And, after all, the achievement of sanctity is the reason for our existence. During Lent, the Catholic denies himself his usual heavy breakfast, he is affirming his belief that the body is second in importance to the soul.

A good deal is said about the positive side of Lent, yet this is an aspect of the holy season we are likely to forget or disregard. If we do nothing to actively help ourselves gain grace, it is possible that Lent, for us, will indeed be just a succession of meatless Wednesdays.

Bring Closer

The Church intends that Catholics should make an effort to bring themselves into closer union with God during Lent. She realizes, however, that this cannot be achieved without a certain abstention from things of the body. No one is likely to increase his sanctity while finishing off his third helping at breakfast or while watching the fights down at Eddie's.

Though these things are morally indifferent themselves, they definitely make us concentrate all our attention on material things, to the exclusion of spiritual values.

Today most of the world's troubles can be traced to an exclusive preoccupation with material things. Lent offers us an opportunity to nourish our souls by mortifying our bodies; an opportunity to come a little closer to God by moving a little apart from the world. It might be worth a try.

'Just One Of Those Things' As Joe Attempts Being Nice To Blind Date

By Joe Mascuch

I'm a sociable chap and an adventurer by nature. I prove this every now and then by letting my room-mate arrange a blind date for me. We had an arrangement a few evenings ago.

My room mate's girl is an inmate at a local refinishing school and she had a friend who was "just dying to go out." Actually, she was just dying. I was elected to kill her off.

My nerves were shattered on the trip over to meet them. My last date had swung out of a maple tree as I drove up the main road and I still hadn't gotten over it.

Real Sight

In the quiet of a tomb-like room we waited like expectant fathers. Trying to be nonchalant and make a sophisticated first impression, I lit up a White Owl. After putting the match in my coat pocket, I began a frezied search for an ash tray. With my pants cuffs filled with ashes I was introduced to my date. She wasn't any vision of lovliness, but she sure was a sight!

We immediately agreed to disagree. She didn't like the way I said hello; I didn't like the way she said hello. She helped me on with my coat and we left.

Nothing Worked

After slamming the car door on her dress, which went over like a lead ballon,we were off. I tried discussing the weather, telling jokes, making faces, singing and even being nice to her. Nothing worked, so I looked out of the window.

When we arrived at the theater I was talking to myself. I tried to break the ice by telling her that she could be in the movies or some other dark place where no one could see her. My room-mate laughed like crazy.

Like A Stranger

I squirmed my way through a newsreel, a comedy, four coming attractions, two shorts, and two features. (All this for sixty five cents.) I might just as well have been sitting next to a stranger. I couldn't figure this girl out. She didn't know me well enough to dislike me so much. so much.

We stopped off at a quiet little place for something to eat. It was here that I found I was out with a very popular girl. She knew everyone in the place, including the customers. She looked like a overactive windmill as she waved to all her friends. If she had had another arm she would have taken off. I tried to catch her eye once, but couldn't She cought mine though. She attempted to shake hands with someone standing behind me. We discovered that I am a solid. They may save the eye.

Had Everything

On the trip back to school I should have gotten a ticket for speeding. My date said she couldn't have had a better time if she had gone out. I gave her back her wallet and she asked me if she had everything. I told her no, but that she had eveything she came with.

When we got back to 209 my room-mate asked me what kind of a time I had had. "It was just one of those things."

Rosemary Clooney Returns For Augustinian Guild Show

Rosemary Clooney is coming back to Villanova April 17. Her appearance here last year with the Augustinian Seminary Guild's Variety Show caused over 2,00 people to crowd into the Field House for a glimpse of the "Come 'On a My House" Girl.

This year she is returning to the Variety Show as a star of many hit records and telesion and radio appearances.

Donating Service

Though her fame is even greater now, Miss Clooney will donate her talents for the evening, thereby contributing to the Guild fund roughly $1,200, her fee for one evening appearance.

Shortly after this second stint at Villanova, Rosemary (may we use the first name) will travel to Hollywood to complete a movie contract.

In releasing this information Rev. John J. Coffee, O.S.A., Guild Director, said he could not state with certainty what other well known talent will appear with Miss Clooney.

CAMPUS COVORTING: The members of a dormitory clan have taken to collecting great art treasures. . . . Latest news has it that one of the boys has an excellent group of etchings in his garrett. . . . A week ago the critics had a day at this Villanovan Greenwich Village. . . . How 'bout the little-ole gal that has Jack Conroy whistlin' DIXIE. . . . Poor guy has to wear a rebel cap to keep in good standing. . . . The arrival of Lent and an excuse for student fasting.

FOX-PASS FABLES: Last edition, this writer commented ". . . all will begin to make preparations for the storm of Junior Week which is not in the too distant future"—Mr. Fischer of the English Dept. asked "Where is it if it isn't in the too distant future? . . . Guess we did lose it in the shuffle of that righteous road to recovery.

MIKAN MAULING: At this writing, the big man from DePaul has conceded victory to the Tall one from Villanova. . . . The only reason Mikan has waited, all these many years, is because of the fact that Arizin had to go through college first before becoming a pro. . . . It will certainly seem odd to see Paul endorsing Snappy Cripsies for that added strength and stamina.

NAVCAD WINGS IN: Grounded college dodos will have an opportunity to see what the Navy airarm has to offer when Navcad representatives make an appearance of this campus, Thursday morning. . . . All Seniors are asked to take attention to this meeting which will feature addresses on flight training as well as motion pictures concerning the curricula.

THE SIVER WHISTLE: Belle Masquers will collaborate with members of Rosymont's Jest and Gesture Club in a presentation of THE SIVER WHISTLE which is to be presented at the Field House March 20 to March 23. . . . From past performances of this theatrical combine, one might be assured of a most enjoyable evening at the theatre. . . . Of course, all Villanova is aware of the talent which these two groups possess and of the wonderful direction that is afforded them under Father Krupa. . . . And ain't those Rosymonters JEST WONDERFUL AT GESTURIN'.

MARI-NAYING: Happened by the diner last P. M. around supper time and was greeted by four bulging walls in which were contained vitamin buying Villanovans . . We've been in more crowded places but it was twelve o'clock Mass on Sunday. . . . Can't understand this great migration to the local eatery. . . . Have the men lost their head or have they gained their senses?

MAGAZINE MEANDERINGS: Don't miss this month's issue of True mag. . . . It contains an article involving the basketball fixes of a few seasons back. . . . The author is the man who arranged the set-ups. . . . He attributes his downfall to the brilliant and outstanding play of Paul Arigin in the Villanova-Kentucky game of 1949. . . . "He ruined us."

Soon the red-breasted robin will return to the campus green and destroy the winter serenity with his loud and wild chirping much to the chagrin of the late sleeping residents. . . . Fellows will go out with girls again. . . . The girls will acquire a romantic outlook on life and the fellows in turn will take to the baseball diamond and telecasts of the major league contests. . . .

They'll be tired of the run-around that they received all winter. . . . The closed-in automobile will give way to the convertible and the Villanovan without a car will just give way. . . .

'Career' Predicts Bright Job View For Current Grad

This year's graduating college student faces one of the brightest job prospects in American history according to a U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics study in the 1952 edition of Career, the annual guide to business opportunities.

The book is now available free of charge to all graduating seniors at the College placement office, 102 Mendel. It will be used as outside reading for senior religion courses when vocations are treated this month.

Even students who will exchange caps and gowns for service uniforms will find it fairly easy to find employment when they are discharged, the study indicates.

Employment Up

"Unemployment," says the Career article, "has declined sharply from about three and a half million at the outbreak of Korean hostilities to well under two million."

It will be necessary by the end of the year, the study shows, "to draw into the labor market between one and one and a half million more workers than would be available on the basis of recent trends."

Greatest spur to employment has been the revived defense effort, and "employment prospects are expected to be good at least as long as mobilization lasts," the article points out.

College Men Needed

"In this kind of labor market, the bureau's study observes, "The need for personnel with college training is accentuated in practically every segment of the economy. Engineers, teachers, the whole gamut of specialized and scientific personnel, administrative and managerial personnel, technicians in many fields are finding not only a long-run increase in demand, but a demand underscored as well by the needs of a defense economy."

Survey Five Fields

The Career article provides a survey of prospects in five major fields: Manufacturing, trade, transportation and public utilities, agriculture and finance.

In other articles, some of the nation's largest industrial and professional concerns offer a view of this year's personnel prospects.

"Our aim," says Theodore R. Robertson, president of Career, Inc., "is to better inform the college graduate of job opportunities, but even more important to show him how to go about getting the career of his choice."

Freshmen Pick Ennis, Kohler, For Student Council Posts

In their first formal activity, the Class of 1955 went to the polls last Thursday to elect two members to the Student Council.

Choosing from a group of nine men who were nominated at a class meeting earlier, the Freshman selected William E. Kohler and James Ennis to represent them at the Council meetings.

Kohler, a Commerce and Finance student from Mineola, N. Y., tallied the highest number of votes with 110. He attended Chaminade High school on Long Island before entering Villanova.

The engineers united to place James Ennis in office with 102 votes. He is a native of Elizabeth, N. J., and graduated from Regis High school.

Both candidates obtained a clear-cut majority in the vote, as the nearest competitor polled only 53.

Thomas J. Morgan, a senior majoring in history, will attempt today to clear up much of the uncertainity surrounding the student under present draft regulations by direct questioning of General Lewis B. Hershey.

TOM MORGAN

During the second session of the annual Philadelphia Bulletin forum this afternoon a panel group will discuss the topic, "What Next for Youth." Participating in this discussion with 19 other students, Morgan will pose his question to the panel of distinguished personages and direct it specifically toward General Hershey.

Montgomery Will Moderate

The panel will be moderated by Robert Montgomery. In addition to General Hershey it will include the Hon. Nochem S. Winnet, Dean Hottel, Frank N. Piasecki, Rev. Earnest De Bordeneux, Dr. Ira D. A. Reid, Mrs. Elizabeth G. Vining, Miss Margaret De Ronde and Mr. Rudolph F. Vogeler.

Mr. Charles P. Bruderle, Assistant Professor of History, selected Morgan to represent Villanova at the Forum. Final approval was given by the Bulletin after Morgan appeared at a preliminary session and presented his question.

Forum In Annual Feature

The Philadelphia Bulletin Forum has been an annual feature of the Bulletin for many years and has attracted many distinguished speakers who have contributed much to our understanding of national and world problems.

The Forum session in which Morgan will participate is part of an overall meeting of two days which will discuss the national security program and its phases here and abroad.

T&T Plans 'John Smith, Esq.'

Returns By Popular Demand For Four Evenings Showing

April 23, 24, 25, and 26 have been announced as the dates on which Turf and Tinsel's "John Smith, Esq." will once again hit the Field House footlights.

Rehearsals for the musical comedy, a hit of early 1948, got underway last week. At a rehearsal last night the final cast personnel were to be announced. Bob Whelan, George Noake, and Don Straka are again handling the T&T directorial reins.

Turf and Tinsel officials stated that "John Smith, Esq.," was being brought back on popular demand. They reported that there had been many requests to "re-do" their first post-war hits. "John Smith" was decided upon, since, having been presented in '48, none of the present classes had seen it.

Business Staff Meets

The business staff of the organization, under the leadership of Jeff Rioux, is to meet tomorrow evening, at 7:15 p. m., in the Field House. Plans for the ticket sales will get underway at that time. Present plans call for sale of the ducats to commence the middle of this month.

The nights of presentation —April 23, 24, 25 and 26— are a Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. T&T stretched from a three night stand to four last year, a move necessitated by overflow audiences.

Junior Week Plans In Full Progress, Chairmen Praised

"The finest Junior Week in the history of Villanova. That is our goal." The speaker: Paul Sollami, Junior Class President.

Sollami, reporting last week on the progress of plans for the week, as far as Juniors are concerned, gave special plaudits to the various chairmen.

"Don Brown, Hugh Flaherty, Joe Ranieri and Dan O'Connell are chairmaning our big events," the president pointed out, "and all are doing a bang-up job." Brown heads the Junior Prommers, Flaherty is Mothers' Day head, Ranieri, is Blazer Ball chieftain, and O'Connell is Dinner-Dance chairman.

Mother's Day Planned

"Flaherty has done an excellent job so far with the Mothers' Day program," Sollami commented. He pointed out that the week would get under way officially with the opening mass on Mothers' Day, at 11 a. m. in the college chapel.

Sollami said that the contest sponsored by the class and the "Villanovan" for the "Queen of Junior Week" was off to a flying start, and that the coronation of the Queen at the Prom on May 9 would be the highlight of the week.

Scored 85 In One Game

Arizin was named "College Player of the Year" by the Helms foundation in 1949, his senior year here. Known to Villanovans as "Tall Paul," Arizin is the holder of every major Villanova scoring record, and scored the most points ever tallied by a collegiate performer in a game—85!

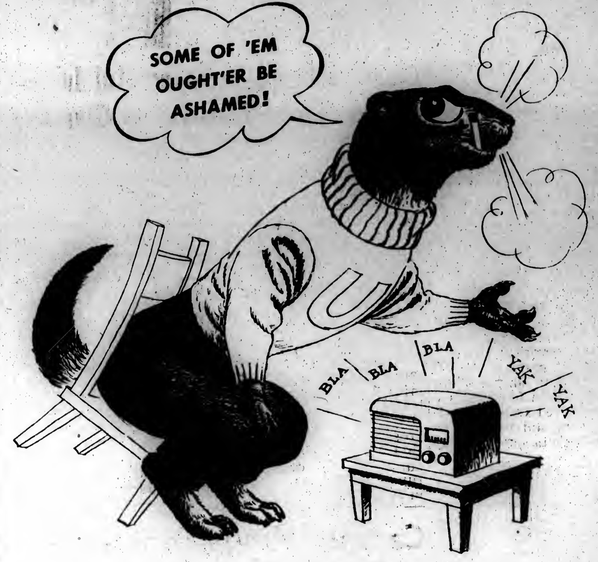
Art Contest Seeks Entries

Rev. Daniel P. Falvey, O.S.A., college librarian, reminds the student body of the third annual Junior Week Art Contest to be conducted by the library. Entries of paintings, water color or oil, and photographs may be submitted by any Villanova student.

Theme of the photos or paintings must in some way be related to the Villanova campus, either campus scenes, personalities or activities. In order for any entry to be considered it must be on some aspect of Villanova life. Entries will be judged by a committee of faculty members.

The prizes to be awarded will be:

3 First Prizes of $15 each.
3 Second Prizes of $5 each.
3 Third Prizes of Honorable Mention.



Winners will have their work reproduced in the Belle Air.

Gene Ruane, college Publicity Director, is a member of the "Arizin Night" committee, which is planning for the affair March 11.

No. 36... THE OTTER

A usually mild-mannered and easy-going lad, he really made the fur fly when he realized the trickiness of most of the so-called cigarette mildness tests! He knew there was one honest test of cigarette mildness. Millions of smokers everywhere know, too — there's one true test!

It's the sensible test . . . the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke — on a pack-after-pack, day-after-day basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why . . .

Stewart Scores 18 As 'Cats 5-Game Skein Is Shattered

By Tom Egan

Last Saturday night at the Palestra in the first game of a doubleheader, the Main Line Tournament Trolley was permanently derailed for the 1951-52 season by an explosive wrecking crew from the University of Connecticut in a smashing 63-58 upset. The upset ended a five game winning streak and at the same time just about crushed lingering hopes for a major tournament invitation.

Cats Open Lead

The Uconns jumped to an early lead, but after knotting the count at 6 and again at 12, the Wildcats spurted to a 22-17 first quarter lead. A look at the shooting percentages, quarter by quarter, will tell the story of the game. During the opening period, Villanova connected 9 times in 25 attempts, while the Huskies hit 8 for 23.

Actually it was the magic touch of Coach Hughie Greer which turned the tide of battle to the Huskies' favor. With 7:56 remaining in the half and the score still 22-17, he called a time out and substituted Wally Wildholm and Phil Jones for Vinnie Yokabaskas and Art Quimby.

Uconns Run Wild

All Wildholm and Jones did was to connect on their first five shots, sparking a Uconn rally which resulted in 12 straight points and a 29-22 bulge. The Main Liners never quite recovered from this, although they did manage to creep to within one point at half.

Dwyer Completes Successful Indoor Season, Looks Forward to Olympics

By George McCann

The recent ICAAAA mile champion will be making a strong bid for further honors in the Olympic games this summer. This champion, well-respected by all the great runners who have followed him around the cinders, is none other than Villanova's own Frederick Anthony Dwyer, Jr.

Started As Hoopster

What makes this story so interesting is the fact that an injured back suffered on the basketball court started Dwyer on his track career. A prospective basketball life was thus nipped in the bud, but out of this incident came a runner long to be remembered in track circles.

Following doctors' orders after his injury, Dwyer began to run to work himself into condition. Finding an extraordinary ability in this field of endeavor, he donned

Tickets for Arizin Night

Tickets for the "Paul Arizin Night" game will go on sale tomorrow at the Publicity Office in the Field House.

Rates for the tickets are $2.60, $1.75 and $1.25.

The Warriors will meet the Boston Celtics in the feature game of the evening, at the Arena, 45th and Market.

Cats vs. Kings Tomorrow In Field House; Bonnies Sat.

By Carl Valenti

Saturday night the highly touted Saint Bonaventure array will be the guests of Villanova at the Palestra. In the final, Cornell will oppose the University of Pennsylvania in an Ivy League contest.

Severance's men will meet Kings College, from Wilkes-Barre, Penna., tomorrow night on the Field House court. The Upstaters can be rough if they want to. For example, they routed Scranton 90-69 while the Wildcats beat Scranton by only 66-53. Kings was no problem for the Mainliners last year as they went down in defeat 94-57, but they are an improved club this season.

With the playing of this week's two gams, Severance will bring to a close the 1951-52 basketball schedule. He will have served 16 years as head coach at Villanova, just half of the 32 years the Wildcats have competed in intercollegiate basketball.

Admirable Record

The "Judge" has compiled an admirable record during that time. He has produced a winning taem every year except three and they were during the war when all the talent was either in service or in the service academies.

St. Bonaventure has one of the finest quintets in the nation this year. To date, they have compiled a respectable 19-3 won-lost record, their only losses coming at the hands of Duquesne, St. Johns and Canisius.

In spite of this fine record, they have no really outstanding individual star. Rather, they present a close-knit, highly-organized brand of team play.

Villanova closed out its 1952 indoor track season with its participation in the 33rd Annual New York Knights of Columbus Games at Madison Square Garden last Saturday night.

Mainliners Finish Over Siena, 57-49; Hennessey Shines

By Jim Glavin

Villanova's Wildcats, suffering from "let-downitis" after the upset of Duquesne, worked up enough energy to outclass Siena College 57-49 at the Palestra last Tuesday night.

The game was marked by a bizarre first half in which Siena showed neither the desire nor ability to score, and the Wildcats, who certainly had the ability and desire, apparently shot at a basket with a lid on it. The result: Siena led 16-13 at the half.

The Indians from Loudonville, N. Y. used a sliding zone defense. In the sloppy first half, the 'Cats' inability to hit made the zone look good. But after the intermission the Men of Severance all but slid the sliding zone right out of the Palestra, racking up a 44-33 second half edge for the win.

Hennessey Off

Larry Hennessey had an off night, but he still was the "Wildest of the Wildcats," hitting 19 tallies. Lanky Larry was ably assisted by a rejeuvenated Tom Brennan who hit 16, and Jim Mooney's 10.

Glenn Bissell, an outside gunner who hit on less than 25 per cent, shot often enough to lead the Siena crew with 14. Bill Harrell, the high scorer of the season for the losers, was willing, but the 'Cats weren't, and he wound up with one field goal and three points.

Class Told

After the "greasy-ball" first half, class told the story. Hennessey, Mooney and Brennan began to hit consistently, fed expertly by Nick Maguire, and moved the 'Cats to the fore. It was 37-33, Villanova, at the three-way mark.

'Cats Rolled Away

Led by Hennessey's long sets and Brennan's board taps, the 37-33 bulge stretched into a 55-44 one mid-way in the fourth period, as the Cats outtallied the Indians 18-7 for three minutes. Then, fighting against a freeze that was invoked at the 55-44 mark, Siena showed it could take shots when it had to.

Earlier in the week it was decided to pass up the individual races and concentrate their strength in two-mile relay. As a result Ray Wheiler passed up the 880 and Fred Dwyer ignored the mile. Added to these came Villanova's two most dependable relay men, Joe Gaffney and Pete Simigan, to form the Wildcat quartet.

All On Two Mile Relay

It was in the relay basket that all Villanova's eggs lay. The two mile relay event had Georgetown, Manhattan and Villanova facing each other, with the Hoyas unbeaten during the season and highly favored.

As it turned out the unbeaten Georgetown team kept their record clean and downed the doughty Wildcat quartet by two yards in the fastest race of the season. The time was 7:29:4.

On the first leg Charley Cappozoli led off for Georgetown with Simigan and Matt Dowden for the Jaspers. Simigan brought the baton in a scant two yards behind.

Gaffney Holds Own

Joe Gaffney on the second leg held his own against Dave Boland. On the third leg Ray Wheiler took out in hot pursuit of Joe LaPierre but couldn't catch him even though Ray's clocking was 1:52.4 compared to LaPierre's 1:52:5.

On the last leg Fred Dwyer faced Carl Joyce, in a battle of IC4A mile titlist against IC4A 1,000 champ. With about 2½ laps remaining Fred took off and passed the Hoya for the first Villanova lead of the race. Just when it seemed that victory was in sight, Joyce sprinted out and wrested the lead from Dwyer. Fred was unable to catch his former Seton Hall Prep teammate when Joyce fought off Dwyer's fierce last lap bid. Dwyer's half mile time was 1:52:3 as compared to Joyce's 1:52 flat.

The only individual competitor in the games for Villanova was John Joe Barry, who toed the mark in the Two mile

Paul Gets His Night

By TED SHEEHAN, Sports Editor

The player who broke every Philadelphia Collegiate scoring record while at Villanova, and is proceeding to break every professional scoring record while playing for the Philadelphia Warriors is being honored next Tuesday night by the proud fans of the city of Brotherly Love.

On Tuesday night, Paul Arizin's followers will tender him the honors that he so justly deserves. The Arena will be hopping as the bashful employee of Eddie Gottlieb has his "night".

When Paul was at Villanova the sports writers did themselves dizzy with their bagful of superlatives. He was the greatest, the best, the finest, ad infinitum. But the cynics said, "Well that's fine, but wait till he hits the pros. Then we'll see."

Mikan Gives In

Even the most die-hard nonbeliever must have been forced to change his opinion last week when George Mikan, the duly authorized king of basketball made the following remark to the Associated Press.

"Paul Arizin is going to win the National Basketball Association scoring title this year unless he breaks a leg."

And in another article he said, "You don't get 36 points against fellows like Jim Pollard, Howie Schulz and Vern Mikkleson without earning every point, and I guess that just about proved it. I concede."

In Paul's story there is a twist that would astound even the fiction writers. Arizin never played basketball while at LaSalle High. It's not that he was sick, or just didn't care. He wasn't good enough.

So when graduation came, Paul decided upon Villanova and the engineering school. He didn't try for the freshman team; he was an engineer. In the meantime Paul has found a team that he was good enough to play on. It was a team in the South Philly church league. It was just for laughs, and besides it was fun.

One night, Al Severance, as was his custom, was tipped off about a certain player in this league (not Paul) and he was down to scout him. Once the game started Severance forgot all about the original kid, it was with this Arizin that he was interested.

After the game, Al nearly broke a leg getting over to see this new prospect and to ask him if he would like to go to Villanova. When the kid said that he was already enrolled the usually eloquent Severance experienced: 1. surprise, 2. doubt, 3. complete joy.

As someone once uttered in a poetic mode, "The rest is history".

So shy was Paul that when the "Villanovan" began mispelling his name (it usually is good with names) as Arizen, he never corrected them. It took some clever writer over here a whole year to get his A in spelling.

Creates World's Record

It was on Februaryr 12, 1949 that Paul was to hit the papers across the nation. Villanova was playing the Naval Air Materials Center at the Field House on a Saturday night. Paul began popping the ball in the hoop and by the time the half was over he had accumulated 51 points. When the second half resumed he got in the same bad habits and at the game's completion he had totalled 85 points for a new world's record.

It might be a coincidence but this was the same night that George Guida was creating a new world's record for the 500-yard run.

After Paul's 85-point contribution, national recognition soon began to arrive. That was the year we were invited to the NCAA tournament—oddly enough, the only post season tournament that he was to play in (shades of Ty Cobb).

If these accomplishments were good it was in senior year that his greatest feats were to occur.

That was the year that he poured 735 points through the hoops. He did it with nightly contributions of 41, 37, 34, 33(4), and he went below 24 on only six of 29 occasions.

Some Remarks

When Paul ended his collegiate career many remarks were uttered as: "Arizin is an all-time, All-American if there ever was one."—Toledo coach Jerry Bush; "This season Paul Arizin left no doubt about his All-American greatness".—Cy Kritzner of the Sporting News; "Arizin definitely belongs on an All-time All-American team. Arizin rates with Holman, Luisetti and the rest."—Howie Dallmar, Penn coach.

Perhaps the final bit of praise came from his own coach —Al Severance: "Arizin is of priceless value to the team even when he's not scoring. If he isn't All-American then they ought to stop picking them."

His college career over, he began an entirely new phase, in the professional world with the Philadelphia Warriors. The transition mustn't have been too difficult because Paul was able to get a starting berth on a team that had such figures as George Seneskey, Joe Fulks and a league that has such players as the Mikan brothers.

Some public spirited students decided that it would be fitting to honor Paul on his night with a delegation and are busily engaged in scurrying around the campus raising funds.

When they come to you give what you can. If any one merits a gift from Villanova, it's this kid.

The "Greatest" deserves our best.

track shoes for the first time to run for his Seton Hall High School team. Running the mile, Fred finished the spring season undefeated, his first and last season as a high school runner, for he was a senior. Not to be forgotten was his memorable performance in the New Jersey State meet, where he broke all existing mile records.

All Events

The indoor season in 1951 saw Dwyer entered in all major 880 and 1000 yard events. Representing the Jersey AC in non-title meets, he achieved the second fastest half mile and third fastest 1000 for that season, the times being 1:58 and 2:12 respectively. Switching to the mile in the IC4A games, he upset the experts and was crowned as the new collegiate mile champion.

This year Fred has concentrated upon the mile and has waged many a battle to the tape with Don Gehrmann and Fred Wilt. Such spectacular times as 4:10.8 and 4:10.9 were still not quite enough to beat such a runner as Gehrmann. With the absence of Gehrmann and Wilt, however, Dwyer successfully defended his IC4A indoor mile crown with an easy 4:13 victory inspite of sickness that afternoon.

Fred now looks forward to the Olympic tryouts in California this summer, where three men will be selected to represent the U. S. in the 1000 meter run, one of whom is sure to be little Fred Dwyer, as fine a representative of Villanova, as there could be.

The Huskies had 6 field goals in 20 third quarter attempts to build up a commanding 51-39 advantage. The Wildcats hit for 3 out of 21 in the quarter.

Villanova never came any closer than 7 points during the fourth quarter until the very end, as the Uconns zone defese continued to trouble the erractic Wildcats. The Main Liners shooting did improve (9 for 27) in the final ten minutes but it was too late.

Yesterday, members of the Villanova Chapter of the AIEE-IRE made a trip to New York to attend the National Convention of the Institute of Radio and Electronics.

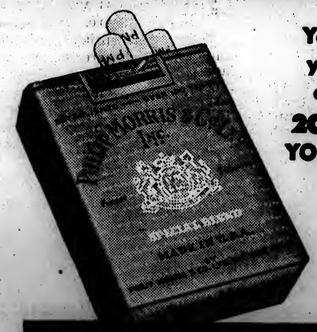
The Convention was highlighted by the radio and electronics exhibit, which is an annual feature of the show at New York's Grand Central Place. The Villanova delegation consisted of fifty Junior and Senior members of the student chapter. This was the first field trip of this kind taken by the AIEE-IRE this year.

Band Concert At St. Joe's

The Villanova College band and glee club made their second appearance of the season last night at St. Joseph's Hospital. It was the first time in several years that the organization has appeared there.

This year the band is again under the baton of student conductor Tom Pasha. Pasha took over the direction of the band when the Rev. Ralph E. Handran, O.S.A. returned to the Navy as a Chaplain.

Featured numbers of the band were "On The Trail" from Grofe's "Grand Canyon Suite", and the overture from "South Pacific." Outstanding applause rewarded a medley of songs written by George Gershwin.



The glee club made its second appearance since Tom Blackmore became student director. He assumed the position when the former director, Bill Miller, was graduated last semester.

Familiar songs featured by the new edition of the glee club were "The Jolly Roger," and "Ave Maria."

Second Annual Field Trip Attended By Marketing Club

Over one hundred members of the Villanova chapter American Marketing Association attended the second annual field trip Thursday, highlighted by visits to the studios of WCAU-TV and the expansive warehouse of Smith, Kline and French, drug wholesalers.

"Strictly for the Girls"

After a prompt 8:00 a. m. start, the students arrived at the studios of WCAU-TV in time to view the Ed McMahon show, "Strictly for the Girl", at which several students received gifts varying from a Bulova clock to a Toni Home Permanent.

Following this show, the students observed the technical aspects of the Wanamaker show through a bird's eye view of the control room. This part of the trip was made possible through the efforts of an ex-Villanova, Mr. Joseph Tenney, Jr., Vice-President and Producer of WCAU-TV.

At noon, the students attended luncheon at the Warwick Hotel, after which several speakers from the marketing field addressed the group.

Included among these were Mr. Paul Altentohl, Vice President of Altentohl Corp.; Mr. Landon Haynes of the Atlantic Refining Company; Mr. Gordon Van Citters, Promotion Manager of the Philadelphia Bulletin, Ed McMahon, Darwin Heath of the Arndt Advertising Agency. Dean M. Wister Wood of the Charles Morris Price School delivered the main speech on job selection after graduation.

The final series of speeches was conducted by Mr. Rodney D. Day, Comptroller of the Smith, Kline, French Drug Co. After the luncheon, the students took in the impressive system of organization used in their drug warehouse.

Initiations Tonite For Phi Kappa Pi

PHI KAP PRESIDENT James Conway addresses a group of prospective pledges prior to initiation ceremonies tonight.

Phi Kappa Pi, Villanova's Engineering Frat, initiates its pledges this evening in Mendel Hall.

The largest group of pledgees in recent years is expected to be inducted at the initiation proceedings. Plans for tonight's activities were laid last Friday. Jim Conway, president, and E. Orzechowski, initiation chairman, will be in charge this evening.

Rev. John O'Leary, O.S.A., group moderator, will address the group immediately following the initiations.

Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

Navy Has Twin Programs

Enrollment in Aviation Or Line School Open

Villanova students will have the opportunity to obtain information on enrolling in either the Navy's Aviation Cadet Program or the Navy's Officer Candidate School, this Thursday, March 6 when Commander William H. Ginn, Public Information Officer of the Willow Grove Naval Air Station, and Lt. Commander David I. Jacobs of the Philadelphia Office of Naval Officer Procurement will be in Room 102, Mendel Hall from 10 a. m. to 12 noon and 1 to 4 p. m.

Motion pictures concerning naval aviation and actual carrier operations showing Navy and Marine aviation in action in Korea will be shown in room 202 Commodore John Barry Hall from 1:30 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. during Navy interviews Thursday.

Commander Ginn will supply information on the Naval Aviation Cadet Program under which unmarried men between the ages of 18 and 26 who have completed at least two years of college at the end of the current semester are given training in preflight, basic and advanced flight training at Pensacola, Florida.

Upon the successful completion of this training the Cadet is designated a pilot in the Naval or Marine Reserve and is ready for approximately two and one half years of duty with the fleet.

Grads Can Apply

Mr. Jacobs will have information for members of the graduating class relative to enrollment in the O.C.S. College graduates or seniors graduating within the next four months in anv course of study may apply for this program.

NFCCS Regional Conference To Be Hosted Here March 9

The Villanova campus will be the site of the annual regional congress of the National Federation of Catholic College Students, Sunday, March 9, congress Chairman Tom Abrahams reported today.

Representation from regional member schools will include delegates from Immaculate, Rosemont, Chestnut Hill, Gwynned Mercy, Manor, La Salle, St. Joseph's and Villanova.

Speaking for the Villanova NFCCS chapter will be Ed Kearney. Abrahams announced. Guest speaker of the congress will be Brother Robert of Mary, F.S.C. of LaSalle College.

Cambride Grad.

A graduate of Cambridge University, Brother Robert will deliver an address on the "Comparison of the European and American Ideas of the University," in keeping with the theme of the congress, "The University and the Federation."

Abrahams stated that the congress will get under way with Mass and Benediction in St. Mary's Hall Chapel at 9:00 a. m. A registration fee of fifty cents will be charged.

March Workshop

Additional activities on the NFCCS agenda for March includes a Workshop on Regional Commissions to be held in Renile Hall on the LaSalle College campus beginning on March 23 at 2:00 p. m.

Villanovans have been invited to attend the Workshop where problems confronting the extra-curricular activities on the campuses of regional member schools will be discussed.

Opportunities will be presented for those campus clubs not having regional commissions representing them to get together and discuss common problems.

Belle Masque Publicity Plans Turn Actors To Advertisers

Villanova's Belle Masque Society has put into effect a publicity plan, unusually far-reaching for the group, to advertise its forthcoming production, "The Silver Whistle."

The central idea is to utilize every oral and visual means of making known the vital facts about the play to students and friends of the society.

As Frank Scerbo, publicity-director, put it, "We started at word-of-mouth and have gotten as far as painting the sign opposite the College. Don't be surprised where you see the play advertised from now until the twentieth (opening night)."

Scerbo went on to name several other proposed outlets for "Silver Whistle" propaganda. They included adds in THE VILLANOVAN and other Maine Line publications, radio time over Philadelphia's WIP, and "light-boxes" for use at night about the campus.

Literacy Unnecssary

"If anybody hasn't heard about the play by this time next week," Scerbo concluded, "he either can't read or understand English. But you won't even have to know the language, if our plan works out."

For "The Silver Whistle," loudspeakers will be in action at Villanova and on the campuses of Rosemont, Bryn Mawr, Haverford, and other Main Line colleges as well.

Many Guests Invited

Numerous guests have been invited to the Sunday matinee performance. Disabled veterans will come from Valley Forge Military Hospital, and nuns, from seventy-five different convents, and almost as many different orders.

The set for the "Whistle" is about midway to completion. Side flats, which represent the walls of the Church of John and the old peoples' home, reach a height of over twenty feet.

This extraordinary height is necessary in order to give impression of reality on the oversized Field House stage.

From the rear, the stage-work appears to be more makeshift, but from the front, even at this early date, some smoothness and detail appear.

By opening night, the stage-crew hopes to be able to unveil a satisfactory replica of the difficult Broadway set, which was the backbone for the action of the Ferrer version.

Pre-Cana Lectures Begin; 'Choosing Mate' Topic Sun.

The first address in the current series of Pre-Cana talks for students of the local colleges was held last Sunday when Rev. Robert Regan, O.S.A., of the Villanova faculty, addressed the conference on "The Nature and Ideals of Christian Marriage".

REV. ROBERT REGAN, O.S.A., Pre-Cana Conference moderator, opened the Lenten series with an address Sunday on the "Nature and Ideals of Marriage."

The next lecture of the series will held this Sunday as scheduled, despite the holiday Monday.

Due the fact that the speaker, Rev. Gilbert J. McDevitt, J. C. D., was contracted to appear before the holiday was announced, other arrangements could not be made, according to Father Regan, conference moderator.

Diocese Judge

Father McDevitt is Pro-Synodal Judge of the Matrimonial Court of the Archdiocese of Philadelphia and hence well qualified to speak on the topic of "Choosing a Life Partner."

Along with Rev. Thomas J. Welsh, J.C.D. who will speak March 23 on "Canon Law Concerning Marriage", Father McDevitt recently completed

Arizin Receives Gift Tonight From Students And Alumni

PAUL ARIZIN
From Cats to King

Collections have been taken up during the past week to present a gift from the students to Villanova's great All-American, Paul Arizin. This gift will be presented tonight at the Warriors-Celtics game at the Arena by a representative of the student body.

Tonight has been proclaimed Paul Arizin night by the Warriors to honor the ex-Villanovan, who has more than proven himself in professional basketball during the past two years. His all-around playing ability and phenomenal scoring this year have undoubtedly established him as the outstanding ball player in the league.

Student Council chairman Tom Delaney last week proposed that a gift be presented to Arizin as a small tribute from the students and alumni of this school. It is expected that a large turnout of students will attend the game to witness the tribute to the famed alumnus.

Editors Predict May Distribution For '52 Belle Air

The Belle Air Yearbook of 1952 will definitely be ready for distribution in early May. This encouraging news, offered by Editor-in-Chief Bill Lohr, is based upon the fact that the last, and all inclusive deadline of the publication was met successfully. Late last week the final dummy of the yearbook was forwarded to Campus Publishing Company.

While a great deal of work remains, such as proof reading the entire book after it is set in print, the heavy burden of creative work that goes into this annual publication has been completed.

Many Innovations

Along with excellent coverage of all campus activities,

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Through the efforts of the Student Council, next Monday, March 17, has been proclaimed a holiday in honor of St. Patrick.

The next issue of the "Villanovan" will be published Wednesday, March 19, because of this holiday.

Deadline for this issue will be at the regular time Thursday afternoon.

Bill Connelly Resigns Post As Cats' Athletic Director

By TED SHEEHAN
Sports Editor

William M. (Bill) Connelly, Athletic Director at Villanova since 1948 announced last Saturday night that he was resigning his post to enter private business. The resignation is to be effective on March 31.

WM. M. CONNELLY

Connelly emphasized that he was leaving Villanova on the best of terms and that he didn't particularly desire to leave and that the college authorities didn't want him to, but that a "combination of circumstances" made his action necessary.

Into Private Business

"I'm just going into private business", Connelly said. "That's the only reason I'm leaving. I've enjoyed working at Villanova. Everyone there was fine to me".

His resignation as Athletic Director leaves not only that post open but raises the question of what will be done as far as his status as the president of the Eastern Intercollegiate 150-lb. football league is concerned.

Connelly was elected to this post two years ago and was re-elected last fall. Although no direct statment was coming from him on the matter it is presumed that he will relinquish this post to another person.

'27 Graduate

Connelly was graduated from Villanova in 1927 and while here made quite a name for himself in basketball and baseball. After graduation he remained as an ardent follower of all Villanova teams and travelled with them on many of their far flung trips.

During the years he donated the Connelly Trophy which was yearly awarded to the dormitory that had the best display for the annual home coming game during the football season.

He assumed the Athletic Director's job in March, 1948 after holding the post "unofficially" for six months.

A Tale Of Whoa

Once upon time there was a hungry Villanova student who had developed a strong habit of eating three times a day. He used to go over to the chow hall and, like an orderly person, wait in line to pick up his daily ration.

But doing it this way didn't always pay off. He found that by going to the end of the chow line, it used to take him over a half hour before he even got inside the door of the cafeteria. At times it used to get so bad that instead of making progress toward the door, he used to find the line moving backwards. Then he discovered why—there were guys cutting line in front of him.

That did it. He became a changed man, and instead of waiting on the end of the line, he brazenly cuts in now, too. Things are much better for him—no more wasting half hours just to eat, no more exasperation at the guys who chisel in, because he's one of them. Does it all the time now. And the guys at the end of the line? "Just too bad they never wised up and got a couple of friends near the front."

Moral of the story: If one guy can cut the line, everybody can.

Conclusion: Obviously, everybody can't so why should anyone at all be allowed to inconvenience the rest of the impatient students on line? It follows that the flagrant line cutting going on lately has to come to a screeching "Whoa."

PRE-CANA CONFERENCE—began last Sunday and will continue for the next three Sundays during Lent. . . . proving a valuable service to College students in presenting the important Catholic ideals . . . you don't have to be engaged to participate, and statistics say you'll have opportunity to use the advice.

STUDENT COUNCIL—check the adjoining column next week for SC's prexy giving an answer to our three correspondents on the right . . . and give the Council a nod for the holiday next Monday, St. Patrick's Day.

BILL CONNELLY — rates full-editorial praise on occasion of his retirement as athletic director. Sorry to see a man leave who always was and still is "all for Villanova."

SENIORS—dispel rumors about graduates' final exams being given a week ahead of time. Officially, it's just not so.

TO CAMPUS MODERATORS—Merit Award nomination lists currently being distributed by Dean of Student Activities. How about making the awards mean something for a change by dropping "dead wood" from the lists. Previous years have seen moderators listing whole rosters of some clubs for awards whether students have been active or not.

Orphans Tip-Off O'Hara

The Editor,
The Villanovan,

Dear Editor:

A few weeks ago the Sisters of St. Joseph of St. John's Orphan Asylum, Philadelphia submitted their annual report to Archbishop O'Hara. It is of interest to the Villanova Students to know that their kindness at Christmas time to the Orphans is twice mentioned in the offical report. I quote:

"During the several weeks preceding Christmas, the boys were entertained by several groups, at home and abroad. The students from Villanova College began the festivities on December 1, taking all the boys out for a day, a custom inaugurated several years ago. Each man was responsible for the entertainment of one boy. Viewing Christmas displays, dinner and lunch "in town" and beautiful and serviceable gifts were the method of entertainment of one boy.

And again—

"December 13 was another "Villanova Day"; a Christmas party was given at the home, the young men taking entire charge, providing and serving supper and distributing gifts."

Thanking you for bringing this to the attention of our students, I am

Gratefully yours in Christ,
Rev. Edwin T. Grimes, O.S.A.
College Chaplain

Expand Council Interest

Dear Sir:

There has been considerable criticism leveled at many members of the student body for their all too evident apathy as regards our Student Council. Complaints have been heard that non-members rarely attend Council meetings, pay little attention to its actions, etc.

While not doubting the sincerity and ability of the members of the Council, we feel that the reason for this lack of student interest stems from the failure of the Council to be a genuine mediator between the students and the administration.

Further, we respectfully submit that this failure is due to the inability or unwillingness of the Council to act upon or even discuss many issues of vital importance.

The cafeteria situation instantly leaps to mind. Probably the leading source of student discontent, the whole matter of meals and their service is apparently taboo in Council discussions. Members, when approached, tell us that the quality of the food and the ever-present lines are not subjects within the realm of the Councils' powers.

While deeply concious of, and extremely grateful for the labors expended by the Council on behalf of the students, we feel that it cannot expect a real measure of support from the student body until it widens its scope of interest to include those matters with which the members of that student body are most deeply concerned.

Very Sincerely Yours,

Socialism Condemned As Noxious Doctrine; Exposed By Two Popes

By Jim Mason

One of the most noxious doctrines to arise within the past half century has been the belief that the Catholic Church is somehow committed to Socialism. This idea, in spite of repeated affirmations to the contrary from the Holy See, persists with considerable vigor.

Socialists Rob Just

As early as 1891 Pope Leo XIII condemned Socialism unequivocally in his memorable Rerum Novarum. In this encyclical the Supreme Pontiff asserted that "They (Socialists) are, moreover, emphatically unjust, because they would rob the lawful possessor, bring State action into a sphere not within its competence, and create utter confusion in the community."

In Quadregesimo Anno, Pope Pius XI reaffirmed this condemnation in these words, "Society, therefore, as the Socialist conceives it, is, on the one hand, impossible and unthinkable without compulsion of the most excessive kind; on the other it fosters a false liberty, since in such a scheme no place is found for true social authority, which is not based on temporal and material advantages, but descends from God alone."

His Holiness quite apparently saw no "mitigated Socialism" extant in the world of 1931, although the British Labor Party, the Socialist Party of the United States, and many others had been long in existence. These organizations are still functioning and are certainly no more Christian than in 1931, when they were so scathingly condemned.

Incompatible With Church

In view of the condemnation of Socialist organizations which existed in 1931, we can certainly infer the implied condemnation of similar groups twenty-one years later. If the British Labor Party was to be denounced in 1931, so it is to be denounced in 1952. Furthermore, it is only logical to assume that organizations which pursue similar ends are also anathema.

The duty of the Catholic is plain, then. He must actively combat the spectre of Socialism wherever it is found, for it is incompatible with a truly Christian society.

Ice-Ball Drives Open Season For Students As Golfers Revive Sport

By Joe Mascuch

I hit the dirt as something whistled over head, the cry, "Fore!" still ringing in my ears. A few feet behind me, standing ankle deep in snow and driving ice-balls, was the first golfer of spring. I studdered at the realization that the open season on Villanovans was dawning. Yes, steel helmets will be "the thing" again.

Spring brings numerous changes to the Villanova campus. Life becomes interesting, if one is able to avoid close contact with a determined golf ball.

The Jekyl-Hyde transformations are due. The mildest men become monsters overnight. With a tiny ball and a four iron they strike fear into the hearts of their fellow men.

Tintinnabulation Of Glass

From early morning into night, every hill becomes a driving range for these enthusiasts. The air is filled with the swish of the gold club, the smack of the ball and the tintinnabulation of shattering glass.

Austin Field and the lower end of the campus becomes particularly dangerous. Only two out of every three Day Hops make it to the P&W station under the murderous cross-fire. Running does little good. The average golfer loves a moving target.

Sultans Of Swat

There is no hiding place safe from these Sultans of Swat. They can hit to any field and generally do. The safest place is directly in front of them. Even then, they will fool you.

Along with this, there is a mass migration of the Mendeleers into the open air. Like ants on a picnic table, they hurry across the campus, checking soil erosion. One not only has to look up to avoid flying missles, but one must also look down. The ground is covered with booby-traps. Steel stakes, miles of metal rulers and reclining engineers dot the campus.

Soup And Window Targets

Baseball becomes a hazard too. Frustrated golfers grab bat and ball to see what damage they can do. Mendel and Monastery windows become target for the day. One never knows what he will find in his soup, golf balls or baseballs.

The stadium takes on the appearance of the Circus Maximus. Quarterbacks catch stray fly balls, track men run for touchdowns, infielders throw strategic blocks and basketball fans crowd the outdoor courts.

The "new look" sweeps the campus. The well dressed man feels at ease in his loose fitting tee shirt and grass stained khakis.

Recreation rather than education becomes the slogan of the college man. In the cool of the evening, any Villanovan can be found in this room, swatting flies.

Morgan Questions General Hershey At Bulletin Forum

By Tom Morgan

Editor's Note: Senior Tom Morgan was one of twenty Philadelphia area students participating in last Tuesday afternoon's session of the second annual Bulletin Forum. Representing Villanova at the "What Next for Youth" session, Morgan addressed his question to Director of Selective Service, General Louis B. Hershey.

As Villanova's representative on the youth panel to the sixth annual Philadelphia Bulletin Forum I attempted to find the answer to a question which is of utmost interest both to the student body of Villanova and to myself.

Perhaps the greatest problem facing college seniors is what is going to happen or what are they going to do after graduation. This situation is especially complicated due to the fact that most of us will not be free to decide what we are going to do because of selective service.

Addressed Gen. Hershey

Therefore, I addressed my inquiry to General Hershey, who was one of the adult members of the panel, concerning, in his estimation, "Just what would be the status of college students who wished to go on to graduate school or who desired to obtain a job in the light of the forth-coming selective service legislation?"

I wondered if more certainty or definiteness could be obtained from the draft boards in regards to deferments and postponements of induction and whether this clarity would be embodied in the projected legislation.

Decision Of Local Board

The General's reply was straightforward. He said that as far as obtaining postponements and deferments the new law would remain, in essence, what it is at present. That is, in the final analysis, "The decision on all matters will rest with the local board."

Of course, appeal to the board, then as now, will be permitted. If the results of this appeal are not satisfactory, further pleas may be made to the state board, and as a last resort to the President.

Must Meet Quotas

Those who passed the armed forces deferment test and those who are in the upper strata of their class will continue to be deferred if, and this is important, the draft board can fill its quota from other sources. But these quotas must be met.

General Hershey also stated that the next six months will see a rapid rise in draft quotas both to keep the armed forces at their present level and to replace the approximately three hundred seventy thousand men who enlisted or were drafted in the early stages of the Korean War. The two year period of service for these men will expire in early fall.

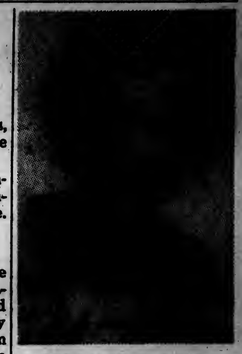
Free Week For Prom Queen; Gifts For Court

Tickets to all events of Junior Week will be awarded to the girl chosen as "Queen of Junior Week" and her escort. The free admissions to the Blazer Ball, Junior Prom, and Dinner-Dance are the first of several prizes for the Queen to be announced.

The Queen's "Lady-In-Wait-will also be awarded a prize, and the members of the Queen's court will be begifted with favors, according to Paul Sollami, Junior Class President. The girls and their escorts will receive the gifts at the Junior Prom, May 9, when the Queen will be officially crowned.

More Juniors entered their prom dates in the Queen competition last week, and, judging from the early entries, the judges' choice will not be an easy one.

Pictured this week is another fair damsel who is competing for the coveted title. She is Miss M. Jeanne Roe.



'Hello Girl' Chief

Twenty-two-year-old Jeanne hails from Wilmington, Delaware, where she is employed as a Bell Telephone Company Supervisor. Jeanne is Jim Rigney's prom date, and Jim is hopeful his tall (5' 7"), green-eyed beauty will catch the judges' eyes.

The girl selected as Queen, and her escort, will have a busy Junior Week. President Sollami reported that the Queen is to be one of the "Guests of Honor" at every event of the week, beginning Monday, May 5, with Mothers' Day, and culminating Saturday, May 10, at the Dinner-Dance.

The apogee of her reigning activities will be her coronation at the Prom on Friday evening. The Queen's Lady-In-Waiting and Court will also be presented at the Prom.

April 24 is the entry deadline for the Queen contest. However, Juniors are cautioned to enter their prom dates early, thus enabling the printing of their date's picture in the "Villanovan." Entries may be left either in the envelope for that purpose in the "Villanovan" office, C & F building basement, or in Jim Glavin's room, 310 Alumni Hall.

PASHA THE PIT

ALUMNI POOFED: That silver-domed campus dormitory which has graced the campus green, lo these many years, will be the center of attraction in a few days. . . . Sources which may be regarded as totally unreliable, informed this column that maintenance has secured five thousand three months-supply bottles of "Stoppette" . . . The Alumni Hall gym will be "poofed" immediately after the I-M Tournament. . . . The only men who have been bunked in there for so long come from Chicago. . . . The nostril enveloping odors aren't noticed to any great extent by these residents.

SMOKERINGS: The Inquirer carried quite an article last ayam concerning the blast-furnace soot that has been strewn over the area via the Mendel Hall smokery. . . . The little lady was fretting over her dirty rayons. . . .The men on campus would like to know where the heat resultant of this over combustion goes. . . . Men living in the upper garretts of the various dormitories have taken out insurance against frostbite. . . . Perhaps the rumor connecting the smoke stack to the kitchen stove canopy isn't as wild as the might sound . . . That new plant across the tracks is beautiful but does it heat anything else other than its insides?

BLOODHOUNDS: The Red-Cross bloodmobile complete with doughnuts and coffee made its first stop at this campus last Tuesday. . . . Don Lemaire was rather confused about the term blood bank. . . . He went over to withdraw two quarts.

Then, of course, there was the individual who just couldn't get the old red stuff to flow. . . . The nurse tried everything from making him hold his breath to having him stand on his head and whistle "Dixie" in order that a drop or two might issue forth but it was all to no avail. . . . The man watching him had just given a pint from his big toe. . . .

George Crist deserves his thanks from the Red Cross and a big nod of the head from the student body for making this trip of the bloodmobile the most successful that it has taken all year. . . . There would have been more donors, however, the canteen had to shut down after Johnny Larkin ate all the doughnuts and drank all the coffee. . . . He donated at 8 a. m. and was still "resting" at 3:30 p. m.

RED RIDINGHOOD: Who is that delectable little number that has all the Villanovans oogling at the 6:45 Mass every A. M.—Seems that the boys are all upset if'n the red clad little lady doesn't make the date.

MENDEL MALARKEY: Apparently Mendel Hall is still celebrating the dedication of the Navy Building. . . . That red-white and blue bunting adorning its Mendel Field entrance will attest to this fact. . . . Maybe they have a boy in the service.

DEFINITION: Phenomenon: Any unusual occurence; an inexplicable fact; marvel; prodigy. . . . Some female writers jest kn't pick the right word. . . . Evidently, the Rosymonter who wrote that rather caustic comment didn't realize.

B'mobile Nets 206 Pints As Campaign Goes Over

PAUL AKE HOPES IT WON'T as he prepares to donate his pint of blood to the armed forces during the Red Cross Bloodmobile's visit here last Tuesday. Chief Roberts of the NROTC unit looks on approvingly.

Filling up every bottle, bucket, and basin available, Villanova students put the Red Cross Bloodmobile goal over the top in record time last week as 206 pints were donated.

The entire supply of blood containers was completely exhausted before four o'clock, and 34 men were turned away after an hour stand in line.

Along with these 240 who were signed up, at least 200 students and seminarians, never even got their name on the list.

Bloodmobile to Return

Student representative George Crist, who was instrumental in the success of the venture, announced that the Bloodmobile will return in the latter part of April.

With the urgent need for blood, it is hoped that the quota for this next visit will be set higher than 200 as the turnout for this first visit showed that Villanova is 100% behind the drive.

a very successful Pre-Cana Conference at the Parish of the Holy Child in Philadelphia.

At the present time the two theologians are giving a Cana Conference for married couples at the same parish.

Speaking to a mixed group of some 100 Villanova students, their dates, and students from other local colleges last Sunday afternoon, Father Regan opened the informal discussion series.

Treating his topic, "The Nature and Ideals of Marriage," Father Regan expanded on the textbook difinition of marriage to include explanations of its place in the divine plan of procreating the human race.

Describing marriage as "a noble vocation," the Pre-Cana director pointed out that married life provides a "natural, Godly-directed course toward knowing, loving and serving God," if it is used with moderate and sensible application.

Sunday's session ended, as will the three additional conferences, with an open question period. Following Father McDevitt's talk next Sunday and Father Welsh's talk the following Sunday, James P. Quindlen, M.D. will conclude the series March 30 speaking on the subject, "A Catholic Physician Looks at Marriage."

Temple U. Doctor Speaks to Frat On Brain Surgery

Lambda Kappa Delta fraternity heard a talk on the development of psycho-surgery by Dr. Henry Wizcis of the Temple University Medical School Wednesday evening.

In his talk Dr. Wizcis defined psycho-surgery as "an operation on the brain to alter the course of mental illness." He then proceded, with the aid of slides, to show the development of this branch of surgery from the ancient Greeks and the American Incas to the present day.

Film of Operation

Highlight of the evening was a color film of a stereoencephalotomy performed by Dr. Wizcis. In this operation a portion of the sub-thalamus is destroyed by an electric needle lowered through the top of the skull and the brain. This operation relieves pschoses caused by fear and anxiety and eliminates the sensation of pain.

President Fesco announced a joint meeting and social sponsored by the Science Club of Chestnut Hill College. The Villanova Chemical Society has also been invited to attend. The meeting will be at Chestnut Hill Friday night, March 14.

Rosemont Hears Chem. Prof.

A lecture on modern laboratory apparatus was delivered by Professor Paul Machemer to the Chemistry Club of Rosemont College last Tuesday. The talk entitled "Potentiometric Titration" covered the use of glass electrode pH meters and Fischer titrameters.

The Villanova Chemistry Department also announced the publication in the February issue of "Analytical Chemistry" of an article entitled "Theoretical Basis of the Bouger-Beer Law of Radiation Absorption" written by former assistant chemistry professor Frederick P. Strong. This article grew out of a paper presented to the meeting of the Analytical Division at Pittsburgh, on March 7, 1951.

Cats Trip Bonnies, 66-59, In Season Finale

Hoopmen End Year With Up-Hill Win Over NIT-bound '5'

By Tom Egan

In their 27th and final outing of the season, the Villanova Wildcats registered win No. 19 as they rallied from a seemingly insurmountable handicap to beat the rough, tough St. Bonaventure team, 66-59, at the Palestra, last Saturday night.

The Wildcats now boast victories over some of the top quintets in the nation, including among their victories, decisions over Duquesne (their only loss), Louisville, Siena and North Carolina State.

The Bonnies started off as if they meant business, driving to a 24-12 first quarter lead as each of the starting five entered the scoring column on a 9 for 18 shooting average, compared to 5 for 16 for the Wildcats.

Tie Score

Jack Devine and Larry Hennessey led a second period surge which tied the score at 27 all with 4:57 remaining in the half. Baskets by Leo Corkery and Bob Sassone restored the Bonnies to 34-30 halftime lead. The visitors hit for 8 out of 16 shots in that period while Villanova had 6 for 18.

The backboard brillance of Devine was not enough to offset the divided scoring of the Bonnies and so with 3:26 remaining in the third quarter, St. Bonaventure held a ten point, 50-40 lead. At this point Sam Glassmire replaced Hennessey, who had connected on only four of fifteen attempts and had lost the ball repeatedly to the pressing Bonnies.

The inspirational play of Glassmire sparked the Wildcats winning rally as the defense, which had been faulty, became at once a well knit

Boardmen Carry Off Many Laurels During 1952 Season

By George McCann

The book closes upon another indoor track season which will go down in Villanova annals as highly successful. Led by Fred Dwyer, the cindermen of the Mainline college carried off their share of the many laurels of the recent 1952 season.

With the Olympics in the not too distant future much interest and speculation was aroused by the records recently created by this year's flock of runners. The frequent duels of Gehrmann and Wilt highlighted the campaign but did not, however, overshadow the feats of such outstanding performers as Bob Richards, Harrison Dillard, Roscoe Browne, Reggie Pearman, and many others too numerous to mention.

Wheiler Upsets Molineux

Dick Gray, '42 Captain, to Be Speaker At Jersey Dinner, Mike Saxe Honored

By Carl Valenti

On Monday, March 17, The Villanova Club of South Jersey will hold its second annual Basketball Banquet. The cost is $5.00 per plate and the ladies are invited, with tickets available at the Alumni Office.

The principle speaker of the evening will be Honorable Richard L. Gray, '42, minority leader of the New Jersey State Assembly. Mr. Gray was captain of the 1941-42 Villanova basketball team.

Saxe Gets Award

Among the highlights of the evening's activities will be presentation of the Alumni placque to this year's most valuable player by Martin L. Gill, '32, National Alumni President.

Michael Saxe, Villanova's first basketball coach, will be guest of honor and will receive an award in recognition of his contribution to basketball at Villanova.

The toastmaster will be Thomas Finan, '36, and others on the program will include Father McGuire, Coach Al Severance, and Joseph P. DeLuca, '30, President of the Villanova Club of South Jersey.

The Banquet will be held at Kenney's Restaurant, 531 Market Street, Camden, New Jersey.

Diamond Open Season at Rutgers April 2; 12 Home Games on Tap

By Harry Anger

The schedule for Villanova's 83rd Varsity Baseball season was released this week by the Athletic Office. It included some of the usual oldtimers and a couple of interesting newcomers.

Perhaps the most interesting new team listed on the schedule this year is the army team from Indiantown Gap. As you'll probably remember that squad was led last season by two ex-major leaguers, Curt Simmons and Charlie Bicknell. Both these boys are gone now, but it wouldn't surprise us if this year's squad has some former big leaguers on the roster.

Three Newcomers

A couple of other newcomers Villanova will face for the first time this spring are Ithaca College, the Blue Hens of Delaware, and Duquesne University.

Just as last season the Wildcats will play a home and home series with Penn, and in what should be another fine ball game the Mainliners meet the stellar Quantico Marine nine. Penn State, a ball club which drubbed our heroes 12-5 last season, will also put in an appearance at the Mainline ballyard.

Some of the other old favorites who will see action against Art Mahan's crew are Army, Fordham, and Rutgers, all in road contests. Loyola College of Baltimore will also play host to our boys.

Maryland Dropped

Maryland, who edged Villanova 2-0 in the opener of the 1951 season, Lehigh, and the Lakehurst Naval Air Station have been dropped from the schedule for 1952. The latter you may recall was the victim of a 23-0 rout at the hands of the Mahan-men last May 9th. It was a game in which everyone on the bench with the exception of Trainer Jake Nevins saw action.

Field House Record Broken As King's Abdicates, 106-71

In the highest scoring game of all time on the Field House floor, the Villanova Wildcats rebounded from the Connecticut upset with a vengeance, running all over the Kings College five, 106-71.

The 177 point two-team total was a new court record, surpassing the old standard established two seasons ago on Jan. 26, 1950 when the Wildcats with Paul Arizin, trounced John Marshall, 107-62. Although no detailed records were available on Field House games, the 73 field goals probably is a record that will stand a long time.

In his farewell appearance on the Main Line court, Bennie Stewart turned in the greatest performance of his college career, bucketing 35 points on a 15 for 25 shooting record and retrieving the ball no fewer than 21 times off the boards. Larry Hennessey also played an outstanding game with 32 points on 12 baskets in 22 attempts. Jim Mooney's 18 points was more than any Monarch could muster—their high man being Bob Panzak with 16.

Villanova Intra-Mural All Stars — St. Rita's (Norristown)

Running off a string of 12 points, the Wildcats moved from a 4-8 deficit to a 16-8 lead. Once in front the 'Cats were virtually unstoppable as they rolled to a 28-19 first quarter lead and a 54-41 halftime margin. By this time the outcome was no longer in doubt, the only question being just how high Stewart and Hennessey could go.

In the third quarter, the Main Liners increased their spread to 81-64.

Rout Begins

Another spurt at the start of the fourth period turned the game into a complete rout. The Wildcats reached the century mark on a foul shot by Freshman Bill "Zigi" Sigalove. Only a basket by Bob Schuler interrupted this 19 point outburst.

SPORTS CHATTER

A Season Ends

By TED SHEEHAN, Sports Editor

The 1951-52 basketball season closed for all intents and purposes last Saturday night in the Palestra before a jam-packed house of 8,341 people. With only the NCAA tournament berth's waiting to be filled, and Villanova chances of being selected as one of the six independents being very slim it would appear as if the school's 32nd year's participance in Dr. Naismith's pet exerciser ended at 9:03 last Saturday night.

Although the astronomers, or star gazers, or whoever it is that tells when the seasons come and go claim that Spring will not arrive until March 20, the winter ended for Villanova sports at said 9:03 on said Saturday night.

The team will have a 19-8 record, provided of course that the NCAA doesn't do the completely unpredictable and invite us to their tournament. That's not a bad record at all when consideration is given to the competition that it faced.

Five of the teams that were invited to the National Invitation Tournament in New York were played by Villanova. In the case of Duquesne, their loss to Villanova was the only thing that stopped them from having an undefeated season. Louisville and St. Bonaventure's tasted defeat from the Wildcats, while a fourth, Seton Hall, won by only two points in their first game and that didn't occur until Villanova blew a ten point lead in the fourth quarter.

Besides these teams that made the tournament there were others on the schedule which were considered as hopefuls for major tournament bids. Teams like Siena, Brigham Young (NIT winner in '51), Fordham and North Carolina State.

Sitting at the St. Bonaventure's game it was difficult to see that the only team on the court worthy of a tournament was the Bonnies. Villanova put on a drive, or to be more exact, two-one in the second quarter and the other in the last—to hand the visitors their fifth loss in 24 games. It was a drive worthy of the Garden.

It wasn't the first time that they have looked that way during the past season. Starting with the Boston College game they looked poor on only two occasions. The first was the Seton Hall game at South Orange when they let the Pirates crawl all over them and defeat them by 24 points. The other time was at the Connecticut game in the Palestra.

Decisively Rusty

It was in the latter that their rustiness proved the more decisive. Going into that game the team had a 17-7 record and were still being considered for a NIT bid. (That alone is a tribute to the name and drawing power that the Severancemen have in basketball. There aren't many quintets around that could still be considered despite their unimpressive record.)

The issue was fairly clear when the game began. A win over this team would assure them a bid to the NIT and all the incidental glory that is attendant with such a bid. Either the issues or Connecticut proved the stronger, for the visiting Uconns surprised the daylights out of Villanova and ended all chances of an NIT bid.

With that game the season was really over. Yet, the team didn't quit then. They could have gone through the motions in the season's last two games. They could have won; they could have lost—it didn't mean too much either way.

Instead they chose to fight. To fight in the real sports tradition. They met a King's College team and disposed of them in fitting fashion. In the disposal process they went over the 100 mark for the second time this season and first time in the Field House since the John Marshall match two season's back.

But this King's team was small. The real test would come Saturday night against St. Bonaventure's Actually this was the ideal game. Neither team had much to lose. The Bonnies had their invitation assured a week earlier. Villanova received their form of assurance after the Connecticut game.

Bonnies had prepared for this game by a 61-59 loss at the hands of Siena. Villanova had prepared by their lopsided win over King's.

By the end of the first quarter of the game it was evident that St. Bonaventure was just too strong. The only hope was that they would have a little mercy and not make the game a complete romp. With 4:57 remaining in the half the score was knotted at 27 all. By halftime the Bonnies had regained their composure and had a 34-30 lead.

With the identical time remaining in the second half Gepp sunk a neat basket to put us ahead and Villanova was never headed. Appropriately enough it was the two retiring seniors—Stewart and Brennan—that ended the scoring.

Villanova had beaten the NIT-bound Bonnies. The season had ended.

You know, when you come to think of it, Villanova had a pretty good team this year.

I-M Tourney Lists 6 Unbeaten Teams, 10 1st Round Byes

Drawings for the biggest I-M Basketball tournament ir Villianova history were held on Wed. March 5.

Ten teams drew first round byes: the Toppers, Troopers, Firehouse 5, Hustlers, Fedigan Bombers, Rumrunners, Alumni Pistons, Dom, Ramcats and Redmen.

The schedule of games is as follows:

March 11, 4:30 Haunts vs Royals, 7:30 Mets vs T Square;

March 12, 4:00 Viz Eds vs Alumni Cats, 7:30 Austin Zips vs Shamrocks, 9:00 Alumni Pistons vs Doms;

March 13, 4:00 Firehouse 5 vs Hustlers, 7:30 Ramcats vs Redmen, 9:00 Toppers vs Troopers;

March 18, 7:30 winner Jersey Jets-Bullets vs winner Blue Eagles-Sophs; 9:00 winner Mets-T Squares vs winner Haunts-Royals;

March 19, 4:30 Fedigan Bombers vs winner Viz-Eds-Alumni Cats; Rumrunners vs winner Viz-Ed's-Alumni Cats; 9:00 winner Alumni Pistons-Doms vs winner Ramcats-Redmen.

There are six undefeated teams in the tournament, Sophs, Pistons, Mets, Bombers, Toppers and Redmen; three in each of the two tournament divisions and none can possibly meet until the third round. The way the teams are arranged both the semi-finals and the final could be between undefeated teams.

Volleyball

Entries are a little slow in coming in for the Volley-ball tournament. Since this tournament will be included in the tabulations for the I-M total points trophy it is hoped that each hall will enter at least one team. Dayhop teams are also requested to submit entries. Remember entries close this Friday, Mar. 14.

Softball

The I-M Softball leagues will be started as soon as possible after the completion of the basketball tournament, so get your teams together and your entries in.

Bowling Sweepstakes

The Bowling Club announced that their sweepstakes will be held tomorrow night in the Main Line Alleys at 7:30. All members of the club are urged to attend. There will be ten awards presented to the winners. The Main Line Alleys are located in Bryn Mawr.

The Bowling club has announced that the tentative date for their banquet has been set for Tuesday night, April 22nd. The site has not been announced.

to Roscoe Browne at the same distance. This same meet produced a spectular mile with Gehrmann overtaking Wilt and Dwyer in the final lap to breast the tape first in the fast time of 4:10.2.

The shift of the indoor season to Madison Square Garden saw the emergence to the spotlight of the Villanova mile relay team which won its heat in the Millrose meet but finished 2nd to Manhattan on a time basis.

The relay team, composed of Jim Reardon Fred Dwyer, Pete Simigan, and Joe Gaffney then travelled to Boston where they again triumphed in their heat only to take 2nd place behind a faster Seton Hall quartet. This was the story for the rest of the season, as the Villanova baton passers were forced to take a back seat to two of the fastest relay teams in the East—Manhattan and Seton Hall.

This same Boston meet brought Dwyer his first victory of the season when he switched to the 1000. Back at the mile the next week Dwyer had to take a close 3rd to Gehrmann and Wilt in the New York A. C.'s Baxter Mile.

Impresses In IC4A's

The Villanova trackmen hit their peak in the IC4A meet to finish a highly respected but unexpected 4th.

Fred Dwyer, Ray Wheiler, John Joe Barry, and Joe Gaffney combined their talent for 13 points with Dwyer leading the parade with a successful defense of his mile crown. Wheiler finished a strong 2nd to Cary Joyce in the 1000 and Gaffney added a point with a 5th in the 600. John Joe Barry made his most impressive showing of the season with a 3rd in the 2 mile.

The Knights of Columbus meet closed the season for the Wildcat runners. Passing up the individual races, the team concentrated on the 2 mile relay in an attempt to wrest the title from the unbeaten Georgetown quartet. In the fastest time of the season, 7:39.4 the Hoya trackmen, however, nipped the Wildcats by a scant two yards.

unit. By the end of the quarter, the Cats cut the deficit to 51-45.

Close guarding by the aroused Cats stymied the hard driving Bonnies as Villanova continued its victory march. A jump shot by Steve Gepp with 4:52 remaining in the game gave the Wildcats their first lead since the opening moments at 56-55.

Once ahead they played possession ball which resulted in baskets as Ben Stewart and then Tom Brennan were left unguarded under the hoop. Seniors Brennan and Stewart split the last eight points to close out their basketballing days at Villanova.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

POOR SHEEDY was in the soup with a turtle named Myrtle. "I'm in a tortizzy," he wailed, "what shell I do?" "Well, it's your messy hare that parts you from all the girls," his roommate said. "Better get Wildroot Cream-Oil!" Non-alcoholic. Contains soothing Lanolin. Relieves dryness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test. Paul got Wildroot Cream-Oil and now he's out turtle-necking all the time! So don't stick your neck out... get some terrapin-money and hurry to the nearest drug or toilet goods counter for a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil. And ask for it on your hare at your favorite barber shop. Then you'll really be in the swim.

PEC Boiler Engr. Speaks To Mechs

Mr. William O. Price, boiler engineer at the Southwark Station of the Philadelphia Electric Company, addressed the student branch of ASME last evening in room 215 Mendel Hall.

Mr. Price's topic was "Station Operating Department of a Public Utility." His talk was supplemented by slides showing different phases of operation in a power plant.

Many of the Electrical Engineers were also present to hear Mr. Price speak. At the conclusion of the talk, refreshments were enjoyed by all.

Air Force Offers 300 Bars

The U. S. Air Force has recently announced that 300 commissions are available immediately for college graduates that have credit for one year college physics and mathematics through integral calculus.

These commissions are available in the meteorological and weather departments of the Air Force. Applicants will be commissioned second lieutenants and enter a 12 month course of weather training this fall.

Opportunities for meteorologists in civilian life are many and varied. Weathermen are employed, aside from the U. S. Weather Bureau, in occupations ranging from Hollywood studios to large department stores.

Interested seniors and graduates can obtain information by writing to the Chief, Air Weather Service, Andrews Air Force Base, Washington 25, D. C.

Pledging Engineers Survive As Phi Kappa Pi Accepts 60

"AIN'T WE GOT FUN!" Jack Tracey and Bob Radcliffe look on in fiendish glee as fellow ghoul prepares to administer another "treatment" to the prostrate form of PKP pledgee during initiation last Tuesday.

Villanova's Engineers had a night to howl last Tuesday evening at the annual Phi Kappa Pi initiation. With all the tortures of a Roman persecution, Mendel Hall was turned into a hell on earth for some sixty new pledges of the group.

With a guillotine at every bend in the wall, the initiators added extra woes to the already burdened life of the social minded engineer.

Banquet In Chow Hall

After Phase I of "Mission Initiation" was completed, new members were banqueted in the fine surroundings of the Villanova chow hall. Prof. John Gallen of the Civil Engineering Dept. made digestion easier with several amusing tales, as did Prof. Allen and Father Vrana.

Jim Conway, President of Phi Kap, and Ed Orzechowski, Chairman of the evenings proceedings, also welcomed the newcomers in short but eloquent messages.

Credit was given to all the members who participated in the initiation as is due to the new members who went through the ordeal. Phi Kap officers hoped that the very successful affair is a forerunner of many future successes.

Business Fratmen Unveil New Banner

Delta Pi Epsilon, the business fraternity, unveiled its new fraternity banner and discussed a new fraternity pin at the meeting of the group last Tuesday.

The banner, reportedly first of it kind to be acquired by a campus fraternity, received the approval of the members. Made of nylon, the banner is maroon with a gold border. In an arc across the top are the letters "DPE" in gold, above a gray and gold replica of the fraternity crest.

Discussion over the fraternity pins revolved around a discontent expressed by some of the members which resulted in setting up a committee to review the problems of purchasing and distribution.

DPE president Carlton D. Briggs presided over the meeting.

Fr. Lord Reviews Christ and Culture At Fourth Forum

Deploring the spiritual vacuum existing today in the hearts of men and stressing the universality of the Catholic Church, Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S. J., spoke on "Christ as the Center of Catholic Culture" at the fourth meeting of the current Villanova Forum series.

In spite of inclement weather an estimated 200 people were present in the C&F Auditorium last Thursday evening to hear the noted Jesuit author and lecturer.

REV. DANIEL A. LORD, S. J., addresses the fourth session of the current Villanova Forum inthe C&F auditorium last Tuesday. Father Lord spoke on the topic of "Christ as the Center of Catholic Culture."

Cause For Talk

Father Lord blamed the "spiritual vacuum" in the hearts of men today for the number of wealthy and intellectual Americans who were felled by Communism during the 1920's and 30's.

"This spiritual vacuum," he said, "must be filled by a return to Jesus Christ and His Church; for the body of man needs the goal of something spiritual and good as an ultimate end."

In treating the universality of the Church, the Jesuit identified Christian teaching and the Church with truth, a universal. In effect, he declared, the Church goes back to the time of Adam and Eve.

Fr. Lord concluded by stating that Christianity is the synthesis of all that is true, good and beautiful since the beginning of time.

Lynx Copy Sent To Printer; Distributed In 3 Weeks

Latest edition of LYNX, campus literary magazine, has been sent to the printer and is now in the process of being set in type. According to Circulation Manager Kevin McCrane the publication will be ready for distribution in less than three weeks.

In keeping with typographical advancements, a new body type will be used in this coming issue. The new type will not only give a richer appearance to the magazine, the editors promise, but it should minimize possible eye-strain and thus create a higher percentage of reader interest.

Original One Act Play

Another first for this issue of the LYNX will be the presentation of an original one act play. This drama by Bob Allen, entitled "Birds in Flight," is an appealing bit of action regarding one facet of life in modern Europe.

A wide assortment of short stories, biographies, poems, and essays fill out this publication, which will be made even more attractive by the art work of Bob Beers and his talented staff. Of especial interest will be an action-paced boxing story by Jim Gallagher which is certain to stir comment among those interested in the sporting world.

Belle Masquers In 'Silver Whistle'

IN DRESS REHEARSAL for tomorrow night's opening, Belle Masque players run through their final practice. "The Silver Whistle" will run for four nights with the final showing Sunday evening.

Dramatic Society Predicts 'Whistle' To Be Smash Hit

Belle Masque's Presentation Opening Tomorrow Evening

Both cast and company of "The Silver Whistle," the comedy appearing at the Field House tomorrow through Sunday, expect their play to be the biggest success the Belle Masque Society has ever presented.

They base their conclusion on the play's extensive publicity program, the promise of a large advance ticket-sale, and the enthusiastic student-response to the impending theatre-piece.

While the majority of Villanovans celebrated St. Patrick's week-end at home, the Belle Masque players reintensified their efforts. Starting last Friday, rehearsals have been held every night in a final attempt to polish the dramatic action and get the most out of the humor of the script.

8 p. m. Curtain Time

For this production, Belle Masque has put into effect a Broadway innovation—the 8 p. m. curtain-time. Stage-manager Don McCourt explained that, "Week-end theatre-goers usually plan some self-entertainment for after the show, and the earlier curtain lets them out with useful hours still before them."

The problem of finding a live rooster for the play has been solved by the College's private farm, located beyond

Council Minimizes Chow Line Cutting; Railings Proposed

A two-pronged attack on the species chow-line crasher is being leveled by the Student Council as a result of legislation proposed at the Council's meeting last Monday. Attempting to effect a solution of the cafeteria line situation will be:

(1) Leaflets urging resident students to refuse others cutting into line. Senior Engineering representative Bud Conklin was appointed to head the committee for designing and distributing the handouts.

New Rail

(2) Railing between the serving counter and the cafeteria entrance to minimize "cutting in." The Council went on record as suggesting this move to the Administration. Also proposed was using the two rear cafeteria doors as exits only, the sole entrance being from the Mendel

Ed. Roecker, M.C. At Seminary Show; Returns 3rd Time

Another nationally famous star of show business has been signed for the Augustinian Seminary Guild Show. Eddie Roecker, star of a television show originating in Philadelphia, is being called back for his third year as

EDDIE ROECKER
MC's Seminary Show

Master of Ceremonies for the annual show, according to Fr. John J. Coffey, O.S.A., Guild Director. The show is scheduled for the Field House Thursday evening, April 17.

Released recently in the "Villanovan" was the fact that Rosemary Clooney will head the list of talent for the annual variety. Rosemary will be donating her services to the show, which, in effect will be a donation of $1,200 to the Seminary Guild.

Third Year

In being called back for his third year Eddie Roecker is answering popular demand. When he first appeared here with Miss Jessica Dragonette in 1950, he won the same number of curtain calls as the lovely singing star. Last year Roecker lost no ground even though the star was the younger but at least as talented Rosemary Clooney.

Tom Green Lead Songman In T&T's 'John Smith, Esq.'

The Turf and Tinsel Society has completed some preliminary casting with Tom Green, Junior, football star, getting the role of the Indian Medicine Man in this year's production, "John Smith, Esq." Green was one of the outstanding singers in last year's show, "Pardon The Expression."

George Noake, the director, expects to make additional castings this week. In past weeks, the dancing choruses have been rehearsing diligently. They have completed two chorus numbers and are now working on a third.

"John Smith, Esq." is a reproduction, having been first given in the spring of 1948. It is being brought back now because of popular demand. The original book and music by Bob Whalen and choreography by George Noake are being used in this spring's show.

The dates for this year's production are the nights of April 23, 24, 25, and 26. As in the TNT shows of past years, the football squad will most likely put in an appearance in John Smith Esq. The business staff of the TNT still has room for new members. Interested parties can contact Jeff Rioux in the TNT office in the basement of the C&F building.

Don Straka will conduct the orchestra and direct the singing chorus in this year's production. John Smith, Esq. is a musical comedy based on the Captain John Smith and Pocahontas story. Strangely enough, though, the Indians speak "Brooklynese".

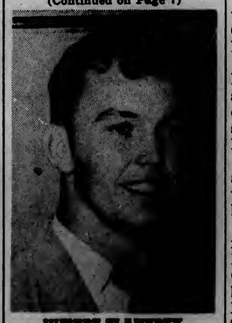
Plans Announced For Mother's Day

The unfolding of Villanova's Junior Week will take place May 5 when Mother's Day will be celebrated on the College campus. One of the oldest traditions of Junior Week, Mother's Day is the time when the "best girl" takes over the spotlight and becomes "Queen for a Day".

The day's schedule this year, according to chairman Hugh Flaherty, begins with a solemn high mass at 11:00 a. m. in the College Chapel for the mothers and sons. The celebrant of the mass will be Reverend Joseph W. Kemme, the Junior Class moderator.



Traditional Day

Activities will continue in the traditional pattern with the annual tree planting at 12:30 p. m. and a luncheon at 1:00 p. m. in the dining hall. After lunch, the program will turn to the lighter side of college life when the mothers will be entertained at the Field House. Plans for the entertainment are now in the final stage, and according to Flaherty surprises are in store for both mothers and sons.

Again touching on a fitting religious note, the day's official program will conclude with Benediction in the College Chapel at 4:45 p. m.

A popular innovation was inaugurated last year and will be continued this year in the

Two June Grads Get Assistantships

The early appointments of two seniors as graduate assistants to the Chemistry schools of the University of Pennsylvania and Cornell University was announced last week by Professor G. N. Quam, Villanova Chemistry Department head.

Both John Brodnyan and Richard Ferren received their appointments during the week of March 3, indicating their superior qualifications, said Professor Quam.

Brodnyan received a graduate assistantship to Cornell, with Ferren receiving a similar appointment to Penn.

In another statement, Professor Quam reported that Dr. Alexander Gero of the Chemistry staff delivered a lecture to the Journal Club of Bryn Mawr College entitled "Electron Structure of Chloral" last Friday evening.

Our Defense

All the Senator McCarthy's aren't sounding off in Washington.

The Villanova campus, by analogy, has a few also. Though these lesser local figures do not effect any nation-wide ire by their slurs and airbound accusations, and do not rate comment in the national press, they have irked one facet of the fourth estate, this newspaper.

Just as the man from Wisconsin uses the immunity of the Senate floor to hurl his charges, his local disciples-in-method are using the equally immune platform of the classroom rostrum. You've probably been forced to endure during class hours some of the tirades against this paper by a few members of the faculty, misdirecting remarks at your class instead of at the editors of this paper.

We know such destructive criticism is going on not, however, from any direct complaints by the vociferous professors, but from reports of students like yourself who give us the word that "Doc so-and-so was at it again today."

May we offer defense against our unseen advisors.

To begin at the source, we submit the truism that the only human being who doesn't make mistakes is the one who doesn't do anything. Anything constructive, that is, for we haven't met a person yet who will justify anyone who merely "tears down."

And no matter what conclusions follow from our pedantic critics' statements, the staff of this paper is composed of human beings. Though this may be a low blow, we are also human beings subject to the training of these same critics.

In addition, we firmly adhere to another trusty old principle that whatever is worth doing at all is worth doing well—at least to the best of our limited abilities. And without breaking the editorial arm, we feel justified in giving the staff a pat on the back for accomplishing at least that, and producing a weekly paper that is, notwithstanding mistakes, a credit to ourselves, to Villanova, and to the professors from whom we learn.

Though sincerity is weak justification for error, we are proud to say that this paper makes a sincere effort to do its best.

On the other side of the fence, the few professors who have such derogatory remarks to make are leaving themselves wide open for our constructive criticism.

In the first place, there is no mention in the syllabuses of the various religion, English and history courses of "Villanovan criticism" being a part of the curriculum. And who could justify injecting it even as a sidelight to make the course "well-rounded?" Our words of advice, "Stick to your teaching, doctor, until you have something worth while saying."

Any small mind can give bad example by destructively criticising, by "tearing down." But such actions are hardly to be expected, or even tolerated, from gentlemen devoted to building sound minds on sound principles. Hardly would these men waste precious class hours with smug and single-tracked thinking.

By this editorial we are not acknowledging any purposeful error in the apparently controversial "O'Hara" headline of last week. To our amateur journalistic knowledge the usage is proper.

Nor are we even insinuating that the majority of the faculty are the object of this scorn. On the contrary, we thank the many members of the faculty who cooperate with us beyond ordinary necessity in the production of this paper every week. Their encouragement and interest is in many ways inspirational.

But to the few to the individuals who have yet to approach us personally with their comments, given us a chance for defense—a final word,

"A place for everything, Doctor."

Letters

Council Replies to Charge

Mr. Mason
Mr. Byrne
Mr. Trainor
Dear Sirs:

In answer to your letter of protest in the last edition of the "Villanovan," we respectfully submit this rebuttal, on a point for point basis of your letter.

(1). There has been no discussion of student apathy toward the Student Council at any Council meeting. Only in this paper has there been a criticism expressed, and it was not a Council sponsored protest.

(2). There have been no complaints in the Council of the non-attendance of students, only statements that they are welcome.

(3). No issue is, or has been, or will be, considered taboo on the Council floor. Issues of varying importance all have their place in Council meetings. The Student Council is not unwilling to discuss any issue, and no issue that has been passed has remained unacted upon.

(4). The quality of the food in the cafeteria is not within the realm of Council power. However, the Council does have the power to register a protest or to submit suggestions of improvement. Such has been done repeatedly.

The chow line situation has been a point of discussion on numerous ocassions. Many solutions have been offered, but have met with failure through a lack of student cooperation. However, at the present time a new program is under consideration, which it is hoped will alleviate the condition.

(5). The scope of interest of Villanova's Student Council is one of the widest imaginable. Nothing of concern to any student is not the concern of the Council. A review of the minutes of past meetings, which are open to the student body, will prove that every and any student problem is a Council problem.

The Council welcomes any well-founded criticism. It is through student support and the awareness on the part of Villanovans of their Council, that a better one will result. As an organization of students for students, its primary purpose is to serve the student body. Again, there is no issue too large, and none too small for council consideration. Any student is welcome to voice any opinion at any council meeting, or to have his representative speak for him. He is urged to do so. With a continued increase of student interest, Villanova's Student Council will better serve the student body.

Sincerely,
Thomas L. Delaney
President of Student Council

What Motive

MAN'S INSPIRATION BASED ON GREED

By Jim Mason

According to Catholic doctrine, man's nature was corrupted by original sin, and he was inclined toward evil. Throughout history, societies have faced the problem of restricting man's freedom so that this inclination toward evil will not be detrimental to others. The danger of such restriction lies in the facility with which it may be carried to excess, so that man's individual dignity is destroyed.

Profit Motive

To a greater or lesser extent, the profit motive has always been utilized as a partial solution to the problem. Man's tendency toward avarice is largely neutralized by the requirement that he contribute something to society in return for his reward. Thus man's inclination toward evil is channelled into a direction whence good will evolve.

Neo-pagans do not agree with the Catholic teaching on man's fallen nature, and believe that, through proper training, man can be taught to the general good without any compromise being made with his tendency toward greed.

Abolish Profit

They believe that man, when enlightened, will work for the benefit of the community, or out of love for his fellow men. They would abolish the profit motive as an incentive for production and contribution to the common good, and they would substitute a planned economy in which each individual did his part for the sake of making the whole a success.

Many men, of course, have been inspired by nobler motive than personal profit, and whole monastic communities work together in the common interest. Countless private individuals devote their lives to the disinterested good of mankind. In all these cases, however, the individual has voluntarily relinquished personal gain by an act of self-dedication. This is a very different thing from the proposal to compel men to labor for each other's benefit.

Yet To Succeed

The latter has never succeeded in practice, for man's free will resists all attempts to forcibly thrust virtuous motives on him. The Russian Socialists have had to fall back upon the incentive of personal gain after many years of brutal attempts to make men work for the good of the commonwealth.

Greed Motive

It is certainly regrettable that men are frequently motivated by greed, as it is regrettable that they sometimes physically attack other men. In the latter case we recognize the existence of the situation and provided a police force. In the former case the capitalist system acts in the same fashion.

What the Socialists would do is to deny that man has such tendencies; they would go on the assumption that all men can be made perfect, and when they discover how wrong they are, they are forced to resort to tyranny.

Rain, Rain, Rain

Monsoon Season Has Arrived; Campus Quicksand Pits Busy

By Joe Mascuch

If someone corners you in a dark alley and whisper, "Hey bud, wanta buy a raincoat?" buy it—

It is just about time to take down the snow fences and put up the dikes. Villanova may be an inch or two below sea level in the near future. As much as I hate to make the observation, the Monsoon Season is due.

Last Thursday as I was making my way up stream toward the Pie Shoppe, I recognized the omens. I could hear the squishing of little feet.

These Monsoons are the strangest things I've ever seen. They strike the campus every fifty minutes. As soon as the bell to end classes rings, the rain begins to fall and the wind begins to blow. Ten minutes later all is calm.

Dangerous Life

The life of the student becomes extremely dangerous. The average Villanova has a tough time keeping his head above water, or being stuck in the mud. The field of quicksand beween Commerce and Finance building and Belle Air Hall drags down a few future businessmen. Every now and then we loose a student or two on Mendel Field. The usually land-locked N.R.O.T.C. boys really go wild rowing from C.J.B. to the Library on Tuesday afternoon.

A friend of mine, who is an expert on European mud, claims that we have the greatest he has ever seen. It is outstanding in its sticktoitiveness. All summer long you can scrape it off your pants cuffs and shoes. It looks good in the room too. It adds class to the floor.

I'm praying that this season will be one of the milder ones. Three years ago, barracks three almost blew away. It was an act of providence that it had sunk into the soil.

I know not what course others may take, but as for me . . . I'm going to buy a few good books, a used coffee pot and some dog biscuits. With these provisions, I'll sit the whole thing out in 209 Fedigan.

Judges For Queen Contest To Be Announced In Week

Three prominent personalities of the showworld are expected to be named as Judges in the "Queen of Junior Week" contest sometime during the next few days. The Queen Contest committee reported last week that they had tentatively arranged for a trio to select the lovely lady who will reign over the Junior Week festivities, along with her Lady-in-Waiting, and her court.

It is impossible to release the names of the judges at this time because definite arrangements have not been completed, though the committee is confident that announcement of the names will be possible next week.

Entries Continue

Pictures continue to pour in on the committee and two of the lovely ladies are seen in this issue of the "Villanovan."

John Famigletti, a dayhop electrical engineering student, will escort Miss Dolores Seng to the Prom. Dolores, who is a blue-eyed native of Philadelphia, is a secretary for the Pennsylvania Lumberman's Mutual Insurance Company of Philadelphia.

Miss Doris Miller, the other entrant pictured this week, is the girl that Phil Avila will take to the Prom. Phil's hopeful, like Miss Seng, is a native of Philadelphia and is also employed as a secretary in the City of Brotherly Love.

Judging Method

The contest committee also released the method of judging the entrants that will be used in the contest.. Each judge will select his choice for "Queen" and "Lady-in-Waiting" and the will be given a rating of one, two respectively; the other beauties will be ranked in order after these. The girl rated most highly by the judges on the three ballots composite will be Queen, the runner-up will be Lady-in-Waiting and the next four will make up the Court.

Entries will continue to be accepted in the envelope for that purpose in the "Villanovan" office, and by Jim Glavin, in Room 310, Alumni Hall, until the contest deadline is reached, Thursday, April 24. Contest rules will be found printed on the bulletin board in the "Villanovan" office.

Student Guinea Pigs Aid Blood Research

By Gene Dolan

Students of Villanova have probably wondered exactly what was involved in those blood experiments that the Bryn Mawr Hospital has been conducting in recent years. Signs appearing on the Mendel bulletin boards offering $75 for students to take part in them have both been lucrative and forbidding.

The student in need of money wonders if this would not indeed be an easy way to earn some extra money, but at the same time he wonders why the prices comes so high. Is it dangerous? If not, why do they offer five times the price for a pint of blood? It is hoped that this article will answer some of the questions in the minds of the students.

Sponsored By Army

The experiments are being conducted by the John S. Sharpe Research Foundation of the Bryn Mawr Hospital under the direction of Max M. Strumia, M.D., Dr.Sc. During the past war they were sponsored by the National Research Council and since 1948 both the Army Research and Development Board and the Hematology Division of the National Institutes of Health.

These experimeints, started in 1938, have been striving to obtain longer survival of the transfused blood in the recipient. In volunteers a pint of blood is removed and replaced by a pint of blood undergoing treatment and blood counts run at weekly intervals to determine the rate at which the transfused blood cells die. This is the reason donors with "A" type blood are used since the experimental blood is of the "O" type.

Small Risk

The risk to the "guinea pig" is negligible since his own blood is constantly undergoing degeneration. When one is injured the rate of blood degeneration after transfusion is no slower. The lack of ill effects may testify to the more than 100 Villanovans who have already participated in the experiment, ond some of them more than once.

At this writing the experiments have shown that by reducing the amount of dextrose and by lowering the temperature of preservation and con-

TO CONTINUE: Apparently, the editor of this tabloid prefers the serial type article. . . . Little old Jimmy stays at the shookery a bit too long on press night methinks. . . . When the Gallagher wants to edit an article he just cuts the sentence at a comma and adds a period, hence, the abrupt ending to the deathless prose of last edition.

CAMPUS CAPERS: The artist who added a very tense notation to the Navy poster designed to give everyone a big shot of blue and gold for the fly boys of the carriers. . . . The river represented in the poster was named MIG ALLEY. . . . Latest news of the central heating plant is that a vital part is missing. . . . It must be a shovel. . . . The coal arrived the other day. . . . When laying all that new asphalt during the fall semester, we often wonder why that No Man's Land between C&F and Belle Air Hall was overlooked. . . . If the stewdents aren't supposed to cross there at anytime, then let's have more than ten minutes between classes.

Omar Is Coming . . . Omar Is Coming . . . Omar Is Coming

EARLY RISERS: To those questioning individuals who were dismayed last ayam when they arose at 5:30 to go to the early Mass did not see the little red-ridinghood, may we say that she is now attending the 7:30. . . . In passing, we are not working in connection with the chaplain's office in an attempt to get more of you to Mass. . . . But she is cute!

PAUL ARIZIN NIGHT: After hearing the Villanova band play for the arena festivities, we wonder if the boys have ever been introduced. . . . The topper of the evening was uncorked when the announcer asked that the little boy bring out the flowers. . . . At this point, in the presentation, James Gallagher, Editor-in-Chief, ran onto the court waving two bouquets of posies. . . . He wouldn't have made too much of a spectacle doing a single but then Gene Ruane had to follow him with a watering can.

AUCTION: If anyone is interested in the pasteboards, there are several decks of playing cards going on the block at a sheriff's sale in the very near future. . . . Keep you eyes peeled for this outstanding sale.

THE SILVER WHISTLE: The publicity dept. of the Belle Masque has finally hit the apex of its long and notable career. . . . They are displaying the fotos of the feminine interests in their most recent press releases. . . . Last week's portrait of a Rosemont lovely will verify this information. . . . However, we can't understand why they deviated from this idea in this edition. . . . The other one was really something to crow about.

STUDENT COUNCILING: The Council has come through with a new idea in the hope that it will eliminate the line cutting at the chow-hall door. . . . They want to add a rail which will extend to the door. . . . Many suggest a wall, since a rail will still allow the long-legged peons to hurle it, and the short-limbed lackeys to stoop under it. . . . The normally built men, of which there are few, will be the only persons hindered by a rail. . . . And how about the little truck driver who resembles a prominent engineering prof.—Where will he drive his little dish 'n saucer panel?

German Club's Joint Social Hosts Hill Tonight In Lounge

A three-pronged evening of entertainment will be presented by the German Club tonight with 50 girls of the Chestnut Hill College German Club as guests.

Highlight of the evening to be held in the Austin Lounge, will be a presentation of "The Barber of Villanova", a comedy guranteed to make Rossinni think twice before ever attempting another opera.

The skit will feature Ray Satori as the Count, Bob Calabrese as Rossina, George Ferguson as Dr. Malvolio, and Tom McNichol as the illustrious Faust.

Number two spot on the evening's agenda will see the German Club's quartet making its debut. Combining harmony with hilarity, the group will present a number of arrangments in German.

Topping off the night's entainment will be an informal dance and serving of refreshments.

Rev. William Lunney, O.S.A., moderator of the club, has announced that the program will be open to any interested students. An admission charge of 75 cents has been set for non-members.

Eco. Prof. Speaks On "Labor Day" At IRC Meeting

"Today's Labor Problems" was the address delivered by Mr. Walter Klein, economics instructor at Villanova, to members of the Industrial Relations Commission at its meeting last Wednesday evening.

Said Mr. Klein, "The complex labor problems have been caused by the adjustment of the nation from an agricultural to an industrial country in the last two generations. Today we are not a nation of farmers or shopkeepers but a state of wage and salary earners."

Problem of Recognition

Among the major problems now facing management, according to Mr. Klein, are securing recognition from unions, and taking what they consider management prerogatives from negotiations with labor. "The nation's big problems, concerning the labor-management questions, are monopolistic wage determinations and strikes which disrupt the general welfare."

Citing the background for the present labor-management situation, Mr. Klein informed the group of some of the current legislation pertinent to the subject.

Louis Lamanna, Industrial Relations Commission president, reported that the next speaker in the series "War in Industry," will be announced shortly.

Absent at last Monday's meeting were: Joe Till, Senior Education; Jim Moser, Junior; Paul Sollami, Junior Class President; Joe Kenny, Soph President; Tony Tranelli, DPE; Ed Brunner, Glee Club; and Jerry Guarch, Belle Masque. the Field House parking lot. Most of its roosters have been recently slaughtered, but there remains five or six to choose from. To ferret out a shy bird—one not given to nighttime-crowing or to scene stealing—persists as the number one project of the properties department.

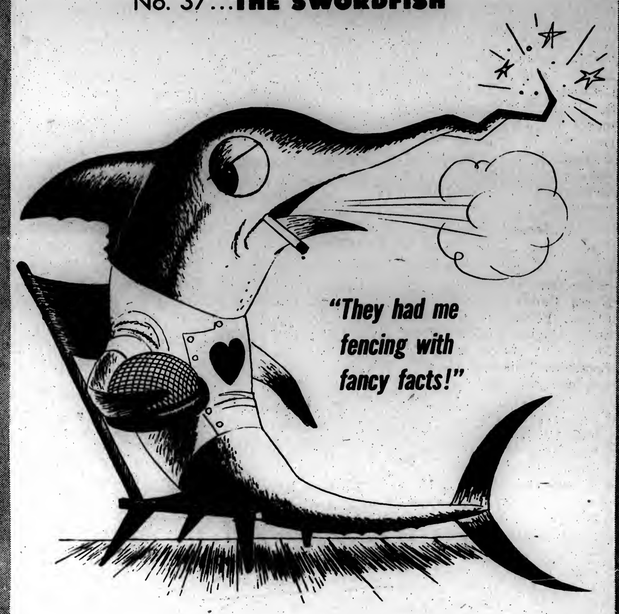
Real Life Atmosphere

One further fact of interest has arisen concerning the "Whistle" set. Final appraisal has shown the building-walls to be of larger scale. than those of an actual home. The customary height of a two story house — measured in terms of window height—approximates 16 feet.

On one side of the Field House stage, the first floor wall-windows stand ten feet above the boards, second floor windows, eight feet higher—18 feet in all or two feet higher than the ordinary home. Such proportions can convey to the audience a sustained impression of real life atmosphere.

Pix Of Ireland In Library

The spirit of St. Patrick's Day is caught in the book of Adolf Morath entitled Portrait of Ireland, now on display in the College Library.



The work of a German photographer, the book contains 170 pictures of the Irish people and Eire's countryside. The work is a result of a desire of this eminent photographer to catch the spirit of the Irish way of life which had impressed him so much on a visit to Eire.

He has managed to capture this spirit and the book will be of genuine interest to all those interested in photography or Ireland or both.

Lochmueller Makes Team for 3rd Year; 4 New Men Appear

By Tom Egan

The close of another basketball season brings with it the usual clamor and debate concerning the selction of the various "all" teams throughout the country. The Villanova Wildcats got into the act last week with the announcement of their 1951-52 All-Opponent team.

The starting five consists of Bob Lochmueller, Louisville; Jim Tucker, Duquesne; Walter Dukes, Seton Hall; Maurice Stokes, St. Francis College, Pa.; and Ray Steiner, St. Louis. This team has tremendous height, averaging close to 6 feet 6 inches, and is a speedy, high scoring quintet with terrific backboard strength. Each of these was a unanimous choice.

Second Team

Rounding out the ten-man squad are such outstanding ballplayers as Bob Speight, North Carolina State; Fred Christ, Fordham; Jim Kennedy, Duquesne; Bob Koch, St. Louis; and Bob Brown, Louisville. This is also a very tall team and helps bring out one of the season-long problems of the Main Liners—that is, the inability to cope with the good big man.

First Team
Bob Lochmueller	Louisville
Jim Tucker	Duquesne
Walter Dukes	Seton Hall
Maurice Stokes	St. Francis, Pa.
Ray Steiner	St. Louis

Second Team
Bob Speight	N. C. State
Fred Christ	Fordham
Jim Kennedy	Duquesne
Bob Koch	St. Louis
Bob Brown	Louisville

National Invitation Tournament teams, Louisville, Duquesne, and St. Louis, each have two representatives in the lineup.

Lochmueller, 6'5" Louisville forward, made the team for the third straight season on the basis of his 26 and 30 points in the two games this year. It was his deadly one hander and brilliant backboard play, which paced the rout at Louisville and almost pulled the game at the Palestra out of the fire for the Cardinals.

Tucker Troublesome

Tucker, 6'7" sophomore center for Duquesne, tossed in 29 points at the Palestra in a vain attempt to save the Dukes from their only defeat of the season. His fine assortment of shots make him a tough man to guard.

Dukes, 6'11" Seton Hall All-American center, was just that in the two games against the Wildcats. The Seton Hall press releases, featuring "bigger and better Walter Dukes", certainly were not unfounded. This is the second time that the giant has appeared in the All-Opponent lineup.

Stokes, 6'5" freshman center from St. Francis of Loretto, Pa.; played the greatest all-around game of any performer this season at the Palestra, as he scored 28 points and grabbed 32 rebounds in the Franks' near upset of the Wildcats.

Sugar Bowl Foe

Ray Steiner, the "little man" on the team at 6'1", was one of the main reasons why the Wildcats were eliminated from the Sugar Bowl Tournament at New Orleans. His set shooting and driving shattered the Villanova defense and paved the way for a St. Louis triumph.

Speight earned his selection with 55 points in two games. Christ was the cool man in the Fordham upset. Kennedy's 28 points on 13 for 17 in the game at Pittsburgh was reason enough for his choice. Koch's pivot play was instrumental in the Sugar Bowl defeat. Brown tallied 33 points in two games.

ANDY GORDON COACHING AT ST. JOSEPH'S PREP

Andy Gordon, quarterback on the 1948 football team, was appointed head football coach at St. Joseph's Prep, in Philadelphia.

Gordon quarterbacked the Villanova eleven that beat Nevada in the '48 Harbor Bowl, 27-7. Upon graduation Andy played in the Canadian League.

During his playing career, Jordan Olivar referred to him one of the best T-formation quarterbacks in the nation.

Coach Mahan Pleased With Fine Prospects This Year

By Harry Anger

Coach Art Mahan seemed quite happy about the baseball situation this week as the practice sessions opened for the baseball Wildcats. The weather is rapidly improving, and there are many excellent prospects in "camp"

This year's club should have more speed and better hitting than last year's squad. At this time the only apparent need is experience.

The team is very deep in infielders; there will be a battle at every position in the inner defense. Senior Wally Houck is back for his final season at first, but he'll have plenty of competition from another veteran, Reds Coletta.

Fight For Second

Over at second another fight is ensuing as sophomore Dick Shannon tries to wrestle the full-time job from Don Blaha. Don did a fine job last year both in the field and at bat, but he'll really have to hustle to keep off the talented Mr. Shannon.

Perhaps two of the best ballplayers will battle for the key position at short. Bobby Maurer, the regular from last year will be hard pushed by Ralph Cecere. Cecere is a fine hitter, but Maurer does okay with the wood and he is one of the slickest fielders around today. We'll take a guess right now and say that both of them will be in the lineup on opening day. Of course now no one can say where, but either one is too valuable to sit on the bench.

At third base Bobby Ricciani, up from the freshman team has the inside track, but Jack Helm another football player could see a lot of action.

Question In Right

Mahan's biggest headache right now is the catching. Ken Lowe, who was Jack Jamison's replacement last year, is the only catcher listed on the roster at the present. Ken is a capable receiver, but an injury to him would leave the team without any catching.

Jack Watson is ready to assume the job as the pitching staff's number one chucker, but he is the only hurler with experience. Soph Don "Lefty" Summers is a fine prospect and Mahan feels he will come around as the number two starter. Lefthander Ed Swayze and righties Jim White and Bob Schaeffer round out the moundsmen.

Wildcats Complete 32nd Cage Season; Two Seniors Retire

By Carl Valenti

Today, the last day of Winter finds us all eagerly looking forward to baseball, Easter, and the coming Spring social season. But before we plunge headlong into these fancies, let us pause for a moment or two say a few words about the past basketball season.

The closing of the 1951-52 basketball campaign marks the end of an era; Tom Brennan and Ben Stewart are the last members of the Villanova teams which Paul Arizin dominated. They were the link between the past and present; between the eras of Arizin and Larry Hennessey, the only 1000-point men in Villanova's history.

This has been the 32nd year of intercollegiate basketball competition for the Wildcats. Al Severance has coached them for exactly half that time—16 years.

Al Calls It

When the season opened last December, everybody but Coach Severance was optimistic over the team.

"I guess I should feel the same way everybody else does about our club," Severance said in an interview with Bob Vetrone of the Philadelphia Bulletin, "But I'm afraid that our boys are just a little too self-satisfied to please me."

Looking back now, it seems the "Berwyn Squire" knew his team better than any of

Stewart Recipient Of MVP Award at 2nd Hoop Banquet

Ben Stewart, retiring senior from York, Pennsylvania, was the recipient of the second annual Most Valuable Player Award by the Villanova Club of South Jersey. The award was made at the club's second annual Basketball Banquet, last Monday night, at Kenney's Restaurant in Camden, New Jersey.

The presentation was made by Martin L. Gill, '32, president of the National Alumni Association.

Also receiving an award was Mike Saxe, Villanova's first basketball coach. Among those attending were Father McGuire, Coach Al Severance and Joseph P. DeLuca, President of the South Jersey Club. Thomas Finan, '36, was toastmaster.

Stewart was second in scoring this season, behind Larry Hennessey, with 303 points.

Track Schedule Released

By TED SHEEHAN, Sports Editor

Just when everything was starting to get back to normal and the severe case of hypertension that was acquired by Villanovan's track fans was showing signs of cure, the Athletic Office had to come along and ruin everything.

The disruptive act which the Field House crowd pulled was the release of the outdoor track schedule. Immediately the rail birds whipped out their calendars and came up with the amazing calculation (for a track fan, anyway) that the elapsed time between today and the season's first meet is thirty days. That's hardly enough time for the fans' full recovery.

As a quick glance to the preceeding page shows, the first meet of the outdoor outing is the annual Seton Hall Relays at Newark on April 19th and 20th. Following that is the tradition-bound Penn Relays.

Close on their heels is the first of two dual meets. New York University will be here on May 3rd and the team travels to New Jersey seven days later for the match with Seton Hall at South Orange.

The season closes with track and field's holy of holies—the outdoor IC4A's at Handall's Island.

Manhattan Out

The only change on '52 docket is that the Jaspers of Manhattan College fail to appear for a dual meet engagement. The move in dropping the two-time indoor collegiate champions is indeed a sagacious one.

When Pete Waters went to Manhattan over twenty years ago he started to build a dynasty in the sport that was to become awed by the East. His successor at Riverdale, Mr. George Eastment, has gone even further in building up the sport. Right now, the Jaspers are the strongest track school in the East (we dare say, the nation) and Villanova's meeting with the Jaspers would only produce embarassing results for the Wildcats. Last year, the Jaspers swamped Villanova, 101-38, at New York's Van Cortlandt Park. What might explain the loss was the complete swamping in the field events. Cummin Clancy won the discus and Ed Coughlin followed to save the little face that was possible.

Discontinuing the rivalry was a wise move.

Another factor which might help to keep the rail birds' pulse down to normal was the announcement that Roger Bannister, Great Britain's premier hope in the 1,500 meters at Helsinki this summer, has turned down an offer to run in the Los Angeles Relays next month.

The reason given out by the muscular Oxford medical student is that he plans to conserve all his energies for the Olympics and he rather not take the chance of an injury in the United States.

Anyone who attended the University of Pennsylvania Relays last April cannot fail to recall the convincing way he handled America's best milers—Wilt and Gerhmann. He definitely made himself a serious contender for the 1500 title this summer.

Roger Won't Run

But this year, all they can get out of Roger and his trip to the States is, "I do not chose to run".

In the two dual meets that Villanova has this year, the Cats stand to split even. This is so if you take any heed to the Pre-season ratings that are composed for the various Eastern college teams.

The New York University Violets of coach Emil Von Elling were once the team that could give Manhattan a close battle for New York metropolitan honors but of late they have been content merely to get half as many tallies as the Jaspers do.

Old Emil still has a few tricks up his sleeve and two of them are Dick Maiocco and Larry Ellis. Dick is one of the best quarter milers around and Ellis a good two-miler. Last year, when the two teams met NYU emerged the victor by an 86 2/3 to 52 1/3 margin, in taking five out of sixteen first places.

The most notable thing about the meet was the first place finish by John Joe Barry in the double mile. This was the second week that he had won at that distance and was only seven days before he was to win the IC4A title.

"I run a wee bit better on the turf", he was heard to remark after that race.

Seton Hall Tough

Seton Hall is the other dual meet opponent and also another tough one. Coach Johnny Gibson has been known to go the ends of the earth for his material. He went down to "Down Under" and came back with Morris Currota, the Australian 400 meter champ. Besides Morris he had a number of Jamaicans in his fold in the past few years.

Andy Stanfield has finally graduated, which is more than we can say for Charley Slade, but the Pirates still must be contended with. They have Bob Carter and a track mile relay team to give them added power. The meet with them ought to prove interesting.

Bullets, Mets Win In First Rounds At I-M Tourney

By John Gilman

The I-M Basketball tournament started off with a Monday night doubleheader which saw two Barracks League teams dropped from the running. In spite of De Renzo's 17 points the Sophs, American League champs, had little difficulty in downing the Blue Eagles, 61-38.

It was a team effort for the Sophs as each of the first five scored between 9 and 12 points. The Bullets, paced by Bergen's 18 points, had a more difficult time, just edging the Jersey Jets 41-38. Loos of the Jets also had 18 points.

Nats Get Chance

On Tuesday it was the National League's turn to be shown up. Paced by a 16 point output by Hepburn, the Haunts set a tournament record in blasting the Royals, 69-39, although Dick Borkowsky of the losers was high man with 17.

The same day another National League team went down to defeat. This one was administered by the all-winning Mets as they outscored the T Squares, 67-54. Dan Fleming of the Mets led both teams with a tournament record of 26 points, while Kazmierczak topped the T Squares with 17.

Quinn High Man

The Alumni Cats brought to an unhappy end the I-M basketball careers of five seniors when they edged Mr. Power's Viz-Ed team 45-42. Mike Quinn's 22 points paced the Cats in a rough game which saw two of the Viz-Eds ejected. Vince Doyle led the losers with 18 points.

The Haunts tournament scoring record lasted only two days as the Zips had a field day at the expense of the Shamrocks. The Zips racked up 74 points to only 25 for the losers. Five men scored in double figures for the Zips with Adams setting the pace with 19.

In a game protested by the Doms, Jack Soley led the Alumni Pistons to a 45-40 win. Soley led all scorers with 17 points, while John Gillman had 13 and Tom Brydon 11 for the Doms.

TWO DEPARTING SENIORS, Ben Stewart (left) and Tom Brennan, rehash the season's games with Coach Al Severance. The two graduating Cats were mainstays during the past two years when the Main Liners rang up seasons records of 25-7, and 19-8, respectively.

Wildcats Complete

the enthusiasts. While not living up to all expectations, the Mainliners did give a respectable account of themselves. Nineteen victories against eight losses is a highly successful season in any man's league.

Sugar Bowl Tourney

The season began in fine style as the 'Cats put away their first five opponets without too much trouble. Then, in the Sugar Bowl tournament, a four-point loss to St. Louis was followed by a decisive victory over Brigham Young.

On the trip back north, the Mainliners stopped off at Louisville long enough to receive a 22 point cuffing. Still a little shaken they were upset by Fordham before regaining their composure to run off three more wins.

Seton Hall got lucky in the final minutes of their game to win and Duquesne got "lucky" in the initial minutes of their game and kept it up to hand Villanova its fifth loss.

Scranton was no problem but N. C. State sneaked off with a two-point edge. Two more favorable scores resulted before Seton Hall demonstrated what makes them so good on their home court.

Dukes Toppled

The Wildcats perked up again and took the measure of their next five opponents. Included in that streak was the thrilling upset of Duquesne which ended the year's longest winning streak for an unbeaten team.

The biggest disappointment of the campaign followed.

THANKS!

As a member of the committee to honor Paul Arizin on "Arizin night" last week I would like to take this opportunity to thank all the members of the student body who were kind enough to contribute towards a gift for this great Villanova athlete.

A $100.00 bond was purchased with the money collected and was presented to Paul by Tom Delaney, President of the Student Council.

My particular thanks go to Tom Delaney for his efforts in heading the drive for funds and to the Villanova band and its director, Jack Baker. The band was complimented by many in attendance and created the perfect atmosphere for this fitting occasion.

Navy Dance Features Lanin

The College NROTC unit will hold its annual Spring Formal on April 18, at the Broadwood Hotel with music provided by Howard Lanin and his orchestra.

Lanin and his music have been very popular in the Philadelphia-New York area in past years. He is known to be an outstanding m. c. as well as well as an excellent musician.

The dance is to be dedicated to the Seniors and, as an "added attraction," plans are underway for a special ceremony to honor those Midshipmen receiving commissions in June.

Miss NROTC Selection

As is customary at the Navy unit's Spring dances, Miss NROTC of Villanova will be chosen from among the dates of the Midshipmen present. The lucky lass then serves as color girl for the unit and presents the colors to the outstanding company of the year determined by intercompany competition. The presentation of colors usually takes place during the ceremonies on Armed Forces Day.

Spanish Club Dinner-Dance Is Scheduled For Late April

"Cervantes Night", the Spanish Club's annual dinner-dance, will be held this year during the last week of April, anncunced Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O.S.A., moderator, in a recent meeting of the Club.

The cultural and social event will be featured by an address from a prominent Spanish speaker. His name cannot be announced until confirmation is received from him, but Father said that the guest will be as prominent as was last year's speaker, Dr. Jose Sobrino, head of the Cultural Relations Department of the Spanish Embassy in Washington. Representatives from most of the Spanish-American countries will also attend, said Mather.

Prizes To Be Awarded

Frank Cauz, president of club, urged members to complete their literary efforts. To the writer of the best prose composition in Spanish about Cervantes will be given a medal and a diploma awarded by the Spanish Institute of Columbia University. A suitable prize will be given to the author of the best poetic work in English on Cervantes. The names of both winners will be published in the Spanish Cultural Index.

Only members of the Spanish Club are eligible for these prizes, and only members are invited to the dinner-dance.

As was the case last year, the affair will be held in the Norristown Elks Club, said the president.

After the meeting, committees were formed to make arrangements for the affair in honor of the greatest of Spanish novelists.

Oratorical Contest Trials Have Been Set For April 1

By George Godlewski

Mr. Joseph T. Jonas, M.A., Assistant Professor of English and moderator of the Beta Gamma Debating Society, has announced that trials

MR. JOSEPH T. JONAS
Debating Club Moderator

for the Journal American Oratorical Contest will be held on Tuesday, April 1, at 8:00 p. m. in the C&F auditorium.

The Journal American Oratorical Contest's theme this year is "Henry Clay". Mr. Jonas, therefore, requests that students who enter the trials on April 1 be prepared to give a five minute speech on some aspect of Henry Clay's life.

No Reference To Notes

The rules of the contest specify that the orations must be delivered without reference to notes and are not to be over six minutes in length. Contestants are permitted the widest latitude in their approach to the theme, but the speeches must be commemerative in nature.

Only one contestant will be accepted from each school. Defense Bonds will be given as prizes and an individual can earn more than $2000 in the local and national competitions. A large silver trophy will be presented to the winning college, to be permanently held on the third consecutive win.

Undergraduates Eligible

The competition is open to college undergraduates who will not have reached their twenty-sixth birthday on or before the date of the National Finals on May 14, 1952. A student must be entered by the school he attends and past national winners and immediate relatives of Hearst employes are ineligible.

Contestants will be judged on their interpretation of the subject, the content and message of their speech, effectiveness of delivery, and audience contact. The decision will be based mainly, however, on the single total effect of the speaker.

Mr. Jonas has expressed hope that many students will attend the tryouts on April 1. He asks that any men intending to try out give their names to him or Mr. Anthony J. Frayne, M.A., Assistant Professor of English, as soon as possible.

Debating Society Active

Meanwhile, the Beta Gamma Debating Society has been active. On February 25 the Beta Gammas beat Temple,

Paul Arizin Showered With Gifts

Delaney Gives Paul Students' Bond

It was "Arizin Night" at Philadelphia's Arena last Tuesday evening, when the Philadelphia Warriors played host to Boston's Celtics. In elaborate pre-game ceremonies, Paul Arizin, the Wildcats' "Greatest," was showered with gifts from civic, sporting, and Villanova organizations.

Tom Delaney, Student Council President, presented Paul with a $100 war bond on behalf of the college student body. In presenting Paul with the bond, Delaney lauded the former All-American as one who "represents everything Villanova."

The Villanova Club of Philadelphia presented the Warrior Ace with an elaborate silver set.

Other Gifts

Other gifts included two $500 war bonds, a $50 war bond, several radios, a set of golf clubs from his Warrior teammates, several suits of clothes, and many more.

PAUL ARIZIN, Villanova's great All-American, is presented with a $100 bond by Student Council President Tom Delaney, one of the many gifts he received during his big night at the Arena last Tuesday. The bond was the gift of the students of Villanova.

Philadelphia's City Council President, James Finnegan spoke briefly at the ceremonies on behalf of Mayor Joseph S. Clark. He termed Arizin as "the kind of athlete who is an inspiration to the youth of this country."

Buckets 27

In the game that followed the ceremonies, Boston edged out the Warriors 88-84, but could not stop Arizin on his night. Paul hit on a torrid 12 of 22 field shots, added three fouls for 27 points, and led in game in rebounds to boot.

The college band provided intermission music for "Paul's Night."

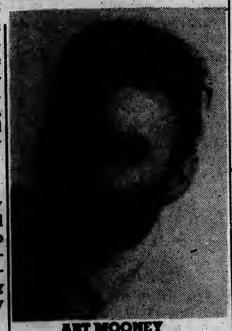
Juniors Contract Art Mooney Band

Art Mooney and his top-notch band will play at the Junior Prom, Friday evening, May 9. Don Brown, Prom Chairman, announced the contracting of Mooney late last week.

When Mooney brings his 15-piece orchestra to the Villanova Field House for the prom, it will be his second college prom in as many weeks. For on Friday evening, May 2, Mooney and his company will be the musicians at the Holy Cross Junior Prom.



On Miller Kick

In recent months Mooney has injected some of the old Glenn Miller trademarks into his music—the clarinet leading the sax section, the trumpets muted and thin, lending to dreamy dancing and easy listening.

Ironically, in his youth, Mooney jokingly substituted his name for Miller's on an advertisement. It could be that this youthful dream is on the road to present day reality.

Big-time Stands

The "name" hotels and theaters that have presented Art are too numerous to list in entirety. Among the better known are the Roxy Theater, the Paramount Theater, the Hotel Biltmore, and the Glen Island Casino, all in New York; Glenn McCarthy's fabulous Shamrock Hotel, in Houston, Texas; the Hotel Ben Franklin and the old "Click" restaurant, in Philadelphia.

ART MOONEY
At the Junior Prom

Mooney, popularly referred to as "that genial Irish Gentleman," started out in life as a linotype operator on the Detroit News. As a joke, Mooney often used to substitute his own name in place of that of a famous band leader

Doctor Conducts Final Conference

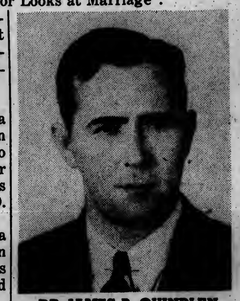
Dr. Quindlen Speaks Sunday At Last Pre-Cana Lecture

The current Pre-Cana Conference will be brought to a close this Sunday in the C & F auditorium at 3 p. m. when Dr. James P. Quindlen, M.D., addresses the conference on the topic of "A Catholic Doctor Looks at Marriage".

Dr. Quindlen, who is returning for the third straight year, is a lecturer at the Temple University School of Medicine.

Villanova Graduate

A graduate of Villanova College, receiving an A.B. in 1928 and a M.A. in 1929, also from Villanova, the speaker studied abroad for two years and then received his M.D. from Temple University.



At present he has set up a very successful practice in Philadelphia along with his lecturing in Obstetrics and Gynecology at Temple.

The third lecture of the series was presented last Sunday when Rev. Thomas J. Welsh, J.C.D., spoke on "Canon Law Concerning Marriage."

Third Year

With this, the final address of the 1952 series, the Pre-Cana Conference closes its third, and most successful year since its inauguration back in 1950.

Under the direction of Rev. Robert Regan, O.S.A., of the Villanova faculty, the series has been of incalculable value in supplementing the religion courses of the college curriculum in matters pertaining to the privileges, duties, and responsibilities of marriage.

Rev. J. M. Hurley Conducts Retreat In Holy Week

At 7:30 on the evening of Palm Sunday, April 6, the students of Villanova will commence their annual three-day retreat.

The Retreat will be conducted by the Rev. James M. Hurley, O.S.A., one of Villanova's outstanding alumni. Father Hurley will begin the retreat with a conference and Solemn Benediction, Sunday evening.

On Monday and Tuesday there will be Mass, conferences, and a Holy Hour each afternoon. In the evening there will be night prayers for the resident students. The retreat will close on Wednesday, with the Sacrifice of the Mass, a general Communion of Villanova men and the Papal Blessing.

Fr. Hurley is returning to Villanova after an absence of many years. A native New York and a product of that city's schools, Fr. Hurley served in the U. S. Navy during World War I. After leaving the navy, he enrolled at the Villanova Seminary and received his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1923. He was ordained here in 1926 by Dennis Cardinal Dougherty.

Easter Lynx Distributed Tomorrow; New Subscription Policy Initiated

The Easter issue of the Lynx, the literary magazine of Villanova, will be released on campus tomorrow afternoon, March 26. Single issues of the magazine may be purchased in the Pie Shoppe, and staff members wil be on hand at various hours throughout the remainder of the week to accept student subscriptions.

The former practice of offering subscriptions only at the beginning of the school year will be abandoned in favor of the more convenient policy of selling any four consecutive issues of the quarterly for the regular rate of one dollar.

Because of the limited number of magazines printed, students are urged to subscribe now, and thus assure themselves a copy of the next issue,

DPE MASS

Members of Delta Pi Epsilon, business school fraternity, will attend a memorial Mass tomorrow, Wednesday, at 12 noon in the College Chapel, requested by the fraternity for the soul of Richard Sigg, former DPE brother and member of the Class of '49 who was recently killed in Korea.

Editorials

Two Bells

There's a big high horse, figuratively speaking, in the middle of the editorial office, on which this paper climbs now and then to sneer at "the meager and spiritless efforts of some of the campus extra-curricular organizations." The remarks are as well-meaning as they are well-directed.

But this once we'd like to come down from the heights and direct comments in the opposite direction—offering congratulations to the Belle Masque for presenting last weekend proof that campus extra-curriculars are not so lifeless as a haughty view would perceive them.

These of you who witnessed a performance of "The Silver Whistle" saw for youself the very successful results of the work of a student group that is "different" only in so far as it has spirit and ambition. And those of you who may not have attended the show, take our word that you missed one of the most salient examples on campus this year of what well-guided and sincere student activity can accomplish.

It was not so much the on-stage acting that made Belle Masque's endeavor a success —although the acting was in the main on par with any collegiate theater group. But rather, the organization itself is to be credited, right from the stage hands and ticket sellers to the ingenious publicity men and hard-working members of the Krupa family.

In short, Belle Masque may have clanged the bells for the critics, but better than that, it rang the bells on our typewriters as a model of achievement for a campus organization. And some other student groups might well take a few lessons from "The Whistle."

'Nunc Agere'

Now that the yearbook is already off for publication, we can feel fairly free of any charges of plagiarism for using its theme in this paper. But the thought "do it now" so well applies right now that we're willing to take the risk.

Right now you see, is the better-than-halfway mark in Lent, the homestretch when it's time to catch the second wind, religiously speaking, and bring the Lenten sacrifices to their completed end.

And it's also time to make a second effort on the good resolutions we may have made and given up for lost a couple of weeks ago. Those early-morning sessions in church and the refused cigarette still count just as much now as they did at the beginning of Lent. Maybe the graces from them haven't accumulated so much since Ash Wednesday, but a little of that stuff is a whole lot better than none at all. And there's still time to get a little—now.

While on this tangent, there's another opportunity which ought to be taken now, or rather, next Sunday afternoon at the final session of the Pre-Cana lecture series.

Blood-Thick Thanks

Captain James R. McCormick
Villanova College
Villanova, Pa.

Dear Captain McCormick:

We want to extend our sincere appreciation and thanks to you, to Mr. Crist and your Rserve Corps, and to the students of Villanova College who gave so generously at the Red Cross Bloodmobile visit on Tuesday, March 4th.

It was one of the most successful and nicest visits we have ever had. The layout was perfect with ample space in which to work most effectively. The total number of pints taken was 200, which is a great deal more than is usually taken in a one day's visit. May we look forward to another visit at a time that will be suitable to you? We are certainly very happy about all this and do hope that you feel the same way.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Francis C. Watts
Executive Secretary

Editor's Note: According to our count the pint total was 206, but we're glad for the acknowledgements anyhow. We speak for the student body in extending the Red Cross an invitation for another Bloodmobile visit—soon.

Final Comment

The Editor
The Villanovan
Villanova College

Dear Sir:

We note with appreciation the comments made by Messrs. Delaney and Pirhalla, President and Secretary-Treasurer of the Student Council respectively, regarding our letter to the Villanovan two weeks ago. Concious that the student body is probably weary of the whole matter, we would still venture to offer one or two additional remarks.

The gentlemen mentioned apparently understood us to mean that the Council has complained about the attitude of the student body. After re-reading our letter, we have failed to find any such implication. As noted last week, such criticism has appeared in the editorial columns of the Villanovan, and it was to those columns that we referred.

We are gratified to learn of the deep interest of the Council in all student problems, and it reaffirms our faith in the high calibre of its membership. As a practical working matter, however, just what can the Council do? If "the quality of the food . . . is not within the realm of the Council's powers", just what is within that realm? Can the Council charter fraternities (as the word is commonly understood), clean up the Pie Shoppe, or change any college rule in the slightest degree? Council action on such matters would engender the "real measure of support from the student body" which we all hope will develop.

We would like to reiterate our appreciation of the fact that the Council has achieved notable success in many directions, and our gratitude for its labors. It is these past successes which lead us to hope that the future will see the Council acting in those matters which lead us to hope that the future will see the Council acting in those matters which hitherto have been bypassed.

Very Sincerely Yours,
James J. Mason
John H. Byrne
Philip A. Trainor

Editor's Note: This could go on forever. Granted that at least the editors, if not the students, are "weary of the whole matter," this paper does not see fit to devote space to carrying the controversy any further. It's been interesting while it lasted, but we're calling a truce. Suggest any additional remarks be voiced at the next Council meeting.

Modern Age Starved For Love Of God; Practicing Love Will Fill Gap

By Jim Griffin

Bishop Sheen is perhaps one of the most successful of the outstanding proponents of Catholicism today, and perhaps the reason for his success is indicated in the lines above.

For in this line is crystallized an idea which rates too little appreciation in this modern materialistic minded world of ours: That love is the indispensable, the key and cornerstone of a Christian life and a Christian society.

This is by no means a new or a novel idea. Since the days of Christ it has been voiced through the words of St. Paul and St. Augustine and their successors down to the present day.

But it is an idea which does not seem to thrive in the atmosphere of modern culture. This stems from its basic materialism, its industrial units-per-man-hour attitude, but it overflows into the attitudes of people towards other matters as well.

It results in a tendency to over-emphasize the phases of religion which appear more effective, which seem to be more in the result-getting sphere. Thus one finds Catholics who continually laud the better known preachers and teachers, and never even consider the contributions of the less obvious but equally important contemplatives. One finds students who judge the Catholicity of an atmosphere by the quality of its philosophy rather than its charity.

In allowing this overemphasis, our age is losing something, and it feels a hunger for just the type of thought which Bishop Sheen offers his listeners. Our age does not appreciate the importance of love in man's relationship to God; it cannot therefore prevent itself from swarming to one who emphasizes this essential element of man's spiritual life.

Perhaps the swing is beginning which will lead men back to God. Perhaps the age has been starved long enough for the charity which human nature demands.

And perhaps we can help the swing; by developing our own charity, by cultivating the love in our own hearts. The effects of such action on others may not be obvious, but we can be sure that they will be potent.

Rousing Roomate Gets Attention Merely By Living Weekends—(Only)

By Joe Mascuch

The Dixieland band played on before an intellectual audience of New Yorkers. In the back of the smoke filled room, some fool leaped high into the air, pulling out a handful of hair and kicking his feet. It was the big spender from the East, my room-mate.

There he was, suspended in space, embracing me. I would have pulled him down, but I couldn't let go of the bar. Another quiet weekend was beginning.

My room mate and his weekends are going to be the death of me. According to him, there are only three days in the week, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. (Only two days in Philadelphia). The rest of the time is night time; it is all for sleeping.

Some people would call my room mate a party boy. Other people haven't met him yet. He'll do anything to have a party. He had four birthdays last month, one each Saturday.

I don't mind my roomie's burning desire to be a social climber, as long as he keeps out of the trees. I just don't want to go along with him. He has an uncontrolable urge to attract attention. If I were getting ten percent, I wouldn't mind.

My room mate's taste in clothes proves my point. He perpetually looks as if he were going to a masquerade. I'm a conservative dresser myself. You know what I mean, pants, jacket and on special occasions, a tie. Alone, perhaps we can pass; together we clash.

Going to dinner with him is an experience in itself. We both enjoy eating out, but our tastes differ. He says that when he is eating a ten dollar steak, he is eating meat. When I am eating a ten dollar steak, I am chewing on two fives.

After dinner, we are out for a night on the town. When I feel like having a good time, I stroll slowly through the Astor. My room mate stops. They won't let you just stand around empty handed in that place, you know.

JUNIOR RING DELIVERY

Loren Murchison Co. has announced that rings ordered by Juniors in the C&F school will be ready sometime next week. Notices will be posted as to the time and date. Balance of the cost is due on delivery, preferably in check.

Due to circumstances beyond their control the rest of the rings will not be delivered until shortly after Easter. Another announcement will be made at that time.

PASHA THE PIT

VILLANOVA VARITIES: A few of the dignified and not so dignified seniors were partaking of their sumptuous turkey dinner last evening when they began to look around the confines of the chow hall in search of some of the new blood that has been decorating the campus for the last seven months but until then had somehow eluded their critical orbes. . . . They were looking at the various attire and hair-do's worn by the majority of the Frosh class . . . Apparently some of this illustrious group have been heavily influenced by pictures denoting the pegged-pants and dead-pan which have been shown in the local cinemas of late.

And some of the trousers the boys wear—Nine out of ten have to put their feet in cold water to allow for contraction before attempting to put them through the cuffs. . . . These baggy tweeds are usually adorned with a chain from the plug of a washbowl and shoed with opened-toed combat boots. . . . It's reaching a point to the extent of one not knowing whether he's in an immense poolroom or a movie set for THE GANGSTER'S RETURN.

CORNY CONTINENTAL: A letter from a disgusted housewife appeared in one of the local dailies comparing her seemingly "uncouth" husband with the suave TV character who calls himself the Continental. . . . The closest this Don Juan ever came to the continent was the time he entered New York City via the Staten Island ferry. . . . This poor women's husband would probably drink champagne from her slipper if he was assured of not getting "glued" after taking such a long drink. . . . In the old days, a husband was just compared to the man next door but now he has to take into consideration what channel he is putting on the TV tube. . . . It's a great life.

DELANEY DITTER: Since no problem is too great or too small for Student Council consideration, might we make the suggestion that orange juice be run through the drinking fountain adjacent to the President's office. . . . This will give the late risers an opportunity to acquire some nourishment without waiting in that extended breakfast line.

BULLETIN BADGERING: With the final presentation of THE SILVER WHISTLE the mystery of Omar is at an end. . . . Omar was the rooster in the very successful comedy producted by the Belle Masque. . . . The publicity dept. of this organization once again showed its ingeniousness when it placed an ad in the Evening Bulletin directly under the presentations featured at the Troc. . . . For a minute it appeared that this theatre was selling the whistles.

GOOD MORNING: Bill Greaney of Austin Hall had an unusual gesture extended him last Tuesday morning. . . . Stepping out of the hall just previous to his 8:30 class, William was greeted with an egg in the face. . . . Some one had playfully thrown it from a passing auto. . . . Ah, Ham 'n eggs, an old American institution.

KOREAN NOTES: We are in receipt of a letter from Steve Flinn '52 who informs us that he met Bill "Rollo" (Oscar Twomp) Brenninghouse in a local rice paddy. . . . Tom Flynn is also available for three-handed pinochle during the battle lulls.

Junior Queen Will Be Picked By Private Eye, Singer, Actor Of Video And Stage

Pictures Have Sudden Rush During Past Week

Ralph Bellamy, noted star of stage and television, Miss Jane Froman, one of the year's top songstresses, and Robert Alda, star of the Broadway hit "Guys And Dolls," will be the judges for the "Queen of Junior Week Contest."

The Queen Contest committee reported this week that these three top personalities of the show world have agreed to pick the girl to reign over

KAY CORNELIUS
Entry Number Six

Junior Week, and be crowned at the Junior Prom, May 9.

Bellamy TV Investigator

Mr. Bellamy is probably the best known "tough detective" of stage and video. The recent star of Sidney Kingsley's smash play, "Detective Story," which he portrayed the now famous Jim McLeod, Bellamy is currently best known for his television show, "Man Against Crime." In this venture he is described as—"Mike Barnett—spell it with two t's—a tough private eye who never carries a gun."

Mr. Bellamy's lead in "Detective Story" follows two other top New York roles. "Tomorrow the World," and "State of the Union" recently featured him.

Busy Tough Guy

A very busy man these days, what with his television and stage "tough dick" roles, Mr. Bellamy has nevertheless graciously consented to act as a judge in the contest.

Miss Froman, one of the most popular of current Broadway and Nightspot singers, has received the cheers of a sentimental populace for her courage in overcoming the effects of a plane crash, in which she was seriously injured. But, the public has not forgotten that Jane is a singer of importance—and that is the way she wants it, she says.

In recent months, Jane has appeared at New York's Copacabana, Chicago's Chez Paree, and has been heard over CBS on Coca-Cola's coast-to-coast radio show each Sunday.

Paper Girl to Canary

Miss Froman started out on a journalistic career at Christian College, and at the University of Missouri. But, she gradually swung over to her present vocation, and studied for it at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music.

Mr. Alda has had a meteoric rise. When he stepped onstage in "Guys and Dolls" on opening night, November 24, last, as gambler Sky Masterson, he was playing in his first Broadway show. Brief experience in Hollywood (he's currently in "Mr. Universe"), and six years of burlesque was all the preparation Alda had for his Broadway debut.

With Carson and Berle

He has appeared on television frequently in recent months, and has become practically a "steady guest" on the Milton Berle Show. Also, he has appeared with his film, pal, Jack Carson, on Carson's NBC stanza.

BELLAMY

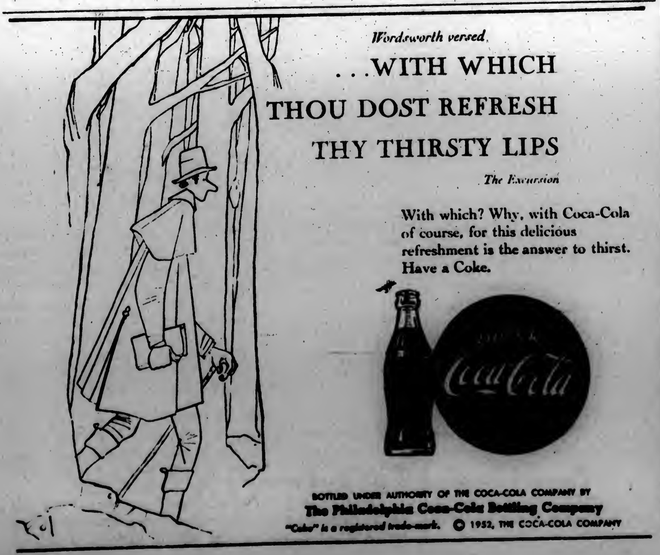
While the judges were being procured last week pictures of the girls they will judge had a sudden spurt in being submitted to the contest committee. Kay Cornelius is the entrant that is pictured this week. Diminuitive Kay (she's only 5') is a telephone operator for the Home Insurance Company in Philadelphia. Sam Glassmire will escort Kay to the Prom, and is confident his hazel-eyed beauty will appeal to Messrs. Bellamy and Alda, and Miss Froman.

Entries for the contest should be left in the "Villanovan" office, or given to Jim Glavin, Room 310, Alumni Hall, before April 24.

PLACEMENT

The following companies will interview seniors for jobs during the coming week at the Placement office, 102 Mendel. No interviews are scheduled for next Monday or Tuesday.

Tuesday, March 25
Atlantic Refining Co., Shell Oil.



Wednesday, March 26
Chance Vought Aircraft, IBM.

Thursday, Mach 27
Chance Vought Aircraft, Merck & Co., Inc.

Friday, March 28
Procter & Gamble.

Junior Prom Program

The Junior Prom Program Committee will have a representative in the Pie Shop Wednesday (tomorrow) from 12:30 p. m. to 3 p. m. for the convenience of Dayhops who wish to have their dates and themselves listed as "Patrons" on the prom program. $1. is the patron fee.—Those who can't make it tomorrow, should see Dick Conroy, program chairman, in 301 Alumni, as soon as possible.

'Whistle' Whets Record Audiences As Belle Masque's 'Funniest Show'

By James Rowen

Laughter rocked the Field House last weekend when record-breaking crowds saw what was perhaps the funniest show the Belle Masque has ever produced. Uniformly excellent performances rewarded the old and new friends of Villanova's dramatic society, and, if the affection and appreciation shown are any criteria, no question remains of the play's appeal.

"The Silver Whistle" under the direction of Rev. William Krupa, O.S.A., related the happy efforts of the not-always ethical vagabond, Oliver T. Erwenter, to revitalize the aged at St. John's home.

In the process, Erwenter, played splendidly by Tom Hayden, changed not only the lives of the patients, but everyone who came in contact with his carefree altruism.

Such was the case with Miss Tripp and Rev. Watson, who found themselves at final curtain with greater understanding of themselves and their charges, along with being affianced with the blessing of the Bishop.

Miss Joan Hessert, one of five talented Jest and Gesturers from Rosemont, was thoroughly charming as Miss Tripp and well-complemented by Bob Allen as the convinced protagonist of the world, Rev. Watson. Bernie Coyne made a short but impressive appearance as the Bishop.

As the elderly patients of the Home, Tony Della Rocca, Jean Ward, Ellie Purcell, Joan Therkauf, Mimi Heffernan and George Crist all gave hilarious and understanding interpretations to their parts.

The play itself seemed lethargic when the message of how these could live happily though old was more obviously being conveyed. However, this was merely a loss of high humor which both play and players more often had, rather than inadequacy on either part. In contrast with any heaviness, Della Rocca's superior Mr. Beebe returned the action to laughter.

Congratulations are due, finally, to the stage crew and designer, Rev. George Krupa, O.S.A., for a set comparable to the best we've seen in recent years.

Nationwide Honors Heaped On Hennessey; Weather Limits Outdoor Baseball Practice

Larry Is Selected On 7 Honor Teams, District II Squad

By Tom Egan

Just two seasons ago the name of Larry Hennessey was little known, except on the Villanova campus, where Larry was a high scoring forward on the previous year's undefeated freshman team. Today, after two years of varsity competition against top-flight opposition in which he tallied 1270 points (an average of better than 21 points per game), Larry Hennessey has gained the national fame which is reserved for outstanding athletes.

Evidence of this national recognition is shown by the long list of post season honors heaped upon the Villanova junior from New Rochelle, N. Y. He has been selected on the following "all" teams: All-American forward, Weekly Basketball Record; second team All-American, Colliers Magazine; third team All-American, Associated Press; Catholic College All-American, both the Brooklyn Tablet and the Catholic Light of Scranton, Pa.; All-Catholic All-American, poll of Catholic College coaches, conducted by "Bus" Sheary, Holy Cross coach; NCAA District 2 nomination by sportswriters and sportscasters, Look Magazine (Tim Cohane).

Remarkable Rise

All this is even more remarkable when you consider the fact that Hennessey was not figured upon as a starter two years ago because of his known defensive weaknesses and the uncertainty of his ability to score against major collegiate opposition. However, fate entered the picture in the form of an injury to one of the pre-season "regulars" and Hennessey was inserted into the starting lineup at the outset of the season. His prolific scoring soon made him a fixture on a team which was good enough to get several post season tournament invitations. He became the highest scoring sophomore in collegiate history with 703 points. His 306 field goals established a new season's standard for major colleges.

Added New Shots

Hennessey developed a jump shot to go along with his unerring set shot. This year, additional drive opened up new shot opportunities which were not available to Larry as a stationary sophomore and which made him even more of a scoring threat.

His 1270 points in two years is 616 points shy of the all time high for three year major college performers, currently held by Dick Groat of Duke University with 1886. The constantly improving Hennessey could surpass this mark with another great season. With a few tournament invitations next year, Larry could conceivably reach the almost unheard of total of 2000. Wow!!!

"THREE SWINGS AND OUT". Prospective diamond candidates sharpen their batting eyes in preparation for the first baseball contest at Rutgers, April 2. Home opener is with Princeton April 10.

Five Baseball Games On Tap Trackmen In Seton Hall Meet

Both the baseball and the outdoor track seasons will be well underway by the time the next copy of the "Villanovan" comes out. By April 22nd, five baseball games will have been played and the track season ushered in with the running of the Seton Hall Relays on April 18th and 19th.

Rutgers on the second of April begins Villanova's baseball season. Following that comes a three-game home stand against Princeton, Ithaca and Pennsylvania.

Ithaca New

Ithaca, from the reports available, is rated as one of the team's toughest opponents. It is the first meeting of the two schools. The Penn game on the sixteenth is the first of a home and home series with installment No. 2 closing out the season at Franklin Field on May 26th.

The Penn (1st) and the Loyola games last year were both one-sided affairs with Villanova getting the better deal in both. Johnny Watson performed noble whitewash jobs on both to the tune of 10-0 scores. He allowed only six hits in both of these games. The Loyola game this year is being played at Baltimore on April 19th.

Open At Newark

While the baseball team goes happily on its way, the track team will begin its season on the same day that the diamonders are in Baltimore. The Seton Hall Relays at Newark, New Jersey bring in this campaign. Right now it is too early to get the Villanova entries but a good guess might be Villanova's entrance in the distance medley relay.

The relay is composed of the quarter, half, one and two mile distances. With Jim Reardon at the quarter, Ray Wheiler at the half, Fred Dwyer in the mile and John Joe Barry in the two-mile, the team should prove to be the strongest entry.

In this same event last year Georgetown edged out the favored Villanova team as Charley Cappozolli beat Joe Barry by fifteen yards in the record-breaking time of 10:-6:1.

The schedule::

Apr. 2	Rutgers
	New Brunswick
5	Princeton	Home
12	Ithaca	Home
16	Penn	Home
19	Loyola	Baltimore
19	Seton Hall Relays	Newark

Wright Difficult To Replace Summer, McGuckin Good

By Harry Anger

Villanova's miserable weather so far this spring has kept the outdoor baseball activity at a minimum, so before the season gets in full swing we thought we would talk a little more about the players who will wear the Wildcat colors this spring.

A lot of the Villanova rooters seem to feel the loss of Red Wright was one that we couldn't hope to recover from during this season. Some who are following the fortunes of the Blue and White for the first time this season won't remember jovial Jim, but anyone who was around here for any time at all will tell he was one of the best all-around ballplayers of Art Mahan's reign. Red was sort of the "Billy Goodman" of the club. On the days he didn't pitch he could usually be found behind the plate or out in the outfield. He was one of those guys coaches love to have on their side.

New Talent

The Redhead isn't the type to be replaced by one guy but the big boss Art Mahan has come up with some young talent that will make their own mark during the short stay at Villanova.

In the pitching department Don Summer, a lefthander from Chicago, has already shown great promise. The soft-spoken, bespectacled kid has all the qualities of a big league pitcher. Lefty hasn't the blazing speed of a young Hal Newhauser, but he does have a world of stuff and his fast ball is the kind that will fool plenty of opposing batters during the season to come.

Talk Overheard

A couple of days ago we overheard some of the ballplayers talking. The subject of the conversation was the non-existant catching staff. Someone remarked, "What will we do if Kenny Lowe gets hurt?" The answer was, "let McGuckin catch, he can do everything else." In those few words that person had stated the qualifications of our new centerfielder.

Good-looking Chuck is the kind of player a coach can stick any where and he'll be outstanding. He is the type of athelete who came to play, and it makes no difference to him where he winds up.

Arizin Scores 1675 To Get MVP Award; Made 25.4 per Game

By George McCann

New honors were heaped upon Paul Arizin when the former Villanova All-American was named professsional basketball's "player of the year" by the Metropolitan Basketball Writer's Association.

The Warrior's sharpshooter led the National Basketball Association scorers this season with 1,675 points for an average of 25.4 per game.

Sam Davis Award

In his second year as a pro, Tall Paul dethroned George Mikan, the Mr. Basketball of the Minneapolis Lakers, as top scorer and also replaced Mikan as the recipient of the writer's award — the Sam Davis Memorial Trophy — which will be presented at the writers' annual dinner at Leone's Restaurant on March 30th. This is the third year that the trophy has been presented and Mikan has been the only previous winner.

High-Scores In '50

Arizin, although he did not play high school basketball, led Villanova to three highly successful seasons, and in his senior year he topped all major college scorers with 735 points.

In his junior year he set the all-time individual scoring record by amassing 85 points against the Philadelphia Naval base five. In that game he had 53 at the half.

As an appropriate award for his feats during his senior year he received the highest award that a basketball player could receive—selection by the Helm's Foundation as the leading basketball player of the nation.

The transition to the pro ranks presented little difficulty for Arizin and as a first year professional he finished sixth in the association standings with 1,121 points. This brough him "rookie of the year" honors in the NBA. As for a story of this year's feats —well, they can be found in the record books.

STARTING TIME

Starting time for all home baseball games this year at Villanova will be 3 P. M., Saturdays at 2:30 students are admitted free upon presentation of their Matriculation cards.

Tigers First Home Game

By TED SHEEHAN, Sports Editor

Although Villanova's 83rd baseball season opens on Wednesday, April 2nd, the average fan won't be afforded an opportunity to see the Mahan crew in action until the following Saturday—April 5th.

On that day, "Play Ball" will echo along with the cry of "Hold That Tiger" as the forces of Princeton University invade the campus to continue an ancient rivalry that goes back to the turn of the century. When the school was known in the papers as Villa Nova and the catcher was allowed to get the ball on the second bounce, this rivalry was in full bloom.

The publicity boys up at Nassau have been busy digging up facts and predictions about their 1952 team and some of them are a bit interesting.

From Holy Cross

Eddie Donovan, who cut quite a figure while an athlete at Holy Cross, has taken over the coaching assignment from Emerson Dickman and he finds himself in a rather odd situation. No matter how well he may be able to direct the fates of the Tiger nine he won't be able to top the retiring Dickman's mark.

Dickman, a former employee of the Red Sox chain, was at Princeton for three seasons. The following is his record: 1949 won Eastern Intercollegiate League championship; 1950, tied for Eastern League Championship; 1951, won Eastern League championship. That's not too bad a record is it?

His record qualifies him as the most successful baseball coach in Princeton's history. Donovan certainly finds himself in a most unenviable position. But there is one ray of hope in Worchester Eddie's plight. That is the pitching staff which he has inherited from the 1951 squad. So good is the pitching department that it has been hailed as "the best pitching staff in college".

Three hurlers—Ray Chirugi, Harry Brightman and Dave Sisler—comprise the triumvirate and all were standouts on last year's team which was the District 2 representatives in the NCAA tournament.

All-American Twirlers

Chirugi is the team captain and comes from Yonkers, New York. He had the lowest earned run average in the Eastern league last season and is renowned as a specialist in control and repertoire. Ray was named to the All-American college nine last year.

Brightman has a good fast ball and was beaten only once last season. The kid is pretty steady. Rounding out the top three is Dave Sisler. If the name is familar, it was his dad who was the great Saint Louis Brown star and a member of Baseball's Hall of Fame. Brother Dick collects his checks from the Cincinnati Reds. In addition to Dave's fast ball he is called on for pinch hit roles. It must run in the family.

Art Mahan can rest a little easily now. If he can get his boys to knock these three boys out of the box (sic!) when Villanova plays them the Cats trouble will be over. After the big three the talent is pretty weak. Bobby Unger, who toils in the Fall on Charley Caldwell's Single Wing is a possible fourth starter on the pitching staff.

Going to the infield there is Joe Golden and John Emery to fight it out for the first base. Emery and Sisler competed for Princeton in the NCAA Basketball tourney in Chicago last week so they should be in shape for the season.

A three-way fight looms at second with Hobey Kreitler, Red Reichert and Joe Carson. Kritler played in five games last season and then proceeded to break his ankle. Carson was a substitute on last years team and Reickert was a star of last season's frosh squad.

Jack Blessing is the standout at shortstop due to his valuable long-ball hitting qualities but Dick Savage may also get the final nod. Over at the hot corner, the situation is open wider than Reno, Nevada.

Transplanters

The outfield presents a picture of transplanted athletes. Two footballers and a hockey player are the three leading candidates for the picket line. Bill Tryon and Jack Newell are the footballers and Bill Gall is the frustrated goalie.

The catching position is also possessed by a hockey player—Ed Stimpson. Another possible candidate for that job is a boy from Albany, N. Y. by the name of Dewey. His father is an unsuccessful civil employee. A possible batterymate for young Tom is George Gallup, Jr. It seems George's father hasn't been too successful, either.

But it is with pitching that the Princeton team, which faces Villanova on the April 5th, will count on heavily. For example, last year the Tigers were involved in sixteen games that were decided by one run. They won twelve of the sixteen.

This game on the 5th should prove interesting. You ought to come out and give it a look.

Redmen Win Two; 4 Others Advance In I-M Tournament

By John Gillman

The Firehouse 5 moved into the quarter-finals with an easy 63-35 victory over the Hustlers. Paced by Germano's 20 points, four of the 5's took care of the whole 63 point total. Scully led the Hustlers with 12.

The Redmen, last Barracks League team in the Tournament, added one more to their undefeated string by edging the Ramcats 59-52. Joe Donnelly and Bob Bishop each had 15 for the winners.

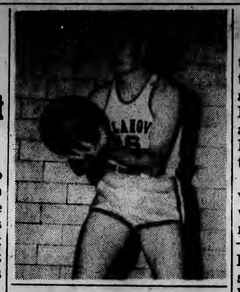
Another undefeated team also advanced when the Toppers, defending champs, blasted the Troopers 60-39. The Topper's scoring was led by Larry O'Hearn with 18 and Jude O'Donnell with 14.

In meeting the Haunts, the Mets had their toughest game of the season before edging the former, 49-47. Hepburn of the losers led all scorers with 15, while Mort Baum and Dan Fleming had 13 and 12 for the Mets.

Bombers Lose 1st

In spite of McCune's 20 points the Fedigan Bombers lost their first game of the season to the Cats, 37-30. The other five scorers for the Bombers each had 2 points, while Mike Quinn led the Cats with 12.

In a meeting of undefeated teams the Redmen scored an overtime victory over the Pistons 64-60. Donnelly's 22 points for the victors was high for the game while Jack Soley turned in his second straight 17 point performance for the Pistons.



The outstanding single game efforts in the individual scoring race have been by: Dan Fleming (Mets) — 26 against the T-Squares Mike Quinn (Cats)—22 against the Viz Eds and also with 22, Joe Donnelly, against the Zips.

Fleming Leads Scoring

In the total point column with each man having played two games, Dan Fleming (Mets) leads the way with 38, followed by Joe Donnelly (Redmen) — 37, Jack Soley (Pistons) — 34, Mike Quinn (Cats) — 32, Hepburn (Haunts) — 31, Frank Leary (Redmen)—28, George Downing (Pistons) — 26, Mort Baum (Mets)—26, Jack Kirshner (Haunts) and Joe Wyatt (Pistons)—23 apiece and Bob Bishop, (Redmen) and Ed McMahon (Mets)—22 each.

MOONEY WINS AWARD

Jim Mooney, Junior from Philadelphia, was the winner of the Most Valuable Player Trophy at the second annual basketball banquet of the South Jersey Club, held in Camden on March 17.

Information reaching the "Villanovan" from the basketball team at deadline time stated that Ben Stewart had won the award.

NROTC Outshoot Temple

Villanova's NROTC rifle team topped the Army ROTC team of Temple University in a 10-man shoulder match held March 15th on campus. With a score of 1375 to 1326, the Navy men proved themselves to be too much for Temple.

Frank Haskins of Villanova was high man for both teams with 281. Trunzo, also Villanova, was runner up with 277.

NROTC Destination: Bermuda

A few lucky college middies will be taking off soon for the sunny shores of Bermuda. A special Naval Reserve training cruise for NROTC Midshipmen will leave the Philadelphia Naval Yard Friday evening, April 4, for a nine day sojourn at sea.

The contingents from the four colleges participating—Penn State, Univ. of Pennsylvania, Princeton, and Villanova—will be taken aboard two PCE's (Patrol Craft, Escort). While aboard ship, the officer candidates will be integrated with the crew for practical training.

The two ships are scheduled to arrive in Bermuda the following Monday for a three day stay. The little fleet will leave Bermuda on Thursday and should arrive in Philadelphia sometime Easter morning.

Barry Hall's officers will be represented by the executive officer, Lt. Commdr. J. S. Alexander, and Lt. Commdr. R. J. Washer. According to present plans, Mr. Alexander will be senior officer

T & T Rehearsals Begin Wednesday; Set Prices for Boosters, Tickets

The business staff of Turf and Tinsel made known their ticket policy for their forthcoming production of John Smith, Esq. Tickets for the show will be priced at $.75 for students and $1.00 for general admission with no seats reserved.

The members of the club begin rehearsal for the show Wednesday now that the stage has been vacated by Belle Masque. The production is scheduled to open its curtain to with Tom Green in the lead roll. The real work of the musical will commence tomorrow at 7:15 p. m. in the Field House.

A new policy has been formulated in regard to the traditional booster buttons which will appear on campus within the week. The buttons will be available at the reduced price of $.25 and it is hoped that every Villanovan will sport one on his coat lapel.

will be reached by the poll, but according to the best C&F courses, it is not necessary, since a representative sampling will be achieved.

According to precedent, the poll conducted by the "Villanovan" promises to be significant in relation to the outcome of the national election.

The last time a presidential poll was taken by this paper, prior to the 1948 elections, the consensus of the Villanova campus was that Harry Truman would be reelected over the efforts of Republican candidate Thomas Dewey. Most other pre-election predictions, including the poll by Dr. Gallup, pointed a victory for Dewey.

Walt Whitman Hotel Set for Jr. Week Event

The Walt Whitman Hotel in Camden, New Jersey, has been selected as the site for the 1952 Junior Dinner-Dance, reports Dan O'Connell, Chairman of the Dinner-Dance Committee.

Choosing the Walt Whitman Hotel marks the end of a long standing Villanova tradition of holding this Junior Week event within the Philadelphia limits. This choice of an outside-the-city hotel was not entirely voluntary on the part of the Dinner-Dance Committee.

A Bit To Late

A hotel in Philadelphia had been approached as the probable site for the dance. However, when the time came to make final arrangements, it was learned that the hotel had been previously reserved by some other group. The date when this previous reservation was made known to the campus representatives was so late that other hotels in the city were also unavailable. Hence, O'Connell explains, the "out-of-town" choice.

As in the past, the formal Dinner-Dance will be held on April 4 Delivery Set for Blazers

Bob Quin, chairman of the Blazer Committee, has announced that due to unforseen difficulties delivery of the Blazers will have to be postponed.

Blazers were to have been available on March 26. The new delivery date will be April 4. Those who ordered Blazers may obtain them at that time in room 112 Alumni Hall between the hours of 1 and 4 in the afternoon.

The representative of Majestic Clothes of Philadelphia, the firm producing the coats, stated that the balance of the total cost which is $26.50 will be due upon delivery.

Paper Gets On Poll Wagon With Student Voting Query

Whom do you want for president?

With results of the recent presidential preferential primaries in New Hampshire and Minnesota filling the papers, national attention is focused on the coming elections. They may be close to a full year away, but already conversations around the office water coolers are centering on this important question.

And on the campus level, the effect is similar, with talk over coffee cups in the Pie Shop and around the chow hall treating the same topic from the college man's point of view.

To determine the pattern of this informal talk will be the aim of this paper during the coming weeks as reporters interrupt the bull sessions of students to take a poll on the presidential preference of the Villanova campus.

Representative Sampling

Under the direction of Bob Quinn, who was the campus Dr. Gallup for the effective draft poll last year, "Villanovan" reporters will attempt to obtain a representative sampling of the campus.

Centering operations around the Pie Shop and the chow hall, the pollsters will distribute brief questionnaires to students beginning today, and continuing until the Easter recess.

Results of the poll will be tabulated and reported in the next edition of this paper immediately after Easter vacation, April 22.

It is not expected that all members of the student body

T&T Raises Curtain On John Smith, Esq.

SWEET AND LOVELY. The "girls" of the T & T chorus flash their most enchanting smiles as opening night nears for the reproduction of "John Smith, Esq." The show is scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

"John Smith, Esq." again whoops it up on the Field House stage when Turf and Tinsel brings back the smash hit of the 1948 season to campus for a three-night run Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The curtain rises at 8:30 each night as such familiar characters as Pocohantas, Chief Powhatan and John Smith himself step into the spotlight.

Barry Schmitt takes the part of the intrepid settler who solves the problem of an Indian uprising which threatens the Jamestown colonists. He leads the all-male Turf and Tinsel cast in the annual musical comedy production.

Produced In '48

"John Smith" was first given at Villanova in 1948 after the post-war reorganization of Turf and Tinsel. Original book and music are by Bob Whelan, with choreography by George Noake who both worked on the first production. Musical direction and orchestration is again being done by a Turf and Tinsel reliable, Donald Straka.

Since none of the present student body had opportunity to see "John Smith" in its original production the group decided on the revival this year as a result of popular demand.

Supporting Schmitt in the role of John Smith is a cast of varsity athletes and Turf and Tinsel regulars who take both the male and female parts in the comedy.

Medicine Man Green

Tom Green, junior football star is playing the part of the Medicine Man, and Bob Haner, next year's football captain, is in the role of Chief Powhatan. Al Hevey, who has been in the past three years' productions as a member of the dancing chorus, rises to stardom in the role of the Indian princess, Pocahontas.

Other principals include Tony Della Rocca, a Belle Masque veteran and newcomer to Turf and Tinsel in the role of Katie; George Crist, another Belle Masque actor who specializes in comedy parts, as the English merchant, Sherwood.

Newly Formed Committee Holds Inaugural Session

Villanova will be well on the way toward securing closer relations between Administration and student body if a new project meets with any success at all. It is the formation of a seven-man joint committee, composed of three members of the Student Council, three Administration representatives, and a faculty moderator-chairman.

This unprecedented action, proposed by Council member Bob Quinn, will enable committee members to promote cooperation between the two by discussing school problems and attempting to effect solutions.

To set up machinery for the committee, a nine-man delegation from the Student Council met with Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., College President, Rev. Joseph I. Boyle, O.S.A., Assistant Dean, and Rev. George L. McLaughlin, O.S.A., Council Moderator. The preliminary session was held on March 31 in the faculty conference room; the first meeting of the joint committee will be tomorrow, April 23.

At the preliminary organizational conference, Council Chairman Tom Delaney, as spokesman for the students, presented a three-fold statement citing evidence of disparity between the student body and the college Administration.

Three Fields

Under the headings of scholastic, athletic and general fields where the situation has show itself, Delaney touched upon the following points:

(1) The need for a revised Religion syllabus with the addition of more electives, and an improved curricula in the Marketing Department of the Commerce and Finance School to remove existing repetition of subject-matter.

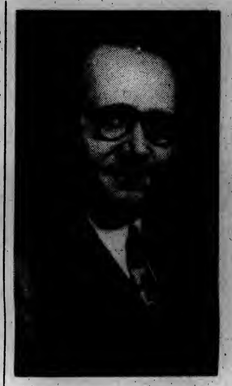
Lawyer To Speak At Forum Finale

The 1951-52 Villanova Forum will come to a close tomorrow evening, Wednesday, April 23. This fourth and final lecture in the current series will mark the end of the fourth year of the forum.

Godfrey P. Schmidt, well known author and lawyer will be the speaker. He will deliver a talk entitled "Business Rivalry and Industrial Relations vs. Religion and Morality." The program is to be held in the Commerce and Finance Auditorium and will begin at 8:30 p. m.



St. John's Grad

Mr. Schmidt received his education at St. Anthony of Padua Parochial High School, St. John's College and Fordham University. Following this he was a teacher at Loyola High School and Fordham University School of Law.

Since 1939 Mr. Schmidt has been a lecturer at Fordham University School of Law on subjects dealing with Labor Law, Constitutional Law and Jurisprudence.

Recently, Mr. Schmidt has appeared on the television show, "Authors Meet the Critics." After these appearances it was reported in the press "his opponents have found themselves helpless before his clear logic, and have had to resort to personal insults."

Charles J. Bruderle, Forum chairman, stated that students will, as usual, be admitted to the lecture upon presentation of their matriculation cards.

AIEE-IRE to Hear Dr. Brainerd Talk About Computors

Dr. J. G. Brainerd, one of the country's foremost engineering educators, will address a meeting of the Villanova College Joint Student Branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the Institute of Radio Engineers tomorrow evening.

He will speak on the topic "Applications of Large Scale Computing Devices." The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p. m., Wednesday, April 23 in Mendel Hall Amphitheatre.

Dr. Brainerd, who is Graduate Adviser at the Moore School of Electrical Engineering of the University of Pennsylvania, has an extensive background in the field of computing devices, having been associated with the development of the "ENIAC", first of the large scale electronic computers, which was built at the Moore School.

Professor Brainerd received his Doctor of Science degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1934. He is a Fellow of the Institute of Radio Engineers and is Secretary-Treasurer of the Philadelphia Section of the Institute.

Editorials

Council Action

Remember the Letter to the Editor in the last edition? The last of that series on the Student Council.

Our correspondents, seniors Mason, Bryne and Trainor, if you will recall, chided the Council for not dealing with some of the student body's main gripes. Their letters, as it turned out, precipiaated Council action. The result was formation of a student- administration committee for effecting closer cooperation between the two groups. The story on Page One gives details.

Setting up the committee marks, if nothing else, recognition of the long-standing inadequacy of administration-student relations. But more than this, it is positive proof that many student complaints need only be voiced properly in order td find satisfactory adjustment. The President's approval of the committee verifies this.

The Council is the proper agent for the student, and it has recognized its power after years of sincere but cautious action. It now has the bull by the horns, and we'll expect even better things from both the Council and its committee from now on.

by any other name could never be so sweet as the Rosemary by the name of Clooney. The very beautiful and equally personable young singer proved that to Villanova again Thursday night by making her second personal appearance at the Field House in the Seminary Guild's annual show.

If Rosemary had done no more than made the appearance and sang a few songs, the Guild would have benefited immensely in its drive for funds to educate young men for the priesthood. But with generosity that is typical of this truly great star, Rosemary not only made an appearance, but also turned around and donated her salary to the Guild fund—a contribution of well over a thousand dollars.

As a group who have keen interest in the Seminary Guild's work, the members of the campus can't begin to offer commensurate thanks to Rosemary Clooney.

Her performance, too, was heartwarming even if you didn't take her contribution into consideration. Rosemary's personality held the audience in the palm of her hand, and the audience had a hold on her, too, judging from her response to their thunderous applause. By our timing and count she was on stage forty-five minutes singing a full dozen songs.

In her own statement Rosemary admits that she loves to sing at Villanova. She can be sure that Villanova loves to hear her, and that we'll be hoping to see her again next year at the Guild show.

Connecticut Lady Hits Welfare State

By James Mason

Miss Vivien Kellems, the lady manufacturer from Connecticut, recently struck a new blow in her war with the Welfare State. Last year Miss Kellems made the headlines when she won the first round of her court battle against the "withholding tax," charging that it is a crime to take money from a man's pay envelope before he even receives it. With the latter issue still undecided, Miss Kellems has attacked on another front by refusing to pay her Social Security tax, on the ground that she is willing and able to provide for her own security. She also charges the government with fraud, since it has spent all the money received through this tax, and hence will need to collect new taxes to pay the Social Security "benefits."

It is significant that the greatest difficulty Miss Kellems encounters in these battles is that of securing her day in court. The government is very reluctant to arrest people like her because the ensuing litigation throws the light of constitutional scrutiny upon its somewhat dubious enactments. With the publicity attendant upon Miss Kellems' action, however, it is scarcely possible that the government can avoid the testing of the Social Security Act in the courts again, on the grounds she presents.

Miss Kellems may represent the last of an almost extinct species, and her action the dying gasp of an outworn economic theory. On the other hand, she may be significant as heralding a new reassertion of individualism and economic freedom. There is considerable evidence to support the latter proposition. Housewives in Marshall, Texas, have refused to participate in the Social Security program with reference to their household servants. (The government has declined to bring charges against them.)

Popularity Palled Grubbing Smokes

By Joe Masuch

I was once an outcast from society. Even my best friends told me this. I suffered from the "smoking shivers". My T-Zone was sooty. I was irritable. I was dependent upon the charity of others for satisfying my craving for the wonderful weed and lost all my friends. Then, I joined "grubbers anonymous" and today, I am cured.

My life has been one butt after another. When I was seven year old, I raided the family ash trays, smoking the new longer cigarette butts. (Cholorophyll gum was not available in those days so I gargled with my father's scotch to avoid discovery.)

When I was eight, I was spending my whole allowance on cigarettes, which allowed me 2.85 smokes per day. When I was nine, I was selling my crayons for cigarette money.

The Cruel World

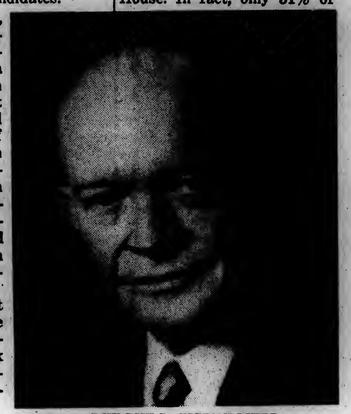
My father found me smoking when I was fourteen and I was disinherited. The family fortune was taken from me and I was made destitute. I could no longer buy cigarettes.

This was the beginning of the dangerous period in my life. I began to go to prize fights and pool halls just to sit in the smog of smoke. It was on such an occasion that I grubbed my first cigarette. It tasted better than any cigarette I had ever paid for. I became obcessed with the idea of smoking other people's cigarettes. My own were now tasteless to me.

Lifebuoy No Help

I became a grubber and a burden for society. My friends no longer tolerated me. I was at the peak of condition in 1952, when my girl suggested that I choose between her and cigarettes. Thus, I joined "grubbers anoymous" and after careful guidance began smoking a pipe. Today my T-Zone is sooty. I am irritable. I have a harsh, rasping cough, I am continually broke and my friends won't tolerate me.

We Like Ike



Campus Pollsters' Predict Eisenhower For President

By Robert J. Quinn

Although the outcome of today's voting in Pennnsylvania's party primaries is still uncertain, students of Villanova College have already cast their lot unofficially in favor of Dwight D. Eisenhower for President of the U. S. in '52.

According to the poll conducted by this paper 64.5% expect Eisenhower to be the victor when the electoral smoke clears in November. Senator Robert Taft tallied 14% of the total campus vote, with remaining percentages divided between the other prospective candidates.

In addition, the five - question poll distributed to a cross - section of the student body showed that 53% of Republican party, as compared with 27% Democrat, 18% Independent, and 2% who claim to be Socialists. It is possible that Taft will have enough support to block the Commander's election.

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER
Villanova Gets On Ike's Bandwagon

The race for the best possible Democratic nominee was almost exclusively between Senator Estes Kefauver, who gathered 51% of the Democratic vote, and held in equally high esteem by Republicans and Independents alike, and Governor Adlai Stevenson, who managed to collect 14% of the entire vote.

Editor's Note—They may not be professional Gallupers, but their results are just as good, and our thanks go to Bob Quinn and his assistants, Tom Curran, Phil Trainor and Lucien Schneider for gathering and tabulating the results of this poll.

Truman Bows Out

However, it must be taken into consideration that the poll was conducted shortly after President Truman opened the field by refusing renomination. His heir apparent, Adlai Stevenson was considered to be the best Democratic nominee by 20% of the Democratic vote and 26% of the Independents. According to indications of the poll, when and if the Governor of Illinois begins an active campaign, the Governor of Illinois may come close to, if not conquer the Senator from Tennessee.

Die-Hards

Included under this category of best possible Democratic nominee was a choice of Harry Truman by a 5% group of die-hards, and another choice of Eisenhower by a small group of died-in-the-wool Dems who like Ike if he would run as a Democrat.

There is equal confusion in the GOP. Their question seems to be who shall carry their banner for they are confident of victory. Only 13.5% of the school expects a Democrat to capture the White House. In fact, only 31% of the Democrats themselves expected to see their party in control after Inauguration Day.

The question is not surprising, and there is no conclusive proof as to who will capture the Republican nomination. Since this question will be answered by the Republicans themselves, let us check the preferences of that staunch 53% of the school.

They Want Ike

Eisenhower is considered the best possible Republican nominee by 54% of the professed Republicans on campus. However, considering that Villanova covers the eastern section of the country—presumedly Ike country—the 36% vote that Taft carries is impressive.

More important is the school's decision as to "Who would make the best president?" This is a question which judges exclusively on abilities, not personality or potential-vote power. Here again the General won, carrying 45% of the Republicans, as compared with the Senator's 33%, but the victory is not so decisive.

If for no other reason, his strength among the Independent (45.6%) and among the Democrats (29.7%) will bring many doubtful Republican convention men to his side.

PASHA THE PIT

By "Yankee" Pasha

(Editors Note—Tom Pasha isn't holding forth in his usual space this week and the column this week is being written by various members of the editorial staff. Seems that Tom was more than a little "shook up" over the weekend—and understandably so. His engagement was announced Friday night at the Navy dance and celebrated Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Shea, his fiance's parents, residents of the town of Villanova. And if the "Pasha Pit" seems a little "shook up" it's because most of the editors were helping Tom celebrate. Our congratulations to Tom and Betty Shea on the occasion of their engagement. May they live a long and happy life in a Pasha pit.)

POST HOLIDAZING: By now almost everybody has drifted back from that last big vacation of the year. All they have left now is Junior Week and whatever cuts they haven't yet used up. From the empty classes on Thursday and Friday it seems that almost all cuts have been put to use. Maybe even more than too many cuts have been taken.

There seemed to be three major occupations which Villyknowvans indulged in during the non-school daze.

First of all there were the opportunists. They ran around filling out forms and taking physicals for one or another branch of the government "police force." The lucky ones were told to come back next week. One ambitious candidate has been applying bi-monthly for the past two years.

Another group, the playboys, took off for all sorts of places, north and south. From the looks of them as they wandered . . . or staggered . . . in class, it would have been cheaper annd more convenient to stay home. After all, how much sun-tan can you get from a television screen?

The last group was the largest. They were the one who stayed home. At least, they were home a few hours every morning . . . they need sleep to be healthy boys, you know.

WEEKENDERS: This may not be the time to mention it, but the annual social marathon is less than two weeks away. If you haven't got arrangements made, get busy before its too late. 'Nuff said.

UP IN THE AIR—Villanova men are that way lately; youth-minded students flying model airplanes while their bewildered roommates knit socks awaiting their return. It has been rumored that more jets have been dstroyed around Fedigan Hall than the 38th Parallel has seen in three months.

LYNXING—The leading campus literary quarterly is giving the leading campus weekly some competition lately. You can look for another edition of the "Lynx" some time next week. And the editors are boasting that their quarterly publication is coming out as often as this newspaper. It's true this time, after the l.c.w. took almost a month's vacation because of exams, retreat, vacation, and numerous other excuses the editorial staff spent time thinking up. Expect to see something new in the "Lynx"—color pictures, we hear, and it's dedicated to Junior Week as a special feature.

WASHINGTON PAPERS PLEASE COPY—Judge McGranery who recently took J. Howard McGrath's place as U. S. Attorney General is a member of Villanova's Board of Advisors and got an honorary degree here in 1948. Here's lots of luck and best wishes to the judge in his new post.

Junior Queen Competition Mounting; Contest Deadline This Thursday

A flurry of entries following the Easter recess has stiffened the competition in "Queen of Junior Week" contest. Contest deadline is Thursday of this week, April 24, at 3 p. m. Entries must be in the "Villanovan" office or in Jim Glavin's room, 310 Alumni, by that time to be eligible for the contest.

Junior Class President Paul Sollami reported last week that a list of attractive prizes for the "Queen," her "Lady-In-Waiting," and her "Court" was being completed. It is hoped that the complete list will be available for the next issue of the paper.

Three Hopefuls

Three of the entrants who will be striving for the judges' favor are pictured this week.

Miss Gail Pezzino, one of the throne contenders, is coming all the way from Yonkers, New York, to be Richard Milko's date for the prom. Dick is counting on Gail to gain favor with Jane Froman,

MARIE BRANNAN
Saturday Will Tell

Ralph Bellamy, and Robert Alda, the contest judges.

Secretary Seeks Title

Charles Brown has entered Miss Marie A. Brannan, of Pittstown, Pa., and is confident his blue-eyed, five-foot-two date will outdistance the field. Marie is a secretary.

Mike Burke is bringing Miss Julie Higgins, of Detroit, Mich., to the prom, and is hopeful Julie, a student at the University of Detroit, will be one of the girls to catch the judges' eyes.

Judging

Judging for the contest will take place shortly after the contest deadline. Each of the judges will rate his choices in order. The girl ranked highest on the judges' composite tally will be the "Queen of Junior Week." The runner-up will serve as "Lady-In-Waiting," and the next four girls will be members of the court.

Communion Ends Retreat, Fr. Hurley Gives Blessing

With the granting of the Papal Blessing on Wednesday morning, April 9th, the Annual Villanova Retreat came to a close.

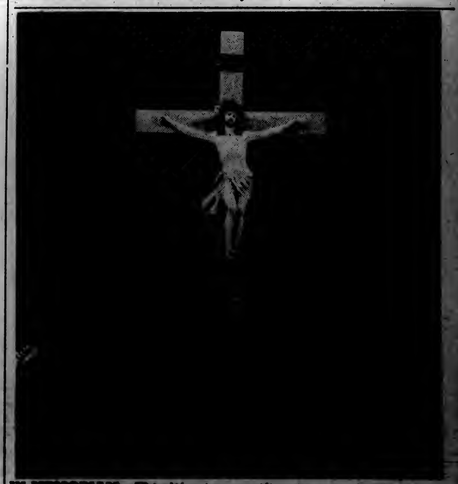
The retreat was directed by the Rev. James M. Hurley, O.S.A. most inspiring parts of the three day withdrawal from the world was the attendance at Tuesday evenings Nocturnal Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament. At such early hours of the morning as four and five a. m. there were as many as forty students and friends of Villanova in the Field House, for adoration of the exposed Blessed Sacrament.

Educator

Fr. Hurley, who is pastor of the Augustinian parish church in Lawrence, Mass., is also an educator. He helped found St. Thomas of Villanova University, in Cuba, and he is a member of the United Nations Social and Economic Council's Commission for Cuba.

The student body saw for the first time, at the retreat, a new Crucifix hanging in the shrine at the rear of the Field House. The crucifix was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Munday, as a memorial to their son Robert Munday, Class of 1950. Mr. Munday gave his life in the service of his country last summer. The crucifix, which is twelve feet high, is a reproduction of the famous Cross of Limpias, Spain.

Six large candle sticks on the altar were the gift of Mrs. Rose Brogan, in memory of her son, Joseph Brogan, Class of 1947, who died last year.



Dionysius Cato prescribed:

IN REMEMBRANCE. This life-size crucifix given to the College in memory of Bob Munday was the backdrop in the Field House Chapel during the past retreat, and helped to lend a solemn atmosphere so much lacking before.

Guild Presents Rosemary

"C'MONNA MY HOUSE" Rosemary Clooney, beautiful star of last Thursday's Augustinian Seminary Guild Show, thrills the overflow audience with one of her numerous presentations. (Inset) Rev. John Coffey, O.S.A., Guild director, presents Miss Clooney with a bouquet following her appearance.

Rosemary Clooney, personable young singing star, boosted her stocks as the unofficial sweetheart of Villanova Thursday night at her second appearance on campus in the Augustinian Seminary Guild's annual variety show. And her popularity soared even more when she promised to return to Vilalnova about this time next year to do another benefit performance for the Guild.

Some 575 College students were among a conservatively-estimated crowd of 3800 in the Field House to see Rosemary as the star of the Guild's eight-act show. Her first apearance last year received such a warm reception that the radio, recording, and soon-to-be movie star returned this year to donate her services to the Guild for the education of young men in the Augustinian Order.

The Seminary Guild is under the direction of Rev. John J. Coffey, O.S.A., who three years ago transformed the Guild's fund-raiser from a card party to the present variety show form. The show was booked and produced by the William Honney Agency of Philadelphia.

Student Council

(2) The re-establishment of a college-wide guidance counsellor, or adviser system to aid students in the selection of courses and majors.

(3) Development of better school spirit by scheduling more home football games, especially with local colleges.

(4) Making all the facilities of the library available to all students and the opening of the library on Sundays.

(5) Elimination of long lines and consequent "line-cutting" in the cafeteria by improving service.

(6) Improvement of sanitary conditions in the Pie Shop.

Expressing his faith in the Student Council as an "above average group . . . representing majority opinion," Father McGuire indicated that he would report upon the work of both the Council and the joint Administration-student committee at the forthcoming student convocation.

Blazer Ball

Dancing will be from 9 till 1.

Tickets for this, as well as for the other Junior Week functions, can be obtained at the "four star" ticket booth in the Pie Shop. This booth was constructed to centralize the sale of tickets and to make it more convenient for the individual.

With One Stone

With this new arrangement a Junior can buy his tickets for Mother's Day, the Blazer Ball, Junior Prom, and the Dinner-Dance at the same time.

Price of admission for the Blazer Ball has been set at $1.50 per couple.

Featured at the Ball will be several novelty dances for which prizes will be awarded.

Marketing Club To Sponsor Man Marketing Conference

Villanova's Marketing Club will sponsor a "Man Marketing Clinic" on campus the next two Thursdays, April 24 and May 1.

The Man Marketing Clinic has been a special project of the American Marketing Association for a number of years. Meetings of the clinic were previously held only in New York City. However, beginning in January of this year conferences have been held in Philadelphia also.

The clinic has been founded to instruct and assist job applicants in designing successful campaigns to sell themselves to prospective employers.

M. Wistar Wood, Dean of Charles Morris Price School of Advertising, will be chairman of the conferences to be held here at Villanova on the last Thursday in April and the first Thursday in May.

Meetings will be held in C&F auditorium and will begin at 2:30 p. m. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

At the first of the two meetings of the Man Marketing Clinic nominations will take place for new officers of the Villanova Marketing Club.

Two Quartets Win At Seton Hall Relays; Loyola Nine Hands Cats First Defeat, 8-7

Watson Loser in Relief as Victors Come From Behind

By Harry Anger

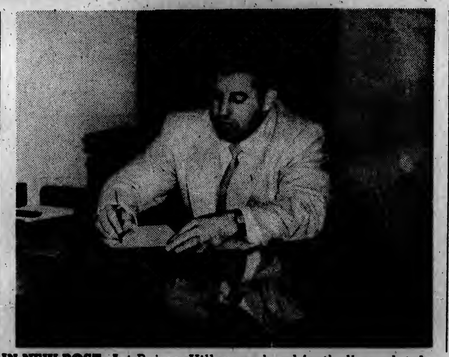
Villanova's southern trip turned out to be a failure as the Wildcats lost a close 8-7 decision to Loyala College of Baltimore. It was a tough one to lose, especially when it seemed for most of the game that Villanova was definately the better ball club.

The Wildcats looked to have the ball game well in hand as they collected four runs in the third inning, picked two more in the fourth and added a single tally in the fifth frame. After those three good innings they seemed quite tame. Relief hurler Bill Matthews, who came on in the sixth, got ten men in a row before pinchhitter Ed Swayze worked him for a walk in the ninth. Matthews apparently wasn't that much better than starter Tom Bailey, but for some reason he held a strange mastery over Art Mahan's crew and it was he who eventually got the win.

Sommers Weakens

Lefty Sommers, the Wildcat starter, got off to a great start, but an unfortunate accident in the third inning took most of the starch out of him. Center fielder Jack Markiewicz walked to start the inning, then Sommers lost control of a pitch and the ball struck catcher Bill Phillips just above the left ear and he went down in a heap at home plate. The trainers from both teams worked over him and got the kid to come around in a few moments. Phillips was taken to a hospital, but there was not any serious injury and the youngster was sent home for the rest of the afternoon.

Pitcher Shaken



Young Sommers was obviously shaken by this incident and Loyala managed to score four runs off the port sider in the rest of the inning. He regained his composure in the last of the fourth when Gus Hook and Phillip's replacement Jim Donaghue both were strikeout victims.

In the last of the sixth two hits and a couple of boots in the infield gave the home team three more runs and gave Sommers the trip to the showers. This was a special treat that should have been reserved for the two men in blue, both of whom worked liked Loyala was financing their way through Bill Summer's School for Umpires.

John Watson relieved Sommers and retired the side to end the inning. This was Watson's fourth appearance.

IN NEW POST. Art Raimo, Villanova head football coach takes over another role as Athletic Director, replacing retired Bill Connelly.

Raimo Named Athletic Head As Bill Connelly Retires

Art Raimo, head football coach, was appointed Athletic Director at Villanova, early this month, replacing the retiring William Connelly. The change became effective on April 1, 1952.

"I only hope to do as well as my predecessor in my new job," Raimo said when interviewed by this paper. "I intend to continue my duties as football coach at the same time", he responded in answer to the query whether his appointment would effect his status as football mentor.

"Watch Charm" Back

Raimo is a graduate of Villanova and played football during the golden years of the mid-thirties. He was the "watchcharm" fullback on the undefeated eleven of 1937. He earned the watchcharm sobriquet because all during his playing days at Villanova he never weighed more than 150 pounds.

Art graduated in 1938 and took up coaching at St. Joseph's under Heiner Miller. When St. Joe's gave up football, Art went to Ridley Township as backfield coach. In '42 he was appointed head coach and in the following year he entered the Navy as an athletic instructor under Gene Tunney. At Bainbridge, he once again assumed a playing role and played in the backfield with Choo Choo Charlie Justice. That team had an undefeated record.

Returns In '45

He returned to Villanova in 19455 as backfield coach at the behest of his former teammate Jordan Olivar. When Jim Leonard resigned last June, Art was appointed as head coach.

Raimo is a native of Everett, Massachusetts, is married and the father of four children. He now lives in Chester.

Cindermen Compete in Penn Relays; Pitt Dual Meet Here on Monday

The Villanova track team has its busiest weekend ahead when it competes in the 58th annual University of Pennsylvania Relays on Friday and Saturday and then tackles the University of Pittsburgh in a dual meet in the Main Line Stadium on Monday.

The Pitt dual meet is part of a home-and-home series with the second installment coming at Pittsburgh in 1953. This marks the first time that Villanova has ever met the Panthers in dual meet competition.

The Penn Relays should find the athletes in fine shape with competition in the Seton Hall Relays last week as a conditioning factor. Villanova will be out to better its mediocre performance of last year when a third in the sprint medley relay behind N.Y.U. and Princeton was the best they could muster.

Clancy Wins

As far as individuals go, last years meet was highly productive. Cummin Clancy won the invitation discuss with a respectable toss of 161 feet 11 inches. He will be defending in this event. Other field men in the meet this week are Mike Quinn in the javelin and Bob Ruggiero in the shot.

As far as the relays are concerned, it will be difficult to pick the Cats starting fours until later in the week. It is quite probable that Villanova will run in the two mile relay and also the distance medley. Both the mile and the four mile relays also have outside chances of seeing Villanova teams in competition.

Dwyer, Wheiler Run On Both Teams; 1st Setonia Double

By TED SHEEHAN
Sports Editor

Late last Saturday afternoon, the Villanova trophy room was richer by two new shiney, gold first place trophies. The curator of athletic boodle, or however it is who cleans those things, can blame his extra work on just six men.

For the first time in the six year history of the Seton Hall Relays, the Wildcats were able to win two championships— in the two mile and distance medley relays. With Joe Gaffney, Jim Reardon, Ray Wheiler and Fred Dwyer in the two mile jaunt and Pete Simigan and John Joe Barry, along with Wheiler and Dwyer, again, in the distance medley the double victory was achieved.

Of the seven major crowns at stake Villanova won two, as did Fordham and Manhattan and Georgetown snared the seventh.

Wheiler's Half 1:55:3

The distance medley (2½ miles) relay came first on the program with Wheiler running the half, Simigan a 220, Barry a 1320 and Dwyer anchoring with the mile. Wheiler turned in a fine 1:55:3 half mile and the issue was never in question after that. He was ahead at the first turn, increased his lead to 15 yards and when he passed the baton to Simigan was 35 yards ahead of the field.

Simigan increased the margin, so that by the time Barry got the stick a waltz would have won the race. Barry ran a good race and Dwyer, thinking of his later duties on the two-mile team, merely coasted around the Newark School's cinders. The time of 10:39:7 reflects the poor competition that the Cats had in the race. They can cut a full minute off that when competition comes.

Two Hours Rest

Wheiler and Dwyer had a full two hours to rest for their two mile relay chores. In this race Joe Gaffney led off and was first on the turn. With one lap to go, he relinquished this lead to Fordham's Jack O'Hare and an N.Y.U. man.

Jim Reardon, Ireland's former Olympic captain, showed his real mettle by a fine effort which carried Villanova from a ten-yard third place deficit to a ten-yard lead when he finally passed the baton to Wheiler. Reardon passed Herb Day of Fordham on the first half-lap and the Cats were never headed after that point.

Diamondmen Beat Rutgers, Ithaca; Penn Slaughtered

Some fine relief pitching by the old fireman, John Watson assured Villanova of a 3-1 victory in the season's opener at Rutgers. Lefty Sommers the Wildcat starter had a shutout until the eighth inning when Rutgers suddenly got boisterous and banged him for three straight hits and a single run. At this point Art Mahan excused the young southpaw and put in a hurry call for the services of Watson. Jack proceeded to strike out pinch hitter Gussis to end the inning.

Penn Relays Bring Cats And Michigan Together

By TED SHEEHAN, Sports Editor

Way back in 1893, some semi-clad lads from the University of Pennsylvania got together with some other equally attired athletes from Princeton and held an experimental track meet. A year later, the same thing occured. By 1895, the Penn gang decided that this experimental meet was such a success that it should be held every year.

That is how the Penn Relays began. Formally organized in 1895 and held as an intercollegiate and interscholastic carnival to celebrate the opening of Franklin Field, they have grown to become the most colorful track meet in the East, and the entire nation, too. From a beginning that saw a mere handful of competitors and tents being used as dressing rooms, the carnival has grown to where it yearly draws over 4,000 athletes from grammar school to the college levels.

Villanova was not long in getting into this short pants derby. By 1907, the Cats had the first winner in the person of J. F. O'Connell who won the invitation broad jump with an effort of 22 feet, 6 inches..

Whether Villanova was content to rest with its laurels or the competion was just too tough, they did not produce another winner until 1932, when the freshman one mile relay took top laurels. The following year, C. Hickey kept up the good work by winning the running hop, step and jump (that's one event) with a run, hop, step and jump of 44 feet 2½ inch.

Class B Win

The team had to wait nine years more for the next win. The Class B one mile relay championship went to Villanova in 3:19:2. This still stands as the school's best achievement in the games.

Four years later, John DiCarlo won the invitation 400 meter hurdles. Cummin Clancy beat all competition in the discuss in 1951 with a toss of 161 feet, 11 inches.

That covers the Cats entire doings at the Carnival as far as first places are concerned. This meet has been bad luck for the track team when you consider the large number of second place finishes that Villanova has come up with. Always a brides maid but never a bride would suit very well in summing up the Main Liner's activities.

This year, however, Villanova enters the meet with fine chances of duplicating last Saturday's Seton Hall victories. With the competition practically the same as that at Newark, plus the advent of the vaunted Michigan team, Villanova might be able to win its first major relay crown at the Penn festival. (The Class B victory in 1942 was not major competition.)

Offsetting the arrival of Michigan is the departure of Georgetown to the Drake Relays.

Cummin Clancy is defending in the discuss throw and most of his trouble should come from a visiting Wolverine-Roland Nillson. This should be billed as a battle of the transplanted. Clancy is from Ireland and Nillson from Sweden. If Cummin is to become the first Wildcat ever to duplicate a Relay's victory, Nillson is the man he will have to beat.

Michigan Trouble

Clancy isn't the only one who has to worry about the Wolverines. They are coming East with a team which, if successful, could hurt Villanova's chances more than any other school in the competition.

While the Cats were waltzing to an easy victory in the distance medley relay at Newark last Saturday in 10:39:7, Michigan was not idle. They were competing in the Ohio Relays and running in the same event. They also won the distance medley in their meet. Won it with a record-breaking 9:56:3 effort, did they.

A run down on their times is very interesting. . . . Aaron Gordon came up with a 1:54:2 half mile, after John Carroll had turned in a 46.1 quarter. John Ross, Big Ten mile champ, ran a 3:04:8 three-quarter mile and Don McEwen anchored with a 4:11:2 mile. That's travelling.

After this effort they came back to creat a new stadium record for the four mile relay. The temperature out in Columbus was 80 degrees so they were a little tired after that race.

The Seton Hall Relays showed some interesting facts, too. They showed that Manhattan is the team to beat in the 440 and 880 relays. Fordham in the sprint medley, and either Fordham, Manhattan or Morgan State in the mile relay. With Georgetown gone, and Michigan not in this event, Villanova stands to be the favorite in the two miles. The distance medley will probably produce the two-day carnival's most interesting match as Villanova and Michigan fight it out. If Michigan should decide to foresake the four mile relay for the two mile affair, Villanova will really be put to its sternest test.

No matter what does happen between Villanova and Michigan, the Penn Relays at Franklin Field on Friday and Saturday will be trackdom's best outdoor show. You know, the Penn Relays usually are.

Toppers I-M Champ Again, Pistons Are Bested in Finale

By John Gillman

The Alumni Toppers did it again as they won the I-M basketball championship for the second year in a row and Alumni Hall took its third championship in a row.

After the quarter - finals there was no doubt that Alumni Hall would win, as the four semi-finalists were all from that Hall. In the semi's the Toppers, led by Larry O'Hearn's 14 and Don Diot's 12, beat the Cats 53-40. Joe Kenney and Mike Quinn each had 10 for the Cats.

Two unbeaten teams met in the other semi-final. Jack Soley's 21 points paced the Pistons to a 52-47 victory over the Mets, who were led by Art DiVitis and Dan Fleming with 13 apiece.

The Mets dropped their second in a row when the Cats downed them 47-35 in the consolation game for third place. The Cat's Hugh Flaherty with 18 and the Met's Dan Fleming with 12 were the high men in the game.

Held even for the first quarter, the Toppers steadily pulled away to a 62-45 win over the Pistons in the finals. Larry O'Hearn and Jude O'Donnell, with 16 and 13 respectively, paced the winners while George Downing led the Pistons with 13.

Softball Leagues

The I-M softball season got under way yesterday, April 21, when teams in 6 leagues swung into action.

The record 36 teams are divided into: Mendel A league—Mendelcase, Mendel 3, Murderous Micks, Mets, Rollicks and Clowns; Mendel B league—Diamond Dusters, Delury Devils, Simpson, Moonshine Men, Jelly Beans and Outlaws; Dayhop league—Royals, Phi Kaps, Legalists, Nobody's Nothings, Educators and Navpers; Barracks league— Pirates, Rumdums, Renegades, Zebras, Dacas, Baccus Merds, and Collegiates; Austin A league—Good Counsel, Boarhogs, Squids, Clowns, Characters, and Grand Old Men; and in the Austin B league we have the Beetles, Ramblers, Shinny Dippers, Zips, Brewers and Michelobians.

Tennis, Anyone

Anyone wishing to enter the I-M tennis tournament may hand in his name and address at Room 112 Alumni Hall. Entries close April 30.

Indiantown in Tomorrow

The iVllanova College baseball team has a busy week ahead with three games on tap in six days.

Indiantown Gap is scheduled for tomorrow.

On Saturday, the nine tackles the Drexel Dragons.

On Monday, Seton Hall will be played.

'52 Grid Schedule

The season opens against Kentucky, in Lexington on Sept. 20th at night. Clemson follows away a week later. Detroit is another Saturday night away game.

The team plays its first home game against Wake Forest on the eleventh at Franklin Field. B. C. is a Friday night away affair and Xavier is away on a Sunday afternoon. Tulsa is away on a Saturday night. The other two games are at home.

Raimo, "Tough Sched"

Coach Art Raimo claims that this schedule is "as tough as any schedule that a Villanova team has ever faced. Don't sell Paris Island or Xavier short. Xavier has only lost two games in three years and Paris Island was the All-Marine champ last season. There is no need to go over the merits of our seven other foes.".

Two of the teams Kentucky and Clemson appeared in Bowl games last year. Clemson beat Miami in the Orange Bowl while Kentucky was besting Oklahoma in the Sugar Bowl.

Clemson, Wake Forest, Xavier and Paris Island appear on the schedule for the first time. Kentucky, B. C., Detroit and Tulsa are holdovers from last year and Boston University makes its first showing on the Cats slate since 1937.

Diamondmen

Ithaca came to life in the seventh and managed to score one run off Jack Watson. Ron Cole, who had singled and moved to second on a fielders choice, scored on third baseman John Howell's single.

Penn Downed

Villanova continued on their merry way as they pounced on three Penn pitchers for 17 hits and 14 runs in a game played last Wednesday on the Mainline diamond.

The Mainliners jumped on starter Chet Cornog for 3 runs in the first inning, added 3 more in the second then turned the game into a route with an additional 4 runs in the third. From here on, Penn could only be happy that Ruby Goldstein wasn't one of officials.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

PAUL was having a sand-wich at the Dromedairy-Bar when his roommate said: "Sheedy, every co-ed sphinx your hair's ugly! Your camel's hair coat won't pass the Finger-Nail Test! Therefore, if you fig-ger to get any dates, I humply beseech you to try Wildroot Cream-Oil! Contains soothing Lanolin. Non-alcoholic. Relieves annoying dryness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Grooms hair neatly and naturally all day long. It's your hair's best friend!" Sheedy got Wildroot Cream-Oil and now his Sahair-a looks terrific! Better desert water, pyramid your savings up to 29¢ and dry-ve to any drug or toilet goods counter for a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil. America's biggest-selling hair tonic! Ask for it on your hair at the barber shop, too. You'll really be dune yourself a favor!

Middies Honor Seniors At Spring Dance

The annual Spring Formal of the Villanova NROTC battalion was held last Friday night, and from all accounts a good time was had by all.

Presented in the beautiful ballroom of the Broadwood Hotel, the middies danced to the strains of Howard Lannin and his orchestra. A receiving line composed of battalion commander George Crist and his date, Captain and Mrs. McCormick, the Inspector General of the 4th Naval district and his wife, and the chairman of the recreation committee, William Dietrich met the future officers at the door.

MISS N.R.O.T.C. Midshipman Paul Pirhalla and his lovely date, Barbara Stapf, who was chosen Miss N.R.O.T.C., walk through the rose covered arbor and guard of honor during ceremonies honoring graduating seniors at last Friday's Spring Formal.

Seniors Honored

The senior midshipmen were honored at an impressive ceremony during the course of the evening. Immediately following the intermission the first classmen assembled at the head of the dance floor and then passed through a rose covered arbor and an arch of swords, as their names were announced over the public address system.

This custom of honoring the seniors present at the dance, as instituted for the first time by the Villanova middies, proved itself to be very pleasing.

Another highlight of the evening was the choosing of Miss NROTC of 1952. She will present the colors to the winning company at Armed Forces Day exercises.

New Aviation Cadet Program Offers Special Advantages To College Men Now Preparing for Military Service

Here is valuable postgraduate training that money can't buy! As an Aviation Cadet you can receive instruction and training worth thousands of dollars—at the same time you are serving your country. You can choose—immediately—between being a Pilot or Aircraft Observer in America's swiftly expanding Air Force. The Air Force encourages candidates to stay in school and graduate. Seniors and students with two years or more of college who anticipate early entrance into military service can receive unmatched training in flying and leadership for the years ahead.

WHO MAY APPLY

AGE—Between 19 and 26½ years.
EDUCATION—At least two years of college.
MARITAL STATUS—Single.
PHYSICAL CONDITION—Good, especially eyes, ears, heart, and teeth.

HOW TO QUALIFY

1. Take transcript of college credits and copy of birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station.

2. Appear for physical examination at your nearest Air Base at Government expense.

3. Accomplish Flying Aptitude Tests and enlist for two years only!

4. The Selective Service Act awards you a four-month deferment while awaiting class assignment.

5. Immediate assignment to Aviation Cadet Training Classes starting July 19, August 19, October 2, and November 19, 1952.

6. Attend Aviation Cadet Training School for one year—either as Pilot or Aircraft Observer. Get $105 monthly plus food, housing, uniforms, and other benefits.

7. Graduate, win your wings. Commissioned second lieutenant, begin earning $5,000 a year! Receive $250 uniform allowance, 30-day leave with pay.

WHERE To Get More Details

Three Judges

Through the courtesy of Mr. Patrus F. Baumiller '35, president of the Villanova Alumni Club of Valley Forge, Mr. Jonas was able to secure three judges for the tryout.

The judges were Anthony Differ, '37, Assistant District Attorney, Montgomery; County; Francis Dennie, '29, of Conshohocken, Pa.; and Mr. Baumiller, who is an executive of the Budd Co.

Am. Govt. Students Visit Washington

The ninth annual field trip of the American Government Class to Washington D. C. took place on April 1, 2 and 3, under the direction of Dr. Hartman and Rev. John Dunne, O.S.A.

Dr. Hartman said when interviewed, "The arrangement of the itinerary was dictated by a two-fold purpose: first, to afford the student the opportunity to observe the governmental processes (legislative, executive, judicial) in operation; and second, to allow the student the privilege of participating in interviews with public officials who are engaged in important governmental activities."

The high points of the three day tour of the government, in which thirty-three students participated, were interviews with Hon. Harold H. Burton, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (Wyoming), Congressman Benjamin F. James (7th Dist., Pennsylvania).

They were also privileged to hear sessions of the Supreme Court, the Senate, the House of Representatives, and the House Subcommittee on Ways and Means; plus many lectures by men now outstanding in the government.

Oberle '53 Belle Air Editor

Redmond Is Sports Editor For Next Year's Book

Finished copies of the 1952 Belle Air yearbook won't be available for several weeks, but work on next year's book has already begun with the appointment of Louis Oberle as Editor-in-Chief.

Oberle, a five-year science major in the Class of '53 will be assisted by Jack Redmond, who was appointed Sports Editor at the same time by Rev. Daniel P. Falvey, O.S.A., yearbook moderator.

Early Appointments

Ordinarily, editorial appointments for the coming year are made at the annual Belle Air staff dinner the night before yearbook distribution. But in order to get work on the 1953 Belle Air progressing, the moderator made the appointments early.

In order to organize his staff and begin general assignments Oberle will call a meeting of all staff members, new and old, some time during the coming week. Time and place will be announced on the bulletin boards.

Both the new Editor and Sports Editor are members of the editorial board of this year's book under Bill Lohr, retiring Editor-in-Chief. Like the new editor, Redmond is also a five-year student in the campus NROTC unit and has had yearbook experience at Villanova and on high school books.

New Belle Air Editors

Chaminade Protege

Oberle, from Floral Park, L. I. was associate editor of Chaminade high school's Crimson and Gold and served this year on the Belle Air as Sports Editor. Since his appointment he has been advanced to Associate Editor, and his place as sports editor on the 1952 book will be taken by Fred Heigl, graduating senior.

Redmond, from Berwyn, Pa., was editor-in-chief of West Catholic (Phila.) high school's yearbook, and editorial assistant on this year's Villanova book.

Retiring Editor Bill Lohr reports that all work on the current book is completed and that the 1952 Belle Air will be distributed on campus within three or four weeks, in plenty of time before the close of the semester.

SENIORS

Graduation announcements must be ordered in the Bookstore before May 1. As many announcements as desired can be ordered, but these are not to be confused with invitations, of which only a limited number will be available.

Capt. McCormick Detached From College N.R.O.T.C. Unit

Capt. J. R. McCormick is leaving Villanova. The present Professor of Naval Science will be detached Thursday, April 24, after nearly three years with the school.

Capt. McCormick's transfer will place him in command of Destroyer Division 30 of the Atlantic Fleet. He will proceed from Villanova to Key West, Florida, for a two week refresher course, and thence to Newport, R. I., to assume his new command.

Capt. Martin J. Drury, Inspector General of the Fourth Naval District has been nominated and approved as tentative successor to Capt. McCormick.

Until such time as Capt. Drury is definitely assigned as Villanova's new PNS, Lt. Comd'r. J. S. Alexander will serve in that capacity. Mr. Alexander has served the Villanova unit as executive Officer for the past two years.

Paper Is Barred At Joint Meeting

Improvement Of Pie Shop Suggested By Committee

The "Villanovan" was barred from covering the first meeting of Villanova's joint student-Administration committee last Wednesday afternoon in Mendel hall.

Not present the initial session of the group, whose purpose, as expressed by Very Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., is "to take up problems; to come to practical solutions," was Father McGuire himself. The office of the Registrar, Rev. Thomas Burke, O.S.A., who was in New York City on business, became the scene of the committee talks.

The three spokesmen for the student body, named the day before by a special Student Council committee, were in attendance. They included Tom Delaney, Council chairman, Senior Bob Quinn, originator of the movement, and five-year man Charles Russell. Rev. Joseph Boyle, O.S.A., and Rev. Robert Sullivan, O.S.A. represented the administration, while Rev. George McLaughlin, O.S.A., served as moderator and acting secretary.

Press Barred

The meeting started on a confused, if not dangerous note, when "Villanovan" reporter Dick Winfield was barred from attendance. The alleged reason for this limitation of freedom of the press was merely that the group didn't need outsiders to sit in on the proceedings.

In his news commentary de-

Belle Air Portrait List In Pie Shop for Jrs.

Juniors are reminded by 1953 Belle Air yearbook editor, Louis Oberle that they must sign appointment sheets in the Pie Shop for yearbook portrait sittings.

The portraits will be taken immediately after Junior Week, from May 12 to 23 in the Austin Louge by Zamsky photographers. All sittings must be scheduled before that time by signing the lists on the Pie Shop bulletin board.

A fee of one dollar is charged at the time of the sitting.

An Editorial

We're crying "Foul" this week.

It was a shock to this paper, to say the least, when our reporter was barred from the first meeting of the student-administration committee whose purpose is to promote better relations between the two groups. There was no explanation immediately in the offing. Just the dictum from one of the administration's representatives, "No reporters."

Frankly, we can't figure it out. And rather than jump to any rash conclusions we are offering our thoughts on the subject in hopes that the administration will realize that the ban is, at least, indiscreet.

Our true feelings are that the ban is a lot worse than that, but in order to show our faith in the possibility of the committee to do some good, we'll withhold violent declamation. We feel that the committee, properly functioning, can do immeasurable good for Villanova, here and now, and for years to come—but it got started on the wrong foot.

Here are the issues:

1. The committee is, per se, a group intimately concerned with the students of this College.

2. This paper, in its purpose of giving expression of and for the students, has an obligation to report to you readers those things which are intimately connected with you.

The conclusion of the syllogism: therefore, this paper has an obligation of bringing to its readers reports of the meetings of the student-administration committee. No thinking man can escape that logic.

But, how can this paper bring you those reports if it is barred from sending a reporter to the meetings?

There is an alternative, and it was later suggested by the same administrative member who banned the reporter—handouts, reports prepared by the committee containing the facts that they wish to be published concerning the meeting.

This we reject entirely. The doors closed

DEADLINE

All copy for the next edition of this paper is due in the "Villanovan" office by 5 p. m. this afternoon. The next edition, a Junior Week extra, will appear on campus Mother's Day, May 5.

Lynx Out Today, Issue Dedicated To Junior Class

Lynx, the literary magazine of Villanova College, today placed their sensationally different "Junior Week" issue on sale.

From the Class of '53 shield on the cover, and through the several short-stories, poems, essays, and editorials, the magazine has been designed to please all men of Villanova, but especially the Junior Class, their mothers, and dates.

Perhaps the most startling feature of this "Junior Week" issue of the Lynx is the eight page souvenir section entitled "Springtime Comes To Villanova."

Color Picture

Within this section is a full-color picture of a familiar campus scene. Furthermore, the section utilizes the combined efforts of Frank Thompson and Bob Beers who produced poetry and art work designed to portray the manner in which springtime makes its way about our campus.

"Because of the limited number of magazines printed," commented Circulation Manager Kevin McCrane, "I suggest that any students who wish to get a copy for their mother or date do so now, before we sell out. Single issues are selling for 25c.

Class Nominations Decided Tonight

Freshman and Sophomore classes will meet today to hold nominations for officers to run in the forthcoming class elections May 15.

Freshmen will meet at 5 p. m. in the C&F Auditorium. Rev. Henry Eagan, O.S.A., newly appointed class moderator, will address the class and preside over the meeting.

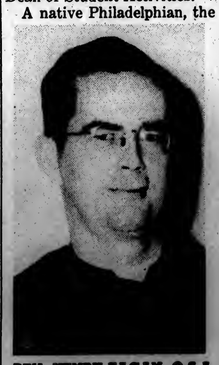
Nominations will be open for the offices of president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer. The class will also nominate their third representative to the Student Council.

Joseph Kenney, president of the Sophomore class, has called the class of '54 meeting for 7:15 p. m., also in the C&F auditorium.

Besides nominating the four regular class officers and four members to the student council, one from each school, a treasurer's report on the class finances of the past year will be rendered.

MEETING TIMES
Freshmen — 5 P. M. — C&F Aud.
Sophomores—7.15 P. M. C&F Aud.

Rev. John Dunne, O.S.A., class moderator, will address the group.



The Junior class held their nomination meeting last Tuesday evening and the names of the nominees are now being screened by the administration prior to their approval.

The final report of the chairmen of the various Junior Week activities were received and approved unanimously by the largest class turnout of the year.

Fr. Eagan Named Frosh Moderator

Rev. Henry Eagan, O.S.A., has been appointed moderator of the Freshman Class by Rev. George McLaughlin, O.S.A., Dean of Student Activities.

A native Philadelphian, the new moderator was graduated from Villanova in 1939 and received his M.A. from the Catholic University of America.

REV. HENRY EAGAN, O.S.A.
Moderator for Class of '55

Returning to Villanova in 1944, Father Eagan was moderator of the class of '50 and at present is teaching religion and math, as well as serving as prefect in Alumni Hall.

to us by the committee breed to much mistrust for this paper to accept without question a report of what went on behind those same closed doors.

In addition, when this paper carries a news story of such vital importance, it reports the happening as our reporter sees it. You, by continued reading of this paper, have expressed your faith in our objective handling of news reports. Would you be satisfied with a story that began, "This is what the committee said it did . . .?" Under a handout system we could not fulfill our obligation to you by presenting it otherwise.

3. The day before the meeting the College President, Father McGuire spoke of the committee's formation and promised that reports of its progress would be given to the student body.

Hardly being presumptuous, we took him to mean that this paper could report the activity of the group. There is no other effective method of campuswide dissemination of such information, and we believe he meant this information to be published by the paper. We are surely willing to do so.

But the action of his representatives on the committee is abrogating his intention. A snarl of red tape and misunderstanding is preventing us from fulfilling the President's desire, fulfilling our obligation, and bringing you the news of what is going on.

Our report on what happened behind the closed committee room doors this week came from one of the three student committee members, all of whom, incidentally, are on the side of the paper in the controversy. At best it is a report made from memory, unauthorized and less reliable than the news would be if there had been a reporter from this paper present to take notes.

The situation, as it stands, is enough to obviate by distrust and misunderstanding all the good we still expect the committee to accomplish. But we feel it can accomplish this only with a reporter from this paper present to give you, the student, a firsthand account of the proceedings.

It will take a good argument to make us see the thing any other way.

Shorts and Pants

ELECTIONS. There's a movement in the Council to streamline election rules so that a member of one school would vote only for Council representatives from his school. An Arts man would no longer vote for some C&F"er or Engineer he has never met, viceversa. Also, a bit more touchy problem, another suggestion to limit a class officer's term to one year. Think them both over and let your Council representative know which way you prefer.

FORUM. This week saw the last of five interesting lectures the Forum presented on campus. Congratulations to Mr. Bruderle.

CAMPUS PEST NO 2:

I'm The Jerk

You know me. I'm the jerk who chows down three times a day in that place in Mendel hall. After I get through each meal I never bother to clean off the table—just leave soiled napkins and empty soup bowls and dirty silverware all over the place.

I'm not really an uncouth guy, and I'm offended that some people get that impression. Of course I wouldn't do the same thing at home. I wouldn't dare.

I get pretty mad when other guys leave the tables sloppy, too. If there's anything in this world I can't stand its a sloppy table to eat on. So I just push all the debris on the floor.

I know it makes things look pretty bad for the next guy, but if the guy ahead of me didn't care, why should I? It's just a vicious circle, and can I help it if I'm a vicious part of it?

Every once in a while I get a few qualms of conscience and make a resolution to clean up the table when I'm leaving. But then I see the guy at the next table leaving milk bottles and chicken bones and all sorts of trash behind him. It's discouraging.

And I guess that as long as other guys keep on doing it, I'm not going to be a crusader and try to keep the chow hall clean. I'll go right on leaving the tables full of trash, 'cause you know me—I'm the jerk.

Letters

Wanted: Clean Tables

Editor
The "Villanovan"
Villanova College
Dear Sir:

Recently the Student Council has attempted to promote more appetizing dining facilities and better quality food for the students. But now a number of irresponsible men seem determined to adopt their own rules in the cafeteria to the disgust of most of their fellow students. Our big problem is no longer that of waiting in line, but one of attempting to find a clean table where we may eat.

Since when does a man claiming to be of collegiate caliber "forget" to take his tray although he remembers the first names of his classmates at the front of the chow-line? Tempers flare when students must clean a table before they can eat. Too many students are delayed by the lack of clean trays while the tables are cluttered like the circus grounds after a two-week stand.

The Student Council should not have to be called upon to act in such a matter. We students should know that we have a responsibility of maintaining neatness and cleanliness not only in attire, but also in public where others suffer because of our carelessness.

Sincerely,
George J. Konesky, Jr.

Unique Week

Junior Week Will Make History; Schedule Includes Prom, Fox Hunt

By Joe Mascuch

There is a rumor crawling around campus that the following is the potential schedule for this year's Junior Week. If it is, the week will go down in Villanova History.

MOTHERS DAY: The first activity scheduled for Junior Week is Mothers Day. The committee has a surprise for the mothers this year, a washing contest. A mountain of laundry is being built in the Field House and clothes line is being tied from bleacher to bleacher. A light lunch and supper, prepared by the Mothers, will be served to the Juniors. The idea is to make the mothers feel at home.

FOX HUNT: On Tuesday morning the first Junior Week fox-hunt will be inaugurated. Juniors will saddle their room-mates and charge off in the direction of the power plant. The lucky pair wins the fox.

BLAZE: On Wednesday morning a certain Villanovan writer, and I use that term loosely, will be boiled in oil in the cafeteria kitchen. I doubt that he will be served.

BLAZER BALL: The Blazer Ball will be given on Wednesday evening in the Field House. Music will be provided by the Prom decorations committee as they put the finishing touches to the centerpiece.

ROWING CONTEST: A five hundered lap rowing contest will be held in the Ch. E. pond all day Thursday. Thursday evening there will be a torchlight parade while the winners are carried down to the infirmary.

JUNIOR PROM: Unless there is a change in plans, the Prom will be held as scheduled in the Field House on Friday evening. Four-leaf clovers will be supplied.

DINNER DANCE: There is a Dinner Dance somewhere on Saturday night. Maps will be furnished with each ticket.

Now that I look this whole thing over, I'm sure it can't be the schedule. You can bet that there is a schedule however, and there are very few days left until the Class of '53 launches one of Villanova's best Junior Weeks. So, let's give them our best wishes and full support.

Paving the Way . . .

Bulwarks Against Bureaucracy Crumble As Govt. Ursurps Power

By Jim Mason

The whole question of States' Rights has unfortunately been often identified in the popular mind with the problems attendant upon slavery and racial discrimination in the Southern States. The result has been the alienation of well-meaning and unprejudiced persons from the cause of States' Rights, with a detrimental effect upon our federal system.

The Government of the United States is one of delegated powers. States which had been completely sovereign agreed to delegate certain clearly stated powers to the federal government, retaining all powers not so delegated. Today we have sometimes lost sight of this fact, and come to look upon the states as subdivisions of one mammoth nation, in the same way that counties are subdivisions of the states. Actually, of course, the union was never intended to overwhelm the states, but merely to be the agent of them all acting collectively.

Unfair Tax Burden

This is not just an academic question. One reason our bureaucracy in Washington is so huge is that the national government has appropriated powers it was never intended to have, and invaded fields of legislation previously reserved to the several States. Matters purely local in nature, such as housing, are regulated from Washington.

The result has been an unfair tax burden upon the wealthier states, which are forced to pay for federal projects in their poorer sister states. New Yorkers and Pennsylvanians pay higher taxes to make up the deficit incurred by federal electric power schemes in Alabama and Tennessee. They pay for farm price support programs which do not benefit them proportionately.

User Should Pay

The question here is not whether these things should be done, but of who should pay for them. The State of Alabama has a government which is fully empowered to handle a local problem such as rural electrification. If necessary, it may borrow funds or tax its people. Instead, the federal government takes money away from citizens of other states, money which could be used to benefit those other states, and spends it improving Alabama. The result is another federal bureau, the eclipse of the State government, and higher taxes all around. It is certainly difficult to see how the tax-payers in Oregon or Vermont are getting anything for their money, as a result of telephones being made available to Alabama farmers.

The States today are the last bulwarks against the monstrous bureaucracy which has been spawned in Washington. By restoring them to their proper place we can insure ourselves more capable attention to local needs.

DON'T TREAD ON ME: My but isn't the maintenance department of this Main Line institution becoming Princetonian in its outlook. . . . The latest sign addition to the campus verifies this observation. . . . Perhaps we would like to see grass grow and perhaps we would like to make our classes before the last bell.

CHOWHALL ACCOUNTANT: Phil, that eminent custodian of the dining hall, has been keeping an accurate count of the dishes left on the tables after the morning repast. . . . Last count totaled 649 sooty saucers. . . . This made it impossible to have the bare necessities for the hot dog day, hence, no catsup or relish. . . . All these dishes had to be counted and washed thereby delaying the noontime meal. . . . What strikes us as peculiar is the fact that Villanovans waited many a time while the kitchen prepared another steam table of breaded veal chops and did so without a complaint. . . . The shoe apparently has a different fit when worn on the other foot. . . .

T&T TRIUMPH: The T&T got back on its feet this year with a revival of "John Smith Esq.," popular musical of a few years back. . . . The show was put together more quickly and much more successfully than any that had followed the wonderful production of 1948.

HELLO MR. AND MRS. AMERICA: If you haven't heard the newscasting of Bob Quinn on WVIL then you're missing a great opportunity to hear voiced all the ideas that must have entered your minds at one time or another during your stay at Villanova. . . . Guess Bob believes in the words of the great but controversial Winchell. . . . "If they want me, they'll have to get in line." . . . The programs of the newly wired station are excellent and are recommended for late listening by the student body.

PLAYING WITH ADJECTIVES: Its stupendously colossal and an exciting extravaganza of asthetic extroverts. . . . Such is the billing to be given the forthcoming Junior Week. . . . Advance notices promise it to be marked among the greatest held at this campus. . . . Have you noticed the enthusiastic mob of ticket buyers around the Junior's parimutuel in the Pie-Shoppe who are going to parley their tickets into a winning week-end? Don't miss this week-end of Art Mooney's Four Leaf Clover, and If I Knew You Were A Comin' I'd a Baked A Cake. . . . Dan O'Connell promises to recite Captain, My Captain at the Junior Dinner Dance to be held May 10 at the Walt Whitman.

SIGNS OF SPRING: The General converting his hip-boots to high work.

AH TO WHAT LENGTHS: Yes, to what lengths will propagators of ties shirts and jackets go in making their demands felt about this campus. . . . We now have a co-ed in our midsts and there is talk that Villanova will be totally co-educational in a year or two. . . . This will bring about an altogether new Villanovan outlook. . . . Men will rise early in order to shave their barbed-wired contenances, . . . They will wear ties and jackets of their own volition. . . . . Ah, yes, the Villanovan of today will have passed from the scene and in his place will be a man dominated by a woman—The lucky stiff!

Ed. Note: Please God, help us graduate before this.

Queen Entrants' Pictures Presented To Judges Sat.

It's all over—but the suspense. The pictures of the entrants in the "Queen of Junior Week" contest went before the judges in New York City, last Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Ralph Bellamy, star of the television show "Man against Crime," Mr. Robert Alda, male star of the Broadway hit "Guys and Dolls," and Miss Joan Froman, singing star whose life story is told in the current hit movie "With A Song In My Heart," were the judges.

"Queen" Revealed Next Week

The three judges looked at the pictures. They compared them and then made their selections. There decision—the decision that will name a girl "Queen of Junior Week," another as her "Lady-In-Waiting," and four more as her "Court"—will be announced next Monday in the Junior Week "Villanovan."

Paul Sollami, Junior Class President, last week outlined the reigning duties of the Queen. She will begin her week onn the throne with her presentation at the Mother's Day ceremonies. She will attend the Band Concert on Tuesday, and the Blazer Ball on Wednesday.

Coronation

Friday night, May 9, at the Junior Prom, the Queen will be officially "crowned." She will be presented along with her Lady-In-Waiting and her Court. At that time the Queen will be presented with several gifts from the Junior Class, and each of her attendants will receive various favors.

The Queen wil close out the week when she attends the Junior Dinner-Dance on Saturday evening, May 10, at the Walt Whitma Hotel in Camden, N. J.

Will Crown Successor

Sollami reported that the class was endeavoring to make it possible for Miss Janet Farrell, last year's Queen, her successor. Also officiating at the coronation ceremonies will be Art Mooney, whose band is the play at the prom, Sollami, and Prom Chairman Don Brown.

A flurry of last-minute entries swamped the contest committee in the closing days. All entries submitted by the contest deadline, last Thursday, were in New York for the judging Saturday. Eddie Jaffe, New York theatrical agent, secured the judges for the contest.

particularly looking for Freshmen and Sophomore "rookies," stated that those accepted from the tryouts would be used to fill out the station's staff, thus facilitating a full year of broadcasting activity beginning in the fall.

The station manager also is high in his praise of Henry Wu, a Senior E. E., who literally "put the station on the air." It was Wu, aided by a staff of technicians, who rewired WVIL, thus permitting the station to resume broadcasting. Wu was assisted by Jim Harte and Dick Hill, two more Senior E. E.'s, and several other engineering students.

In addition to Allen, eight experienced personnel are guiding the destinies of the station this year. Bernie Coyne is the chief announcer. Bob Quinn is number one newscaster, while Phil Trainor and Bob Quin head the musical department. Bill Greaney heads the production staff. Wu is the station's technical director.

The opening program, 7:30-8:00, Sunday thru Thursday, is "Jazz Unlimited," the first of the station's several disc jockey shows. Glavin and Corcoran present the sports show at 8 p. m., and "Showtunes," handled by Coyne, runs from 8:15-8:45. Quinn and Tony Galati review the news at 8:45, and at 9 p. m. comes "Wet Wax Works." The final show, at 9:30, is "Music of the Masters."

A featured drama will occasionally be run off on Sunday evenings. The first was presented from 8:15-8:45 last Sunday. Also, on Sunday evenings, a Religious program will be aired from 7:30-8:00.

Allen said that the "vets" would handle the bulk of the six-week broadcasting activity, also pointed out that the brief broadcasting period would enable the experienced men to "break in" the newcomers in preparation for full-scale operations beginning in September.

Rev. Louis Rongione, O.S.A., is the Moderator of Station WVIL.

Revived 'J. Smith' Needs No Crutches

POCATONTAS AND FRIENDS

Whooping it up for T&T, Haner, Hevey, Green.

By Walter F. Keats

None the worse for age, and just as musically sprightly as he was in 1948, "John Smith, Esq." was revived in the Field House last week as the annual Turf and Tinsel musical production.

Although the revival was a screeching give-away by T&T of where some of their material has been coming from for the years since "Smith's" original production, the idea of brawny males cavorting across the stage in the costume of brawny females still hasn't lost any of the humor on which Turf and Tinsel productions rely.

And the "for real" males roles were handled well, also, with cast honors going to footballers Tom Green and Bob Haner for what appeared to be unrehearsed burlesque in the sense of the word that the Troc has never heard of.

And for the benefit of the T&T folowers who saw a Thursday or Saturday performance, Minnie Ha-Ha (Art DiVittis) finally found "Joe" Friday night when he/she towed T&T's star alumnus, Jack Kelly (now in the Navy and directing the Pentagon Players in D.C.) on stage for a round of applause.

Bookstore Offers Textbook Bargains

Cut-rate sale of new textbooks begin this week in the Belle Air Bookstore, according to John Bauman, manager. The books relate to all subjects except English and history.

The texts being offered are unused editons of volumes that have been replaced for the various College courses. Many are older editions than the ones currently being used, but will be of value as reference works.

Prices in most cases have been slashed to offer students an opportunity to obtain the texts for their personal libraries before bookstore inventory.

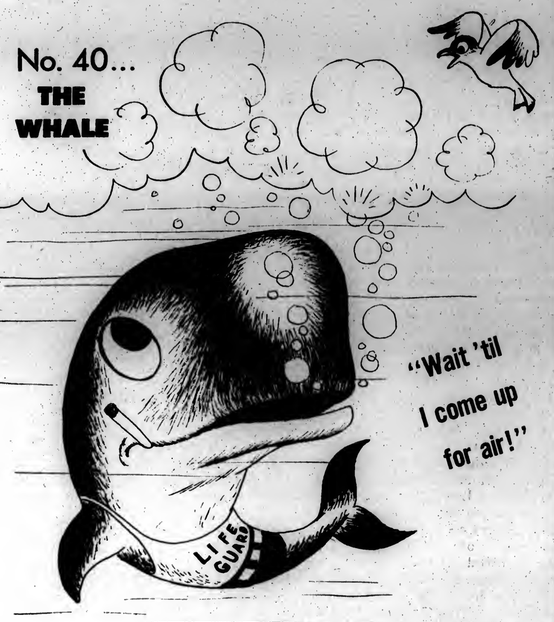
Wood's Man Marketing Clinic Continues Thursday Afternoon

The "Man Marketing Clinic" currently sponsored by the Villanova Marketing Club will have its second and final session Thursday afternoon at 2:30 in the C&F Auditorium.

Nominations for new Marketing Club officers, originally scheduled for last Thursday, will also take place at this meeting.

Some 75 members of the Marketing Club and other interested students attended the first Clinic session last Thursday. Dean M. Wistar Wood of the Charles Morris Price School of Advertising presided at this session and will also be chairman during Thursday's session.



Help Students Get Jobs

In explaining the purpose of the Clinic, Dean Wood pointed out its function of helping persons prepare adequate campaigns to get the jobs they want. Thursday's session will employ the Clinic's typical activity when several students present brochures they are preparing for possible job interviews.

Each student will read aloud his portfolio and other members of the Clinic, guided by Dean Wood, will discuss the presentation and suggest improvements.

The Villanova campus sessions were arranged through cooperation of the Philadelphia branch of the American Marketing Assoc. According to campus president Bert Sellier, all interested students will be welcomed at the final Clinic session Thursday.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

Poor guy was submerged in a veritable sea of cigarette tests! He didn't know whether he should "blow"—or just jettison the whole job! But he fathomed the matter when he suddenly realized that cigarette mildness can't be judged in one quick spout! Millions of smokers have found, too, there's a thorough cigarette test!

It's the sensible test . . . the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke — on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why . . .

Rain Washes Out Saturday Contest With Drexel Here

By Lanse McAngar

Five straight days of rain have once again drowned out scheduled home contests for the Wildcats. The steady downpour, which started Wednesday cut short the Indiantown Gap game and completely washed out the Drexel game which was slated for Saturday.

This lack of action does, however give us another opportunity to talk a little bit about some of the boys on the club.

In an earlier article we mentioned a little about the new talent Art Mahan has had to work with this spring so as long as there is this opportunity we'll talk a little more about the newcomers.

In the infield Bobby Ricciani, a sophomore, has won the starting job at third base. The likeable guy from Trenton New Jersey has shown himself to be one of the best all-around ballplayers the Mainliners have on the roster this spring. "Rich" will hit that long ball on occasions, but most of the time he is content just to get the base-hit. In the field he covers a lot of ground and his strong arm is one of the best we have seen around this year.

At shortstop Mahan has come up with another excellent player. Ralph Cecere made the switch from football to baseball very easily and has given signs of being big league material. Cecere, like Ricciani, has a great throwing arm and he is one of the fastest men on the team. Anybody who doubted Cecere could run would only have had to see him hotfoot out that triple on opening day up at Rutgers. Under most circumstances it might have only gone for a double. In the hitting department Ralph is at his best. Only he and Bob Ricciani have ben able to clear the leftfield fence at Villanova. Cecere has done it twice while Ricciani has poled one over the barrier.

It's true these swats were in practice, but no matter how you look at it it's a good belt.

OLE JUPE WINS AGAIN

Jupiter Pluvius won another battle yesterday when the scheduled basegall game with the Pirates of Seton Hall was rained out.

This was the third srtaight rain out for the baseball team in less than a week. Plans are underway to reschedule as many of these games as possible. The new dates will be published in this paper.

Track Team To Play Host To NYU Violets On Saturday

This Saturday, May 3, Jim Elliott's trackmen will entertain N.Y.U. in the first and only home meet of the season. The cindermen will attempt to improve upon their performance last year when N.Y.U. swept all but two of the running events as it defeated the Wildcats 86 1/3 to 52 2/3.

Schulman Favored

N.Y.U. presents a formidable team in the shorter distances with Les Schulman and Mathews in the dashes and Dick Maiocco in the 440. Schulman is heavily favored to repeat his double victory in the 100 and furlong but Maiocco should receive stiff opposition from Gaffney and Simigan at the 440 distance. The Stadium record of 48.6 will go on the line with Maiocco making an effort to break his own mark.

Villanova dominates the longer distances with Ray Wheiler, Fred Dwyer, and John Joe Barry entered in the 880, mile, and 2 mile, respectively. Jim Reardon, Art Klepper, and Jerry Utter give added strength to this already fine array. With Larry Ellis and Gordon McKenzie no longer competing for N.Y.U., the visitors will in all probability be limited to scattered seconds or thirds.

Villanova Diamondmen In Three Games Opposing Rider, Fordham, Penn State

By Carl Valenti

Three games are on the agenda for the Villanova baseball team this week.

Tomorrow, at 3 p. m., Rider College travels down from Trenton to pay the Wildcats a visit. The Rough Riders have a reputation for regularly turning out strong diamond arrays. A note of interest here: Bob Ricciani, Villanova third-sacker, will be playing against his home town college.

Fordham a Threat

Saturday, the Mainliners will be in New York where they meet Fordham. In the Rams, Villanova will be seeing one of the finest teams in the Metropolitan District. Don Miller, Fordham mound ace, pitched his best game of the season a few games ago when he turned back Queens College on a neat three-hit, 8-0 performance. The Rams also boast a 13-5 score over Columbia.

Heavy-hitting Fred Christ, of basketball fame, does the receiving. Vinnie Vane, who handles the shortstop duties, is a terror on the basepaths. The Maroon will be out to avenge a 5-2 setback at the hands of the Mainliners last year.

Penn State Strong

Penn State comes to Villanova next Monday to play in the annual Mother's Day game on campus. The Staters, making a strong bid for an undefeated season, took their first seven contests. Coach Art Mahan's charges have other plans in mind, however.

It was this same Penn State aggregation that came in last year and whacked the 'Cats 12-5, knocking out starter John Watson in a six-run seventh inning. The Wildcats intend to have a ready reply this year.

It will be no easy task, though, for the Nittany Lions figure to be one of the best nines that Villanova will face all season. Among their more notable triumphs is a 15-4 win over Bucknell.

Finals Effected By Service Rule; Clancy Fails In Discus

By TED SHEEHAN Sports Editor

Villanova won and didn't win its first major relay crown at the rain-soaked 58th annual Penn Relays, at Franklin Field, last Friday and Saturday.

This conflicting utterance is best explained by saying that Villanova came in second behind Lockbourne Air Base in the two mile relay but they have been given the plaque, symbolic of United States supremacy in this event, the four gold Penn Relay watches and also the important credit in the record book as having been the 1952 winner.

This is only typical of the odd and crazy developments that occured during the carnival. A steady rain fell for two days previous to the Friday opener and continued all during the relays. Veteran observers were unable to recall a year when the elements were so contrary to the meet.

Getting back to the conflicting first-place decision, the controversy of letting service teams compete against collegiates has been going on for some time. It reached a peak this year when Georgetown refused to enter the meet if the post-graduate entries were running. As a result, the service teams decided to award their plaques and medals to the first collegiate team finishing behind them.

Clancy Loses

Villanova's activities began on Friday afternoon with Cummin Clancy defending in the discus throw. The contest was held at River Field, and it certainly was appropriately named on that day.

Rain Washes Out Indiantown Game; Will Be Replayed

Last Wednesday afternoon Baseball Coach Art Mahan did more praying for rain than the farmers of the "Dust Bowl" in the late thirties. Luckily for his sake and all concerned with Villanova baseball the rains came, and washed out the Indiantown Gap game.

Wildcats Outclassed

The Wildcats are a good college ball club, but they were definitely outclassed by that group of G. I.'s that made the trip from western Pa. The Army squad had a starting lineup that was composed of seven professional ballplayers. There was hardly any doubt in the minds of the rabid fans about the final outcome of the contest.

Gene Ring, a Cleveland bonus baby, gave some idea of what was to come when he blasted a long triple to right center that scored Leroy Benevenuto, who had singled, ahead of him. Only fine relay work by the Villanova fielders cut down the speedy short stop at the plate and left the visitors with only a single run in the top of the first.

Paul Ginn the Army hurler got rid of Bobby Maurer, Bob Ricciani and Charlie McGuckin easily in the home team's only turn at bat. Then his teammates struck like lightning in the second and drove the Wildcats into hiding.

Left fielder Bill Hoffer was safe on an error by Ricciani to start the fiasco off. A walk to Larry Thomas followed as John Watson really seemed to have trouble getting the ball over. He got behind Ken Freming and the young lad, who belongs to the Tigers, tagged him for a single that drove in the second run of the ball game. Watson walked the next two men and then Benevenuto smashed out his second hit of the ball game. As Ring came to bat for the second time the rain was really pouring , but Gene managed to slap out another hit before the umpires decided to stop the bout and retire to the comparative safety of the Field House.

Pitt Meet, Slated For Yesterday, Is Cancelled; '53, Too

The dual track and field meet with the University of Pittsburgh, originally scheduled to be run yesterday in the Main Line Stadium on the Villanova campus has been called off.

At the same time, the meet with Pitt which was to be held next spring at Pittsburgh has also been called off.

This marks the second cancellation on the Spring sports schedule. Earlier in the month, the baseball game with Princeton, originally slated for April 1st and rained out on that day, was permanently cancelled when neither team could agree on a suitable open date. The baseball game with Indiantown Gap, which was rained out last Wednesday, has been tentatively postponed to some time in May.

A suitable date for the Drexel game is also being sought.

Boston U. Brings Back Memories And Agannis

By TED SHEEHAN, Sports Editor

Last week, in the midst of the year's first heat wave, the Athletic Office added a cooling and autumnal note to the scene by releasing the 1952 football schedule.

Kentucky, a conqueror of the Cats last year and also Sugar Bowl victor, Detroit, Boston College and Tulsa are holdovers from the 1951 schedule. Clemson, winner of this year's Orange Bowl match, Wake Forest, Xavier and Parris Island all find themselves on the Wildcat slate for the first time.

The remaining game is the season's closer with the Terriers of Boston University, on Saturday, November 22nd, "somewhere in Philadelphia".

Are the Terriers newcomers to Villanova? Well, if you are an habituate, a casual one, of course, of a local meeting place you are probably quite familar with some of the pictures that dot the tiled walls of this famed alumnus' establishment. He makes it a custom to place pictures of athletic importance to Villanovans around the walls to add "color" to the shop's already multi-charms.

One of these pictures is a group shot of Bill Connelly, Jim Leonard, and two of that year's footballers seriously studying the contract to play in the 1948 Harbor Bowl. In the background of this picture is a banner on which is listed the victims of the undefeated squad of 1937. Second from the top on the right hand side is the inscription, "Villanova, 12—Boston University, 0.

Actually, this wasn't the first game that we had played with the Terriers. The year before we had met them for the first time in a contest which produced the same one-sided results as the '37 fracas was to do.

Both Undefeated

Both teams came up to the 1936 battle undefeated, and in the case of B. U., unscored upon. As was the custom in those days, Villanova was the under dog in this affair. When the Home Coming Day battle ended in Shibe Park the Cats had turned back the Terriers, 25-7. Art Raimo was one of the touchdown producers for the Wildcats in that game. As it turned out, this was the only loss that the Terriers were to suffer during that campaign.

The following year, the charges of Pat Hanley were swearing vengeance on Villanova and promising to avenge the loss of the previous season. Twenty nine of the thirty seven Boston players were returning so the loss was not one recalled by only a few of the members.

The game was scheduled for Armistice Day up in Boston's Fenway Park. The team that Clipper Smith brought up to that fray hadn't been doing too badly either. They had opened the season that year against Penn Military College with a 42-0 win. The Cadets probably referred to that as a strategic withdrawal.

After that came a scoreless tie with Auburn. It was not known at the time but this was to be the only blemish on a perfect slate. Manhattan fell, 20-0, as did Bucknell, 21-0, Detroit, 7-0, and Marquette, 25-7. Before the Boston game the Wildcats had totalled 115 points while the opponents were held to a mere seven.

Seventeen thousand people paid to enter the Red Sox stronghold to see the two teams in action. They were not disappointed. Early in the second period, Sollie Nechtem, ace Boston halfback attempted to kick from his own 27. Luck was not with Sollie as Johnny Wysocki and Johnny Mellus broke through the Terrier defense and stopped luckless Sollie's punt. "Bonecrusher" Wysocki (a sobriquet the opposition begrudgingly gave to the Wildcat star) picked up the pigskin and ran the 27 years for the game's first score. Not an alien hand touched him on his march to the goal line. His attempt at conversion failed and the score read 6-0 at the half.

Bones Over Again

The final tally of the contest came in the third period and resulted when Ray Stoviak faded back and passed to our old friend "Bonecrusher". Ray was on the Boston 40 and Bones was on the goal line. Accounts say that he made a brilliant catch out of what appeared to be an incomplete pass and Villanova had another six points. Again conversion was a failure and the scoring gates were closed. The game seesawed in the final period with Villanova spending most of its time in the Boston territory.

That was fifteen years back and all the players of that era have left. Raimo is at Villanova. A tackle by the name of Jordan Olivar is now at Yale, after numerous stops at other campuses. Gone are the Wysockis, the Stoviaks, the Nechtems, the Mellus'.

In their places are the players of today and one of them unfortunately in a guy by the name of Agannis. This Agannis makes his living (to use an expression) by playing quarterback for the Boston University team.

He and the rest of the Terriers will be in town next November. It may be a little early to start talking about football, but at least its a cooling thought.

Softball Season Begins; I-M Track Chiefs Announced

By John Gillman

This must be a record of some sort, when in two games in the Day Hop league a total of 554 runs was scored. The Phi Kaps beat the Educators 21-16 and Nobody's Nothings rapped the Legalists 22-15. We thought the basketball season was over.

Close Games Follow

Most of the other games had scores like softball games. The Barracks league saw a close one when the Renegades edged the Baccus Merds, 4-2. In the Mendel B league, the Fedigan Outlaws powdered the Diamond Dusters, 7-0, while the Delury Devils squeezed past the Jelly Beans 5-4.

The Alumni Characters topped the Boarhogs 9-4 and the Squids rallied to take the O'Dwyer Clowns 10-9 in the Austin A league. Also on the Austin field but in the B league, the Zips "edged" the Pirates 19-4. Mendel A league had two games, the first of which saw the Mendelcases trip the Clowns 13-9, while in the second game the Rollicks rolled over the Mendel 3 to the tune of 21-4.

Coaches for the class track team have been chosen and are as follows: Freshmen, Ned Mahoto—207 Barr. 2; Sophmores, Bill Bellville — 205 Barr. 2; Juniors, Cummin Clancy—308 Fedigan and Joe Mayton — 105 Alumni; Seniors, Joe Till—Delury, and Tom Gildea and Jake Patrick, both from Fedigan.

I-M Track Meet

Meetings will be held for all men interested in joining their class team on Monday, May 5, for the Juniors at 11:30 in the Stadium and for the Freshmen, Sophomores and Seniors at 4:30 in the Stadium.

TENNIS MEETING

All entries for the I-M tennis tournament must be in on Wednesday, April 30. On that same day there will be a meeting of all those who intend to participate in the tournament in room 215 Mendel at 4:30.

Stadium records are due to fall in the 880 and mile, and perhaps in the 2 mile also. With a fine 1:55.3 performance in the recent Seton Hall relays, Wheiler represents the most serious threat to the 1:56.6 mark established by Jim Reardon in 1950 although Reardon is also capable of lowering this time.

The field events present the ever-present Cummin Clancy in both the shot put and discus, Mike Quinn in the javelin, and Marty Panczer in the high jump as the chief point makers.

Penn Relays

able to throw the platter 161 feet 11 inches on dry land to take first place, could do no better than seventh this year. Cummin could not acclimate himself to the mud, and later the wet slippery grass and as a result, fouled on many of his throws. His best heave for the day was 136 feet 9¾ inches. The event was won by the Transplanted Swede Roland Nillson of Michigan with an effort of 160 feet 11¾ inches. Ellis of Lafayette and Fuchs of Cornell followed.

The track, bearing the brunt of about 45 previous races, was in terrible condition when the distance medley relay was run at 6:30 Friday.

Michigan, with its record breaking team, was there as was Lockbourne with its all-star post grad team. Ray Wheiler led off for Vilalnova and found himself hopelessly boxed in. In seventh place with a half lap to go he faded and when Jim Reardon got the baton for the 440 leg, the Cats were twelfth. Jim was able to pass one and when Barry got the stick for the three - quarters they were eleventh. John Joe ran a good race despite the atrocious conditions and worked it up to seventh.

Fred Dwyer anchored with mile and carried the team to fourth. Sixth at the half little Freddy didn't stop trying until fourth was neatly nailed down. A completely unofficial clocking by this writer caught the team in 10:45:00, par for the rotten track. The winner Was Michigan, followed by Lockbourne and the Navy Olympic squad. Under the new ruling Villanova should enter the record books as second, being the second college team to finish.

On Saturday, for the two-mile relay championship, the weather was as rainy as Friday and the track by this time was in hopeless shape. Most of it was under water and the times for all the races were really feeling the brunt of the elements.

Olympian Mal Whitfield and the rest of his Lockbourne team, Michigan, ready richer by two relay crowns, and Penn State were among the other teams at the starting mark.

Joe Gaffney led off for Villanova against Don McEwen of the Wolverines and Tom Kirwin, ex Penn man. Joe found himself boxed and after being in fourth at the 660 fell back to ninth when Jim Reardon took over.

Reardon Sprints

Jim really took matters into his own hands and with a half lap to go was in ninth. Then, with a sprint, spectacular for the wet track passed six men within the space of 120 yards and passed the baton to Ray Wheiler in third. Reardon's time was a good 1:59:5.

Ray kept this position behind Whitfield annd Wolverine Bill Hickman. Rays time was 2:01:7 as against Mal's 2:02:5 and Hickman's 2:04:5. Freddy Dwyer anchored for the Cats and set his sights on the second place finish. Lockbourne was now out in front by thirty yards and their catching was hopeless.

Freddy stayed within reach of Michigan until the last half lap and then took off in persuit of the tired Wolverine, John Ross. Dwyer succeded and nipped Michigan by about four yards. Fred's time was 1:57:4—the fastest of the day for any 880. The winning time of Lockbourne was 8:01:6 and his writer caught Villanova unofficially inn 8:05:2.

Paper Barred From Meeting Of School Joint Committee

livered over WVIL last Wednesday evening Quinn said that the first problem taken up was the barring of the press. "After a general discussion by the committee" Quinn reported, "it was decided that a reporter for the college newspaper would be admitted to future meetings if the committee found the use of an acting secretary to be unsuccessful."

Quinn further reported that the conclusions reached by this committee will be presented to Father McGuire. The time, pending (his) approval, is set for April 29, at 3:30 p. m.

Advisors Needed

Quinn reported that consideration turned to the need of advisers, especially in the school of Commerce and Finance. Improvement of the curricula, including courses offered and texts used, was also suggested. A five-point plan was recommended by the group to rehabilitate the Pie Shop. It included the correction of unsanitary conditions, improvement of service, better lighting and facilities, reduction of prices on souvenirs, and appointment of a member of the administration to supervise the Shop.

In an appeal for student support, Quinn said," . . . it is more than clear that the work of this group, slow as it may be now, can be buried like so many other student attempts at improvement unless competent and ambitious men are elected to office to continue the work which has been begun. We have our foot in the door; let's not lose our chance."

Confident in Council

In anticipation of the first joint committee meeting, Father McGuire, addressing an estimated 500 students and faculty at the spring convocation last Tuesday afternoon, announced the choice of the three Administration representatives to the committee.

Ruling out the system of an open, two-way question and answer discussion as "impossible," he asserted, "The intimacy between the student body and the faculty has been lost by the influx of great numbers of students. This might be strengthened by such a joint committee."

Father McGuire expressed his "faith and confidence in the elected representatives of the Student Council because the Administration is impressed with their seriousness, willingness to cooperate, and eagerness to serve."

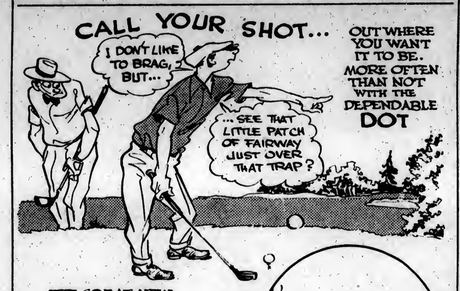
Speaker Attacks Rivalry Theory

GODFREY P. SCHMIDT, final speaker of this year's Villanova Forum, reaches accord on a point in the "Philosophy of Labor" with Rev. Edward Dwyer, O.S.A., dean and head of Villanova's philosophy department. Lawyer Schmidt spoke last Wednesday night.



By Dick Winfield

Condemnation of the theory, "A businessman in the pursuit of his own self-interest has the right to inflict intentional injury upon a business rival so long as no crime or tort is committed," constituted the fifth and final lecture of the 1951-52 Villanova Forum.

Godfrey P. Schmidt, author and lawyer, delivered his address entitled "Business Rivalry and Industrial Relations vs. Religion and Morality" last Wednesday in C&F Auditorium.

Mr. Schmidt, formerly associated with the Labor Panel of the Atomic Energy Commission and now on the faculty of the Fordham University School of Law, traced both the legal and applied growth of the principle of cutthroat competition in commercial fields and industrial relations. "Rivalry without ethics or equity, the concept of 'egalitarianism,' was bound to produce this cutthroat competition at the expense of people and their rights."

Disregard for the all-important place of the natural law in judicial circles, said Mr. Schmidt. combined with the substiution of immediacy and expediency for "rationale," gave rise to trusts and idealless trade unions.

Missed Draft Test? Absentees to Get New Quiz May 22

Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service Director announced over the weekend that another college draft deferment test will be given May 22 to students who missed the last test Thursday because of illness or for some other emergency reason.

The draft director emphasized that students must apply to the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N. J. for admission tickets for the new test even though they may still have unused tickets for earlier exams.

Applications for the May 22 test, available at local draft boards, must be postmarked by midnight May 10.

Some 166 Villanova students last Thursday, April 24th, the in C&F Auditorium took the Selective Service Qualifications Test.

Rev. Joseph I. Boyle O.S.A. any student not having taken the test to apply to take it when the next opportunity is announced during the fall semester.

Poor Attendance Evident At Last Council Meeting

Preoccupation with its higher echelon counterpart, the new joint committee, limited the usual fireworks at the Student Council's meetings last Monday night in 215 Mendel.

Aiding this condition was the singularly poor attendance; lack of a quorum threatened to cancel the meeting. Absentees included: Senior representatives Carl Koenig, George McGoldrick, and John Conklin; Sophomore representatives, Charles McGuckin and Thomas Curran; Senior Class president Phil Brennan; Alumni representative John Thompson; Anthony Tranelli, DPE; Edward Brunner, LKD; Jerry Guarch, Belle Masque; John Redmond, PKP; and Charles Russell, Schola Cantorum.

In business transacted at the meeting, Beta Gamma Debating Society was granted $65 to purchase a die and keys to be awarded to its members. A petition calling for a revised nominating procedure in the Freshman class elections was introduced and referred to the Elections Committee for study. (Later developments show that the committee advised no new system be used in the forthcoming election.)

Sophomore representative George Eberle and Joe Kenny, class president, led action asking that Public Speaking, meeting three hours a week, become a three-credit course.

Staff Dinner Again Is Held In Mirage Room

Editors and staff of the "Villanovan" will put away their pencils and silence their typewriters on Saturday, May 17, and gather down at the Barclay for the paper's annual Dinner-Dance.

The Mirage Room will again be the setting for this "last issue". Dance music will be supplied by the "Rhythmaires."

Highlight of the evening's program will be the appointment of the editorial posts for next year. Retiring seniors will be presented with keys suitably inscribed.

All members of the staff are invited to attend. Table reservations should be made with Dave Maynes, 219 Alumni, as soon as possible.

SENIORS

Graduation announcements must be ordered in the Bookstore before May 1. As many announcements as desired can be ordered, but these are not to be confused with invitations, of which only a limited number will be available.

Jr. Week Concert Offers Variety

An annual presentation of Junior Week, the concert of the College band and glee club, will be presented in the field house Tuesday evening, May 6.

John O'Donnell, Chairman of the Affair, reported that the directors of the band and glee club are preparing a program that will satisfy both "highbrow" and "lowbrow" music lovers.

The final program for the concert will be announced next week in "The Villanovan."

Myriad Of Colors At The Blazer Ball

Week's Only Informal Dance Promises To Be Gala Affair

By Al Hennessey

Countless numbers of balloons will float around in a fabulous whirl of color on Wednesday night when the annual Blazer Ball is presented in the Field House from 9 till 1 o'clock.

The only informal dance of Junior Week will, in the words of chairman Joe Ranieri, "get the week's dances off to a running start." The traditional Blazer Ball orchestra, the "Villanovan", under the direction of Paul Gerell, will supply this music.

JOE RANIERI
A Colorful Dance

Joe was enthusiastic in stating that, "As far as Blazer Balls go, this should top them all." Sales for tickets so far have been very satisfactory, but for the many who always wait till the last minute, they will also be on sale at the door.

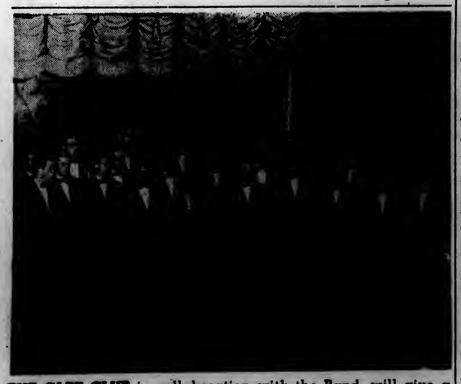
In years gone by, this has always been found to be the most popular function of Junior Week among the underclassmen. A personal invitation has therefore been extended by the committee to all the underclassmen. Ranieri wishes to stress that it is not necessary to have a blazer in order to attend.

Column of Color

The ingenious decorations have been devised by Dan McDonald and his crew of decorators. They will feature as a centerpiece a huge drum extending all the way to the ceiling which will be filled with colored baloons kept in motion by a number of fans. The sides of the drum are constructed of string and it will create the illusion of a huge column of varying colors.

Aside from the beautiful decorations, the traditional mid-week dance will also feature a number of variety dances for those in attendance. These added attractions, it can be counted on, will help to constitute a "can't miss" evening of enjoyment.

Tickets for the Blazer Bell are priced at $1.50, and can be purchased at the Four Star Ticket Booth in the Pie Shop or from any of the Blazer Ball committeemen on campus.



Band And Glee Club Concert Season's Final Presentation

Tomorrow night the Band and Glee Club, in their concert as part of the Junior Week activities, will mark its final appearance on campus for this year. A short concert will also be given by the group this afternoon in collaboration with the Mother's Day festivities.

Concert Chairman Jude O'Donnell has arranged for a varied and entertaining program for this second of the week's activities, which will begin at 8:30 p. m. in the Field House.

Among the Band's selections will be featured a "Geo-

Jrs. Honor Mothers Today At First Of Week's Events

By Dick Cashman

More than 400 mothers will be guests of their sons today when Junior Week commences with the traditional Mother's Day ceremonies. Wearing the corsages which are gifts of their sons, the "Queens for a day" are to be feted with a full schedule of activities in their honor.

The opening exercise of the day is the annual Mass in the College Chapel. Celebrated by the moderator of the Class of '53, the Reverend Joseph Kemme O.S.A., the high Mass is for the intentions of the Juniors' mothers. The Reverend Francis X. N. McGuire O.S.A., President of the College, will deliver the welcoming address.

Tree Planting

Following this traditional religious commencement, activities are to continue with the annual Junior Class tree planting ceremonies at 12:30 p. m. in front of Austin hall. Chairman Hugh Flaherty of the Mother's Day Committee will turn the ground which will hold the Class tree, donated by two Juniors, Mike Burke and Bob Lovelace.

After the formal opening of the Day with the Mass and the tree planting, the Juniors and their mothers will be guests of the College at a one o'clock luncheon in the student cafeteria and the priests' dining hall.

Campus Tour

Before the next exercise of the busy day, there will be ample time for Juniors to conduct their mothers on a tour of the College campus. The Library, the Naval Science Building, and the Chemical Engineering Building, the newest additions to the campus, should prove to be the most interesting sights on the tours.

At 2:15 p. m. in the College Field House the mothers will be entertained by a concert by the Concert Band and the College Glee Club. Always one of the favorite activities of the day, this afternoon entertainment will provide both sons and mothers a chance to sit down and rest after their walking tour of the campus.

Hail the King

What began last year as an innovation and ended up as a great success will be continued this year when mothers and especially sons will get the opportunity to see "the man" when he was "the baby". To be held in the Austin Lounge at 4:00 p. m., the contest will display baby pictures sent in by mothers without the knowledege of their sons. Accompaning the pictures will be anecdotes and experiences concerning "junior" when he was at that 'devilish' stage of life.

HUGH FLAHERTY
A Grand Mother's Day

Ending as it began, on a fitting religious note, the day's official program will conclude with Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament in the College Chapel. The Benediction will be held at 4:45 p. m., and Father Kemme will be the celebrant.

The Class of '53 will again continue a new and popular innovation of last year when a Mother's Day banquet will be catered in the Field House at 6 p. m. About 200 Juniors are expected to escort their mothers to this final exercise of the first day of Junior Week.

Banquet Finale

Guests at the banquet will include Father Kemme; Rev. George McLaughlin, O.S.A., moderator of student activities; Father McGuire; and of course the honored guests of the day, the mothers of Junior Class members.

On this final note activities for Mother's Day will come to a close, and Junior Week will again have been opened with a tribute to our mothers.

Special Mass For Jrs. At Noon This Sunday

Junior Week festivities will close on a religious note Sunday morning when Juniors and their dates will attend a special Mass to be be celebrated at noon in the College Chapel.

Rev. Edwin T. Grimes, O.S.A., College Chaplin, will be the celebrant. The Juniors and their guests will sit in reserved pews in the front of the Chapel on either side of the main aisle.

The Roaring '20s Saw First Stage Of Junior Week

By Al Pandaleon

If F. Scott Fitzgerald had visited the Villanova campus about thirty years ago, he undoubtedly would have come upon a succession of festivities rivalling even those of his memorable protege, the Great Gatsby.

For in a Spring week of 1924, the Junior class hopefully initiated what they thought "might become an annual event." Needless to say, their aspirations have been fulfilled. Actually, the first "Junior Week" was not that at all, since the affair was limited to but four days—a far cry from the six day marathon experienced by today's heroes of society.

Yesterday's Junior Week commenced on a Tuesday with an inter-class Tug-o-War. Following that, the third year men watched a Soph-Junior baseball fracas. Baseball, like rum-running, was apparently the craze in those times since the feature event on Wednesday was an inter-collegiate battle between the Wildcats and Holy Cross.

On the same day, it is worthy to note, another hallowed tradition might be said to have been given its start as several avid Juniors beat the first path across the tracks for an informal tea dance at Flappertown, U.S.A.

Beginning to gather up steam, the class of '25 followed up on Thursday with another exhibition of the great American pastime—a varsity contest with Boston College.

That night, however, brought the culmination of the previous days' excitement. With Weingait's "Pennsylvanians" supplying the music, the young couples congregated for the Junior Prom at (of all places) the Majestic Hotel. Evidently, dancers were stronger than dance bands in those days for the Yale University orchestra relieved at midnight and continued to play on into the night.

The class of '25 put the finishing touches to an auspicious start the next evening with a Smoker in their honor given by the Senior class.

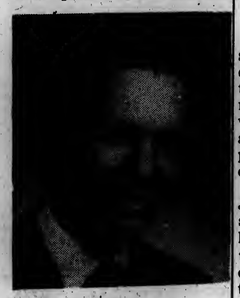
Tony Desmond and Roast Turkey Slated for Dinner Dance Saturday



Annual Formal Closes Junior Week In Comparatively Quiet Manner

In keeping with Villanova tradition, Junior Week, 1953 will close Saturday night with the formal and comparatively quiet Dinner-Dance. This last formal occasion of the college social season will be held this year in the ballroom of the Walt Whitman Hotel in Camden, New Jersey.

The menu holds forth promise for good food in the form of hot roast Maryland turkey. Music will be provided by the piano and orchestra of Tony Desmond.

Complete Sellout

Dan O'Connell, Chairman of the Dinner-Dance, announced that the affair has been a complete sellout since the early part of last week. O'Connell complimented ticket chairman, Larry O'Hearn and his assistants Jerry Ryan, Frank Cuffe, Joe Roy and Jude O'Donnell for handling reservations and ticket sales very well.

DON O'CONNELL
Desmond and Turkey

A record crowd of approximately 450 people is expected to attend the affair. There will be 43 tables with 5 couples assigned to each table. Juniors were able to make table reservations earlier in order to facilitate parties of friends to be seated together. This is the only affair during the week which is restricted to Juniors only.

Dinner is scheduled to be served beginning promptly at 7 p. m. The banquet is expected to end about 8:30 p. m. During the dinner music will be supplied by a trio.

Dancing 'till 12

Following the meal and speeches, the floor will be cleared to enable the couples to enjoy dancing until 12 midnight. Tony Desmond, who is very popular throughout Philadephia social circles, will supply the music for this portion of the program.

Chairman O'Connell assures Juniors that after-dinner speeches will be "concise and limited in number." Guests for the occasion will include officers of the administration and the Prom Queen along with her escort. Reverend Joseph Kemme, moderator of the Junior Class will deliver one of the after-dinner talks.

The Walt Whitman Hotel is very easily accessible. Students driving to the dance after crossing the bridge connecting Philadelphia with Camden should immediately turn right on to Broadway. Parking facilities are adequate and are available directly across the street from the hotel.

Last Minute Checklist

Here's the final check list for the Junior Week activities. So tie a string around each of your fingers and we'll be seeing you.

Art Mooney's Orchestra To Provide Music For Highlight Of Junior Week Program

By Jim Glavin

Junior Week!—The Blazer Ball . . . The Dinner-Dance . . . The Band Concert . . . Yes, they're all parts of Junior Week. But, for over 600 couples the apogee of the year's biggest social week will be the Junior Prom.

Villanovans and their dates at a Royal Wedding, dancing to the music of Art Mooney and his Orchestra. That will be the scene in the Field House Friday evening.

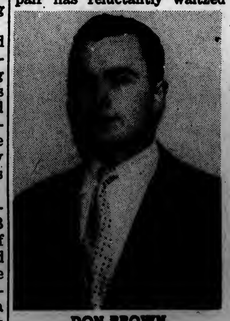
You Can See It Now

You can picture it now. You'll go dancing around the interior of a royal palace. You'll swing by a mammoth wedding cake in the center of the dance floor. You'll snuggle your partner a little closer. You'll be a guest at a royal wedding.

Prom Chairman Don Brown and his cohorts visualized it months ago. Ever since the decoration crew has been busily constructing the huge cake for the center, readying the scenes, and more recently they've been laboriously converting the Field House—into a Royal Palace.

Coronation

The zenith of the evening will come midway through the festivities. The "Queen of Junior Week" will ascend the stage. Her "Lady-in-Waiting" and her "Court" will follow her. Then, in a truly royal flourish, the Queen will receive her crown. She will be officially proclaimed as "Queen of Junior Week—1951."



The Queen and her court will then be begifted with their presents and favors.

Art Mooney

From the time the first couple walks on the floor at nine o'clock, until the last pair has reluctantly waltzed off at one o'clock, the "Royal Palace" will echo to the strains of the music of Art Mooney and company.

As the tunes ring through the night Friday, some of the trademark that characterized the music of the late Glenn Miller will be audible. For Mooney has incorporated some of Miller's arrangements into his work.

Class Of '53 Nears Climax Of Greatest Achievements

The Fall term of 1949 saw 2561 men pour into Villanova—the largest enrollment in the school's history. Among the horde were 788 bewildered Freshmen who, according to the Student Handbook were to be known as "Frosh" or the "class of '53."

These were the men who today are reaching the climax of their college social career as they welcome their Mothers in the first day of a long week of activities.

Those "Dink" Days

But stories should start at the beginning, so let's go back to that September morning almost three year ago.

The big white buttons, which with the "cute little dinks" and the rolled up cuffs were slapped on them by the Orientation Committee, showed that they were from almost every state in the Union as well as from six foreign countries.

And with these "regs" the process of orientation began. They picked up the "hello" habit and many an upperclassman had his trunk carried up the long staircases of Alumni Hall—courtesy of the Class of '53. A 29-14 grid victory over Georgetown on November 1 returned their trousers to full length and put the dinks in mothballs.

Their first official act as a class was in early 1950 when, under the guidance of the Student Council, they elected two members, Jack Mooney and Steve Hamas, to that group.

Class Officers Elected

Two months later Paul Sollami was elected to the class presidency for the Sophomore year, along with Bob Radcliffe, vice-president; Harry Quigley, secretary; and Dan O'Connell, treasurer. Jim Moser was voted the third class representative on the Student Council.

In the Inter-Class track meet held in May of that year, the Class of '53 proved their athletic prowess by taking six of the ten events and winning the meet going away.

Sophomore year provided their first class-sponsored social event, and, inaugurating their custom of doing things "the biggest and best", filled the Field House for the Sophomore Cotillion. Under the able leadership of Hugh Flaherty the maximum of 650 tickets were sold.

It was also during this semester that the Class of '53 held the first annual "Muff Day" (Move Up Forward Freshmen) activities. The Frosh didn't move up, however, as they were handed a stinging defeat by the Sophs and had their hopes of an early "finis" to orientation shattered.

The Big Year

Class elections that Spring returned Paul Sollami to the Presidency with Joe Ranieri, Larry O'Hearn and Joe Billera as vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively. Student Council members chosen were Jim Moser, pings of Junior Week, like Topsy, have just "growed and growed." In 1925 the central theme of athletic entertainment was carried over again but a new outlet for the terpsichoreans was created. It was named, oddly enough, the Grotesque Dance. Later on, this event became more widely recognized as the Blazer Ball.

A Tradition

Junior Week History Begins Back In The 'Roaring '20's

In 1927, Junior Week saw two important innovations in its program. First, the class of '28 brought to the campus that mark of distinction, the blazer jacket. In keeping with the "naturalist" attitude of the Twenties, they also gave an interpretation of their own by introducing the popular tree-planting ceremoy, confirming the intention with the dedication: "As this tree grows stronger and more beautiful, so also our love for Villanova."

Those Dixieland Days

The great fire at Villanova induced one important alteration in the Week of 1928. The Blue Blazer Ball was presented for Saturday night in honor of the Senior class. At the Prom that Spring, the third year men were serenaded by Phil Napoleon and his Original Memphis Five, playing such favorites as "A'int She Sweet" and "Blackbottom."

As the years passed on Junior Week was moved up to the first days of May in order to enjoy the balmy weather. Apparently, the boys had made a permanent institution of the event for, in 1930, they succeeded in adding Monday to the social recess.

The following season, a Father's Day celebration was inaugurated in the midst of the Depression. Probably the collegians felt that with so many fathers singing "Time On My Hands", this was a good time to provide a little extra novelty. The custom lasted until 1933 when, for some esoteric reason, the practice was abandoned.

Mother's Day Inaugurated

In 1934 was initiated what eventually led to Mother's Day. An open house day gave the "best girls" a chance to come and view the campus. A year later, the young liberals of the Thirties saw a chance to kill two birds with one ticket and sponsored the first Dinner-Dance.

The same week, in spite of the growing stability of the dollar, the Farewell Dance ceased to exist. However, in order to appease the Seniors, the Blazer Ball opened its doors to them.

A milestone marked the year 1937 when the first day of Junior Week was dedicated to the mothers of the third year men. Approving of the plan, the administration endorsed the cause by inaugurating the annual luncheon in honor of the close attachment between son and mother.

This year, it is the hope of the Junior class that their Junior Week will outdo all previous ones.

Betty Montgomery Reigns As 'Queen Of Junior Week'

By Jim Glavin

Radiant, blue-eyed Miss Elizabeth Jane Montgomery is the "Queen of Juninor Week—1952." Betty, as the Queen likes to be called, was entered in the Queen contest by Joe Kearnes, a Junior from Staten Island, N. Y.

Betty outdistanced some stiff competition in the contest, to gain the nods of Judges Mr. and Mrs. Robert Alda, Mr. Ralph Bellamy, and Miss Vivian Blaine. Miss Jane Froman was originally listed to be a contest judge, but personal matters prevented her participating in the judging. So, Mrs. Alda and Miss Blaine, the charming star of "Guys and Dolls," took her place.

ROBERT ALDA

Twenty-Two

The new Queen is twenty-two years old. She stands five feet, four inches, and weighs a well-distributed 122 pounds.

Betty is a student at the Franklin School of Arts and Sciences, and will graduate this June. She is studying Medical Technology.

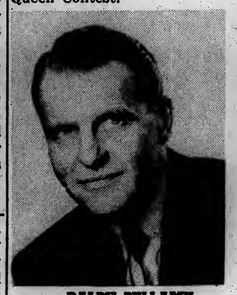
The Queen comes from Havertown. Until last summer she was a resident of Rosemont. She is a graduate of Radnor High School, in Wayne.

Not Crazy

"I can't believe it. It's wonderful. I thought he was crazy to enter me." These were the words of the lovely who will reign over the college's big social week, on learning of her selection.

Brown-tressed Betty says she has no special interests. "I took up oil painting a while back," she related, "but, you can hardly call it a hobby or anything." She likes sports, and music is another favorite of the Queen.

Highlight of Betty's reign will be her coronation at the Prom, Friday evening. She will be a guest of honor at each of the week's many functions, but the big moment at the prom when she is crowned and officially proclaimed as "Queen," will be the climax. At that time she will be begifted with several presents from the Junior Class, and will be presented with her scepter and cape as well as her crown.



The Court

The Court presents a further array of beautiful girls. They include Miss June Mary Pelosi, Fred Dwyer's entry who gave the Queen and Lady-In-Waiting a close run; Miss Theresa Maurer, Bob Capello's date; Miss Mary Ann Moran, who will be escorted by Jerry Ryan; and, Miss Viola Gerud, who will be taken to the Prom by Charles Shanahan.

Arrangements for Mr. and Mrs. Alda, Mr. Bellamy, and Miss Blaine to judge the contest were handled by Mr. Eddie Jaffe, New York Theatrical Agent.

Bitter Words

Jaffee brought the pictures of the entrants to Mr. and Mrs. Alda and Miss Blaine just before a performance of "Guys and Dolls." Jaffee reports, "If the Saturday night performance of 'Guys and Dolls' didn't go smoothly, blame it on the Villanova Queen of Junior Week Contest." Jaffee also jokingly related, "If there were bitter words over the weekend between Robert Alda and Mrs. Alda, herself an ex-beauty contest winner, thank the Queen Contest."

RALPH BELLAMY

The judges reported to the contest committee that they thought they had the "cream of the crop" of entrants.

The Mother's Day Banquet

Meet The Kid King Of '53

A member of the Junior Class now holds the somewhat dubious distinction of being "Baby for the Day." After long weeks of planning, writing letters, and judging pictures the Mother's Day committee has come up with a companion to the title of "Queen for a Day."

This secret project of the Mother's Day Committee began over a month ago when letters were sent out to all the mothers of Juniors. The letter was in the form of a request to send in pictures of their sons in their "baby" days. Guarded by the secrecy of both committeemen and mothers, the contest went along unnoticed right under the noses of the Juniors. Today with the advent of Mother's Day, the secret is over, and "Baby for a Day" is now crowned.

The task of the judging committee proved to be no easy one, as the mothers responded to the letters with a deluge of pictures. Backgrounds for the babies such as rugs, carriages, and Mom's arms all added to the task of choosing the winner.

The committee finally narrowed the field down to five pictures, and from this group the winner was chosen. Now, with all the explanations taken care of, let's investigate the entrant, who in the minds of the judges, is the winner and "Baby for a Day".

The new and undisputed baby champ is Edward Bruce Sweeney. Better known to most of us in the past as Ed, "Baby" is a member of the school of Commerce and Finance, and calls Westbury, L. I. his home.

Since his baby days, when Ed's chief preoccupation was sucking his finger, our new 'champ' has grown considerably and, we hope, has developed a few new hobbies.

Blue Notes' Appearance Fri. Marks Seventh Dance Date

A combo that is fast becoming a popular tradition at Villanova for campus formals, will make its seventh consecutive appearance at the Junior Prom Friday night.

The Blue Notes, led by piano playing Frank Teti, have supplied the intermission music at every formal dance here since the Junior Prom back in 1949.

Generally it is conceded that an intermission band plays merely to preserve the atmosphere of a dance while everyone is sitting down having a coke or just resting their feet.

Just Keep Dancing

Such has not been the case with the Blue Notes, however. At the last few dances there has consistently been as many, if not more, dancers on the floor during intermission as during the regular dance.

The Blue Notes' fine arrangements and smooth renditions of the most danceable tunes have made them as popular as many "name" bands among those who have danced to their music.

An ex-Villanovan himself, Frank Teti leads the combo, composed of trumpet, bassman, and drummer, from the piano.

Queen of Junior Week '52

.....and Her Lovely Court

MARY ANN MORAN is coming from Evanston, Ill., to be Jerry Ryan's date. Mary Ann who has dark brown eyes, is a student at Loyola of Chicago. She stands 5'1" and weighs 102, the smallest in the royal family.

JUNE MARY PELOSI a brown-eyed lovely from East Orange, N. J., will be at the prom on Fred Dwyer's arm. June, who is 5'5½" and 120 pounds, is a law secretary in New York City.

VIOLA GERUD is the 5'4" lissome miss who Charles Shanahan will escort Friday night. Viola, from Aldan, Pa., is a Freshman at Westminister College.

THERESA MAURER, the tallest member of the royalty, is the girl that Bob Capello will bring to the Prom. 5'10", and 142 pounds. Theresa is a blue-eyed beauty. She is from Merion.

Editorials

Welcome, Mom

Today, for the nineteenth consecutive year, the Junior Class will take time out from their work to honor their "best of all gals", Mother.

It is of deep significance that Junior Week, the culmination of months of planning and years of anticipation, should begin by first trying to show our appreciation to the person who, more than anyone else, has made all this possible.

After one reaches a certain age it becomes increasingly hard to express in words the love and gratitude that a person feels he owes to the Mother who has guided him to maturity. And generally a man does not fully recognize that debt until he has reached that age.

During these three years at Villanova we have come to know the sacrifice, tears, and hopes that our Mothers have expended in our behalf, and so it is today that the Junior Class tries to express, in this small way, their love and appreciation for all that has been done for them.

To you Mother, Villanova is all yours. We sincerely hope you take home with you memories of a pleasant day well spent. And as the activities commence, we wish to say—"Welcome!!"

'Biggest and Best'

For the Juniors, this week will be the zenith of their social career here at Villanova. In another article elsewhere in this paper it was stated that the Class of '53 had a habit of doing things "the biggest and the best". From all indications, Junior Week—1952—will again attain that high goal.

Congratulations are in order for the committee chairman and their untiring co-workers. There long months of planning and hours of hard work as "D-day" approached will bear fruit as the week rolls by.

Now that their job is done it is up to the rest of the school, and the Junior Class in particular, to insure that this Junior Week is chalked up as "the biggest and best".

With the fine arrangement of a variety of events this job should not be too difficult. After today's Mother's Day ceremonies there are the Band and Glee Club Concert, Blazer Ball, Prom, and Dinner-Dance. With the exception of the Dinner-Dance, all events are open to the student body and their guests. All events are well worth attending.

So again, our congratulations to the Class of '53 and our hopes that everything, from the first Mass today to the special Mass next Sunday, will be truly "the biggest and best".

This is the second annual Souvenir Edition of the "Villanovan", published in honor of Junior Week. Our appreciation to staff cartoonist Bob "Smokey" Beers for his fine work in creating a cover design that so much captures the spirit of the occasion.

Campus Honoring Best Girl For Mother's Day

By Jim Mason

Modern iconoclasts, in their feverish pursuit of attention, have attacked just about every institution which men have traditionally cherished. Some have gone so far as to traduce the very existence of marriage, and one widely known critic has become famous largely through his virulent denunciation of the influence of "Momism" in American life. Villanova men have not as yet achieved that peculiar degree of sophistication required in order to appreciate a man like Philip Wylie. We don't even intend to achieve it. As a result we are hopelessly attached to both mothers and motherhood, and will doubtless remain so while Villanova endures.

Of course, our liking for mothers is based on grounds which are a good deal more substantial than a lack of sympathy with Mr. Wylie. Motherhood is held in universal esteem, even by millions who have never been exposed to his writings, and who, with luck, never will be. Along with those millions, we feel that the highest of human dignities is that of a mother, and that mothers should be honored accordingly.

Mother's Day Comes First

With this in mind, the Junior Class at Villanova celebrates its annual Mother's Day on the first day of Junior Week. We feel that nothing could be more appropriate in inaugurating this week of festivities than to set a day aside for those who have given us birth and guided us into our young manhood.

We do not, of course, feel that we are in any way unique in this respect. There is, though, a certain quality about Mother's Day at Villanova which clearly sets it aside from the sort of Mother's Day which has been sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and the Greeting Card Industry, and which has the same general atmosphere as Kindness to Animals Week or the Community Chest Drive.

Reaffirming Faith

For us, this day of tribute to our mothers is, in a sense, a reaffirming of our Faith and an act of devotion to Our Lady, as well. Villanova College is especially dedicated to Our Mother of Good Counsel, and it is for this reason that we hold all mothers in a special regard. It might be said that it was through knowing her, in turn, that we became aware of the eminence upon which God has placed motherhood. When Christian men honor their mothers, after all, they are only following their Divine Lord, who raised His mother above all mankind.

Among the pagans, the place of the mother was a distinctly subordinate one, and it was Christianity which elevated it to its preeminent position in society. Modern pagans retain sufficient Christian tradition to honor motherhood, although without any clear knowledge of why they are doing so. In their blatant espousal of Motherhood, along with the Flag and Democracy, there is a hollow echo, however.

Beware Opposite Poles

It is becoming apparent that they are reverting to pre-Christian standards through their sponsorship of concepts such as Planned Parenthood which would destroy the whole Christian tradition of the nobility of motherhood. Others, more subtle, exalt the mother, not for herself, but because she produces sons and daughters to advance the power of the State. The time is fast approaching when modern men will be attracted to one of two opposite poles, that of the pagans, which degrades the mother, or that of the Christians, which exalts her.

In this struggle for the Christian ideal and the allegiance of men, it will be through the knowledge and example of Christians that victory will be gained. We must skirt the twin abysses presented by the Birth Controllers, on the one hand, and the seekers of cannon fodder, on the other.

Four Men Lead Class Of '53

Getting together to make final arrangements for the Junior Week activities are the four officers who have guided the Class of '53 through their Junior year.

By "Yankee" Pasha

MOTHER'S DAY 1952: The first day of Junior Week is devoted to the best girl a Junior could possibly have to help him celebrate his ascension into the hierarchy of Villanovan History. . . . Yes, On this day the Junior's of Villanova hide the darning eggs, mops, brooms, and other badges of feminine servitude that might be found about the house, and invite their "moms" to the campus for a few hours of relaxation, and for an opportunity of seeing just what this Villanova of ours is all about. . . . For three years, the off-spring of these monuments-to-feminine-pulchritude have been hearing stories of "Stinky" Smith, "Snow Shoes" Duffy, and Father O'Malleyinsky. . . . Now for the first time they have the questionable pleasure of meeting all of these partners in crime. . . . Yes, Junior Joe is taking her "On the Campus". . . . This is your day, mom, have a wonderful time with your son, for it will be an event that you will cherish in your fondest memories forever.

TIME ON HER HANDS: It takes a women twenty-one years to make a man of her son, and it takes another just twenty-one seconds to make a fool of him. . . .

WHATTZIZZ: We've seen several articles denouncing what is called"Momism" in the United States. . . . This writer would like to ask if the authors of these works were dropped from a cloud or were conventionalist as far as their births were concerned. . . . We don't believe that any woman in her right mind would claim these to be hers anyway.

DAFFYNITION: Mother: A member of the female species for whom her male off-spring is trying desperately to find a twin. . . . In other words, "I Want A Girl, Just Like the Girl that Married Dear Old Dad". Mother: The kind lady that used to bring us a drink of water at three o'clock in the morning, while she was waiting for dadsy to come home.

THE CHANGING TIMES: Hey, mom, do you remember when: You made the wardrobe for the expected one with two needles and a ball of yarn; When you washed the dishes, swept the floor with a broom, washed the babies diapers, walked to the store to get fresh vegetables and meat, hurried home to get the dinner ready and almost lost your mind while making certain that the whole repast wasn't burnt. . . . Well, mom, they don't do things like that anymore—No, siree, the gals of today have their own ideas. Nowadays, they put the dishes in a dishwasher, run the super deluxe vaccum, send the diapers to a diddie wash, get frozen foods from the refrigerator, and throw the whole kit-and-kaboodle into the automatic, self-starting, self-stopping, oven or roaster. . . . Yes, times have changed since you were a flapper. . . . The romance of housekeeping is no more. . . . The gals of today just can't display their domestic abilities unless there is a battery of switchboards and push buttons about them. . . . Of course, there are exceptions and fortunately many of us have found them.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS: The Junior who is 6'2" in height, and 265 lbs. in weight being referred to as sonny by his mom. . . . On campus he's known as "The Monster" . . . The kid that has been known for three years by the tag of Arch having his castles tumbled stone-by-stone when his mother calls him Archibald Euriphdes III. . . .

Tradition Inherent In Design Of Junior's New Class Rings

That ring you're wearing, Junior, has set a precedent in the story of Villanova College, and has a lot of tradition and history behind it.

For yours is the ring that will be the standard design for all future class rings. In the past each class chose the design that particularly struck its fancy.

Although the rings were basically the same throughout the years, details such as the Wildcat and ornamental work usually varied to some degree.

Ring Standardized

This year, however, it was decided that a standard Villanova ring was a necessity, and on the shoulders of the Class of '53 was placed the responsibility for its makeup. That they have come through in fine style can be attested to by a glance at the shiny gold ornaments they now wear.

Too many thanks can not be given to Rev. John Vrana, O.S.A., for his invaluable aid in producing a design that, in the language of heraldry, tells the story of Villanova and what it stands for.

It is to him, and hard-working Ring Committee chairman Don Blaha, that the Class of '53 owes the majority of their gratitude for striking a ring that they, and future generations of Villanovans can always be proud of.

Design Significant

The design of the ring itself incorporates many of the principles of the College.

On the left shank is the school shield in which is embodied the aim of a Villanova education. The shield is white with a blue cross, indicated by the fine horizontal lines, engraved on it. Besides being the College colors they are also the colors of Our Mother of Good Counsel.

The four round bezants on the cross are in honor of the four Charities of St. Thomas of Villanova. The book is the worldwide symbol of knowledge and the inscription "Tolle, Lege" (Take and read) are the words heard by St. Augustine prior to his conversion.

The laurel leaves are taken from the official seal of the Order of St. Augustine and symbolize victory. Above the shield and the class numerals is the motto of the College—"Veritas, Unitas, Caritas"—"Truth, Unity, Charity".

These symbolisms give the keynote of Villanova College—a Catholic institution of learning run by the Augustinian Order, dedicated to St. Thomas of Villanova, and under the guidance of Our Mother of Good Counsel.

On the other shank is a Wildcat, the school in which the student is enrolled, and the degree to be attained.

Contrary to popular belief, the chain has no signifcance and is merely ornamental.

So wear your ring proudly, Junior, it represents all you are striving for and all your College hopes you'll be.

Belle Air Portrait Appointment List Is Posted for Jrs.

Appointment lists for the Class of '53 to have their senior portraits taken have been posted on the Pie Shop bulletin board, Belle Air editor Lou Oberle has announced.

Portraits will be taken by two representatives of the Zamsky studios in the Austin Lounge during the weeks of May 12 and May 19.

It is of utmost importance that they are taken at this time in order to insure their appearance in the 1953 Belle Air.

Upon the return to classes last Fall various chairmen were immediately elected by the steering committee and work began. First was the class ring.

Under the capable direction of Chairman Don Blaha, the ring committee narrowed the choice down to two. After a spirited class discussion, one was finally chosen, this to be the standard Villanova ring in the future.

The second big undertaking of the year was "Operation Yule" and again the Class of '53 came through with a "biggest and best".

Chairmaned by Art DiVittis, the 500 orphans were taken into town to see Santa Claus

Next in the order of events comes Junior Week, 1952. But wait—that's just starting—we'll let the Juniors write their own successful conclusion to their story. Take it away.

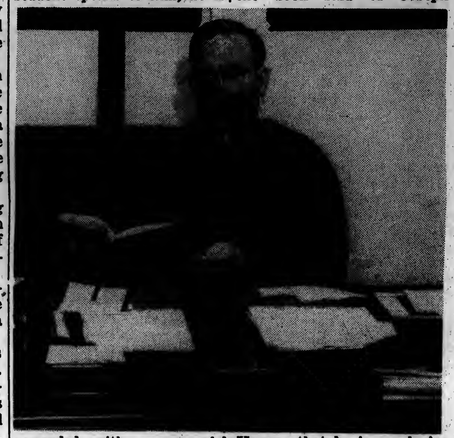
Moderator's Advice Inspires Juniors To Social Success

By Tony Galati

The job of being a class moderator is one of the most important and difficult tasks which may be assigned to a faculty member. It requires a man who possesses unlimited quantities of intelligence, perseverance, foresight and most of all patience. In the person of Rev. Joseph Kemme O.S.A., the Class of 1953 received a moderator who meets these qualification to the N'th degree.

Hustle seems to be the byword of Father Kemme. He may be seen walking around campus, with a quick determined pace. Although the red-haired moderator always seems to be in a hurry, he always finds time to stop for a chat with his boys. When a student speaks to him, he is rewarded with a congenial smile and a sincere hello.

Man Behind the Scenes



Class moderators, as a rule, seldom if ever get their names in the paper. They are truly "men behind the scenes." Father Kemme is such a man. Juniors are well aware of the fact that without the firm guiding hand of Fr. Kemme to help them over the rough spots, things would not have gone so smoothly.

Though the naturally proud moderator won't admit it, he has had many headaches since being appointed class moderator in the early part of 1950. It's a wonder that his crop of red hair isn't streaked with tell-tale strands of gray. His influence upon the class is exerted in a very definite and positive way. However, he does this in such a subtle and diplomatic manner that it is hardly noticeable. When things begin to "get hot" at class meetings, as they sometimes do, Father Kemme is always on hand with a few well chosen, quiet and inspiring words which immediately pacify the group.

When asked about how his class is doing, he assumes a very proud mien saying, "I'm more than satisfied with my boys and I'm sure that when the chips are down, they'll come through for me." Often times he adds to this: "they'd better or I'll never be able to face Father Girolami."

Best Things in Small Packages

Father Kemme is a native of North Philadelphia and more specifically the Olney section. His education had its beginning in the Philadelphia parochial schools from whence he went to Staten Island where he attended the Augustinian Academy. From prep school he came to Villanova as a student for the priesthood and was graduated with the class of 1938. That year the book said of Joseph Kemme that he is conclusive proof of the old saying "the best things come in small packages."

Subsequent to his college days, Fr. Kemme spent four years at the Augustinian College in Washington D. C. where in 1941 he was ordained a priest. While in Washington, he found time to earn a master's degree in mathematics from Catholic University.

In the summer of 1942 he returned to his alma mater to teach mathematics which he has been doing ever since. Included in his curricular duties are calculus and differential equations.

Since the time he returned to Villanova, he has had various experiences in proctoring. His first was in Mendel Hall, then Austin and following that he went back to Mendel where he has been for the past several years.

Sports have always been appealing to the modest Junior Class moderator. He shows particular interest in football which he says is his favorite spectator sport. As for par-

Class Of '53 Makes Valuable Contributions To Basketball

By Carl Valenti

Most of this year's basketball success is to be attributed to the members of the Junior class that are on the squad. This past year, the Juniors contributed the nucleus of the starting five. The "Amazing Sophs" of the previous campaign, as was expected, carried the Wildcats through another highly victorious schedule.

Heading the list of seven men from the class of '53, is lanky Larry Hennessey, high-scoring All-American. Larry, for the second straight year, led all cagers in scoring with 567 points to bring his two year total to 1270, an average of better than 21 points per game. Operating out of a forward position, Hennessey also notably improved his defensive game.

Hennessey Honored

Hennessey's court talents have not been unrewarded. At the conclusion of this past season, he was selected on no less than seven honor teams. Included among these was a berth on the Weekly Basketball Record's first team All-American.

The man primarily responsible for most of the team's defensive and rebounding achievements was Jim Mooney. He also possesses fine scoring ability as is evidenced by his 297 point output, with 114 field goals and 69 foul conversions.

Mooney Named MVP

"Gentleman Jim" too, was the recipient of some well-deserved honors. At the second annual banquet of the Villanova Club of South Jersey, Mooney was awarded the Most Valuable Player Trophy. He was also presented with the University of Pennsylvania's Class of '48 Good Sportsmanship Award for the second straight year.

It has been said of Sam Glassmire that, "Small men come no better on the basketball court." His brilliant playmaking and "threading-the-needle" passing have harrassed more than a few opposing teams. The blond West Philadelphian was one of the most reliable and dependable performers on Coach Al Severance's quintet.

McGuire Rises

Villanova seems to specialize in players who never played high school ball. Like Paul Arizin before him, Nick McGuire rose from obscurity to become a strong contender for a starting assignment. Nick was the man who could be counted on for spot roles to spell the regulars in close, fast contests.

Steve Gepp started out the season as the invaluable "sixth man" but, because of his deadly jump shot, yeomanlike work under the boards, and all-around hustle, he was starting regularly as the season was drawing to a close. It was Gepp who was principally responsible for Villanova's sensational upset of mighty Duquesne. His great defensive play guarding, the Dukes' scoring ace Jim Tucker for three quarters before he fouled out, was a deciding factor in the outcome of that contest.

Strong Reserves

Joe McGuire and George Stanko were two talented reserves always ready and willing to be called upon in an emergency. Both are fine set shot artists and cool level-headed ball handlers.

Junior's Gifts to Track Are Dwyer, Barry and Clancy

By TED SHEEHAN, Sports Editor

The contribution of the Class of 1953 to Jim Elliott bears out the old saying that good things come in small packages. The package contains only three "gifts" but all three are the best that can be had. Each is a defending Intercollegiate champion.

Leading off the "gifts" is Freddy Dwyer, the East's most promising collegiate miler and winter book favorite for a free ticket to this summer's Olympics in Helsinki. Fred had won the IC4A mile crown three times in a row—a feat accomplished by less than a dozen athletes in the association's 76-year history. Fred is also a fine anchor leg on any relay.

Second is the Balincurry Hare—John Joe Barry. John Joe is the Irish record holder for all distances from the half to the three miles. He was a member of the 1948 Olympic team of Ireland and winner of last year's outdoor two-mile crown.

Rounding out the "gifts" is Cummin Clancy, the IC4A discus champ. Cummin was born and bred in Ireland and was a member of the '48 Irish Olympic team. Clancy probably rates as Villanova's best all-time weight man. The odds are 5-4 he will be in Helsinki, too, in July.

Diamond Wildcats List Four Junior Starters On Club

The Class of 1953 can happily claim a definite part of the success of this year's diamond Wildcats. Four of the starting nine are juniors and from this point of view it looks like Art Mahan is pretty happy about it.

John Watson the workhorse of the Wildcat moundcorps is a third year man who has been outstanding ever since he joined the Villanova family in the fall of 1949. Stocky Jack was a standout in his sophomore year when Mahan used him as the first line hurler, and also in the bullpen on the days when Red Wright got the starting job. Things haven't been different this year for the blonde-haired righty. In the four games the Mainliners have played this season Watson has put in an appearance in each.

Maurer Excellent

At second little Bobby Maurer has come through in fine style and at the present he is a darned good second baseman. As a lot of you probably know the shift from short to second is one of the hardest to make for any baseball player. At first Maurer couldn't seem to get the "pivot" right, but he worked as hard as two guys every practice and finally got the double-play down pat.

Behind the plate Ken Lowe has done a stellar job. His fielding was always top notch, but there was some question among observers about his hitting. Well Kenny has left no doubt in the minds of even the most skeptical fan; a run producing single in the Rutgers game and three more against Penn have been his achievements thus far.

In the outfield Harry LeFever is another veteran performer whose play is always of the steady nature. Big Harry can really sock that ball, and he is the kind of guy that gets them when they count. In the clutch the strong armed outfielder is at his best.

Strong Bench

You can tell that Villanova is a good ball club simply by looking at the talent on the bench. Don Blaha, a regular last year, and a pre-season favorite for an infield berth, is at present sitting this one out. Don is the kind who can play anywhere and his bat, which is usually full of hits, will come in handy for pinch hitting roles.

Varsity Football Is Sparked By Seven Junior Lettermen

By Bud Russo

The 1951 Varsity Football team had some notable players from the Junior Class. There were eleven players altogether. Of these, seven were returning 1950 lettermen.

Billera, Matton, Neary Among '53 Wild Kitten Stars

The 150 pound Wild Kittens although inactive last year due to a last minute snafu, will be back with us again for the coming season. Expected to lead this team, will be Juniors who gained much and valuable experience as freshmen. This will be no easy task considering they were idle for one year and that the bulk of the team will have to be formed by new men who will be inexperienced.

However, be as it may these men will have what it takes, if their last record is a criterion. Starting out completely unfamiliar with team tactics, and with a new coach, this team had a three won and two lost record. Their three wins being shutouts over Cornell, Rutgers and Pennsylvania, they lost to Princeton in the last thirty seconds on a "slow clock".

Joe Billera, who was one of the outstanding half backs, played equally as well, defensively and offensively. He will be one player to watch for, come next season.

In the line will be Dick Miller and Joe Matton, both Engineers. Along with them will be Art DeVittis.

Frank Neary, a hard hitting half back, with Jake Cugliotta and Hank Schmitt will add strength to the back field. At the pivot will be Frank Alter, who saw mostly defensive work last season. Dom Posilicco and Lou Goeringer will round out this team, Dom having played end and Lou having seen duty in the line.

The lightest man on the team, also the most important, was Bill Brannau, an exceptionally level-headed field general and also, one of the most deceptive ball handler on any club. Bill received exceptionally good blocking to protect his 155 pound frame.

Joe DeRose, a six foot, 205 pound center ,saw most of the action all season. His playing was so exceptional that he was rated number one pivot-man in the Collier's All-American poll.

Tomko Defensive Stand Out

Paul Tomko, one of the smallest men ever to play for Villanova, saw most of his work as safety man and did an excellent job at returning punts. Paul's lack of stature is more than compensated by his tremendous amount of fight and speed. Because of this, he was one of the most popular men on the field.

Tony Trunzo is the youngest Junior on the team, he was outstanding as a reserve lineman in 1951, packing tremendous power for his five foot eight, 190 pounds.

Walt Zuber, 5 foot eight, 175 pound half back, was noted for his shifty running with tremendous power. Walt hails form Summitt Hill High School where he starred in football, basketball and baseball.

One of the outstanding halfbacks for the season was Dick Bedesem, a Philadelphia lad, who had the starting assignment. Dick combined speed with power to mark him as a notable asset to any club.

Dick Connor, a six foot, 215 tackle from Stamford, Connecticut, was the only returning letter man at tackle. He was used on both offensive and defensive assignments.

Tom Green, out most of the begining of the season with injuries, came back in the latter part of the season as defensive center. Tom showed a keen knack of sensing plays, standing out as a vicious tackler.

Bill Grief a 5 foot 10 inch, 185 pound back, proved himself as a good break-away back and showed his stuff in later part of the season when injuries slowed up others. Bill exhibited terrific speed and a shrewd sense of football know-how.

SPORTS CHATTER

Junior's High Moments

By TED SHEEHAN, Sports Editor

It has become the tradition with the "Villanovan" each year to devote an edition to the Junior class, and in turn, the Sports staff each year sings the praises of those Wildcat perspirers who toil for the fame of Villanova on the athletic field and who are members of the Junior class.

In doing this though, only a few members of the Junior class are given attention and this writer was thinking the other day about the rest of the Junior class. What of them? They have been here for three years and supporting Villanova's athletic programs without even an iota of mention. To them also should go a laurel.

We were also wondering which event that has taken place athletically while these Juniors have been here stands out most vividly in the mind of the average Junior. Actually, these boys are in a good position for, although here only three years, they have seen two distinct eras.

From Arizin to Hennessey

In basketball, the Class of 1953 spans from the era of Paul Arizin, Brooks Ricca and Shy Raiken to the era of Hennessey, Glassmire and Stewart. In football, from Johnny Geppi, Ralph Pasquiriello and Pete D'Alonzo to Nick Liotta, Bill Hegarty and Bobby Haner. In track from Browning Ross, George Thompson and Jim McKenna to Dwyer, Wheiler and Barry. In baseball from Benny Moskal, Jack Jamieson and Red Wright to Watson, Maurer and Lowe.

They have seen many in their short three-year stay and they also have seen much. In the four major sports what are the most memorable highpoints?

In football, the 8-1 season of their freshmen year must be etched deeply. The 21-19 upset loss to Tulsa—the only blemish on an otherwise perfect record—is probably the individual event. Since the game was at Shibe Park most of them were given the advantage, or disadvantage, of watching the spectacle.

Radio broadcasts have been the media for many of the football games to reach the campus. Two of the memorable broadcasts are probably the game 1950 season closer against St. Mary's in quagmired Kezar Stadium and the upset of Alabama during last season by a 41-18 count.

In basketball the Junior class had the advantage of seeing the incomparable Paul Arizin during his finest year. That was the year that the campus went crazy over Tall Paul. Arizin stands out more clearly than any other athlete in their minds and even if Larry Hennessey were to surpass all of Paul's old marks the '53ers probably would never, in their own minds, let any athlete surpass Arizin.

The ovation that Paul received in the Palestra after the Duquesne game of 1950 which ended his career at Villanova shares honors along with the N. C. State game a year ago at the Palestra and a couple of, this year's affairs, namely the Duquesne and St. Bonaventure scraps.

In no way do we mean to do Larry Hennessey any slur. It is just as psychological point with students to hold in higher esteem the teams of their freshman year than of their sophomore or junior.

Red Leads the Way

In baseball Red Wright is considered by many Juniors to be the outstanding player of their years here. As a pitcher and therefore able to get more credit than any other player this is probably a wise choice. Benny Moskal, Walt Hauck, Bob Sexton, Jack Morris and from the present club, John Watson and Bobby Maurer shouldn't be overlooked.

In track the Juniors have been able to see a steady stream of fine runners pass before them in Villanova uniforms. They had Browning Ross in their freshman year. Browney was the last of the two Wildcats to make the Olympic team still running for Villanova in 1949.

Following him there was George Thompson and Jim McKenna and Ireland's trio—John Joe Barry, Jim Reardon and Cummin Clancy. After that comes the later group of Fred Dwyer, Ray Wheiler and Joe Gaffney.

It is hard to say what development in track and field is the most memorable in the mind of the average Junior. The winnings of John Joe Barry in the winter of 1950 is a high point. He and Fred Wilt put on many a good mile race that year with Barry taking his share of firsts.

Jim McKenna's work in the '51 Inquirer Meet and Jim Reardon's efforts in the New York K. of C. meet also stand. Dwyer's winning of the IC4A mile must have made an impression also.

In three years the Juniors have seen a good deal and we hope they are around to see a good deal more.

Juniors Lead Way In All Intramural Sports Activities

By John Gillman

As in everything else, Juniors were the big things in Intra-Mural athletics this year. Juniors Tom Ackermann, Joe Billera, Paul Sollami, Ted Lebreque and Tony Trannelli were the stars of the Good Counsel team which won the Touch football championship, undefeated and unscored upon.

Toppers Undefeated

Later on in the year another team, the Alumni Toppers, won the basketball championship for the second year in a row and went undefeated for the second year in a row. This team was also composed mainly of Juniors, namely Jude O'Donnell, Larry O'Hearn, Bob McEntee and Don Diot.

O'Donnell and O'Hearn were also the highest scorers on the Intra-Mural All Stars. They led the All Stars to a very successful 10-1 season against independent teams in the Philadelphia area. Their only loss being a two point affair at the hands of a strong Rider College J. V. outfit.

In the less publicised Intra-Mural sports Juniors also stood out. Vahe "Pancho" Melconian has been one of the outstanding net men at Villanova for three years and Chick Bogan was one of the leading scorers in the Bowling league this season.

Win I-M Track Meet

When the present Juniors were Freshmen they literally ran away with the team championship of the first annual Intra-Mural track meet, taking all but two of the individual events. Last year they were second but this year, if we can believe their coaches Cummin Clancy and Joe Matton, they are going to bring home the bacon. Breaking two years of Freshman domination is going to be mighty tough though.

Speaking of the I-M track meet, here is a reminder to all those who wish to join their class track teams and try for those medals, which will be presented to the first three in each event and to each member of the first three relay teams. Meetings will be held today, Monday May 5, for the Juniors at 11:30 in the Stadium and for the Seniors, Sophomores and Freshmen at 4:30 in the Stadium. If you can't make your class meeting, see the coach of your team.

Diamond Wildcats

At the beginning of the season this writer reported that Ken Lowe made up the catching staff. Well since then, we are happy to say things have changed. Jim White showed his versitility when he switched from the pitcher's slab to a job with the mask and the mitt. Al Bartholameo then decided on a change of sports and its wasn't long before Mahan had the third catcher he needed.

Of course a story on the juniors under the guidance of Art Mahan wouldn't be complete without mentioning Frank Neary. The "Little Fireball" is one of the best hustlers you could ever hope to find.

Varsity Football

slot was Bobby Haner from Kentucky who was the Wildcats main stay, not only carrying out the heavy assignments as line plunger, but he did most of point after touchdown work. Villanova is famous for the tremendous fullbacks it develops and Bob was a first class replacement for Pete D'Alonzo.

Rounding out this group is Joe Jerry, a half back who was converted to guard. A rugged player who made the All-State squad while going to high school.

The coaches are: Freshmen, Ned Mahota—207 Barr. 2; Sophmores, Bill Bellville—205 Barr. 2; Juniors, Cummin Clancy—308 Fedigan and Joe Matton—105 Alumni; Seniors, Joe Till—Delury, and Tom Gildea and Jake Patrick.

Two Junior Classmen On Paper Sports Staff

The Class of 1953 is represented on the "Villanovan" Sports staff, in the persons of Carl Valenti and John Gillman.

Carl is in the Commerce and Finance School and is majoring in pre-law. He is a native of New Brunswick, New Jersey and a graduate of St. Peter's of New Brunswick.

While at St. Pete's, Carl was Sports Editor of the "Cardinal" the high school paper. He also played baseball and basketball.

The other Junior member of the "Villanovan" Sports staff is John Gillman,. John is in the School of Education and a native of East Northport, Long Island. He graduated from LaSalle Academy in New York. John covers intramural athletics for the paper.

Special Lynx Sale Today

Staff Holds Back Copies For Sale to Mothers

"Lynx", literary magazine will be sold this afternoon in the College Field House. Although there is only a limited number left, a portion have been set aside to enable each of the members of the Class of '53 to purchase one of the memorable books for his mother.

This issue, dedicated to Junior Week, has already proven its appeal in unprecedented sales over the past week. Of particular note today is the Forntespice by Junior Ed Cormeier, which depicts a Junior presenting his mother with a corsage in front of the chapel. It is a scene with which everyone who reads this today is familiar.

Besides offering single issues, Circulation Manager Kevin McCrane announced that subscriptions for the quarterly will also be offered in the Field House today.

Dr. Quam New Exec Of Pa. Chem. Profs

Dr. G. N. Quam, head of the Chemistry Department, was elected to the Executive Committee of the Pennsylvania Conference of College Chemistry Teachers at a meeting of the group on Saturday, April 19, at Penn State College.

At this organizational session, where representatives of the faculties of nearly all Pennsylvania colleges were present, Dr. Quam also contributed to a symposium on the teaching of General Chemistry a paper entitled "The Places of Laboratory Quizes In the Teaching of Chemistry."

In other Chemistry Department news, Dr. Robert P. Koob contributed a paper entitled "Amine Catalyzed Dealdolization" to the Catholic Round Table of Science on Saturday, April 26 at Mount Mercy College, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Fr. Kemme

ticipating in athletics Father Kemme favors tennis. "I'm getting too old to play with the kids", he says, "but I still like to play." His usual court rivals are Father McKee and Father Falvey, who he says, "are more in my class." It was only a few years ago, when the faculty still had a basketball team, that Fr. Kemme was known as one of the stars on that squad.

In July of 1944 when Fr. McKee was appointed Director of Varsity Athletics, Father Kemme along with Fr. Girolami became co-moderator of intramural sports and he served in that position for five years.

Spiritual Advisor

Since 1950 he has been Assistant Chaplain: an office which he still holds. In this capacity he has done much to help Villanovans in their spiritual problems.

Senior Engineers Awarded Honors In Recent Contests

Four senior engineering students from Villanova received awards recently for papers submitted in three different contests.

William A. Sech, Civil Engineering student, won first place in the technical paper contest at the annual ASCE Student Chapter Convention at Penn State College April 21. The contest was sponsored by the Philadelphia, Delaware, Lehigh Valley, and central Pennsylvania sections of the society, open to senior civil engineers from Colleges in the area.

Original Paper

Sech's paper, "The Effects of Elevated Temperatures on Air Entrained Concertes" was a joint thesis project with Richard Becker. Charts and drawings necessary for the speaker were prepared by John Hopwood, Edmond Cormier, and Bill Belleville.

In the student prize paper competition conducted by the Philadelphia Section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, Villanova seniors took first and second places.

Harte Wins

James W. Harte won the first award and will receive twenty-five dollars and a certificate for his paper, "An Analog Computing Circuit for use in a Direct Recording Spectrophotometer". Second place was won by Henry Wu, who wrote on "The Theory and Applications of SR-4 Resistive Strain Gauges".

Harte will present his paper at a meeting of the AIEE at the Engineers Club of Philadelphia May 12, Prize Paper Night, together with other prize winners.

Other Awards

Harte will also represent Villanova College in the District 2 AIEE Student Prize Paper Competition which will be held at Penn State in May.

Alfred Talbot, Chemical Engineer, also won second place in the Zeissburg Award given by the Philadelphia-Wilmington section of the AIChE for a report on "Heat Jacketed Kettle".

NROTC Inter-Company Drills, Armed Forces Day On Schedule

Lieutenant Commander John S. Alexander, newly appointed acting professor of Naval Science, will preside over two Naval ROTC functions next week, the annual inter company competition and the Armed Forces Day ceremonies.

Next Tuesday, May 13, Mr. Alexander will be in charge of two of the main factors in the year round company competition. At this time the companies will be rivals in basic marching drill and in an overall inspection.

LCDR. JOHN S. ALEXANDER
Acting Prof. of Naval Science

Award Made

Points are also awarded throughout the year for achievement in swimming and in pistol and rifle markmanship. The outstanding company will be rewarded at the end of the week on the basis of total points in all fields mentioned.

At present, plans are underway to have representatives from the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps act as judges at the events.

At the end of the week, Saturday, May 17, the winning company will be presented with the Battalion colors, as part of the Armed Forces Day ceremonies. The presentation will be made by Miss NROTC, Miss Barbara Stapf, who was chosen at the unit's Spring Formal.

Ivy League Sailors

At the ceremonies, Villanova will be host to visiting dignitaries of the Fourth Naval District staff and to drill teams from Pennsylvania State College, the University of Pennsylvania, and the University of Princeton.

The visiting drill squads will vie with Villanova's crack outfit for the Fourth Naval District Plaque, won last year by Villanova.

Wedding Theme At Prom

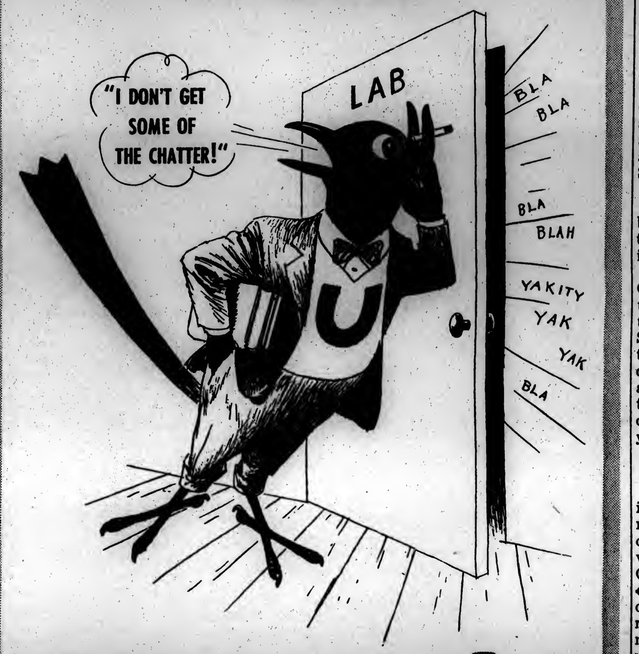
Plays to Please

Art Mooney makes no pretentions about his goal in the musical trade. His aim is merely to play what the public — his audience for the night—wants. Thus, the 600-odd couples will be pirouetting around the Field House floor Friday evening to the dance-ballad type of music that Miller made so famous.

Tremendous accomplishments in the way of choral and vocal presentations have been effected by Mooney. The fact that the orchestra leader is a great admirer of Fred Waring will be discernible at the Prom along this line.

Yes, the man who recorded such hits as "You Were Meant For Me," "Sunset to Sunrise," and "Five Feet Two, Eyes of Blue," will be at the Prom Friday night. That in itself points in the direction of an enjoyable evening.



Program

Program Chairman Dick Conroy has promised the largest program in Villanova Junior Prom history. Conroy said that the "Royal Wedding" effect will be created from the instant the couple walks in the door and receives the program.

A few prom bids, at six dollars per bid, are still available, the ticket committee reported yesterday. They will be on sale in the Junior Week ticket booth in the Pie Shop, and from members of the ticket committee this week until the supply is exhausted.

Spanish Club Hears Consul At Cervantes Night Fiesta

Don Jose Maria Cortes, chancellor of the Spanish Consulate in Philadelphia, was the main speaker at last Saturday night's celebration of Cervantes Day sponsored by the Spanish Club at the Elks Club in Norristown.

Mr. Cortes headed a delegation of officials from Spanish-speaking countries who were guests at the dinner-dance and cultural program in honor of Miguel de Cervantes, Spanish author of "Don Quixote."

Students Win Prizes

A feature of the evening's program was the awarding of prizes by Don Luis Villaba, consul from Spain, to two Villanova students for winning works in a literary contest sponsored by the Club in conjunction with Cervantes Day.

James Nolin, sophomore Arts student, was awarded a one-volume edition of the author's "Don Quixote" for his poem "On Cervantes' Death." John McGrath, freshman Arts, received a medal and diploma from the Spanish Institute of Columbia University for his prose composition about the sixteenth century Spanish writer.

Get Cultural Listing

In recognition of the awards both students will be listed in the next edition of the Spanish Cultural Index.

Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O.S.A., moderator presided at the affair attended by some two hundred members of the Spanish Club and guests. Both the moderator and Club president, Frank Cauz who acted as master of ceremonies, thanked members for the cooperation in making this year's tribute a success.

Then, comes the big moment—the Prom on Friday night. She will wind up the week as Guest of Honor at the Dinner-Dance Saturday.

Sansom House Is Site Of DPE's Annual Dinner

The Sansom House in Philadelphia was the scene of the annual dinner-dance of the Delta Pi Epsilon fraternity the evening of Saturday, April 26. Attendance at the affair reached over 100.

Speakers included Rev. Richard McNally, O.S.A., temporary DPE moderator, Rev. George McLaughlin, O.S.A., Dean of Student Activities, and Don Briggs, outgoing fraternity president. Senior Ted Przybylowski personally contributed a gavel to be used by the group. Co-chairmen of the event were Toastmaster Jack Schaefer and John Thompson. of their completion by 12.30.

According to policy established last year, graduates will receive a limited number of invitations(probably three) as a matter of formality, but there will be no actual limit on the number of guests who may attend.

Even in the case of inclement weather—a possibility that hasn't been met in a number of years, so keep your fingers crossed — graduation exercises will be held in the Field House. There is still no limit on guests.

Following graduation the former students will be free to leave campus. There are no exercises or reception scheduled.

Announcements should already have been ordered by the graduates from the College Book store. According to information presently available, each graduate's invitations will also be available from the same place.

400 Engineering Educators Convene Here On Saturday

College Host to ASEE In Regional Meeting

Villanova College will be host to some 400 engineering college professors and administrators from the middle-Atlantic region next Saturday, May 10, at the semi-annual area meeting of the American Society for Engineering Education.

Very Rev. F.X.N. McGuire, O.S.A., College President, will deliver an address of welcome at the first general session of the day-long program scheduled for 10 a. m. in the C&F Auditorium. Chairman for this meeting will be Professor William B. Plank of Lafayette College, chairman of the ASEE Middle Atlantic Section.

"Engineer in Library"

Topic for the morning discussion will be "The Value of the Library to the Engineer" under direction of Rev. Daniel P. Falvey, O.S.A., Villanova Librarian. Speakers include Melvin J. Voigt, librarian of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, and Miss Elsie Ray, librarian of the Anaconda Copper Mining Co., the only woman listed on the engineering program.

Afternoon sessions will consist of panel groups discussing various phases of engineering education. Special feature of the program will be a demonstration of audio-visual aids to teaching engineering conducted by several audio-visual experts including Cmdr. Robert E. Noe of the Office of Naval research, Port Washington, N. Y., and Homer F. Hatfield, Mechanical research engineer for the Pennsylvania Power and Light Co.

For Parents Mostly

Commencement On June 2

Although most of the attention this week is focused on the Juunior Class, members of the Senior Class still rate high in news importance with preliminary announcement of the most significant event of their year — graduation.

More concerned than anyone over the commencement plans, it seems, are parents of the graduates whose questions have been answered only vaguely up til now.

To clear up the situation for both parents and Seniors, this paper has secured the tentative schedule for the one hundred ninth commencement exercises.

Presupposing that all exams are passed and the various other articles of official red tape are complied with, this year's graduate will begin his trek to the outside world Sunday morning, June 1, when Baccalaureate services are to be held at 10 a. m. in the Field House.

No outsiders are specifically invited to the services, but parents and friends are welcome to attend, according to official announcement.

The following day, Monday, June 2, almost five hundred members of the Class of '52 will receive degrees during exercises beginning at 11 a. m. Site for the annual ceremony is, as usual, the patio of the Library, with spectators seated in chairs on the lawn in Mendel field.

The entire ceremonies should take no more than two hours, with the probability

230 Students Will Receive Awards At Assembly

The annual merit award assembly will take place this afternoon in the College Field House at 1:30 p. m. Classes which normally meet at that time will be cancelled.

Rev. F. X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., College President, will give awards to 230 Villanovans who have been active in extra-curricular activities. In order to be eligible for merit awards, in addition to participation in extra-curriculars, a student must rate relatively high in academic, chapel and disciplinary records.

New Award

This year there will be something new at the Merit Award Assembly. Two graduating seniors will receive special awards. The two men are James E. Stillwagon, chemistry major, and Thomas J. Kelly, chem. engineer. They will be rewarded for attaining the highest scholastic averages in their respective fields.

Dr. G. N. Quam, head of the Villanova Chemistry Department, will introduce Dr. F. C. Gzemske, Chairman of the Philadelphia chapter of the American Chemical Society. Dr. Gzemske will present a plaque to the school.

18 Staffers Get Keys from Paper At Annual Dinner

Eighteen graduating editors and staff members of Villanova's leading campus weekly will be meeting the last deadline Saturday night when they are awarded keys for service to the paper at the annual staff dinner-dance.

Reservations for all staff members who will attend the affair in the Mirage Room of the Hotel Barclay must be made by Thursday with Managing Editor Dave Maynes. It is requested that tables of four couples each be arranged before reservations are made.

Dinner will start promptly at 7:30, followed by presentation of awards and naming of next year's editorial staff. Rev. John Klekotka, O.S.A., moderator, will preside.

Classes Voting Thursday In Campuswide Elections

ELECTION RULES

1. All classes will elect four officers (president, vice - president, secretary and treasurer). In addition Freshmen will choose one Student Council representative; Sophomores, four; Juniors, five and one Senior Alumni representative.
2. Use of sound equipment is restricted to the periods between classes.
3. Notices in Mendel hall and the C&F building are to be posted only on bulletin boards.
4. Posters must be removed immediately after elections are completed.
5. Elections will be held in Alumni hall gymnasium Thursday, May 15, from 10:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m.

NOTE. As soon as possible all organizations having representation on the Student Council are to hold elections so that the Council may be reorganized late this month.

Some 94 Villanovans are losing considerable sleep this week; they are the candidates running for class offices and Student Council posts, and Thursday is campus election day. According to Rev. George McLaughlin, O.S.A., moderator of student activities, class elections will be held in Alumni hall gymnasium from 10:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. on Thursday, May 15.

There are 37 Juniors in the race for offices becoming effective in the fall; 33 Sophomores and 24 Freshmen are nominees for respective class offices. Parties and independents alike are currently engaged in extensive campuswide campaigns with E-Day two days off.

Class Officers

One president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer are to be chosen by each class to lead the groups for the 1952-53 school year. In addition, Juniors will elect five Student Council representatives, Sophomores, four, and Freshmen, one.

Father McLaughlin, expecting an even greater turnout at the class polls than in previous years, outlined the general election rules that will be imposed by the Elections Committee of the Student Council during campaigns.

The moderator of student activities emphasized that posters should be placed on bulletin boards only, and that no electioneering will be allowed in the Alumni gym during the balloting. Use of sound equipment will be permitted only during class recesses and students will be required to show their matriculation cards.

VILLANOVAN STAFF

Reservations for the Villanovan Dinner-Dance can be made in the "Villanovan" office between 2:30 and 4:30 tomorrow. Final arrangements will be made at that time.

Editorials

The Best Man

"Now is the time for all good men . . ." —a trite old saying, but one with a message that applies. And you, good man, sipping coffee in the Pie Shop, waiting on the chow line in Mendel, you are the one to whom it applies now that class elections are only two days away.

You've already seen the campaign signs around campus, probably been buttonholed by some of the more active campus politicians. And more than likely you've already decided the way you'll cast your vote in Alumni Thursday.

But before you actually put the "X" on the ballot, stop and think for a minute if you're choosing the best man for the job. Even on the campus level, elections rate more than to be considered popularity contests.

And at Villanova this year, student elections carry additional importance. Recent increases in Student Council power by themselves place added responsibility on the men elected to office. It will be up to the men you elect Thursday to prove that they match the task of carrying on where this year's officers have to leave off. Just like the job of leading a class through a year of activity, this office was never meant for any but the most level-headed and tireless men the student body has to offer.

You won't necessarily find out after the election returns are in whether you have made the right choice.

But you can make sure that you will be giving the best man a chance to prove his worth by casting your vote intelligently and with some serious thought Thursday.

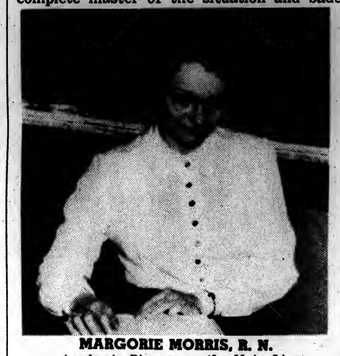
"Never Under-Estimate the Power of a Woman"

Nurse Div. Gives V.C. First Co-Ed



By Al Hennessey

The usual happy-go-lucky calm of the average Villanova student was somewhat shattered last February by the appearance of a young lady on campus. This in itself was not a startling fact, but she was carrying books . . . and therefore a student. The question that jumped into the minds of many students was that wildest of all dreams, "Has Villanova at last gone Co-ed?"

By now Miss Marjorie Morris has become an accepted member of the student body. Marge, as she prefers to be called, is a registered nurse, having graduated from Hahnemann Hospital Nursing School. Marge also studied operating techniques at the New York Post-Graduate Hospital. She is now seeking a B. S. in Nursing, taking sixteen hours for her first semester.

Murmurs Of Disbelief

As we all know the Villanova campus can be confusing when first encountered. Marge understandibly confused Belle Air Hall with Barry Hall and was thus late for her first class, which was in General Psychology. As she entered the class she was greeted with murmurs and gasps of disbelief. A mere teacher would have been startled by the appearance of a girl in a normally male saturated classroom. However Mr. L. M. Recktenwald, being no mere teacher, was complete master of the situation and bade her sit down. Marge had passed her first test successfully.

MARGORIE MORRIS, R. N.
Academic Pioneer on the Main Line

Most Startled Prof

The most startled of teachers was Rev. Dante Girolami, O.S.A., who is Miss Morris' Religion prof. He had just given the class its opening pep talk when he looked around and noticed our heroine. Words cannot describe Father's amazement. However he recovered and continued with the class in almost normal patern, she says.

Pioneer Co-Ed

Marge was to have had two other nurses as colleagues but they could not be released by their hospitals. So Miss "Marge" Morris became the pioneer of co-education at Villanova.

Marge says she has enjoyed her first semester here and she believes that the nursing course is very good. At the conclusion of her two years of study she plans to teach in a nursing school. Her degree will qualify her to be a supervisor in a hospital.

Hobby-wise Marge is a singer. She takes private lessons and has sung with several music groups.

Made a separate division of the college only last fall the Nursing Division was seperated from the Extension School and opened on the campus in September. At present both the Extension School and the new division have moved from Hallahan High School to the campus but have seperate administrative officers.

PASHA THE PIT

By "Yankee" Pasha

JUNIOR WEEK AFTERMATH: Juniors looking for a tribe of headhunters. . . . They want to have their heads shrunk back to their normal brain capacity after the long week-end. . . . We wish to extend our congratulations to the Class of '53 for staging one of the most successful Junior Weeks in the history of this old Alma-Mammy of ours. . . . The music of Mooney was terrific, the wedding setting beautiful but frightening to the men who brought the blind dates, and the whole week was a tremendous realization of carefully laid plans.

IMMACULATANING: The writer of these few lines of deathless prose wishes to thank Joan Bell of the "Immaculatan" staff for including him in her resume of the leading male columnists, from the surrounding men's schools. . . . Of course, she must realize that she is going contrary to all popular beliefs that are held at the other fem diploma-distribution centers in this district in regard to this Pit. . . . To add a note, we like to say that the writer never refuses an invitation to tea when forwarded from a sweet young thing made of sugar and spice but that there are, at present, certain limitations which must be met.

WORK FOR GENERAL: Several of the witty ones have been inquiring as to what is to be done with the dirt that has accummulated atop the smoke-stack. . . . It seems that The General has been attaching broom handle upon broom handle for the past few days and, at last report, has acquired enough footage to reach the heights of that monument to the bricklayers trade. . . .

DINNER DAUNCING: The staff of this fabulous leading campus weekly is going to fight-its way from the editorial office in which it has been existing for the last ten months next Saturday and have one wing-ding of an affair at the Barclay Hotel . . . This is the edition for which all have been waiting and it promises to be a real ball. . . . Don't be too surprised if the typsetting for the next issue is somewhat askew. . . .

WVILING: Bob Allen has done a tremendous service to Villanova in his work for the newly wired radio station. . . . Anyone living on campus is missing a real bet, if they are neglecting to tune to 640 from 7:30 'til 11. . . . The news coverage, and disc-jockey shows are something that should be heard.

Require Higher Aims

College Men Should Lead Demand For Better Political Platforming

By Jim Mason

Perhaps one of the most pressing moral obligations faced by the Catholic college student today is the exercise of prudence and discretion in choosing the man he will support for the Presidency in 1952. It has, at times, appeared that a tendency exists among many to guide their choice by emotional appeal, rather than by intellectual conviction.

While lamentable in the average voter, such an attitude is unforgivable in the educated citizen. Those who are naturally expected to lead are often unqualified to do so through their own inertia and lack of vision.

Issues Not Related

Already in the campaign some candidates have had recourse to devices, intended to secure votes, which have no relation at all to the issues before the nation. General Eisenhower, a most estimable man, cannot have been responsible for the display his supporters staged in New York some time ago, when they set out to put the facts before the people by parading chorus girls, crooners and a tennis star around Madison Square Garden.

The phrase, "I like Ike", while catchy, cannot be said to present a cogent program for governing the nation. Nor does the fact that Senator Kefauver opposes gambling obviate the less mentioned but more important fact that he has only offered the most vague and noncommital platform imaginable throughout his campaign.

Idea Is Old

The "bandwagon" idea is an old one in American politics, and it has sometimes worked to the detriment of the Republic. Today we see it on a larger scale than ever, due to devices such as television.

People Must Demand

Until the people demand from the candidates something more than a side-show and a group of slogans, the candidates will offer little more of their own accord. Some of those offering themselves to the people have, indeed, seriously investigated the national problems, and have brought forth detailed programs and solutions.

It avails little, however, if a well thought out book discussing our foreign policy carries no more weight with the voters than does an Irving Berlin song and the endorsement of Miss Rheingold 1937.

It is time the college men took the lead in demanding thoughful programs from the candidates, just for a change. It might work.

Highlights of a Week for the Class of '53

1. JUNIOR WEEK QUEEN

2. TREE PLANTING

4. MOTHER'S DAY BANQUET

3. BLAZER BALL

Jrs. Score Traditional Success

After seven long days of festivities, Junior Week is over for another year and now only the memories are left. For many, these first few days following the year's highlight will be spent trying to separate the individual events from the general maze of activities that began last Monday. As a little aid in the task, here's a pictorial reveiew of some of the big moments.

1. Junior Week Queen Betty Montgomery receives her scepter and crown from Prom Chairman Don Brown (right) and Junior Class president Paul Sollami. Betty was the date of Joe Kearns. Members of the Queens court were Mary Ann Moran, escorted by Jerry Ryan, June Pelosi, Fred Dwyer's lovely date, Viola Gerud, with Charles Shanahan, and Theresa Maurer, entered by Bob Capello.

2. Annual Tree planting took place behind St. Rita's Hall immediately after the High Mass opening the Mother's Day excercises Monday. Hugh Flaherty, Mother's Day chairman, turns over the first spadefull of earth as his mother and Rev. Joseph Kemme, O.S.A., Junior Class moderator look on.

3. The Blazer Ball was the first dance on the week's long schedule. Held in the Field House Wednesday night, it featured a gigantic column of floating baloons as the centerpiece. Joe Ranieri, dance chairman, his date Ninfa Mongiello, and Father Kemme discuss the decorations during intermission. Music was supplied by the Villanovans.

4. Climax for Mother's Day was the banquet served in the Field House in the evening. Junior Week Queen Betty Montgomery makes plans for the week with Paul Sollami, and his sister, and Father Kemme. Mother's Day activities included the opening Mass, tree planting, lunch, band concert and benediction prior to the banquet.

5. Beautiful centerpiece for the "Royal Wedding" theme of the Prom Friday night was a huge wedding cake gaily decorated with flowers and topped off by a revolving "royal bride and groom" on top.

Committee Reports To Clarify Position

lar Student Council meeting, the Chairman of the Student Council named a committee of ten students to present to Father McGuire their proposal of a Joint Committee of Student - Administration affairs.

Father McGuire met with the committee of ten shortly after. He expressed confidence in the Student Council and agreed to the proposal that a Joint Committee be established.

This Joint Committee, it was agreed, would consist of seven members: three members from the administration; three members from the student body; and Father McLaughlin, ex officio. The three administration members were to be appointed by the Father President. The three students were to be elected from the original ten-man committee from the Student Council.

Representatives Announced

Less than two weeks after the first meeting with the President, Father McGuire at the Student Convocation April 22 announced his approval of the committee, expressed confidence in its function and designated the three administration members: Rev. Joseph Boyle, O.S.A., Rev. Thomas Burke, O.S.A., Rev. Robert Sullivan, O.S.A.

The ten man committee of the Student Council met and elected as student members of the Joint Committee: Tom Delaney (Student Council President) Charles Russell, and Bob Quinn.

From the Student's point of view, the purpose of the committee (established as a result of Student Council initiative) was to give the student body an access to the administration not hitherto available. It was to guarantee to the student body that the administration was made aware of student problems, opinions, and requests for the adoption of measures needed to make student life more satisfactory and student - administration contacts closer and more immediate.

Free Expression Wanted

Committee meetings were to be the occasion for the frank discussion of all conditions relating to student-administration matters. What was desired most of all by committee members in their mutual discussions was complete freedom of expression. This freedom, it was felt, could only be guaranteed in what is known as a closed session. No one except committee members was to attend the meetings.

Problems discussed, opinions voiced, solutions proposed at these meetings were to be presented in person to the Father President by the Joint Committee in the form of Proposals or Resolutions. The Father President in turn would act or not act as he saw fit.

Information as to what the committee discussed, what it resolved, what it proposed could be made available only in the form of "releases." These would come from Father McLaughlin, the Committee Secretary, and would be approved by the entire committee.

Mutual Confidence Needed

Thus it is, that as a result of Student Council initiative, a committee has been brought into being by the Father President, whose purpose is to discuss and attempt to solve in the best way possible the many problems affecting student-administration affairs.

There is no desire on the part of students to intrude into the management of the College. There is confidence in the student body on the part of the administration. There must be mutual confidence on the part of the student body in its student representatives.

Only as a result of this confidence will the President's Joint Committee succeed in serving the best interests of administration and student body. The administration will be immediately aware of student viewpoints, and the student will be an informed member of the College Family.

Sommers Downs Duquesne, 6-1, On 4 Hits Seton Hall Winner In Track Meet, 64½-61½

Clancy Wins Two, Wheiler Clocked in 1:53:4 for Half Mile

The Villanova track team again went down to defeat in dual meet, last Saturday afternoon against the Pirates of Seton Hall at Bloomfield Stadium in New Jersey, by the score of 64½-61½.

Once again the margin of defeat was small-three points. The week before the track team had gone down to defeat at the hands of New York University by two points, 71-69. So in the two meets combined the Wildcats have lost the meets by a combined total of a mere five points.

The winners for the Seton Hall meet were practically the same as those at the NYU meet. Wheiler, Dwyer, Barry, Clancy, Panczner and Quinn all repeated.

The Pirates swept the sprints and would have continued on in the hurdles if Charlie Spencer, the reformed cheerleader, hadn't taken a second in the 220 low and a third in the 120 high hurdles.

Morris Curotta, formerly of Australia, beat Jim Reardon, formerly of Ireland, in the quarter with a fast 48 flat timing.

The highlight of the day, as far as performance went was in the half mile run where Ray Wheiler came home the winner in the lightning fast time of 1:53:4 for the two lap cinder jaunt. Frank Turner of Seton Hall was behind Ray the entire distance. Freddy Dwyer, with only a 30 minute rest after the mile was third.

In the mile event, Fred Dwyer, surprising absolutely no one, was the victor. Behind him came Artie Klepper in the time of 4:25. This time was the fastest that Art has ever run the eight furlong distance in Dwyer was clocked in 4:23:7.

Barry Wins

The two mile run saw John Joe Barry repeat his performance of the New York U. meet. This time it was Seton Hall. Freshman Bill Rock was third. There were no one or two mile relays.

In the field events, Villanova won in four of the six contests. In the discus Cummin Clancy repeated his win and showed himself in fine form to retain his IC4A laurel by winning the discus with a heave of 160'9".

Villanova swept this event as footballer Ed Coughlan was second and third went to Bob Ruggerio. The other event that the Cats swept was the shot where Cummin Clancy came back to toss the 16 pound shot for a distance of 44 feet 5 inches. Second was Ruggerio and third was Mike Quinn.

In the javelin, Mike Quinn once again took first place honors for the second week in a row. The St. Bendict's Prep graduate threw the shaft a distance of 172 feet. Mike Roscoe, a freshman was second and Betz of Seton Hall was third. Marty Panczner was first again in the high jump. He went over the bar at 6 feet even.

CROSSING THE PLATE for one of the Wildcats' 6 runs in Saturday's home diamond victory over Duquesne is catcher Kenny Lowe. The 6-1 score brought the Mahanmen's season total to seven wins and two losses.

Penn State Defeated, 12-1; Sommers Yields Two Hits

After the 10-0 drubbing at the hands of Fordham the Mainliners snapped back and handed Penn State their first defeat of the season by the score of 12-1.

A seven run first inning by the Wildcats left no doubt in the minds of the large Mother's Day crowd about the outcome of the contest. Eleven Villanovans faced Keith Vesling and Jerry Troy in the first frame. They picked up the seven runs on four hits, a couple of walks and three infield errors.

Don Sommers the sophomore lefthander had a no hitter until the sixth inning when Bill Hopper got a two out single to right. The same Hopper got his second hit of the game in the eighth inning and ultimately scored the Lion's only run.

13 Hits

The Wildcats had a field day at bat clubing three State hurlers for a total of 13 hits. Lead off man Bobby Maurer led the attack with four hits in five tries. Incidentally two of the hits came in the big first inning. The second high man was the shortstop Ralph Cecere who picked up three singles for the afternoon.

Freshman Jack Peters, dropped to seventh position in the revamped batting came through with two doubles and knocked in two runs, as his share of the slaughter.

Outside of the battery only Charlie McGuckin failed to hit. In all fairness to Chuck it must be pointed out that he hit the ball good, but at some one all the time.

I-M Linament Derby To Be Run In Stadium Tomorrow

By "Sore" Keats

The next annual installment of the linament derby will be run tomorrow afternoon when the Intra-Mural track and field meet is held in the college stadium.

The four competing teams, each representing a year, are all confident of victory, despite the fact that in the past years the Freshmen always seem to be ahead after the final event is run off. Following form the frosh forces triumphed last year.

In the meet last year all ten existing records were shattered and a good many laughs were furnished in the afternoon's activities. Many of the present record holders are back again for the Wednesday merriment. Jack Lewis is defending in the high jump. Jim Nugent is in the half and George Eberle in the quarter-both defending.

In the shorter distances Ben Addiego will take on comers in the 100 and Dick Van de Berghe in the 220. In the half mile relay the sophomore team of Thomas, Hayes, Heller and Addiego will return to fight off competition.

The meet last year saw the freshmen total 59 points to 30½ for the sophomores and 29½ for the juniors. The seniors were last with a mere 11 points.

The meet is scheduled to begin at 4:30 in the college stadium.

Maurer, Shannon Lead Hillers In Seventh Wildcats Victory

A big four run inning helped Villanova to a six to one victory over Duquesne. Don Sommers went all the way to win it for the wildcats. It was his fourth win against no setbacks. The young lefthander gave four hits and was in complete command all the way. Eight of the Dukes were strike out victims and only two reached base by walks.

Second Low Hit Game

It was the second low hit job for the youngster, who had set Penn State down with only two hits on the previous Monday. Don's curve was breaking exceptionally well and his fast ball kept them guessing all day.

For the second straight game at home Bobby Maurer got four hits, as he lead the Wildcat attack at the plate. Outside of the four hits given up by Sommers only one ball was hit out of the infield. The leading hitter for the Dukes was big Jim Ricketts who played first base. The all American Basketball player supplied the main punch with two hits and scored their only run.

Violet Victorious In Stadium, 71-69; Four Records Fall

Four stadium records fell by the wayside as the Villanova track team lost to New York University on Saturday, May 3rd, at the college stadium. The new marks were posted in the mile, half mile, discus and hammer.

It was the hammer event that defeated the Wildcat as they were ahead, 69-62, going in to this final event of the program. Thereupon NYU proceeded to sweep first, second and third to win the meet. Marty Engel of the Violets created a new mark of 166 feet, 6 inches in his victory.

Depth Decisive

Villanova took nine first to seven for the Violets but NYU had the depth necessary too win. Charlie Spencer, a former cheerleader, was the only double winner of the day, taking both the 120 and 160 hurdles.

3 More Records

Other record breakers included Ray Wheiler in the Half, Fred Dwyer in the mile and Cummin Clancy in the discus. Wheiler ran in 1:56:2 to break Jim Reardon's mark, Dwyer in 4:21:3 to crack Browning Ross's mark and Clancy erased his own mark.

Track Squad Invited

that a Villanova track team has travelled across the continent to compete in a track meet. The Collesium Relays are strictly by invitation.

Competing against Villanova in the two mile event will be Georgetown, the best relay team in the East, Illinois, Michigan, University of Southern California and Occidental.

Shannon Stand Out

Dick Shannon playing his third game of the season sparkled at third base with seven assists. Dick has also hit safely in every game so far.

The victory was the seventh in nine games for the mainliners.

Equitable Life And Quantico Play Here Friday and Monday

The Villanova baseball team will play two home games in the next seven days at the Main Line Stadium. On Friday they will play host to their traditional rival - the Equitable Life Insurance team. This game brings back an old rival to Vilanova.

On next Monday the Quantico Marines are slated to appear before the Mahanmen. The last time a service team was here it was the Indiantown team and in that contest the score stood 7-0 before rain halted the game before the second inning was over. The Marines should have some pretty good ballplayers if the other service team was any criterion.

SPORTS CHATTER

Way Out West

By TED SHEEHAN, Sports Editor

Tomorrow afternoon when the transcontinental flyer leaves Philadelphia's International Airport bound for the sunny lands of California a five man delegation from Villanova will be making their first cross-country track and field appearance in the school's history.

Their destination will be the city of Los Angeles and the Collesium Relays. They will compete in the two-mile relay there on Friday night before an estimated jam-packed house. The West Coast is a bee hive of track fans and with the Olympic trials slated to be held in California late next month the excitement of the Bear Staters will be approaching peak form this weekend.

The Collesium Relays is strictly an invitational affair and the West coast fans will be treated to the sight of the best runners in the nation performing under the Collesium kleig lights. For a section that boasts of its great contributions to the sport of panty waists they should be somewhat taken back with the array of talent from the other sections of the nation which will be there to compete against their favorites.

Western Supremecy

The main talent of the meet from other section of the nation will be in the longer distances. Except for the 440 and 880 relays of Manhattan the other sections of the United States seem to be content to let the hometowners take control of the shorter distances.

In Villanova's event-the two mile relay—they will be facing some old foes. Georgetown and Michigan will be there as will Illinois, Occidental and the University of Southern California. The information on the two West Coast teams is very scarce. The only news around about them is the fact that Occidental has three runners who have been timed under 47 flat for the quarter mile. U.S.C. is a complete enigma. The other teams are better known.

Georgetown, Michigan and Illinois got together in New York in late March for the Olympic carnival benefit a week after the Cleveland meet. Georgetown avenged their Cleveland set back by whipping both the Midwestern entrants.

Georgetown has the finest two mile relay in the East with such runners as Carl Joyce, Tom Voorhes, Dave Bolan, Joe LaPierre and Charlie Capazolli. The only meeting between the Hoyas and Villanova produced a victory for Georgetown in the New York K. of C. meet early in March. The time for the race was an excellent 7:38. The finish was close enough between Joyce and Dwyer to leave many people with the thought that Dwyer if he had a smaller deficit might have been able to beat the Hoya.

Michigan is an old face to the relay team after their appearance in the Penn Relays two weeks ago. At the Ohio Relays a week earlier the Wolverines had set Columbus on its ear with their timings while Villanova was also winning at the Seton Hall carnival but in a much slower time. When they finally were matched at Penn the Wildcats proved the superior in the distance. But this was only after the visting Wolves had run in the four mile relays about an hour earlier. It was in the two mile race that Lochbourne Air Base was first, the Cats second and a tired Michigan team was third. We might add that they were third by a decisive margin. A rematch with them could prove interesting.

Canadian Team

They have an array of Canadian runners on their team, but with Canada so near to the Ann Arbor campus this is easily explained. Don McEwen is their crack miler and a Canadian. John Ross is another one and Bill Hickman and George Jackobi round out the squad.

The other team of which we have some information on is the Illinois team. They, along with Michigan are the toasts of the Big Ten conference. With Michigan gone from the Drake Relays in favor of the Penn afair, they were expected to take over and that is just what they did. In the two mile relay at that meet they were up against Georgetown, Oklahoma and Indiana.

They took the measure of all their opponets in the record-breaking time of 7:31:6, good enough to nip seven seconds off Washington's old standard. The Hoyas finished a good ways behind the Flying Illini.

Although the five teams mentioned are the only ones in the race that we have heard there is a very strong possibility that some other schools might be entered. For example, Kansas and their great miler Wes Santee, Michigan State and Oklahoma also might receive an invitation before the starter's gun is heard next Firday night.

The doings this weekend in the Collesium ought to be quite startling if the Eastern and Midwestern teams can live up to their ratings and here's hoping Villanova is one of the reasons why.

Softball Leagues At Halfway Point; 4 Teams Unbeaten

By John Gillman

With the softball season at the halfway mark, most of the league races have developed into two or even only one team affairs. In the Barracks league, the Zebras have taken three straight, beating the Dacas, 21-7, the Baccus Merds, 16-7, and the Rumdums, 17-4. These victories put them in a first place tie with the Renegades who, since the last writing, have downed the Rumdums, 13-11, and the Collegiates 6-3. One other game saw the Dacas top the Collegiates 15-7.

Nobody's Nothings seem to be the class in the Dayhop league with a record of 4-0. In the past week they rapped the Navpers edged the Royals, 9-2, and the Phi Kaps, 5-4. Also in the same league the Navpers edged theh Royals, 6-5, but the Royals came back in their next game to take the Educators, 7-0, for their first win. In their next outing the Educators dropped their second straight, this time to the Legalists, by the same 7-0 count.

Zips Out Front

The Zips continue to lead the Austin B league by virtue of a 14-11 victory over the Ramblers. They are followed closely by the Brewers who won over the Pirates, 23-15. Good Counsel, with three straight, is leading the Austin A league with wins over the Grand Old Men, 13-6, the Alumni Characters, 24-3, and the O'Dwyer Clowns, 6-4. The last mentioned O'Dwyer Clowns took their first win with a 14-7 blasting of the Boarhogs. In the same league the Alumni Characters dumped the Squids 15-9.

Another team that seems to be running away in its race is the Rollicks of the Mendel A league. Having already defeated the Mendel 3 they went on to win over the Mendelcases, 19-16, the Micks, 12-8, and the Clowns, 5-2. The Mets also are undefeated, with an 8-6 victory over the Mendelcases. In the only other game in this league the Clowns took their first win by beating the Mendel—3, 8-4.

Mendel Loop Tied

We have a tight two way race in the Mendel B league between the Jelly Beans and the Fedigan Outlaws, as both teams have a 2-1 record. However the Jelly Beans beat the Outlaws, 6-4, for one of their wins, taking the other from Simpson, 8-7, while losing to the Delury Devils, 5-4. These same Delury Devils were dumped by the Outlaws, 3-1, and the Outlaws took their other win from the Diamond Dusters, 7-0.

The first two scores in the tennis-tournament have Charlie Bohmert taking Harry Baird, 6-2 and 6-4, while Joe Coggins overpowered Jim Mechener, 6-0 and 6-0.

Fordham Hands Cats Second Set Back, 10-0

A sudden loss of control after five hitless innings brought about John Watson's and Villanova's second defeat of the season. The Fordham Rams won easily 10-0 behind the two-hit pitching of Sal Chiaramonte.

Over the first five innings the stocky right hander from Lanscaster was magnificent. In those first five frames eight of the Rose Hillers were strike out victims for Watson.

In the sixth, the roof collapsed and Jack Coffey's boys picked up six runs on five walks and two hits. That uprising finished Watson's work for the afternoon, he was replaced by Ed Swayze. The Rams came back in the seventh and picked up the remaining four runs. Bobby Eichorn pitched the last inning for Villanova and got the side out with out further trouble.

Rider Bested

Behind Don Sommers, the Wildcats picked up their fourth win of the season.

The score was 10-0. The Mainliners racked three Bronko pitchers for ten hits. Sommers in winning pitched a five hitter, striking out seven men.

Penn State Defeated

Some of the other lineup changes Mahan made in this ballgame worked out well too. Dick Shannon got his first chance at third this year and he came up with a basehit in three tries. Ed Swayze, normally a pitcher stated in right in place of Harry LeFever. Eddie didn't hit, but Mahan inserted big LeFever for defensive purposes in the eighth and the veteran came up with two nice catches and a good base hit. All than can be said for Penn State is, "They just didn't have it today. The boys from State College Pa. had won ten in a row before the trip to the Mainline.

Villanova Beats Army, 6—4

WEST POINT, N. Y., May 7—A three-run rally in the seventh and final inning enabled Villanova to set back Army, 6—4, at Doubleday Field today.

Successive singles by Bob Maurer, a double by Charley McGucken and another single by Ralph Cecere accounted for the three-run uprising.

The score by innings:

MULES RAINED OUT

The baseball game with Muhlenberg, originally slated for yesterday, was cancelled because of wet grounds. No new date has been arranged as of last night.

Charlie McGuckin had four hits in five trips. The big man for Rider was Art Punyko who picked up two singles and a double.

Letter to Athletes

Raimo Reminds Of ECAC Rules

To Villanova's Athletic Competitors:

Dear Gentlemen:

I would like to call to your attention the following rules of eligibility set down by the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference. As a member of the ECAC, Villanova must demand compliance with these rules from all members of our athletic teams.

Please read over all the following rules carefully—they all apply to you—and make sure that you bring no harm to Villanova and yourself by violating them.

The ECAC Rules of Eligibility, as amended to December 14, 1951:

Article III—Amateurism

Section 1. A student competing in intercollegiate athletics shall be an amateur in good standing. A student ceases to be an amateur and shall forfeit his right to represent his institution thereafter in intercollegiate competition by the commission of any of the following acts:

1. Participation in any athletic competition under an assumed name, or otherwise with intent to deceive.

2. Directly or indirectly receiving money or remuneration for participation in any competition or for coaching in any sport.

3. Receiving pay for officiating in any athletic contest. This rule shall not be construed to apply to a student who, as a part time employee in his own institution, is assigned to officiating in intramural contests as a part of his regular work for which is paid at the usual rate for student employees in that institution.

4. Signing a contract with a professional team in any sport, regardless of any subsequet cancellation or revocation, absence of payment, or lack of training with the team.

5. Engaging for money or other substantial consideration in any occupation, business transaction or advertising promotion wherein his usefulness or value arises chiefly from the publicity value of his name as an athlete or his ability as an athlete, rather than for his ability to perform the usual and normal acts and duties incident thereto.

Article VII
Non-Collegiate Competition

Section 1. For any outside competition, tournament play, exhibition, or other activity in which athletic ability is a factor, in any sport in which a student is not representing his own institution, he must obtain, in advance, permission from the appropriate athletic authority at his institution or forfeit his eligibility for further intercollegiate competition in any or all sports.

Section 2. Permission for outside competition or athletic activity may be given at the discretion of the institution's appropriate athletic authority:

(a) Unless a violation of the amateur rule is involved;

(b) Unless the competition takes place during the season of a sport in which the student is a squad member (vacation periods excepted);

NOTE: Eligibility foreited under (b) may be restored for subsequent years at the discretion of the institution.

(c) Unless the competition is on any team on which one or more players is a professional;

(d) Unless the competition is in basketball (pre-season, vacation time, post-season or summer);

(e) Unless the competition is in any post-season or summer baseball in which any member of the team receives pay as salary for playing, for living expenses, or for any purpose other than regular employment at regular rates.

A student applying for such permission (a) must file with the athletic director of his college a certificate signed by the manager of the team on which he is too compete or perform stating that no member receives or is to receive pay as salary for living expenses or for any other purpose, and (b) must file with the athletic director of his college a declaration over his own signature that to the best of his knowledge the foregoing manager's certificate is correct and that he is to receive no pay as salary for living expenses or for any other purpose.

Section 3. Permission for outside competition or athletic activity may be given at the discretion of the institution's appropriate athletic authority:

(a) For employment, or competition incident to such employment, as the counselor at a summer camp;

(b) For employment as life guard, pool attendant or instructor, tennis club attendant or instructor, etc., provided that any instruction is a part of the total contract of employment and not on a lesson or hour basis;

(c) For all star games, provided that the student has completed his last season of undergraduate eligibility in the sport concerned, and further that no violation of the amateur's rule is involved. (This limitation may be waived only for the purpose of facilitating U. S. Olympic team tryouts—upon specific request and subject to written approval by the Commissioner.)

NOTE: Such competition shall not effect his eligibility in other sports.

In all cases regulated by these ECAC rulings, especially when there may be some misunderstanding of the application, please consult with me immediately, before you make committments of any sort.

I would also request that each athlete clip out this letter and keep it for future reference. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Art Raimo
Athletic Director

Reunion Weekend

Alumni Invite Grads June 8

Special invitation to the annual Alumni Reunion has been extended by Alumni Secretary George Harris to the newest group of "old grads", the members of this year's graduating class.

The Reunion, one of the high spots of nation wide alumni activity, takes place this year on campus June 6, 7, and 8, and the weekend following graduation for the Class of '52.

Highlights of the weekend include such events dear to the hearts of one-time Villanovans as the annual Jamboree in the Field House, the Alumni Banquet and other organized activities like the New York- Philadelphia Clubs' softball game.

Opens Friday

Registration will open at noon Friday, June 6 in the Alumni Office in Mendel hall. The "President's Dinner" with Rev. F.X.N. McGuire, O.S.A. acting as host, will be held that evening, followed by the Jamboree.

Saturday morning at 11 a. m. a memorial Mass will be offered for the happy repose of the souls of all deceased Villanovans. Following a brunch, activities will shift to an informal forum on "Things Villanova" and to the athletic fields for "old grad" contests.

Annual Banquet

The traditional Alumni Banquet will take place in the Field House Saturday night, and the following morning Mass and breakfast will bring the weekend to a close.

Several of the local alumni organizations are sending invitations to the graduates from their area to attend the Reunion as guests of the clubs.

For additional information and reservations, prospective graduates may consult George Harris in the Alumni Office, 102 Mendel.

Phila. Club to Host Seniors at Meeting

The Villanova Club of Philadelphia invites the members of the Senior Class to its next meeting Thursday, May 15. Meetings are held in the Bellevue Stratford hotel at 8:30 p. m.

The Club, headed by President Joseph O'Donnell, '43, consists of Villanova alumni from the Philadelphia area, and meets every month during the school year.

Student-Administration Group Reports To Clarify Position

The following is a report submitted by the Joint Faculty-Student Committee.

Campus wide confusion seems to exist regarding the workings and potentialities of the Joint Committee of Student Administration Affairs. To supply for any lack in information and to avoid further misunderstandings, we offer the following facts and information:

There has been a need for closer coordination between the administration and the student body of Villanova. The growth of the College in recent years has had the tendency to remove faculty and administration from extensive personal contact with the student outside the classroom. The larger Villanova grows, the more increasingly difficult it becomes to maintain that necessary contact, though the necessity for the contact does not diminish.

The Villanova Student Council, in a move to reunite the two essential elements of College life—faculty administration and student body—proposed the formation of a joint committee whose members would come from both administration and student body.

Once it was decided that there was a fundamental need for such a group and that the group could serve a real purpose, this is how it was brought into existence.

After discussion in a regu-

Lohr To Speak At Graduation

Yearbook Ed. Valedictorian For 498 Grads June 2

William H. Lohr, editor of the "1952 Belle Air" yearbook and graduate of the School of Arts and Sciences, will be valedictorian for the Class of '52 at Villanova's 109th annual commencement. During exercises scheduled for 11 a. m., June 2, in front of the College Library, 498 students will receive academic degrees.

WILLIAM H. LOHR
Valedictorian

Officals of the College administration have not yet announced the name of the main speaker on the commencement program.

Some 2000 guests are expected to attend the program, which will be held in the Field House in case of inclement weather. Even in this case, there will still be no limit on the number of guests who may attend.

Honorary Degrees

College President, Very Rev. F.X.N. McGuire, OSA., will preside at graduation, and award degrees to the graduates.

In addition, the College will confer an honorary degree of Doctor of Science upon John P. Kiley, '15, an outstanding member of the Alumni, and an honorary Doctorate of Laws upon Joseph A. LaFortune, a leading Catholic layman from Tulsa, Oklahoma.

For the members of the Class of '52, official commencement ceremonies will begin Sunday morning, June 1 when Baccalaureate services are held at 10 a. m. in the College Field House.

Retreatmaster Returns

Rev. Stephen Lanen, O.S.A., rector of the Augustinian Mission Band and retreat master for last year's annual retreat in January, will deliver the Baccalaureate sermon. Father Lanen is a former member of the Villanova faculty.

Blaha, Quinn & Licopoli Win As 69% Of Students Vote

The classroom blackboard in front of Alumni Hall last Thursday wasn't the only slate to bite the dust in last week's campus elections. While onlookers watched the wind topple over a large blackboard advertising E-Day, a record turnout of 941 out of a possible 1381 vote-casting Villanovans elected class officers and Student Council representatives.

In doing so, the underclassmen, whose 68.7% turnout mark tops last year's record-setting figure by almost 2%, refused to place any one party into office.

Freshmen, Sophomore, and Junior presidential races offered the most excitement with two C&F men and one Engineer coming out on top. Don Blaha, a resident C&F student from Chicago, copped 111 votes to become president of the class of 1953. Another C&F resident, Art Quinn of Chicago, Ill. became top man of the class of '54, winning 113 out of 316 votes. Resident Engineering student Frank Licopoli of Floral Park, N. Y. won 119 Frosh votes to receive the presidency of the class of '55.

Incidental Intelligence from the Office of the Dean of Student Activities: "Approximately 70% of the officers elected from the two upper classes claim scenic Alumni Hall as their campus home."

Class of '53

By Jim Glavin

Donald Blaha, of Chicago, Ill., was elected President of the Class of 1953 in the general campus elections last Thursday. Blaha had an edge of 43 votes over his nearest competitor.

Joseph Ranieri, of Havertown, was chosen as class Vice - President, Larry

By Jim Nolin

Showing their keen interest in next year, their biggest, over 77% of the Sophomores cast their ballots in Thursday's election. Art Quinn, a C&F Pre-law major, was elected President of the class of '54 by 14 votes, garnering 113 to second-running Joe Zator's 99.

By Dick Winfield

Fifty-seven percent of the Freshman class went to the polls in Alumni gym last Thursday to give Frank Licopoli a 29-vote plurality and elect the lanky Engineer from Barracks 2 as president of the class of 1955. Licopoli, graduate of Chaminade High School in Mineola, N. Y., drew 119 votes out of a possible 293 ballots cast.

Tom Ulrich will fill in as vice-president of next year's Sophomore class, having polled 99 Frosh votes. A trombone-tooting Enginer from the land of Clooney, Ulrich topped second-place Hank DeLegge by 19 votes.

Maynes Succeeds Gallagher As Editor Of College Weekly

Editorial changes for the leading campus weekly made at the annual "Villanovan" dinner-dance at the Hotel Barclay Saturday saw the paper coming out on top as four editors retired into whatever obscurity graduating editors retire into, and six new men were named to editorial posts.

Stepping into the shoes of outgoing Editor-in-Chief Jim Gallagher, will be Dave Maynes, a Junior Arts student from Allentown, Pa.

Gallagher will receive his degree in English in June and

Quinn Receives VCAA Merit Medal

Bob Quinn, a graduating senior in the school of Commerce and Finance, has been named as the recipient of the Villanova College Alumni Association medal for extra curricular activities.

The award is scheduled to be made at graduation exercises June 2. Quinn earned the coveted medal by amassing a total of 16 merit awards, in his four years at Villanova.

The diminutive senior went out in a final blaze of glory by receiving 6 merit awards this year. These awards were given to Bob for participation in the following activities: Belle Masque, the Lynx, VILLANOVAN, Belle Air, Student Council, and for general class activities.

This is the first time the award has been given since

Belle Air Yearbook At Dinner Tonight, Distribution Fri.

First copies of the 1952 Belle Air will be distributed to the staff members tonight at the annual dinner held in the Whitehall Hotel, Haverford, Pa. General distribution to the students will begin Friday in the Belle Air office in the basement of Mendel Hall from 10:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m.

At tonight's dinner, keys will be distributed to some of the seniors on the staff who have made outstanding contributions in the production of the yearbook. At the same time, Editor Bill Lohr will hand over the reins to Lou Oberle, present Sport Editor. Jack Redmond will take over as Sports Editor.

Pick Up Books

Students are requested to pick up their yearbooks at the announced times. For those who are unable to make it Friday, the office will be open at the same hours on Monday.

Bill Lohr also requests all Juniors who have not as yet done so to make an appointment for their Senior portraits on the list posted in the pie shop. The sittings are being made in Austin Lounge.

Navy Offering Graduates OCS On Wednesday

First - hand information about the Navy's Officer Candidate School will be brought to the Villanova campus May 28 by Lieutenant John McBride, U. S. Navy, a representative of the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, Philadelphia, Pa.

There are no longer specific course requirements for enrollment in the Navy's OCS. Any college graduate, or any senior whose graduation is less than four months away, may now apply for this program regardless of his college major. A previous requirement of some mathematics training has recently been eliminated.

Mr. McBride, who is a graduate of the Wharton School, in civilian life is Deputy Comptroller of the Philadelphia Ordnance District, U. S. Army. During World War II he served on the destroyer Du Pont. Before recently being recalled to active duty he was active in Naval Reserve work, being Communications Officer of Advanced Base Command Group, Cub 4-1, Philadelphia, Pa.

In Mendel Hall

Mr. McBride will be in Mendal Hall Wednesday, May 28, from 10 a. m. to 2 p. m. He will have data sheets giving details of the Officer Candidate program and will interview

VILLANOVAN STAFF

There will be a meeting of next year's "Villanovan" staff in the paper's office, Commerce and Finance Building basement, this afternoon at 4:30.

All returning staff members are to attend. Any students interested in joining any department of the paper next year should also attend. This will be their last opportunity to sign up.

The Last Word

There's a rather hardhearted old saying we've heard on occasions of departure that goes "Don't look back, it's better that way." We've always thought departure from Villanova and the staff of this paper could be done without a backward glance—like finishing up one job to go on to another.

But when edition No. 23 did come along—this final publication, it was hardly possible to take that cool and aloof attitude. Instead, when we realize that the end has come to something that was so much a part of us, we just have to look back and take some proud consolation from having completed the job we set before ourselves four years ago.

And most of the consolation comes from knowing that this completion could never have come about without the unified work of some of the best men any college student would like to call his friends.

In fact, that's the most salient memory one does take from college with him—the knowledge that friendship is a man's most valuable possession, and the faith in what friendship can accomplish.

This year's graduating class is a perfect example of the value. Admittedly the Class of '52 is a clique, but only in the sense that every member of the class belongs, and has worked for the good of the body during a spectacular career. And, like every other member of the Class, the retiring staff members of this paper are proud to belong to the clique.

But, about the job itself, the task this paper assigns to its staffers each year: that too is something that we can't leave without a great deal of looking back. Whether or not we have met the challenge is a question we hope no one will be so bold as to try to answer.

The task for this paper, when you come right down to it, is the same as that of every individual student. Only, by its force of contact with everyone on campus, the paper imposes more responsibility on itself than any one student would be asked to assume.

Still the question comes down to the one denominator for both student and paper: Are you any better for having been a part of the group; have you made Villanova any better for being one of its parts?

And for both the paper and the members of the graduating class, there can be only one answer: We're glad to have been given the opportunity to try.

The Villanovan

Dear Sir,

I would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank the members of the 1951-1952 Student Council. The cooperation that they have extended has been the deciding factor in the past successful year.

To attempt to individually thank those men who have contributed greatly would require a printing of the roster of the Council.

Also at this time, I extend my gratitude to the Father Moderator of the Council, Reverend George McLaughlin, O.S.A. His untiring efforts on behalf of the Council are in no small way responsible for our accomplishments.

Very Sincerely,
Thomas L. Delaney
Chairman, Student Council

Thanks: Exchange Student

Editor's Note—As an Exchange Student from Germany Walter Rupprecht made many friends during the past year at Villanova. He therefore uses this means to express publicly his farewell and invites all Villanovans to his home who may visit his homeland. To "Walt" we say, We're glad you came and we are sorry you can not stay longer. We welcome you as a fellow Villanovan.

As an exchange student from Germany I entered Villanova College last September and had the opportunity to study in this fine place for two semesters. Since the second semester will be over very soon I want to thank everybody for everything and to extend my best wishes for the future to all fellow Villanovans.

I am most sure that never in my life shall I forget the wonderful weeks and months I have spent at Villanova. Perhaps some day I shall be able to recall old memories of the past year with some, or at least one, of you if you come to Germany. Looking forward to some day being your host, I remain always your friend,

FIGHTIN' IRISH: Looking over the copy submitted to this sheet for publication this week, we find that one of St. Patty's many clans is moving into predominance on this campus QUINN elected president, QUIN to head the staff of the new radio station. QUINN takes award for capturing the most merit awards in extra curricula activities for past four years . . . And there is no relation between them, other than the proverbial shirt tail variety.

HALLS OF MONTEZUMA: Come graduation day, Gene Dolan, on of our illustrious members from this scandal sheet, will have his marine bars pinned on his well-rounded shoulders by his dad who is also a marine officer . . . No more handshaking for those two . . . From here in its to be a salute and a "Yes, sir!"

JUNE VARIETIES: NROTC men buying uniforms for salty era . . . Civilian grads ordering the wrong size cap and gown . . . '52 auditors figuring the net return in presents from $2.50 worth of announcements and invitations. . . . Faculty members supporting their "Please don't leave us" pleads with tears and difficult exams . . . Administration members singing "We hate to see you go, we hate to see you go, but what the heck are you waitin' for we hate to see you go."

Underclassmen expressing wishes that they were in '52's boots, Upperclassmen expressing desires to be in '55's boots . . . Women from surrounding sites jumping from windows at the thought of all the handsome men leaving the area . . . Local college queens kissing the boys goodbye while holding a letter from the guy that will see them at the various shore resorts this summer . . . Cleaning ladies clearing the rooms of college boys debris to make way for the summer-schooling sisters . . . Maintenance men anchoring anything of value while waiting for the Alumni to gather here . . . Yes, the year is at an end and each of us have various plans but all will remember the days at Villanova.

PARTING THOUGHTS: We would like to express our appreciation to all the editors on the staff of this leading campus weekly and particularlyto Jimmy Gallagher who made every issue an important one by reporting the news as it was made, truthfully and honestly . . . All of our gratitude to the Augustinian Fathers for preparing us to meet a future which in these trying times is very questionable . . . A very personal "thanks" to all of my wonderful classmates and underclassmen who intensified the feeling of fellowship, which had always been present at Villanova . . . As I write a -30- to this column about all that comes to mind is, "Thank you Villanova," you've been good to us, and we shall endeavor to make you proud of your alumni.

Carry Personality Of Alma Mater After Graduating By Calling Mary

By Jim Griffin

For seniors, May is a unique month. It rings at one time with the full anticipation of graduation and with the hollow overtones of departure. It brings pictures of smiling and handshaking, and best wishes and the conferring of degrees. But it also brings to mind the packed bags, empty dormitories and the faces of friends, blurring, vanishing, perhaps never to be seen again.

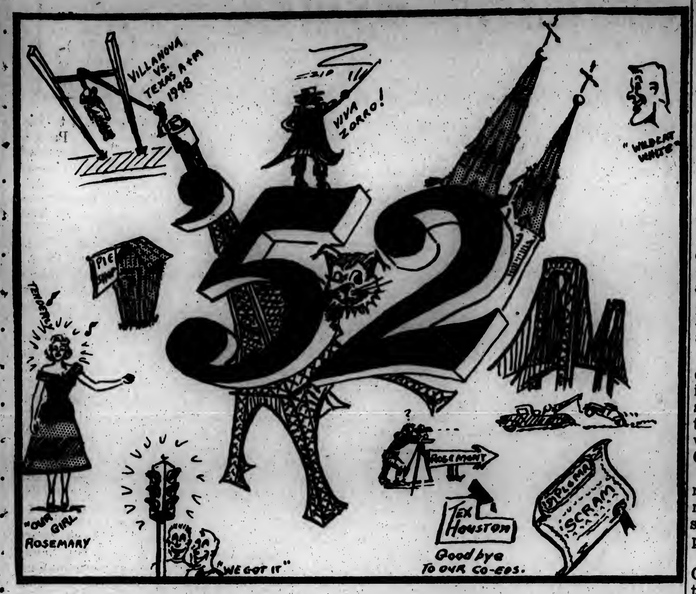
We don't suppose that there is a graduate on campus who would say that things were perfect here at Villanova during our four years. There were gripes and blunders by students and by administration.

Imperfect Personality

But we are glad that we can say that these four years were not "perfect". For Villanova to us is a personality . . . and who would ask perfection of a personality? Mothers undoubtedly hold a place beyond comparison in the hearts of sons . . . yet who would claim that his was perfect? The defects are negligible when compared with the virtures, and completely unseen through the eyes of love. So it should be with an alma mater.

"Alma Mater" seemed a little corny to us as freshmen; as seniors we can not help but realize the feelings which coined the phrase. For Villanova is an alma mater, both on its own and as a reflection of the Alma Mater who watches over it.

Matter of Names



On campus we call her "Our Lady of Villanova." But she is one and the same as the "Lady of Fatima, Lourdes, Guadalupe." She loves us, each and every one, and she is waiting for our invitation to come with us, to follow our paths where ever they lead.

As years pass many of us will forget the details of Villanova which seem now so vivid in our minds. Perhaps a half dozen scenes from our college days will last, until only an impression is left in place of the photographs we now have.

But the impression will never tarnish . . . because it will be the impression of a personality.

Watching Lady

It is rather pleasant to consider this fact. Certainly we cannot take the campus with us. But we can take the personality and the person behind the personality. We have no choice but to turn our faces away from Villanova. But if we are wise we will not let go from our lives that lovely lady who watched over use these four years. If we are not fools we will never turn our backs to "Our Lady of Villanova."

Down Through The Beers

Four Glorious Years Filled . . . But Good

By Joe Mascuch

Around Villanova, you don't have to ask a man if he belongs to the Class of '52. If he does, he'll tell you. He has a pride in his class that can't be beat.

Four years ago "the class" entered Villanova. You could see from the start that they'd be doing big things. They were gathered together on Austin Field for an orientation song session and just naturally threw a picnic. Those were the days when the "baldguys" were in the other classes.

Mark of Zorro

One night they rushed the orientation committee and I have heel prints on my back to prove it. Those were the days when Zorro made his mark and we found that the freshman with just a little bit of spirit, determination, leadership and unity couldn't do a thing.

We got our taste of politics that year too. You couldn't see the campus for the "Vote for Me" signs, and you didn't dare walk to vote, you had to ride. I rode from the barracks to Alumni in a new Buick. I liked it so much that I voted ten times.

Found Use For Frosh

Our Sopohomore year we returned to Villanova no longer low man on the totem pole. We did our best to make the class of '53 feel at home. That whole year not a single Soph shined his own shoes. We discovered that freshmen were of some use.

The Sophomore Cotillion of that year was almost as good as our Junior Prom. A few of the guys are still cutting out paper leaves, but they'll be all right. We'll get around to returning that section of fence one of those days too.

Mother Wanted to Stay

Our Junior Year revolved around one week. The only thing that could have made Junior Week better was a few more days. Mother's Day was the beginning. The Mothers had such a good time that they didn't want to leave.

The Blazer Ball was great, but what would the Bryn Mawr Fire Co. have done in the event of a fire. Everyone wondered how the fire engine got into the Field House except the guys sporting oil of wintergreen.

Towering Eiffel Tower

The Eiffel Tower and the flats turned the Field House into Paris for the evening. That 30' tower, yes, we said 30' tower, stayed up. It was thrown together in only a few months. The Dinner Dance climaxed an excellent week. We spent the rest of the year discussing Junior Week and planning for a Senior Month.

We returned this year, having settled for a Senior Year. The Senior Prom this year, was, being as modest as we can, the greatest. Last year we had gone up; this year we went across. The "bridge" was 80', long.

Unique End

The pond had real water in it too, but no one was drinking water that weekend. The Dinner Dance started the festivities on the right foot, the Prom kept them going, and enterprising seniors ended it in their own unique way.

When it comes to the extracurricular social life of the class of '52, who can keep track? From the games, to the parties, to the picnics, to the dances, to the weekends, the class of '52 showed that it not only worked hard but played hard, and as a class.

Make Way For Little Guy

The little guy in the blue beanie grow up awfully fast, didn't he? Each year, the big buildings grew smaller, the subjects became easier, the chow worse, the weekends better and the friends closer. We even became accustomed to the rain.

Yes, the day those big headed white hats made us sing songs and yell cheers and polish brass we become Villanovans, a particular class of Villanovans. There is much to be done in the world, and judging from what they have done, they will do okay.

There will be a few more parties too.

Big Voting Brings Results

O'Hearn, of South Orange, N. J., was swept in as class Treasurer. Marty Johnson, of Flushing N. Y., is the new class Secretary.

Next year's Seniors named Thomas Ackerman, Harry LeFever, Joseph Roy, and Robert Brabson as their student council representatives. They are from the Commerce and Finance, Arts and Science, Education and Engineering schools, respectively.

Blaha, an unsuccessful candidate in last year's elections, is a Commerce and Finance student. He is a member of the varsity Baseball team, and was Chairman of the Ring Committee this year.

Ranieri pulled out a 16 vote margin over Blaha's running mate on the "United Party" slate. Don Brown. Ranieri polled 130.

In the treasurer race, O'Hearn, who was class Secretary this year, tallied 157. He had a 34 vote differential over his nearest competitor, John Heiser.

Johnson tallied 127 for Secretary, to sweep in on the crest of a 46 vote margin.

Joseph Roy, the Education student council choice, was the highest vote-getter in the class tallies. He counted 200 to his credit. Ackerman, LeFever, and Brabson all won via the substantial edge route.

Another choice was Harry Baird who polled 190 to be selected as Student Council Alumni Representative.

Blaha, the new leader of the men of '53, said that his greatest hope and desire on his accession to his new office was that "the spirit that the class exhibited so well in the planning and execution of Junior Week might be carried on into the Senior year."

Dark - horse, independent, day-hop Tom McCarthy, another Engineer copped the post of class secretary with 66 votes, besting the second place candidate by 9 votes. Red-head Don McGahan, running- mate of prexy Licopoli, garnered a 14-vote plurality to become responsible for the finances of the class. A C&F man from Franklin Square, N. Y., McGahan received 95 votes to win the post from Pat Butarizzi.

In the seven-man race for the third Student Council seat, John Loggi left all comers behind, with a respectable 32-vote markin. Loggi, a Chem major from Atlantic City, won with a 76-man backing. The election of Arts-man Loggi gives members of the class of 1955 representation of all three schools on next year's Council.

Quinn is a graduate of Georgetown Prep in Washington, D. C. While at Georgetown Art won letters in Football and Basketball, and was a class officer for his four years there. At Villanova Art is a member of the D.P.E. frat and of the Marketing club.

Quinn led the PEERLESS party to wins in five of the eight posts. Dick Brady, a C&Fer from Harrisburg Catholic, Harrisburg, Pa., became the VILLA party's winner in the vice-presidential race.

Ted Sheehan, Sports Editor of this weekly, overcame all opposition as he won by 42 votes over his nearest rival in the contest for the secretarial position. Ted also was a member of the VILLA party. Joe Bradley, Peerless, also of the C&F school, was reelected treasurer of the class of '54 by 5 votes, 148 to 143. Bradley is a member of the Sanctuary Society, and the Marketing club.

Also reelected was George Eberle to the Student Council. Eberle is a C&F Marketing major from De LaSalle High School. He is a member of the Track team, belongs to the D.P.E. and Marketing club, and to the Sanctuary Society.

Joe Kenny, president of the class this year, was elected to the student council from the school of Arts and Sciences. Joe is an alumnus of St. Joseph's High School, in Philly.

In a close race for Student Council representative from the Engineering school, Don Miller beat out Hank Lavery by 2 votes, 92 to 90. Don came to Villanova by way of St. Thomas Aquinas High, Rochester, N. Y. He is a member of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers and belongs to the Phi Kappa Pi frat.

Running unopposed Footballer Art Knowlton received 223 votes to become Student Council representative from the Education school.

Make Way For Little Guy

The little guy in the blue beanie grow up awfully fast, didn't he? Each year, the big buildings grew smaller, the subjects became easier, the chow worse, the weekends better and the friends closer. We even became accustomed to the rain.

Yes, the day those big headed white hats made us sing songs and yell cheers and polish brass we become Villanovans, a particular class of Villanovans. There is much to be done in the world, and judging from what they have done, they will do okay.

There will be a few more parties too.

Class of '55

Dark - horse, independent, day-hop Tom McCarthy, another Engineer copped the post of class secretary with 66 votes, besting the second place candidate by 9 votes. Red-head Don McGahan, running- mate of prexy Licopoli, garnered a 14-vote plurality to become responsible for the finances of the class. A C&F man from Franklin Square, N. Y., McGahan received 95 votes to win the post from Pat Butarizzi.

In the seven-man race for the third Student Council seat, John Loggi left all comers behind, with a respectable 32-vote markin. Loggi, a Chem major from Atlantic City, won with a 76-man backing. The election of Arts-man Loggi gives members of the class of 1955 representation of all three schools on next year's Council.

In balloting for class president, Bill Ford followed Licopoli with 97 votes; Bill Devers and Mark McCormick received 41 and 36 respectively.

Big Voting Brings Results

O'Hearn, of South Orange, N. J., was swept in as class Treasurer. Marty, Johnson, of Flushing N. Y., is the new class Secretary.

Next year's Seniors named Thomas Ackerman, Harry LeFever, Joseph Roy, and Robert Brabson as their student council representatives. They are from the Commerce and Finance, Arts and Science, Education and Engineering schools, respectively.

Blaha, an unsuccessful candidate in last year's elections, is a Commerce and Finance student. He is a member of the varsity Baseball team, and was Chairman of the Ring Committee this year.

Ranieri pulled out a 16 vote margin over Blaha's running mate on the "United Party" slate. Don Brown. Ranieri polled 130.

In the treasurer race, O'Hearn, who was class Secretary this year, tallied 157. He had a 34 vote differential over his nearest competitor, John Heiser.

Johnson tallied 127 for Secretary, to sweep in on the crest of a 46 vote margin.

Joseph Roy, the Education student council choice, was the highest vote-getter in the class tallies. He counted 200 to his credit. Ackerman, LeFever, and Brabson all won via the substantial edge route.

Another choice was Harry Baird who polled 190 to be selected as Student Council Alumni Representative.

Blaha, the new leader of the men of '53, said that his greatest hope and desire on his accession to his new office was that "the spirit that the class exhibited so well in the planning and execution of Junior Week might be carried on into the Senior year."

Quinn is a graduate of Georgetown Prep in Washington, D. C. While at Georgetown Art won letters in Football and Basketball, and was a class officer for his four years there. At Villanova Art is a member of the D.P.E. frat and of the Marketing club.

Quinn led the PEERLESS party to wins in five of the eight posts. Dick Brady, a C&Fer from Harrisburg Catholic, Harrisburg, Pa., became the VILLA party's winner in the vice-presidential race.

Ted Sheehan, Sports Editor of this weekly, overcame all opposition as he won by 42 votes over his nearest rival in the contest for the secretarial position. Ted also was a member of the VILLA party. Joe Bradley, Peerless, also of the C&F school, was reelected treasurer of the class of '54 by 5 votes, 148 to 143. Bradley is a member of the Sanctuary Society, and the Marketing club.

Also reelected was George Eberle to the Student Council. Eberle is a C&F Marketing major from De LaSalle High School. He is a member of the Track team, belongs to the D.P.E. and Marketing club, and to the Sanctuary Society.

Joe Kenny, president of the class this year, was elected to the student council from the school of Arts and Sciences. Joe is an alumnus of St. Joseph's High School, in Philly.

In a close race for Student Council representative from the Engineering school, Don Miller beat out Hank Lavery by 2 votes, 92 to 90. Don came to Villanova by way of St. Thomas Aquinas High, Rochester, N. Y. He is a member of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers and belongs to the Phi Kappa Pi frat.

Running unopposed Footballer Art Knowlton received 223 votes to become Student Council representative from the Education school.

Bob Quin Elected Station Mangager Of WVIL for 53; Replaces Bob Allen

An election last Wednesday set Robert Quin in the station-managership of the Villanova College radio station, WVIL. Quin won a clear cut majority from the staff he will guide through the 1952-53 broadcasting year.

A Junior, Quin has a veteran record with WVIL. He joined the staff as an operating engineer in his Freshman year and has been steadfast through the many ups and downs of the station. Since then, he has done announcing work and he recently placed the record library in order—a prodigious task.

Member of Student Council

WVIL's new station manager is General Arts major. During the past year, he has distinguished himself as a member of the Student Council.

Quin's first duties will include appointing the various other technical leaders of the station; Chief Announcer, Chief Engineer, Head of production, etc.

At a meeting of the WVIL technical — engineering staff on the evening previous, that group elected George Zellner, E. E., and Edward Barry, Ch.E., to lead the way in clearing the many technical problems the station still faces.

Moderator Rev. Louis A. Rongione, O.S.A., asked for unselfishness and cooperation from the staff for the coming year. Quin, in a short acceptance speech, promised on behalf of the staff cooperation, good faith, and hard work for the betterment of the college radio station.

7 Belle Masquers In Honorary Frat

Seven members of Belle Masque, because of their outstanding theatrical work during the past few seasons, were formally initiated into the Lambda Pi Cast of Alpha Psi Omega Fraternity last Wednesday evening at the College field house.

The newly initiated members are Thomas Hayden, Anthony Della Rocca, Joseph McGarigle, George Crist. John McCourt, and Maurice Murphy.

Alpha Psi Omega, to which Villanova College was admitted only two years ago, is a National Honorary Dramatic Fraternity which currently has 288 casts distributed throughout the United States and Canada. The purpose of the organization is "to provoke an honor society for those doing a high standard of work in dramatics . . . and to provide a wider fellowship for those interested in the college theatre." Requirements for membership may be fulfilled either through acting or production work.

Rev. William Krupa, O.S.A. is the permanent cast Moderator, and the current officers are Cast Director Bob Quinn, Stage Manager Tom Delaney, and Cast Business Manager Al Hevey.

specifically invited to Baccalaureate Mass, but may attend.

Class valedictorian for Monday's graduation, in addition to his work for the yearbook, is also a member of the Student Council and Lambda Kappa Delta fraternity. Lohr, a graduate of Xavier high school in New York city, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lohr, Jr., of Jamaica, Long Island.

Receiving a Bachelor of Science degree in Biology, he will continue studies at Georgetown University Medical School in Washington, D. C.

Famous Alumnus

Another of the honorary degree recipients, John P. Kiley, is a Civil Engineering graduate of Villanova. He was recently elected president of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad after a career with the railroad that began during his summer vacations from college.

Joseph A. LaFortune, the third degree recipient, is an executive of the Warren Petroleum Company in Tulsa, Oklahoma. A trustee of the University of Notre Dame and a holder of an honorary degree from that school, he also holds a Papal commission as a Commander of St. Gregory for his work in Catholic Action in the Southwest.

C&F Leads Degrees

Of the 498 students receiving academic degrees at commencement, 28 completed the required courses at the end of the fall semester of this year. The Commerce and Finance school is awarding the largest number of degrees, 245 Bachelors of Science in Economics.

A breakdown of the other degrees to be awarded is Arts, 61; Electrical Engineering, 39; Education, 36; Civil Engineering and Biology, 27 each; Mechanical Engineering, 26; Chemical Engineering, 18; Chemistry, 8; Mathematics, 5; Naval Science and Physics, 3 each.

Graduation announcements and three invitations per graduate are now available in the Bookstore, and should be picked up as soon as possible. A delay last week in delivery made the announcements unavailable at the time announced in this paper last week.

434 Qualify For Dean's List, 4 Achieve Perfect Average

The Dean's list for the fall semester of 1951 lists 434 men with averages of 3.0 or better.

Also numbered on the list, released by Rev. Thomas Burke, O.S.A., Registrar, last week, were four men who attained a perfect average of 4.0. They are William A. Sech, senior civil engineer; Louis Hevey, senior accounting major; Frank Demaio, junior biology; and Gaetano Gumina freshman biology.

Paul A. Loefflad, Physician, Dies

Dr. Paul A. Loeffiad, physician at Villanova College for 20 years, died Sunday at Misericordia Hospital. He was 51.

Dr. Loeffiad lived at Long lane and Walnut st., Upper Darby, where he had practiced for nearly 25 years. He was a surgeon on the staffs of Misericordia and Fitzgerald-Mercy Hospitals.

Born in Camden in 1901, Dr. Loeffiad was a graduate of St. Joseph's College and received his medical degree from Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., in 1925.

He served his internship at Misericordia Hospital and began practice in Upper Darby in 1928.

Dr. Loeffiad was a member of the American College of Surgeons, the Delaware County Medical Association, the American Medical Association, the Association of Surgeons of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Holy Name Society.

Requiem Mass will be celebrated at St. Alice's Church, Stonehurst, at 10 A. M. Wednesday.

Two Mile Relay Team Wins At Los Angeles; Mahanmen Hand Equitable First Loss, 9-5

Omaha-minded Cat Beat Undefeated Insurance Squad

By Harry Anger

A big home run blast off the bat of John Watson, and the stellar hitting of Bobby Maurer and Chuck McGuckin sparked the Wildcats to a 9-5 victory over Equitable Life of New York. It was the first time in the four year series that the Mainliners where able to come out on top.

Villanova jumped off to a 1-0 lead in the home half of the first inning when Maurer led off with a triple to center and Dick Shannon, who had a perfect day at the plate, followed with another big three bagger to the same spot.

The Wildcats came back, after being held scoreless in the second, to score two more runs in the third on singles by Shannon and Chuck McGuckin and two errors by the visitor's third baseman Bill Henry.

Watson Homers

In the fourth inning John Watson hit the first Villanova home run of the season when he sent one of John Kern's deliveries over the left field fence. The ball was well tagged and carried about 360 feet on the fly. A particular note of interest was the fact that Watson "called his shot". Just before going to bat the stocky righthander said to Coach Art Mahan, "Do you want me to hit it over?" Mahan replied, "Sure", so Watson being a man of his word did just that.

Visitors Strike in Fifth

In the fifth Equitable scored their first runs of the contest. Bill Henry opened with a walk and then Roy Triebel, former Hofstra star, singled on the ground into right field. Henry streaked for third and when rightfielder Ed Swayze's throw was wild he came all the way home. Triebel moved to second on the throwing error and scored on a line single to center by pitcher Kern.

The insurance men picked up two more runs in the seventh inning on four straight hits by Triebel, Al and Emil Mele and relief pitcher Joe Grady.

The New Yorkers got their final run in the eighth on a walk and back to back singles by the Meles Brothers.

In the mean time the Mainliners weren't idle by any means. A big three run fifth frame got Kern out of there

Frosh Home First As Usual In Third Linament Derby

By John Gillman

The Freshman class did it for the third straight time as they took the I-M track meet with 48 points. The Sophomores with 36 grabbed second while the Seniors climbed out of the cellar for the first time to take third on a 28 point performance. The Juniors didn't make good on their Junior week prediction, bringing up the rear with 17 points and only one first place.

Frosh Start Quickly

Enroute to their victory in the 10 event meet, the Frosh took four firsts, four seconds, and three thirds. They jumed into the lead which they held throughout, with a first and fourth in the 100 and a second in the 220. The Seniors with a second in the 100 and a first in the 220 were one point behind at this point.

In the next event, the 880, the Sophomores finally got into contention as Bill Belleville held off the fast closing Drew Higgins, of the Frosh team, with a great stretch run. In winning the 440 relay the Seniors picked up much lost ground and again came within one point of the leaders but after this event they faded and lost their position, as leading contenders, to the Sophomores.

Higgins Wins 440

Second in the 880, Higgins was not to be denied in the 440 as he came wide on the last turn out of fourth position and rolled down the home-stretch a winner going away. The Freshmen picked up 10 more big points by winning the 880 relay over the Sophs by 15 yards.

In the field events Ben Addiego took the broad jump by over two feet from the second place man, Palmissano of the Frosh team. Two Sophomores both leaped the same height in the high jump but

Valenti And Anger Replace Sheehan As Sports Editor

This edition marks the last paper of the year and also the last one under the editorship of Ted Sheehan. Beginning next September, the sports staff will be headed by co-Sports Editors Harry Anger and Carl Valenti, as Sheehan becomes Managing Editor.

Also bowing out with this edition is Joe Corcoran, four year man on the "Villanovan." Joe, a graduate of Fordham Prep, has covered football, basketball and baseball and in his senior year was feature writer of the sport staff. Bud Russo who covered 150 pound football in his junior year and the varsity in his senior year is also leaving.

George McCann, this paper's track expert and Tom Egan of basketball fame will also be missed next year, as will Mark DeMarco and Jim Guthrie.

Experienced Editors

To two new editors come to their new job with broad sports experience. Harry Anger is a graduate of Malverne High, Malverne, New York. While in high school Harry was a member of the baseball and football teams. Harry has also done radio sports work with Marty Glickman on WMGM in New York. During the year Harry covered football and baseball.

Carl Valenti is junior in the Commerce and Finance school and a native of New Brunswick, New Jersey. He graduated from Saint Peters High in that town and while there was sports editor of the "Cardinal". During the past year Carl has covered the basketball and baseball teams.

Wheiler's 1:50:5 Half Mile Main Factor In Wildcat Win

TED SHEEHAN, Sports Editor

The Vjllanova track team won the invitation two-mile relay at the twelfth annual Coliseum Relays last Friday night at Los Angeles, California. Their time for the distance was 7:32:6.

In winning the four team invitation race, one of the Wildcat runners, Ray Wheiler, was timed in an impressive 1:50:5 third leg. However, the show was stolen by the anchor leg for the second place Occidental team who was unofficially clocked in 1:48:5, almost a full second under the official record for the distance set by Sidney Wooderson of England.

Michigan and Illinois, who were originally slated to race in the event booked a last minute dual meet so the field was reduced to Villanova, Ocidental second, Georgetown thir and California last.

Simigan Starts

Pet Simigan led off for the Cats against Don Monroe of the Bears and Charlie Cappizoli of Georgetown. No man was willing to set the pace so the time for the first leg was slow. Simigan was timed in 1:58:5, in third place.

Jim Reardon got the baton and ran 1:51:8 to put the Cats in the lead and they were never headed after that. In the third leg, Wheiler ran his half-mile in 1:50:5, undoubtedly the fastest half ever run by a Villanova athlete. Ray widened the gap with Occidental to about thirteen yards.

Fred Dwyer got the stick and had to fight off the determined bid of John Barnes who was in the process of running a 1:48:5 half. He gained ground on the IC mile champ but Fred had enough left to hold him off. Dwyer's time was the same as Reardon's 1:51:8.

Baseball Club Ends 83rd Season With Two Away Games

By Carl Valenti

With but two games remaining for Coach Art Mahan's diamond - men, they take to the road for the balance of the season. Both contests are scheduled to be played on foreign soil.

Tomorrow afternoon the Wildcats travel to Delaware where they meet the Blue Hens. Friday will find Villanova at Franklin Field, Philadelphia where their foe is to be the University of Pennsylvania.

Sommers, Watson to Hurl

"Lefty" Sommers, who has been performing so brilliantly for the Mainliners lately, and John Watson, veteran hurler, will be the moundmen in these two engagements. Watson will probably start against Delaware and Sommers will get the nod for the Penn game.

In their first engagement with Penn this year, Villanova, behind the three-hit pitching of Watson, smeared the Red and Blue, 14-1. Last year however the story was similar. The first game was a rout with the Mainliners on top but in the second, Penn rebounded to suddenly came to life in the seventh inning to knot the count and went on to win with three runs in the eighth.

No Lineup Changes

Kenny Lowe will be at his usual position behind the plate. Around the infield from the first to third we have Walt Hauck, Bob Maurer, Ralph Cecere and Dick Shannon. The picketline consists of Ed Swayze, Chuck McGuckin and Jack Peters.

Four Possible Winners at IC's May 30th and 31st

Villanova will send a small but power-packed team to the 76th annual outdoor IC4A championships at Randall's Island New York on May 30th and 31st. Among the group will be four possible first place winners.

The four possible gold medalists are Fred Dwyer, Cummin Clancy, John Joe Barry and Ray Wheiler. The first three will be defending in their particular events. Jim Reardon has an outside chance in the half.

Fred Dwyer will be out to Eligibility Rule for Frosh on Varsity Teams Reversed

Art Raimo, athletic director and head football coach at Villanova, announced last week that this school would follow the lead of the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference and make freshmen ineligible for all varsity sports next year.

Last Spring, with the thought of mass departure of college students due to the draft and uncertain foreign situation, the athletic conferences throughout the nation decided to put into effect for one year a new rule making freshmen eligible for all varsity sports.

It was soon seen that the expected loss of manpower would not be forthcoming and movements were started to put an end to this rule. As a result of the ECAC ruling no freshmen will be allowed to compete on any of the varsity

Too Late

By TED SHEEHAN, Sports Editor

One of the unfortunate things about turning out a college newspaper is the fact that publication ceases sometime in mid-May because of examinations, graduations, and the rest, and as a result many important happenings in the collegiate sports world go unreported and unheralded.

Two such events are going to come off in late May and early June, and because of this paper's early ending will not receive true acclaim. These two events are the National Collegiate Athletic Association's baseball tournament and the seventy-sixth running of the outdoor IC4A championships.

Villanova's participation in the former is mere supposition, in the later, true fact.

Time to Shout

Omaha is a city in Nebraska famed for its livestock and floods but to Art Mahan and a choice group of his associates it ain't the cows or rain that's important, it's the baseball tournament that is held in that fair burgh every spring. This year the Wildcats chances of participation in the affair are so strong that the news really should not be kept in whisper form any longer.

Early in the season the team received a form asking if they could play in the tournament if selected. Our answer was yes. They have been saying yes ever since, except for a little stutter against Loyola and a complete tongue-twisting against Fordham, not to mention Quantico.

Their answer reached shout proportions when the Lions of Penn State fell, 12-1 to a Mother's Day crowd and when Equitable Life lost 9-5. This Equitable Life team is Helsinki-bound this summer to try to introduce baseball in the 1956 Olympics. They also happen to be the A.A.U. champions, despite appearance last Friday against the Wildcats.

Two to Go

There is still a long way to go before they make Omaha. There are two more regular games on the docket plus any of the rained-out affairs that can be sandwiched in and, finally, they face the district playoffs. If the pitching of John Watson and Don Sommers can continue it might become more than a possibility.

The other event which we will not be around to enjoy is the IC4A track meet up in Randall's Island on May 30th and 31st. Last year the meet was held after the last edition of this paper and the fact that the team won three individual championships was not too widely known. In that affair the mile went to Fred Dwyer, the two-miles to John Joe Barry and the discus to Cummin Clancy.

Old Times

This meet is the oldest collegiate meet in existence and is stocked in tradition. For example, it is was in this meet that the flying start was first employed. Charlie Sherrill of Yale introduced it almost seventy years ago as an inovation to the collegiate scene. Actually, it was an old trick employed by professionals to fleece gullible bettors.

"Betcha I can beat you while lyin' on my back," they would challenge.

Another inovation brought to track by this meet was spiked shoes. August Belmont first brought that device over and used the IC's as the vehicle to introduce them. It was in this meet that an electric timer was first employed and that the best angle for throwing the discus was discovered. It's 45 degrees, Cummin.

Moving up to the present, the team that enters this meet from Villanova has an excellent chance of totalling almost twenty-five points and registering a fourth or fifth out of the proceedings. This would surpass last years efforts.

Wildcats Entries

A breakdown of the point scoring would run something like this: In the 440 there will be Joe Gaffney, Pete Simigan and Jim Reardon. Between them they ought to get at least three points in the finals. In the half is Ray Wheiler and perhaps Jim Reardon if he decides to forsake the 440 for the longer distance. Also in the race will be Carl Joyce of Georgetown. It is for Ray and Carl to fight out for first place. If Ray can duplicate his performance of California at Randall's Island he will have nothing to worry about. That though is difficult. The track on which Ray ran out there is far superior to any thing in the East.

In the mile is Fred Dwyer. He will take that barring major upset. If he does achieve this he will have two-thirds of the conference record. McMitchell won the mile six straight times, three times indoors and three times outdoors. This happened from 1939 through 1941.

In the two-mile is John Joe Barry. Also there are Charley Cappizoli of the Hoyas and Dick Shea. On form, Shea ought to win. In the discus is Cummin Clancy. Cummin has thrown the meet's winning distance already. If he can repeat he is in.

Frosh Win As Usual

Jack Lewis was awarded first place over Ward Welsh on the basis of fewer misses. There was also a tie for third between two Frosh.

Haner Takes Shot

The Juniors finally came through when Bob Haner and Tom Neville took first and second in the shot; but it was only a moral boost as the points didn't change the standings. The javelin was taken by Steve Barna of the Freshmen who beat the Sophomores' Bill Belleville by a few inches.

Points were awarded on the basis of 5, 3. 2 and 1 for the individual events and 10, 6, 4 and 2 for the relays.

The orders of finish, times and distances are as follows:

100: 1, Bill Cunningham, Frosh; 2, Jim Moore, Sr.; 3, Bill Mullee, Jr.; 4, Polson, Frosh. 10.5.

220: 1, Jim Guthrie, Sr.; 2, Dan Murphy, Frosh; 3, Jude O'Donnell, Jr.; 4, Bill Murphy, Soph. 23.9.

440: 1. Drew Higgins, Frosh; 2, Al Pittis, Sr.; 3, Bill Belleville, Soph; 4, Al Impink, Jr. 58.3.

880: 1, Bill Belleville, Soph; 2, Drew Higgins, Frosh; 3. Jim Nugent, Soph; 4, Otterbein, Frosh. 2.11.7.

440 Relay: 1, Seniors (John Gallin, Joe Rustic, Jim Moore, Jake Patrick), 2. Frosh, 3, Soph, 4, Juniors. 51 secs.

880 Relay: 1, Frosh (Fran Leonard, Dan Murphy, Will Cunningham, Joe Mulligan), 2, Seniors, 3. Sophs, 4, Juniors. 1.41.7.

Javelin: 1, Steve Barna, Frosh; 2, Bill Belleville, Soph; 3, Joe Till, Sr.; 4, Dick Carroll, Frosh. 147 ft.

Shot: 1. Bob Haner, Jr.; 2, Tom Neville, Jr.; 3 Joe Leichtweis, Frosh; 4, George Claffy, Sr. 36'6".

Broad Jump: 1, Ben Addiego, Soph; 2, L. Palmissano, Frosh; 3, Vic Vigilone, Sr.; 4. Bud Holland, Sr. 18'11".

High Jump: 1, Jack Lewis, Soph; 2, Ward Welsh, Soph; tie for third, Jim Ennis, Frosh and Ned Mahota, Frosh. 5'4".

Quantico Marines Hand Cats Third Loss Yesterday

A big five run first inning at the expense of Don Sommers opened the way for Villanova's third defeat of the season. The score was Quantico Marines 9, Villanova, 4.

The Marines were led in that attack by Shortstop Art Marben. Marben, the second batter in the ball game smashed a big two-run homer to give Quantico a lead and they were never headed.

Sal Olivo, a Dodger farmhand also stroked a big blast in the first frame. Olivo doubled off the top of the left field fence to drive in the second and third runs o the ballgame.

The Wildcats struck back in the thirr to get three runs, but the Marines kept pecking away at Lefty Sommers to keep a safe margin between the two teams.

Four Possible Winners

defend his mile crown and annex his fourth straight IC4A mile crown. He is heavily favored to do just that. Cummin Clancy should take the discus throw again if he can repeat his early season 160 foot heave. John Joe Barry is now in good shape to keep his two-mile laurel.

Ray Wheiler by virtue of his race in Los Angeles last Friday night should give Georgetown's Carl Joyce a good run in the half. Jim Reardon will run in either that distance or the quarter. Also in the 440 will be Pete Simigan and Joe Gaffney. Points ought to be garnered by some of those boys.

Eligibility Rule

teams next year. If however a new development on the intrnational scene forces mass conscription and the colleges throughout the nation were to be stripped of most of their available manpower, then, the old rule allowing freshmen would probably be brought back. Except for that situation there is little doubt that it would return.

Villanova will not have a freshmen football team despite the new edict and whether or not there will be freshmen basketball and baseball teams is undecided.

Grads' Invitations Now in Bookstore

All Seniors may now pick up in the Bookstore the graduation announcements they ordered last month. In addition, there are three formal invitations for each graduate in the Bookstore which are also now available.

The invitations are given to each graduate as a formality, although they are not needed for admission to commencement exercises to be held June 2 in front of the Library.

NROTC Riflemen Fifth in Nationals

By "E. Fudd" Keats

Competing against hundreds of ROTC colleges and universities all over the country, the Villanova rifle team placed fifth in the National ROTC Intercollegiate Rifle Match.

Coached by Marine M/Sgt. DeSpeghel, the team has improved over last years fine showing when they placed 16th in the nationals.

The competition is based on a pyramid system. Starting at the bottom all the Army, Navy, and Air Force ROTC rifle teams in the country fire for a place in their respective districts. The top teams go on to compete in the regionals, semi-finals, and, with luck and skill, for a place in the finals.

The Villanova team not only took fifth place among the 82 ROTC finalists but also topped the 51 other Naval ROTC teams in the country.

Editorial Changes List Six New Men Replacing Seniors

his next writing possibility will probably be with "Stars and Stripes".

The other changes included Ted Sheehan as managing editor, Dick Winfield as news editor, Carl Valenti and Harry Anger as sports editors and Jim Glavin as feature editor.

Joe Mullen will take over the business end of the paper while Bob Mellor becomes picture editor and Nick Elsior takes over the reins of the circulation department. Tony Galati and Ed Long will team up as copy editors.

The changes, as approved by moderator Rev. John A. Klekotka, O.S.A., are all effective as of the first edition next September.

Maynes started his newspaper experience two years ago as intramural and feature writer on the sports staff and held the managing editor's post this past year. His first full job of editing was done on this year's Junior Week edition when he took over the Editor's position for that issue.

Ted Sheehan, newly appointed managing editor, was sports editor this year. A prelaw sophomore, he hails from New York City where he was sports editor of the All Hallows High school "Blue and White". He spent a year at Manhattan before entering Villanova and during that year was editor of the "Koran", the student handbook.

News editor Dick Winfield is a native of Valley Stream, N.Y., where he was editor of the schoolpaper, "Central Crier". During the past year he was the paper's representative on the student council. He is a Freshman Arts man.

Carl Valenti and Harry Anger will fill the sports editorship post vacated by Sheehan. Both in the C&F school, Valenti is a junior from New Brunswick, N. J., and Anger is a sophomore from Malvern, Long Island. While at St. Peter's high school, Valenti gained experience as sports editor of the "Cardinal."

Jim Glavin, junior English major is moving up from the news-feature department to take over the feature pages in place of graduating Jerry Micallef. He is sports director of station WVIL and hails from Waterford, N. Y.

Copy editors Tony Galati and Ed Long are both Juniors, Galati Arts and Long C&F. Both served on the copy staff this year with Galati taking over as editor in February. He also wrote news and features.

Joe Mullen is moving over to the job of business manager in place of senior Joe Bogner. His former position of circulation manager will be taken over by Nick Elsior.

FRANCIS THOMPSON
New Lynx Editor

Thompson to Edit Literary Magazine, Succeeding Quinn

Lynx, the literary magazine of Villanova College, today disclosed that Francis E. Thompson will replace retiring Editor Bob Quinn as Editor-in-Chief for the coming academic year. Edward P. Cormier will take over the post as Art Editor, vacated by Bob Beers. The remaining editorial appointments are expected to be made within the next few days.

12 Leave

In all, twelve members of the Lynx staff will graduate next month. Along with Quinn and Beers, those leaving are: Copy Editor Jim Gallagher, Circulation Manager Kevin McCrane, and staff members Jim Griffin, Lucien Schneider, Paul Pirhalla, Bob Roland, Eugene Del Conte, James Mason, John Staley, and John Raskopf.

With this editorial change, the Lynx formally arrives at its proper position as a college tradition. When the current staff retires, there will be no students left who were around in 1948 when the magazine was first founded.

Advances

During the four years, the Lynx has come a long way. The cover, once printed the same as inside pages, is now a slick, two-color bit of art work. Inside, the excellent art work adds greater interest to the increased size of the magazine. Contributors have increased rapidly during the years, as has the circulation. Even an editorial office, located at Room 11 in the C&F Building, was added this year.

To guarantee continued success through improvements, Thompson, the newly appointed editor, has asked that all those interested in writing, layout, art, or circulation, contact him at Good Council Hall as soon as possible.

Picture editor for next year will be Bob Mellor, advancing through the graduation of Al Dugas.

DPE Is Planning For 1st Breakfast Sunday, May 25th

Plans for Delta Pi Epsilon's first annual Communion Breakfast were announced by the frat's president, Don Briggs, at a fraternity meeting last Thursday. The affair will be held Sunday, May 25.

It will begin with 8:30 Mass in the College Chapel followed by a breakfast in the dining hall with several entertaining speakers.

Elections were also held Thursday evening for next year's fraternity officers. Elected were: President, Tom Ackerman; Vice - President, Lou Goeringer; Secretary, Joe Birch; Treasurer, Mike Quinn; and Student Council Representative, John Sirena.

The final meeting of the Commerce and Finance fraternity will be held tomorrow evening at 7:00 in 215 Mendel Hall.

Navy Drill Team Cops Trophy

MISS N.R.O.T.C., Miss Barbara Stapf, attaches the victors flag to the guidon of Baker Company, winners in the annual inter-company competition. Presentation was made during Armed Forces Day exercises in the stadium last Saturday.

Participating in the national celebration of Armed Forces Day, the Villanova NROTC battalion held the annual review and fancy drill team competition in the stadium Saturday. For the second consecutive year, the host drill team won the 4th Naval District award. Only one other team, the University of Penna., was able to make the trip to compete.

Presentation of battalion colors to the winner of the inter - company competition was made by Miss Barbara Stapf, Villanova's Miss NROTC of 1952. The award to Baker Company came as a surprise to most of those present since the name of the victor has been a closely guarded secret since competition last Tuesday.

Following an address by College president, Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., awards were made to members of the rifle and pistol teams and to midshipmen outstanding in academics.

The Commandat's awards for Navigation went to T. P. Abrahams. J. V. Marron received both the Navy League award for Scholarship in Naval Institute award was shared by E. T. Dolan and D. Denny. The Marine Corps Association award was presented to G. Crist.

it was discontinued during the war.

Runner-up for the V.C.A.A. Medal was Jim Gallagher who had a total of 18 merit awards, over a four year period.

Quinn, who will receive a Bachelor of Science degree in Economics, with a major in marketing, is a native of Bayside, Long Island. He attended Bishop Loughlin Memorial High School in Brooklyn, New York.

Redmond Elected Prexy for Phi Kap

John R. Redmond, of the Class of 1953, was named President of Phi Kappa Pi for the coming year, at the fraternity's last meeting of the year last Saturday night.

He will succeed James A. Conway, retiring president. The choice of Redmond to follow Conway was a highlight of the meeting at the Paoli American Legion building, in Paoli. It was attended by over one hundred fifty people.

Other officers named for the forthcoming year are Edward F. Corini, vice-president; Robert J. Landers, secretary; Henry A. Lavery, treasurer; Jose Luis Matton, student council representative; and Charles G. Brown, sergeant-at-arms.

written exam given last April on the Villanova campus. The awards are applicable to any college course of eight consecutive semesters beginning with the opening of the academic year in September.

Downey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Downey of 510 E. Mount Pleasant Ave., expects to take up studies in Villanova's chemistry department in the fall.

The other two award winners have both applied for admission to the Villanova School of Engineering. Downing is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis P. Downing of 1629 Creston Street and Mrs. John Flannery of 1928 Spencer Street.

Quinn & Beers Top Awards

Two Seniors, Robert Beers and Robert J. Quinn, received six merit awards apiece to garner top honors at the annual Merit Award Convocation last week.

Over two hundred thirty students received awards at the convocation. The Merit Award is significant of outstanding participation in extra-curricular activities. Students who participate actively in the "out-of-class' affairs, and are approved by the Chaplain and Dean, are eligible.

Quinn and Beers completely outdistanced the field to gain the distinction of being top award winners.

6 Awards for Quinn

Quinn is a marketing major. His six awards brought his four year total to sixteen, the highest number among the members of the Senior Class. This entitles him to receive the Alumni Award at commencement this June. This is the first year since the war that the Award has been presented.

Beers is a General Arts major.

No students received five awards, but eight followed with four. Several students received two or three awards, and the total number of awards was two hundred thirty.

Special Scholastic Award

James E. Stillwagon and Thomas J. Kelly received special awards for attaining the highest scholastic averages among the chemistry majors and the chemical engineers, respectively.

An award will later be presented to the outstanding athlete in intramural sports, pending the results of the softball league. It will be presented to either John Jude O'Donnell or Robert McIntee, who are now in a virtual tie for honors in this department.

Confidence Vote By Council Is Given To Joint Committee

The 1951-52 edition of Villanova's Student Council called it a year last Monday night and transacted the following business:

(1) A near-unanimous vote carried Senior Ed Brunner's motion to show a vote of confidence in the action of the joint student - administration committee for barring the reporter from the "Villanovan" at the group's first meeting.

Necessarily 2nd Hand

The vote was preceded by a series of attacks on the "Villanovan's" story describing the barring and its necessitated second-hand reporting of the discussion which took place at the meeting.

Repeat Statement

(2) A report on the progress of the committee by Council Chairman Tom Delaney, essentially the same as the committee's own statement printed in the last issue of the "Villanova."

(3) A barrage of suggestions to be acted upon next by next year's Council, including

Committee Reports

The folowing is a report submitted by the Joint Faculty-Student Committee.

The Joint Faculty - Student Committee met with Rev. F. X. McGuire, O.S.A., president of the College Wednesday, May 14. Acting on recommendations of the committee, Father President stated that definite action will be taken over the summer on both issues presented (1) the Pie Shop, (2- the Commerce and Finance School.

QUEEN PIX

All Juniors who entered their dates' pictures in the "Queen of Juniors Week" contest, must pick up the pictures by Thursday from Jim Glavin, 310 Alumni, if they wish to reclaim them.

Hayden Elected President Of Belle Masque Society

Belle Masque's entire membership combined to elect Junior Thomas Hayden President of the Society for the coming College Year. The result was an almost unanimous choice of Hayden, with but one vote cast for the opposite nominee.

Hayden has a Society history well disposing him to the Presidency of Villanova's dramatic group. He began his Belle Masque work as a member of the stage-crew, rising quickly to the position of Stage-manager. Next, he successfully conquered the many problems of acting. Villanovans remember him best in the lead role—Erwenter, in "The Silver Whistle".

Lives In Ardmore

An Ardmore resident, Belle Masque's new President is enrolled in the Accounting department of the Commerce and Finance School.

Other officers chosen included, Sophomore Joseph McGarigle as Treasurer, Sophomore John Serena as Secretary, and Junior Maurice Murphy as Student Council Representative.

Moderator Reverend William J. Krupa, O.S.A., announced at the election meeting that he had tentatively chosen the next Belle Masque play—"Detective Story". The play was successful on Broadway and outstandingly fortunate as a motion picture.

Father Krupa added that he will welcome hopeful actors to individual auditions at any time. He may be reached by calling in person at St. Mary's Hall.

Three H. S. Seniors From Philadelphia Win Scholarships

Three Philadelphia high school seniors have been awarded scholarship from Villanova College as a result of this year's scholarship competition, according to an announcement today from Rev. Thomas A. Burke, O.S.A., registrar.

Two LaSalle high school students, John J. Flannery and Cornelius L. Downey, and one from Northeast Catholic high school, John L. Downing, are recipients of Villanova's annual awards.

Enrollment Rises To 1997 As Academic Year Begins

110th Anniversary Marked By Mass; Spanish Ambassador Awarded Degree

Observing its 110th academic anniversary, Villanova College threw open its doors this fall to 1997 students in the schools of Engineering, Arts and Sciences, and Commerce and Finance. With the celebration of a Solemn High Mass by Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., college president, on Sept. 22, followed by the annual convocation on the same day, the scholastic year officially opened.

HONORARY DEGREE of Doctor of Laws was presented to the Honorable Joe Felix de Leguerica, Spanish ambasador to the United States, by Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., president of Villanova, at the first student convocation of the current year.

35 Korean Vets

A report from the Registrar's office indicates an overall increase of 155 enrollees over last year's figure. Included among the 683 freshmen registering on September 17 were 35 veterans of the Korean War.

Highlighting the Academic Convocation in the Field House was the conferring of the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws upon Spain's Ambassador to the United States, the Hon. Don Jose Felix de Lequerica.

Ambassador Cited

Following a talk by the Father McGuire welcoming Freshmen, upperclass and faculty, the degree was conferred, citing the ambassador as a man with a "wide and varied background as an industrialist, businessman, writer, statesman and diplomat . . . who is a symbol of the nation he represents."

In his acceptance speech, Mr. de Lequerica pointed out the significance of the

Soph Cotillion Set In "Gay Nineties"

The "Gay Nineties" will be the theme of this year's Soph Cotillion. On Friday night, October 10, the Field House will be transformed into a colorful 1890 night spot, complete with a handsome bar and the traditional swinging doors.

Bud Ford, chairman of the Cotillion, announced that all the committees are working hard and progressing rapidly. Bob Kaiser and Jim Campbell are chairmen of the program and ticket committees. Fred Beigler and Duke Micone are handling the publicity. The decoration committee, headed by Reds McGahan, has a good start on their big job. Joe Wynn and Bill Kohler refreshment committee chairmen, will have their "bartenders" garbed in Gay 90's style, including mustaches and straw hats.

Music for the affair, the first social of the season, will be supplied by the newly reorganized "Villanovans" under the leadership of Dave Vachon. Dancing will be continuous from 9 to 1.

Chairman Ford urges all students, especially Freshmen, to buy their tickets before the last minute rush.

BUD FORD
Cotillion Chairman

Tickets are on sale every day in front of the Pie Shop. They can also be bought from any member of the ticket committee or at the door on Friday night.

Last year's cotillion broke all records for the sophomores' annual affair and Bud reports that he and his class are out to break the record again.

Council Lists Social Dates, Proposals At First Meeting

Prospects for a busy year were in evidence as Villanova's Student Council for 1952-53 convened for the first time on Sept. 23. Presiding over the initial session was Chairman Tom Ackerman, C & F Senior, with Joe Kenney as vice-chairman and Dick Boehling as Secretary-treasurer.

The meeting appeared to be a warm-up for future Council action with proposals being made on the following issues:

Release of 21-year olds to vote on Nov. 4.

Posting of resident student directories throughout the campus.

Appointment of a third member of the Council to join Ackerman and Senior Charlie Russell as student body representatives on the Faculty-Student Committee.

Construction of a path from Belle Air hall to the C & F building.

A tentative social events calendar was announced by the all-Senior Social Affairs Committee. It included:

Oct. 10—Soph Cotillion.

Oct.24—Owl Hop.

Nov. 21—Senior Prom.

Nov. 22—Senior Dinner Dance.

Dec. 13—St. John's Orphanage Outing.

Apr. 23—Phi Kappa Phi Dance.

May 3-9—Junior Week.

Near-unanimous protest to the eliminating of a meal on Sundays was voiced, with action shelved until more of the residents encountered the new Sunday schedule. Also Rev. George McLaughlin, O. S. A. outlined a new financial system for extra-curricular organizations, to be controlled through the Administration thereby relieving the Council of its limited financial powers.

Absent from the first meeting were Joe Roy (Sr. Ed.), George Eberle (Jr. C & F), Art Knowlton (Jr. S & F) Maury Murphy (Belle Masque) Charlie Russell (Schola Cantorum).

Hamilton's "Rope" Is Belle Masque's Fall Presentation

The famous Broadway smash mystery comedy, "The Rope", which was put on celluloid so successfully a few years ago by Twentieth-Century Fox, will be the fall production of the Belle Masque Dramatic Society.

Patrick Hamilton's famous who-done-it will open at the Field House on November sixth and will run through the eighth.

Due to technical obstacles encountered, the plans to dramatize "Detective Story" had to be scrapped. The Rev. William Krupa, O. S. A., moderator of the society said. "It did not seem advisable to attempt such a large scale production with such a short rehearsal schedule".

Self-Supporting Group

Belle Masque, which is one of the few self-supporting activities on campus, had such a successful season last year that they were able to buy ten new one-thousand watt spot lights to be used in the College theater. Father Krupa also procured a double-reel tape recorder to be used for tryouts as an aid to the actors in improving their characterization of a part.

Attention Juniors

All Juniors are urged to attend a class meeting tonight at 7 P. M. in the C & F Auditorium. Art Quinn, Class President will review the years activities for the class and many important issues concerning rings, blazers, and Junior Week will be discussed.

Ticket Deadline Tomorrow For Seniors' Father's Day

The Senior Class will open its social calendar when it sponsors Father's Day this Saturday. It is the first time since 1934 that this event has been held, and the class hopes it to become an annual affair.

The day will begin with 10 o'clock Mass in the College Chapel. Fathers and sons will then be served a catered luncheon in the Field House at 11:15, after which they will travel to Franklin Field to attend the Villanova-Wake Forest football game.

On Sale at Pie Shop

Chairman Dick Cashman stressed the fact that tickets must be purchased today or tomorrow at the booth in the Pie Shop. Those Seniors who have not already made deposits may still buy tickets for $4.50. Tickets for the football game for fathers should be purchased at the same time. These tickets will be student section seats selling at $2.60.

DICK CASHMAN
A Senior Innovation

Cashman also said that those Seniors who have already made deposits for Father's Day must pay the remaining $2.50 by tomorrow at the Pie Shop booth. These students must bring matriculation cards when they buy tickets.

Expect Large Turnout

According to last week's ticket deposits, a large turnout is expected. Chairman Cashman urges all Seniors who can possibly attend to turn out.

Editorials

A Welcome

From what we've seen in the many college papers that got the jump on us in the publishing of their first issue it seems to be the custom of newly installed editors to make their initial claim to literary immortality with a welcome to the student body.

So even though classes have been going their merry way for over two weeks, the "Villanovan" would like to take this opportunity to say "hello again" to the returning upper classmen, and especially, "welcome" to the freshmen who are entering Villanova for the first time.

"Welcome" as the Class of '56 and "Welcome" as the individual Frosh.

These two groupings seem to embody the twofold education it is hoped you will receive here.

As the Class of '56 you will receive what might be classed as your social education. It is as a class that you will develop the friendships, traditions and memories that go together to make that spirit that is so outstanding among Villanovans.

As the individual frosh you will be striving, the same as the loftiest senior, not only for the material training that is offered by a college education, but also for the spiritual development offered only by a Catholic college education.

During your four years here, which will go by all too quickly, it will be your job, and duty ,to do your utmost in attaining this high goal — that of becoming a Catholic gentleman well trained in your chosen field. Despite the tireless aid to be received from your instructors, in the final analysis it is up to you whether you win or lose in this game of education.

So once again "welcome", and a sincere wish for every success during your time here at Villanova.

Good Start

We'd like to give a well deserved pat on the back to the Student Council for bringing forward the proposal of a free day on Novmber 4 for those who are registered to vote.

Not that we wish to go into the reasons why an eligible person should cast his ballot, you can read about that anywhere and besides it is obvious to any person with half an intellect, but we do think a sanction of this proposal by the administration would be a big step in the right direction especially in a critical election such as this one.

Election Day is exactly four weeks off so possibly this will serve as another inducement to those who aren't yet registered and also as a reminder for those living in a state that supplies absentee ballots to get their application in the mail. It's only a matter of a few minutes now but the next four years will be long ones.

The last twenty were.

Presidential Election Has New Approach

Candidates Evidently Believe Their Own Election Material

By Tony Galati

Once again, this great country of ours finds itself in the throes of that national enigma occuring every four years and known as a presidential election.

Preceding the election by several months and usually beginning with the inexplicable phenomenon called the party convention, is that great American tradition, the presidential campaign. This is the season when self-styled Ciceros appear before the public and denounce their opponents using such novel expressions as communist and "me-tooer." This is the season when frustrated Caesars, who incidentally never die but just fade away, assume the rostrum and cry, "it's time for a change." This is the season when the unfortunate ear of John Q. Public is mercilessly bombarded by a virtual Niagara of "quaint" slogans, hackneyed expressions and antiquated clichés.

'I Like Ike!'

All this seems to have had its humble beginning in the early part of the year, when a veritable Shakespeare inflated his lungs to the fullest, threw back his shoulders and declared, "I like Ike."

Before long, under the expert cheerleadership of such notables as Messrs. Lodge, Duff and Dewey, a sizeable portion of the American people were swaying rhythmically and chanting in unison "I like Ike—I like Ike."

'Vote For Taft'

This horrible display of human emotion was looked upon with disgust by the traditional conservatives. Unwilling to be so bold as to invent a new slogan of their own, they were well satisfied to use their time-honored, though unsuccessful, "Vote for Taft."

The Press, which is always quick to seize upon such a convenient and labor-saving device as a slogan, was forced with a grave decision. This naturally required a conclave of all major newspapers. And so, after a lengthy discussion which must have lasted all of thirty seconds, it was decided, almost unanimously, that they too liked Ike.

Good-Bye Taft

Some of the larger newspapers, not wanting to be outdone, adopted a new and (if you'll pardon the expression) more pointed slogan. It read something like "give Taft the raft."

Meanwhile, in another smoke-filled room the Democrats were playing it, as they like to think, rather cool. Their battle was between the "Coonskin senator" and "our guy Adlai."

During that riotous period in July when the gathering of the clans took place in Chicago, the two protagonists were chosen according to that aboriginal custom of cutting the opponent's throat. It is mostly after this period that the proverbial public ear has been abused. For months the air has been literally filled with: McCarthyism, Trumanism, communism, creeping socialism, don't let them take it away, clean up the mess and so on ad infinitum. Escape from the deluge is impossible.

Booby Prize

During every campaign there is what might be called an award for the most ridiculous expression used. This is known as the booby-prize and this year goes to the originators of that wonderfully ludicrous expression "Stevenson is a captive candidate." This gem of wisdom is based upon three principles. 1) Those who "like Ike" cannot be captive. 2) The AMA and NAM do not capture but merely support a candidate. 3) The word captive refers only to those whose "guy is Adlai."

And so, this election seems to boil down to one basic question. Do the people like Ike or are they madly for Adlai?

Ruples or Scruples?

'Funds' Pour Fuel On Hot Fires Of Stevenson-Eisenhower Battle

By Al Pandaleon

No sage political observer can fail to realize the sudden shot in the arm administered to the presidential campaign as a result of the recent fund revelations. The difficulty, however, lies in the analysis of the effect of the Nixon and Stevenson cases upon the mind of the electorate. Until the attendant wave of emotion has subsided at least enough to allow clear judgment, we can only speculate on the political consequences.

Yet one fact appears certain. There is an intimate, though perhaps unconscious, connection between the Nixon-Stevenson funds and the issue of McCarthyism. One of the primary objectives of the G. O. P. throughout the campaign has been the exposure of corruption in the present administration. McCarthyism, though still a major phase of this attack, has long been familiar to the voters. With the sudden announcement of behind the scene moves with respect to the financial affairs of at least two of the candidates, new fuel has been added to the fire. Seldom has such a furor been aroused in recent campaigns. Nevertheless, a furor does exist and could have an important bearing on the fortunes of the two presidential nominees.

It would seem safe to say that with each party undergoing the same difficulty, most of the extreme danger to either will be averted. Then, too, experience has taught that the rank and file of each camp can almost always be counted upon to support their respective choices regardless of pre-election day charges and counter-charges. What Arthur Krock, N. Y. Times correspondent, observed as a possible "bombshell and boomerang" to the Republican Party cause will probably prove true only in the first part.

Still, the combined influence of McCarthyism and the Nixon case on the issue of corruption as a part of G. O. P. strategy leaves one all-important question unanswered. Just what effect will all this have upon the independent voters? Both candidates sorely need the support of this admittedly large but desparate element of the electorate; Eisenhower as the nominee of a numerically smaller party, and Stevenson as a newcomer to the national scene, faced with the problem of defending a widely criticized administration. In all probability the answer will remain hidden until after the election. Nevertheless, of one thing we can be sure. As a result of the recent developments corruption looms larger than at any previous time as one of the key issues of the presidential contest. To what extent this factor influences the final choice of the independent voters will in a large measure determine whether or not there is to be a change in the administration next year.

Roommate's Leaving Hallowed Hall Lamented By Still Suffering Buddy

By Joe Mascuch

With only a few grains of summer sand still shifting around in my white bucks, I boarded the train for Villanova. I took a quick look at my baggage to see if I had forgotton anything. No, everything was there, golf clubs, tennis racket, pinochle cards, cork skrew, bottle opener and Angostura bitters. I had all the essentials for a happy semester.

I hadn't been in Penna. for more than an hour when I fell into something soft, a cement highway. They certainly did things over the Summer. I picked myself up and after quickly racing under the scaffold, made my way to Fedigan. There, in room 207, safe but sooty, I waited for the arrival of my new roommate.

Yes, the college cut-up has graduated. A sure sixty lines of copy walked right down the aisle and out the Field House door on June 2nd. My new room-mate is a serious, intelligent chap, you know, a real dud.

We were not together for more than a few minutes when I realized that I was in for a dull semester. He dropped his suitcase smack on my foot and there wasn't a tinkle. If that had been my old room-mate we'd still be mopping up the foam.

A Real Buddy!!

Why, after I had been with my old room-mate for just an hour, he was already smoking my cigarettes, spending my money and he had a date with my girl. He was sure a card.

I just don't think this new room-mate of mine is going to lend himself to being immortalized in this column. He doesn't seem like the type to wear a raccoon coat to chow, burn down the Pie Shoppe or do anything out of the ordinary. So, I think I may give in to the demand of my reader (that is the ultimate singular) and make my articles a bit more high brow. . Unless, of course, this guy turns out to be a clown. He may, you know.

Midshipman Cruise 'Charlie' Visited Panama, "Crossroads of the World"

By Al Hennessey

On the ninth of August, 1952, the tested, but yet untried, contract midshipmen of Villanova reported to the Norfolk Naval Base. Along with Middies from the other 51 NROTC colleges throughout the United States, they came for their only actual experience aboard ship prior to obtaining their commissions. Many were exposed to naval warships for the first time; while, a few had never seen the ocean before.

The 525 midshipmen of the cruise were assigned to five ships of the Task Force. There was the heavy crusier, USS Pittsburgh, the flagship, and four destroyer-minelayers: Shannon, Shea, Bauer, and Frazer. Midshipmen from Villanova were split up among the ships.

Left Norfolk

The task group departed from Norfolk on August 11, and headed out to sea. In a few short days the "guests" of the U. S. Navy were filling in on watches, observing naval procedure and asking the thousands of questions that can be asked on how a ship is run.

THREE VILLANOVA MIDSHIPMEN, Bill Reynolds, Ed Long, and Jim Moser, take time out from activities at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, during the latter phases of Cruise 'Charlie.'

To facilitate easier learning of a ship's operation, the cruise was divided into three phases. There were gunnery, navigation, and engineering. The midshipman was required to attend classes in these phases. He also had to stand regular watches with the crew. In the navy's own jargon, "he learned by doing."

Seven days after leaving Norfolk, first land was sighted. The ships sailed through Mona Passage between Puerto Rico and Santo Domingo. The cruise now entered the calm Carribean, the sea of the flying fish. However, those who were aboard the destroyers found it far from calm, as the "tincans" rolled and pitched all the way to Panama.

Shortly after daybreak on August 20, the task group arrived at Coco Solo Naval Base, Canal Zone. Here the middies were given four days of liberty. The various ruins of a once great Panama were visited along with the twin cities of Cristobol and Colon, on the Atlantic side, and Panama City, and Balboa, on the Pacific side of the Peninsula. Various tours were taken around the Isthmus. Among these tours was a visit to the Gatun Locks of the Panama Canal. Most memorable trip in Panama was a visit to the fabulous "El Panama" Hotel, the Pride of the Republic. It is one of the newest and most modern hotels in the Western Hemisphere.

Four Villanovans Succumb Recently

During the past summer death claimed two venerable members of the Augustinian Order, one member of the contemporary student body of Villanova, and one former student at the college.

Rev. Jerome A. Mahoney, O. S. A., class of 1920, died in Albuquerque, New Mexico, on September 22, 1952. Father Mahoney is a former member of the Villanova faculty.

Rev. M. Milanese, O. S. A. who had recently completed fifty years in the Augustinian order died last week in Baltimore, Maryland.

Pedro Nieves, a former Education student, was killed in action during the summer. He was serving with U. S. troops in Korea.

John Knarr, a sophomore student in the school of Commerce and Finance, whose home was in Elkins Park, Pa., was killed in an automobile accident near Atlantic City, N. J., September eighth.

Villanova students are requested, in the spirit of the DeProfundus Bell, to remember the souls of these men in their prayers.

Announce Chemistry Faculty Additions; Engineering Groups Are Reactivated

Villanova's Chemistry Department underwent several personnel changes during the summer. Dr. Alexander Gero, former Associate Professor here, has taken his leave to become a professor at Hahnemann Medical College in Philadelphia. At Hahnemann, Dr. Gero will teach Pharmicology. He will return to Villanova, however, for the spring semester to present his course, Chemistry of Biologically Important Compounds.

Dr. Quam has also announced the addition of several part-time instructors to his staff. Charles Dahlke, a chemical engineer from the University of Pennsylvania and currently employed by Foote Mineral Company, is back as an instructor in General Chemistry. He previously taught here in 1948 and 1949. Joseph A. Feighan, from St. Joseph's College and Penn, Robert Florentine, from Penn, and Melvin C. Hobson, from Virginia Polytechnical Institute and Penn, are also new assistants in General Chemistry.

A Villanova graduate completes the list of new staff members. The Reverend Jan H. Busch, O. S. A. of Villanova 1952, is also helping out in General Chemistry. Fr. Busch is a graduate student at the University of Pennsylvania.

CHEM. ENGINEERING

J. Stanley Morehouse, Dean of the School of Engineering has announced the appointment of Dr. Hsui Huo Yuen to the faculty of the Chemical Engineering Department. Dr. Yuen is teaching Unit Operations II this semester.

A native of Hong Kong, Dr. Yuen received his bachelor's degree in Chemical Engineering from the National South West University of China in 1945. After some graduate work in China, he came to the United States in 1947 and enrolled at Washington University of St. Louis, from which institution he received his Master of Chemical Engineering degree. Dr. Yuen then attended Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute. After completing doctorial research on high polymers under Dr. Paul F. Bruins, he received his D. Ch. E. in June of 1952.

CLUB NEWS

Mendel Hall became the scene of intense activity last Monday night. Initial meetings were held for the Villanova "Engineer" staff, the A.S.C.E. and the A.I. Ch. E. At the meeting of the "Engineer" a large and enthusiastic turnout of prospective staff-members was addressed briefly by Editor-in-Chief Hugh Sharp. He told of the plans for the coming year and introduced members of the editorial staff.

The monthly's editorial staff includes Sharp, Bob Brabson and Bob Mellor, associate editors; Gene Serra, art editors; Dick Spangenberg, copy editor; Ted Kuligowski, business manager; and John Dougherty, circulation manager. The first issue is due to appear on the fifteenth of November.

The American Institution of Chemical Engineers also conducted their opening meeting.

LIBRARY NOTES

If you're interested in using the library's Music Room at all this year . . . attend the first meeting of the Music Room Committee in the library Thursday, Oct. 9 at 4:30 p.m.

The purpose of the group as explained by Rev. Daniel P. Falvey, O.S.A., will be to make the facilities of the room available to all students. Those unable to attend the meeting are requested to leave names and addresses at the circulation desk.

More Than Three Thousand Hear Archbishop's Address

His excellency, John F. O'Hara, Archbishop of Philadelphia, delivered the main address to the delegates of the annual Villanova Press Conference on Saturday, September 27, 1952. Over 3000 high school students and faculty advisors heard the Archbishop speak on the influence of the Catholic way of life on the world.

HIS EXCELLENCY, BISHOP JOHN F. O'HARA.

This marked the first official visit of the prelate to the Villanova campus and the first time that he has addressed an assembly for educational purposes since his installation as Archbishop last Spring.

The purpose of the conference, sponsored by the Belle Air and the William T. Cooke Publishing, Inc., was to aid high school students in the production of yearbooks and newspapers. Mr. William T. Cooke, President of Cooke Publishing, addressed the yearbook panel and presented ideas and helpful hints on successful layout.

The newspaper panel heard Francis X. Martinez, a veteran of over twenty years experience on newspapers and magazines, speak on modern writing. In the past, Mr. Martinez has been an editor of "Holiday" magazine and "The Wall Street Journal" and has been associated with AP and UP.

This was the largest publications conference ever held at Villanova and attracted representatives from as far South as Richmond, Va., and all the Middle Atlantic States.

Motor City Titans Fall Before Raimomen; Kentucky And Clemson First Two Victims

Filipski, Brannau Are Brilliant in Early Victories

By Tom Mentzer

With a Wildcat ferocity, Villanova's football team opened their 1952 grid campaign by clawing a highly touted Kentucky eleven into submission 25-6.

A lightning-like ground attack in the third quarter, following a deadlocked first half, was the turning point in the fray.

With both teams unable to muster a sustained drive, the only scoring done in the first half came on long punt returns, one by the Southerners'. Harry Jones, a 72 yard jaunt, and the other by dancing Ben Addiego on a reverse from Joe McNicholas.

Decisive Quarter

But the second half told a different story. On the first play of scrimmage in that half Addiego, behind crisp blocking, went 36 yards to Kentucky's 43. Gene Filipski then took a Brannau pitchout and zig zagged his way to paydirt. That opened the door and before the evening was over three more Blue-shirted Wildcats had added to the score that gave a Villanova team their first victory over the Kentuckians in four meetings.

Clemson Edged

After a big victory over the Bluegrassers the Wildcats, ranked 13th in the land, took on the Tigers of Clemson in a bang-up game.

Two third quarter scoring thrusts, one a 59 yard broken-field scamper by Gene Filipski, enabled the Blue and White to edge powerful Clemson 14-7.

Filipski Scores

Until midway through the third period, the game had been highlighted by superb defensive play with both teams having halted scoring attempts deep in their own territory. At this point, however, the elusive Filipski, behind bone-rattling blocks, swept his own right end, broke into the clear, and went all the way. Moments later Joe McNicholas pilfered an aerial by Tiger Ace, Billy Hair, and moved it to the Clemson 48. Here the slick Brannau took command.

Brannau Excels

Mixing plays beautifully, Bill drove the Wildcats down to the Tiger 26, where he himself faked a hand-off, faded back, and pitched a pay-off strike to end John Marcus. Haner then converted for the second time to make it 14-0.

Clemson bounced back quickly to make it 14-7, but never could get a drive un-

GENE FILIPSKI, Villanova halfback, takes handoff from quarterback Bill Brannau, (11) and is stopped on one foot line as he tries to score over his right guard on last play of first half at Detroit, Saturday night. Ed Yablonski, (56) U. of Detroit back, and other unidentified Detroit players make the tackle.

Rutgers First Foe As 150-lb. Team Makes Debut Oct. 17

By Jim Wrzesinski

On Oct. 17, Villanova's 150 lb. football team plays host to Rutgers for the first 150 lb. game seen on this campus in a long time. The Wildcat squad, though inexperienced because of a year's absence from competition, has looked sharp in drills to date.

Joe Kenney, a Junior, has looked sensational at quarterback. Hank Schmitt and Don Comicelli have been running fine in the backfield while Jim Loftus, Jose Matton, and Tony Mazullo have been standouts in line play thus far. The game with Rutgers will be a good test of the potential strength of the Blue and White.

Eight Seniors Return

The coaching staff, composed of former varsity football players Terry Terranova, Joe Roy, Chuck McGuckin, and Al Bartolomeo, is looking forward to a fair season. Head-coach, Terry Terranova, feels that inexperience will prove a drawback all season, and will be a deciding factor in the close games. The returning veterans, eight seniors, will provide a big boost, but the fact still remains that this is a rebuilding year, and no rash

Bowlers Open Year

Villanova's Intramural Bowling Club made its initial preparation for the forthcoming season at its first meeting held last week. Tony Cardinale, senior and president of the club for his second straight year has promised a highly successful season.

The early start will give the club a chance to hold more functions than were held last year. Also the club is planning to schedule some matches with a few of the local colleges (Penn, Temple, Rosemont, etc.). League competition got underway Monday, October 6, at 7 p. m., at the Rosemont Bowling Alleys.

Cat Harriers Lose 23-39 to Army Utter Home Third

By Dick Confoy

Villanova's cross-country debut was ruined at West Point, 23 to 39, as the well-conditioned Army harriers rolled on to their thirteenth straight win.

Lack of practice — just three days in all — caught up with the Wildcats late in the five mile event as Bill Cory and Lew Olive of Army pulled ahead to finish one-two. Sophomore Jerry Utter surprised for the 'Cats with a strong third, just 24 seconds off the 22:44 winning time and eight seconds ahead of mile king Fred Dwyer. The flying Irishman. John Joe Barry, placed sixth for the Mainliners as Bill Rock rounded out the top ten.

Team Ran Well

Despite West Point's exceptionally hilly course and practically no training period, all the Villanovans improved over last year's time. Coach Jumbo Elliot, far from pessimistic, is looking for a repeat of last year's season, which saw us drop the opener to Army and then sweep the remaining meets. The balance of the cross-country schedule:

October 18—Seton Hall, at South Orange, N. J.; November 1 Manhattan, at Home.

McNicholas Sets Up Scores In 21-7 Victory At Detroit

By Harry Anger

The Villanova Wildcats made it a clean sweep on the road as they handed the Titans of Detroit their first setback of the season before a home team crowd of some 19,000 people.

Filipski Leads Way

The Villanovans were sparked through most of the game by the running of Gene Filipski. The 180 pounder from Sacramento, California, picked up 191 yards rushing which was more than the entire Detroit team gained all night. His longest haul was one of 74 yeards halfway in the first period. Gene got the ball on a reverse and broke into the clear only to be overhauled and brought down on the Detroit 14 by Ray Zambiasi.

The Mainliners drew first blood in the scoring department when Bill Brannau scored on a quarterback sneak. The touchdown had been set up by JoeMcNicholas when he recovered a Titan fumble. The Detroiters weren't beaten by a long shot yet and they bounced back to make it a brand new ball game at half time. The scoring effort was a pass from Ted Marchibroda to Ed Beirne.

McNicholas Grabs Pass

Right after the intermission Detroit came back and started on a march toward the Villanova goal. Marchibroda was clicking through the air until the ever alert Joe McNicholas grabbed one of Ted's heaves near midfield and brought it back to the Detroit 12 yard line.

SCORE BY PERIODS
Villanova	0	7	7	7	—21
Detroit	0	7	0	0	— 7

Touchdowns — Detroit: Bierne. Villanova: Brannau, Haner, Filipski. Points after touchdowns—Detroit: Zambiasi. Villanova—Haner 3.

From that point Filipski took the ball down to the 4. Then Brannau handed off to Bob Haner, who crashed into the end zone for the second Villanova score of the evening.

Detroit Stalled

In the fourth quarter Detroit made another attempt for a comeback, when a Villanova field goal try was partially blocked. The Titans had no sooner started to move when up popped McNicolos and stalled their touchdown machine for the third time in the game. This time Joe made a diving interception on the Detroit 32 and the Wildcats took over.

Brannau called on Dick Bedesem, who replaced the injured Ben Addiego, Haner and Filipski for the ball carrying chores and they moved the ball to the 3. Then Brannau sent Filipski wide around the right side and Gene went in standing up for the final score of the ball game.

The victory gave the Wildcats a perfect record on the road, and made it the 13th win in the series for Villanova. The Blue and White will be home on Saturday for a contest with Wake Forrest.

Wildcats to Face Wake Forest Sat. In 1st Home Game

By Carl Valenti

After three weeks on the road undefeated Villanova finally settles down this weekend to perform for the hometown crowd. Wake Forest furnishes the competition at Franklin Field, Philadelphia on Saturday, October 11, at 2:00 P. M.

First of Three

This contest will be the first of three home games for the Wildcats this season. The other two encounters will be with Parris Island at Villanova Stadium on October 31 and Boston University at Shibe Park, Philadelphia on November 22. Coach Art Raimo's charges, fresh from three tough road victories, will be seeking to extend their winning streak against the Demon Deacons in the annual Homecoming Game. This clash will mark the first meeting between the two schools and it promises to be an exciting one. Both squads seem to be pretty evenly matched.

Poor Reserves

Tom Rogers, in his sophomore year as head coach, already has North Carolina's Big Four championship to his credit, and this year's team looks every bit as good as last year's. Rogers' lament, (every coach has at least one) however, seems strangely familiar to Wildcat followers. The Deacons' Mentor becries the lack of experienced reserves.

Looking at the Baptists' first line strength makes their weaknesses seem remote. Sonny George, a converted halfback, is playing quarterback like he was born there. He is supplemented in the backfield with Bruce Hillenbrand and Larry Spencer, two high-speed halfs, and sophomore Nick Makavic a 200-pound transfer fullback from Vanderbilt.

SPORTS CHATTER

A NEW WILDCAT?

By TED SHEEHAN,

Wildcats, like most members of the feline family, are usually fairly tame in their early childhood and grow in ferocity as they become older. One specie, though, the "Wildcatus Villanovae" has a very marked habit of showing its greatest strength in its early years and by the middle of its years is slightly tired and by its old age is content merely to lick its wounds.

A look at the season records down through the years, especially the last few years, bears this out. However, this year is supposed to be different. Not only do they say that old wildcat friend will be strong in its early age but will be just as bloodthirsty and powerful when it engages the Boston University Terriers in the season's finale on November 22nd.

Whether this improvement will materialize or the 1952 team is just another part of the usual pattern is a question that can only be answered late next month.

There have been signs, and very definite ones they have been, to show that there might be a new order footballwise in the making. These signs which we are referred to are the three away victories scored by the team in the last three weeks.

Opening the season against Kentucky, winner of last year's Cotton Bowl, was a hard enough task. A Villanova team had never been able to take the measure of their fellow Wildcats. In four previous meetings, an 0-3-1 record was the best that the Mainliners could do. When the game was over there was many a tear in the mint juleps for the beloved Kentucky team had lost their first opener in more years than most of the colonels present could, or cared to, remember.

Clemson Next Stop

The following Saturday brought the happy caravan of muscular gypsies to Clemson, South Carolina to engage the Clemson Tigers. The Tigers also had Bowl experiences last year. Villanova was expertly scouted for this game so that many times the Tigers knew before the Wildcats just what play would be engineered. Add to this the fact that only two touchdowns in the past three years have been scored by passes against Clemson. That average was slightly tarnished by the second Wildcat TD, a pass from Brannau to Marcus. The 14-7 setback to the Tigers certainly didn't help the reputation of Southern football.

The Midwest was the next target for the Villanova team as Detroit was played last Saturday night. The Titans main boast was Ted Marchiabroda, a fine working quarterback, whose suitcase bears stickers from St. Bonaventure's. Detroit was looking to this game not only to knock off the Cats but also to avenge the 26-7 loss they suffered in Philadelphia last November. Both these sterling ambitions were thwarted. The Titans, after holding the Mainliners to a 7-7 tie at half faltered in the second half and lost 21-7.

Six games remain on the schdule, half of them at home. The annual Homecoming game will be played on Saturday against Wake Forest at Franklin Field at 2:00 P. M. The Deacons so far have had a mediocre season. They lost to Baylor, beat William and Mary and were tied by Boston College. It is the first meeting between the two schools.

After that comes a Friday night game with Boston College at Braves Field. Last year, BC was a sophomore club with great potentialities as a "spoiler" team. They realized that potentiality against both Villanova and Holy Cross. This year they should be even a better team, stronger and more experienced, capable of anything.

Sunday. October 26th finds the Cats out in Cincinnati to meet Xavier University. That team is unknown in this part of the country but last year they compiled a 9-0-1 record. It is true that the teams they played were not bowl prospects but a record like that even against grammer schools is good. In four of their ten contests they held the opposing team scoreless.

The Parris Island game will allow all bed-ridden Villanovans a chance to see the team in action as the Mainline Stadium, its lights and its collapsing bleachers play host to the Marines. This leatherneck team is somewhat like Xavier. They also garnered a fine sounding record, 9-2 against teams that need no description or that defy description. The one bad thing though, is that they can use professionals. The game will be played Friday night, October 31st.

The last two pieces of the football puzzle come with Tulsa and Boston University. Tulsa also had a 9-2 season's record but against slightly better competition than Xavier and Parris Island. Villanova has yet to beat the Golden Hurricanes in two attempts. In 1949 a 21-19 loss to Tulsa was the only mark on an otherwise perfect year.

Boston University has Harry Agganis and a poor 1-2 record, so far.

That's the story up to date along with the six remaining games. Whether or not chief curator Art Raimo has developed a new specie of Wildcat or just the old one in a new jersey will have to wait till then to be answered.

Muff Day, Oct. 13 To Decide Future Of Freshman Regs

By John Gilkman

Other colleges around the country have as one of their biggest activities the staging of a contest between the upperclassmen and the Frosh, for a prize or privilege of one kind or another.

Here at Villanova in the last two years, an effort has been made, and a fairly successful effort at that, to build up just that sort of an event, in the form of MUFF (Move Up Forward Freshmen) Day. MUFF day this year is on Monday afternoon, October 13.

If the Frosh win, it will be their privilege to discontinue Orientation, but if on the other hand the Sophs win, they will continue lording it over the lowly Freshmen and generally making their lives miserable until the B.U. game in November. So attention Freshmen who like to go bareheaded and Sophmores who like things the way they are: If you wish to take part in the MUFF day activities see the managers of your respective teams, whose names and addresses will be posted around the campus.

Series Even

Until this year the record is all even at one win apiece, with the Sophs taking the prize the first year and the Freshmen coming out on top last time. The events have not yet been decided upon but for your information the ones last year were a tug of war, a sack race, a punt for distance, a pass for distance, 220 yard dash, egg toss, wheelbarrow relay, and a touch football game.

Rutgers First Foe

promises can be made.

Oct. 25 sees the team away for a mighty tussle with the power-laden single-wing attack of Princeton. Princeton is fast and clever with both its passing and running games.

Cornell, calling its plays from the T, will provide the competition on Nov. 1.

Penn Game, Thriller

On Nov. 7, the traditional rival, Penn, roars into the stadium of the Blue and White for a contest that should be packed full of thrills and spills up to the final gun. This one is a toss-up.

The squad will journey eastward, Nov. 14, with bitter memories of the 49-12 lacing it took at the hands of the Navy squad the last time the two met. This year the Navy is again exceptionally powerful with its lightning speed and deception in working from the T.

John Watson, Ace Wildcat Moundsman Signs With Sox

By "Scoop" Keats

When Villanova went down to defeat at the hands of Penn State early last June it marked the end of John Watson's career as the Mainliners first line pitcher. The stocky righthander turned professional early in July and was immediately assigned to the Boston Red Sox farm club at Albany, New York.

Watson Receives Bonus

Watson, it was reported received a nice fat bonus somewhere in the neighborhood of $25,000. Judging from the performance that John gave in his spin up in the Eastern League, the Sox for once got a good return on their money.

The little guy from Lancaster, Pa., appeared in eighteen ball games for the Senators, mostly in relief. He compiled an earned run average of 3.17 which was the third best on the ball club. That may not sound like a real world beating E.R.A., but you must consider the fact that they use a rabbit ball in that loop, and the further fact that the ball parks are very small.

Goes To Top Farm Club

The Red Sox were really pleased with John's pitching, especially his last job. On the final night of the season Watson started against Binghamton and beat them 7-1, on a nice six hit performance. On the basis of this and his other fine showings the righthander is scheduled to go to spring training with Louisville, the Bosox top farm club, next year.

Tickets for Saturday's game at Franklin Field with Wake Forrest, starting at 2 p. m., are now on sale at the Villanova Field House. Reserved seats are $2.60 and $1.30. Villanova students can gain admittance upon presentation of their matriculation cards at the gate.

Captain Drury New PNS

Captain Martin J. Drury, USN, has been assignd to the NROTC Unit at Villanova as Professor of Naval Science. He replaces Capt. James R. McCormick who was reassigned last Spring.

CAPT. MARTIN J. DRURY

Capt. Drury comes to Villanova with a fine record of naval service. He was graduated from the United States Naval Academy in June, 1925, with a B.S. degree and was immediately assigned to the battleship USS NEW YORK as Junior Watch Officer and Division Officer. During his tour of duty as Ensign through Lieutenant, he served in increasingly important positions aboard various naval vessels and completed the course of General Line Postgraduate instruction at the Naval Academy in June, 1933.

Upon his promotion to the rank of Lieutenant Commander in early 1940, he was serving aboard the cruiser USS MARBLEHEAD as First Lieutenant and Damage Control Officer. He remained in this billet until September, 1943 during which time his promotion to Commander occurred. He was transferred in October, 1943, to the cruiser USS QUINCY as Executive Officer, and upon his promotion to the rank of Captain in 1944, he was made Commanding Officer of the large attack transport USS NESHOBA.

In April, 1949, Captain Drury was assigned duty as Commander, Fleet Training Group, Western Pacific and remained in this billet until November, 1950, when he returned to the United States and was ordered to duty as Inspector General, Fourth Naval District, Phila., Pa., and served in this executive position until August, 1952, when he was reassigned to the Villanova NROTC Unit.

In addition to Capt. Drury's assignment Lt. J. J. Hafner, USN, has been selected for duty at Villanova to teach the Orientation course while Lt. (jg) J. L. Sonne, USNA, 1947, will arrive shortly to assist in the instruction on Naval Weapons. Sgt. Frank D'errico has been ordered to the Unit, after a tour of duty in Korea, to assist Major Tice with the Marine Corps indoctrination.

'Straight and Narrow Path' Traced In Student Retreat

Reverend Martin J. McDonough, Assistant Director of the Society for the Propogation of the Faith, was Retreat Master for Villanova's Annual Fall Retreat last Thursday in the Field House. Fr. McDonough, pastor of St. Carthage's Church in Philadelphia, stressed the importance of our seeing the "spiritual light" and following the "straight and narrow path."

"Regardless of the weather, the day will always be beautiful if we see the true light," said the tall, impressive looking priest, "It's not seeing with our eyes that counts, the important thing is seeing with our hearts."

Fr. McDonough continued the retreat with a half-hour conference at 11 o'clock and another one at 2 o'clock. He asked the whole student body to examine their consciences as he reviewed the Ten Commandments and pointed out their importance in our every day life.

The closing exercise of the retreat was a Holy Hour from 3:30 to 4:30, during which the Blessed Sacrament was exposed and adored by all. Fr. Henry Eagan led the prayers and benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

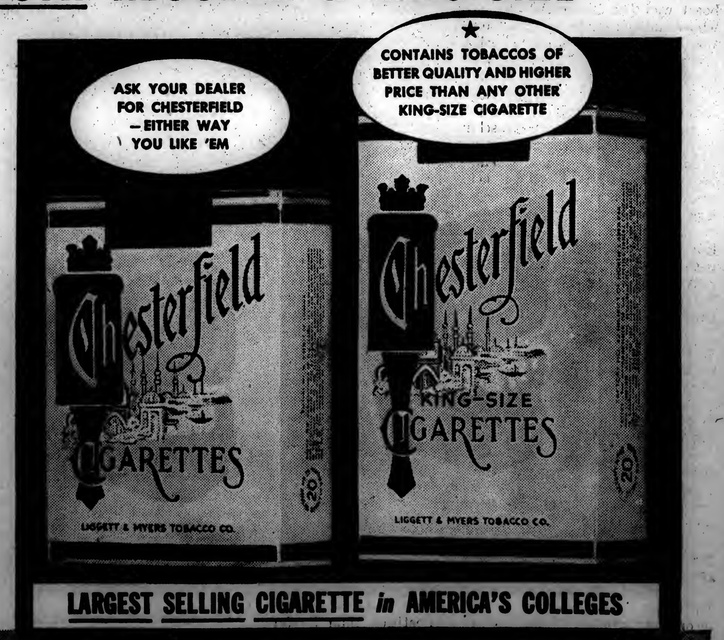
FIRST PREMIUM QUALITY CIGARETTE



TO OFFER BOTH REGULAR & KING-SIZE

BOTH regular and king-size Chesterfields are premium quality cigarettes and come in the smart white pack.

BOTH contain only those proven ingredients that make Chesterfields the best possible smoke: the world's best tobaccos, pure, more costly moistening agents (to keep them tasty and fresh), the best cigarette paper that money can buy—nothing else.

BOTH are much milder with an extraordinarily good taste and, from the report of a well-known research organization — no unpleasant after-taste.

BOTH are exactly the same in all respects. There is absolutely no difference except that king-size Chesterfield is larger—contains considerably more of the same tobaccos—enough more to give you a 21% longer smoke, yet costs little more.

'Cats Top Deacons For Fourth Victory

By Carl Valenti

Wake Forest's Deacons were given a stirring sermon, including demonstrations, by the Wildcats of Villanova at Franklin Field Saturday. Playing before a Homecoming crowd reported to be about 11,000, Coach Art Raimo's charges displayed enough backfield finesse and bone-crushing line play to emerge victorious by a 20-0 score.

E.T.S. Deferment Forms Available At Local Boards

Applications for the December 4, 1952 and the April 23, 1953 administrations of the College Qualification Test are now available at local Selective Service System boards.

Eligible students who intend to take this test on either date should apply at once to the nearest Selective Service board.

Following instructions in the bulletin, the student should fill out his application and mail it immediately in the envelope provided. Applications for the December 4 test must be postmarked no later than midnight, November 1, 1952.

According to Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the College Qualification Test for the Selective Service System, it will be greatly to the students advantage to file his application at once, regardless of the testing date he selects. The results will be reported to the student's Selective Service local board of jurisdiction for use in considering his deferment.

Name 8 Committees At Junior Meeting

The Junior Class held its first class meeting last Tuesday night and discussed plans for the coming year. President Art Quinn, who presided as the committee chairmen outlined the progress of the committees.

There are eight major committees in the class. Five chairmen were picked by Quinn and three were chosen by the steering committee.

Frank Saul and Gene Filipski, co-chairmen of the St. John's Orphanage Outing are planning a "Charity Ball" for November 1 to take the place of the traditional "Hobo Hop". This dance will be on a Saturday night, thus allowing the football team to attend. The Orphanage Outing will be December 12.

New Ring Firm

Ring Chairman, Dick Brady has already made arrangements with Bailey, Banks and Biddle, a reputable Philadelphia firm. The ring will be almost identical to last year's. Ring measurements will be taken today and every Tuesday hereafter until they are completed in Fr. McLaughlin's office. The rings will be delivered before Christmas.

Jack Birle, chairman of the Blazer Committee has two companies in mind and is working for fast delivery and a "good deal". The class will vote on the seal to be used on the jacket.

The Junior Prom Committee, headed by Joe Zator, has gotten off to a good start on the gigantic task. Sub-committees are already planning decorations and programs and band arrangements are in the making.

Much Work Later

Ted Sheehan, Mother's Day Chairman, will be doing most of his work next semester. At the present he is trying to collect talent for a show to be given for the Mothers. Sheehan will make full plans for the day as soon as his committees are formed.

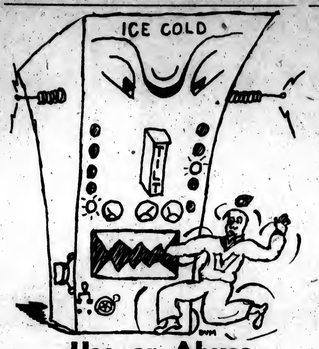
Seniors Celebrate First Father's Day

More than 150 fathers of the Class of '53 arrived on campus Saturday as the seniors observed the first annual Father's Day celebration here at Villanova.

Opening the ceremony at 10 o'clock, was a Mass offered by Rev. Joseph Kemme, O.S.A., class moderator, in the College Chapel. Rev. Francis X. N. McGuuire, O.S.A., college President, then gave a short welcoming address.



After a short period given over to touring the campus, a catered dinner was served in the Field House. Holding the after-dinner speeches down to a minimum because of the trip to Philadelphia for the Wake Forest game, short remarks were made by Father Kemme, Dick Cashman, Father's Day chairman, and Don Blaha, Class president.

The final offical function of the day was the attending of

Use or Abuse

The above cartoon was originally intended to go in the usual spot on page three this week, but now its humor would seem a little ironic.

For last week there was a turnabout from what our cartoonist depicted above. The carnivorous metal monster became the victim to the extent that it was broken into and rifled of all its contents, even the display cans in the front.

This is another case of where a few can spoil a good thing for the many.

We remember, as far back as our freshman year, the complaints about the Pie Shop closing at such an early hour and leaving no place on campus at which to obtain refreshments.

There was a definite need for coke and candy dispensers around the campus.

Finally, after three years, this need was filled by the installation of the vendors now in evidence.

But if they continue to be abused, as has happened after only two weeks, it can be expected that they will not be a part of the 'campus green' for too long.

So let's give it a little thought the next time temptation rears its ugly head and not endanger something that gives us all a break.

Open Meetings

On the heels of our compliment to the Student Council last week concerning their proposal for a free day on Election Day for those registered came the usual statements to the effect of "What good will it do? The Council never accomplishes much except what the administration wants anyway."

But we fail to realize that one of the possible reasons that the Council's work isn't all that we think it should be is the notable apathy on the part of the student body...

When, and if, the administration feels that the student body is directly behind the Council they doubtlessly would give its proposals more serious thought.

The only way to show this backing is to attend Council meetings. These meetings are, and have been, open to any member of the student body who wishes to attend.

A good student turnout at the next meeting, this coming Monday night, will go a long way in determing the Council's success this year.

It's up to you.

Are Dems 'Liberals,' G. O. P. 'Conservatives?'

Programs Donate "Nicknames" to Two Major National Parties

By Jim Glavin

In the recent days of the current torrid political campaign, the traditionally distinctive tenets of the nation's two major political parties have been vague, even in some instances completely forgotten. Such "sensational" fads as "I'm against Communism," "Nickels for Nixon," and "I don't like corruption" have come to the fore. To the background has been relegated the great divisions between our two parties that have been the basic components of their political battles in modern times.

In the so-called modern political era the Republican G.O.P. has gained the tag of "Conservative," while the Democrats have been widely proclaimed as "Liberal" and "Progressive." What, one might ask, are the beliefs, policies of the parties that have led to these labels?

Public Aid

Perhaps, first, and most pointedly, the distinction that has led to designation of the parties can be illustrated with a quick glance at the views of the parties on the subject of public assistance to the individual. The Democratic Administrations for the last two decades have fostered, and furthered programs such as Social Security, Old Age Pensions, Unemployment Insurance, etc. They hail it as a system of improving our standards of living, and for five presidential elections, the electorate has agreed with them.

"Conservative" Republican elements, meanwhile, have been reticent in this field. Originally they were opposed to what they have termed such "socialistic measures." Now, in recent years, they have gradually come to accept them to a degree, but could probably still be called conservative in their views on these measures.

'Over in the fields of banking and investment, meanwhile, since 1933 the Democratic forces have instigated such reforms and checks as the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, and Federal Securities Exchange Commission. They have put "brakes" on stock falls, and generally have instituted governmental regulation in these fields to protect the small investor and depositor. The Republican program is one termed "free enterprise," with a minimum of governmental regulation, again something that has earned them the term of "conservative."

Price Control

With the advent of the second world, and Korean Wars, and subsequently inevitable economic "rises," Democrats have fostered a system of control on wages, prices, etc., so that the "boom" will not go over the top to a "bust." Traditionally, in these categories, the Republicans have opposed governmental regulation, again calling for a return to what they say is "free enterprise."

In the farm category, price supports, aimed at (in the current period 90% of parity, have been consistently supported by the Democrats and their administrations. Again, cessation of governmental regulation is the cry of the G.O.P. in this area, and ask that the farmer be left on his own to foster what they call "rugged individualism." However, it should be noted that the Republican Presidential candidate has left his party's belief in this field, and agrees with the "liberal" Democrats on a support of prices in the farm field.

Execrable Bills

In recent months, another issue has arisen to sharpen the clash between the so-called "Liberals" and "Conservatives." The Democratic party has issued a call for a program of health insurance to protect the American family from the abhorrent costs of medical care assessed by doctors and hospitals. The Republicans, have on the contrary, joined the doctors' lobby, the American Medical Association, and fought such a plan advocating advance in "creeping socialism." The "progressive" Democrats reply that if it is "creeping socialism" to bring execrable doctors' and hospital bills within reason, then they're creeping socialists.

Roomie Pressures Ace Writer Into Very Hurried Retirement

By Joe Mascuch

My doctor has advised me to give up writing my column. He says my face can only be rearranged so many times. Then too, he always has a busy Tuesday.

So, what with my oil stocks in Siberia beginning to pay dividends, my graduation in February almost assured and my room-mate having thrown a few of my teeth around the campus, I think I'll take my doctors advise.

Very Wonderful?

As roomie, that great big wonderful guy, pointed out while waving my right arm over his head, at least I'll make room for a good advertisement.

How was I to know that his muscles didn't come with the jacket? Even if that right had missed me, it would have scared me to death.

I don't generally leave my room on Tuesdays, (my profs understand. They read too.) but last Tuesday, I did. I saw my old pal roomie and opened my mouth to say hello. I think that was where I made my big mistake. He tried to climb in, fist first. Down I went, padded T-Shirt and all.

Good Old Roomie

Roomie helped me up, figuring I'd follow the handful of my hair he was lifting. "Why," he shouted, "Even strangers won't talk to me now!" I saw no concrete reason why they should, but I didn't press the point.

It seems more than just my parents were reading my material. As a result, roomie claimed, even guys who didn't know him, didn't like him. His girl friend said that she didn't know she was going out with a dud, and told him to try Rosemont. That started all my trouble.

I would have said a word or two in my defense, but I couldn't close my mouth. (The Villanovan is the best tasting campus weekly too.) After writing "My room mate is a great guy", one thousand times, he let go of my throat.

Now, unbloody but bowed I leave you for the infirmary. Who made that silly statement about the pen?

New Fad For 'Joe College' In '52; He Joins Odd Cult of 'Animalism'

By Tony Galati

There is perhaps nobody in this vast world of ours who is more susceptible to fads than that odd species of man known as Joe College.

This may be evidenced in the fact that almost every year a fad of some sort sweeps across college campuses throughout the country. Sometimes these fads are quite harmless and other times they are not. Sometimes, too, these passing fancies affect a majority of campuses and other times they are not nearly so universal, affecting only one or two colleges.

Dress?? No!

Most of the times, fads find their expression in a person's dress. This year's version, however, has nothing to do with the sartorial elegance (or inelegance as the case may be) of our hero, Joe College. It is not a sequel to the white bucks and rep tie era. In fact it may even be called a reaction to the golden age of argyles and tweeds.

Our boy, Joe seems to have become tired of being referred to as a well-dressed, well-mannered, gentleman and scholar. And so he is rebelling against society. He's become determined to show the world that he is nothing more than a savage. He has espoused the cause of the fad to end all fads, "animalism."

Quaint?

This quaint manner of expressing one's masculinity operates on the principle that the less resemblance to a human being one can show, the more of a "man" he is.

This fad, of course, is not new by any means. It has been quite popular for years in such fountainheads of culture and civilization as central Tanganyika and Upper Slobovia.

On our own campus, the followers of this select cult seem to have one place where they enjoy cavorting most. Unfortunately, for the "non-conformists at least, this scene of animalistic ritual happens to be the dining hall. Here three times a day, Joe College turned savage may be seen placating his gods.

Ritual?

The ritual begins with barging in at the head of the chow-line. This action is met with hoots and howls from the non-conformist faction. However, our hero is unmoved. The taunts only make him turn and snarl with a glassy-eyed glee at the jeering crowd.

Joe Savage continues his tribal rite at the dining table where before sitting down to ravenously devour his vittles, he furiously beats his fists against his massive chest in an awe-inspiring tour de force.

True Savage Now

Sometimes Joe's meal is interrupted by someone dropping a tray or by some other noisy action. Now our hero may be seen at his blood curdling best. He begins beating on his tray with his knife, which is used exclusively for this purpose and intermittently lets out long screaching yells.

Following the meal Joe Savage growls at anyone within hearing range and then crawls away on all fours. Removing his tray or cleaning up his mess is unheard of to this real "he-Man". Performing such a civilized task would definitely detract from his masculinity. If he were caught in such a base act his fellow he-men would undoubtedly burn him at the stake or crucify him or they might even excommunicate him from their elect cult, a fate worse than death.

And so the animal cult continues of its merry way completely unconcerned about the rights of the weakling non-fadists, non-he men.

Solution?

But what's to be done? Should this thing be allowed to go on unopposed? Should our campus be allowed to become a zoo? One solution is for the non-conformists to subscribe to a Charles Atlas course and then force the Joe Savages to conform to the proprieties which should govern civilized society.

Reform

One thing is sure, reform must come. And it should come from within the student body. This is one fad that simply must go.

WFIL in 6th Year, On at 7:30 Nightly

Music, News, Sports Featured on Station

By Jim Henry

Six years ago, in a linen closet in Austin Hall, the "radio voice of Villanova" first hit the airwaves. Today, six years and many improvements and accomplishments later, "WVIL, 640 on your dial," is operating on a full five day a week schedule, from 7:30 p. m. until 11 p. m.

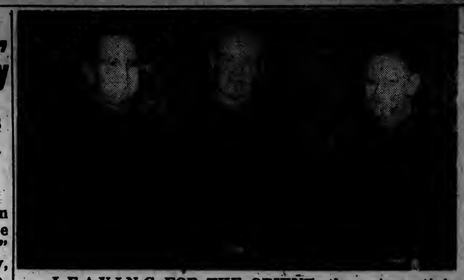
Working with a core of veteran announcers and engineers, and strengthened by an outstanding crop of "rookies," WVIL is regularly featuring disc shows, nightly news and sports roundups, and various feature presentations.

Quiz Panel

"Twenty And Out," the station's weekly panel quiz show, has drawn much listener interest in the first weeks of the station's broadcasting this year. Hitting the air every Tuesday evening at 8:30, "Twenty And Out" is patterned after the well-known game of "Twenty Questions." Bernie Coyne mc's the program, with Jim Glavin as the show's permanent panel member. Two of the student body, and two guest participants picked to take part in the show each week.

Hot Stuff

Bob Quin's "From Dixie On Up" has made a big hit with jazz lovers, and another disc show, "Wet Wax Works", an all request program, has drawn a large response.



The evening summaries and commentaries on the news and sports programs (at 8 p. m. and 10 p. m. respectively) features such well-known veteran reporters as Tony Galati, Jim Glavin, Al Hennessey and Harry Anger.

Station Manager Bob Quin, Chief Announcer Jim Glavin, and Production Chieftain Bernie Coyne have been laying the groundwork for regular dramatic presentations on the station. Presently overcoming technical difficulties with engineer John Serena, the group hopes to air its first program in this line within a week.

In the musical department, such familiar airwave voices as those of Mike Roscoe, Quin, Tom Cushman and others are aired nightly on everything from "Latin Americana" to "Concert Moods."

Program

The disc show, "Down Memory Lane" kicks off each evening at 7:30. Following is the news at 8 p. m., with "Latin Americana" coming fifteen minutes later. At 8:30 there is "From Dixie On Up," excepting Tuesday when "20 And Out" is on. At 9 p. m. comes the "Wet Wax Works," with the sports show following at 10. At 10:15 "Guests on Parade" comes on, and at 10:30 "Concert Moods."

LEAVING FOR THE ORIENT, three Augustinian priests, Revs. George M. Krupa, Thomas A. Purcell, and Edward G. Robinson spent last Monday at Villanova where they are pictured in front of St. Mary's Hall.

Three Augustinians Off To Japanese Missions

Departure ceremonies were held in the College chapel on October 5 for three Augustinian priests, departing for missionary work in Japan. Rev. Thomas Purcell, O.S.A., was selected to lead this pioneering group, which will reopen Augustinian missionary work in Nagasaki. The work was stopped in 1614 when five Augustinian priests were marytred.

Fr. Purcell, former Religion instructor and counselor at Villanova, was born in Shamokin, Pa., and began studying for the priesthood in 1931, when he entered the Augustinian seminary on Staten Island.

He completed his college work at Villanova, and was awarded the degree of M. A. by Catholic U., in Washington. Before coming to Villanova, Fr. Purcell was Sub-Master of Novices at New Hamburg, N. Y, and, after his transfer from Villanova in 1950, he was Vice-Rector of Postulants, at Staten Island.

Fr. Krupa

Fr. Krupa, O.S.A., the second of the group was born in Lancaster, Pa. Immediately after graduation from Lancaster Catholic High School, in 1935, he joined the Augustinians. He graduated from Villanova College and did further study in theology at St. Augustine's College, Washington. Fr. Krupa was ordained a priest there in 1944 and since that time has been an instructor at Malvern Prep.

Fr. Rubinson

Fr. Edward Robinson, O.S.A., the third of this group was born in Albany, N. Y., and attended parochial schools there. He was ordained in 1949 and at the time of this appointment he was professor of Latin and Religion at St. Thomas High School, Rockford, Ill., where he also served as student counselor. In addition to these duties he was professor of psychology and sociology at St. Anthony's Nursing School.

Ceremonies

The departure ceremonies opened with a procession and hymn. Rev. John Power, O.S.A., former missionary to Africa, delivered the sermon, describing Augustinian missionary activities in Japan three centuries ago. The Letters of Obedience to the missionaries were read, and, after a hymn, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John Boyle, Diocesan director for the Propagation of the Faith, gave greetings. Then a prayer for the voyagers was read and solemn benediction followed. The concluding remarks were delivered by Very Rev. Joseph Dougherty, O.S.A., Prior Provincial, and the services closed with a hymn.

OWL HOP

After an absence of three years the Owl Hop will again become a part of the Villanova social calendar when the traditional Fall dance is held October 24.

Phi Kappa Pi, engineering fraternity, who will sponsor the dance, has announced that tickets will be priced at $1.75.

Sophs Open Social Year At Pre-Homecoming Cotillion

WITH HIS PRETTY DATE, Esther Moriarity, Soph cotillion chairman Bud Ford discususes the successful affair with Rev. Henry Eagan, O.S.A., moderator of the Sophomore class.

Nearly 600 Villanovans plus dates began the annual Homecoming Weekend on Friday night at the annual Sophomore Cotillion in the Field House.

The building, crepe-paper decorated in accordance with a "Gay Nineties" theme, with stood music from the "Villanovans" whose reorganization was quite apparent to the throng of dancers at the social season's first event.

Replacing the traditional centerpiece, the Class of 1955, sponsors of the informal dance, erected a soft-drinks bar along the West wall in the Field House. Coca-Cola, pretzels and free cigarettes were served by mustachioed attendants wearing derbies and string ties. A mock gravestone atop the bar read, "In Memoriam . . . Wake Forest."

Soph Class president, Frank Licopoli stated that the Decorations Committee encountered difficulty because of interference from a pep rally held in the Field House on the night before the affair. Licopoli declared, that "Although we didn't break any records, I'd say the dance was extremely successful." Agreeing with Licopoli was Bud Ford, Cotillion chairman.

Both Licopoli and Ford expressed their gratitude to Rev. George McLoughlin, O.S.A. and Rev. Henry Eagan, O.S.A. faculty moderators for their help in connection with the dance. Thanks were also given to committee chairmen Bob Kaiser, Jim Campbell, Fred Biegler, Duke Micone, Reds McGahan, Joe Wynn, and Bill Kohler.

Dean Announces Acceptance Into National Society

The Office of the Dean of Arts and Sciences disclosed today that a chapter of the Delta Epsilon Sigma, National Scholastic Honor Society had been formed in Villanova College. "Upon request of the College to the president of the society, a charter was awarded to this institution," stated Fr. Sullivan.

The Delta Epsilon Sigma, a national scholastic honor society for students and graduates of Catholic colleges was formed in 1939 by a group of Catholic educators for the express purpose of giving recognition to students and alumnus who, in the eyes of the faculty, were deemed worthy of such recognition. At the present time there are approximately 65 Catholic Colleges enrolled in this society throughout the country.

Membership in this Honor Society will be limited to members of the under-graduate and graduate divisions of this college, devoted to work in the liberal arts. Such students shall be within one year of graduation, and shall have maintained a scholastic rating of at least "B" or its honor equivalent. They shall also be possessed of such character traits as to make membership in Delta Epsilon Sigma beneficial to all concerned. Nomination for membership may be made during junior year, but induction will not occur prior to senior year.

In stressing the importance of this society Fr. Sullivan said that this was indeed an honor for the College to be awarded the charter of membership. Any further development or announcements relative to Delta Epsilon Sigma will be published in this paper upon their reception.

Compulsory FEPC Is Topic For Beta Gamma Society

Villanova's Debating Society, Beta Gamma, announced this week its schedule for this semester which will include an Intercollegiate Debating Tour.

Professor Joseph Jonas, faculty moderator, announced that on October 21st the activities would commence. At this time, a series of six debates with Rosemont College would inaugurate the official opening of the debating season. The question this year is: Resolved: that the Congress of the United States Should enact a compulsory fair employment practice law.

Starting about November 4th, Beta Gamma will take on at home five colleges in succession, St. Joseph being first, followed by Chestnut Hill, La Salle, Immaculata, and Rosemont Colleges.

Immediately after Thanksgiving, Villanova will start its tour through the Lehigh Valley. It will include debates with such formidable adversaries as Lehigh University, Muhlenberg, and Lafayette Colleges. Prof. Jonas added that other debates are planned with other colleges, but as of now, no definite date has been set. Some Colleges with whom Beta Gamma will meet are Washington and Pittsburgh Universities.

Prof. Jonas, along with the society's officers, requests that all those who are interested in joining Beta Gamma attend the next meeting.

RING ORDERS

All Juniors who wish to place orders for their class rings may do so today and every Tuesday starting at 10:00 A. M. in Father McLaughlin's office, 222 Mendel Hall.

Wake Forest Is Victim Of 20-0 Setback; Boston College Seeks To Repeat '51 Result

Beantown Site of Clash with Eagles Friday, Oct. 18th

By Tom Mentzer

Once again Villanova's traveling gridsters take to the road. This Friday, October 18th, their journey carries them to Braves Field in Boston where they will face Mike Holovak's Boston College "spoiler" eleven.

Eagles Catch Fire

It was just last year, you will remember, that the Eagles, after five straight losses, suddenly found the winning combination and swept three of their last four opponents, including Villanova, to defeat. Piloting this winning combination was Jimmy Kane, a freshman sensation, who connected on 51 out of 118 passes for 764 yards and seven touchdowns during the overall season.

This year it is again Kane, more experienced and more seasoned, leading the flight of the Eagles. Rounding out the quartet of backs are Joe Johnson, the driving halfback who toted the leather a total of 123 times last season, Danny Brosnahan, a break-a-way scatback, and Jack McCauley, 6 foot, 200 pound fullback from whom a lot is expected.

Doyle to be Busy

Certain also to see a great deal of action for B. C. in Beantown on Saturday is Richie Doyle, a transfer student from Georgtown. Two years ago he was a one man gang in the Hoya victory over the Eagles.

Up front, the offensive line, a possible weak spot of the Bostonians' attack according to pre-season dope, is headed by Captain and pivot man, Jack Toppa. Pat Corace and Ed Wall are two workhorse guards, and at one of the wings is Georgie Pollinger, a polished receiver.

Yes, the Eagles are equipped and ready to swoop down for another upset. Can they do it? The Wildcats think not!

JOE McNICHOLAS comes into his own as an offensive quarterback completing one of his five successful heaves in the win over Wake Forest Saturday. On the receiving end is Dick Bedesem (24).

Frosh Football Highlights Aerial Circus, McComb Stars

By Dick Confoy

Villanova's Freshman eleven hasn't won a game yet this year but that isn't worrying Coach Bill Grief. Of course, the little Cats are undefeated as well, because the team wasn't able to engage a schedule. Lack of proper opponents, however, hasn't kept the Frosh from giving Art Raimo that smile of pleasure whenever they scrimmage the big boys from the varsity. It isn't entirely true that Raimo enjoys seeing his vaulted pass defense waver before the bullet passes of Frosh quarterback Ronnie Gortin, but then he knows Villanova's defense is as good as any.

All-American

Quarterback Gortin, a high school All-American from Stanford, Connecticut, isn't the only reason for the success of the Freshman aerial circus. On the receiving side of the story is glue-fingered end Don McComb, a 220 pound, 6'4" All-Catholic from Camden, New Jersey. McComb, who can play defense almost qually as well as offense, seems to be a probable starter next fall.

Line Outstanding

The rest of the line also comes in for its share of Coach Grief's praise. Included are tackles Mike Barry, Ray Mako, Frank Beunas, and Lou Cassella, a Fordham transfer, guards Ben Karras, Mike Patenza, and Greg Roche, centers Tom Milliron and Frank Ferrara, also ends Peter Cassidy and Pat Haley. Top among the ball-luggers seems to be Frank D'Alonzo, little (?) brother of Pete D'Alonzo of All-American fame. Also in the backfield are John Mollatari and Ed Ortelli, halfbacks, and John Nag, a punter of varsity caliber.

Future Stars

So remember those names —Gorton, McComb, Milliron, D'Alonzo, Nagy—and, as the Flatbush faithful say, just wait'll next year.

I.M. Season Shifts Into High Gear

By Joe Heaps

The intramural season swung into high gear last week with three football games. In the Mendel League the Alumni Alkies won their first contest, although they were held scoreless by the Alumni Characters. The margin of victory was 2 first downs as they ran up 5 while limiting the opposition to 3 in a close defensive game. The Austin Troopers tallied twice to spill the Austin Brewers 13-0 in an Austin League tilt. A brilliant pass interception and 30 yard run by lineman Bob Ranieri paced the Foshers to a 6-0 win over the Junior Stars.

Freedom Day

Muff (move up forward, Frosh) Day, held yesterday at the Villanova Stadium, was the annual fracas between the Frosh and Sophs. The Barracks-men were struggling to emancipate themselves from the shackles of "'Regs", which they donned the first day of school. The Sophs, triumphant last year while Frosh, were hoping to nullify the Freshmen's bid for victory. The events were: 180 yard dash, tug of war, egg toss, pass for distance, punt for distance, and touch football game.

SOS Goes Up

Football referees are needed for the intramural games. Applicants should see Bill McDuffee or Jude O'Donnell in the Intramural Office, 112 Alumni Hall.

season in a game distinguished by the fancy and fierce running of potential All-American Gene Filipski.

Captain Bob Haner and quarterback Bill Brannau were no less spectacular in sharing credit for the win, but the unsung heroes—without whose splendid performances the backfieldmen's efforts would be useless—were the linemen, both offense and defense.

Wake Forest was able to stage only two scoring threats and on both occasions the 'Cat's defensive platoon was master of the situaution.

Deacons Threaten

After the first score, the "Deacs" bounced back and staged a drive that penetrated Blue and White territory to the 11-yard line. It started when Ralph Cecere was smeared on an attempted fourth-down punt before he could get the ball away and the North Carolinians took over on the 30 yard line of Villanova.

Two plays later Wake Forest was on the 11 but they could do no better. Three plays later they had been pushed back to the 17 from where they tried a pass play. Paul Tomko intercepted in the end zone and the threat was ended.

A third period scare was thwarted in similar fashion. Tom Green played the hero this time as he intercepted one of "Sonny" George's passes on the 7 and hauled it to the 22.

'Cats Start Early

Villanova lost no time showing who was the better team after the opening kickoff. Just six minutes and 20 seconds had elapsed when Filipski took a handoff from Brannau, slipped through right tackle and angled toward the sidelines. While the defensive secondary was trying to figure out the play, Gene bulled over Jack Lewis and skipped into the end zone. The breathtaking play covered 44 yards in all.

In the second period, it was time for Haner's act. After Roy Kershaw recovered a fumble on the visitors' 20, Filipski picked up three and Haner slammed up the middle to the 1 and took it over on his next chance.

In the final stanza it was Haner again. Bobby, who seldom goes out for a pass, did so and took a brilliant pass from Brannau, displayed some magnificient broken field running and scampered to paydirt, but not before he had smashed right throught three Wake Forest defensive men. Haner converted two out of three extra points for a total of 14 points.

Wildcat right halfback Ben Addiego suffered a sprained ankle in the third period and had to leave for the remaind-

150's Look Forward To Encounter with Rutgers, Friday PM

By Jim Wrzesinski

The excitement is mounting as the proponents of the lightning-fast brand of wide-open football are anxiously awaiting the impending clash between Rutger's and Villanova's 150 lb. football teams. The game, at 2:00 P. M. Friday, will be the first encounter of the season for both squads.

Rutgers will probably rely, in a great measure, on passes, as it has done in the past. Only a few scraps of information can be gathered about the Rutgers squad. About the only thing known for sure is that they use the T-formation in much the same way as we do. The rest of the information obtainable is merely hearsay.

Injuries Plague Cats

The Wildcat squad, unfortunately, has been plagued by injuries and the toll has mounted quite high. Head-Coach, Terry Terranova, has high hopes that the mishaps have run their course and that many of those now on the injured list will be able to see, at least, limited service on Friday.

GAME BROADCAST

For those who won't be able to make Braves Field on Friday night, the game will be carried exclusively on Station WIP 610 on your radio dial. Ace sportscaster Jim Leaming will bring you every action-packed play. Starting time for the game is 8:00 PM.

Wildcat, New King of Jungle?

By Harry Anger

The age old cry, "There ain't no Justice," could very easily become the battle whoop of the Villanova Wildcat. After all the little guy has been pretty tough this season, and still he can't get the gentlemen of the press to admit his class.

The experts on feline battles gave the little fella almost no chance against his bigger cousin from Lexington, but he still drove the big boy and his guardian, a Bear called Bryant into the tall blue grass of his native habitat for the first time in many a moon.

This victory of the underdog in this battle caused a few eyebrows to be raised, but alas it was soon forgotten, and the tough Cat was forced to try his hand on a little bit tougher opposition.

The forward scouts reported that there was a Tiger roaming around the vast expanses of South Carolina, ready to take on all comers. Of course for any self respecting Wildcat this was too good a challenge to pass up. So the Wildest of the Cats got himself a train ticket, if that's the way Cats travel, and went looking for the meanest cat in the entire family.

The smart money in the Tiger camp said, "Our boy will win paws down." Some how, it didn't turn out that way, and on the following week, the once mighty Tiger was still in such bad shape the Ole Terrapin caught up with him and really did a good finishing job.

After gathering together his Southern Fried Catnip and the other booty from the second excursion to the Southland our young friend made his way home still feeling in pretty good shape.

The feeling was a justified one too. Here he, a little Wildcat, had upended a much bigger Wildcat and a pretty big Tiger on successive weekends. However a casual observer looking through the sports journals around the Wildcat's lair, could only guess there was a definite anti-cat feeling in the neighborhood. Even if he looked with a magnifing glass there was little or no news to be found.

About this time a new headliner made his way into the feline's life. For the first time in his short battling career, our young friend was confronted by a human. This wasn't any ordinary everyday person at that. It was a giant, or, if you prefer, a Titan. At any rate the monster had been making a pretty good name for himself by harassing a poor bunch of Kansans who make their home near Wichita.

As the story goes though the Cat wasn't the least bit fazed by the Titan's press notices. He had a solution. All one had to do to best a Titan, was simply read Jack in the Beanstalk, and find out the secret of Jack's success. Judging from results we'd say Jack would be quite well satisfied with this modern day application of his tactics

Its old news now but the Titan was really bogged down, maybe by his over publized offense, and he fell by the roadside, an easy prey for the fierce cat.

Our hero returned home amid the cheers of his handful of followers only to find out he was rated lower than the previous week by an organization called the U.P. As we said at the outset, "There ain't no Justice."

Then on last Saturday the little Kitten put the finishing touches on a wild group of Demon Deacons who made a special trip all the way up from North Carolina to see if they could put a stop to the rampaging tide that had wrought almost as much havoc on the south as a boy by the name of Gen. Phil Sherman.

On that past Saturday, even old man weather seemed to have his eyes set on dumping the rought feline gladiator. He poured great clouds of rain down on the field of battle and although his attempt at upsetting the Cat was for nil, old mister storm cloud did serve to keep the group of spectators way below what was expected. The crowd was so small, that a first glance one might have thought it was strictly an invitation affair.

The battle from a scientific point of view, was an extremely intresting experiment. It proved without a doubt that on any given occassion a wildcat is more than a match for a Deacon. The Deacs came with the word of the Lord and left with the fear of the Lord.

That victory gave Villanova the cleanest sweep of the south since Frank Roosevelt swept Al Landon off his feet in 1936.

On Friday the little battler is making his way up to Boston to see how he operates against the first airborne opposition he has engaged. The Eagle has won more of the battles so far, however it looks like it might be a different story this time.

150's Look Forward

Schmitt at Fullback

The squad is tense now and anxious to get into the fray. Despite their bit of hard luck they will go into the game with assurance and determination. If sheer determination and "guts football" can win the Villanova 150 lb. Football team will come out on top.

'Cat Harriers Sink Navy 22-33; Dwyer, Barry, Rock First

By John Gillman

Villanova's cross country team bounced back from their opening loss to Army to wallop Navy 22-33 at Annapolis, a week ago Saturday. Just a small indication of the team's vast improvement since the Army meet, and also an improvement over last years form, was the winning time of 20:17:40, faster than last year.

John Joe Barry, Fred Dwyer, and the greatly improved sophomore Bill Rock finished in a three way tie for first place. Jerry Utter, the leader against Army, developed a stitch and came in sixth, while Bart Moynahan was the Wildcat's fifth scorer finishing tenth. Ray Whieler, George Eberle, and Guy Speciale rounded out the Villanova team.

er of the contest. It was the same ankle that he had injured earlier in the season. His replacement, Dick Bedesem, while he was in, carried five times for a total of fifteen yards.

Villanova, brilliant as they were, still weren't up to snuff. In the opinion of many observers who have seen them in operation before, the Mainliners have played even better than they did on Saturday.

McNicholas Shines

Late in the game, after the issue was pretty much settled, Raimo sent in a number of replacements. Joe McNicholas, who is in line to inherit Brannau's job as quarterback, gave Wildcat fans an indication of what to expect next year. Joe tossed eight passes and completed five for a total of 56 yards.

Villanova also showed a little razzle-dazzle to the fans. They called a slick play, where they set in a "T" position and then shifted into a double wing. The ball was centered to Addiego who faded back and flipped to Brannau, who almost held onto it but the play was broken up by the Deacons' Jack Lewis.

Invitation possible

Although the IC4A meet, around the middle of November, is not listed in the handbook, the team will probably be entered if they keep up the form they showed against Navy in the Seton Hall and Manhattan runs.

Who is he?

This chap represents thousands of young, red-blooded sons of great American families. He is ready to stand on his own, to carry his share of responsibility. He is preparing for a bright future and desires to train further toward his success. He wants peace, security, and a full life for his family and home. If need be, he is ready to defend his rights and his country. When called on to serve in defense of American liberties, he will be fully trained and equipped to fly and fight with the U. S. Air Force.

This is what he will do—

Today's college man will plan to stay in school and graduate if at all possible. If he is faced with early entrance into military service and possesses at least two years of college, he will enlist as an Aviation Cadet in the U. S. Air Force and choose between becoming a Pilot or Aircraft Observer. After a year of the world's best instruction and training, he will graduate into a real man-sized job and wear the wings of America's finest flying fraternity. Commissioned a Second Lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force, he will begin earning nearly $5300 a year. His future will be unlimited!

How he qualifies—

He is between the ages of 19 and 26½ years, unmarried and in good physical condition, especially his eyes, ears, heart and teeth. After he has graduated from a recognized university or college, or has earned at least two years of college credits, he is eligible to enter the Aviation Cadet Training Program and will receive immediate processing for assignment to training. By sending for an Aviation Cadet application now, this Most Important Young Man in America Today will help bring about a peaceful tomorrow.

900 Ready Forest's Wake

BEAT WAKE FOREST! Rudy Jones, Spirited Wildcat cheerleader kept noise at a crescendo during last Thursday's pep rally in preparation for Saturday's Homecoming contest.

A boisterous march around the campus last Thursday evening led to the Field House. There the bricks of the building pulsated to the chant of the night, "Beat Wake Forest!" as several hundred Villanovans gathered in the huge building, already showing the effects of advance preparation for the Soph Cotillion, to hear a principal address by Father John Dunne, O.S.A., Captain Bob Haner, defensive stalwart Tom Green, and cheerleading chieftain, Rudy Jones, also addressed the gathering.

Father Dunne, in his talk, recalled many glorious Villanova football triumphs of the past. He reflected on some thrilling moments from the now decadent Temple-Villanova series and Army-Villanova series.

Haner and Green thanked the students for their magnificent support. Haner promised the team would take the field at Franklin Field, Saturday, "to win." Green commented it would be nice to hear something besides boos for a change, pointing out it was the squad's first home game.

The assemblage was led in songs and cheers by the college marching band and the cheerleaders.

Ask Connelly Award Return

A Villanova tradition dating back to 1937—the Connelly Award—is expected to reappear on campus after a one year layoff if the Student Council succeds in its attempt to stage the competition prior to the Boston University game. Tentative date for the event, decided at last Monday's Council meeting, is Nov. 20.

The Connelly Award, explained Chairman Tom Ackerman, is a trophy presented to the resident hall devising the best outdoor building decorations on the theme "Beat Boston U." Inaugurated in 1937 by Mr. William Connelly, former Dirctor of Athletics, the award is slated to be presented in conjunction with the pre-game rally following judging of the dormitory decorations.

Selection of judges for the contest has been assigned to a Council committee by Charlie Russel with Art Quinn, Joe Kenney and Frank Licopoli. Action to recreate the award was initiated at the meeting by Russell who cited it as a means of heightening school spirit.

The Council must await Administration approval before it moves ahead with further plans for the competition, Ackerman said.

In other business transacted at the meeting, appointment of standing committee chairmen was made, with Bob Brabson, Lou Oberle, and Joe Roy in charge of the Ways and Means, Fraternities and Societies, and Elections committees respectively. Dave Smith was named by Ackerman as Council delegate to the Office of the Procurator. No new developments in the group's attempt to have registered 21-year olds excused on Nov. 4 were announced.

Discussing the history of the Connelly Award, Ackerman stated that prior to World War II, the contest was held before football games with traditional rivals: Temple, Georgetown, and North Carolina. In past years, judging of the hall decorations was based on originality, ingenuity, and effectiveness in carrying out the theme. Dayhops participated for the first time in 1949 when they were permittd to decorate the C&F building.

The Council's choice of the Senior Prom—Boston U.—Senior Dinner Dance weekend resulted from a unanimous vote of all members present.

Next meeting of the group, open to all students, is scheduled for Oct. 20 in 215 Mendel at 7:15 p. m.

This was the first time that Father's Day was held as an official class function since 1934, when it was part of that year's Junior Week festivities. The following year Mother's Day superceded it and has occupied the first day of Junior Week ever since.

"It is hoped," said Blaha, "that the class of '53 has set a precedent that will be carried on throughout the years by succeeding classes here at Villanova."

NOSE, THROAT,

and Accessory Organs not Adversely Affected by Smoking Chesterfields

FIRST SUCH REPORT EVER PUBLISHED ABOUT ANY CIGARETTE

A responsible consulting organization has reported the results of a continuing study by a competent medical specialist and his staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfield cigarettes.

A group of people from various walks of life was organized to smoke only Chesterfields. For six months this group of men and women smoked their normal amount of Chesterfields—10 to 40 a day. 45% of the group have smoked Chesterfields continually from one to thirty years for an average of 10 years each.

At the beginning and at the end of the six-months period each smoker was given a thorough examination, including X-ray pictures, by the medical specialist and his assistants. The examination covered the sinuses as well as the nose, ears and throat.

The medical specialist, after a thorough examination of every member of the group, stated: "It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."

Owl Hop's Return Seen This Friday

By Ted Sheehan

After a three year absence, the Owl Hop will again be part of the Fall social season this Friday night when 400 students and their dates will sway to the music of the Villanovan orchestra in the Field House.

The Hop, annual social function of Phi Kappa Pi, the engineering fraternity was at one time the opener of the autumn season and one of the best dances held on campus.

JOE MATTON
Owl Hop Head

Joe Matton, general chairman of the dance, stresses that the dance is not a closed affair for engineers only and that all students regardless of their school are urged to attend. The Hop is a "Blue suit" affair—on the style of the Sophomore Cotillion. The tickets to the affair are only $1.75 and may be obtained at the door on Friday night or in the Pie Shoppe during the week.

Annual Affair

Phi Kappa Pi is the oldest fraternity on the campus, tracing itself away back to 1907. From approximately 1910, Phi Kappa Pi always opened the fall social season with their Halloween Dance. In 1927, the dance acquired its present name — the Owl Hop — and was held in the Alumni Gym.

Two years later came the first connection of the dance with the great Villanova-Temple football rivalry. The dance was held on the night of the game and the members of the football team were the guests of honor.

The dance, from 1929 to 1942, was always held on the weekend of this traditional game. In '43, due to the general lack of manpower on the campus the Hop joined with the other fraternities in promoting the Interfrat Ball.

Rich Tradition

With such a rich tradition behind it, Phi Kappa Pi is seeking to bring the Owl Hop back to its former rank in the social calender. They will have 400 Villanovans and their female friends there on Friday night to help them achieve this.

The decorations have always been a big part of the Owl's Hop and this year will be no exception. Chairman Joe Matton is keeping the actual motif a secret until Friday but promises that it will have "Chemical overtones".

Oberle Calls For Quick Return On Senior Histories

Formal work on The Belle Air, 1953, was begun last week with the announcement of the various staff editors by the Editor-in-Chief, Louis A. Oberle. The theme of the book has not been disclosed but the Editor promises that it will have more general appeal than that which last year's annual offered to the student body.

The task of organizing a completely new staff has fallen upon Oberle and the Sports Editor, John Redmond.

New Editors Named

New staff editors are: Thomas Falin, layout; Edmund Cormier, art; Edward Lahovsky, feature; Robert Reber, copy; Thomas Knestout, typing; Robert Mellor, photography.

The business problems of the publication will be handled by Eugene McLaughlin, as Business Manager, and James McDonnell, as Circulation Manager.

THIS Prof Flew Spitfires

Outstanding among the campus English professors who piloted Spitfires in the Battle of Britain is Dr. Douglas Silverton, an intense London-born scholar, who declared that, "In one school—a little place outside of London called Oxford—I embraced the Catholic faith, picked up a doctorate of literature, and developed a strong liking for Shakespeare."

Now at Villanova, a few years and not a few accomplishments later, ex-Squadron Commander Silverton is wooing his first love—teaching.

Seniors Plan Big Program For Weekend Of Nov. 21

SENIAR CHAIRMEN Dick Conroy, left, Dinner Dance, and Tom Brydon, right, Prom, confer with class president Don Blaha as machinery shifts into high gear for the Senior Weekend, November 21 and 22.

Prom to Feature Class Hit Parade; Game, Dinner Sat.

An activity studded weekend, planned to out do even the final three days of last year's fabulous Junior Week, is rounding itself in to a reality on the Class of '53's drawing board.

Scheduled for November 21 and 22, the last formal social fling for the seniors will include the Senior Prom Friday night, the Villanova - Boston University football game Saturday afternoon, and the Senior Dinner Dance that night.

Prom chairman Tom Brydon has announced that one of the highlights of the prom,

Orphan's Christmas Outing Enters Final Planning Stage

Final plans for this years St. John's Orphanage Drive are almost completed, according to co-chairmen Frank Saul and Gene Filipski, with the date for the big annual outing set for Saturday Dec. 13th.

Along with the outing, the other dates that have been set are Nov. 1st, the Charity Ball; Nov. 22nd, start of the recruiting job for pledges; and Dec. 10th, the annual party by the Junior Class for the boys at the Orphanage.

'54 RING ORDERS

Orders will be taken today, and every Tuesday, for 1954 class rings in Fr. McLaughlin's office on the second floor of Mendel Hall starting at 10 A. M. A $5.00 deposit is required when placing an order.

The drive this year had found added strength because of the close cooperation the football team has promised. The St. John's idea was originally started in 1948 by the members of the football team but in recent years they have been unable to give great aid because of the many away games.

Saul pointed out that this year will be different since the season ends in November and the team will have two weeks to help. The presence of Gene Filipski, as co-chairman, is giving the work this year tremendous aid as far as publicity and the rest is concerned, Saul continued.

The appointments that have been made for the various functions are: pledges, Joe Kenney; Jim Boyle, donations; Steve Berry, charity ball; and George Eberle, orphan's party.

Both Saul and Filipski expressed complete confidence in the appointments and that all are doing their best to make this the best year in the drive's history. Concerning the donations, it was pointed out that the usual collections will be taken during Religion classes and that every student will be asked to contribute at least 75 cents.

The drive to get pledges will start on Nov. 22nd and upon this will probably rest the success or failure of the whole orphanage drive.

Juniors Decide To Delay Two Weeks On Ring Design

The big question at last Thursday's Jr. Class meeting was: "Is Villanova going to become a University and if so, when?"

President Art Quinn and Ring Chairman Dick Brady called an urgent meeting to get the class's decision on whether they wanted to order their rings now, engraved Villanova College, or wait for two weeks, hoping that they can go ahead and order the first "Villanova University" rings.

Because of slight legal troubles, the case for the school's University - ship is in the courts now. A decision is expected soon.

Unanimous Vote

The class voted unanimously to wait for two weeks before ordering. If there is no decision by then they will order their rings. Although delivery was expected by December, because of this trouble Bailey, Banks and Biddle of Philadelphia will not be able to produce before January.

The administration made the change of companies this year because of the poor service last year's company gave the school. The rings were delivered weeks late. The ring will be almost identical to last year's and the price will be about the same, also.

Editorial

Two Reasons

We've never seen anyone refused admission to a class because of the stubble raised during the wait for breakfast, but the time spent waiting for meals each day is fast becoming ridiculous.

The slow-moving line can be traced to two main reasons: first, the never ending line cutting, and second, the inefficient manner in which the food is served.

From time to time suggestions are made or protests voiced, either by the Student Council or some exasperated individual, concerning the line cutting.

Still nothing has been done about it. What has happened to all the remedies proposed by the Council?

Two years ago a Council member was placed at the door to levy a fine of $1.00 on any line cutter. This provided a lot of sarcastic laughs—nothing more.

Last year it was proposed to install railings in the hall. Nothing more has been heard about this.

Appeals have been made to the sense of fair play but cutting in line isn't something that will make any normal person lose any sleep because of a guilty conscience.

Something more positive in the line of administrative action should be done, must be done, in the near future.

Concerning the manner of serving the meals, we can't say anything about what has been done to expedite it, simply because nothing ever has been done.

As far as we can see, there are two possible means of improvement.

One method would be to increase the number of people behind the counter — enough that an efficient production line setup could be maintained, rather then having two people moving from place to place putting various victuals on the plates, and then taking time out after every five plates to run into the kitchen for more.

The other possible remedy would be to invest in compartmented trays such as are used in the armed services, and upon which the food could be placed as the diner moves past, thus eliminating the time wasted passing the dishes around behind the counter.

As the number of residents grows so does the number of line cutters, but to a much greater proportion.

And the inefficiency of the food handling becomes more apparent.

The chow hall line has graduated from the ranks of the 'ordinary gripe' to something far bigger.

Some intelligent and drastic action on the part of the administration is urgently needed.

"Willy Wildcat" And Girls; Villanovans Rate Femmes

By Jim Glavin

On one subject, a Villanovan will always talk. Whether he's coming out of a "thought-provoking (?)" class in philosophy in Mendel Hall, out of one of the many establishments that adorn the Main Line, or just trudging out of the shower on the morning-after, "Willy Wildcat" will always converse readily when the topic of discussion is WOMEN, that five letter word that is the female of the species. Yes, "Cherchez la femme" could almost be called a motto of this hallowed institution of learning.

So we undertook one of the most unscientific, methodical, discussion-provoking, and interesting surveys ever taken on the campus. We asked approximately one hundred "typical" (if there is such an animal) Villanovans five questions about the girls from the surrounding (thank heavens!) female institutions.

Very Interesting

We discovered some interesting facts. It was discerned that the "Willy Wildcats" of Villanova feel Chestnut Hill and Rosemont Colleges have the best looking girls; that Bryn Mawr won overwhelmingly as the school with "brains;" and many other things, not the least of which was the universe-shaking discovery that many on our campus are still heartbroken over the sudden "departure" of Harcum.

"Most Fun"

One interesting query was directed to discern what college's charges offered the "most fun" on a date. Bryn Mawr won, hands down. Ah! Those funsters of Bryn Mawr!

Our first question was a loaded one. "Which College do you think has the best looking girls?" The replies: Chestnut Hill 34.9%, Rosemont 33.8%, Bryn Mawr 21.7%, and Immaculata 9.6%. So, you inexperienced Frosh (or are you?) the beauties are evidently to be found at Chestnut Hill (it's a long ride) and Rosemont.

The next query was a heady one. "Which college do you think has the most intelligent girls?" It was a virtual landslide: Bryn Mawr 60.4%, Chestnut Hill 18.1%, Rosemont 16.9%, Immaculata 4.6%. So, it would seem that if you need a little aid with your homework, kiddies, let's move on to Bryn Mawr.

Much Discussion

The third inquiry hit a popular note. It evoked much discussion. "Which college would you prefer to go out with a girl from?" Here, sad tidings over the bier of Harcum were the order of the day. No, the little 'ole school in Bryn Mawr has not completely faded away. The results? Oh, yes: Bryn Mawr 44.6%, Rosemont 31.4%, Chestnut Hill 20.5%, and Immaculata 3.5%.

On we go to number four: "Which college do you think has the best dressed girls?" Those two antagonists, Rosemont and Chestnut Hill were at it again, here, and once again the Hill-toppers got the upperhand in this desperate struggle. It was Chestnut Hill 41.0%, Rosemont 39.8%, Bryn Mawr 15.7%, and Immaculata 3.5%.

Number Five

And, now, the final "piece de resistance," "Which college has the girls you consider to be "most fun" on a date?" Again, it was heading in the general direction of a landslide. It was: Bryn Mawr 47.1%, Rosemont 24.0%, Chestnut Hill 22.9%, and Immaculata 6.0%.

What precedent-shattering, quickly-to-be-forgotten conclusions does this nescient adventure offer? Why, truly Philistinian ones! 1) If you want good-looking date you should leap on your horse and gallop over to Chestnut Hill. 2) If you're one of the nineteen thousand encountering difficulty with Physics, hurry and date a lass from Bryn Mawr. 3) If your a "real Willy Wildcat" you'll want to go with a Bryn Mawrite. 4) If you're "picky," and want a "clothes-horse" for your date, you'll venture to either Rosemont or Chestnut Hill. 5) If you're just a simple guy and want a date for the "most fun" offered, then enlist in the multitudes who are looking for just a little fun, and trot rapidly down to Bryn Mawr.

"Cherchez La Femme!"

Prices Up!

Seven Cents For Cup Of Coffee Villanovans Now Hit By Inflation

By Tony Galati

In this day and age of fifty cent dollars and two cent penny post cards, it would be sheer madness for anyone to deny that inflation exists.

Up until recently, however, the average college student has not been directly affected by this modern day affliction. Matters of tuition hikes and higher cost of text books don't usually perturb Joe College too much. The reason for this is that more often than not, "dear old Dad" or some other generous benefactor, such as Uncle Sam, is footing the bill.

7c Coffee

So the college student doesn't mind it too much when he pays some six dollars for a text book which is worth about two dollars and will be used maybe twice. But when the same Joe College must pay the exorbitant price of seven cents for such a staple of life as a cup of coffee then he rises up in vigorous protest. And rightly so.

It wouldn't be too bad paying seven cents if the coffee were half way decent. But that pitch black concoction which dissolves silver spoons and causes the varnish to peel off the table tops isn't worth two cents, let alone seven. There is simply no reason why "coffee," which one must pour for himself, into cups that aren't the cleanest in the world, should sell for seven cents.

Even 10c!

As if seven cents weren't bad enough, some nearby luncheonettes have the audacity to charge ten cents for coffee. Maybe they feel justified because their blend is served with a saucer.

Let's face it. A cup of coffee should not cost more than a nickel even if it is served in a gold plated cup and saucer, a la Stork Club.

How Many?

But why all this fuss over a measly two cents or, in some cases, a nickel. Well, have you ever stopped to think how many cups of coffee you drink in a year, or even in a morning, especially if it happens to be one of those mornings after the night before? The two cents adds up to a neat little sum.

This, however, isn't the only example of how college men are being affected by inflation, It's only one instance of what's going on all around us.

"Shrewd" Men

There seems to be a false (at least in some instances) conception running through the water-logged brains of the "shrewd" entrepreneurs who live as parasites off college men. These "giants of business" seem to think that Joe College is so loaded with that green folding stuff that he must pay twice as much for half as much so that he won't have too much money left over to squander on such dastardly evils as movies, dates or a friendly brew.

"Give Up?"

The one obvious solution is to give up coffee, donuts, movies, dates, beer etc. In other words stop living. The other solution, which is not so obvious, but which deserves some thought, is to print your own money. Take your choice.

Moscow Mimics

No Moscow Patent On Inventions; Villanova Joins In With Claims!

By Tom Falin

Comrade Editor of the "Villanovan" told a group of Pravda representatives yesterday that he has in his possession evidence which demonstrates conclusively that the huge, over endowed universities do not deserve their reputation as pioneers in all fields of learning. Comrade Editor refused to answer questions but issued the following statement.

Typical Assignment

"A few days ago an applicant for the "Villanovan" staff was assigned the tremendous task of setting the "Villanovan" office in order. This conscientious public servant was about to hurl the debris under the carpet when he discovered, to his chagrin, that years ago another Good Housekeeping reader had had the same idea. Under the carpet were several Villanovan issues from the early nineteenth century era.

"Chagrin turned to amazement as our hero browzed through the outdated issues. Breathless, he dashed across the dust-filled room and threw a few of the precious documents upon my desk. As I read, I realized that for years staff members had been walking on the most productive period of Villanova's history.

Sergi Raimo

"In 1826, I read, Villanova's football coach, Sergi Raimo, used a system involving two separate teams—offensive and defensive. This system is undoubtedly the same as the two platoon system which the University of Michigan claims to have introduced in 1947.

"The University of California claims to be a leader in the field of nuclear physics. This university further claims to be the first educational institution to have a cyclotron on its campus. These claims are false. In 1831, Professor Emil Driscol together with his Physics 101 students built and operated a full scale cyclotron on the Villanova campus.

United Nations Seventh Assembly Affords Interested A Good Time For Recollection

By Alec Pandaleon

One week ago today the United Nations General Assembly opened its seventh session in the recently completed permanent headquarters at New York City. Perhaps it would be fitting on this occasion for Americans to pause a moment and consider the great strides made since 1945 in the field of international relations.

Only too often we are inclined to minimize and even dismiss such gains because of the setbacks encountered in their attainment. It appears to be the peculiarity of human nature to overlook progress, in its haste to expose error and frustration. Nevertheless, an honest appraisal of the world situation, particularly from the American point of view, reveals several sobering facts.

World Threat

Primarily, we must recognize the hard reality that most of the progress achieved thus far has not come as a result of visionary idealism on the part of the diplomats, but from the omnipresent threat of the Soviet. The familiar adage that necessity is the mother of invention is nowhere more true today than in the arena of foreign affairs. We can safely say that in few periods of history have so many obstructions to international cooperation been so successfully overcome. Twenty years ago, for example, who would have thought it possible for six European nations to conceive, much less put into practice, an idea of the type visualized in the Schuman Plan?

Confining ourselves for the moment to Europe, there are two other plans in the developmental stages that will have an important bearing on the balance of world power. The first is the European Defense Community, a proposed military establishment for the common defense of six continental nations; the second, the creation of a supranational political body as the constitutional foundation for both the E.D.C. and the Schuman Plan. Of special significance here is the point that all three undertakings are composed of Europeans and for Europeans. The United States has no direct participation in any of them.

Marshall Plan

As far as improved relations between the Old World and New are concerned, there are two outstanding accomplishments worthy of notice. No student of post-war history can fail to realize the impact of the Marshal Plan and its successor, the Mutual Security Administration, upon the economic recovery of Western Europe. But even more reaching in scope is the Atlantic Pact. This revolutionary concept in America diplomatic development has certainly shed new light on the problem of U. S.—European relations. No matter how virulent the isolationist invective may sometimes become here at home, there is no avoiding the fact that America stands firmly wedded to the fortunes of Europe.

Relatively speaking, United States cooperation with the Pacific countries is a new undertaking. Our pacts with the Philippines, with Australia and New Zealand, have gone a long way toward erecting an organization similiar to that now existing within the Atlantic Community. Then, too, the Point Four program, through its economic and technological aid, has done a great amount of work in illustrating our sincerity to the underprivileged areas of the Far East.

Success of UN

Adequate mention should obviously be given to the United Nations Organization itself. On the whole, it has carried out its task patiently and competently in the face of overwhelming obstacles and harsh criticism. Seldom has such an important body been so little known or so widely castigated by its observers. In the fanfare given to the seemingly endless debates of the Security Council and the General Assembly, we often lose sight of the work accomplished by such subordinate units as Unesco and the World Health Organization. As an effort toward cooperation on the world-wide scale, the U. N. is one of the most important means to that end.

Many Gains

Looking backward then, we see that the gains have been many. However, we would only be fooling ourselves, to rest on today's laurels. The road ahead is a long and difficult one, fraught with age-old jealousies and rivalries. The emergence of a renascent Germany and Japan on the international scene presents new problems to be analyzed and solved. Russian power still remains the central force to be reckoned with. Colonial discontent against the imperialist-minded nations of Europe grows stronger every day. Furthermore we are often hampered by our own errors and shortsightedness. Yet we have met the challenge in the past with no small success.

Our very existence as a free nation demands that we continue to meet this challenge successfully in the future.

The Wall

A Discussion of Arguments By Jack Kistner

Perhaps you never take notice of me supporting the roof over your head as you drop into the "Pie Shop" to spend a few minutes with a friend. The trouble with us Walls is that we're just taken for granted. We rarely get cleaned because we never catch dust; sometimes, however, we receive a new face. This may seem strange, reading a note from an inert Wall.

Wall Gazer

For the last few years I've been holding up the roof at the South end of the "Pie Shop", and for the first time I have an opportunity to express my knowledge, through the cooperation of a "Wall Gazer", who asked me to give him some advice. You probably recall the expression "Walls have ears". Well, we have; and woe is me, for the first subject I shall discuss is very important to all of us; namely, arguing.

Friends to Enemies

Through all my years as a Wall, I have listened to a great many arguments. I have seen two friends walk into the "Pie Shop", joking about a teacher's exam, and in a matter of minutes, these same two young men left in a rage, their friendship dissolved. What happened in those few minutes is the cause for more trouble in this world than anyone could suspect.

Personalities Differ

Speaking psychologically, argument is an evil, for little is accomplished. Yet the injured feelings that are left may linger for days, months, and even years. To begin with, two personalities have different ideas on a subject; if they have the same ideas there is no argument. This seems to be the ordinary case; however, sometimes there are differences of opinion. Now, one party may be right and the other wrong. They may both be right but simply have their definitions confused, since in an argument there is very little order and still less logic.

Fr. Rongione Goes To Rome

Father Louis A. Rongione, O.S.A., former philosophy instructor at Villanova, sailed last week for Rome where he will assume the position of Librarian at the International Augustinian College of St. Monica.

He was appointed to this honored position by Very Rev-

REV. LOUIS RONGIONE, O. S. A.
Transferred to Rome

erend Joseph A. Hickey. O.S.A., Prior General of the Augustinian Order.

Fr. Rongione, a native of Italy, came to this country as a baby and lived in Philadelphia throughout his elementary school years. He attended the Augustinian Academy on Staten Island, and, in 1931, entered the Novitiate at New Hamburg, New York.

Ordained in 1939

After receiving his A. B. in Library Science at Villanova, Fr. Rongione continued his studies at the Augustinian College and the Catholic University in Washington, D. C. and was ordained there in 1939. He taught philosophy, the languages at St. Rita's High School in Chicago and the Augustinian Academy on Staten Island before coming to Villanova in 1950.

Last year Fr. Rongione began the night school here on campus. He was a popular speaker in the Philadelphia area and spent much of his time lecturing.

Fr. Rongione is a former President of the New York-New Jersey Unit of the Catholic Library Association and, a member of the Executive Council of the Gallery of Living Catholic Authors. He is also a member of the Catholic Evaluation Committee of the Doubleday Publishing Company.

Metal Society Host At ASME Field Trip Thurs

Having completed one field trip thus far this year, an inspection of naval boilers at the Philadelphia Naval Yard last Thursday, the Villanova chapter of the American Society of Engineers will embark on another tour this Thursday.

DPE Elects Prexy; Initiations Begin For New Members

Following the resignation of Tom Ackerman as president of Delta Pi Epsilon, the Commerce and Finance fraternity, because of his duties as chairman of the Student Council, Lou Goeringer was elected to the post at a meeting held last Tuesday night.

In his first act in that capacity, Goeringer announced the chairmen of the various committees as follows; Maury Murphy, pledge committee; Bob Gerstung initiation committee; and Doug Stark, social committee.

New pledges will start their initiation on October 27 and continue through the week, concluding with the Parris Island game October 31.

Rev. Richard McNally, O.S.A., moderator, ended the meeting with a note of welcome to all the members and a wish for success throughout the coming year.

The next meeting will be held tonight at 7 pm in room 201, C & F.

At a meeting held yesterday, a discussion was held on what would be most desired in future field trips and plans were laid for a smoker featuring a guest speaker later in the semester.

Officers of the organization for the current year are George Kaelin, chairman; Al Impink, vice-chairman; Hank Lavery, secretary; and Joe Keeler, treasurer.

NROTC Drill Squad Prepares For Parris Island Encounter

The special drill team of the Villanova NROTC Unit has been reorganized for the fourth straight year. As in previous years, the group will perform at football games and exhibit to the public, various manuevers in fancy drill.

FANCY DRILL TEAM of the Villanova NROTC unit will perform between halves of the Parris Island game next Friday. Here they are pictured at one of their daily early morning practice sessions.

This year's team is under the direction of Sgt. D'Errico, USMC, and under the leadership of Midshipman Crevier. Last year Mr. Crevier led the group to the Fourth Naval District Championship for Fancy Drill and will lead essentially the same group between the halves of the Parris Island game under the lights at the Villanova Stadium on 31 October, 1952. The members of the team have have been practicing every morning in the fog and cold since the semester began and they promise to put on a good show.

In addition to the drill team, the entire midshipman battalion, 390 strong, will parade before the game under the leadership of Battallion Commander Harry LeFever. Aside from the two opposing teams, the game promises to be quite a spectacle with the Marines from Parris Island and the Navy from Villanova.

Wildcats Rout BC 28-7, For Fifth In Row; Will Face Xavier At Cincinnati On Sunday

Hauser, Skole To Lead Musketeers Against Cats Sun.

By Tom Mentzer

From New England and Boston College to the Midwest and Xavier University—so reads the travelogue of the nomadic Wildcat eleven for Coach Raimo's charges on this Sunday afternoon, Oct. 27th, are opposing the Musketeers of Cincinnati, Xavier University, who, prior to this season, sport the remarkable three-year record of 27 victories, 2 losses, and a tie. Last year under the tutelege of present head mentor, Ed Kluswa, the only blemish on an otherwise spotless ten game slate was a 7-7 tie with the Camp Lejuene Marines, who had all American Eddie LeBarron in the T-slot.

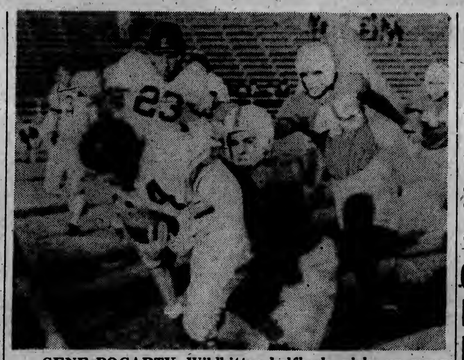
Judd, Key to Offense

Due to key losses through graduation, Coach Kluska has had to rebuild and remold his attack, and the man around whom he centers this year's offense in a driving halfback, Bob Judd. During last season's campaign Judd carried a total of 83 times and average 5.5 yards per try. Aiding Judd will be the twin engine fullback. Fred Heimkrieter and Dick DeCorps, and Joe DeCarlo, a swivel-hipped, break-a-way half back. At one of the wing's is the Musketeers' co-captain and leading pass-snatcher, Frank Milostan.

Primed to stop the Villanova ground attack is a mostly veteran defensive aligment headed by 238 pound tackle, Art Hauser, and co-captain and guard, Jack Skole.

Cats Face Top Defensive

In 1951 this defensive platoon, which was hardly touched by graduation, limited their opponents to only 43 points in 10 games.



There's no doubt about it; Xavier University is a small keg of dynamite which is capable of exploding at any time. The Wildcats know this and are "up" for the wily band of Musketeers!

Wild Kittens Lose Home Opener To Rutgers, 13-6

By Jim Wrzesinski

Friday afternoon, September 17, was an afternoon made for football. The leaves were attired in their myriad colored fall outfits—the sun was out in all its glory bathing the Villanova stadium in a flaxen hue to be found only on a perfect autumn day—the air was crisp and cool—and at 2:30 P. M. a scarlet clad warrior approached a waiting football, brought his foot back, and with a mighty effort brought it forward once more to meet the ball and send it on its mission into the hands of the Wildcat squad. The first 150 lb. football team to represent Villanova in two years was meeting Rutgers in the Cats' first game of the season. In just a few short hours the game had reached its termination and Rutgers had emerged victorious, 13-6.

Stars Slowly

The first quarter of the game was a rather dreary affair as both teams merely felt each other out. The passing of both teams was off as the Cats' Joe Kenny attempted five passes completing none, while Rutgers attempted five passes completing one. Rutgers' two first downs were the only first downs in the opening period.

Both squads sharpened up a bit in the second quarter and took to the air. This time Kenny completed 3 out of 10 passes while Rutgers completed 2 out of 8. There was no score on either side as the teams left the field at halftime.

It seemed as though two different football teams came

Filipski, All-American Hope Leads Country In Rushing

By Dick Confoy

Gene Filipski continued on his merry way as the nation's leader in rushing, as he rolled up 117 yards in the Boston College rout. The Main Line Express now has gained 592 yards on 81 carries for an average of 7.3 yards per carry. Gene has broken away for touchdown runs of 56, 44, and 43 yards in addition to a non-scoring sprint of 76 in the Detroit game.

Although Filipski's rise to fame this year has been meteoric, nevertheless it was nothing more than what many had expected of him. In 1950, showing his heart was at Villanova, Gene exploded for two long touchdown runs to lead Army to a 13-7 win over Penn. Far from a one-sport man, he played left-field on both the plebe and varsity baseball teams, and won the 175 pound intramural boxing title while at West Point.

Versatile Star

While Filipski's forte is the ground attack, he performs many other duties, as Wake Forest well knows. Against the Deacons alone, he gained close to a hundred yards on passes from quarterback Bill Brannau. Besides being on the receiving end, Gene has been employed as a passer himself, and also was called upon to punt in the Clemson game.

Haner Scores Sixteen Points; Brannau Also Stars For Cats

By Harry Anger

Unbeaten Villanova made it five in a row Friday against the Eagles of Boston College. The final score was 28-7. For Villanova it marked the start of their second road swing of the season, and also avenged the 20-13 defeat at the hands of the Maroon and Gold last year.

Gene Filipski once again showed himself to be the outstanding back on the field as he rolled up 117 yards in 17 trys. The Eagles were successful at least in keeping Gene from scoring, but Bob Haner filled the gap in that department with two scores. Ray Rigney and John Marcus picked up the other tallies of the evening for the Mainliners, both on passes.

Cats Strike First

The Wildcats got started early in the first quarter when Ben Addiego made a fair catch of Jimmy Kane's punt on the Villanova 32. From that point the Wildcats took only 16 plays to score as Bobby Haner crashed over on a one yard buck and then added the extra point.

The ensuing kick-off by Haner was off the side of his foot and Mike Mayock of the Blue andWhite, playing heads up football, fell on it at the B.C. 38. It looked for a minute as though the game was going to be a rout from the beginning, however Villanova fumbled on the B.C. 29 after three plays had been run off.

The Eagles took over and immediately lost the ball on a fumble by the fullback John McCauley. From that point in the period neither team could seem to get any kind of an offensive drive going.

Joe McNicholas, the fine little defensive halfback once again was a big factor in starting a drive goalward for the Wildcats. The junior, from Crum Lynne, Pa. intercepted one of Jimmy Kane's tosses on the Villanova 46 yard line.

Filipski Sets Up Score

From that point Filipski put the Villanovans in scoring position with a beautiful twisting, driving run to the home team's 15. A couple of times during the sprint it looked as if the Main Line Express was about to be stopped but he kept driving. He was finally overhauled and brought down by the safety man, Dick Charlton, probably

Champions Hold Lead in Campus Bowling League

By Jim Briody

After two weeks of keen competition, the "Champions" have climbed to the top of the pile and to undisputed possession of the Villanova Intramural Bowling League lead. Led by the "Stone" brothers, they have compiled high single and triple game awards as a team for two successive weeks.

Baird comes Through

A shade behind are the "Hoods," and the "Hustlers" who tied in a wicked skirmish held last Monday evening. Ace and veteran kegler Harry Baird managed a double in the final frame to salvage the split with a one pin win.

Peterson Scores

Individual honors, both in high triple and high single, last week went to Bill Peterson, who rolled 567, one game scoring 211.

This week will see the "Champions" put first place on the block in a tussle with the "Hoods," while the "Hustlers" will meet the "Handlers." This week's schedule is as follows:

1&2 Handlers vs Hustlers	15
3&4 Grd. Old Men vs Bar. "6"	75
5&6 Latecomers vs Fireball "6"	10
7&8 Champions vs Hoods	54

At a meeting of team captains held Wednesday, team and individual awards were discussed and decided upon. League President Tony Cardinale also announced an intention of enrolling the team in the A.B.C. (American Bowling Congress).

Team Captains

The captains of the various teams include Jack Dirk of the Handlers; Doug Stark of the Hustlers; Dick Keane, Grand Old Men; Tom Cushman, Latecomers; Sam Donatelli. Barracks 6; Hank Lavery Fireball Six; Stan Staginnionis of the Champions; and Vic Maggitti of the Hoods.

SPORTS CHATTER

Same Old Question

By Carl Valenti

Five down and four to go. That's the cry this week and we suddenly discover that we're sitting smack in the middle of another football season. Aha, but this is no ordinary football season. It is a very different season and in more respects than one. Firstly, this year's Wildcat squad stands a very good chance of going undefeated and untied. After Friday's thrashing of Boston College, the prospect of an unbeaten campaign looms larger and larger. Barring serious injuries or overconfidence, it becomes a very definite possibility.

But this year is significant in another respect—one that is deep-seated and far-reaching but not so obvious. As you know, Villanova plays three of its nine games at home this year. Usually the 'Cats stage only one or two contests in their own back yard. Three home games is almost unheard of. Now here's an odd situation. A school is playing big-time football—and no newcomer to the field, at that—yet they play only a very few of their games at home. Why?? Because Villanova can't—or at least doesn't—draw a large enough crowd at home to make it worth while.

Look at the attendance figures for this season alone. The Mainliners go to Kentucky and set an all-time University attendance record for an opening game with 33,000. At Clemson, they pulled 28,000 in a stadium built to hold 20,000. 8,000 onlookers were spread out on a sloping lawn at the open end of Memorial Stadium. Thence to Detroit where almost 20,000 saw the game. Next on the schedule—Wake Forest, at home—where 11,332 scared up echos at Franklin Field which holds 74,000. And for Homecoming Weekend too. At Boston, 23,400 turned out.

True, the Wake Forest contest was played on an overcast day. It rained in the morning and though the rain stopped about noon, the clouds remained, but the weather surely couldn't have made that much difference. The game promised to be good and it was. Still no crowd. No, the weather isn't the answer. Checking the records of past years, reveals the same story.

The fault doesn't lie with the students. Their sections are always packed. One thing can be said of Villanova without fear of contradiction—the student support is wonderful. They turn out en masse—especially at football games. Student support isn't enough however. The student body is small—less than 2,000. Consequently, the alumni is small, by comparative standards, and their support isn't enough either.

Villanova must bring out the local population in order to successfully stage home football games. Philadelphia is supposed to be a sports city, yet when one local Catholic football power goes onto the field before sparsely populated stands. The people seem uninterested. The Wildcats are less known at home than in other sections of the country. Why, to read the New York Times, you'd think Villanova was situated in New York. But then, perhaps we're making the mistake of judging by comparison.

Some have suggested that competition with the University of Pennsylvania is responsible. A second look at that possibility however would tend to discredit it. The schedules of the two schools are so construed that both teams never play home together.

The answer is not a simple clear-cut one. Consequently, the solution is equally as involved. The proper authorities are aware of the situation and have been for some time. A Villanova College Stadium Fund was inaugurated a few years ago and is going along in high gear. It's a long range program which is necessary to combat the situation. But Villanova must stir up interest to fill the forthcoming stadium. High-powered publicity could do it. Radio coverage is fine. Printed publicity, and plenty of it, is what is needed. When Villanova is "sold" to Philadelphia, mobs of people will be only too happy to pay for the privilege of seeing Villanova, the powerhouse of the east, in action.

Wild Kittens

out for the second-half, as both teams really started to play ball. The line play of both teams was outstanding. A few minutes after the kickoff a Villanova punt was blocked by the onrushing Wildcat line and Rutgers kicked off once more, the ball bouncing out of bounds on the Villanova 30 yard line.

TD Recalled

In the fourth quarter Villanova monopolized the play but to no avail. A 20 yard touchdown pass from Kenny to Harley was recalled because of a penalty. Two plays later, on a similar pass play, arms clothed in a scarlet jersey reached out, just fingering the ball and batting it up, only to find the precious pigskin plucked from mid-air by Harley, who scampered the rest of the distance for a touchdown. The conversion attempt failed and Rutgers still led 13-6.

In the fleeting minutes of the quarter, Joe Kenny flooded the air with passes, but all in vain. The final score: Rutgers 13—Villanova 6.

Outstanding in the game was the viscious line play of the defensive platoon. No stars can be named for in reality each and every man was a star of the first magnitude.

In the backfield the hard, clever running of Gene Bogerty, the left half, was something to behold.

Muff Day Event Proves Success For Sophomores

By John Gillman

The third annual Muff day was a big success as far as the Sophs are concerned. They won out over the Frosh by the score of 36-25. The 180 yard dash was taken by Cunningham of the Sophs in 20 seconds, while White took second for the Frosh. The Frosh turned out to be the better egg tossers, taking that event by several yards. Hugh Humphreys and Dave Crowley finished 1-2 in the football kick to give the Sophs a sweep in that event. Joe Sirvon took the football pass for the Frosh as Crowley repeated as a second place finisher. The Frosh stayed in the running with a victory in the Tug-of-war, but it wasn't enough; the Sophs squeezing out a 6-0 win in the football game. Dave Crowley once more came through in the pinch by tossing a touchdown pass to Bob Bishop. Crowley's passing and Frosh Terry Holler's running stood out in an otherwise sloppy game.

Good Counsel Loaded

On the I-M football scene the Mendel Hangovers dropped two last week. The first was by a 2-0 count to the Fedigan Flyers, Paul Meyers, the Flyers captain accounting for the two points. In their second outing they took a 39-0 shellacking at the hands of Good Counsel, last year's champs, who look like they are loaded again this year. The passing of Bob Schaffer and the running of Joe Billera stood out for the Good Counsel team.

however, is not the only field where "Flip" gains his laurels. Gene made the Dean's list here at Villanova his first semester and, despite spring practice and holding down a job, he barely missed on his second try. Coach Bill Grief Has Had A Widely Versed Grid Career

By Sam Keats

Bill Grief, the new freshman football coach at Villanova has led quite a varied life in the football world since he left Aquinas High School in his home town of Rochester, N. Y.

The affable guy spent a few months up at Syracuse in a playing capacity, he passed in rapid succession through Portland and Notre Dame and finally arrived at Villanova two weeks ahead of his trunk.

In his first year at Villanova he was one of the sparkplugs of the frosh backfield. Last year, playing with the Varsity's offensive unit, his promising career was cut short by a serious back injury.

With the ruling that freshmen were ineligible for varsity play a new coaching berth was opened. Head coach Art Raimo, realizing Bill's ability immediately named him yearling mentor.

Along with their positions as coaches Bill and Alex Bell do the scouting for the grid Wildcats. It's unusual for a student to be entrusted with a task of such magnitude. The record of the football team only proves what a fine job he has done. The Wake Forrest assignment was the one on which he did the most work.

Bill was out in Cincinnati last Sunday covering Xavier, our next opponent. Judging from his past performances, the coaching staff is assured of another excellent scouting report.

because Gene was not aware of his presence.

Brannau then took over and it only took him three plays to find the right combination for a score. The means was 16 yard fling to John Marcus, who had button-hooked in the endzone. The extra point made it 14-0, Villanova at the half.

Tomko Returns Punt

In the third period Paul Tomko gathered in Kane's punt near mid-field and roared down the sideline to the Boston 29 before he was bounced out of bounds. A pass from Brannau to Rigney put the ball on the 11, and the second play from scrimmage in that sequence of downs Captain Haner cracked the middle of the Eagle forward wall for the third score of the contest.

The Boys from Chestnut Hill got their consolation score in third period on a 68 yard drive that was capped off by McCauley's one yard buck.

With 20 seconds left to go in the ballgame Villanova finished off a fine show of offensive football as Ray Rigney grabbed a pass from Joe McNicholas on the one and drove into the endzone. The score had been set up when Tom Green recovered a McCauley fumble on the home town 27.

First Spanish Club Session Hear Di Vincenzo Lecture

"Noise and confusion" were the two nouns used by Mr. DiVincenzo instructor in Spanish, to describe the island of Cuba, where he spent the last year teaching English at our Cuban counterpart, St. Thomas of Villanova University.

Mr. DiVincenzo gave a brief account of his impressions of the land of sugarcane and revolution at the initial meeting of the Spanish Club, held last Wednesday night in the C&F auditorium.

Cubans Very Friendly

Mr. DiVincenzo, who taught at Villanova in the school year 1950-1951, was quick to point out, however, that for natural charm and beauty Cuba was hard to beat. The people were very friendly, he said, and the noise and confusion resulted from the natural Spanish disposition for fun and good times.

Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O.S.A., moderator, introduced the new officers of the club and expressed his wishes for another active year of El Club Espanol. John Parolin, president of the club, promised to do his best to make this year's club even more successful than that of last year.

Father Lozano also announced that the play for this year's Spanish Night would be entitled "The Absent-minded Professor". Rehearsals for the play began Wednesday night at Rosemont. Featured in the play are Juan Donestevez and John Parolin from Villanova,, and several girls from Rosemont.

Belle Masque Stage Crew Sets Mark; Setting Completed forNov. Production

Under Maury Murphy's able direction the Belle Masque Stage Crew has completed the setting for the fall production "Rope".

Thus through steady and efficient work the setting has been completed a full two weeks in advance of opening night.

The setting, a typical London bachelor's quarters of the contemporary period has been realistically reproduced in every detail.

The credit for the actual construction is due to the labors of: Gene MacDonald, Jim Curry, Jim Mink, Bill Cunningham, Hank Lavery, Joe Wynn, Jack Casanave and Bob Ersking; while Jack Serena and Jon Porter will bring the set to life on opening night with a battery of Belle Masque's own spotlights.

With the steady progress reported so far there is every indication that this fall's production, "Rope", will be the top ranking entertainment of the season ((of course this side of Broadway).

BELLE MASQUE STAGE CREW under the direction of Maury Murphy (kneeling center) complete work on one of the sets in preparation for the November production of "Rope".

Ike or Adlai??? Presidential Poll On Campus Today

The election day issue of the "Villanovan" will be of special interest. The leading campus weekly will conduct a Presidential Election Poll on the campus, beginning today. The final results of the poll will be printed in the Election Day, Nov. 4, issue.

The Feature Staff of the paper, conducting the poll, will begin polling various religion classes today, October 21, and will take its final samplings next Monday, October 27.

The compilations of the poll will be made the week of October 27, and the results will go to the printers in time for the deadline of the November 4 issue.

Two questions will be asked by the pollsters.

1) Who do you think will win the election?
2) Who will you (or would you) vote for?

The Wall

Both May be Wrong

Then we have the case where both are wrong; this latter situation is a complete waste of time. Arguments start when one personality takes it upon himself to remove the veil of ignorance and enlighten his companion with the real truth, whether he wishes to be so enlightened or not. The next phase is the statement, made with a supreme air of authority, that you are right and he is completely wrong. Now, time for a word to the wise. It takes two people to make an argument. However, his friend, not wishing to be made to appear stupid, returns with his counter-attack, and as always, it finishes with both parties shouting and making harsh statements and then ultimately harsh personal remarks. Sometimes it ends in a fight; most usually it ends in the dissolving of a perfect friendship.

Difference of Opinion

We must first realize that to have differences of opinion with your friends is most natural. And there are times when your buddy is definitely in the wrong. However, there are proper ways of explaining to him his error. If people could understand how difficult it is to persuade someone to change his ideas, even with the best psychological method, they would think twice before resorting to the argument.

You May be Wrong

Now, there are those who will ask me how it is possible to guide some unfortunate soul. To this I can only answer, it takes judgment. How would you like to be told you're wrong? There is a time and a place. An inherent quality is found in every living being, called Egotism. Need I say more? It would be bad judgment, you see, to tell someone he's wrong, in front of his friends. A natural resentment arises. He is forced to defend his Ego. If he is unsuccessful in defending his point logically, he will question the reliability of your statement and then the reliability of you. Now you are insulted and your Ego is attacked. The question is then forgotten and it turns into a personal feud with unhappy results.

Discussion may be trap

Discussion is a method of enlightening your friend; but beware, because discussion easily leads to argument. Personal discussion is the best method. If you are conscientious about helping your friend, then have facts and proof of your statement and discuss it privately. Remember, keep your conversation light when in a crowd. If an argument arises, walk away.

Christopher's Fr. Keller Talks At 'Friends Of Library' Tour

Rev. John Keller, M.M., Founder of the Christopher movement, addressed the Friends of the Villanova College Library last Sunday. The meeting was held in the Commerce and Finance Auditorium and was followed by an inspection and demonstration in the Library.

Mr. John C. Kelly, Class of 1915, chairman of the society presided at the meeting. Speakers included Father Keller, Very Reverend Joseph M. Dougherty, O.S.A., Very Reverend Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., Capt. Martin J. Gillan, U.S.N.(ret.), and student speaker Bernard A. Coyne.

The guests included were parents of Sophomores and Juniors from the Washington, Harrisburg, and Troy areas, and several professional and business men.

Guests Tour Library

The inspection of the Library was guided by student ushers, who conducted a tour through the building pointing out the various posters and exhibitions on display.

Among the more interesting displays was the first edition of a dialogue written by Alexander Pope in 1738 donated by Dr. Edward McGrath of the English Department.

Another interesting display was an array of autographed presentation copies of books by famous authors donated by Mr. Howard Shelley, an alumnus now acting as music critic for a New York newspaper. These include inscriptions by such people as Madame Luisa Tetrazzini, the famous opera singer, and Salvatore Dali, the surrealistic painter, both in autobiographies. Also included was a biography of Theodore Roosevelt autographed by his daughter and an inscribed autobiography by Marie Ritz of the famous hotel family.

Big Senior Program

other than the extensive decorations planned by George Kaelin, will be the choosing of an All-Villanova Hit Parade.

In a balloting to be done early in November each class will vote for the song which, in their opinion, was tops during their stay here at Villanova. These songs will be featured the night of the prom.

Final arrangements for the band are now being made by band chairman Bob Brabson and it is hoped that the selection will be published in the next issue of the "Villanovan".

Work of the decorations committee has neared the halfway mark, and at present the job is being done mainly on Saturday mornings. Kaelin, however, has stated that there is still much work remaining and all seniors are invited to come down to the stadium this Saturday to lend a hand.

The Dinner Dance, under the chairmanship of Dick Conroy, has reserved the Broadwood Hotel in Philadelphia for the occasion. Tony Desmond, the band that made such a hit at the Junior Dinner Dance last year, has again been contracted for this event.

Senior members of the Wildcat grid team, who will finish out their collegiate careers against Boston U. that afternoon, will be the honored guests of the evening.

Delta Epsilon Sigma Names Five To Founder Committee

The Office of the Dean of Arts and Sciences announced that the Founders Committee for the Delta Epsilon Sigma National Scholastic Honor Society, as nominated by the president of the college, will consist of: Rev. John McShea, M.A., Oxford University, representing the English department, Rev. Edward Jenkins, P.H.D., Catholic University, representing the Chemistry department, Rev. Robert Sullivan, M.A., Oxford University, also of the English department, Dr. John McClair, P.H.D., Univ. of Pennsylvania, of the Biology department, and Dr. John McEnerney, P.H.D., Univ. of Pennsylvania, representing the Classics Department.

These men, stated Fr. Sullivan, will approve the quota of students nominated each year for admission to the Honor Society. Any students interested in further information on Delta Epsilon Sigma are instructed to see Fr. Sullivan in his office.

198 Students On Dean's List As 2 Post Perfect Average

The Dean's List for the spring semester of 1952 lists 198 men with averages of 3.0 or better.

Also numbered on the list released by Rev. Thomas A. Burke, O.S.A., Registrar, last week, were two men who attained a perfect average of 4.0. They are Gaetano Gumina, Biology major in the class of 1955, and Joseph S. Bass, class of 1954 of the Commerce and Finance school.

Fr. McGuire Attends Pentagon Meeting

The Rev. Francis X. McGuire, O.S.A., President of Villanova College, announced today that he would attend a conference being held for prominent religious leaders, at the Pentagon Building, in Washington October 21 thru 23.

The purpose of the conference, said Fr. McGuire which will be attended by 80 religious leaders representing all faiths, is to acquaint the group with the status and mission of the Department of Defense, in view of the vital part played by the clergy.

Became a convert to Catholicism at the age of nineteen while at Oxford.

Established a Newman Club at New York State University while Professor of Literature there.

Taught at McGill University in Canada, where he became fast friends with great Canadian humorist, Stephen Leacock, whom he described as "the most absent-minded professor I've ever met.... Leacock would walk up to his son, shake hands and say, 'You're looking very well, how's your dad feeling.'"

Doctor Silverton admits that Villanova has "far surpassed my highest expectations; the students and faculty are top-notch, and the syllabus compares very favorably with the best American and Canadian colleges and universities."

The man who delivered 37 commencement addresses in the month of June 1952 in his recent lecture tour told of one stage-frightened club chairman who was to introduce him as the evening's speaker. "Ladies and gentlemen," the man stammered, "you are aware of the poor finances of this organization. This is the first of a series of lectures this year, and because of the deficit in the treasury we are experimenting with cheaper talent. I now give you Dr. Douglas Silverton."

NOSE, THROAT,

and Accessory Organs not Adversely Affected by Smoking Chesterfields

FIRST SUCH REPORT EVER PUBLISHED ABOUT ANY CIGARETTE

A responsible consulting organization has reported the results of a continuing study by a competent medical specialist and his staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfield cigarettes.

A group of people from various walks of life was organized to smoke only Chesterfields. For six months this group of men and women smoked their normal amount of Chesterfields – 10 to 40 a day. 45% of the group have smoked Chesterfields continually from one to thirty years for an average of 10 years each.

At the beginning and at the end of the six-months period each smoker was given a thorough examination, including X-ray pictures, by the medical specialist and his assistants. The examination covered the sinuses as well as the nose, ears and throat.

The medical specialist, after a thorough examination of every member of the group, stated: "It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."

Charity Ball This Saturday Helps Our Worthiest Cause

By Ted Sheehan

The first function of Villanova's worthiest cause—the St. John's Orphanage Fund—will take place this Saturday night when the annual Charity Ball is held in the College Field House. Dancing will be from 9 to 12 and the music will be supplied by the Villanovans.

The tickets for the dance are just one dollar and every Junior, whether or not he intends to go to the dance, is urged to buy a ticket. Booths will be set up in the Pie Shoppe. The dance is open to all students and their friends and Dance Chairman Steve Berry says that not only will you and your date have a good time but you will have the added satisfaction that you are contributing to a very worthy cause.

Good Football Weekend

The dance, along with the football game with Parris Island in the Villanova Stadium on Friday night, affords students an excellent opportunity to have an inexpensive football weekend.

"There is no better cause on the entire campus and the committee urges the wholehearted support of everyone, regardless of their year to help. Even if you cannot attend the money will still be used—every penny—to help the orphans." Berry stated.

Replaces Hobo Hop

The Charity Ball is taking the place of the usual Hobo Hop and will have for its theme a Halloween setting. Special permission was received to hold the dance on a Saturday night and following the night game on Friday is expected to draw a good crowd. As one of the three home weekends, and the most inexpensive, Berry is hoping for a turnout to surpass even last year's Soph Cotillion.

Besides the usual ticket booths, plans have been made to sell tickets at the half of the Parris Island game and 20 committee members will also make an extensive canvass of all dorms on the campus during the week.

STEVE BERRY

The men working on the various committees for the dance are: George Eberle, arrangements; Tim Cole, refreshments; Jack Hayes and Ray Laventure, publicity; George Downing and Hank Lavery, tickets.

All money that is earned from the Charity Ball will go directly to the Orphanage Fund, and not to the Junior class. Besides the Villanovans, who are playing for nothing, all the profits realized from refreshments, coat checking and flowers will go directly to the orphans.

VOTERS

Eligible voters who wish to be excused from classes on Election Day, Nov. 4 must register this week in the Office of Student Activities, room 223 Mendel. Registration, which began yesterday, will continue through Thursday from 3 to 5 p. m. daily. Proof of age will be required. Only men who register at this time will receive excused cuts for classes missed on Election Day.

Football Awards Will Be Presented At Annual Banquet This December

The 31st annual football banquet, sponsored by the Villanova Club of Philadelphia, will be held Tuesday night, December 9, in the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, club President Bill Schubert, '42, announced last week.

The highlight of the evening will be the presentation of the Most Valuable Player plaque to the team's outstanding player by the National Alumni Association. Together with this award as the banquet's high point is the Loyalty Award to the outstanding alumnus of the college.

Other Awards to be Given

Among the other awards that will be presented are the Martin J. McLaughlin Award to the player who is elected the team captain and the Cyril Burke Award to the team's "most consistent" player. Besides this, every senior on the team is awarded a miniature gold football as a memento of his career at Villanova.

The Loyalty award is annually given to the alumnus of the college who has been graduated from the college for at least fifteen years and is outstanding in his loyalty to his alma mater. The past recipients of the award decide the winner for this year.

Vincent J. Gorman '42, banquet chairman, plans to announce the principal speaker for the evening within the next few days. The tickets for the dinner are $6.50 and students are invited.

DRAFT TEST

Deadline for the filing of applications for the latest Selective Service Apptitude test is midnight Saturday, November 1st. Any applications posted later will be refused. This deadline is for the test on December 4. The next one after that will be given on April 23.

Desmond To Play At Dinner Dance

Tony Desmond, leader of one of the most popular bands in the Philadelphia area, will make his second appearance at a Class of '53 function when he plays at the Senior Dinner Dance, Saturday night, November 22, at the Broadwood Hotel.

A unanimous choice for the occasion after his outstanding work at the Junior Dinner Dance last May, a Desmond trio will supply the dinner music with the entire twelve piece band on hand for the dance following.

This year's dance will be of special significance to the Senior class. As the climax of the Senior Weekend, it will also be the last formal social function of the class as such.

And as it follows the final football game of the season, the senior gridders, who will be rounding out their collegiate careers that afternoon against Boston University, will be the guests of honor and will occupy a special table for the occasion.

The necessity of returning to school or home after the game in order to change for the dance was taken into consideration in the choice of the Broadwood for the site. Centrally located at Broad and Vine Streets, within easy access, it is also one the Quaker City's most beautiful establishments.

Tables will be set up in cabaret style, according to chairman Dick Conroy, thereby eliminating the necessity of removing the tables before the dance.

A new feature of the program this year will be the introduction of printed menues for the dinner. Dolph Bergen and Al Stuart are now engaged in the preparation of these.

Tickets will go on sale next Tuesday, November 4, under the direction of ticket chairman Dick Mies. Price will be $7.50 per couple. Table reservations, four couples per table can also be made at this time.

Voters Granted Free Day

An undetermined number of voting-aged Villanovans will be travelling homeward on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November as a result of the Student Council's recent success in securing excused cuts for registered voters on Nov. 4.

Administration OK's

Announcement of the news was made at the Council's bi-weekly meeting in Mendel Hall last Tuesday night by Chairman Tom Ackerman who met with the President, Very Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, OSA the day before and received Administration approval of the group's move to grant eligible voters the opportunity to cast their ballots.

Original motion to excuse 21-year olds from class on Election Day was proposed by Senior Charlie Russell at the first meeting of the Council on Sept. 23.

A unanimous vote approved a motion requiring all students who are eligible to vote to register with the office of Rev. Edward B. McKee, OSA. Excused cuts will be granted to only those who register.

Ackerman stated that registration details will be released during the week.

Kenney Elected

The Student-Faculty committee established last spring is due to be reactivated with the election of Junior Joe Kenney as the third member of the student delegation. Elected by a special ten-man Council committee, Kenney joins Charlie Russell and Ackerman as the student body's representatives to the S-F group.

In other business transacted at the meeting, a cafeteria-cleanup campaign was scheduled with Frank Licopoli, Soph Class President, appointed to place "keep your table clean" posters in the cafeteria.

Requests were made asking for: renewal of campus-wide Christmas decorations: reinstallation of traffic lights on Lancaster Turnpike; and granting financial assistance to the two student heads of intramural athletics. No decision was reached.

Absent from the meeting were Bob Quin, Senior Arts; Jim Ennis, Soph Engineering; and John Serena, DPE.

Sure son, I'M going to the Charity Ball.

Our Worthiest Cause

It is not the usual editorial policy of this paper to recommend to its readers attendance at any special social functions that might be held by the various organizations or classes. We have always felt that the publicity for such functions could be handled quite sufficiently by the particular organization itself.

However, there sometimes occurs certain activities which force us to deviate from this policy.

One such activity is the Charity Ball, sponsored by the St. John's Orphanage Fund, which will be held this Saturday night in the college Field House. Of all the functions that are held throughout the year, there is not a worthier cause than this fund.

A few facts concerning this dance might prove to be a bit enlightening.

Every penny made by this dance, minus the few bare expenses, will go directly to the orphans at St. Johns.

Not one cent will accrue to the Junior Class or to any other group on campus.

All the money that is made through the sale of flowers, refreshments and other incidentals will also be donated to the fund. This includes the music, which the Villanovans are supplying gratis.

There is no need to go into the sugar sweet sentimentality behind this fund. Anyone who has ever taken one of the orphans out during the annual Christmas excursion knows the happiness that is caused by this fund. If you have experienced that, then no amount of writing is needed to explain.

This Charity Ball on Saturday night will enable many people to contribute to this worthy fund, and to do so in what might be termed a very painless way. Coming after the Parris Island game, and what we hope will be the team's seventh straight win, it will afford many people the opportunity of having an inexpensive football weekend.

And to those who for some reason will not be able to attend this ball on Saturday night we recommend purchasing the ticket, it only costs one dollar. Even if you do not use it you will have, at least, the satisfaction in knowing that you are making a fine bunch of kids—the orphans—very, very happy.

For a buck, it's well worth it.

Special Election Evening Coverage on Station WVIL

Station Manager Lists Features, "Live" Shows of Campus Station

WVIL, Villanova College's Radio Station, will provide four hours of thorough election coverage on election night, November 4. This was learned last week in an interview with Bob Quin, Station Manager.

"Beginning at 8 p. m., we'll provide four hours of top-notch election coverage and analysis," Quin stated. The station manager, himself, Chief Announcer Jim Glavin, News Chieftain Tony Galati, and news reporter Dick Winfield will handle the summaries and commentaries on the election returns.

Straight Through

"There'll be no interruptions," Quin added. "We're suspending our regular broadcasting schedule at 8 p. m., Tuesday evening, November 4. From that time, until midnight, it'll be election news and purely that, save for a few recordings interspersed here and there for a few moments."

Galati, Winfield, and Glavin, we learned, have already begun assimilating related figures and statistics of past elections, to aid the station's reported in interpreting and commenting on the returns as they come in election night.

It was pointed out that this will be the first time that the college station has attempted such a coverage. "There'll be no 'now we return you to our regular programs' or any such nonsense," the station manager remarked. "It'll be election news—period—from eight until midnight."

'Live' Shows

Quin also revealed last week that the station is now building up its stock of "live" programs. Two new ones, "Queen of the Records" and a dramatic production, hit the airwaves last week. More are to follow.

The rundown on WVIL's "featured shows" will soon run:

1) "Twenty and Out," the station's weekly panel quiz. Bernie Coyne mc's a panel of four along the lines of the well-known game, "20 Questions." Sue Fitzgerald, of Rosemont, and Jim Glavin are the permanent panel members, and there are two guest panelists, one from Rosemont and one from Villanova each week. "Twenty and Out" hits the air at 8:30 p. m., each Tuesday evening.

Girls Are Guests

2) "Queen of the Records," a guest disc jockey show. Three girls, one each from Rosemont, Chestnut Hill and Immaculata colleges, spin the discs each week. The listeners ballot, and the following week the girl who's amassed the most votes returns as "Queen of the Records," to be challenged by two new girls from the other schools. This show is on Wednesday evenings from 9 p. m. until 10 p. m. Also, Mike Roscoe's "Wet Wax Works" Mystery Tune winds up this show each week.

3) "The Other Side of the Question." Bernie Coyle, biweekly, interviews a member of the administration or faculty. Watch the WVIL schedule for these interviews.

4) Dramatic Productions, which make their appearance periodically on the station. Production head Bernie Coyne is in charge of this department, and is currently lining up a resevoir of shows.

Sports Guests

5) Sports Interviews. Sportscasters Harry Anger, Al Hennessey, Jack Hayes, and company, are now running off regular interviews on the sports show at 10 p. m. Gene Filipski, Bob Haner, and Bill Greif have already hit the air.

In addition to these "featured" shows, WVIL's popular log of regular presentations is still on the schedule. Disc Shows such as Mike Roscoe's request-your-record show "Wet Wax Works," Bob Quin's "From Dixie On Up," and the ever- popular "Guests on Parade" hit the air nightly. Roscoe hits the air at 9 p. m., Quin's "hotstuff" is on at 7:30 or 8:30, depending on the night's feature shows, and the "Guest" rendition goes on at 10:15. For listeners with an ear south of the border, there's "Latin Americana" at 8:15.

Arms For West Germany? Writer Hashes Problems

Guns for Europe By Tom McDermott

Because of the excitement of the present political campaigns many Americans have overlooked one of the most important postwar problems within the boundaries of European politics. At this time there is a discussion raging in the French National Assembly concerning the European army treaty involving the countries of West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg, and France.

As is usually the case, the crux of the issues involved revolves around the rearmament of West Germany. The French people, justifiably so, do not want a resumption of hostilities with Germany, and this is the main reason why the treaty has aroused such a furore among the French people.

American View

From the American point of view the rejection of this treaty will have serious consequences. It will mean the necessary enlargement of NATO activities plus the fact that the United States will have to enlarge its program of aiding the European countries individually. In all probability this situation would tend to increase the economic problems now facing this country. In reality, however, the American public is looking forward to a solution of this dilemma after the election in November.

Don't Understand

We here in the United States do not fully understand the possible but improbable plight of France, because we have during most of the history of this country had most cordial relations with our northern neighbor. France on the other hand has been involved in three wars with Germany within seventy years. If this be the case between Canada and the United States, we also would look askance upon Canadian rearmament provided this country had defeated Canada in a major struggle within the past ten years.

The attitude of the major powers in the free world could be summarized in the following witticism — The American: 'We should give the Germans rifles;' The Briton: "Yes, but old ones'; The Dutchman: 'Without cartridges'; The Belgian: 'And only on Sundays;' The Norwegian: 'Sundays in Leap Year;" The Dane: 'Provided Leap Year begins on a Tuesday;' The Germany: 'And what shall we do with the rifles?' The Frenchmen: 'What's the matter? Are you opposed to the defense of Europe?"—(New York Times, Oct. 19, 1952)

Analyze Your Neighbors, Just Study Their Letters

Excellent Source By Al Pandaleon

The ability to analyze his neighbor's mind correctly is perhaps one of the most valuable assets of the mature man. Yet how few of us strive properly to acquire this trait. The tools we employ are often poor ones. Ignoring such invalid methods as the use of phrenology and the study of facial characteristics, we may ask ourselves are there not any accurate means of evaluating a man's personality?

Many will answer that the diary, if available, would be the best indication of a person's character. True enough, but there is an overwhelming obstacle to be met in this approach. We are interested in scutinzing the personality of the living, not the dead. The chances are slim that our neighbor would consent to give us access to his daily recollections during his lifetime.

Precise Method

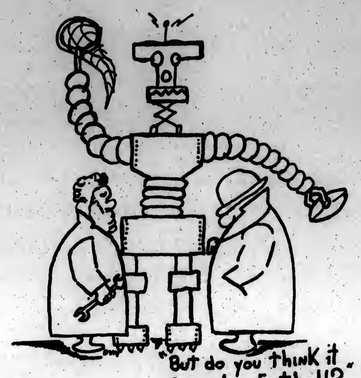
There is, however, a method of examing your neighbor that, while far from being foolproof, is extremely precise. I refer to the medium of the personal letter—an indirect communication of thought between two parties.

Just consider the number of famous Americans whose letters have been edited for public reading. In most cases you will find that the chief purpose has been to give the intelligent examiner an intimate glimpse of the workings of a great mind.

Current Series

The "Atlantic Monthly" is currently publishing several letters exchanged between Justice Holmes and Harold Laksi. Here, as in other collections, we must admit that the contents are, to a large extent, comprised of plain fact. But, a more careful examination reveals an excellent opportunity for grasping the essential aspects of a keen mind.

Something More



A letter, then, is more than a mere narration of facts. It often reaches deeper into the subtleties of human character than ordinary conversation. An outlet for personal reflection is afforded the writer. Not in actual contact with the recipient of his thoughts, he is frequently apt to commit more to paper than he would ordinarily say in everyday discussion.

We would do well to bear this fact in mind the next time we have before us the letter of a friend.

'Lynx' to Bow In November

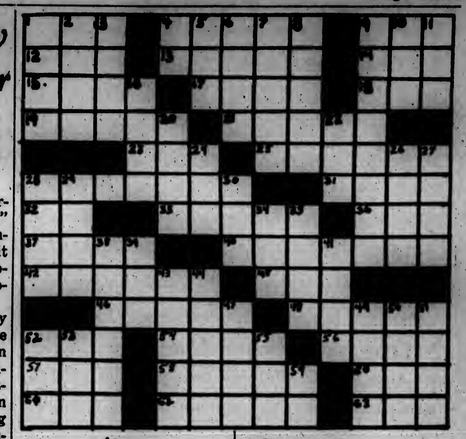
Quarterly's Editors List '52-'53 Staff

Villanova College's Literary Quarterly, "The Lynx," was forthcoming with the announcement last week that it will make its first campus appearance of the year in November.

The history of a Literary Quarterly at Villanova can be traced back beyond the turn of the century, into the eighteen-nineties. "The Lynx" assumed its present format in 1948, and has been gaining campus circulation and popularity ever since. Last year's "Lynx" series was highlighted by the publication of a special "Mother's Day" edition late in the spring semester.

Editors

John Widmeier and Frank Thompson, two Arts seniors, are serving as Co-Editors of the literary magazine this year. Both have been the authors of numerous "Lynx" articles in the past three years.



"We have formed the core of a staff from a few 'Lynx' veterans and upper-classmen," Widmeier stated, "but are extremely anxious that any student, particularly underclassmen, submit any material they have now, or may turn out this year, to us." The Co-Editor pointed out the varied types of work published by the publication, stating there was "practically no limit" to its contents.

November 1 is the first deadline of the magazine. All material must be submitted by that date to either of the editors, or to the moderator of the "Lynx," Rev. John McShea, O.S.A.

Four Issues

Four editions of the "Lynx" will be published this year, the

The Wall

Political Buttons By Jack Kistner

My friend the "Wall Gazer" dropped into the "Pie Shop" and asked me to advise him in Politics. In all my years as a Wall, I've seen a great number of men gain public office. I've heard about the big conventions and read speeches given by the candidates. The radio and television are packed with political talks by men who will probably gain favors if their party wins. But never, and no where in the world, has there been more speeches, accusations, and facts revealed, than in our own humble "Pie Shop". It seems to me, that if the candidates want facts on the world situation or facts on their opponent, they should disregard ridges;' The Belgiah: 'And the statistics and history books and come to Villanova's "Pie Shop" for just one hour during a lunch period.

It never fails to amaze me how our young Villanova men know so much about politicians. Why, I've seen students cut American Government and History classes to tell some friend about the history of his particular candidate and what part he has played in our government. And students who couldn't remember one page of homework can quote, at a minute's notice, the exact amount of graft a man accepted down to the penny. I often wonder how the politicians would feel if they could hear the statistics of themselves as computed by a Villanova student.

Duty - Bound

I feel it my duty, as an American Wall, to inform the President and his cabinet, that the students of Villanova College have the real "scoop" on how the government should be run. How unfortunate for this country that these young men have their ideas restricted to the walls of the "Pie Shop" at Villanova.

I thought only we Walls get decorated, but just about election time we get a chance for some real good laughs. Into the "Pie Shop" parade the walking billboards, but-

Owl Hop Return Is Marked By 400 At Field House Last Friday Night

PRETTY DATES Betty Brozak and Peggy Watson seem just as happy as chairman Joe Matton and president Jack Redmond as they survey the crowd at last Friday's Owl Hop at the college Field House.

Back after a three year layoff, the Owl Hop reappeared on campus last Friday night as over 400 danced to the music of the Villanovans in a formula - and - famous - scientist decorated Field House.

The Phi Kappa Pi engineering fraternity, sponsors of the Fall social season's second event, covered the walls of the building with placards reading V=E-Ir, Einstein, F=Ma, Galileo, Gauss, etc. On one famous-scientist sign was printed "Driscoll," in honor of William G. Driscoll, Association Professor of Physics at Villanova.

The dance was under the general chairmanship of Jose Matton, who declared it to be a success judging from the size of the crowd and favorable comments received on the novel decorations.

Matton stated that credit for the dance's success should be given to Publicity Chairman Jack Mooney, Ed Corini, John Famigletti, and John Dougherty who were in charge of decorations. Also ticket chairman Hank Lavery, refreshments, George Markert, and responsible for the checkroom, Wally Miller.

Present at the Owl Hop were, Rev. George L. McLaughlin, O.S.A., Rev. John S. O'Leary, O.S.A., PKP moderator, Rev. John A. Klekotka, O.S.A., Rev. Thomas A. Burke, O.S.A., and J. Stanley Morehouse.

'Pike' Project Progresses Despite Construction Delays

Have you noticed the face lifting in front of the College on the Lincoln Highway? Are you interested in knowing when, why, and wherefore this task was undertaken? Since you wanted these and other questions answered this paper got the answers.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania awarded the contract to Herbert J. Elkins of Philadelphia. The contracting concern was to have started construction on June 11, however, there were a few delays. A machine operator's strike was the first obstacle which started on May 1 and continued for two months.

Many Headaches

As if this were not enough of a headache, the constructor and State's engineer, Walter C. Jones, were hampered in their progress by all the utilities. Bell Telephone had to lay lines while the gas and water companies were forced to put in new mains. The last time any major job was performed was back in 1946 when the road was resurfaced.

Construction was finally begun during the month of August. The road was originally forty feet wide; the overhauling will widen the road to fifty feet. The length of the road will be 3150 feet when it is completed. Concrete will be laid on the last two lanes on the 28th of this month.

It is estimated by the State's engineer, Walter C. Jones, that the job will be completed in about two weeks after this date. The total number of yards of concrete which will be laid on these two lanes is 8614 yards.

This project is costing the State exactly $252,996.64. This sum is broken down into the following items: clearance, $11,000; excavation, $32,000; regular cementing, $60,000; high early cementing, $14,000; curbing, $13,000; and the sidewalk, $12,000. The sum of $60,996.64 which remains covers all other expenses that are incurred.

Fr. Coffey Talks To NFCCS Groups On Mariology Day

Villanova was well represented at the Mariology Day activities held at Rosemont College, Sunday. Led by members of the N.F.C.C.S., Villanovans joined students from all the local Catholic colleges in panel discussions concerning "Mary on the Campus."

After the opening mass at 10:30 in the Rosemont Chapel, the group enjoyed breakfast at the college dining hall. Following breakfast they assembled for a conference.

Rev. John J. Coffey, O.S.A., of Villanova opened the discussion with a talk on The Blessed Virgin's place on the college campus. Fr. Coffey pointed out that Mary is the patroness of purity and as such should hold a high position in our everyday college life.

During the afternoon, a series of panel discussions were held to find ways in which Mary could be brought closer to the Catholic College student by regular devotions and novenas.

Other schools represented at the meeting were St. Joseph's, Chestnut Hill, LaSalle, Immaculata, and Manor College.

Mainliners Score 34-20 Win Over Xavier; Play Host To Parris Island This Weekend

Cats Initiate Home Play After Dark Fri. With Marines

By Tom Mentzer

Unbeaten, untied Villanova returns home Friday, in the first college night game ever to be played at Mainline Stadium, when they play host to a strong Parris Island team. The kickoff is slated for 8:30, and it will mark the first varsity competition in the stadium since 1950. The last contest was a 39-21 rout of Duquesne to open the 1950 season for the Cats.

Sunday's big victory over the battling Musketeers of Xavier gave the Wildcats their sixth straight victory of the season. Thus with six in a row this year's Mainliners became the first team to win that many battles since Romanick, Pasquariello and company operated back in 1949.

Hayes and Elter Top Marines

This group of Marines have really been cutting through all opposition so far this season. Looking at their record the Leathernecks seem capable of coming up with a new star every week. In the 59-0 rout of the Cherry Point Marines Billy Hayes, who played with Charlie Justice at North Carolina, sparked the attack by ripping 92 yards with the opening kickoff. Hayes also accounted for two other TDs throughout the afternoon, and Leo Elter, formerly of Duquesne and Villanova chipped in with one for good measure.

Elter, incidentally has been the Marines leading ground gainer thus far, picking up 122 yards in the Cherry Point game alone.

Pro Quarterback

Aside from the running game, PI also has a pretty good air man too. Operating out of the "T" Coach J. T. Hill alternates Sam Vacanti and Ed Brandenburg at the quarterback position. Vacanti, who is 30 years old, formerly played professional football in

Veteran Wildcat Hoopsters Prepare For Coming Season

Although the basketball season is almost a month and a half away, Villanova's hoopsters are nevertheless rounding into shape already. The squad has been scrimmaging since school opened, even though actual practice does not begin until November 1, when coach Al Severance takes over.

Co-captains Return

Co-captain Jim Mooney and sophomores John Devine and Bob Schaeffer will form the nucleus of a veteran team which has lost only two members to graduation. Nick Maguire, co-captain for his third year, and Sam Glassmire, senior guard, make up one of the nation's better backcourts. Glassmire topped the team in assists last year, while Nick led in field goal percentage. Another returning regular from last year's squad, which won 19 while dropping 8, is Steve Gepp, the Wildcat's rebounding workman. Other holdovers are seniors Joe Maguire and George Stanko, and sophomores Dave Clune, Jim Brady, and Bill Sigalove.

Good Frosh Prospects

Turning to the stars of the future, Villanova's freshman team is also preparing for their training grind. Headed by Marty Milligan from North Catholic, Gene Tierney, a New Yorker, and Ed Emery, All-Catholic from Pennsylvania, the frosh squad also boasts Joe Servon, who holds the New Jersey high school scoring record. The tall timber among the freshman includes John Cirino and Bill O'Brien from Long Island, and Tom Foley, a 6'5" New Englander. All-State men include John Mead, N. Y., Bill Miller, Pennsylvania, Bland Schaunessy, Virginia, and Joe Rubbninaccio, from New Jersey.

The thirty game varsity schedule stars off with three service teams, including the Quantico Marines, starring ex-Wildcat and N.B.A. scoring champ, Paul Arizin.

Haner, McNicholas and Kershaw Star In Wildcat's 6th Victory

By Dick Confoy

Villanova's unbeaten Wildcats rolled on to their sixth straight win, whipping the Musketeers from Xavier, 34-20. For the Cats it was a fairly easy victory as expected, although the Ohioans gave everyone a brief scare as they pulled to within one touchdown with just minutes remaining.

Gene Filipski was really bottled up for the first time this year even though he scored twice for the Wildcats. Gene was able to gain only 30 yards in 16 carries. Captain Bob Haner, besides filling in for Bob Volonino in the kick-off spot, also supplied most of the offensive punch with several decisive runs and two scores.

Cats Score Early

The Wildcats drove for 58 yards and a touchdown on their first series of downs, featuring a 35 yard punt return by Joe McNicholas and a 19 yard scoring sprint by Filipski. Less than a minute later the Cats were inside Xaviers ten yard stripe again and it looked like a possible rout. A penalty stopped the drive, however, and then a Brannau heave was intercepted.

The first half then evolved into a see-saw affair until, with lightning speed in the closing seconds, Xavier put everything even. A 50 yard quick-kick put the ball on Villanova's 4 yard line, from where the Cats kicked out with less than a minute remaining. Two quick passes followed, the second for nine yards, a score, and a 7-7 halftime deadlock.

Bedesem Run

Villanova grabbed the opening kickoff of the second half and promptly marched 80 yards to their second score. On the second play from scrimmage, Dick Bedesum saw daylight and galloped 51 yards before he was finally hauled down on the 21. After another 15 yard jolt from the officials, Brannau passed to the 17 and Haner carried it over for the TD. Soon after, Villanova broke the game wide open.

2 Quick TD's

The Wildcats drove from their own 39 in 9 plays to a 21-7 lead and another Haner score. Seconds later Villanova had the ball in enemy territory again as Bill Hegarty swooped in to block a punt on the Musketeer 30. Jack Helm, sophomore fullback, blasted his way for 15 yards on the opening play and the Wildcats then ground out the remaining yardage with Filipski carrying over for a 28-7 lead.

Xavier Scores

With just five minutes remaining the Ohioans carried 66 yards on the ground to a score and the most scored 150s Bow, 27-0, To Strong Tiger "11" At Princeton, N. J.

By Jim Wrzesinski

Villanova's Wildkittens ventured from the sheltering shadows of their own goalposts Saturday for the first time in their young lives. They left their home frisky and jubilant, but soon returned with their tails between their legs. As often happens to young kittens who venture from home for the first time, these kittens were taught a lesson in the ways of the world. The kittens came home smarting from defeat, but nevertheless were none the worse for wear.

Miller Excels

Princeton's 150 lb. football team was anything but the perfect host Saturday, at Poe Field, as they humbled the Kittens, 27-0. The lightning single-wing attack of Princeton was too much for the Kittens to handle, and the Kittens were left bewitched, bothered, and bewildered. The Villanova defensive unit again shone, even in defeat. Richard Miller, the right guard, played an excellent game in the line, being at the right place at the right time, but unfortunately for the Kittens, Richard Miller was not enough.

Single-wing Clicks

The Princeton single-wing attack bore fruit early as they scored 13 points in the first quarter and 7 points in both the second and third quarters. Princeton lived up to all ex-

Gov. Warren Cites Filipski

Evidently even the heat of a presidential campaign can't lessen the fame of Villanova's unbeaten football club.

As witness a remark made to two VC students, Tuesday, October 21, by California Governor Earl Warren, principal speaker at a Youth for Eisenhower Rally held in Philadelphia's Town Hall. Speaking to The Villanovan Sports Editor Carl Valenti and chairman of the campus Eisenhower movement Jack Casanave, Warren said, "Give my regards to Gene Filipski and the rest of the Villanova team and tell them I hope they finish the season undefeated."

Nearly 30 Villanova men attended the Rally, featured by Warren's Ike-endorsing and the appearance of one of Warren's daughters, Virginia.

Warren was introduced by University of Pennsylvania President Harold E. Stassen.

'Pike' Project Progresses Despite Construction Delays

Have you noticed the face lifting in front of the College on the Lincoln Highway? Are you interested in knowing when, why, and wherefore this task was undertaken? Since you wanted these and other questions answered this paper got the answers.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania awarded the contract to Herbert J. Elkins of Philadelphia. The contracting concern was to have started construction on June 11, however, there were a few delays. A machine operator's strike was the first obstacle which started on May 1 and continued for two months.

Many Headaches

As if this were not enough of a headache, the constructor and State's engineer, Walter C. Jones, were hampered in their progress by all the utilities. Bell Telephone had to lay lines while the gas and water companies were forced to put in new mains. The last time any major job was performed was back in 1946 when the road was resurfaced.

Construction was finally begun during the month of August. The road was originally forty feet wide; the overhauling will widen the road to fifty feet. The length of the road will be 3150 feet when it is completed. Concrete will be laid on the last two lanes on the 28th of this month.

It is estimated by the State's engineer, Walter C. Jones, that the job will be completed in about two weeks after this date. The total number of yards of concrete which will be laid on these two lanes is 8614 yards.

This project is costing the State exactly $252,996.64. This sum is broken down into the following items: clearance, $11,000; excavation, $32,000; regular cementing, $60,000; high early cementing, $14,000; curbing, $13,000; and the sidewalk, $12,000. The sum of $60,996.64 which remains covers all other expenses that are incurred.

Fr. Coffey Talks To NFCCS Groups On Mariology Day

Villanova was well represented at the Mariology Day activities held at Rosemont College, Sunday. Led by members of the N.F.C.C.S., Villanovans joined students from all the local Catholic colleges in panel discussions concerning "Mary on the Campus."

After the opening mass at 10:30 in the Rosemont Chapel, the group enjoyed breakfast at the college dining hall. Following breakfast they assembled for a conference.

Rev. John J. Coffey, O.S.A., of Villanova opened the discussion with a talk on The Blessed Virgin's place on the college campus. Fr. Coffey pointed out that Mary is the patroness of purity and as such should hold a high position in our everyday college life.

During the afternoon, a series of panel discussions were held to find ways in which Mary could be brought closer to the Catholic College student by regular devotions and novenas.

Other schools represented at the meeting were St. Joseph's, Chestnut Hill, LaSalle, Immaculata, and Manor College.

Mainliners Score 34-20 Win Over Xavier; Play Host To Parris Island This Weekend

Cats Initiate Home Play After Dark Fri. With Marines

By Tom Mentzer

Unbeaten, untied Villanova returns home Friday, in the first college night game ever to be played at Mainline Stadium, when they play host to a strong Parris Island team. The kickoff is slated for 8:30, and it will mark the first varsity competition in the stadium since 1950. The last contest was a 39-21 rout of Duquesne to open the 1950 season for the Cats.

Sunday's big victory over the battling Musketeers of Xavier gave the Wildcats their sixth straight victory of the season. Thus with six in a row this year's Mainliners became the first team to win that many battles since Romanick, Pasquariello and company operated back in 1949.

Hayes and Elter Top Marines

This group of Marines have really been cutting through all opposition so far this season. Looking at their record the Leathernecks seem capable of coming up with a new star every week. In the 59-0 rout of the Cherry Point Marines Billy Hayes, who played with Charlie Justice at North Carolina, sparked the attack by ripping 92 yards with the opening kickoff. Hayes also accounted for two other TDs throughout the afternoon, and Leo Elter, formerly of Duquesne and Villanova chipped in with one for good measure.

Elter, incidentally has been the Marines leading ground gainer thus far, picking up 122 yards in the Cherry Point game alone.

Pro Quarterback

Aside from the running game, PI also has a pretty good air man too. Operating out of the "T" Coach J. T. Hill alternates Sam Vacanti and Ed Brandenburg at the quarterback position. Vacanti, who is 30 years old, formerly played professional football in

Veteran Wildcat Hoopsters Prepare For Coming Season

Although the basketball season is almost a month and a half away, Villanova's hoopsters are nevertheless rounding into shape already. The squad has been scrimmaging since school opened, even though actual practice does not begin until November 1, when coach Al Severance takes over.

Co-captains Return

Co-captain Jim Mooney and sophomores John Devine and Bob Schaeffer will form the nucleus of a veteran team which has lost only two members to graduation. Nick Maguire, co-captain for his third year, and Sam Glassmire, senior guard, make up one of the nation's better backcourts. Glassmire topped the team in assists last year, while Nick led in field goal percentage. Another returning regular from last year's squad, which won 19 while dropping 8, is Steve Gepp, the Wildcat's rebounding workman. Other holdovers are seniors Joe Maguire and George Stanko, and sophomores Dave Clune, Jim Brady, and Bill Sigalove.

Good Frosh Prospects

Turning to the stars of the future, Villanova's freshman team is also preparing for their training grind. Headed by Marty Milligan from North Catholic, Gene Tierney, a New Yorker, and Ed Emery, All-Catholic from Pennsylvania, the frosh squad also boasts Joe Servon, who holds the New Jersey high school scoring record. The tall timber among the freshman includes John Cirino and Bill O'Brien from Long Island, and Tom Foley, a 6'5" New Englander. All-State men include John Mead, N. Y., Bill Miller, Pennsylvania, Bland Schaunessy, Virginia, and Joe Rubbinaccio, from New Jersey.

The thirty game varsity schedule stars off with three service teams, including the Quantico Marines, starring ex-Wildcat and N.B.A. scoring champ, Paul Arizin.

Haner, McNicholas and Kershaw Star In Wildcat's 6th Victory

By Dick Confoy

Villanova's unbeaten Wildcats rolled on to their sixth straight win, whipping the Musketeers from Xavier, 34-20. For the Cats it was a fairly easy victory as expected, although the Ohioans gave everyone a brief scare as they pulled to within one touchdown with just minutes remaining.

Gene Filipski was really bottled up for the first time this year even though he scored twice for the Wildcats. Gene was able to gain only 30 yards in 16 carries. Captain Bob Haner, besides filling in for Bob Volonino in the kick-off spot, also supplied most of the offensive punch with several decisive runs and two scores.

Cats Score Early

The Wildcats drove for 58 yards and a touchdown on their first series of downs, featuring a 35 yard punt return by Joe McNicholas and a 19 yard scoring sprint by Filipski. Less than a minute later the Cats were inside Xaviers ten yard stripe again and it looked like a possible rout. A penalty stopped the drive, however, and then a Brannau heave was intercepted.

The first half then evolved into a see-saw affair until, with lightning speed in the closing seconds, Xavier put everything even. A 50 yard quick-kick put the ball on Villanova's 4 yard line, from where the Cats kicked out with less than a minute remaining. Two quick passes followed, the second for nine yards, a score, and a 7-7 halftime deadlock.

Bedesem Run

Villanova grabbed the opening kickoff of the second half and promptly marched 80 yards to their second score. On the second play from scrimmage, Dick Bedesum saw daylight and galloped 51 yards before he was finally hauled down on the 21. After another 15 yard jolt from the officials, Brannau passed to the 17 and Haner carried it over for the TD. Soon after, Villanova broke the game wide open.

2 Quick TD's

The Wildcats drove from their own 39 in 9 plays to a 21-7 lead and another Haner score. Seconds later Villanova had the ball in enemy territory again as Bill Hegarty swooped in to block a punt on the Musketeer 30. Jack Helm, sophomore fullback, blasted his way for 15 yards on the opening play and the Wildcats then ground out the remaining yardage with Filipski carrying over for a 28-7 lead.

Xavier Scores

With just five minutes remaining the Ohioans carried 66 yards on the ground to a score and the most scored 150s Bow, 27-0, To Strong Tiger "11" At Princeton, N. J.

By Jim Wrzesinski

Villanova's Wildkittens ventured from the sheltering shadows of their own goalposts Saturday for the first time in their young lives. They left their home frisky and jubilant, but soon returned with their tails between their legs. As often happens to young kittens who venture from home for the first time, these kittens were taught a lesson in the ways of the world. The kittens came home smarting from defeat, but nevertheless were none the worse for wear.

Miller Excels

Princeton's 150 lb. football team was anything but the perfect host Saturday, at Poe Field, as they humbled the Kittens, 27-0. The lightning single-wing attack of Princeton was too much for the Kittens to handle, and the Kittens were left bewitched, bothered, and bewildered. The Villanova defensive unit again shone, even in defeat. Richard Miller, the right guard, played an excellent game in the line, being at the right place at the right time, but unfortunately for the Kittens, Richard Miller was not enough.

Single-wing Clicks

The Princeton single-wing attack bore fruit early as they scored 13 points in the first quarter and 7 points in both the second and third quarters. Princeton lived up to all ex-

Gov. Warren Cites Filipski

Evidently even the heat of a presidential campaign can't lessen the fame of Villanova's unbeaten football club.

As witness a remark made to two VC students, Tuesday, October 21, by California Governor Earl Warren, principal speaker at a Youth for Eisenhower Rally held in Philadelphia's Town Hall. Speaking to The Villanovan Sports Editor Carl Valenti and chairman of the campus Eisenhower movement Jack Casanave, Warren said, "Give my regards to Gene Filipski and the rest of the Villanova team and tell them I hope they finish the season undefeated."

Nearly 30 Villanova men attended the Rally, featured by Warren's Ike-endorsing and the appearance of one of Warren's daughters, Virginia.

Warren was introduced by University of Pennsylvania President Harold E. Stassen.

SPORTS CHATTER

Some Friends, Anyway!

By Harry Anger

In an article written in the New York World Telegram and Sun a few days ago, Bill Wallace spoke of the haunting whisper of "Bowl Bid" for Holy Cross and the Wildcats of Villanova. Mr. Wallace said he believed that both Catholic independents might well go through the season without losing a game. If this were to hold through, certainly both would be more than willing to appear in a post season contest on January 1.

After reading the article, this writer and the other members of the sports department were struck with the idea that a Holy Cross-Villanova game would be a natural. The contest would not only decide supremacy in the east but also would rank the winner as one of the leading Catholic teams of the country.

A Natural Attraction

The game could be played in Yankee Stadium early in December because both teams end their schedules a few weeks earlier around Thanksgiving. The Crusader-Wildcat battle would most certainly draw many fans because the neutral spot in New York is close enough to both Worcester and Philadelphia and then there is the further fact that New York fans are starved for a big-time football game. This coupled with the note that the game could be played for Catholic Charities would make the thought of the get-together more attractive.

The subway alumni in New York have been dying to get a look at the caliber of football the Cross and Villanova could bring into Gotham. The faithful, if they might be called that, have been waiting for the past few years for the games like the ones they remember when Notre Dame and Southern Cal, Army and Michigan all played at the Stadium. The Mainliners and the Crusaders on the football field would certainly fulfill their fondest hopes.

Raimo Talks

In our last column, we made a number of gripes about the poor attention the Wildcat had been getting from the press of the nation. Within the past week the sports department of the fourth estate in the New York Metropolitan area has caused us to remove the chip from our shoulder. The prime move in this "Be Friendly to Wildcats" campaign was in all probability coach Art Raimo's talk to the football writer's of New York. No sooner had Art finished than Willard Mullin the eminent sports cartoonist called little Mr. Wildcat up to New York to meet some of the other powers of the grid world and also to pose for a group picture with them.

One Small Bone

We still have one small bone to pick, however, with the sports journalists; these gentlemen are inclined to believe the Mainliners have finished the tough part of the schedule and now can simply sit back and coast through the remaining three games. This, of course, is a point which members the football team will tell you outright most certainly is not true. Friday's nights encounter with the Marines at Parris Island could easily be the lethal blow that would drop the Villanovans from their lofty perch. On the following week, their journey down to the Great Southwest might also prove disastrous for Tulsa, though little known in the East is a power-house. And to a man the Blue and White fully realize it. Agganis and all his gang will be paying a visit on the 22nd of November and that will wind up the tough part of the schedule for Villanova, as soon as the final gun sounds.

Marcus Honored

John Marcus, the senior end from Pittsburgh, who has been such a pleasant surprise for Villanova this year, last week was named as one of the linemen of the week by U.P. To the casual observer reading the daily newspaper this may not have seemed to be much but to anyone who has followed Villanova closely in the past few campaigns, the name Marcus had always been an obscure one which just found its way into the program and also gave number 88 some meaning. Big John's been more than just a jersey number this year . . . he's been superb. His sensational catch at Clemson and some inspired defensive play against Wake Forrest are just a part of his achievements. When you look back over the records, of course, you couldn't omit the arc-light contest with the Eagles of B.C. a few Friday's ago in which John hauled down one of Bill Brannau's heaves for his second TD of the year. This sudden jump into the limelight by Marcus typifies the spirit and drive that has made the Villanova season a success so far.

"Award" To Ward

To Gene Ward of the New York Daily News goes the first presentation of the "I Like Wildcats" award. The reason for this honor being extended is Gene's excellent article showering all kinds of journalistic cat-nip at the feet of our old pal—the Wildcat. Mr. Ward called Villanova "the East's best and most overlooked football team." We wholeheartedly agree with him. Gene wrote some awfully nice things last year, too about Ben Addiego and his team mates after the Army game so once again . . . . thanks Gene! We only hope that we will live up to the high praise you have given us.

against the Cats all year. One series of downs later the Musketeers suddenly put themselves back in the ballgame with a 40 yard scoring aerial. The extra point missed, however, and when Xavier got the ball for one last try, Joe McNicholas capped a fabulous afternoon by intercepting and running 40 yards to another Wildcat score.

State, will all be back for home and home encounters. Villanova also travels southward again to New Orleans, attempting for the fifth time to win the annual Sugar Bowl tournament. The competing quintets this year will be Saint Bonaventure, St. Louis and Louisiana State University besides the Severancemen.

the All-America Conference, with the Chicago Rockets and the Baltimore Colts. Brandenburg, his understudy is a graduate of Ole' Miss and he makes his home in Memphis, Tenn.

It was these two fellows who took over the situation quite well against Jacksonville and the Indiantown Gap team and brought PI home to victory.

Statistically the Leathernecks run just about the same as the Mainliners, but their yardage has piled up against a much poorer class of opposition than that the Blue and White has had to face.

The Marines may not go home with a victory under their belt, but they certainly will let their presence be known.

pectations as they displayed an abundance of power.

The loss of the Kittens can be explained, perhaps, by inexperience. This is merely a rebuilding year after a long layoff, and it will take a while to mold a smooth, efficient unit. The fact that this was only the second contest of the season must also be considered.

Play Cornell Sat.

The Kittens wiser from their experience away from home hope to take advantage of their knowledge and are looking forward to once more leaving home and facing the more familiar "T" formation of Cornell. Nov. 1 is still a good ways off and who can tell what these mischevious Kittens can do in a week.

Elliott's Harriers Topple Pirates Of Seton Hall, 7-38

Highlighted by a fourway tie for first place, the Villanova cross country team defeated the Pirates of Seton Hall 7-38, at South Orange.

With Jerry Utter, Bill Rock, John Joe Barry and Fred Dwyer all tieing for the winner's spot, the Wildcat's scoring was rounded out with Bart Moynahan's seventh place. The winners time for the five mile course was 28:07 and Moynahan's was 28:55. Only the Pirates Nelbach and Trouve kept the Cats from making a perfect sweep of the first five places. Nelback was timed in 28:15 and Trouve in 28:55.

This victory was the second against a single setback. The Main liners hold decisions over Navy and Seton Hall and were beaten by Army.

Troopers Tops In I. M. Comeptition With 3 Victories

By John Gillman

The races in both I-M football leagues are beginning to show signs of shaping up after three weeks of competition. In the case of the majority of the teams it seems to be that if they lost their first they kept loosing. There are now five undefeated teams, Good Counsel, Delury and Fedigan in the Mendel league and the Austin Troopers and the Froshes in the Austin league. The Troopers lead both leagues with three victories.

Troopers Take No. 3

The third of the Troopers wins came last week when Jack Mulcahy, Jack Carilla, J. D. Tomlin and Joe Canavan got a T. D. apiece to wallop the Barracks Boozers 28-0. The Alumni Alkies won their second and lost their first during the same period; the split causing them to drop to fourth place in the Mendel league. In their first game they topped the O'Dwyer Clowns 13-0 on a 70 yard run by Bill McDuffee and Dick Kean's scoring runback of an intercepted pass. They had a pass interference in the end zone to thank for their loss. Beggy scored on the next play to give the verdict to the Delury Devils by a 7-0 count.

Good Counsel Victor

Good Counsel which won in a walkaway in its first game was held to a single T.D. by the Alumni Characters but the 7-0 score was enough to give them their second straight win and the Characters their third straight loss. A pass from Bob Schaefer to Jack Devine was the game winning play. Also last week the Junior Stars won their first by topping the Barracks Nightriders 13-6.

Dr. Machemer's Paper Is Featured In Electrochemical Society Journal

The Villanova Chemical Department announced today that a paper by Dr. Paul E. Machemer of the Department appeared in the July, 1952 issue of the Journal of the Electrochemical Society.

The paper was entitled "A Potentiometric Study of the Interaction of Zinc Ions with Sodium Silicates." The paper is based on a portion of the dissertation Dr. Machemer presented to the faculty of the Graduate School of the University of Pennsylvania in partial fulfillment of the requirements for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

One of the chief uses of sodium silicates in industry is for the inhibition of corrosion in water systems. Sodium silicate causes a thin protective film to form on the surface of galvanized and yellow brass pipes. Experiments indicated that the film was the result of an interaction between the sodium silicate and zinc ions (the first product of zinc corrosion). Dr. Machemer's paper is a report on his studies as to the nature of that interaction.

Mystery-Comedy Opens Next Week In 3-Night Stand

"Rope", the blood chilling mystery, by Patrick Hamilton will be presented by Belle Masque at the Villanova field house on November 6, 7, 8. The curtain will rise promptly at 8 P. M. each night. Tickets for students and their dates are only $.85. General admission tickets are $1.00. They may be purchased from any member of Belle Masque or at the Pie Shop.

Mr. Hamilton, one of the outstanding contemporary British playwrights, made his name famous with "Gaslight", which has become a film classic. "Rope", which was also written in the same style for the legitimate theater, was transferred to celluloid with equal success. In "Rope", Mr. Hamilton has created a balance between hair-raising horror and side-splitting humor to make one of the most outstanding dramas of the past few decades.

MEMBERS OF BELLE MASQUE put the finishing touches to rehearsal of "Rope" which hits the Field House boards on Nov. 6-8 as the group's fall presentation.

Brandon, the suave, sanguine, strangler is played by John Fitzgerald. Bernie Coyne is his cowardly, drunken helper. The part of Rupert, the cold, cynical, intellectual, who is suspicious of the cocktail party given around a long chest, is taken by Tom Hayden. Addle-brained, pseudo-sophisticated society, characterized by Eileen O'Brien and Dave Leahy add the touch of humor. The father of the corpse is invited to add spice to the evening. This harmless, proud, old man is portrayed by Tony Della Rocca. Jean Ward plays the Aunt of the corpse. The tactful butler, Sabot, is Joe Territo.

The stage crew will have the last minute details on the set completed at least a week before opening night.

THESE HANDS ARE PRICELESS!

They protect the American way of life . . . our homes, our freedoms, our future.

These Hands, sensitively trained to respond acutely to the commands of an alert mind and courageous heart, are the hands of a United States Air Force Pilot.

The skillful touch of these hands attunes the blasting speed of modern jet aircraft to effective missions in discouraging any enemy. These hands are supremely capable of flying and fighting these machines with devastating effect.

These Hands belong to young, spirited American men (not supermen) who desire to live unmolested in a free America . . . who want to enjoy the same rights and opportunities open to all real American people.

These Hands belong to our sons—yours and mine. Youths who must decide today how they can share in defense of our nation and also better themselves. To insure greater chances of their success, today's college men should be encouraged to complete their education and then serve their country best by enlisting as Aviation Cadets in the U. S. Air Force.

Theirs is the choice of becoming either a Pilot or Aircraft Observer. After graduation as Second Lieutenants in the U. S. Air Force, they wear the silver wings of flying executives and begin earning nearly $5300 a year.

These Hands represent a man ready to qualify for this tremendous task because he is between the ages of 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in excellent physical condition, especially eyes, ears, heart and teeth. He possesses at least two years of college and the inherent urge to fly.

These Hands shape the destiny of America . . . the difference between our survival and oblivion.

The U. S. Air Force needs the hands, the minds and the hearts of young Americans who desire to make the American way a greater way of peace and happiness for all.

Fr. Calpin Traces Growth of Unions For IRC Audience

This year the Industrial Relations Committee promises to be better than ever. The I.R.C. had its first meeting in room 205 C&F.

The purpose of I.R.C. is to acquaint the student with the problems of Labor, Management and Unions and their interelations. Qualified men in the particular fields of labor, management and unions will speak to a combined audience of students from Rosemont and Villanova upon a subject they are familiar with. After the informative speech is given, the speakers will be open to questions from the floor.

Last week, Fr. Calpin addressed an audience of students from Rosemont and Villanova, tracing the growth of unions to their present status.

Professor Walter Klein announced this week that at the next meeting on Nov. 5 Mr. Dougherty, finance instructor, will speak about, "Wages and Living Conditions Before and After the Unions."

Bob Gerstung, President, and Frank Cunning, Vice-President, announced that an invitation had again been extended to Rosemont College to attend this meeting on Nov. 5 at 7:30 p. m. in C&F.

tons, ribbons, banners, everything, hanging from their suits. Yet these same men would be highly insulted if some fish market asked them to carry a sign advertising the business. These are the men that will form the ideas of tomorrow and how sad it is to see that someone has already formed their ideas for them. One of the reasons you come to school is to learn; a student should be most reserved in his opinions. Nothing signifies a man more childish than after stating fact after fact, he can't prove a one. Remember, if you're always talking, a lot goes out but nothing can get in.

Absorb

At Villanova they teach you to think. These political speeches should be absorbed by you, then weighed, and finally they should influence you one way or the other. Then on election day, after all the speeches have been spoken, and after you know all there is to know about the candidates, then, and only then, should you definitely commit yourself, and that should be all alone in the ballot booth.

Council Group Announces Progress Toward Return of Connelly Award

Revival of the Connelly Award, proposed recently by the Student Council, is one step closer to reality today as the Council committee in charge of planning the traditional affair announced its initial progress.

Charlie Russell, chairman of the committee, reported that the group has decided upon its choice of three faculty members who will be requested to serve as judges. The names of these men will be announced in a later issue of the "Villanovan."

To carry out the "Beat Boston U." theme of the hall-decorating competition which is the basis of the award, the committee is contacting the prefects of each floor and the prefects will be asked to appoint one man from his floor to serve as Decoration Chairman. The chairman from each hall, said Russell, will be in charge of financing the project by collecting a dime from residents of the respective dormitories. In addition, the chairmen will organize and supervise decoration of the halls to meet the Nov. 20 deadline.

Rich Tradition

Russell also disclosed that Jack Redmond, Sports Editor of the Belle Air, college yearbook, is compiling a history of the Connelly Award, a Villanova institution dating back to 1937. The story will be featured in the next issue of the "Villanovan."

Assisting Russell on the Council committee are Juniors Joe Kenney and Art Quinn, and Sophomore Frank Licopoli. Russell asserted that work is cut out for his group since they must formulate rules and regulations to govern the pre-Senior Weekend competition, publicize and direct the affair.

Russell urged all Villanovans to support the revived contest, to begin thinking of ideas for decorating their halls, and to participate in the actual work.

Fifth Annual Lecture Series To Begin Early In December

The fifth annual Villanova Forum will present its first lecture of the 1952-53 series in early December. Forum Chairman, Charles P. Bruderle, announced that the speakers for this year's series of programs have not yet been selected, but it is anticipated that they will continue to be of excellent quality.

Wide Variety

Last year's Forum included such headliners as ex-communist Elizabeth Bentley and Father Daniel Lord of "Queen's Work" fame. Topics of current interest are discussed, those of last year ranging from a stirring lecture on atomic bombing to an intense indictment of anti-capitalism. This variety of lecturers and topics has made the Forum programs popular and well-attended.

Lively Discussions

Usually the audience is allowed to pose questions to the speaker at the lecture's end. Lively and enlightening discussions have highlighted previous presentations. Chairman Bruderle has stressed that Villanova students are provided a valuable opportunity to see and hear those who make the new they read.

Initations Next Week For New DPE Pledges

Bob Gerstung, initiation head of the Delta Pi Epsilon fraternity, announced at a pledge meeting last Thursday night that the pledge initiation activities would not begin until Monday, Nov. 3.

Gerstung will introduce nearly 30 hopefuls to the regular members of the organization at their meeting tomorrow night. The uniform for the pledges during initiation will be spats, canes, and straw hats.

DPE president, Lou Goeringer, promises to show the campus one of the liveliest and most colorful weeks of the semester.

NOSE, THROAT,

and Accessory Organs not Adversely Affected by Smoking Chesterfields

FIRST SUCH REPORT EVER PUBLISHED ABOUT ANY CIGARETTE

A responsible consulting organization has reported the results of a continuing study by a competent medical specialist and his staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfield cigarettes.

A group of people from various walks of life was organized to smoke only Chesterfields. For six months this group of men and women smoked their normal amount of Chesterfields—10 to 40 a day. 45% of the group have smoked Chesterfields continually from one to thirty years for an average of 10 years each.

At the beginning and at the end of the six-months period each smoker was given a thorough examination, including X-ray pictures, by the medical specialist and his assistants. The examination covered the sinuses as well as the nose, ears and throat.

The medical specialist, after a thorough examination of every member of the group, stated: "It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."

STEVENSON TOPS IN POLL; BUT IKE IS PICKED TO WIN

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower

Results of the "Villanovan's" traditional Presidential Poll indicate that the students of Villanova College favor Governor Adlai E. Stevenson as their choice for President of the United States.

However, the students temper the expression of their choice for the presidency, with a prediction that Gen. Dwight Eisenhower will probably be victorious in today's election.

¼ Polled

527 students, better than one of every four students, were covered in the sampling, conducted in spot-checked Religion classes. A greater proportion of the Senior Class was covered, as the members of that class comprise the

Villanovan Choices Have Victory Habit, Past Polls Indicate

In about eighteen hours the next President of the United States will be Gov. Adlai Ewing Stevenson of Illinois. That is, if the "Villanovan" poll is any criterion. And criterion it has been on three of its four attempt.

Gov. Stevenson is the man that the student body preferred. His opponent is the person the students thought would win. Past polls run by this paper have been held on the basis of preference and Masque's Rendition of Rope Opens On Campus Thurs.

"Rope," the long-awaited fall production of the Belle Masque Society, will be presented Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights of this week in the Field House. Curtain time for the smash Broadway hit will be 8: P. M.

Tickets for the mystery thriller may be purchased in the Pie Shop, from any Belle Masque member, or at the door on the show nights. Student tickets are $.85; general admission $1.00.

Brilliant comedy and suspense mark every moment of Patrick Hamilton's masterpiece. The scene is set at a cocktail party in a modern London apartment. Unknown to most of the guests, they have a corpse among them, hidden in a disguised trunk in the center of the room.

Fitzgerald in Lead

John Fitzgerald plays the lead as the merciless strangler, Brandon. Bernie Coyne is his drunken, frightened, colleague in crime. Rupert, the sly and suspicious sleuth is played by Tom Hayden. A note of comedy is added to the party by Eileen O'Brien and Dave Leahy as Liela and Kenneth, two sophisticated socialites. The corpse's father, portrayed by Tony Della Rocca, is a proud, harmless old man who adds spice to the affair. The Aunt of the corpse is Jean Ward and Joe Territo is the tactful butler.

"Rope", an outstanding success both on the legitimate stage and as a movie, has been cited as one of the finest dramas of our time. Previous to writing this classic, Hamilton won great recognition as the author of "Gaslight", another Broadway hit.

Fr. William Krupa, moderator of the society, is well pleased with the fine job which the various committees have done. The stage crew, led by Maury Murphy, completed its big job two weeks ago. Bill Murphy is handling the publicity. The programs are being designed by Jim Currie and Joe McGarrigle is in charge of the ticket committee.

JUNIORS MEET

There will be a meeting of the Junior Class tonight at 7:15 in the C&F Auditorium. Rings and the Junior Prom band will be the topics of discussion.

Football Movies To Be Shown Wednesday By St. John Fund

The St. John's Orphanage Fund, in a move to gain added funds for the annual orphan's party and outing plan to present movies of this year's Villanova football team, it was disclosed last week by co-chairmen Gene Filipski and Frank Saul.

The movies will be shown tomorrow night at 7:15 in the Commerce and Finance Auditorium. The admission price is only a dime with all the proceeds going to the St. John's Orphanage Fund.

The game that will be seen is the 1952 Boston College game played at Braves Field and which the Wildcats won, 28-7. These movies are the same ones that are sent to the opposing teams as a means of scouting their future rivals.

The co-chairmen also announced that the yearly collections in the classrooms and local stores will begin in about a week. Everyone is asked to donate $.75 to the students for the outing into fund. The drive to recruit Philadelphia on the thirteenth of December will begin the week before Thanksgiving. The collections are under the direction of Jim Boyle and the recruiting is headed by Joe Kenney.

In other Junior Class news a meeting is scheduled tonight in the Commerce and Finance Auditorium at 7:15.

The Reason

We have received many queries in the past three weeks asking why the "Villanovan" has not come out in favor of one of the candidates in the Presidential election.

There are two reasons for this. First: the editorial policy of the "Villanovan" is determined solely by the editor and not by an editorial board as is in evidence at some colleges. Therefore we did not consider it right for one man to form the policy on such a controversial subject, especially in light of the fact that the rest of the editors and staff are about evenly split on the subject.

Secondly, there is a strong tendency in most quarters to accept the views of the college paper on such a subject as the endorsement of the entire school. And, unlike the "intellectuals" of Columbia, the faculty and administration of Villanova have not seenit to be their part to endorse either candidate. This is only as it should be, especially in a Catholic institution where the views of a few are taken to reflect to views of the Church by those who find it expedient to do so.

The most practical thing to do, in our opinion, was to take a poll of the campus whereby the opinion of a good cross-section of the student body could be expressed, rather then a few voicing the opinion of the many.

Band Wagon

The campaign cries, mud-slinging, oratorical eloquence, and all the other assorted vote getters have passed into comparative oblivion now, and within a few hours another man will be preparing himself to step into the post of chief executive.

But this was one campaign where the promises and issues which went together to make up the two major parties' platforms will not allow themselves to be relegated to the usual post-election background with a mere shrug of the presidential shoulders.

The issues, and there has been a surplus of them, are such that they must be faced squarely and intelligently and with great haste for the next four years must, of a necessity, be the years of momentous decisions.

As far as we as individuals go, there's not too much we can do once we've cast our ballot. Os is there?

Possibly the reason that world and domestic affairs are in the state that they are is due to the fact that the one Intelligent Being has not been called on to lend a hand in the decisions that have moulded the present situation.

There wasn't one prayer said when the League of Nations met. It failed. The United Nations have also banned God. That organization leaves much to be desired, too.

There is generally a slacking off in morals after a war, probably as a reaction to the great turning to religion that occurs during the conflict.

It's about high time we climb back aboard the band wagon of prayer. It still has the same Driver as it did in '45, and He still knows the road.

The Villanova Forum Prepares 5th Series

By Jim Glavin

This article is based on an interview with Mr. Charles P. Bruderle, Chairman of the Villanova Forum. Mr. Bruderle was interviewed on the history of the forum, and its plans for the current year as follows:

Q: When did the Villanova Forum originate?

A: Our first forum series was in the Spring of 1949. We had our second series in the following year, 1949-50. We have had a series each succeeding year.

December Opening

Q: When will this year's forum series get underway?

MR. BRUDERLE

A: Our first lecture will probably come in December. Then, the series will continue after the Christmas Holidays and Semester Examinations, the second lecture probably coming in February. We hope to have three or four other lectures as well.

Q: Will there be a theme for the 1952-53 Forum Series, as there was for several of the past series?

A: No. We do not expect to have a general theme this year. . . . . .

Purpose

Q: What is the general purpose of the Villanova Forum?

A: Both Father McGuire (the president of the College) and I feel than any institution such as Villanova has a responsibility to the surrounding community to take part in its community life, as well as to its students. Thus the forum is not solely for our students, but for the local area as well.

We feel that by obtaining outstanding Catholic speakers, we are in some way able to give a Catholic answer to modern problems, just as Catholic magazines do in another way.

"Highpoint"

Q: Is there any one lecture or occasion you can call the "highpoint" of the forum so far?

A: Probably the address by Jacques Maritain, the philosopher, in the spring of 1950 could be called our highpoint. Certainly it was received by our largest audience, an overflow one.

We also drew a large audience last year when our featured speaker was Miss Elizabeth Bentley, the former Communist.

Top Speakers

Q: Who have been some of your other outstanding speakers?

A: Some of them have been Frank Sheed, the publisher; Rev. John Courtney Murray, S. J.; Fathers McCarthy and McFadden, of our own faculty; Brendan Brown, the dean of the Catholic University Law School. Incidentaly, Mr. Brown's speech was printed in "Vital Speeches," shortly after he addressed us, and the publication noted that the speech had been delivered at the Villanova Forum.

Father Hubert Schiffer, S. J., who spoke on "Hiroshima" at the forum last year, was another of our speakers.

Other Colleges Attend

Q: Has there been interest in the forum outside of the student body?

A: Yes. Particularly, I've noticed that the forum is, in its more recent series, attracting students from our neighboring colleges, such as Rosemont, Bryn Mawr, Haverford, etc.

Q: How did you first get the idea of a "Villanova Forum?"

A: It wasn't completely my own idea. Several members of the faculty and I had discussed the idea. I went to Father McGuire with my plan, and he endorsed it wholeheartedly. That was in the Fall of 1948. The following spring we began our first forum series.

Q: Then, we can expect the first of this year's series in December. Have you any speaker in mind for the first lecture?

A: I have several speakers in mind for this year's series, but of course I can't reveal their identities until their appearances at the forum are arranged.

What Is It?

Mystery Is Haunting Villanova's Campus; Ace Pollster Questions Typical Students

By Tony Galati

A mystery is haunting our campus!

For several weeks now, men and machines have been working furiously in that area behind the temporary building affectionately known as the pie shop. What will be erected on that plot of ground? This is the mystery which defies solution.

In order to obtain various opinions concerning possible solutions to this stupefying enigma, a poll has been taken.

Dr. Foulup

Since poll-taking is a task which demands extraordinary talent, it was decided that students are not qualified to do the job. Therefore, an expert in the field was imported. He is none other than Dr. George Foulup, A.B., M.A.D., LSMFT, president of Cosmic Institute of Moronic Personal Opinion.

In his own unique manner, the eminent Dr. Foulup proceeded to interview various students.

"Izzy"?

The first to be questioned was Izidore Shookup, an engineering student. Izzy (as he is called by his friends) after consulting his deci log log semi triplex slide rule. decided that a new laboratory would be built on the site in question. Here experiments would be conducted whereby radio inactive isodopes would be bombarded with schmootrons traveling at a speed of 33 1/3 r.p.m. As a result of the resulting chain reaction, there occurs a cauliflower-like explosion that sounds exactly like a burp uunder 1 1/2 feet of water s.t.p.

Dr. Foulup, after spending a few days in the infirmary recovering from a mild attack of the twitch, continued his opinion poll by interviewing a liberal arts student.

Philosophy Man

Cadwallader A. Dekacards IV, a student of philosophy, submitted a very profound, logical solution to the campus mystery. After considering sillygisms, he arrived at the 54 junctive and disjunctive conclusion that this would be an excellent location for a aquarium. In this aquarium there could be bred many new and never before heard of mystery fish which would serve to make Friday diets more variable.

Road Game

One of the most practical solution to the mystery was ocuered by our grand old man of football, Amos Alunger Staggers. Mr. Staggers, who has been with the school for nigh onto 87 years, thinks that since there is a strong possibility that the "Wandering Wildcats" will be playing Saturn at Saturn next year a rocket-launching device should be built.

The campus Don Juan, Gregory Makeoutmann, revealed to Dr. Foulup what seems to be the best idea yet. He suggested that an observatory be erected from which he could keep a look out on all the eligible maidens at the neighboring girls' schools.

"Luigi"

The final interview was with a man who should know what's going on. He is the job foreman, Luigi. When asked what he thought would be built behind the pie shop, Mr. Luigi shook his head and replied, "I'ma no gonna say."

Twenty-Four Hours Holds The Answer To The Voting Phenomena Of A Nation

By Alec Pandaleon

Within twenty-four hours the American public will have its own answer to one of the most perplexing elections in the nation's history. Right down to the final campaign speeches, Democrats and Republicans alike have stressed confidence in victory, while inwardly doubting as to the actual outcome. Not even the political forecasters seem to be certain of this year's contest. In a large measure this condition has resulted from the numerous imponderables involved.

The farm vote in the Midwest is one example. Both Stevenson and Eisenhower have travelled extensively through the Corn Belt in quest of support. Yet even now the final trend in that area remains obscured. After listening intently to both candidates, the farmers returned to their homes and have been weighing the pros and cons.

The position of the South furnishes another important unknown in the election. How, for instance, will Governor Shivers' defection influence the electorate in Texas? Will Louisiana, Florida, or Virginia fall into the Republican column? Has the large turnout of people to hear Eisenhower really indicated a return to the two party system in the South? These are just a few of the questions to be answered in the land of cotton.

In 1948, California and New York finished in the Democratic and Republican camps, respectively, by very slim margins. Thus one of the crucial issues to be decided today concerns the outcome of the voting in each of these pivotal states. If either candidate re-greatest percentage of students eligible to vote today.

Stevenson Students' Choice ...But Ike Victory Predicted

The samplings were taken by the Feature Staff of the paper. The last ballots were collected one week ago today.

Accuracy

The foresight of a "Villanovan" poll was indicated four years ago, in 1948, when the students, in this paper's poll, expressed Harry S. Truman as their choice for president, despite the multitude of national polls that gave the President no chance.

As to a prediction of a winner in today's nationwide voting, the results read: Eisenhower 53.9%, Stevenson 46.1%

Statistics On Presidential Poll

Following are the completed tabulations and statistics on the "Villanovan's" Presidential Poll, conducted by the paper's Feature Staff:

1) Total Ballots in poll.....527 (about 1 in 4 student)
2) Question: "Whom will you (or would you) vote for?"

	votes	percent
Stevenson	338	64.0%
Eisenhower	167	31.8%
Others, undecided	22	4.2%

3) Question: "Who do you think will be the next president?"

	votes	percent
Eisenhower	284	53.9%
Stevenson	243	46.1%

On the question of their personal preference for the presidency, the students reacted this way: Stevenson 64.0%, Eisenhower 31.8%, Others or Undecided 4.2%.

338 For Adlai

In numbers, of the 527 students polled, 338 named Governor Stevenson as their choice, 167 named Eisenhower, and 22 named others or were undecided.

As for probable results and winner, 284 predicted an Eisenhower victory, and 248 forecast a Stevenson election triumph.

"Splits"

Particularly noticeable in the computing of the results, was the large number of ballots that named Governor Stevenson as the student's choice, but predicted the election of General Eisenhower. The "choice: Stevenson, winner: Eisenhower" ballots predominated in the poll. The straight "Eisenhower-Eisenhower" and "Stevenson-Stevenson" ballots were next in number, with the "choice: Eisenhower, winner: Stevenson" ballots at a minimum.

The wording of the two questions used in the samplings were:

1) Who do you think will be the next president?

2) Whom will you (or would you) vote for?

Slightly more than 527 ballots were collected, but several were discarded as the students who turned in these ballots had replied irrelevantly, probably in what they thought was a "humorous" fashion.

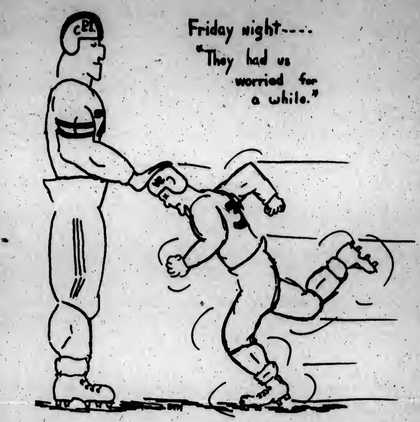
Others

Scattered votes for Senator Taft, General MacArthur, and others are included in the results as the "Others and Undecided."

The Wall

By Jack Kistner

Yesterday, the "Wall-gazer" dropped into the "Pie Shop" dressed to kill. As a matter of fact, that's just what he was going to do. With the hunting season underway, he and a few friends from college were getting a hunting expedition underway.



It always strikes me funny to see the size of the shotgun these men use to hunt small game. Today, instead of firing one bullet to hit a rabbit, we have shotguns that cover a wide area. When you have six hunters covering an assigned area, nothing can possibly pass through that danger zone and live. The rabbits that unfortunately trespass take on about twenty-five pounds of lead. Along with the bigger and more powerful shotgun comes the telescopic sights. Now, a fellow doesn't have to get off his front

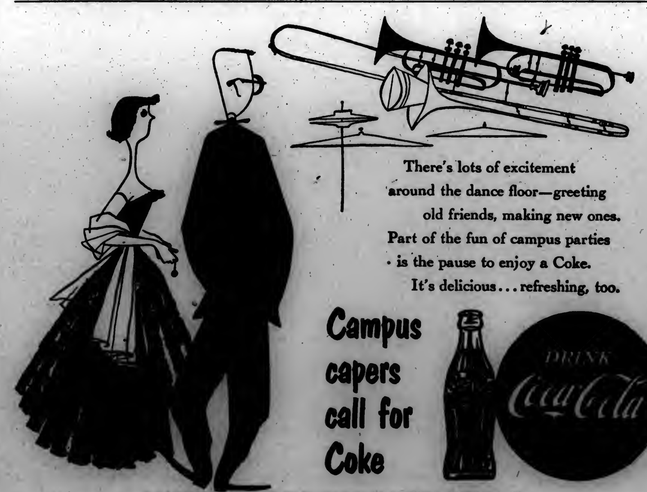
STUDENTS AT RALLY

Convention Hall was the focal point of Philadelphia last Wednesday evening as Governor Stevenson delivered a major speech before a capacity audience. Addressing an enthusiastic crowd of some 18,000 people, the Democratic nominee reiterated his belief in the future welfare of the nation and stressed the point that there is no easy solution to the current international problems.



From the placards scattered throughout the hall, it was evident that most of the local colleges and universities were well represented. In fact, these groups did more than their share to keep the jubiliant spirit in the air until the arrival of Mr. Stevenson. Villanova students present indicated a keen interest in the contest when the number that attended is considered.

Insurance Test Next Week

Seniors Urged To Apply Now For Placement Service Aid

The Villanova College Placement Service has made the necessary arrangements to have the Insurance Aptitude Index administered to senior class members again this year. Each senior who avails himself of this opportunity will be notified of the grade he attains, and his possibility of being successful in the field of selling intangibles.

Every year, a representative of a major insurance company is asked to administer the test on our campus. This year, Mr. John T. Flanagan Jr., manager of the Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance Co. has kindly accepted the invitation.

The test will be given on Thursday, November 13th. Any senior desirous of registering for this test must submit his name to the Placement Office before Friday, November 7th.

Placement Services Offered

One of the main services offered by the Villanova College Placement Service is to assist seniors in securing permanent positions upon graduation. To accomplish this end, the Placement Office has made the following arrangements.

1.) The Placement Office keeps a company information file on all major companies for student use. Any students seeking information on any company is encouraged to consult this file in the Placement Office. The company information sheet offers in capsule form information about a particular company such as location, number of employees, products, POSITIONS AVAILABLE, methods of training, earnings, and other pertinent data.

.2) The Placement Office maintains a counselling service to aid students who have vocational or employment problems. By contacting the secretary, an appointment may be scheduled for a conference with the Placement Director.

Company Interviews

The Placement Service has made an arrangement whereby each senior will receive without charge the yearly publication CAREER, which is an annual guide to positions available for college graduates.

4) The Placement Service arranges to have companies visit the campus for the purpose of interviewing seniors for positions. Company interviews will be held on campus from February 9th through the month of May. Over one hundred companies will conduct interviews on the campus this year.

Only seniors who register with the placement service by picking up the necessary forms BEFORE NOVEMBER 15th and returning the completed forms BY DECEMBER 1st will be eligible for these interviews.

Register Now

All seniors are eligible to register with the Placement Service. There is no fee of any kind for registering. Registration consists of: 1) Completing two placement application forms and attaching a 2½" x 3" photo to each. 2) Listing with the Placement Service the names of three faculty members who may be contacted for a letter of reference, making sure to ASK THAT FACULTY MEMBERS' PERMISSION. 3) Listing with the Placement Office the names of three companies.

N. Y. Alumni Dance At Statler, Nov. 28

The Statler Roof of the Hotel Statler at Seventh Avenue and 33rd St. in New York City will be the scene of the annual Thanksgiving Dance on Friday evening, November 28.

Sponsored by the Villanova Club of New York, alumni organization of the metropolitan area, the dance is planned for the enjoyment of both student and alumni.

Pre-Law Students Required To Take 2nd Yr. Accounting

It has been announced that Pre-Law students in the Commerce and Finance School will be required to include in their studies a second year of accounting. This matter has been under consideration for some time between the school advisers and the faculty.

Messrs. Henry, LaBrasca and DiOrio of the Business Law Department strongly urge all pre-law students to include such courses. The advantages are the developing of a profession along with a broader and more comprehensive understanding of business transactions and a fuller knowledge of taxes and taxation.

ceives the electoral votes of both, he will have gone a long way toward clinching victory.

Seldom in past campaigns has the independent voter been so faithfully courted. Both parties are acutely aware of the importance of gaining his backing. In the past few weeks particularly, there seems to have been a definite swing by the members of this group in the direction of Stevenson. Just how influential the swing will be in relations to the fortunes of the nominees is a problem being settled all over the nation at this very moment.

The closing battle between the two candidates has certainly had its full quota of slogans and catch-all phrases. We have been reminded of "communism, corruption, and Korea" as well as warned against the "domination of the Old Guard" reactionaries. The question of how deep an impression these quips have

Election to Mark Marketing Club's Initial Meeting

The Villanova Chapter of the American Marketing Association will hold its first meeting of the year tomorrow at 2:30 p. m., in the C&F Auditorium.

The main business of the meeting will be the installation of officers for the present scholastic year. A president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer are to be elected along with members of the field trip and meeting committees.

This meeting will mark the beginning of the Marketing Club's third year of activity on the campus. Last year under the capable guidance of moderator, Hugh W. Johnson, III, and club president, Bert Sellier the organization saw a very successful year.

Mr. Johnson urges all interested Marketing majors to attend.

Blue And White On Road Again

Mainliners Battle To Second Half Tie with Marines

A brilliant second half recovery by Villanova's unbeaten football team enabled them to gain a 20-20 tie with the Marines of Parris Island Friday night. Capt. Bob Haner scored all the points of the evening for the Mainliners, while the fine play of Sam Vacanti, the PI quarterback, sparked the play of the visitors through the entire game.

Vacanti's pinpoint passing was sensational and his faking showed why he had seen action in the pro ranks after his college days at Purdue.

Marines Strike

The Leathernecks made Wildcat fans gringe right on the opening play of the game. Vacanti shot a sceen pass to Billy Hayes, of North Caroline and the fleet fullback scampered deep into Villanova territory. At that point the Marine attack stalled and the Cats took over on downs. Villanova started to move right back up the field, but a pass by Bill Brannau overshot its mark and Johnny Idzik intercepted for Parris Island. Vacanti then returned to action and masterminded the drive toward the goal. After Billy Mixon had hauled the leather to the 2, Sam applied the finishing touches with a short haul around the right side.

The lead increased to 14-0 in the third period when Mixon counted on a five yard buck. Vacanti coverted again and things really looked bad for the Blue and White.

Cats Score

The Wildcats took the ensuing kickoff and started a drive goalward. Filipski and Haner both turned in good runs. Gene's best in this drive was a 13 yard effort that put the ball on the PI seven yard line. It took Haner two carries to score from there and the Cats were back in the contest. The attempt for the extra point was wide and the fans groaned. The touch down seemed to be the only thing the Villanovan's needed. After that first score it seemed like a different ballgame. The Marines scored their third TD of the game on a 75 yard drive, but the conversion attempt sailed wide and low. Then the Cats really knew they "had a life" and started one of the most amazing comebacks this writer has ever seen.

Addiego Sets Up Score

The drive for the second score for Villanova gave the home fans something they have been waiting for all season. Ben Addiego, who played inspired ball, broke over tackle cut to the sidelines and danced his way down to the

Cornell 150's Win 19-12 Over Game Wild Kittens

By Dick Confoy

Villanova's Wildkittens and Cornell's Little Red clashed last Saturday afternoon in a 150 pound contest, both teams boasting records untarnished by victory. The Mainliners would not be denied however, and they rolled on to their consecutive defeat, this time by a 19-12 count.

Cornell took the opening kickoff to their own 40, but fumbled and the Kittens recovered at that point. The little fellows drove to the Cornell four and lost the ball on downs. Cornell could not move the ball and on fourth down they were forced to punt. The kick was blocked and Jim Loftus, the Co-Captain fell on the pigskin in the end zone for the first score of the game. Early in the second the Red marched 67 yards on the ground to tie up the contest at 6-6. The scoring play was a run by John Gallo.

Spencer Tallies

The Mainliners bounced back into the lead later in the second on a 45 yard drive that was capped off by Lefty Spencer's eight yard sprint to the goal line.

With just a minute left in the half, Cornell drove to the Villanova two, where a stubborn defense finally got possession of the ball. The Kittens immediately fumbled on their 4, but Net Mahato grabbed a Red fumble seconds before time ran out in the half with the Mainliners leading 12-6.

Kittens Penalized

Villanova took the field for the second half three minutes late and were slapped with a 15 yarder for delay of game. After the Kittens were forced to punt, the Red ground out 78 yards for a touchdown to knot the score again. Minutes later a Cornell sub halfback, Ed Bludan ran back a Villanova punt 70 yards for a score and a 19-12 win for the Cornell squad.

Wildcats Oppose Hurricanes In Night Game Sat. At Tulsa

By Tom Mentzer

This Saturday night, November 8th, will find Coach Raimo's powerful Wildcat eleven deep in the Southwest where they will oppose mighty Tulsa under the arclights. In no game thus far this season, have the Blue and White faced so formidable a foe. Power, speed, deception, anything, the Golden Hurricanes from T. U. possess it-and in abundance. In fact, no squad in Tulsa's football history, not even the unbeaten 1942 team of Glenn Dobbs and Company, has been so wealthy in depth and talent.

Sixteen Holdovers

Sixteen lettermen from the offensive and defensive platoons of the 1951 team, which was the nation's leader in offense, with 5,280 yards and the kingpin of the tough Missouri Valley Conference, are on this year's squad. Leading this heralded array are Ronnie Morris, director of Tulsa's explosive split-T who last year completed 54% of his heaves, of Howie Waugh, a 200 pound fullback who was third in the nation in rushing in 1951 with a total of 1,118 yards. At the halfback slots are Dick Kercher and Chuck Kelly, two fleet juniors, who can really ramble.

All American

Topping the offensive forward wall is Marvin Matuzak, a 210 pound All-American guard, who is regarded by many sportwriters as the best downfield blocker in college football today. At one of the tackles is a 6 ft. 7 inch, 235 pound giant from the University of San Francisco, Bob St. Clair. Tom Minor, another Leon Hart according to most observers, and Willie Roberts, who snatched 29 Morris aerials last season, man the wing posts.

Mammoth Jim Peuter, who acts as a one-man stopping squad, and his sidekicks, Angelo Prassa and Eddie Lack, two consistent linebackers, form the nucleus of Coach Brother's "Stop Villanova" cast.

Excellent Record

Yes, this year's Tulsa eleven is a mighty football machine capable of smashing any opponent into defeat. Its record of 4 wins, one tie, and one loss give ample proof of this statement.

"Champions" Still At Front of IM Bowling League

By Jim Briody

Villanova's Intramural Bowling League concluded its fourth week of competition a week ago yesterday. The big game of the week featured the league leading "Champions" versus the second place "Hustlers". The "Champions", due primarily to the constant rolling of the two "Stone" brothers (who, by the way, are battling it out for individual honors), found the "Hustlers" easy prey. Also noteworth was a 207 game recorded by Bill Bishop for the victors who connected for five strikes. Harry Baird and Tom Keating rolled high games for the losers in that order. Present standings, and this week's schedule are as follows:

	W	L
#6 Champions	13	3
#4 Hustlers	10	6
#2 Hoods	10	6
#3 Fireball 5	9	7
#1 Grand Old Men	8	8
#7 Latecomers	8	8
#5 Handlers	4	12

1&2	Fireball 5 vs Champs
3&4	Latecomers vs Hoods
5&6	Gr'd O. Men vs Handlers
7&8	Barracks 6 vs Hustlers

The league is now planning to hold a sweepstakes. Team captains are asked to report this week to president Tony Cardinale's office on the second floor of Good Council Hall. It is expected that prizes will be awarded to the three men with the highest total pins for three games as well as a prize for high man for a single game. Handicaps for the sweepstakes are being determined this week.

SPORTS CHATTER

Tougher Every Week

By Carl Valenti

And the pressure mounts . . . Everybody's gunning for Villanova. Each week they get tougher. And each week the Wildcat gets tougher. He has to. And by doing so he is gaining in stature and recognition.

This Year's squad is diffferent from other squads in recent years. They have the ability to come fighting back in the face of almost certain defeat, the sign of a truly championship ball club. This ability was displayed to its utmost last Friday night. Just five days after a surprisingly rigorous battle from the scrappy Musketeers of Xavier, the Mainliners took the field against the big bad Leathernecks of Parris Island. The Cats started slowly probably still aching somewhat from the Xavier contest. The Marine "Pros" seemed to sense this and took full advantage of the situation by completely dominating the play in the first half.

2nd Half Best

The halftime rest must have been just what the Wildcats needed. Coach Art Raimo's charges returned after the intermission inspired, rejuvenated, reincarnated. Perhaps it was the Halloween moon above, a few hours shy of being a full moon, that effected the transfiguration for now the Wildcats were WILD CATS.

Bob Haner and company went out and played the best 30 minutes of football they have displayed this year. Haner ran like an enraged bull. Bob Volonino was missed in the defensive line but Joe Jerry and Bob Berg filled the gap commendably. Joe Leichtweiss and Bill Hegarty were brilliant. Roy Kershaw was superb! Bill Brannau, mixing his plays well, began clicking on his passes to John Marcus and Ray Rigney. Trailing by 14 points on two occasions, the Mainliners battled back and finally managed to eke out a 20-20 tie and preserve their undefeated record.

Also notable were Ralph Cecere's magnificent display of coffin-corner punting and Ben Addiego's return to form to lead the ground-gaining offensive.

Former Villanovan at Yale

Jordan Olivar, former Villanova football player and later coach, is doing well as head coach at Yale. Olivar played here under Harry Stuhldreher and Maurice "Clipper" Smith where he captained the undefeated 1938 squad.

According to Art Raimo, Oliver has the "brightest football mind I ever knew". The former Staten Island resident, who now makes his home in California, called signals from his tackle position and was selected most valuable player in his senior year ('37).

Olivar returned to Villanova in 1943 after five years of coaching at New Jersey and Pennsylvania high schools and remained here for six seasons before moving on to Loyola of Los Angeles where he spent three campaigns. From Loyola he went to Yale as an assistant, then moved up when Herman Hickman abdicated.

Olivar Offered Job

The new Eli chieftan needed no coaxing to take over the reins at New Haven when the job was offered to him early this past August.

"It caught me absolutely cold," he said, "I think it took me little more than 30 seconds to decide." When Oliver assumed his new duties, Yale's material for this year was describe as being "indifferent." Olivar admitted that he was particularly worried about the Navy game.

"If you break even, you're holding your own," he said, "Provided you play in your own class."

So far this year, Oliver has done more than merely "hold his own". Yale started off the season by whipping Connecticut, 34-13, then lost to Navy, 31-0. Since the Navy game, however, the Elis topped their next five opponents, holding three scoreless. They've beaten Brown, 28-0, Columbia, 35-28, Cornell, 13-0, Lafayette, 47-0, and Dartmouth, 21-7. They stand a good chance of taking first place in the Ivy League, provided they can get by Princeton on the 15th of this month.

So Coach Jordan Olivar is already assured of a winning team in his first year at Yale and we hope he has plenty more. We wish him all the luck in the world.

Award to Dell

This Week's recipient of the "I Like Wildcats" award is John Dell of the Philadelphia Inquirer. Mr. Dell has written many fine articles about Villanova, the finest being last Saturday's writeup of the Parris Island game. John is a true friend of Willy Wildcat.

And who will next week's winner be?

Mainliners Battle

four yard line. The run was just too sensational for words and certainly gave Wildcat fans something to cheer about. On third down with the ball resting on the one Brannau sent Haner over the middle and the big boy scored his second touchdown.

Tomko Intercepts

The big push for the tie was started when Paul Tomko, the safety man intercepted a Vacanti pass on the Villanova 27 yard line. Brannau took to the air and hit Ray Rigney for a couple of nice gains. The Cats moved into Marine territory and Brannau made it a first down on the 41. On the very next play Haner broke over the left side cut to the right and headed for the corner of the end zone. Bobby added the 20th point and the Blue and White had made it a brand new ball game.

In the play that followed the Cats did their best to keep the ever-dangerous Leathernecks in their own backyard. There was no doubt in any one's mind that Villanova wanted to win, but they played it smart and didn't gamble away the hard fought tie.

If nothing else this game showed the Mainliners are not a front-running ballclub. Any team that can come back from being behind 20-6 is truly a great one.

Seniors Haner And Brannau Contribute To Grid Success

Villanova's unbeaten and nationally 10th-ranked football machine was gearing itself for the final two games of the season today, still paced by one of the finest and perhaps one of the most underrated backfield combos in the East.

Bill Brannau, a T formation magician, and powerful Bob Haner, supplying the consistent through-the-line gain have combined in the Wildcats' first six wins to provide Art Raimo's aggregation with the ground-gaining potential that has been such a big factor in the club's success to date.

Haner, in '51 punched through opposing lines for a 4.6 rushing average while scoring eight TD's and kicking 14 conversions for a team-leading total of 62 points.

Twenty-two-year-old Bob again leads in points scored on the strength of 18 touchdowns and 10 extra point conversions.

Bill Runs Team

One of South Catholic's most renowned Alumnus, Brannau, a 5'10" 160 lb. Senior, has constantly and efficiently produced the air-lane yardage, while performing his ball-handling duties in a poised and workman-like manner. He has hit on 43% of tosses this year, less than his '51 pass percentage of .446, on 65 of 146. Brannau holds one of last year's team passing records, passing 47 yards to against Houston. He hit receivers to the tune of six touchdowns last year.

over the Fedigan Flyers. The loss was the first of two for the Fedigan team last week and knocked them from the ranks of the undefeated. In their second contest they dropped a 6-2 decision to the Alumni Alkies, as Bill McDuffee passed to Dick Keane for the six pointer, Mike Quinn accounting for the Flyers' deuce. Also in the Mendel league, Bob Bishop starred, although injured in the second half as the Mendel Hangovers won their first, 26-0 over O'Dwyer.

In the Austin league the Austin Brewers split a pair, Bill Cunningham leading them to a 27-13 win over the Barracks Boozers in the first and the Foshes lacing them 20-0 in the second. The win was the Foshes third without a loss.

The standings are:

Cat Harriers Win First Home Meet With Manhattan

By Jim Wrzesinsk

Villanova's twin speedsters, Fred Dwyer and John Joe Barry, collaborated again Saturday to lead the cross country team to an easy 18-37 win over a good Manhattan squad.

Fred Dwyer set the pace in the jaunt and it appeared that both Dwyer and Barry could have carded a better time if they had been pressed. Both boys covered the rugged 5-mile course in 27:17. Frank Egan of Manhattan finished third with a time of 27:4½. Villanova monopllized the 4th, 5th, and 6th places as Bill Rock, Bart Moynahan, and Jerry Utter turned in times of 28:02, 28:22, and 29:43. The last four places were captured by the Manhattan squad.

Bart Moyahan in ninth place most of the race put on a tremendous burst of speed and wound up fifth with a very respectable time.

This decision over Manhattan marks the 3rd victory for the Villanova cross-country team. The only squad to defeat Villanova this season was Army. The Main Liners have vanquished Navy, Seton Hall, and now, Manhattan. The team is beginning to look like one of the truly good squads in the East.

porch to go hunting.

Mankind Wins

Nature has many ways of helping these defenseless animals, but once again mankind has triumphed. Now, they go hunting at night and flash a bright light in the animal's eyes, thereby stunning the creature. If they work quickly enough, they set up their tripod with the rifle attached, take careful aim, and fire away.

Then we have the hunters who are up before the sun, waiting in their blinds until some ducks fly overhead. However, to insure success they have wooden decoys to lure the ducks into firing range, that is, 'till they can see the whites of their eyes'. It observed that the haircuts with the fancy trim, resembling the back of a duck's head, go out of style during this season.

Crowded

Someone told me even the "Sport" of duckhunting is getting crowded. There are so many blinds, the ducks can't even see the pond. Now, the hunters put the decoys on their hats. When a duck flies over this area, he knows he's not getting a sixty gun salute in his honor. If, after being hit, a duck falls into the pond, he immediately sinks to the bottom. To help the hunter, they've developed a decoy that sings out in duck talk, "If I say I beg your pardon, will you come down to me".

Yes, I wonder at times about the type of man, who with his rifle leaves a trail of destruction through the woods. What has happened to his soul, when instead of being amazed and wonderously taken up by the beauty of nature and its animals, he is satisfied with the wanton killing of these helpless creatures. But I'm not too sure the animals are alone in their fight for survival against these "sports". I feel someone bigger is on their side. Have you noticed the mortality rate among hunters?

Poll Victories

not the eventual winner.

Staring back in 1932 this paper has had remarkable accuracy in calling the shots. Going Democratic in '32 they remained that way in 1936 and won again. Four years later they switched and thus came the first mistake. In '44 the war conditions present on campus prevented the poll from being conducted but 1948 saw it back on the winning column.

Roosevelt Landslide

The Democratic platform of 1932 apparantly swayed many students as Gov. Franklin Roosevelt swept the campus with 376 out of a possible 562 votes. Next came the Socialist Norman Thomas with 135 votes and last was Herbert Hoover with a mere 51.

The editorial in this paper of that day explained the heavy Socialist trend to "the hedging which marked the Republican campaign as contrasted to the outspoken clarity of Thomas."

Many Others for Landon

As people look back to the '36 election it is seen that Roosevelt swept the country but before the election the feeling of such a magnanimous win was not too widely felt. In fact, many polls of the day picked Alf Landon. The "Villanovan", as a story of the day states, was one of the few eastern schools to vote in favor of Roosevelt. The poll in this paper gave FDR 195 ballots while Landon, his sunflower and his eight electoral votes managed to garner 51 ballots while Thomas and Lemke had one apiece.

It was in 1940 that the poll made its first, and only, mistake. Apparantly the cheers of "We want Willkie" that resounded in Convention Hall in June were still fresh to the Villanova students in November because the Republican standard bearer received 56% of the vote to 45% for Roosevelt.

Other Questions Asked

The poll that year contained other questions such as conscription (75-25 for) and compulsory military training (70-30 for). The question of aid to Britain didn't do well as the students voted no, 57-43.

The war prohibited any poll in '44 but it reappeared four years later. The "Villanovan" called the shot quite accurately when it declared that Harry Truman would win, despite the howls that went up when the results were published. The figures then had Truman with 48% and Gov. Dewey with 39%. Henry Wallace and his Progressives had 4% while 14% were undecided.

550 Attend Charity Ball

Lilted and serenaded by the music of the "Villanovans", 280 students and their dates made the annual Charity Ball a great success last Saturday night in the college Field House.

Coming one day after Halloween the traditional fall theme was still in order and giant pumpkins, jackolanterns, half moons and corn stalks decorated the huge dance floor.

The Charity Ball was sponsored by the St. John's Orphanage Fund and was taking the place of the old Hobo Hop. The Ball was run under the general chairmanship of Steve Berry who adjudged the dance to be a success not only by the attendance Saturday night but also by the number of tickets sold to people who were only donating to the fund.

ST. JOHN CO-CHAIRMEN Gene Filipski and Frank Saul pose along with dance chairman Steve Berry and charming dates at the Charity Ball last Saturday night in the Field House.

The votes will be counted on Friday immediately after the voting is closed, but the tallies will not be released before the night of the prom. At this time Claud Thornhill will announce the selections and the number will be played in honor of the class.

NROTC Dance At Warwick

The Recreation Committee of the NROTC Unit has announced the date of their Fall Dance as November 14, 1952. Howard Cook's Orchestra will provide the music for the informal affair to be held in the Warwick Hotel, Philadelphia.

Jack Kistner is in charge of the arrangements and this year will provide something new in the way of the midshipman dances. Programs will be distributed to the midshipmen and their dates. All midshipmen in the Unit are invited to the affair.

The new officers of the Committee for this year are Allan Stewart, chairman; Steve Berry, treasurer; Frank Kasel, secretary. The Recreation Committee is in charge of all social affairs of the Unit and its members are elected from the various class sections. Members of the Unit are assessed dues each semester and this money is used by the committee for the dances, smokers and other functions throughout the year in which the midshipmen participate.

The Navy Office has also announced that applications for the examination for Regular midshipman status must be made by November 22. The examination will be given on December 15. For further information or application blanks, see LCDR. R. J. Washer in Barry Hall.

The Thornhill Band has performed at such leading night spots as the Paramount Theatre, Edgewater Beach Hotel, The Palladium, and the Glen Island Casino, and reached the zenith of their fame when Look Magazine named them "Band of the Year".

George Kaelin, decorations chairman, needs many seniors to lend a hand with the decorations for the Prom. Anyone willing to lend a hand is requested to report down at the stadium Saturday morning.

Intermission music will be supplied by the Blue Notes, an outfit that is fast becoming a tradition at campus formals. Under the direction of Frank Teti, the popular combo will be making their eighth straight appearance at a Villanova Prom.

Finally, we must take into consideration the personality of the candidates themselves. The popular appeal of Eisenhower is definitely an overwhelming advantage for the Republicans. But what of the sharp reasoning and penetration of Stevenson? Will the voters be more influenced by the man or the issue? Only time will furnish the solution to these varied unknowns—and the time is today.

NOSE, THROAT,
and Accessory Organs not Adversely Affected by Smoking Chesterfields

FIRST SUCH REPORT EVER PUBLISHED ABOUT ANY CIGARETTE

A responsible consulting organization has reported the results of a continuing study by a competent medical specialist and his staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfield cigarettes.

A group of people from various walks of life was organized to smoke only Chesterfields. For six months this group of men and women smoked their normal amount of Chesterfields—10 to 40 a day. 45% of the group have smoked Chesterfields continually from one to thirty years for an average of 10 years each.

At the beginning and at the end of the six-months period each smoker was given a thorough examination, including X-ray pictures, by the medical specialist and his assistants. The examination covered the sinuses as well as the nose, ears and throat.

The medical specialist, after a thorough examination of every member of the group, stated: "It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."

After a one year lapse, the Connelly Award will return to the Villanova campus on Thursday night, November 20, at 7 P. M., when competition for the traditional prize will take place, chairman Charlie Russell announced this week.

WILLIAM CONNELLY

The award which is annually given to the best decorated resident dormitory was started in 1937 and has been won Fedigan Hall five times, Delurey Hall three times and one year ended in a tie between these two halls.

Russell emphasized that each hall must submit a plan of their decorations to Father Curran this afternoon by 2:30. In the case of duplication, the hall submitting the theme first will get the preference.

School Supplies Lights

The rules governing the contest are that no college property is to be used except that which is supplied by the Maintenance Department and that no Christmas tree lights are to be used. Maintenance will supply to each hall flood lights and the necessary wiring.

In order to give the day students an opportunity to participate in the contest, the Commerce and Finance building will be available to them for their pre-game theme.

William Connelly will make the presentation to the winning hall on the night of the contest. The student chairman of the hall receives the

Senior Placement Applications Face Saturday Deadline

All Seniors interested in being interviewed by companies visiting the campus next semester, must pick up the necessary forms and applications at the Placement Office before November 15. The completed forms must be returned before December 1.

All Seniors are eligible to register with the Placement Office. There will be no fee of any kind for registering with the College Placement Service. Registration consists of:

1. Completing two Placement application forms and attaching a 2½" x 3" photo to each.

2. Listing with the Placement Service the names of three faculty members who may be contacted for a letter of reference. (Be sure to ask the faculty member's permission to use his name as a reference.)

List Three Companies

3. Listing with the Placement Office the names of three companies in which you are interested. This does not mean that you are limited to three interviews. This information is requested because sometimes a company interviewer only desires to interview a limited number of Seniors; for example, six, and it is felt that in all fairness in a situation such as this that Seniors who have listed this particular company as one of their first choices should be scheduled for the interview.

TICKET NOTICE!

Tickets for both the Belle Air Ball and the Senior Dinner Dance are now on sale in the Pie Shop or from committee members on campus.

Dinner Dance tickets for reservations already made must be picked up by November 17.

'University' Rings Given Nod By Junior Class Committee

The Class of 1954 will be the wearers of the first "Villanova University" rings.

At a meeting on Election Day, President Art Quinn announced to a weak showing of the Junior Class that the case for the school's universityship has been won. Dick Brady, Chairman of the Ring Committee immediately gave the Bailey, Banks, and Biddle Co. of Philadelphia the signal to start production on the new rings.

Mr. George Mell, the company's campus representative has promised delivery of the rings by January.

Long Wins

In a vote taken to determine the class' choice of a band for the Junior Prom, Johnny Long was the unanimous choice. Tex Beneke was second, followed by Charlie Spivak, Elliot Lawrence and Ralph Martieri in that order. These bands were selected from a group of 12 possibilities submitted by the General Artists Corporation of New York and The William Honney Agency of Philadelphia.

Harry Anger, Entertainment Chairman for the prom, will try to sign Long for the dance. If arrangements cannot be made however, he will approach the other bands in the order they were selected. Anger explained that big name band leaders will not sign a contract for one night until they are sure that they will be in this area at the time. Most of the bands have not as yet been booked for the Spring season.

The usual practice of engaging a small local band for intermission music will be abolished this year. Instead, more money will be payed to insure a top feature band.

NEXT ISSUE!

Due to mid-term examinations there will be no edition of the "Villanovan" next Tuesday. The deadline for the Nov. 25 edition is Thursday, Nov. 20 at 4 P. M.

Thornhill Completes Sr. Prom Grandeur

A "Stairway to the Stars" wending its enchanting way up to the infinity of a twinkling heaven:

Beneath that celestial ceiling, a promenade amidst the surroundings of an old fashioned, lamplit park;

Add in the lilting strains of Claude Thornhill and his orchestra with the warblings of beautiful Christy Connor and the romantic voice of Med Flory; and ——

You have a composite picture of the Belle Air Ball, to be held next Friday night in the Field House.

Featuring one of the most beautiful and ingenious center-pieces ever to be seen at a Villanova formal, the "Stairway to the Stars" will be over ninety feet long and, rising from the center of the floor, create the illusion of disappearing into the infinite.

Around the park, which will be lit by the object of the "old lamplighter's" labors, will be the traditional benches, concession stands and, in another "first", a real, honest-to-goodness waterfall.

Claude Thornhill and his orchestra needs no introduction to most Villanovans, at least as far as knowing of his music is concerned. Thornhill has made recordings of such top hits as "Maybe It's Because", "Snowfall", "Autumn Nocturne" and was picked as "Band of the Year" by Look magazine a few years back.

Under the chairmanship of Tom Brydon, this years Belle Air Ball promises to be one of the highlights of all the Villanova social calendars of the past few years.

CHRISTY CONNOR

Second on the agenda in the Class of '53's final fling will be the Villanova-Boston University football game Saturday afternoon, when the Wildcats put their once-beaten slate on the block for the final time.

Reservations for the Dinner Dance, the only closed affair of the weekend, are going fast, ticket chairman Dick Mies has announced. Over 200 seniors have already made reservations for the dine and dance affair to be held at the Broadwood Hotel next Sat.

With the popular Tony Desmond, back by popular demand after his smashing success at the Junior Dinner Dance last year, supplying the melody, this, the final senior function before June 2, also shows promise of being another "biggest and best" on the long list of Class of '53 triumphs.

Tickets for both the Prom and Dinner Dance are now on sale in the Pie Shop or from any one of the committee members about campus.

Kentucky Pix Tomorrow

Spurred by the tremendous student support accorded the showing of football team movies, the St. John's Orphanage Fund plans to make the movies a weekly feature of the drive to raise funds for their worthy cause. The movies will be shown every Wednesday evening at 7:15 in the Commerce and Finance Auditorium. The admission price will remain at ten cents.

The movies to be shown tomorrow night are those of the Kentucky game, played down in Lexington, Kentucky. This game opened the season for the Wildcats and produced the first win over the Blue Grass Wildcats since the rivalry between the two schools began. The score of the encounter was 25-6.

In other Orphanage Fund developments, co-chairmen Frank Saul and Gene Filipski, have announced that the drive to recruit students to accompany the orphans into Philadelphia on December tenth will begin next Monday. Joe Kenney who is in charge of this task has set the goal at 500 as the number of students needed.

Kenney plans to have a student in each hall to work on the project with the day hops to be handled by a separate group. The annual class room collections will also begin next Monday with every Religion class being canvassed two or three times. Cans will also be put in the local stores.

George Eberle, party chairman, has made arrangements for the affair to be held on the tenth of next month at the orphanage. At that time every orphan will receive an individual present along with being "entertained" by members of the student body. A picnic lunch will be served.

To Die In Vain

The observance of Armistice Day on November 11 was originally intended to be a function far outstanding from the many other days set aside to honor those fallen in battle.

For the men who died in World War I had died to make democracy safe and to insure that their sons would never again have to take up arms to stop an aggressor and defend their homes.

They had died in a "war to end all wars". A decisive war that would guarantee that the flame of battle would never spring up again.

But of the thirty-four years since then, eleven have seen blood shed in some corner of the earth. Four years were spent in a conflict that engulfed the entire globe.

Today, as we revere the memory of those who made that supreme sacrifice for the ideals we believe in; today, as a third World War rears its head on the horizen, it would do us all well to reflect a while on the question of what can be done about all this.

It is true that as a nation, materialistically speaking, the most we can do is to keep prepared for anything and by means of an intelligent foreign policy build up enough strength among the Western nations to make it impractical for an aggressor to strike.

But this mad race cannot be kept up forever. A nation cannot long survive when there is no promise of security for succeeding generations. And an economy such as ours cannot long sustain such expenditures.

What, then, are we to turn to?

At this time there is only one thing that we can definitely rely on. That is the promise made by our Blessed Lady at Fatima.

A promise that only through the medium of prayer can we ever hope to convert Russia.

A promise that if we do not resort to prayer, a third world war, more terrible then the other two, will engulf the world.

The choice, then, is clearly ours.

The rewards of the one option and the consequences of the other are definite and concise.

According to the experts, any move of aggression on Russia's part will most probably come in 1953 or 1954. That's within the next two years.

Obviously the time to start this "crusade" of prayer is now. Tomorrow it may be too late. It takes, at the most, ten minutes in which to say a rosary. Prayers for the conversion of Russia, said after every Low Mass, take about two minutes. Are those two minutes we save by leaving Mass early really worth it?

The decision is ours. It is our job to see that the men whose memories we honor today, along with their counterparts of the late war and the present conflict, did not die in vain after all.

L. P. Recording Is Science Advance

By George Ferguson

Of all the amazing scientific developments of the middle twentieth century, at least five stand out in sharp relief. Miracle drugs, atomic energy, television, cinerama and LP (long-play recording process) point the way to a future filled with the promise of countless benefits for our own generation and those to follow.

Perhaps the least sensational of these recent developments is LP. With comparatively little fanfare, this medium has effected a transformation in the world of music which would have astonished our great-grandfathers. Although the phonograph has been in general use since the late 1890's, and progress continued to be made in sound recording techniques, much remained to be desired.

Recordings Limited

Phonograph discs were heavy, easily broken and could contain only about four minutes of music or speech on one side of a 12-inch record. It was not feasible to bring out some of the lengthier works like Rossini's masterpiece William Tell, which requires a whopping six hours for complete opera house performance.

The Long Play process provided a satisfactory answer to these problems. In 1948, the first LP phonograph records were introduced on the American market. Made of lightweight, non-breakable plastic, they reproduced sound with remarkable fidelity and could contain twenty-five minutes of music or speech on a single side of a 12-inch reccord.

Micro Groves

LP electrified the world of music. The economical new process, coupled with the tape recording method, now made practicable the undertaking of an Herculean project, heretofore only a dream, the committing to microgrooves of the vast treasury of great music, hitherto known only to scholars, or performed only in Europe. Rarely heard works, like Mozart's so-called "museum opera", Idomeneo, King of Crete, could be

Letter To Editor

Dear Editor:

I have just finished reading the mediocre column entitled THE WALL and my sporting instincts have been aroused. Besides showing a lack of understanding of the moral issues involved the writer also has included several technical errors.

First, shotguns are getting smaller not larger since smaller bore shotguns are becoming more popular among hunters. Second, telescopes are used on rifles not shotguns. Third, more powerful rifles are more humane since they insure a clean kill when the animal is hit. And fourth the practice of "jacklighting" is restricted to the game poacher who is not a true hunter.

Now, for the moral issues involved. Animals were placed on earth for the use of man either for food, clothing, domestic utility or for any other purpose that will contribute to the well being of man. Recreation is a legitimate pursuit of man and if he can obtain it through hunting creatures that God has placed at his disposal he should be permitted to do so.

The same man who swoons over a steak is shocked at the suggestion of shooting a deer to obtain some venison.

Not only is hunting a legitimate pastime but it also restores some of the balance of nature upset by the advance of civilization. In areas where the wolf and fox have, through necessity, been driven off the small game animals have been left without natural enemies to keep them in check. Such animals as deer and rabbits will then multiply rapidly and produce problems from their overpopulation.

First, they are forced to turn to the farmers' fields and orchards for their food supply. Then during the winter months when this food supply is unavailable to them they become physically weakened to the point where they are susceptible to a plague that

American Working Man Deserves Security; 'Creeping Socialism Now Entitled To Walk

By Tom Falin

A few business men have developed a penchant for writing articles decrying the average American's lack of initiative. Yearning for security above all else, we are supposed to be developing a the-government - owes - me - a -living attitude. Those two little tidbits of artful prose, creeping socialism and the welfare state, are often subtly inserted. Ah, for the good old days when a man was a man and stood on his own two feet, they say.

Why Not?

It is true that the American workingman does want security. So what? As long as a man is willing to work he should be able to find a job with a salary which will enable him to enjoy a reasonably comfortable life. There was a time when a rugged individualist cleared his own land, baked his own bread, and was his own army when the local redskins began acting up, but there just isn't enough room for each of us to be a rugged individualist today.

This is the highly touted machine age. We push a button and something happens. At the same time, however, our welfare depends on the next man pushing his button when he should.

When, as happened in Illinois in late 1951 a federal inspector finds a coal mine unsafe and then 119 men are killed because he has no authority to see that his recommendations are heeded, should the cry of creeping socialism prevent our giving the federal government authority to see that the mine owner tends his pushbutton by providing his employees with a safe place to work?

Is Not Socialized!

If it can be demonstrated conclusively that large areas of the country are not receiving adequate medical care and that nothing concrete is being done about it, must the cry of socialized medicine prevent the development of a federal plan to provide those people with the aid to which they are undeniably entitled?

Social Security Bad?

It must be conceded that there are situations in which only the federal government can assure the individual an opportunity to obtain a fair share of the country's bounty. Thus, in spite of dire predictions of a welfare state, so called, creeping socialism is fast becoming acceptable enough to walk upright. No better example of this can be found than the social security program which was bitterly opposed as socialistic and which Landon, Republican presidential candidate of 1936, promised to abolish if elected.

In the recent campaign, both candidates promised increased benefits, to a greater or lesser degree.

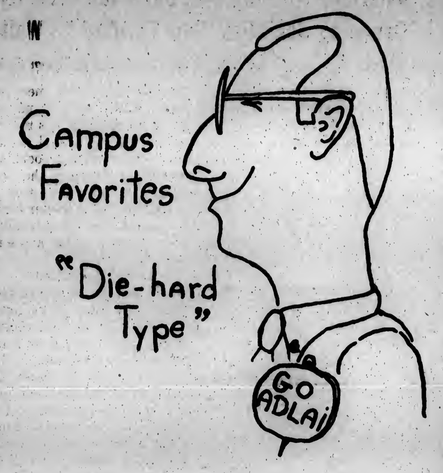
Are Americans A Nation Of Spectators? Writer Discusses Inertia's Effects Here

By Al Pandaleon

It would seem to be a sad commentary on our society that Americans are fast becoming a nation of spectators. Seldom any more do we find many real participators in the activities of everyday life. As a result, the intelligence and resourcefulness of the nation could, in time, stand in danger of finding itself seriously weakened. Carried to its logical conclusion, the defect of inertia might even cost the United States its position of leadership among the peoples of the world.



U.S. Program

Perhaps this trend is most noticeable in the field of entertainment. There are few who will dispute the fact that athletics is one of the most important phases in the development of the youth. And from all appearances, here in the United States we have one of the broadest athletic programs in the modern world despite the absence of any rigid structure such as that existing in Russia. Paradoxically, however, the extension of sports has not been paralleled by aproportionate increase in the number of persons participating in them. Attendance at football and baseball games is a definite indication of this problem. Something like fifty or sixty thousand persons turn out regularly to watch approximately fifty to sixty ballplayers. Obviously, the fault lies with those in the stands and not with the men on the field. If we are prone to complain of an overemphasis on athletics, especially in the colleges, we would do well to consider that the great majority of us has permitted this condition to arise through our own lack of active participation in that field.

Intellectual Problem

More serious than athletics is the intellectual problem. Today we find ourselves constantly exposed to the media of television and the motion picture. There can be little doubt that, kept in their proper perspective, both are beneficial to society. Yet when they are pursued to the ex-

A Great Wildcat Tradition: Connelly Epic Traces Past

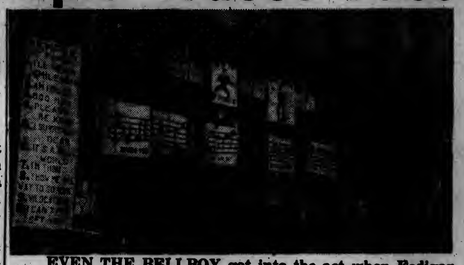
Hall Decorations Basis For Award

By Jack Redmond

We have often heard it said, "That's how it was in the good old days". Such a statement reflects the human tendency to recollect—to relive the traditions of the past.

Although that same tradition is sorely lacking in our lives at Villanova, a glance into the archives shows that "good old days" existed on this Main Line campus too.

Perhaps the core of Villanova tradition was the annual Villanova - Temple game, a natural for spectator appeal. The game with the Owls was as much a part of autumn as the leaves changing and turkey on Thanksgiving.



Rally and Bonfire

Synonymous with Villanova-Temple games was the year's mammoth pep rally and bonfire. The latter was erected by the Frosh on the field opposite the Field House, the structure usually reaching a height of fifty feet or more. In conjunction with the rally the students decorated their dormitories with Owl-Wildcat battle as the theme. A committee selected by the Student Council made the rules and did the judging. The winning hall had the privilege of lighting the fire.

Trophy Donated

In 1937, William M. Connelly, well-known Villanova grad of 1927 and better known as Coach Art Raimo's predecessor as Director of Athletics, donated a trophy to be presented to the dormitory with the most impressive display.

Under the direction of Fathers Vrana and Donnellon,

EVEN THE BELLBOY got into the act when Fedigan Hall won the Connelly Award away back before the war. In those days it was Temple University that had to bear the brunt of the Wildcat's ingenuity.

Fedigan Hall captured the prize in 1937, 1938, and 1939. Fedigan Hall was not alone in its victory as the Varsity football team had run a streak of twenty-two games without a defeat before falling to Jarrin' John Kimbrough's Texas A&M team in the middle of the 1939 season.

Lucky Lovett Sweater

At the 1940 Villanova-Temple rally, Fedigan Hall again was the winner of the Connelly Award. It was at this rally that the "Lucky Lovett Sweater" was brought to light. The sweater was an ancient woolen belonging to Tommy Lovett, sportswriter for the now extinct Evening Public Ledger. Tommy, being an ardent Villanova fan, rarely missed a game.

Two days before the 1941 rally, Temple conspirators lighted the almost completed bonfire structure. Frosh answered an emergency call and restored it to original proportions by Friday night. The rally, bonfire, and hall decorations were augmented by a torch-light parade to the Field House.

The ceremonies were of such moment that they were aired over a local network. Fedigan Hall, with an elaborateness never before or since seen, was presented with the coveted award for the fifth straight year. In 1942, war brought an immediate end to the bonfire and Connelly Award and subsequently an end to the Villanova-Temple series.

In 1947, the rally and hall decoration were renewed as a preliminary to the Villanova-Georgetown battle.

Mascot Stolen

The bonfire, torchlight parade, and Temple game remained wartime casualties. Enterprising Hoya students incited some Wildcat spirit by filching our mascot a week before the rally. An unsuccessful crusade traveled to the Washington campus but returned sans the wildcat and their scalps. On the night of the game the cat was returned.

Good feeling were evidenced by the beautiful fire hydrant given to the Georgetown Hoya by the Villanova students. Fedigan had to be satisfied with a deadlock with Delurey. Mr. Connelly again came through — this time with a duplicate trophy. This latter trophy is the one in existence today.

260-lb. "Miss Villanova"

By 1948, the Villanova-Georgetown was assuming the proportions of a traditional game. An added feature of the pre-game festivities was a contest involving the guessing the total weight of the starting line-up. The winner was to have a week-end date with Miss Villanova.

The queen was kept in secrecy until the night of the rally. In sharp contrast with the build-up given her in the VILLANOVAN, she turned out to be John Sandusky, 260-lb. tackle. The highlight of the rally, of course, was the announcement that Father Dunne's Delurey Hall had finally broken Fedigan's streak as winner of the award.

The following year, the Georgetown game was played at Washington and the rally and Connelly Award were held before the North Carolina State game. Again Delurey emerged the victor.

In 1950 the Kentucky game marked the festival week-end as the Georgetown game was again on the road. At the rally Delurey Hall was named the winner of the award for the fourth consecutive year. The competition not nearly as strong as in previous years. Our defeat at the hand of a Parilli-led Kentucky team marked the first time in nine years we had lost a game for which competition for the Connelly Award was held.

Whether the absence of a traditional rival or sheer lack of interest on the campus was the cause, the award fell into temporary oblivion last

Thriller-Comedy "Rope" a Hit At Field House Last Week-End

END OF THE "ROPE" is finally reached when Rupert Cadell (Tom Hayden) accuses Wyndham Brandon (John Fitzgerald) of murder in the Bell Masque production of "Rope last weekend in the Field House. (Photo by George Markert).

"Rope" by Patrick Hamilton, as presented by Belle Masque last Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, was a different kind of "murder mystery". It began with the murderers telling about the crime they just committed, which they believed to be perfect, but finally both were caught through their carelessness and another man's ingenuity for detecting crime.

In the beginning of the play some of the dialogue was weak, but by the end of the first act every line had bearing on the plot or on the character portrayals. John Fitzgerald had all the emotional impact necessary to bring the character of Wyndham Brandon to life. He portrayed a strong - willed, egotistical young intellect who knew he could commit the perfect crime.

His partner in crime, Bernard Coyne, was very effective and well received by the audience as the drunken and cowardly murderer, Charles Granillo. Thomas Hayden once again came through for Belle Masque with a fine performance as the logical Rupert Cadell.

Jean Ward and Anthony Della Rocca played the aunt and father of the murdered boy with much skill, as did Joseph Territo as the butler.

SENIORS

There will be an important meeting of the Senior Class this Thursday at 8 p. m. in the C&F auditorium. Final arrangements for Senior Weekend are to be discussed.

Refreshments will be served.

Collective Bargaining Topic Of I.R.C. Talk

Mr. Walter Klein, Professor of Economics, addressed the Industrial Relations Club at their meeting last Wednesday night. I.R.C. members from Manor College were guests at the meeting.

In a vivid and informative lecture, supplemented by a clearly written outline, Professor Klein enlightened the group on the subject of "Collective Bargaining." This audio-visual technique proved quite effective in promoting a clear understanding of the rather extensive subject.

At their next meeting on November 19, the I.R.C. will be addressed by Dr. F. DeSales Powell, Asst. Professor of Sociology. Dr. Powell will discuss "The Church's Viewpoint on Labor-Management Relations."

Root-Tilden Law Scholarship Offered To Seniors By NYU

Seniors at Villanova are once again eligible to qualify for a Root-Tilden scholarship, given by the New York University Law School. Dean Russell Niles extended an invitation to apply for the $6,600 three-year scholarship for the 1953-54 term.

A candidate must be over twenty years of age but not over twenty eight when his legal training begins and he must be a male, unmarried citizen of the United States.

The scholarships each carry an annual stipend of $2,200 to cover tuition, books and living expenses. While the award is made initially for one year it is renewed for the second and third years when the student maintains a high standard in legal and general scholarship.

College seniors who wish to be considered for the scholarships should apply immediately to: Dean of the Law School, New York University Law Center, New York, 3, N. Y. Applications must be completed by March 1, 1953 and final announcement of the selections will be made in late April.

Under the terms of the grant, 20 scholarships are awarded annually on a competitive and regional basis, with two scholarships alloted to each of ten Federal Judicial Circuits. A candidate whose application is accepted is first screened by a state committee consisting generally of the Chief Justice of the state, the president of the state bar association and the publisher or editor of a leading newspaper.

clusion of more worthwhile means, the effect is clear.

The individual who takes up a book in the evening for entertainment is rapidly becoming a rarity. We find it far easier to sit idly by and view our stream of culture than to plunge in earnestly and devote of our time and effort. The result has been an actual drop in the quality of our newspapers, periodicals, and literary works in general.

After all, whether they like it or not, journalists and authors must in some measure consider the tastes of the people for whom they write. Even a cursory glance at the average newsstand or bookstore should bear out this fact.

Resurgence

What, then, can be done to arrest this development in contemporary life?? In wide and possibly even evasive terms, we need a resurgence of the distinctively American trait of individualism. Furth-

Penn Lightweights Top Cats 12-7 on 4th Period Rally

By Harry Nash

A clutch touchdown by a desparate University of Pennsylvania club in the final two minutes of play gave the Quakers a penalty-marred 12-7 win over Villanova's lightweights in a 150-pound game played in Villanova Stadium Friday.

The Penn win, an uphill battle all the way, provided the Wildcats with their fourth setback in four starts, and left Villanova with only one more chance to break into the win column—against Navy this coming Friday.

Wildcats Ahead

It appeared that the losers had their first victory wrapped up, what with a 7-6 lead going into the final two minutes of play. After Villanova punted out from the shadow of it own goalposts to the 'Cat 36, Penn Quarterback Dale Summerbell failed on two ground plays, and then combined with halfback Bob Churchman on a 35-yard pass play for the deciding score.

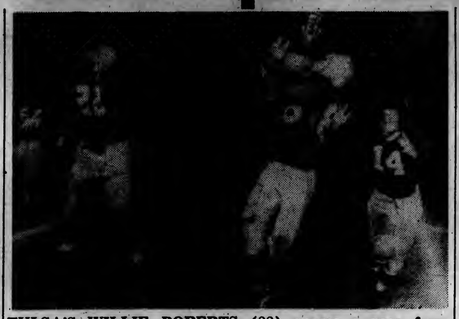
Villanova had countered earlier on a 23-yard end run by back Dan Murphy in the third period to take a 7-0 lead. A pass from quarterback Joe Kenney to Bill Sabia added the extra point.

Good Line Play

The first quarter showed little edge for both teams, although timely gains by Lefty Spencer and Dominic Conicelli of Villanova kept the ball in Penn territory throughout. Breaks decided play in the second period, plus fine line play by Jim Loftus, Richie Miller, Frank Alter and Bob Gold of the 'Cats and Bill Mixon and Gene Myers of Penn.

Churchman Scores

Penn, trailing 7-0 going in the final half of the last period, rallied for one touchdown, with Churchman on an eight-yard end run.



Villanova held this 7-6 lead until the final minutes, when Summerbell uncorked the last-ditch pass play that won the ball game.

Cat Finale Nov. 22nd Against Boston U. And Harry Agganis

By Dick Confoy

Villanova's Mainliners get an extra week's rest in which to recuperate for the season's finale November 22 against Boston University. Meanwhile this Saturday, BU's Terriers will be attempting to improve their 4-3-1 record and at the same time wipe out the memory of last week's ignominious tie with Temple by crushing feeble NYU at home.

A one-man team if there ever was one, BU wins only when their Golden Greek, Harry Agganis, is having a good day. An Agganis pass won their opener against Wichita, 6-0, an Agganis field-goal beat Miami, 9-7, and touchdown passes pulled out BU wins over William & Mary (33-28) and Lehigh (29-20). The Golden One, first draft pick of the pro Cleveland Browns when he was but a junior, is in the opinion of many the greatest college player in the country today. Last year, while completing 104 of 185 passes for 1,402 yards and 14 touchdowns, he also managed to boot the points after touchdowns, kick off, punt (averaging 42 yards), and be named an All-American defensive back.

BU Still Loses

Notwithstanding this fabulous individual performance, the Terriers last year still managed to drop games to W & M, Penn State, Syracuse, and Temple. This season, besides the Agganis-less Temple tie, the Terriers have been beaten decisively by Syracuse, Marquette, and mighty Maryland. In the Maryland game two weeks ago, Agganis, nursing a few bruised ribs, was withdrawn in the first period to avoid suffication as he was buried under an avalanche on

Jim Leaming, Ace Sportcaster, Does Villanova's Play-By-Play

James F. Leaming, WIP sports director, was born September 10, 1920, and in the ensuing 32 years has devoted most of his life to sports. No mere spectator, Jim captained his high school football team and played five sports at college.

Combining his interest in the field of sports with radio work, Leaming is now known as one of Philadelphia's foremost sports announcers. He began his radio career at WRPG, Atlantic City, where he moderated a forum show, did news commentary and handled a sports show. While at the station he broadcast the college football games, aired play-by-play, descriptions of pro basketball games twice a week from Atlantic City's Convention Hall, announced track meets and the National Life Guard Championships.

Devoting his talent to radio, Leaming is still no stranger to television. For 17 months he produced and emceed a weekly half-hour show, "Ten Seconds to Go" for WPTZ, and stints on "The Press Bow" and "Open House" for the same station. Sportswise, he did TV play-by-play tele-

Leaming, who is heard Monday through Friday from 6:30 to 6:40 p. m. on WIP's "Sports Shots" show, is traveling with the Villanova Wildcats for the second consecutive year, handling the play-by-play description of each Villanova game.

While at Kiski Prep (probably the most famous football school in the country), Jim was captain of the football team. He carried his interest in sports to the University of North Carolina, where as an undergraduate he played five sports — varsity

Mainliners' Bowl Hopes Fade; Bob Haner Scores Lone TD

The roof fell in Saturday night on the Wildcat's hopes for an undefeated season, a bowl bid, or any real national recognition. Tulsa's Golden Hurricanes, scoring 4 out of the first 6 times they got their hands on the ball, turned a favored Villanova eleven into a disheartened, routed team as they stampeded the Cats 42-6.

The Mainliners strong defensive line virtually cracked wide open as Tulsa backs Waugh, Kercher, and Morris exploded through for large chunks of yardage almost at will. Ronnie Morris, quarterbacking from the split T, twice passed to end Willie Roberts for touchdowns and carried over for two scores himself.

Cats Start Strong

The Wildcats appeared to be a fired-up football club as the game opened. Ben Addiego returned the kickoff 40 yards to the Villanova 45, and on the first play from scrimmage Gene Filipski exploded off tackle to the Tulsa 40. The Wildcats didn't penetrate this far again until the waning seconds of the third quarter. On the next play, Filipski drove to the 36, fumbled, and the Golden Hurricanes took over. Villanova finally stopped the Oklahomans by grabbing a fumble on the Cat 35, but were soon forced to punt out. Tulsa, for the remainder of the first half, scored everytime they got the ball.

Waugh Goes Over

Tulsa drove 69 yards in 5 ground plays and two Wildcat penalties for their opening score, with fullback Howard Waugh carrying over from the 4. Waugh, ninth in the country last week in rushing, ate up a good portion of the 327 yards Tulsa gained on the ground.

The Wildcats then took over and punched out a first down, but Bill Brannau, having an erratic night, threw for the first of three interceptions. It took the Hurricanes just 4 plays to go over this time, with Bill Holliday running to the 5 and lateraling to quarterback Morris for the score. After an exchange of downs, Tulsa put on a sustained march of 56 yards in 14 plays which ended only when Dick Kercher bucked over for a 21-0 lead. With little time remaining in the half the Hurricanes rolled to the Cat 35, from where Morris hit Roberts for the score and a 28-0 Tulsa halftime advantage.

Rains Gets Bad

Villanova kicked off to open the second half and Tulsa — for the first time in the game —was forced to punt. Minutes later, the Oklahomans went 58 yards in the rain, with Morris again passing to Roberts for the score and a lopsided 35-0 lead. Joe McNicholas then filled in for Brannau in the QB slot and the team immediately marched 46 yards for the lone Wildcat counter. Bob Haner, leading scorer in the nation last week, carried across for the score after McNicholas passed to Rigney on the 3. Tulsa then took the kickoff and went 74 yards in 6 plays with Morris sneaking it over for the 42-6 final.

Larry Hennessey Banned From Cats First 15 Games

Larry Hennessey, the Wildcat's All-American basketball hope, has been barred from competition for the first 15 games this season by the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference. The suspension is somewhat of a compromise of the entire year's ban placed on Larry by the ECAC for playing in an amateur tourney last winter.

Hennessey played four games at White Plains, N. Y. to raise funds for the Sacred Heart Church Fund. Under the ECAC ruling, no basketball player may take part in any outside competition except for a high school alumni game. In the appeal, it was pointed out that the year's suspension of the stellar shooter was too severe a penalty for the admitted infraction, even if Hennessey realized he was breaking the rule. It was not established whether Larry was ignorant of the rule or believed the exemption extended to holiday amateur play as well as alumni games.

Larry, considered one of the finest shots ever seen in college basketball, has 1270 points in two seasons, including a 703 pt. sophomore year, which is the major college scoring record for one year. He was also far ahead of Paul Arizin's collegiate pace (1596 points), but the ban put Hennessey about on an even keel now with Arizin's record. The suspension also ends Larry's chances of setting a new collegiate 3-year scoring mark. Hennessey will be eligible for competition starting with the second Duquesne game, January 26.

SPORTS CHATTER

A New Conference?

By Harry Anger

As the football season pours on once again we want to use the opportunity to get up on the pigskin soap box and try to help remedy the plight of the East's independents in the football picture of the nation.

This time its not a single game we'd like to see, but rather the formation of a new league composed of the leading teams in this part of the country. Lets face it. The squads representing the schools of the Atlantic Coast section of the nation have taken a back seat to the rest of the nation, not only in publicity, but also at the gate. The average football contest in the big Ten draws about 50,000 fans, while here in our part of the land the independents are averaging a little over 15,000 spectators on a Saturday afternoon.

Attract the Fans

Quite obviously the Midwestern schools are able to draw many fans from outside sources, and aren't forced to rely on the student body as the only group from which to draw the patrons.

Now it seems to us if there were something to attract the fans the East would be able to climb a little higher footballwise nationally.

There's nothing that helps the gate more than an old rivalry, who wouldn't want to see games like: Penn State-Villanova, Syracuse—Villanova, and of course other tilts with Holy Cross and the Rams of Fordham. As far as the latter is concerned, the big bosses at Rose Hill claim they want no part of Villanova or a league, however, if the Maroon continue to die at the gate as of late they may get around to feeling the same way as some of the other "loners" around these parts.

Something at Stake

Now if the schools were to get together and form this proposed alliance then conceivably every Saturday there could be a really big one for all the East. When there's something at stake besides like a league title, well there's even more reason for the outsider to have a definite interest in the fortune of the college in his locale. Let's hope for once we can finally convince the leaders in East the only way for true strength is—in numbers.

Award to Leaming

Our winner of the "I Like Wildcats Award" is Jim Leaming, the genial sports director of WIP. Jim is one of the best friends of Wily Wildcat, and we want to show our appreciation by giving him this little honor. Be sure to read the feature on Leaming on Page Five of this edition.

The Tulsa rout was a definite shock to us all, but on account of one bad game lets not forget the stellar play of the Cats in all their other outings. Everybody is entitled to a bad night, it's just unfortunate the Mainliners had to have their's when so much hung in the balance. We're not giving up, and this writer firmly believes come the 22nd of November the Blue and White will prove that they are the best in the East and certainly 100 per cent better than they looked against Tulsa.

Let's Not Repeat

Unfortunately there is a habit in this place for a portion of the undergraduates to root home all the winners and then sort of forget if the Cats aren't up to par and drop one. That was evident two years ago when the Villanovans were pushed around by another Tulsa team. Before the trip to the Southwest there was a tremendous rally for the boys, every body up in arms and having a great time. The Mainliners were stopped and they returned home a bunch of forgotten men. In all sense of fairness let's not have it happen this time, the team doesn't deserve a deal like that.

We all know darn well those fellows wanted to win that ballgame more than any other they had played this season.

Junior Roy Kershaw Sparks Strong Cat Defensive Wall

By Carl Valenti

Press observers at the Alabama-Villanova game last year unanimously agreed that Roy Kershaw was one of the best defensive linemen that they had seen in action. The 200 pound sophomore was constantly crashing through the line and spilling the Crimson Tide ball carriers behind the line of scrimmage as the Wildcats rolled on to a 41-18 triumph. It was in that contest that big Roy realized his full potential as a gridiron performer. And that was only the beginning.

Natural Athlete

Roy has the keen ability to sense which way the opponent's plays are going almost as soon as the ball is snapped and move accordingly. Consequently, he has been in position to grab many fumbles. His tackling causes a number of fumbles too. In the Kentucky game this year, Kershaw smashed Dick Shatto with such ferocity that the ball squirted loose into the end zone where Bob Volonino pounced on it for a touchdown.

With still a full year to play, Roy Kershaw, on the basis of his playing so far, could very well become one of the best defensive linemen in the country. His natural talent and willingness to play mark him as a standout every other play. It was a different story three years ago, however, as Agganis led an undefeated BU squad to within an extra point of tying a highly favored Terrapin eleven.

Supporting Cast

The Terriers other offensive strength lies in two swift halfbacks, Joe Terrasi (155 pounds) and Don DeFeudis, and fullback Red Salisbury, a sophomore sensation.

Father Saelman To Moderate College's 'Schola Cantorum'

Tom Blackmore, student director of the Schola Cantorum, announced last week that Rev. Johannes Saelman, O.S.A. has been appointed moderator of the college's student choir.

REV. J. W. SAELMAN, O.S.A.

Father Saelman brings with him a collection of manuscripts of liturgical music from the Netherlands, his home, which is unknown in the eastern United States, said Blackmore. It is expected that the Schola Cantorum will concentrate on this music along with an introduction on the Gregorian Chant in the coming year.

The Schola Cantorum, organized two years ago, began its schedule for the current year at Chapel exercises last Monday.

The history of Schola Cantorum dates back to the fall of 1950 when Jim Mahoney, then a Senior, saw the need for a lay student's choir. The Mahoney-organized group had for its first moderator Father Handran.

In addition to assisting at evening Chapel services, the Schola Cantorum also is heard at the annual three-day retreat prior to Easter and has become a fixture at the Mass on Mother's Day during Junior week.

There will be a meeting of the Junior Class tonight at 7:00 in the C&F Auditorium.

Debating Society Wins Opener, 5-1, Over St. Joseph's

Villanova's debating society, Beta Gamma, last Wednesday defeated debators from St. Joseph's College, Philadelphia in the library for the first time in three years.

Discussing the national topic, Resolved: That the Congress of the United States Should Enact a Fair Employment Practice Law, Villanova won on a 5-1 decision, establishing a comfortable point margin.

Leading the Main Liners to victory were Dick Hayes, and Frank DeLea of the affirmative team, and by George Minzer and Bob Gerstung of the negative.

The St. Joseph's debate marked the first intercollegiate debate of the current season for Beta Gamma. Haverford College is next on the society's schedule, with a debate planned for Friday, Nov. 14 in the Villanova Library at 1 p. m.

Honorary Math Society Meets Friday; KPK Announces Eligible Students

The honorary Mathematics Society of Villanova College "Mu Alpha Theta" held its first meeting for this year on Friday, Nov. 1st. Elections were held and Donald Sayce '53 was elected President, Daniel Kerrisk '54 — Vice President and Ted Kuligowski '54 — Secretary-treasurer. Mr. Emil Amelotti, head of the Math Dept. is moderator of the club.

The next meeting is scheduled for Friday, Nov. 18th at 3:30 PM in room 110 Belle Air. Mr. Larry McGinn, Villanova '49, will speak on Mathematical Paradoxes. Rosemont has been invited to this lecture and all Villanova students are welcome.

The Math club started in 1939 under the supervision of Mr. Amelotti and started up again in 1946 after lapse of 5 years during the war.

EDUCATION FRAT

The names of Education students eligible for Kappa Phi Kappa, national professional fraternity, will be posted Thursday of this week, it was announced today by Dr. Francis J. Donohue, head of the Department of Education.

Beta Lambda chapter of the fraternity was founded in the spring of 1950 by a group of Education seniors under the leadership of Raymond J. Raclawski (B. S. in Ed. '50), and was chartered by the national offices of the fraternity late in the 1949-50 academic year.

Eligibility for membership in the local chapter required that the student be registered in th B.S. in Education curriculum, have at least a 2.0 average for all college work taken up to the time of his application, and have completed (or be taking) at least six semester hours of courses in Education with an average of at least 2.5 for the professional courses.

Hopes Rise For Glee Club

"Within two weeks we expect that the Glee Club will be under the direction of a professional director," said Dave Smith, Student Council representative of the group, in an interview last week.

"The Glee Club has been without the services of a faculty director for the last two years. Since that time Bill Miller, class of '52, and Tom Blackmore have acted in that capacity, replacing Rev. Ralph Handran, O.S.A. who left Villanova in 1950 to become a Navy chaplain."

Smith disclosed that interest of the freshmen in the club is unusually high, with over thirty members of the class of '56 having auditioned for places in the campus choral group.

"By the time that our new director arrives, we anticipate having all auditions completed and all accepted members assigned places. We should be able to begin rehearsing our numbers at our first general meeting."

Smith wished to thank Rev. Joseph Burns, O. S. A., moderator of the Glee Club, and Rev. George McLaughlin, O.S.A., moderator of Student activities, for their efforts in attempting to secure a professional director.

A successful year is predicted by Smith because of renewed interest in the activity, an improved schedule of public appearances, and professional training. Rehearsals are held once per week on Monday nights.

All students interested in joining the Glee Club are urged to see Smith, room 211 Fedigan, as soon as possible to arrange for an audition.

brought to music lovers all over the world.

A veritable torrent of recorded music has poured forth from dozens of new recording companies in the past four years. The Haydn Society, Westminster, Cetra-Soria, London and Urania are among those organizations which lead this prodigious amount of activity, the astounding results of which show thousands of compositions by more than three hundred composers presently available in recorded form.

Whether your preference runs to the 20th century's moderns, 19th century romanticism, or the baroque and rococo of the 17th and 18th centuries, you will find a wide range of music from which to choose.

In 1942 there were perhaps some forty-odd operas listed in the record catalogues; today there are over one hundred and fifty, mostly complete editions. There is a surprising amount of fine church music, dating from our own times back to the early 13th century.

Available to All

Today, the music lover can own superb recordings of all of the great masses of Haydn, the lofty oratorios of Handel, or the contrapuntal masterworks of Mozart

NOSE, THROAT,

and Accessory Organs not Adversely Affected by Smoking Chesterfields

FIRST SUCH REPORT EVER PUBLISHED ABOUT ANY CIGARETTE

A responsible consulting organization has reported the results of a continuing study by a competent medical specialist and his staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfield cigarettes.

A group of people from various walks of life was organized to smoke only Chesterfields. For six months this group of men and women smoked their normal amount of Chesterfields – 10 to 40 a day. 45% of the group have smoked Chesterfields continually from one to thirty years for an average of 10 years each.

At the beginning and at the end of the six-months period each smoker was given a thorough examination, including X-ray pictures, by the medical specialist and his assistants. The examination covered the sinuses as well as the nose, ears and throat.

The medical specialist, after a thorough examination of every member of the group, stated in a summary as his opinion, "... the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by the smoking of the cigarettes provided."

Cats Crush BU 51-6 In Finale

"What Is Answer To Spirit Apathy?" Council Wonders

"What do you think of Villnova?"

This is the question that members of the Student Council are carrying to all corners of the campus in its new attempt to discover why Villanovans, particularly dayhops, have displayed a lack of school spirit.

To Submit Report

According to the Council's delegates to the Faculty-Student Committee, the poll will be conducted by all members of the Council, the opinions and results compiled, and a report submitted to the committee.

The poll proposal was made for the group by Charlie Russell at the Council's meeting in 215 Mendel last Monday night. It was approved unanimously after being seconded by Joe Matton.

Bob Haner, Bedesem Score Twice Each

By Dick Confoy

It was quite a season. And it had quite an ending — a wild, thrill-packed contest with an appropriate finish, as a BU back leaped off the sidelines to nail Charley Bruno as he was wheeling goalward with just ten seconds left. Captain Bob Haner and Dick Bedesem, rolling through mud, rain, and the BU line for huge chunks of yardage, led a group of charged-up seniors making their curtain call a winning one.

The first half featured two spectacular touchdown passes by Billy Brannau, one to Filipski for 24 yards, and the other to Mike Mayock capping a 99 yard drive. And through it all was Bobby Haner running like a man possessed, ripping off guard, off tackle, down the middle—and always for good yardage. In between the Wildcat scoring thrusts, Boston had their first—and last—score spoonfed them as a holding penalty

Robert Hall Named Speaker At Annual Football Banquet

Vincent J. Gordon, '42, chairman of the annual Villanova football banquet sponsored by the Philadelphia Club of the Villanova Alumni Association, has announced that the principal speaker at the banquet on Tuesday, December, 9th at the Bellevue-Stratford will be Mr. Robert Hall, Director of Athletics at Yale University.

Mr. Hall, beside his duties at Yale, is also the chairman of the famed N.C.A.A. Television Committee. Prior to his appointment as athletic director at Yale, Mr. Hall was a prominent Main Line attorney and also a noted sportscaster.

Grid Analyst

Being a keen student of football he served as the analyst on the radio broadcasts of many college and professional games. Mr. Hall was one of the first sportscasters to appear on television during the infant days of the new medium.

As a resident of the Main Line, Mr. Hall is familiar with football at Villanova and his present Head Coach at Yale is Jordan Oliver '37, former coach at Villanova.

The entire football squad and coaching staff, along with members of the administration of Villanova, the local sportswriters, and radio and television broadcasters will be the guests of the Philadelphia Club at the banquet.

The advance sale of tickets indicates that the banquet will be the largest attended banquet ever given to a Villanova sports team. Tickets are now available at the Alumni Office.

At the football banquet there are a number of awards given to various members of the team and to outstanding alummni. The Most Valuable Player Award is given yearly by the National Alumni Association. There is also the Martin J. McLaughlin Award to the player who is elected the team captain. The Cyril Burke Award is given to the team's "most consistent" player and every senior member of the team receives a miniature gold football helmet.

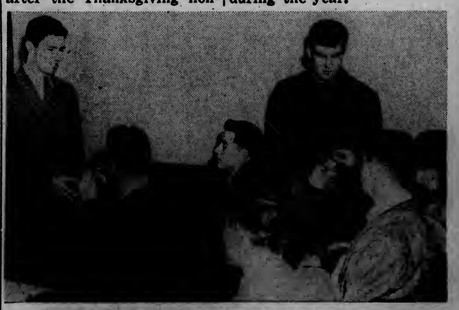
The Loyalty Award is given to the most outstanding alumnus of the year and the winner is decided by the former recipients of the award. Mr. William Caine '04, national alumni head, won this honor last year.

St. John's Orphanage Fund Establishes Goal Of $1,500

With only two and a half weeks remaining before the annual orphans outing, the St. John's Fund is starting to reach full speed. Both last week and this week the chief activity has been the classroom collections while next week will witness the beginning of the drive to recruit boys for the outing into Philadelphia on December 13.

Co-chairmen Frank Saul and Gene Filipski last week released some figures concerning the collections, held in the forty Religion classes. While it is still far too early to estimate how much will be collected by this method, they stated that their goal is $1500 and that about half that amount has already been realized.

Football Movies Successful



The Charity Ball, which was held on the November 1, netted the Fund $570. Besides this, the movies which have been shown every Wednesday night, have met with great success and have also helped swell the fund.

Both Saul and Filipski emphasized that there is still a long way to go before their goal will be met. They said that while the students have been very generous up to now, their continued support is absolutely necessary if the drive is to be successful.

Big Drive After Vacation

The drive to recruit students for the orphanage outing on the thirteenth of next month will begin in earnest after the Thanksgiving holiday. Joe Kenney, in charge of this function, has already set up sub-chairmen in every resident hall to help in this drive. Jack Kneafsey is in charge of the day students.

The idea is for every Villanova student to adopt an orphan for the day. This is the only Christmas entertainment which the children receive and they look forward to it all during the year.

Wildcats . . .

Villanova College concluded its fifty-ninth football season last Saturday afternoon in Shibe Park against the Terriers of Boston University in a blaze of glory and a sea of mud.

Boston University, even with their Harry Agganis, their band and their phantom "twelfth man" tackler, could not take away from the fact that Coach Art Raimo has, in the second year of his stewardship, produced one of the finest Wildcat elevens to take the field in many years.

Perhaps the team is the best that Villanova has produced since the famed Golden Age of the late 1930's when Maurice "Clipper" Smith coached the forces to two undefeated seasons in a row and a string of victories that totaled twenty four.

It is not a secret that the team is, also, looking for a Bowl bid. Coming from the pre-season ratings where the athletic George Gallups had said that Villanova would be nothing better than an also ran to the position now where they are considered, and rightly so, in most quarters to be the finest team in the East is another proof of the great ability of the 1952 football squad.

Whether or not the fine gentlemen who pick the teams to play in the respective post season classics realize this we can only conjecture. Even before this paper is printed the matter may be settled, and the teams chosen. Our hands are truly tied.

So, to the varsity, we can say that even if you do not receive a bowl bid, which you most certainly deserve, you have done a great job. This should extend to the entire team, the coaching staff, the scouts and everyone concerned with football at Villanova.

Congratulations for a job well done.

And Wild Kittens

Now to the other football team that Villanova produced this year—the 150's. As successful as the varsity was, the 150's greater congratulations, though not for a successful season. It is a little easier to go to practise every day, keep in training every day, and to endure the other difficulties that a football player has to put up with as long as your team is winning.

It is to them that this paper offers the were the opposite.

But when your team loses every game takes guts. That is just what the Villanova it takes more than endurance to do this, it 150 team did and for that they deserve a fine hand.

This school's record in that league is far too good to have it tarnished by one poor season. The many, many victories that the Main liners have produced more than make up for the five losses suffered this year.

To the 150 players we can refer them to what the faithful say in Flatbush, "Wait 'till next year."

Days Of A Nation Without A Leader

By Tony Galati

Elections are over. The people of the United States have expressed their choice.

The boisterous shouts which, until recently echoed across the country warning citizens to beware of "creeping socialism" and "galloping reaction", have subsided to almost inaudible whispers. The tumult and the shouting has died; the captains and the kings have departed.

And out of this seemingly pointless and chaotic tumult, there was born a new captain, whose task it is to pilot the ship of state for the ensuing four years.

Brakes Applied

Although only several weeks have passed since election day, already the brakes are being applied to the wheels of government machinery. The task of changing administrations is at hand and it is now that one of the most important deficiencies of our democratic system reveals itself.

From now until inauguration day, the world's most powerful nation is stranded with no firm hand at the helm. For a period of some eight or nine weeks, the bark of state must drift quite helplessly, its fate subject to the various currents and undercurrents of a stormy world.

No Real Leader

Mr. Truman, recently repudiated by the voters, cannot be expected to act with any degree of decisiveness. His era of command is over. He is leaving the bridge. On the other hand, Mr. Eisenhower, the captain-elect, whose commission is caught in the red tape of democracy, remains helpless until January 20.

This period of transition is one of indecision. Meanwhile, the problems of the world loom even larger.

The Korean stalemate continues. While neither the outgoing nor the incoming regime have any idea as to how to end the fighting, casualties continue to mount at a rate of more than 50,000 per year.

Campus A Detour, As Autos Invade

By Jim Glavin

Over a year ago, when "Operation Scarify" began on the expansive roadway system of Villanova College, many were mystified by the undertaking.

Were new Army Tanks to be tested on our petite campus paths? Were bigger-and-better towtrucks to be put in operation to haul away unsuspecting students' cars? Was a program underway to encourage students to ride bicycles to their classes in Belle Air? Were new runways under construction from which the football team would take off for its minimum of road games? These were some of the specious queries that were bound to arise.

'Highway Revolution'

"Scarifiers," "Steamrollers," and their attendant brethren weaved, wormed, and powerhoused their way from C&F to Fedigan, with a side excursion here or there just for good measure. A roaring-good super-highway was erected to facilitate the mail-parade each day that walks to the Post-Office. The "Highway Revolution" had come. What was the reason?

Now, months later, we know. The campus highway work was purely and simply a far-sighted measure of goodwill. How were we to know that our campus roadways were to be used as a detour while Lancaster Turnpike underwent some minor alterations? Why, the highways that were constructed on the campus a year ago were erected merely to accommodate the patrons of Lancaster Pike, who were to be inconvenienced a year later!

University-like Roads?

A story — a rumor, be it what it may — has gained popularity on campus that this hallowed institution is destined to soon be a "University," A University is, naturally, bigger and better than a mere college. So, why should the highways of an institution soon to become a University not have bigger and better facilities? It's only natural.

Teaching Theory Based On Student And Idea

By James J. Mitchell, M.A.

Editor's Note: The following article was written by Mr. James J. Mitchell, Instructor in English at Villanova. Mr. Mitchell was requested to write the article by the "Villanovan," as the first in a series of articles to be written by members of the Villanova Faculty. Subsequent articles will appear periodically in this paper.*

I find myself in the position of a surgeon invited to operate in an amphitheatre filled with his colleagues and friends. Should the experiment prove unsuccessful they will regret not so much the lack of life in the patient as the lack of technique of the operator.

The purpose of this short essay lies in an attempt to evaluate the educator's purpose. Presumptuous as it may seem I should like to examine the philosophy which must motivate the successful teacher. This philosophy may not be consciously known or examined but it must be.

Desirable Combination

The motif of any successful or pretentious teaching theory must be student and idea — a combination devoutly to be wished. An harassed and popular teacher, with an infinite zest for the profession, once gave this definition of it "teaching ideas one likes to people one likes."

I can think of no better summation of the philosophy of that strange, sometimes elusive, and often in student opinion, eccentric personality, the teacher. Without this conviction we are reduced to the status of laborers.

Stimulation of Thought

We feel, in moments of discouragement, that the portion of students who appreciate what we have to say is, at the least, pathetically small. Such is not the case. If a teacher has something to say and says it well, he cannot fail of a response. Any of us who has felt the difference between a class gone well and one gone badly cannot but feel this.

The student may not agree or always accept what we have to say; this is not our immediate concern. We have to do with the stimulation of thought, with the mental reaching out for an idea, and the consequent result of the process. We must admit that we often gather more than the student from this. We have here an extra dividend.

In one of our more popular courses in literature, an essay by Eliot discusses the poet and his duty. He speaks specifically of the necessity of the poet's writing as if he had the whole literature of Western civilization in his

'Cause It Wasn't Raining

THE RAINS CAME and so did the Senior Weekend.

The rains have gone now, but the memories of that weekend will linger on through many more rains. For the stars shown brightly last Friday in the Field House and clouds are usually forgotten when the skies are at last clear.

But words generally are not adequate to describe the thrills and enjoyment that go together to make such a weekend a success. And in the case of Senior Weekend, Class of '53, not even the Great Bard, Shakespeare himself, could do it justice.

So here, in a series of pictures, are a few of the highlights of a weekend whose every minutes was a highlight.

1. THE CONCESSIONAIRES HAD AN EXTRA JOB added to their duties when old Jupe Pluvius decided to add his little touch to the Belle Air Ball. Needless to say, the good god of H2O failed to even dampen the spirits of the promenaders. Here Don Diot helps a young lovely make a 'dry-run' for the sheltering canoy.

2. STAIRWAY TO THE STARS bore out the prediction that this centerpiece would be the most beautiful and impressive of any seen at a Villanova Prom. With blue spot lights enhancing its stardust studded exterior, the masterpiece of George Kaelin and his decoration crew's ingenuity lent an aura of beauty and enchantment to the festivities.

3. WITH THE ROMANTIC MUSIC OF CLAUDE THORNHILL, probably the best dance band ever to appear on campus, providing the background, more than 500 happy couple triped the light fantastic at the final formal to be sponsored by the Class of '53. With the romantic voice of beautiful Christy Connor warbling the ballads and comic Med Flory supplying the laughs, Thornhill played the sweetest music ANY side of heaven. And the ever popular Blue Notes again gave proof of their ability to be one of the best intermission bands in the area.

4. "OUT IN THE RAIN AGAIN". Wildcat grid enthusiasts who braved the rain and cold saw the Mainline football machine in high gear for the final time this season, barring a bowl bid, as the Cats romped over a hapless Boston University eleven 51-6 at Shibe Park. Here senior fullback Bob Haner adds six points to his scoring laurels and another thrill to Senior Weekend as he dashes into the end zone in the third period.

5. ADDING THE FINISHING TOUCH to the park setting Friday night were the concession stands spotted at either end of the Field House. Here Steve Gepp and his lovely date Carol Pittschae take time out for some refreshment. 'Bartenders' are Pete Irish and Joe Maggiore.

Accounting Company of Old Grads Honors Father McGuire at Dinner

Very Rev. Francis X. McGuire, O.S.A., president of Villanova College was recently honored by J. J. Linsalata and Company, certified public accountants, upon his election as head of the Association of Pennsylvania Colleges at a dinner in the Barclay Hotel last week.

J. J. LINSALATA, president of the Linsalata CPA Company is seen congratulating Father McGuire on his election as president of the Penna. Colleges Association at a dinner held in the Barclay Hotel last week.

The Linsalata Company is unique in that it is composed entirely of Villanova graduates and that its president is a former instructor of accounting at Villanova.

The purpose of the dinner, which is the first in the history of the company, besides honoring Fr. McGuire on his new appointment was to honor the graduates of Villanova who are preparing to take the state examination for certified public accountants.

Fr. McGuire, paid tribute to the Philadelphia firm and to the fine service that they are doing for graduates of Villanova and to all the former students who are now practising accounting in the Philadelphia area. He also praised Albert Hevey, '52 the youngest candidate ever to sit in Pennsylvania for a C. P. A. exam.

Among the guests at the dinner were Congressman William Barrett, president of the Pennsylvania C.P.A. Institute, Prof. Patrick J. Dougherty of the Commerce and Finance School, who acted as toastmaster, and Prof. Leo Schafer, head of the accounting department. Mr. Linsalata was a member of the Villanova faculty from 1946 to 1951.

Gotham Alumni Dance At Statler Friday

The social highlight of the Thanksgiving holiday, as far as Villanova students are concerned, will come Friday night, November 28th when the Villanova Club of New York sponsors their annual dance.

The Skytop Roof of the Hotel Statler, at Seventh Avenue and 34th Street in New York City will be the site of the annual affair. The Club has announced that there will be a special rate to all students of Villanova at $4.00.

Tickets are not being sold on campus but can be obtained at the door on the night of the dance. Dancing will be from 9:30 until 1:30.

Our helping Germany to rearm is becoming increasingly distasteful to France and Britain. The United Nations, which a few years ago seemed strong and healthy, now shows signs of weakness and is threatening to crack. The idea of an European army has been almost completely discarded.

And so throughout the world there is dilemma upon dilemma. International relations are becoming more and more strained.

The world is in crying need of leadership and all eyes are focused upon the United States. However, the United States is in the peculiar position of being world leader while actually having no leadher herself.

Debaters Win at Haverford, LaSalle; Maintain Record

Villanova's undefeated Debating Teams won two matches during the past two weeks to retain their perfect record.

At Haverford College on Nov. 14, the negative team, George Sinnott and Joe Roddy, beat the affirmative pair from down the Main Line. Jim Davis and Frank Cunning, the affirmative team from Villanova argued well but in vain. No decision was made in their debate because of a lack of judges.

The teams travelled to Philadelphia on Nov. 18 for a tourney with La Salle College. The opponents did not show, however, and the Villanovans won on a forfeit.

Next Tuesday, a team composed of George Sinnott and Bob Erskin, Affirmative; and Pete Coll and Ron Fransisco, negative, will oppose the the teams at Immaculata College. On Dec. 6th they will take on Temple University in Philadelphia.

The Debate Team's schedule will end this year with a weekend tour of the Lehigh Valley on Dec. 6, 7, 8. George Minser, Joe Roddy, Bob Tomanto and Bob Gerstung will make the trip which will include sessions at Lehigh University, Lafayette, Muhlenberg, Cedar Crest and Moravian Colleges.

Play Features Spanish Social; Followed By Songs, Movie

Spanish Night, the Spanish Club's first social and cultural event of the year will be held this year on the night of December 4th, the Rev. Lorenzo, O.S.A., moderator announced last week.

The annual affair will be divided into two parts this year. The first part will include a selection of songs by two of the club members, Carlos Toro and Manuel Carvajal.

Father Lozano said that he again would have an outstanding speaker but could as yet make no announcement until he had a definite acceptance. In previous years Father has secured such notables as the Spanish consul, the representatives from Uruguay and Nicaragua, and the Spanish representative to Philadelphia.

Concluding the first part will be the play "El Profesor Distraido" (The Absent-minded Professor). As is the usual case, students from Rosemont will assist in the production of the play. Written by Father Lozano, the play features William de la Guardia as the professor, and Pat Denier of Rosemont as Beatrice, his daughter, with Grace Howley and Julie Wright, also of Rosemont, and John Parolin, Juan Donestevez, and Carlos Conde in the supporting roles.

The second half of the gala evening will be composed of a movie entitled "Don Quijote de la Mancha", based on the immortal novel of the most famous of all Spanish authors, Cervantes.

Between the two parts refreshments will be served. Members of the Spanish Club and their guuests are welcome to attend, said Father Lozano. Membership cards will be the tickets of admission.

Logical

It's really logical, when you think it out. Lancaster Pike would have to undergo some minute changes in front of Villanova. So, farsightedness prevailing, the College Roads were improved and expanded. But, the situation then arose that the college had more ample and better constructed roads than a mere college should have. What was the answer to this dilemma? Why, the college, too, like its roadways, should expand. What's better than a college? Why, a University of course!

Parking Space??

The minor consideration that involved in the alterations to the pike is the fact that the parking lots are now "in a wild, uncharted wilderness" has only naturally led to a mass invasion of the campus by vehicles, of various sorts and descriptions, each day. Today, the saturation point seems only days off.

Perhaps the day when a traffic officer will be making a regular appearance on the campus, and when the automobiles traveling to a 1:30 class in Belle Air will outnumber the pedestrian, poverty-ridden students is not too far in the unpredictable future!

Raimomen Finish Grid Campaign for '52 With 7-1-1 Slate

By Tom Mentzer

Villanova's grid forces inaugurated their 1952 campaign by vanquishing Paul Bryant's highly regarded Kentucky eleven, 25-6. After a deadlocked first half, the vaunted Wildcat ground attack got into full gear and gained huge chunks of yardage almost at will. This triumph was the Wildcats' first over Kentucky in four outings.

On the following Saturday, the Blue and White were in South Carolina to face the Clemson Tigers. Reversing the procedure of the previous week, the Mainliners struck early for two T.D.'s, and then staved off late Tiger drives in the final quarter to eke out a close one, 14-7.

3rd Straight

The Raimo men chalked up their third straight victory as they downed Detroit, 21-7. Sparkling defensive work by the secondary of McNicholas, Tomko, and company in stopping cold the aerials of Ted Marchibroda was a deciding factor in the victory.

Before a Homecoming crowd of 11,000, the V. C. Gridsters listed their first shutout of the season by thumping Wake Forest, 20-0. Early in the initial quarter, Gene Filipski broke through right tackle and sped 44 yards to paydirt. This scamper set the pattern of play for what it was the whole afternoon, strictly Villanova.

Eagles Clawed

Smarting under last season's 20-13 loss, the Cats were "up" for the Boston College game and clawed the Eagles, 28-7. Filipski, who picked up 117 yards, Haner, who tallied twice, and Brannau, who passed and called his plays superbly, were the principal sources of grief for the Maroon and Gold.

A good Xavier eleven threw a scare into Villanova before succumbing 34-20. Seemingly hopelessly beaten near the

Haner, DeRose Head List Of 11 Seniors Graduating In '53

Late Saturday afternoon, after the Cats had handily whipped the Terriers of Boston University, several Senior members of this year's squad hung up their spikes for good. For such standouts as Bob Haner, the captain, and Billy Brannau it was the final time they would wear the Blue and White of Villanova on a football field.

Haner and Brannau were not the only ones who won't be available in the spring when Art Raimo again summons candidates for his football team. Joe Derose, the standout center, will also be on his way out of the Mainline institution next June. The big bull from Stone Harbor, N. J., was one of the finest offensive centers in the country during his varsity career, and the coaching staff has quite a job on their hands replacing him.

Trunzo Departs

Tony Trunzo, perhaps the steadiest performer in the offensive line, and John Marcus, who was such a big help the campaign, are two other standouts that will leave the offensive platoon.

The defenders, too will lose a group of real good operators. Frank Banas the regular defensive left end has finally come to the end of his intercollegiate career. Frank, despite his size played the position exceptionally well and any of you who saw the Clemson films will attest to his great worth. In the defensive secondary, linebacker Tom Green has ended his playing days, but we understand he is in line for a coaching job. Tom's a smart ballplayer and certainly well qualified for the task of a grid mentor.

Tomko Also Graduates

The defensive captain, Paul Tomko is another standout who finished his job for Art

FARAGALLI ELECTED

In a meeting of the football team late yesterday afternoon Joe Faragalli was named Captain for the 1953 campaign. The big junior from Philadelphia has been a standout for the Cats ever since his sophomore season. The former John Bartram ace saw action on the offensive and defensive platoons in '51, but this year Joe confined his duties to the offensive.

Lightweight Gridders Close Out 1952 Campaign Winless

Considering that this year's Villanova 150-pound football club was the first of its kind to represent the college in the past two years, and that it had the misfortune of succeeding the 1949 Eastren Intercollegiate Champs, the 0-5 record of Coach Terry Terranova's lightweights perhaps doesn't do justice to the true caliber of the team.

Injuries Costly

For a club that lost only two of its games by more than one touchdown; that was plagued by numerous injuries to key men; and that played only two home games, the record is not an accurate criterion in measuring the good football the Wildcats played throughout the course of the abbreviated season.

Right from the outset, the club met with bad breaks and last-minute setbacks.

A blocked punt and several interceptions led to an opening-game 13-6 win for Rutgers. 'Nova halfback Gene Bogarty and the line distinguished themselves in this clash, played in Villanova Stadium.

Tigers Are Tough

The second engagement, against Princeton's Tigers, wasn't quite as close an affair, as the 27-0 score indicates. Played in Princeton, N. J., the outcome left little doubt as to the better club, although Richard Miller did make himself known by his yeoman defensive play in the losers' line. The Tigers salted over-ruled a Cecere interception and gave the Terriers a first down on the Cat 4, fromm where Titus Plomaritis drove over. The half ended 13-6 and, with the field and rain getting worse every minute, it looked like possibly a muddy stalemate. Instead, there was an explosion.

Defense Stops Agganis As Mainliners Roll To 8 T.D.'s

T. D. Parade

The Cats really opened the floodgates in the third period. First they marched 83 yards, with Filipski opening up with a 30 yard run, and Hanerr carrying over for his first score. Just seconds later, with the Greek starting to crack, Frank Banas speared an Agganis pitchout and carrired three men on his back to the one. Haner bulled over on the next play and the Terriers were starting to go under. Then Bill Hegarty, playing a fabulous game, fell on a fumble on the BU 20, and Gene Filipski rolled around right end, cut sharply to his left on a rain-slickened field and went all the way for the score. At this point the clock read just six minutes and the Bostonians were already buried under a 33-6 advantage. But there was plenty more to come.

Bedesem Scores

As the final quarter opened, Jack Helm, sensational sophomore fullback, broke into the clear and was finally hauled down 49 yards later on the 5. Three plays after, Dick Bedesem swept wide inside right end for the final yardage. Minutes later Bedesem struck again, this time with the most spectacular performance of the day. Starting from the BU 39, he twisted, stopped, picked interference, shouldered tacklers —and wound up standing in the end zone. Three plays later the Wildcats kicked off. Joe Terrasi fumbled and Frank Banas picked up the ball. With just seconds remaining, Joe McNicholas hit Bruno on the BU 30 and Mario Morirello, banished from the game minutes before, leaped off the sidelines and pulled the speeding halfback down.

It was a great game, and naturally had some great individual performances. All-American candidate Joe DeRose, along with Tony Trunzo and Dick Connor, consistently led the offensive threats or Filipski, Haner, Bedesem, etc. The defensive line, notably Joe Leichtweiss, Tom Fitzpatrick, and Banas, constantly forced Agganis to hurry his passes, and backfield men Tom Green, Paul Tomko and Ralph Cecere bottled up Harrry's receivers effectively.

Basketball Team Rated Poorly in Pre-Season Poll

With the basketball opener just a week away, LOOK magazine's team of experts has come up with their season's predictions, and, if accurate, it looks like a dismal and disastrous year for the Wildcats. For Villanova not only is absent from the nation's top 25, but they are also ranked a lowly 18th among Eastern independents (Ivy league not included), trailing such stalwarts as St. Josephs (Pa.) and St. Francis of Bklyn.

Adding insult to injury, LOOK failed to mention star players from only 3 Eastern teams, Bucknell, Brown, and Villanova — although the likes of Springfield and Buffalo rated 3 players each. If the Cats were to beat all the teams whom they are ranked over in the LOOK ratings and lose to the teams picked over them, Villanova would end up with a hapless 10-17 record (not counting service games), including a ten game losing streak from the Duqesne through Siena games.

Cats Shaping Up

As this ridiculously inaccurate article is being circulated throughout the country's campuses, the Severancemen are rounding into shape preparatory to making LOOK show worse than Gallup. Co-captain Jim Mooney and sensational sophomores Bob Schaeffer and John Devine have already clinched starting roles, with Nick Maguire, Steve Gepp, and Sam Glassmire vieing for the remaining two posts.

Devine in Pivot

The Wildcats will probably work out of their traditional weave, but perhaps John Devine will be given part-time duty in the pivot slot. Meanwhile, Bob Schaeffer will be expected to take up most of the offensive slack created by the loss of Hennessey, with the sophomore perhaps developing into a scoring threat of the Arizin-Hennessey mold.

Heading the newcomers is Joe Donnelly, a sophomore set-shot artist from St. Johns Prep (Bklyn) who is expected to add offensive strength to the squad. George Stanko will probably see plenty of substitute action along with senior Joe Maguire, as will sophomore returnees Jim Brady (sidelined most of last year), West Catholic ace Dave Clune, and Bill Sigalove.

SPORTS CHATTER

Raimo And Co.

By Carl Valenti

And so ends another regularly scheduled football season. The Wildcats' amazing rout of Boston University was easily the focal point of a highly successful senior weekend. A weekend which will long be remembered as the result of careful, far-sighted, long range planning. 'Nuff said!

Now that the season is ended and we have had time to reflect a bit, we can just begin to appreciate the truly magnificent job performed by three men who have had more to do with Villanova's success this year than any other ten men, namely Art Raimo, Eddie Michaels, and Alex Bell. Just stop for a few moments and consider the numerous tasks that the coaching staff has done so commendably.

Other schools with football teams of size and calibre comparable to Villanova's have coaching staffs that number as many as eight, ten and twelve members. Here all the work is handled by Raimo and his two assistants. Their work begins long before the first-game. There are plays to design, strategy to be planned and players to be gotten in shape. Then when the season actually begins the jobs are doubled. Alex Bell aided by freshman coach Bill Grief takes care of the scouting of future opponents.

Alex Bell

Bell, newest member of the staff, first came to Villanova as a freshman in 1934. One of his teammates on the freshman team that year was Jordan Olivar, former wildcat mentor. Upon graduation, Al went to the Detroit Lions but his playing career was kayoed by a recurring ankle injury. In 1940, he went to Loyola of Los Angeles as an assistant coach until 1942 when he received a Naval Commission. After the war and some graduate studies at the University of Southern California, Bell took over as Head Football Coach at Delone Catholic High School in McSherrystown, Penna. where he compiled an amazing record of 26 games won, 4 lost and two tied over a span of three years. Thence to St. Augustine's High School in Los Angeles before coming to Villanova.

All American Michaels

Line coach Eddie Michaels first came to play ball for the Wildcats two years before Bell. Ed matriculated in 1932 and after a year of frosh ball moved right into a regular firrst string guard berth and never relinquished it. Michaels was Villanova's first All-American when, in 1935, he was named to several All-American teams. After his college career, Ed graduated into pro ball where he was outstanding for the Washington Redskins and the Chicago Bears. In 1939 Michaels turned to coaching and was named player-coach of the Wilmington Clippers of the American Professional League. The Philadelphia Eagles signed Ed in 1943 to serve under Greasy Neale. After four years with the Eagles, Ed went to Canada to become line coach of the Ottawa Rough Riders where he stayed until h e came to Villanova in 1951.

Art Raimo is in his second year as head coach, immediately preceeded by five years a backfield coach under Jordan Olivar and Jim Leonard. Art, like Michaels and Bell, is an Alumnus of Villanova having performmed for the Mainliners from 1935 through 1937 as a 150-pound fullback. Raimo was largely responsible for an undefeated season in his senior year. Following graduation, Raimo coached at St. Joseph's College and Ridley Township High before entering the Navy in 1943 where he was an athletic instructor under Gene Tunney. While in the Navy, Art also played ball on an unbeaten Bainbridge team in the same backfield with Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice.

Eby Receives "Award"

The recipient of this week's "I Like Wildcats" award is Mr. Earl Eby of the Philadelphia Bulletin. Mr. Eby has written many fine articles about Villanova during the past season and we would like to show our appreciation by acknowledging his work with our mythical "trophy."

While we're on the subject of football in general and relatively unheralded men in particular, how about a salute to the underpublicized defensive line. One of the best in the country in our opinion, it boasts more than one player who should be considered for at least All-East honors. Roy Kershaw, right end, a vicious blocker and keen competetor, is rated tops by press observers throughout the country. Roy, a 200 pound junior from Doylestown, Pa., returns next year for his 3d straight first string season. Joe Leichtweiss, who held down the defensive tackle slot last year while just a freshman, seems to improve with every game and looks like sure All-American material in the near future. Joe is 6'3", 230 pounds and came from Iona Prep in New York. Tom Fitzpatrick bounced back from a broken ankle last season to become a tower of strength in the defense this year. Fitz, a mere 225 pounds, also hails from Iona Prep and is another returning junior. Bob Volonino, another guard who is capable of sectional recognition, eats and sleeps football, and we're happy to say he'll have another year to do it at Villanova. Bill Hegarty, possibly the Cats outstanding lineman, should be in line for perhaps even All-American honors. Bill at 235 pounds nevertheless has amazing speed and has the ability to spot a play before it starts. Frank Banas, the only senior lineman, showed fans a fabulous performance in the BU game. The lightest defenseman at 190, the agile Banas will be hard to replace in '53.

IM Football Loops End, Championship Game Rained Out

By John Gillman

Two weeks ago Thursday saw the end of both Intramural football races, with undefeated teams topping each league. The game to decide the all-Villanova champion, rained out last Thursday, was rescheduled for yesterday. The two teams participating were the Foshes of the Austin league and Good Counsel of the Mendel league, both teams winning their league finals over previously unbeaten teams.

Foshes Squeeze

The Foshes squeezed past the Austin Troopers, in a hard fought game, 6-0, thanks to Jim Mullin's pass to Harry La Fever. The running and passing of Mullin stood out as the best individual performance of the game. Earlier in the week the Foshes took another 6-0 decision, this time over the Barracks Boozers. The TD was again the result of a pass, the Principals of the final changing places as La Fever pitched to Mullin for the score.

Johnson Stars

Good Counsel made its way into the championship by virtue of a 13-6 win over Delury. Marty Johnson was the star of the game as he scored Good Counsel's first touchdown on a thirty yard run and passed to Joe Billera for the second. Paul Solami passed to Beggy for the losers only score.

The championship game should be one of the best ever, with Good Counsel sporting an undefeated string that stretches over two years. The Foshes are also something of a rarity, as they are the first day-hop team to get into the final.

NOTICE: All those interested in playing Intramural basketball, turn in a roster of your team as soon as possible after Thanksgiving vacation.

Final standings of the IM leagues are as follows:

Mendel League
Good Counsel	5-0
Delury	3-1
Alumni Alkies	3-3
Alumni Characters	2-3
Mendel Hangovers	2-4
Fedigan Flyers	1-3
O'Dwyer Clowns	0-2
Austin League
Foshes	6-0
Austin Troopers	5-1
Austin Brewers	3-2
Junior Stars	2-3
Barracks Nightriders	1-4
Barracks Boozers	2-3
Alumni Clowns	0-6

J. J. Barry, Dwyer Finish in Top 5 In NY IC4A Meet

At the 44th annual IC4A varsity cross-country run last week, Villanova was the only school to place two men in the first five as Michigan State took the team title. Charley Capazzoli of Georgetown ran off with individual honors as he covered the course in 24 minutes and 30.1 seconds. Ray Osterhout of Syracuse and Jim Kepford from Michigan State were second and third, rerspectively.

John Joe Barry of Villanova finished fourth with Freddy Dwyer right behind him. Second place team honors went to Army with Syracuse and Penn State, last year's winner, behind the Cadets in that order.

that one away early, scoring twice in the opening period.

Next a get-together with Cornell's Red and Blue, this tilt ending up with the hosts on top, 19-12, giving Cornell its first victory and leaving Villanova still looking for its first win. Back Lefty Spencer and lineman Jim Loftus shone as the Mainliners left the field clutching an unfamiliar 12-6 lead at halftime. This was too good to last, however, and Cornell capitalized on a sustained 73-yard scoring drive and a 70-yard punt return by Ed Bludan to send the "Kittens" home empty-handed.

Penn Comes Back

Probably the best game of the year, collectively, for the 'Cats was a 12-7 loss to Penn in a well-played but oft-penalized ball game played in Villanova Stadium. A Penn TD pass play with less than two minutes remaining decided this contest, but not before the entire Villanova team had made with a vain but all-out defensive and offensive effort. Dan Murphy scored the losers' only touchdown.

The final game, played at Annapolis, Md., is just as well forgotten. The final: a good Navy aggregation—56, 'Villanova—0.

end of the third quarter, the Musketeers rallied from a 28-7 deficit to within a touchdown of tying the Cats. Reliable Joe McNicholas eased the pressure by carrying an interception 40 yards to paydirt.

Marines Tied

Only a stirring last half comeback by an aroused Wildcat eleven turned an apparent defeat at the hands of the Parris Island Marines into a 20-20 tie. Trailing 20-6, the Blue and White, led by its great Captain, Bob Haner, roared to two quick scores, and were on the road to another one at the final whistle.

A powerful Tulsa team humbled Villanova, 10th ranked nationally, by a 42-6 score. Striking swiftly and furiously, the Hurricanes established a 28-0 advantage, too much for the Cats to overcome.

On the reserve list Dick Bedsem, Joe Jerry and Walt Zuber wrapped things up at the end of last week. Bedesem has been standout since he was a sophomore and certainly showed up very well this season when called upon to fill in at either right or left halfback. Zuber and Jerry didn't see too much action but both are seasoned veterans who many times in the past proved their worth and spirit in a good many contests.

Filipski, Green And Hegarty Speak At Boston U. Rally

THIS ISN'T THE RALLY written about below, but it's the one that counted in the long run. Gene Filipski, one of nation's top groundgainers, grins as he steps into paydirt as the second half six touchdown deluge kept rolling on its merry way. (Photo by Dick Schicher).

Talks by defensive-stalwart Tom Green, ground-eating halfback Gene Filipski, safety-man Paul Tomko, and linemen Bill Hegarty, and Dan Hurley highlighted the college's final pep rally, for the Boston University game, last Thursday in the C&F auditorium.

A mimicked "scouting report" of Boston's Terriers by Green was the highpoint, as it included such forthcoming terrors as a "seven foot, eleven inch, and ninety-eight pound end."

Charley Russell and Joe Kenney, of the Student Council, were in charge of the rally. Players were presented with ties by the Junior class following the gathering.

Officers Elected By IRC; New Constitution Adopted

Villanova's Industrial Relations Commission met last Tuesday with Bob Gerstung presiding over the group. Members elected Joe Heaps to the position of vice-president, Julian Smith to that of secretary and Louis Cassella as treasurer.

High point of the meeting was the adoption of the IRC's constitution. With no fanfare, the Commission has become the first extra-curricular group on campus to have its constitution binding on its members attending Villanova University not Villanova College.

The IRC has set the precedet which will undoubtedly be followed by all other campus groups.

Following the completion of the business came the outstanding address by Dr. Powell. Poised and alert to the interest of his audience, Dr. Powell presented the Church's views with regard to our present economic system as stated in the Encyclicals.

Dr. Powell explained how and why the Church has a right to voice her views on our economic system. He then proceeded to explain the Church's proposed system of economics called the "cooperate order." A means of accomplishing this "cooperate" would be through Catholic Action.

The lecture was heard by one of the largest IRC audiences of the semester. Students from Manor College attended this meeting as guests of the campus group.

Following the talk, the Manor College IRC faculty moderator extended an invitation to all Villanova students who are members of the IRC and in good standing to attend their lecture and social. This function will be held on December 3 and will begin at 7:30 p. m.

It was emphasized by Mr. Klien and the president that only those who have paid their dues are in good standing. Details concerning time and place of departure will be posted in the Pie Shop and on the C&F bulletin board.

APOLOGY LETTER

Through a motion of Charlie Russell, representing Schola Cantorum, the secretary of the Council was instructed to write letters to nearby women's colleges apologizing for opinions on these colleges expressed by Villanova students in a recent issue of the Villanovan.

Lou Oberle, editor of the Belle Air, submitted a petition requesting the recognition of a Public Speaking Club as an accredited extra-curricular activity. After a short discussion Maury Murphy moved that the club be accepted. There were no dissenting votes.

To provide for proxy ar alternate voters on the Council floor, a motion was made by Bob Quinn, allowing for a vote to be taken in every case involving a long-term absence of a council member for one semester so that he may be given a proxy vote.

Absent from this meeting were Joe Roy, Senior Education; Joe Mullen, NFCCS; and Jim Boyle, Sanctuary Society.

Stadium Rumor Un-Founded

At a time when Villanova's football hopes were ebbing after a stunning loss to Tulsa on Nov. 8, the sports page of the "Philadelphia Inquirer" saw fit to boost Wildcat morale with the publication of some rosy half-truths about the alleged imminent prospects for "an enlarged Goodreau Stadium to seat 25,000."

The story, under the byline of sportswriter Stan Baumgartner, made good reading. But facts disclosed last week indicated that Baumgartner received his information in an "off the record" interview with a college official, meaning that a confidence was violated in the story's publication.

One administration official asserted last week that the Inquirer's announcement was premature and misleading.

The post-Tulsa game article began, "Disclosure that Villanova's plan an enlarged Goodreau Stadium to seat 25,000 have reached the stage where one-third of the $350,000 has been pledged. . . "

It continued," Coach Art Raimo revealed that the architect's blueprints have been completed for the project."

The cost, said one official source, even for the size of the stadium mentioned in the Inquirer, would be far exceeded since the figure does not include costs of facilities vital to the enlarged field. This referred to construction of lavatories and dressing rooms, arc lights, press boxes, scoreboards, retarding walls, and television facilities.

Also omitted from the published cost were expenses connected with extending parking facilities for the stadium excavation to lower the playing field level and the accompanying pumping costs, and construction of concession facilities.

Correcting an overestimate of the size of the Stadium Building Fund in the Inquirer, one source reported that the coffers now hold $90,000. This amount was realized from the $75,766 sale of chance books in 1950-51, and the balance from interest on a portion of the fund which has been invested, from the Villanova Concert, and miscellaneous contributions.

JUNIOR RINGS

Thursday, December 4th will be the last day that Juniors will be able to order their class rings on campus. After that, any Junior wishing to order a ring will have to go to Bailey, Banks and Biddle in Philadelphia to place an order. Fittings on December 4th will be in Fr. bones.

I do not intend to equate the poet and the teacher, but this concept of the pastness of the present and the presentness of the past is valuable for both callings. Particularly is this true in the humanities.

Question of Interest

A charge often leveled, at times with justice, against the demogogue of the classroom is that he believes his subject to be paramount in student interest. The students know better; they possess their own interest.

I myself cannot imagine any thinking young person permitting himself to remain ignorant of literature. Not to be familiar with our essayists who see life in their own intimate terms, with our novelists and dramatists who are interested in people and their personalities, with our poets whose concern is with truth and beauty, is criminal and tragic.

Our history people believe the same about their own peculiar combination of fact, theory, and fancy, and so it is with most. This bias can be carried to the most extreme and dangerous exaggeration, but, in the main, we all find some truth there.

Otherwise we would not be here.

Rings and Blazer Issues Resolved At Junior Conclave

The Junior Class held their last meeting of 1952 Tuesday night in the Commerce and Finance Auditorium.

President Art Quinn, who presided, announced that, "Class affairs are all going smoothly and unless something unexpected comes up the class will not meet again until after the Christmas vacation."

Dick Brady has the ring situation well in hand. John Birle has ordered the blazers and plans for the Blazer Ball are well under way. The St. John's Orphanage is proving a great success and Junior Week chairmen are all busy on their respective projects.

Although a small representation of the class attended the meeting, a vote had to be taken to determine the measuring date and the delivery date for Blazers.

Measurements will be taken Dec. 4th in Austin Lounge and delivery will be in early February. Two rough one round and one shield, will be presented to the Robert Rollins Co. of New York. They will make the seals and send them back here for a vote of the Blazer Committee. The best seal will be placed on the Blazers.

Frank Saul, St. John's Committee chairman, spoke optimistically of the committee's work so far and urged continued student support to assure a success.

Addressing the group again, Quinn suggested to the class that they present ties to the football team as a token of the class' appreciation of the fine job they have done this season. The class voted to present the blue and white striped ties to the players at the B. U. rally Thursday night.

Grimani Breviary Miniature, Rembrandt Work In Library

An interesting volume recently presented to the Library by Mr. and Mrs. Ike Hayman, of Rutherford, N. J., is a reproduction of the Grimani Breviary, one of the most exquisite examples of 15th century Flemish illumination.

The original manuscript, now carefully preserved in St. Mark's Library in Venice, is named for its first owner, Cardinal Domenico Grimani, who was noted not only for his piety but also for his literary judgment. The miniatures in the Breviary were the work of several Flemish artists, among them the famous Hans Memling.

The volume just presented to the Library reproduces over one hundred of these miniatures (four in color) all of which illustrate the excellence of the artists' genius. They represent scenes of the calendar months, Biblical events and devotions to various Saints.

Most pages have marginal borders adorned with detailed designs of flowers, birds, insects, landscapes, buildings, etc. The binding of the book is also a copy of the original red velvet with a gilded portrait and seal of Cardinal Grimani.

Another interesting donation to the library is an original Rembrandt etching of the "Death of the Virgin" which was done in 1639.

This work of art was donated to the library by Mr. John J. McVey of Philadelphia the former Catholic book publisher.

Mr. Mansfield, in an address before the Grolier Club, has said, "In Rembrandt the art of etching found at once its full range and essential completeness. There is scarcely a phase of the art which he did not illustrate, no technical method which he failed to employ, no range of printing in which he was not an expert. He began with the bare foundations of his art and he left a finished structure.

Student Convocation Next Tuesday, 1:30

The second student convocation of the current semester will be held next Tuesday, December 2nd, in the college Field House from 1:30 until 2:30. All classes will be cancelled during this hour.

The highlight of this convocation will be naming of the Villanova Seniors who have been elected to the National Collegiate Who's Who. This is a compilation of the outstanding students in all the colleges and universities in the nation.

The first convocation of the semester was held in September when Villanova College presented an honorary degree to the Spanish Ambassador, the Hon. Don Jose Leguerica.

Four Graduates Receive Reserve Navy Commissions

Four Villanova graduates were among the 880 men receiving reserve commissions from the Navy's Officer Candidate school in Newport, R. I., last month.

The graduating class was composed of two groups. One group, totalling 690 men, completed an intensive four months training program and received general line officers' commissions.

Three former engineering students, Robert H. Miles, and Robert A. Bresnahan, both of the class of '51, and Walter J. Quense, Class of '52, were among those receiving line commissions. They received basic instruction in sea-going skills such as gunnery, seamanship, navigation, engineering, damage control and communications.

The other graduating group was composed of men who received staff corps commissions in the Supply Corps, Civil Engineer Corps, and other varied specialized fields.

Richard J. Scanlon, and accounting major in the class of '51 received a Supply Corps commission under this program. He will undergo at least two months' additional training elsewhere in his specialty before reporting to his first regular duty assignment.

Established in June, 1951, the school had an opening enrollment of 500. Since that time the enrollment has jumped to its present 1,900 students.

The primary purpose of the school is to provide qualified junior officers for the expanding fleets and to relieve reserve officers called to duty since the outbreak of the Korean war.

Middies Miss March As Mud Mars Much

A sea of mud is one kind of sea the Navy has no control over and the quagmire that was Shibe Park last Saturday cancelled the Villanova N.R.O.T.C. unit's plans for their first public appearance of the current year.

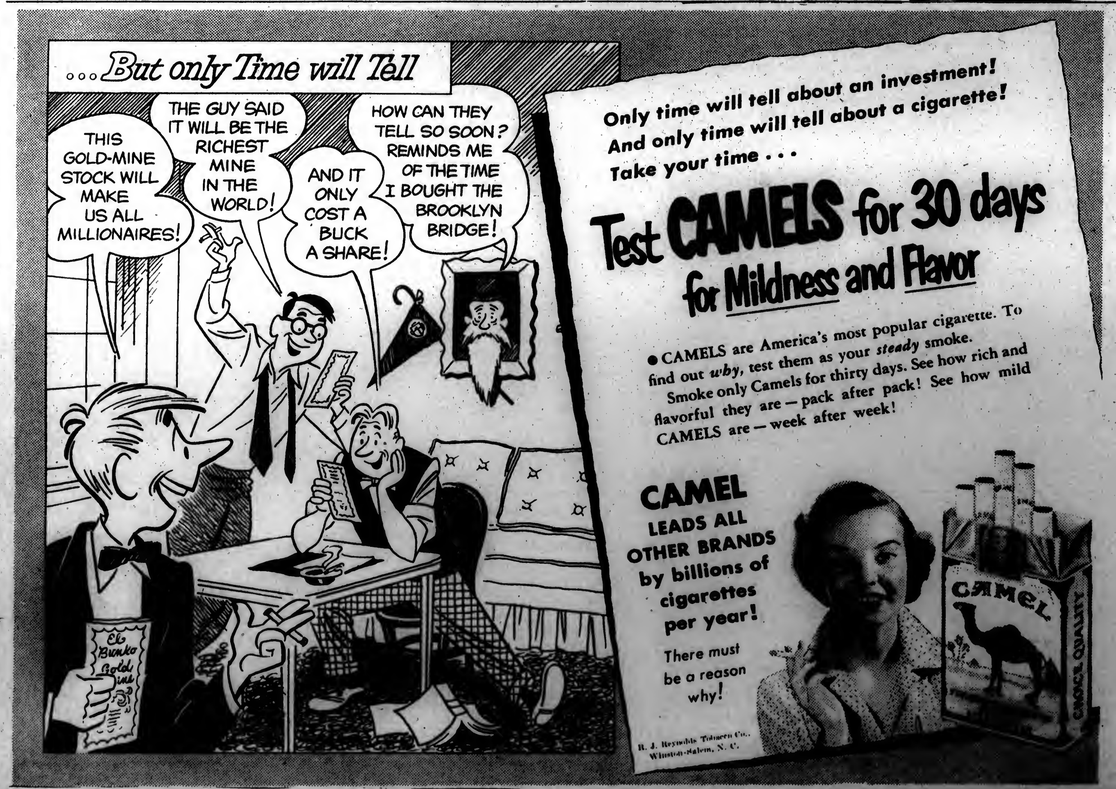
Originally they intended to parade onto the field prior to the game with Boston University, the probability of damaging the turf to even a greater extent forced the cancellation.

Halftime ceremonies consisting of an exhibition by the unit's crack fancy drill team, Fourth Naval district Champions, also fell victim to the local mud morass.

A hardy band of white clad Boston U. majorettes were the only ones to brave the bog and put on a short demonstration to the accompaniement of the B. U. band.

Persons applying must state where they wish to take the exam. Among the 25 cities in the state of Pennsylvania where the exam will be held are Philadelphia, Harrisburg and Pittsburgh.

U. S. Civil Service Announces Test For Civil Engineers



An examination of special interest to students in the civil engineering school has been announced by the United States Civil Service Commission for filling Highway Engineer training jobs in the Bureau of Public Roads. These jobs, paying $3,175 to $3410 a year, are located throughout the country.

This exam is open to all persons who have completed three-fourths or all of their professional civil engineering curriculum or who expect to complete such study by September 30, 1953. All applicants must pass a written examination and the age limit is 35.

Applications must be sent not later than February 10, 1953, to the Executive Secretary, Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, Bureau of Public Roads, Department of Commerce, Washington 25, D. C.

Persons applying for the test must be citizens of the United States and at least eighteen years old. These age limits do not apply to persons entitled to veteran's preference.

Included in the wriitten test will be an aptitude test and a test of fundamental professional knowledge in the field of civil engineering, including mathematics, physics and basic engineering subjects.

Who's Who Lists 28 Seniors; Action Urged By Fr. McGuire

At a convocation in the Field House last Tuesday, highlighted by the recognition of 28 seniors who are to be listed in the 1952-53 "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities," President Very Rev. F. X. McGuire, O. S. A. urged all students to adopt a "pray, study, and play" program.

SECOND STUDENT CONVOCATION of the current year saw Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., college president, sound a warning concerning low mid-term marks.

Citing school-wide, below average marks at mid-semester, Father McGuire, speaking for the instructors, deans, and others interested in the welfare of Villanova men, "recommended formally that all students get down to brass tacks . . . spend more time on the books and in the library . . . develop a close association with Christ in the Blessed Sacrament . . . and become active in extra-curricular activities."

Nominated by a special committee of clerical and lay members of the faculty and the administration, the seniors will be listed in the forthcoming edition of the publication. Villanova College annually joins with 637 colleges and universities in honoring members of the graduating class.

In considering the members of the class of 1953 for nomination, the faculty-administration committee judged the qualifications of each candidate in regard to scholastic excellence and sincerity, leadership and participation in extra - curricular activities, and service to the college, and promise of future uusefulness to business and society.

The School of Arts and Sciences leads the current listing with its students accounting for 16 of the 28 nominations. In this group three are science

Orphanage Outing Offers 'Eight Hours of Enjoyment'

Absentees Plague Post-Vacation Council Meeting

It might have been the inclement weather, or then it could have been lingering after-effects of glorious Thanksgiving vacations.

But whatever the reason, Villanova's 34-man Student Council certainly lacked legislative zeal in its post-holiday meeting in Mendel Hall last Tuesday night.

Absent from the slow-paced meeting were: Joe Roy, Sr. Ed.; Harry LeFever, Sr. Arts; Bill Kohler, Soph C&F; John Loggi, Soph Arts; Lou Oberle, Belle Air: Frank Thompson, Lynx; Hugh-Sharp, Engineer; and Maury Murphy, Belle Masque.

Chairman Tom Ackerman opened the session with a message of congratulations to the Council's committee which undertook to revise the still-dormant Connelly Award.

The replacement of Senior day-hop Harry LeFever for Charlie Russell on the Student-Faculty Committee was voted after it was announced that administrative members of the committee wished that a day-hop be included among the student delegates.

Wanamakers' Plays Host To Johnnies With Dinner & Play

John Wanamakers' Department Store, 13th and Chestnut, will play host this Saturday to the St. Johns' Orphanage Drive when over three hundred Villanova students and their guests from St. Johns' Orphanage hold their annual outing into the city of Brotherly Love.

A full eight hours of fun and enjoyment has been planned by the committee for the entertainment of the orphans and their Villanova "big brothers".

Co-chairmen Frank Saul and Gene Filipski announced that the drive to recruit students for the Saturday outing is going along fine but that many men are still needed for this task.

The day that has been planned for the orphans begins at 10:00 A. M. when the Villanova students will go to the orphanage to pick their boys up for the trip into Philadelphia. From 11:15 until 12:15 a turkey dinner will be served in the La Fontaine Room in Wanamakers. The committee has arranged to have the meal for both to cost only $1.50 through a special agreement with the department store. This is decidedly below cost, they emphasized.

During the meal, Santa Claus will make his appearance and will distribute toys to all the orphans from Wanamakers'. From 12:15 until 2:30, a visit to Toyland will be in order, much to the delight of the St. Johns' boys. At 2:30 there is a play, "Cinderella" which will be presented from the store and televised throughout the nation. The play is quite famous and termed appropriate for both young and old. The committee has secured a block of one hundred tickets for those who might wish to see the production.

The chairmen emphasized that this program is only for the convenience of those who might not know what to do during the day and that a student, who is taking an orphan, can do anything or go anywhere he pleases as long as he returns the boy to the Home by 5:45.

Arrangements are also being made to charter buses to the orphanage for those who have no cars. Those who are interested should contact their

January Dance Raises Funds for Japanese Mission

The Shamokinaki Square Dance, the first social event of 1953, will be held in the Villanova Field House on Januuary 9, 1953. Dick Hurley and his orchestra will provide the music which will include music for straight dancing too. Dancing will be from 9 till 1 and the price of tickets per couple is $1.20. The dance will be informal.

REV THOMAS PURCELL O.S.A.

The proceeds from this dance will go to Father Purcell, the popular moderator of the class of 1951, who now is doing missionary work in Japan.

Because Father Purcell is from Shamokin, the dance is being called Shamokinaki to designate its purpose. The Japanese have their own troubles and are not able to provide much financial support, so this dance was organized to raise funds for Father. It is hoped that this dance will become an annual affair.

LEHIGH VALLEY ALUMNI TO HOLD DANCE DEC. 29

The Villanova Alumni Club of the Lehigh Valley will sponsor a dance at the Keystone Trail Inn, Allentown, Pa., on December 29, the Monday following Christmas.

'35 Grad To Be Honored

Paetrus F. Banmiller, '35, former registrar and presently a member of the board of athletic control, will receive the 21st annual Loyalty Award from the Villanova Club of Philadelphia at the annual football banquet tonight at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

The announcement of the award was made by William Schubert, president of the Philadelphia Club. The presenting of the awards to the team and the speech by Yale's athletic director Robert Hall will form the highlights of tonight's dinner.

A native of Harrisburg, Banmiller received an engineering degree at Villanova in 1935 and did graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania. He served as registrar of the college from 1935 until 1943. He served as president of the National Alumni Association in 1941.

PAETRUS F. BANMILLER

Banmiller is an assistant superintendent and a member of the Management staff of the Hunting Park plant of the Budd Co. He is married and the father of four sons. He is a native of Norristown.

Vincent J. Gorman, '42, chairman of the banquet committee announced that the winners of the other awards will not be announced until the banquet tonight. These awards are the Most Valuable Player, by the National Alumni Association, and the Cyril Burke Award to the "most improved" player. The Martin J. McLaughlin Award is given to the player who was elected captain of the team. Besides these awards, every senior member of the team is given a miniature gold football helmet.

A Possible Solution

In the last edition of this paper there appeared an article on the first page which dealt with the Student Council and that group's concern over the lack of spirit and interest in extra-curricular activities.

It is also good to see that the administration is also concerned by this, for the plan which we are to present can not be brought into effect without their help.

This school is composed of almost two thousand students, half residents and half day hop. Yet, the extra-curricular activities that are conducted by the school are now not only led overwhelmingly by residents, but if this trend continues, they will become the property of 'residents only'.

Such a condition would be harmful, and definitely not representative of the college.

This situation is not the fault of the day hops, or the residents either, for that matter. It lies in the custom which has grown up here of all organizations holding their meetings at night.

By doing such a thing it is only natural that the dayhops would find it difficult to attend, or even take an interest, in such matters. Having to take a half hour or an hour trip from the city of Philadelphia or its suburbs out to the college, after having done the same thing earlier when going to class is definitely not the most convenient thing in the world.

The residents have a short three or four minute walk to the same activities, and this explains why a look at the lists of members of extra-curricular activities has such a preponderance of residents.

The corrective measure to this lies in arranging the time so that both day hops and residents could find it easy to attend.

And here is the plan that the "VILLANOVAN" presents to the Student Council and the administration for their consideration.

We ask that the administration set aside one hour a week during the school week, at which time no classes would be held, and at this time have the various clubs, fraternities and organizations hold their meetings.

For example, 1:30-2:30 on Wednesday afternoon would be devoted to the various organizations for just this purpose.

This idea certainly is not novel and is in effect at many colleges where the enrollment is divided between residents and dayhops. The permission of the college authorities would be needed for this change but if the students could prove its feasability it is doubtful that they would turn it down.

We think that this solution is the best one brought forth so far and it is defnitely worthy of consideration by the parties concerned.

American Movies: Better Than Ever?

By Tony Galati

One of the greatest modern-day ills which is rapidly approaching the ridiculous, is the slogan. It has become almost impossible to escape the slogans, which are designed to sell anything from shower shoes to Cadillacs. For this dubious luxury we may thank, or blame that branch of business, which is one of the biggest and most continuous psychological influences in our lives and which is lovingly known as "the Ad Game."

A few of the slogans are good; some of them are mediocre, but the great majority of them are utterly nonsensical.

There is one, however, which must by all means head the list of absurdity. This is none other than that quaintly ridiculous slogan stating that "Movies are better than ever." Regardless of how badly one tortures and mangles the facts, this slogan is not true. It is nothing more than a bold faced lie.

Of course, some really good pictures have come out of Hollywood but they have been very few and very far between. And when they've had their run, the typical, farcical, melodramatic, inane Hollywood production has taken over again.

American movies have the wrong end in view. They seem intended solely to give vicarious pleasure and means of escape to a frustrated audience. By playing upon the immaturities of the people in such a manner, the picture industry is striking a tremendous blow at the psychologcal development of the people.

The movie-makers justify this shameful practice by saying that this is what the people want to see. This argument is pure nonsense and is actually an insult to anyone with a modicum of intelligence. It seems the movie industry is underestimating the American people. If a truly adult picture were produced even occasionally, the jaundiced eye of the movie moguls might see more clearly what the people actually want.

Evidence for the fact that movie goers are becoming bored by a steady diet of westerns, musicals and feebly attempted dramas, may be seen in the increasing popularity of foreign and especially English pictures. It is indeed refreshing to see an English movie. These pictures depict a segment of reality, while American movies portray a figment of what can only be the most fantastic dream of the wildest dreamer.

American movies may be classified into three general categories; 1). westerns 2). musical and 3). an attempt at drama. A brief look at each of these types shows the western as a sterotyped bit of idiocy in which a stage coach must be robbed and a poor cowhand invariably marries the beautiful daughter of some rich widower. Musicals are not musicals at all but simply an excuse for a vulgar display of feminine charm which should be confined to burlesque theaters. About the attempts at drama, which are always unsuccessful attempts, many volumes could be written. Let it suffice to say that after what Hollywood did to "Outcasts of Poker Flat", Bret Harte is undoubtedly grumbling in his grave.

And yet, we are asked to believe that "movies are better than ever." No. No, a thousand times no.

It becomes increasingly apparent that when it comes to movie-making, regardless of national pride, we must admit that Hollywood just cannot compare with our British friends across the Atlantic. It is high time for American movie producers to face the facts and start making movies which are not so obviously childish and which can be enjoyed by mature people.

The movie producers of this country seem to be interested in only one thing and that is making money. To achieve this end, they use almost every trick imaginable. They transform great literature into romantic farce. They twist history so that there is always a happy ending to the story they want to tell. They use the appeal of technicolor to sell pictures which are definitely below average. Perhaps better movies would be produced if those responsible weren't so fanatically interested in the dollar. But maybe this is too much to expect.

Behind The Iron Curtain: No. 1—'The Ukraine'

By George Ferguson

EDITOR'S NOTE: Staff Writer George Ferguson has had first-hand experience with the so-called "Iron Curtain" areas. He has been there. With this in mind, he has been given the assignment of writing a series of articles on the general theme of "Behind the Iron Curtain—What's there?" This is the first of those articles.*—FEATURE EDITOR.

"Ukrainians are not Russians, do not even speak Russian, and want nothing from Russia but complete independence". This revealing statement was made to the writer by a Ukrainian refugee leader a few years ago in a United Nations-sponsored DP camp in Germany. This man, like most Ukrainian refugees, was emphatic and uncompromising in his remark, and intensely nationalistic.

FERGUSON

Speaking with a Ukrainian, you find him most anxious to acquaint Americans with the facts concerning his country, and you are impressed by his obvious sincerity and forcefulness, and somewhat amazed that these facts are not generally known by Americans.

Ethnologically, the Ukrainians are an independent nation; as recently as the early 1920's the Ukrainian Republic enjoyed political independence. The history of its people is one of tragedy and oppression even greater than that of the Poles. Ukrainia was probably the first foreign country to be subjugated by Communist Russia; part of its army, defeated by the Bolsheviks, retreated into Turkey, and on July 6, 1923, the Ukrainian Soviet Socialist Republic was admitted into the USSR.

Ukrainian Empire of Kiev

The country made its first appearance on the political map of the world as the Ukrainian Empire of Kiev, about the time of Charlemagne. During the 10th Century, under Vladimir the Great, the people adopted Christianity. During this period the civilization and culture of the Empire flourished, and the inhabitants enjoyed a high degree of prosperity. The Ukrainian language was noted, as it is even today, for its richness and auhpony.

Any Ability?

Musical Field Always On The Lookout For New Faces, Talent, Personalities

By Tom McDermott

Much has been said and many words have been written about the plight of the music business within the past ten years. It is generally agreed that the band business has deteriorated considerably since the beginning of World War II. No longer are the likes of a Glenn Miller to be found, although many have imitated his style. These men have succeeded in their task of impersonation, but this has only served to stifle any creative work that might have been performed in the field of popular music.

Some years back, a young man with radical ideas received some notice in the music trade journals. This musician, Stan Kenton, succeeded in injecting into his aggregation a new type of sound with which we are now familiar. In the main it consists of emphasizing a large, loud, brass section to the exclusion of such instruments as the violin, guitar, and other string instruments. This tone is now being used in a commercial sense by Billy May. Here we have an example of imitation in the field of music. However, the classic case of duplication is seen in the group of records being offered in the Philadelphia area which parrot the top recordings of the day.

Many times in this profession, some artist with a new style will start to pull away from the pack, and those left trailing behind, jump on the bandwagon. This is the case with many popular records. If a song starts to sell, all those within hearing distance go to their artist and repertoire man to see if anyone else is needed to record the particular song or style which has already started its climb to the top.

To offset this situation new talent has arisen in the past few years to help put the music business back on its feet. One man who has had much to do with the rebirth is Gordon Jenkin. He has raised the standards of original compositions with his masterpiece depicting one phase of life in New York City; this work is entitled "Manhattan Towers". Along the same line, Mel Torme has written a work on California.

Another artist whose stature has been recognized lately is the English composer-conductor, Mantavani. This man has enjoyed phenomenal success mainly on the strength of one record, but those who are familiar with some of the works played on Art Ford's Milkman's Matinee know that Mantavani has

Spanish Night Attracts 400; 'Don Quixote' Movie Shown

"EL PROFESOR DISTRAIDO" (The Absent Minded Professor) an original play by Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O.S.A., was presented by the above pictured cast at Spanish Night program held in the C&F auditorium last Thurday.

An estimated 400 aficionados of Spanish culture and life enjoyed the annual Spanish Night festivities of the Language club last Thursday night in the C&F auditorium.

Featuring the evening's entertainment was an address by Mr. Carlos Claveria, Professor of Modern Languages at the University of Pennsylvania, entitled "The Discovery Of America by Christopher Columbus."

Following the speech a musical interlude was supplied by two Spanish Club members, Carlos Toro and Manuel Carvajal who played and sang Latin songs.

Serving as Master of ceremonies for the event was John Parolin, president of the club.

"El Profesor Distraido" (The Absent-Minded Professor), a play in one-act, was next on the program. Players in the Spanish comedy were William de la Guardia as the impractical professor, Pat Denier of Rosemont as Beatrice, his daughter, with Grace Howley and Julie Wright, also of Rosemont, and John Parolin, Juan Donesteevez, and Carlos Conde in supporting roles.

The play was written by Rev. L. L. Lozano, OSA, moderator of the Spanish Club.

A technicolor-film version of the immortal Spanish novel "Don Quixote de la Mancha" by Miguel Cervantes, was presented to the group. This was preceded by the serving of soft drinks and cookies in the hand room of the C&F building.

John Parolin, in charge of the fiesta, declared that the 1952 Spanish Night was extremely successful, and conveyed his thanks to club members, the faculty, and guests and players from Rosemont who contributed to the evening's success.

Public Speaking Club Holds Meeting Tonight

A new club will make its appearance on campus tonight when the newly-formed Public Speaking Club holds its first meeting tonight at 7:30 in 218 Mendel Hall.

The club also plans another meeting tomorrow at 1:30, also in 218 Mendel Hall. The purpose of the organization is to help students overcome "stage fright" and talk in front of an audience. All this will be accomplished with the help of a moderator.

to be presented to graduating members of the group was approved and given to George Eberle. Last Spring, Eberle was appointed to handle negotiations with jewelry firms.

A motion to remove inactive extra-curricular organizations from the Council was proposed and will result in an investigation of all groups on campus by the Fraternities and Societies committee.

Poor Showing At Meetings Irks Junior Class Prexy

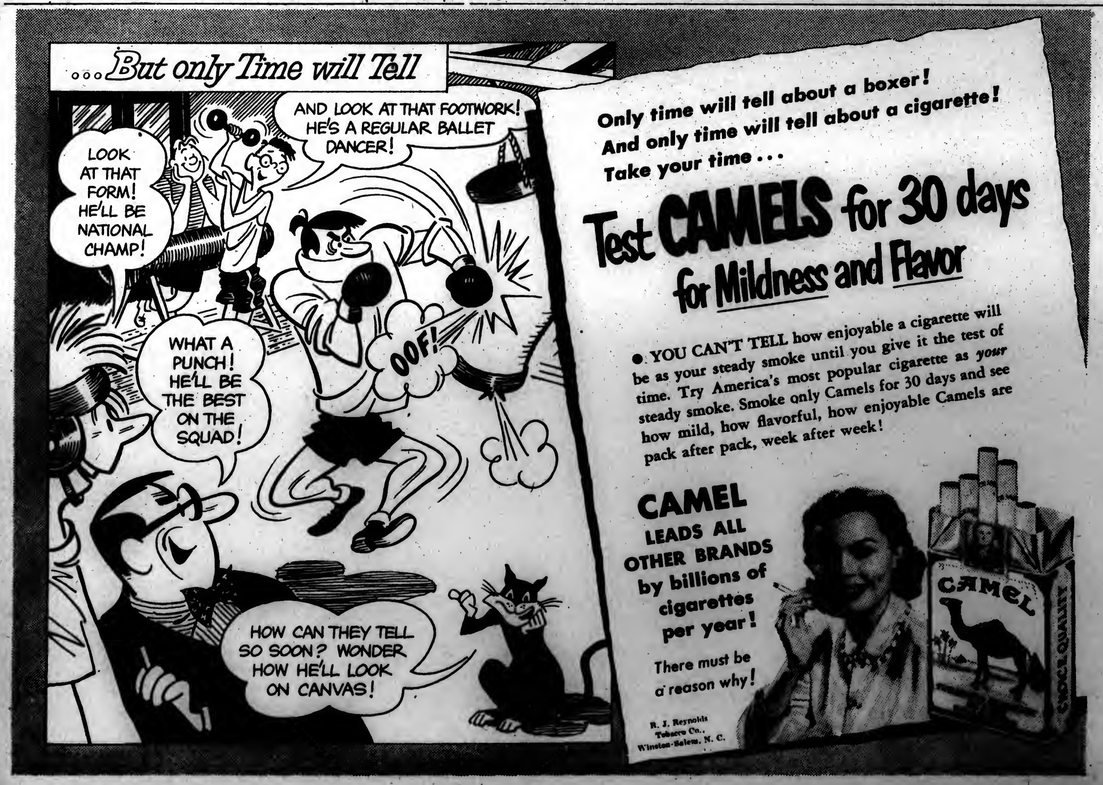
In a recent interview, Art Quinn, Junior Class president, expressed his disappointment over the small number of juniors who have been attending the class meetings.

"Every meeting I have called," said Art, "I have called because I felt it absolutely necessary. Attendance at the meetings has steadily declined. At recent meetings, important matters have been discussed and several important issues voted on." (Band for prom, date for blazer delivery, etc.) "The votes had to be taken but it is regrettable that so small a number of the class made the decisions."

Repeating his plea for better attendance, President Quinn continued, "A class meeting will be held Wednesday, Dec. 10, at 3:30 in 215 Mendel Hall. I urge as many juniors as possible to attend. The early hour of the meeting should make it possible for a large number of day-students to make it."

At this meeting a vote will be taken on the seal to be used. Rollins Co. will display the different types of seals and the decision will be left up to the class.

"It has also come to my attention," said Quinn, "that there are only THREE members of our class active on the Belle Air staff. More juniors are urgently needed to assist in this year's work. They will not only assist this year's staff but will gain valuable experience that will assure an able staff for our yearbook next year."



Remember: Class meeting —Tomorrow at 3:30 in Mendel Hall!

Manor Plays Host To IRC Group; Talk Main Point

Villanova's Industrial Relations Club traveled last Wednesday to Manor College to participate in a joint meeting of the Industrial Relations Clubs of the respective colleges.

The meeting began at about 7:30 P. M. with an address from the Professor of History at Manor College, Professor William Schnieder. He spoke about the effect of Catholic Action upon the fields of labor and management. He demonstrated that there is an urgent and pressing need in this country for good, staunch Catholic leaders.

Manor College made an excellent choice in selecting Professor Schnieder to speak for he was completely at ease with his audience. His address was enlivened with humor which not only helped him to retain the interest of his audience but also created a relaxed air which has not been present at all previous I.R.C. meetings.

Last Second Goal Beats Cats

'Cats Top Soldiers; Schafer, With 24, Paces 92-57 Win

By Harry Nash

A combination of field goal accuracy and backboard control provided Villanova's '52-'53 court edition with a smashing 92-57 Fieldhouse victory over Fort Dix Wednesday night in the opener of the college's 33rd basketball season.

The game was the first of the 31 engagements listed for Al Severance's quintet.

Villanova's freshman club squeezed past Brown Prep, 83-82, in the preliminary.

The varsity, led by the consistent outside shooting of sophomore Bob "Dutch" Schafer and the great ball-hawing of Sam Glassmire and Nick Maguire, scored 51 points in the second half to swamp the service team from New Jersey, which pulled up to 41-37 at the half, but appeared sluggish thereafter.

Schafer, Roth Lead

Schafer, who scored half of his points from the foul line (or rather, from the corner of the foul circle), piled up 24 markers to lead all scorers for the night. Fort-Dix' ex-CCNY 'double grand-slam' star, Al Roth, huffed and puffed his way to runner-up honors with 20.

Glassmire, Schafer and Maguire received plenty of assistance from the other starters, John Devine and Jim Mooney, who chipped in with 13 and 14 points, respectively. In addition to the scoring potential of Devine and Mooney, both aided no little in Villanova's dominance of the boards.

The chief play-maker in Severence's renowned five-man weave system, Glassmire dumped in six points, his two field goals coming on twisting fake shots in the first half. Perhaps his more important contribution to the potent Wildcats offensive, however, came in the form of timely passes which continually set up lay-ups for the taller Devine and Mooney.

Close Half-time Score

Roth and Ron McGilvray accounted for the close score at half-time with their adept shooting before the Soldiers fell hopelessly behind in the wake of the withering Villanova attack in the third and fourth quarters.

Severance started sending in reserves at that time. Another Maguire, Joe this time, scored nine points during his short stay in the latter stages.

Filipski, Haner, Volonino And Hagerty Named To "All" Teams

By Tom Mentzer

Four members of this year's once-beaten Villanova football team have been cited by different groups of coaches, sports writers and sports commentators for outstanding achievement during the 1952 grid season. Gene Filipski, Bob Haner, Bob Volonino, and Bill Hegarty are the Wildcats whom the experts have chosen for berths on some of the "All" elevens.

Filipski All American

To LOOK Magazine's All American offensive team picked by the Football Writer Association of America, to the International News Service and United Press All East teams, and to the Catholic Colleges' All American team was elected Gene Filipski, V.C.'s stellar halfback. This All American berth comes as a just and deserving reward to Gene, who from the first moment he enrolled at Villanova, was tabbed as a runner to watch by the scribes. Combining speed with a unique change of pace and swivel hip motion, Gene was constantly breaking away for long pay-dirt scampers.

Haner Honored

To everyone familiar with this year's Cat squad, sports-writers and spectators alike, Bob Haner's nomination as fullback on the second team of the U.P. All East team, and as a member of the East Team which meets the West in the Annual Shrine Game at San Francisco comes as no surprise. Without a doubt the most underrated football player in the country, Captain Bob possessed everything which could make a great fullback —power, speed, and spirit. Game after game Bob used each one of these talents to

Villanova A Neglected Band; 'Cats Need More Drummers

By HARRY ANGER,
Sports Editor

From now on we can call Villanova the "band of the Forgotten Men." After looking at the Lambert Trophy ratings this reporter can only conclude the Football Team of this fine institution exists in the minds of their fellow students.

For some completely asinine reason the Wildcats managed to run a very poor sixth in the poll which supposedly decides the football supremacy in the East. The selectors placed the Orange of Syracuse in the first spot. Just in passing we want to wish them all the success in the world with their store - bought glory which will last just until New Year's Day. By that time the Saltine Warrior will have proven its real worth.

The second and third spots went to Princeton and Navy, a couple of brilliant choices. The Midshipmen certainly showed they were a power of some note when they bowled over the Army. As for the Tiger they were able to roll pretty well in the Ivy League, but how well would they have done outside those so-called hallowed walls of sancity?

Penn Fourth?

Having looked over the top three selections we were a little perturbed, but I imagine we could have survived. Then it hit us, a team which isn't even the best in the Philadelphia area is ranked as fourth best in the East. The rampagin hordes of George Munger who just ran roughshod over every body probably would have been unable to beat any of the teams ranked below them, with the exception of Alfred and even that would be tight one.

Quaker Power Doubtful

Couldn't you imagine Penn

Marines Slug Mainliners 76-74, Devine, Schafer Star In Loss

By Dick Confoy

It was certainly a heart-breaker. When you completely out-play and out-hustle a taller, heavier, rougher team, and yet every break seems to go against you until finally some hacker heaves one in from 40 feet out with 0 seconds left, you begin to wonder. What has happened to justice?

It was a tough one to lose all right, but a great Wildcat club lost not an ounce of prestige in defeat. There was John Devine knocked to the floor time after time by Quantico's free-swinging pros, jumping higher and higher, and pour-in a night's high of 21. And Nick Maguire, the NEW Nick Maguire, running, fighting, hustling, and finally stealing the ball from Jim Walsh to deadlock the score with just seconds remaining. And Sam Glassmire, and Bob Schafer, and Jim Mooney, outplaying Marines who towered inches over them, never giving up even when the refs started canceling out foul shots put cleanly through the hoop.

Devine, Schafer Form Nucleus of 1952-3 Mainliners

After last year's basketball season was in the books, a favorite question heard about campus was a moaning "Who's left for next year"? And invariably the answer would start off "Well, let's see. First there's Devine and Schafer . . . .". Devine and Schafer, and at the time just freshman. Now what do these boys have (Fort Dix and Quantico know) that gained them such esteem after a freshman year spent mainly on the bench? Simple: Class, and plenty of guts. Moreover, it's a class both on and off the court, for it'd be a mighty tough job finding a more amiable twosome on campus than Good Counsel's elongated room-mates.

What brought the boys to this fine institution? Well both are local laddies, John playing his high school ball at Roman Catholic and Bob his at West Catholic, and Villanova just beat LaSalle to the punch. The two were All-Catholic selections their senior year and Bob Schafer sporting a 21 point average, was All-Scholastic along with Tom Gola. Devine was selected sixth man on the same squad.

Right now, Devine's big job will be to top the big men and grab the rebounds, while Schafer is firing them in from around the circle. The future? Well, if anyone around today is Hennessey's successor, it's Roberto. And John, quiet and unassuming, will probably be holding the team together for the next 3 years. You couldn't find a better man to do it.

Height Decisive

But in the end it was the height that did the Cats in, with Paul Arizin, almost wrecking his leg trying to cut his Alma Mater's throat, 220 pound Rip Gish, 6'7" Frank Fuqua, and 6'4" Jim Walsh forcing the boys into the fouls that finally cost the game.

Jim Mooney

The Marines committed the most fouls it is true (and many more than were called), but they kept pouring in more and bigger men every minute to spread the personals equally around. Meanwhile all of the Cat starters had at least 4 personals for the home stretch, and just when Schafer was opening up, out he went on fouls.

Nevertheless, it appeared at times as if the Mainliners might break the game wide open. The Cats took leads of 8, 9, and 10 points at different stages, but each time someone would get hot with his one-hander and it was anyone's ballgame all over again.

As even the local sports writers were forced to admit, it was a great exhibition of sheer guts by a team that surely deserved a better fate. Perhaps, had a seemingly apathetic rooting section opened their mouths sooner, the score might have been a little different.

TALL PAUL RETURNS

SPORTS CHATTER

Time For A Change

By Carl Valenti

It is almost two years now that the basketball "fix" scandal broke and still we are realizing the full effect of it. Its evil cannot be overstated. It has ruined many lives, caused shame to many that will never be lived down, cost men their jobs and resulted in the ruination of a professional basketball league.

The important responsibility of preventing such incidents from happening in the future fell upon the Eastern Intercollegiate Athletic conference, under whose jurisdiction it occurred.

Shortly after the scandal broke, the E.C.A.C. issued a ruling that prohibited any college basketball player in northeastern United States from participating in any "outside" competition except for a high school alumni game.

The ruling was the result of some study. Previously, a great number of eastern college basketball players used to spend their summers working in hotels in the mountain resort area of New York State. In their spare time they played basketball, formed teams and competed in games among the various hotels. It was found that this provided an easy opportunity for many undesirable underworld characters-gamblers, bookies, racketeers, etc.—to approach and become familiar with the players thus conveniently grouped.

Basically A Good Rule

These summer acquaintances, in many instances, later led to the point-shaving fixes. The E.C.A.C. rule therefore, was specifically designed to strike at the heart of this situation and this it did quite effectively.

The ruling is a good one which apparently achieved its aim, but as is often the case with relatively hasty legislation it tends to go too far. In other words, it could be improved upon. As we mentioned, it allows one exception — players may participate in high school alumni games — but it could well afford other exceptions, namely participation in charitable exhibitions. Simply put, the ban is too severe

Apparently those whose duty it is to enforce the rule seem to sense the undue severity, and we make this observation from some of the cases that have come as a result of the prohibition. There are several instances of players who were discovered playing outside ball and excused on the explanation of their respective schools that the schools hadn't properly emphasized the meaning of the ban. There are other cases of players who were found guilty and suspended for a year. On appeal, the suspensions were reduced to half a year as a sort of compromise.

Hennessey's Case

We at Villanova are particularly interested in the case of Larry Hennessey. Larry was found guilty of playing four games last winter at White Plains, N. Y., for the Sacred Heart Church Fund. The E.C.A.C. suspended Larry for one year. Hennessey and Villanova appealed, pointing out that the full year's suspension was too severe a punishment for the infraction even if Larry knew he was guilty of the admitted infraction.

The E.C.A.C. reconsidered and Hennessey was banned for the first fifteen games of the season. As a result, the game of basketball suffers, the school suffers, the player suffers, and any future charitable events who wish to raise money by staging benefit games will suffer.

This possibility was probably not foreseen by those who framed the regulation. But a rule that prohibits a young man from offering his God-given talents to raise money for a parish church fund — or a benefit game for polio, TB, cancer, heart fund or any of a number of worthy causes, for that matter—is in our opinion, unquestionably too stringent a stipulation. Therefore, we humbly submit the following suggestion:

One More Exception

First, it must be made clear that we do not propose an abolition of the rule. It is basically a good rule but now that the test of time has brought out a weakness we think that at least one amendment should be made. We think that another exception should be allowed.

Players should be allowed to engage in charitable, exhibitions. But lest this privilege be abused, a board should be set up to approve games allowable by this exception. It is our firm belief that such an amendment would be more just, would establish good will, and would eliminate many misunderstandings.

Furthermore, it would restore the game of basketball to rightful position of highest skillful development, integrity and fair play while still insuring its amateur status.

the Russians, until they were split into two groups at the Peace of Andrussovo in 1667. One section was ceded to Poland and the other given to Russia. Thereupon, the Czar Peter the Great proceeded to subjugate his new subjects with unbelievable cruelty.

Concerning Ukrainian nationalism and resistance movements at present, the Ukrainian Quarterly for Summer 1952 states: "There is not the slightest doubt of the existence of anti-Stalin centers among the non-Russian peoples of the USSR . . . . during World War II there were very strong active anti-Communist forces in Ukraine. We even have Soviet documents confirming the existence of an anti-Soviet Ukrainian Underground in 1950."

beating Pitt, or Villanova or Holy Cross? Why it would be a worse massacre than the battle of Little Big Horn. Some of the others in the lower spots either beat the Red and Blue or gave them a real fight, namely, Penn State and Cornell.

Now in a situation such as this let's consider why a team that only lost one game should wind up so poorly regarded. Do the sports writers in a body hate the Mainline institution? That assumption seems a little impossible.

Where's Press??

Now could it be there is nobody around at voting time to remind the gentlemen of the press what a good team we have here. Simply put, it sums up in this manner, if you don't get out good press releases on yourself who is going to do it for you. It comes back to the same old problem, if you want to be big time, go all out, don't take any half-way measures.

Now strictly from this point of view it seems that the publicity department isn't only at fault, but some blame must also fall on the forces that be. I doubt if there is any other institution in the nation that has but one man to handle all the school's publicity.

From this meager presentation of the facts we can only say draw your own conclusions.

the zenith of their potential in order to inspire his teammates on to greater heights. Truly Bob Haner deserves to go down in Villanova gridiron history as one of its greatest fullbacks and as one of its outstanding leaders.

Volonino All-East

Also selected on the U.P. All East team was Bob Volonino, one of the two Villanova linemen who received special honors. One of the bulwarks in the middle of the Cats defensive forward wall, Bob was often the fifth man in the opponents backfield. The value of this junior guard to Coach Raimo's defense is perhaps best demonstrated by the fact that up until the Parris Island game, the best enemy scoring attack amounted to 7 points. With Bob sitting out this clash because of an elbow injury, the Marines rolled to a total of 20 points.

Honorable Mention

Bill Hegarty, a six foot four inch, 235 lb. tackle, who is in his third year of varsity ball despite the fact that he is only a junior, is the other Blue and White lineman whom the pigskin authorities have taken special notice of. Bill received Honrable Mention on COLLIER'S All American squad and a third team spot on the U.P. All East. A savage blocker on the offense, Bill was also employed on defense when the going got especially rough.

Foshes First IM Dayhop Champs; Beat Counsel, 2-0

By John Gillman

The Foshes are the new Intra-Mural football champions of Villanova. They gained the title by downing Good Counsel, last year's champs, 2-0. The safety was a result of a bad pass from center deep in Good Counsel territory. The low score, however, is not indicative of the relative ability of the two teams. The new champs completely outplayed Good Counsel, rolling up eight first downs to their opponents' none, their main trouble being an inability to move when a six-pointer was at stake. The pass-catching of Bullock and outstanding performances by the Mullin brothers, George and Jim, and Harry La Fever spearheaded the Foshes' attack, as they became the first dayhop team in Intra-Mural history to win a championship of any kind. Good Counsel's loss was their first in two years.

Intra-Mural basketball entries are not coming in as well as can be expected. So hand in a roster at room 112 get your teams together and Alumni Hall, which is the I-M office. If no one is there, slide it under the door.

by Banmiller, was established in 1932 and is annually presented to the Villanova alumnus who demonstrates "zeal in alumni affairs and loyalty to alma mater". The recipient is selected by a vote of previous winners of the award.

The chief speaker at tonight's function is Robert Hall, Yale athletic director, and chairman of the controversial N.C.A.A. television committee. With the recent debate going on about the televising of college games, and with Philadelphia being the center of the strongest feeling about this topic, Mr. Hall's speech should take on added importance.

ROBERT HALL

Hall was born in Omaha in 1907, the son of the British consul and was graduated from Yale in 1930. He was quarterback on the Eli eleven in 1927, 1928 and 1929. Following that he attended the Yale Law School and began practice in the Philadelphia area.

He also established himself as an expert on football and his collection of slow motion film studies of the nation's leading teams is the largest in the world. He assumed his present post at Yale in April 1950.

Then, catastrophe struck the Slav nation. Genghis Kahn and his Asiatic hordes descended upon Kiev in the 13th Century, devastated the country and scattered its people. Ukrainia never completely recovered from that great tragedy.

Control By Other Nations

By the time its dispersed population returned to the stricken land, new states were rising, Mucovy to the north and Lithuania to the northwest. The latter country ruled the former Empire for about two hundred years. About the middle of the 16th Century, Lithuania united with Poland, which then took over the government of the Ukraine. After nearly one hundred years, Polish rule was thrown off in a great uprising led by the patriot Bogdan Khmelnyzki, and a treaty was concluded with the Emperor Alexis of Muscovy.

The unfortunate Ukrainians remained for some two hundred and fifty years under Russian rule; their autonomy was gradually withdrawn by

Rosemont Carollers To Visit College Chapel Mon. Night

Fifty-eight girls, members of the Rosemont Glee Club, will visit the Villanova Chapel Monday evening to sing Christmas Carols. The presentation which has become a traditional affair with the Rosemont girls, will be directed by Mother Mary Bellamine.

Virginia Cuffe, Dorothy Rodriguez, Blanquita Bird, Katherine Kelly and Sheila Keefe will sing solos. The program will include many popular carols and several more classical selections.

Fr. Francis X. McGuire, O.S.A. will welcome the group with a short address.

All students are invited to attend.

New Faculty Wives' Club Elects Mrs. Morehouse

At the meeting of the Villanova College Faculty Wives' Club held on November 25, the following officers were elected for a term of one year.

The President is Mrs. J. Stanley Morehouse; the Vice-President, Mrs. Joseph Greyson; the Secretary, Mrs. John B. Clothier, Jr.; the Treasurer, Mrs. Francis Donohue.

Very Reverend Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., was present to address the newly-organized group, and mentioned the fact that the group can do a great deal towards uniting the faculty in the projects and activities of the college.

There will be no meeting in December, since the Faculty Dinner takes place on December 11. Regular monthly meetings will be resumed in January in the Library of the Naval Science Building.

Music Room Opens Under New Rule

A new student activity has been demonstrated on the campus. It is called The Committee in Charge of The Music Room in The Library. Don Davis is chairman of this group, which is composed of zealous students who are cooperating with the Library Staff.

It is because of the interest and cooperation of these students that the Music Room is opened at designated hours. A committee member is in charge of the room and the recordings that are played.

All the records are now stored in the Music Room, and are no longer shelved with the books in the stacks. This new arrangement facilitates students selecting whichever record appeals to him.

Both Saul and Filipski brought out the point that the St. Johns' Drive is not conducted for the Junior Class alone but for the entire school. The Juniors only handle the drive; the rest of the students are expected to do their share by taking out the orphans.

The hall representatives that have been appointed to recruit students are: Fedigan Hall—Don Miller, Paul Streib and Dave Smith; Delurey Hall—Ray Rigney; O'Dwyer Hall—Chick Heinbolt; Simpon Hall—Bill McCreary; Mendel Hall—Tom Kern; Alumni Hall—George Eberle and Joe Kenney; Austin Hall—Joe Kovach and Jack Kelly.

These are the men who should be contacted for the tickets for the turkey dinner and for the bus ride to the orphanage. For those who plan to go by automobile, the best route is along Lancaster Avenue to 52nd Street. Go down 52nd to Wyalusing Street and then turn left. The orphanage is right there.

On Thursday, the committee plans to hold the annual orphans' party at the orphanage from 1-7 P. M. George Eberle is in charge of the affair and he has announced that a skit will be given by the Villanova students during the afternoon and that movies also will be shown.

Santa Claus will make an early appearance at the party to distribute presents and toys to the children. A party of sandwiches, hoagies, cookies, Coke, candy and ice cream will be served.

Air Force Offers June Graduates Commissions as Weather Officers

New opportunities for young men with scientific or technical interests to enter the United States Air Force for the purpose of receiving training as weather officers were announced by the Air Force Chief of Staff and the Commanding General of the USAF Weather Service.

College graduates, or seniors who will graduate this June, now may apply for appointment in the Air Force as second lieutenants and received government-paid weather training at one of eight nationally known colleges and universities.

Upon completion of their training they will receive assignments in the USAF Air Weather Service as weather officers. These individuals must possess a baccalaureate degree with credit for one year of college physics and mathematics through integral calculus. Those qualified should write to Headquarters, Air Weather Service, Washington, 25, D. C.

Training for these officers in the grade of second lieutenant will begin in both June and September, 1953. June, 1953 graduates will be considered for the latter class only.

The schools where such training will be held are M.I.T., New York University, Chicago University, Penn State, U.C.L.A., Florida State, Washington University and the University of St. Louis.

There has been a turn toward re-issuance of old records among some of the leading manufacturers; not just re-recording old songs but turning out the actual records themselves. Several of the records of the Benny Goodman jazz concerts have been put on sale again along with some new Glenn Miller sides. The latter are the result of the striving for perfection by the flawless master; the records are pressed from tapes which Miller made in order to correct mistakes made during his appearances. "DuPONT STORY"

The Villanova Chemical Society will present a technicolor movie, "The DuPont Story" tonight at 7:30 in 215 Mendell Hall. The movie is open to every student and the Chemical Society invites all to attend. Admission is free.

Phila. Crime Laboratory Toured By Chemical Society

The Villanova Chemical Society had its first field trip of the scholastic year a few weeks ago when a group of men toured the Philadelphia Crime Laboratory.

Dr. James Burke, who has been a police chemist for twenty-four years, conducted the tour. He explained the work of a police chemist, which ranges from the analysis of alcohol, barbiturate, and narcotic analysis to blood and hair determinations in murder cases.

The largest part of the work is conducting analyses of confiscated alcohol samples; in the course of a year, as many as five thousand samples are tested. Then the group, which was headed by Dr. Koob, faculty moderator; Father Jenkins, who arranged for the trip, and Dr. Quam, was shown through the laboratories, and inspected the equipment used by Dr. Burke and his colleagues. After the tour, Pres. Paul Hanrahan announced the society's next function.

On Tuesday, December 9, the society will present a technicolor movie, "The Du Pont Story." The picture is the story of the career of a company, and the role it has played in the growth of America. Filmed in Hollywood, "The Du Pont Story" features such well known performers as Sigrid Gurie, Lyle Talbot, and Tom Neal. The film is definitely not limited to members; all students are urged to attend. "The Du Pont Story" will be shown at 7:30 P. M., on December 9 in Room 215 Mendel Hall. Admission is free.

AND NOW—CHESTERFIELD FIRST TO GIVE YOU SCIENTIFIC FACTS IN SUPPORT OF SMOKING

A responsible consulting organization reports a study by a competent medical specialist and staff on the effects of smoking Chesterfields. For six months a group of men and women smoked only Chesterfield—10 to 40 a day—their normal amount. 45 percent of the group have smoked Chesterfields from one to thirty years for an average of ten years each.

At the beginning and end of the six-months, each smoker was given a thorough examination including X-rays, and covering the sinuses, nose, ears and throat. After these examinations, the medical specialist stated . . .

"It is my opinion that the ears, nose, throat and accessory organs of all participating subjects examined by me were not adversely affected in the six-months period by smoking the cigarettes provided."

Raising our heads above the masses of modern day men, lifting our ears above the dine of modern day commerce, and raising our hearts above the fierce struggle of modern day living, we at Villanova acknowledge the simple truth of Christmas—the birthday of Christ. We are also daring enough in the twentieth century to resort to the use of such a medieval and unscientific word as the "Incarnation" in connection with the Christmas Season.

For, our concept of the Birth of Christ embodies the idea of God reaching down from Heaven to earth and taking unto himself the flesh and blood He had formed to constitute Man. We speak of God being made flesh—becoming incarnate. We do not conceive of such an act contributing to a degradation of Divinity but rather an elevation of humanity. In becoming man, God demonstrated to the world His predilection for mankind, the dignity of the human being and with it the possibility of the union of the divine and human natures.

Everyone today thinks or talks of human rights, human dignity, and human freedom. The only thing common to the thinking of all of us is that we know such things exist. The nature and meaning and origin of such things as rights, dignity, and freedom are little understood, and less accepted by mankind universally. More often than not our rights, our dignity, and our freedom are concerned as gifts bequeathed to us by the State, or by some benevolent statesman; by the majority vote of the citizens, or by the conquering masses of the military.

Human dignity and the many qualities stemming from it can only be understood by approaching God for the answers. The surest and most human approach to God is the path to the Stable of Bethlehem, where God made man offers Himself as our mediator.

We at Villanova renew our faith in God at Christmas-tide by reaffirming our belief in the Divinity of Jesus Christ. We realize the necessity of struggling to maintain America a Christian nation, so that we may preserve the only true foundation of rights, freedom, and peace—God Himself.

Full-Time Nursing School Granted State Approval

Sister M. Margarella, O.S.F., Associate Director of the Division of Nursing of Villanova College made the announcement last week that state approval has just been granted the college to open an undergrate school of nursing.

SR. M. MARGARELLA, O. S. F.

The program of study approved on Dec. 1, 1952 by the State Board of Nurse Examiners, will cover four calendar years.

Full-time Status

Sister Margarella stated that, "During the entire four years, the students, both men and women, will always be full-time students of Villanova College. All instruction and practice in the clinical areas will be given by instructors who are faculty members of Villanova and its school of nursing."

"Upon completion of the program of study the student is graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Nursing Degree, and is eligible to take the State Board examination for licensure as a registered professional nurse."

According to the curriculum, the new school plans to use the facilities of the five Catholic Hospitals in metropolitan Philadelphia for the clinical experience part of the program.

Beginning Sept. '53

"The plan to seat a nursing school on the Villanova campus," said Sister Margarella, "has been formulating for the past two years. A need for such an institution was based on the fact that there is no Catholic Collegiate nursing program in Philadelphia and vicinity."

The first class of students, who must be high school graduates, will enter the nursing

Inform Office Of Draft Data

Rev. Joseph Boyle, O.S.A., Coordinator of Military Activities, urged all students last week to keep his office informed regarding their status with their local draft boards.

He advised the freshmen in particular to report their names, Selective Service numbers, and numbers and addresses of their draft boards to him as soon as they register with the Selective Service System.

It is felt that if the Office of the Coordinator of Military Activities has this data as soon as possible, the college will be better prepared to help the student resolve his draft problems.

Orphan Fund's Successful End At Wanamaker's

The 1952 St. John's Orphanage Drive came to a very successful culmination last Saturday when the 327 boys from St. John's, the students from Villanova and their dates invaded John Wanamaker's for their traditional pre-Christmas outing.

Prior to this, Thursday witnessed the visit of Santa Claus to the Orphanage for the annual party and distribution of gifts. The sight of these boys opening their presents with glee was certainly one to be remembered for a long time.

Co-chairmen Frank Saul and Gene Filipski termed the turnout on Saturday heartwarming and emphasized the fact that every orphan was taken out. They wished to express their thanks to the students for their complete cooperation and generosity in the drive.

Tom Green was quite efficient in his job as master of ceremonies for the Thursday party. The orphans delighted in a magic and puppet act given by Tom Osborne, a professional magician. Following this came Christmas carols played on the banjo by Pris Navarro of Rosemont and Pete Petesen and Jack Fraser.

Haner, Kershaw Take Honors At Alumni Grid Banquet

The 31st annual Football Banquet, sponsored by the Villanova Club of Philadelphia, was held last Tuesday night before an overflow crowd of 600 in the Main Ballroom of the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

BOB HANER

Besides Paetrus F. Banmiller '35, who won the Alumni Loyalty Award, the other recipients of awards were captain Bob Haner from Louisville, Kentucky who walked off with both the "Most Valuable Players" Award and the Martin J. McLaughlin Award and junior Roy Kershaw, of Doylestown, Pa. who won the "Most Consistent Player" Award.

The National Alumni Association presents their award to the player selected by his teammates as the most valuable player during the past campaign. The Philadelphia Club gives the McLaughlin Award to the player who captained the team through the season.

The award that Kershaw won was the Cyril J. Burke Award for consistency as decided by his teammates.

Leaming MC's

Jim Leaming, ace sportscaster of WIP, was toastmaster of the event and he started the evening off on the right foot by declaring that in his estimation the best team in the East this past year was Villanova.

The speakers for the evening were the Very Rev. James A. Donnellon, the chairman of the athletic board; Vincent J. Gorman '42, banquet general chairman; Very Rev. Francis X. McGuire; Martin L. Caine '04, captain of the 1903 football team and the winner of last year's Loyalty Award; Earl Eby of the "Philadelphia Bulletin"; Sherry O'Brien, sportscaster for WPTZ-TV; William E. Schu-

Beta Gama Slate Twice Blackened In Lehigh Valley

Beta Gama Debating Society suffered its first defeats of the current campaign during its sortee through the Lehigh Valley.

During the tour the debaters engaged Lehigh University, Moravian Men's College, Moravian Womens' College and Lafayette.

Joe Roddy and Bob Tomonto of the affirmative defeated the Mens' and Lafayette while losing to Womens' and Lehigh. The Main Liners negative team of Bob Gerstung and George Minsner defeated Lafayette and Womens' while losing to Mens' and Lehigh.

The four-and-four split prompted the Beta Gama president, Frank Cunning, to announce that following the Christmas holidays, and with the exception of exam week, the team will debate every week until February.

Editorials

...And Best Wishes

The usual two-fold Yuletide greeting—Merry Christmas and Happy New Year—is once again resounding through the air waves, and again, as we approach another year of great decisions, it takes on added significance.

For every year 'Merry Christmas' becomes more and more 'Merry Xmas' and the happy new year wished for becomes a little darker then the year before.

That there is an obvious relation between the two trends is a fact that can not be laughed off, as some are so prone to do.

In past years the commercial preparation for Christmas has moved up almost a month since days gone by, and Santa Claus now comes in a helicopter on Halloween instead of a sleigh after Thanksgiving.

The start of the Christian preparation, the true preparation, has slowly retired from the beginning of Advent to the 5 o'clock Mass on Christmas morning.

And yet men wonder why the new year, looked for with such great expectations, leaves them cynical before the last snow of February has disappeared.

But can we expect more? Can a world of adults say 'Happy Birthday' to the Person who guides the destiny of mankind, then sneer in His face while pushing Him into the ante-room at His birthday party and expect Him to answer the short prayers said during the service Chritmas morn?

And so it is that this Christmas takes on added significance. For this year we are at the cross roads. The decisions made during 1953 may well determine where the majority of us will spend next Christmas.

As Father McGuire so aptly put it in his Christmas message, "The surest and most human approach to God is the path to the Stable of Bethlehem, where God made man offers Himself as our mediator".

For no time of the year creates a better atmosphere, psychologically and otherwise, for prayer then the celebration of the Christ Child's birth.

This is the time to start working for that happy new year in the only way which, in the final analysis, could produuce any lasting changes.

The lesson of the true meaning of Christmas will strike home to no Villanovan more than to the ones who will be hearing mass from the fox-holes of Korea this year. For them, unexposed to the rampant commercialism of the cities, the birth of Christ can have only one meaning. It is up to us, now, to insure that we, and our children, do not have to find that meaning through the same hardships.

And so, in this last issue before Christmas, the editors and staff of the "Villanovan" extend their heartiest wishes for a happy and holy Christmas, and a sincere prayer for a brighter and more promising new year for each and every one.

Material Emphasis Changes Christmas

By Ed McCabe

The old English derivation of Christmas is Cristes masses, which means The Mass or festival of Christ. It is becoming increasingly difficult to keep this meaning of Christmas in mind today. There is developing a definite trend away from the true spirit of Christmas in mind today. There is developing a definite trend away from the true spirit of Christmas and towards the material aspect of Christmas to the exclusion of the spiritual element. This trend is only one aspect of the increasing emphasis on materalism today.

A good example of the increasing emphasis on the material aspect of Christmas could be seen in the Philadelphia newspapers. The Christmas advertising in these newspapers is of such quantity that they almost assume the appearance of a Sears catalogue. These ads cost a great deal and certainly the Phila. merchants wouldn't be spending that money unless they thought the people would respond.

The tendency is not confined to only cities. In any small town many examples of the same trend can be found. For example just look in any store window in these small towns and you will see signs telling you to do your Christmas shopping now for there are only so many days left 'til Christmas.

These are but a few examples of the trend. These things aren't bad in themselves but they represent the increasing feeling of people that the sole meaning of Christmas is to be found in the giving and receiving of presents. More and more people are failing to remember that Christmas is the feast celebrating the birth of Christ.

Commercial Victory?

The triumph of commercialism is to be seen in the contraction of the word Christmas to Xmas. The letter X which is substituted for Christ, has the same connotation here as it does in in algebra—that is, the unknown factor. It is a factor. It is a direct repudiation of the christian concept of Christmas. This contraction is not conspicuous by its scarcity and is used almost as much as the word Christmas itself.

This tendency can only be combated by a realization of the true place of man in the universe. Those who are seeking pleasure for themselves fail to recognize that man is only the highest of the created things. This is a very good time to start giving thanks to a God who was born to die for our salvation.

Ancient Innkeeper Denies Holy Family

Darius was a tidy Innkeeper in the town of Bethlehem, but his Inn showed no signs of order on this cold evening. Complete bedlam had broken out in the dining room. The guests were many, and poor Darius, in order to make room for everyone, had moved himself and his wife from their large bedchamber into a smaller one.

The discusion at the table was fierce, sometimes violent. The guests felt no great joy about having to return to the town of their birth to register for the census. Merchants were far from their business, and they felt that every minute of their stay in Bethlehem was costing them a fortune. Indeed, it was not a happy gathering at the Inn that night.

Traveler Seeks Shelter

Darius was warming his hands by the fireplace when his servant approached him with a message that a man was at the door looking for a place to stay. Darius himself went to meet this traveler. He flung open the door and the light from within shone on the

Behind The Iron Curtain: No. 2 — Czechoslovakia

By George Ferguson

Munich was buzzing with excitement on the 25th of February, 1948. Hurried conferences were held at U. S. Army headquarters; rumors were flying wildly around the Bavarian capital city. The Communists had just overthrown the government of the Republic of Czechoslovakia, and the Czech border was just a five-hour drive from Munich.

Ferguson

Four years and nine month later, in the latest Red purge, eleven of the Communist leaders who handed their country over to Stalin on a silver platter, were given outstanding recognition of their services. Their infamous careers as revolutionists and traitors were brought to an untimely end, with the March to the Scaffold. Three others drew terms of life imprisonment.

When the Iron Curtain descended around Czechoslovakia, one of the most democratic and highly civilized of the nations of the West had fallen prey to Soviet Russian imperialism. It was a profound shock to the non-Communist world. The ten thousand workers armed with rifles who paraded through the streets of Prague in the bloodless coup d'etat were jubilant. But the West, now thoroughly alarmed, realized at last the nature of the danger threatening it, and began to rearm.

Friendly to U. S.

Czechoslovakia is composed of the ancient kingdom of Bohemia, and the provinces of Slovakia and Ruthenia. It is green forests, immortalized in a land of rolling hills and the music of the great Czech composer Smetana. Its people are traditionally friendly to the United States; before 1939, the Czechs regularly beamed goodwill broadcasts via short wave to this country, via the powerful Prague station OLR4A.

Praha, as the people call their capital, is probably one of the most charming cities in Europe. It dates back as far as the 10th Century; its magnificent St. Vitus Cathedral was originally built in the year 930, under the direction of Saint Wenceslas, Bohemia's patron saint. The city is noted for its handsome Baroque buildings, quaint medieval streets, beautiful monuments and pleasant parks. Tourists admire the old

Supreme Court Now Considering Discriminations In Schooling

By Al Pandaleon

The battle for democracy and individual freedom shifted from the Korean peninsula to the Supreme Court building in Washington last week as the nation's highest judicial tribunal began hearing a series of cases concerning the explosive issue of segregation. Specifically, the nine justices were asked to examine the constitutionality of school segregation laws in four states and the District of Columbia.

Pandeleon

It is interesting to note that the attorneys attacking the present system are basing their arguments squarely on the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, and not merely on a demand for equality of educational facilities. Thus they hope to give the Court little room for any legalistic maneuvers whereby the issue could be dodged once again.

Since the decisions will not be rendered for some time yet, it is impossible to foresee whether or not the justices will meet this important challenge with the vision and courage so necessary to its solution.

Significance

Regardless of the ultimate ruling of the Court, we would do well to remember that it will have both domestic and international repercussions. Here in the United States, the question of the Negro's rights has long hindered the progress of our democracy. In a nation that professes to the world its belief in the worth of all men, irrespective of origin, the situation of the Negro presents an anomaly of the utmost significance. When, for example, the state of South Carolina can incorporate into its constitution a provision expressly requiring separate school systems for the white and colored races, the creed of democracy takes on a hollow ring.

Aside from the fact that segregation has contributed strongly to the moral weakening of our society, it is certainly just the kind of ammunition that the men in Moscow can use to their advantage on the propaganda front. And what makes it doubly effective is our inability to deny the fact.

There is probably no other single characteristic of American life so odious to the peoples of Asia and other colonial areas as discrimination.

A Letter To Santa Claus

By Jim Glavin

The holiday season is upon us!

Last week the foreboding tell-tales of the "holiday spirit" evidenced themselves in increasing volume. The lights began to appear on the huge trees in the general locale of the chapel. The damp-sunshine climate that is so prevalent in this arrondissement added a bit more of an hyemal touch. The "Villanovan" dutifully noted the advent of Rosemont's songstresses to our campus. A steak dinner was served in the cafeteria (althought, whether this was the usual pre-vacational propaganda meal or merely a feast to commemorate the Holy Day — December 8 — remains in doubt).

No Snow Fence

True enough, that traditionally Villanovan indicator of the approaching of the holidays failed to manifest itself. Why, the snow fence of course. But, in our wanderings through the wilderness while en route to a class in Belle Air, we came upon an even more accurate signpost on the "Highway to the Holidays." It was a letter to Santa Claus — a true barometer of the season — and a letter of no mean requests. It was written by a Villanovan, a public spirited Villanovan at that. It read:

Dear Santa,

Unselfish individual that I am, I am writing to ask you to consider my petitions in behalf of various people and things, here-abouts, that are desperately in need.

It is said that an army travels on its stomach. So, too, do college students. With this in mind, then, I would appreciate it Mr. Claus, if you would drop off a pound of real coffee in our cafeteria. Despite what some overly cuisine-conscious students may have said in their bitter moments, I am fully confident that there would be someone there who would know what to do with it.

We have a classroom structure on this campus, Santa, officially called Belle Air Hall, but better known as a "Streetcar Named Perspire." Would you kindly drop off an air-conditioning unit there on your way over?

For the Resident Students, Mr. Claus, I wish you would bring a huge, modern-type garage to our campus. They're nice fellows, these residents, Santa, and are desperately in need of someplace to hide vehicles.

Day Students matriculate here, too, and they, too, have a problem predicated upon automobiles. You can solve this, though, if you will only deliver several hundred parking meters, scattered indiscriminately about the campus.

Our basketball team is a very fine one, Mr. Claus, but there are some who have premonitions that they may run into minor difficulties when they run across the "galloping giants" of the court wars. So, might I beseech you to deliver a dozen pairs of Adler Elevator Shoes to one Alex Severance, whose habitat of occupation is our fieldhouse. Christmas will be perfect timing, Santa, as we don't meet the stratosphere warriors of LSU until the following week.

While along a sports vein, might I beseech you to be kind to our football players, and give them the overwhelming number of four home games in 1953. I know this is nigh well on to impossible, Santa, but if anyone can perform this miracle it is you.

There are some fellows on campus who have asked me to petition you, in their behalf, for the erection of a shuttle-service to Rosemont. They want no other presents, just this little convenience.

The English Majors are a nice lot, Mr. Claus, and they are on their knees and begging for just one favor. To facilitate their afternoon treks to our most remote classroom building, for their enjoyable afternoon discussions, they humbly ask for a paved path from Commerce & Finance to Belle Air. They fully realize that the building that is their daily destination is only a temporary building, i.e., for a century or two, but they would appreciate even buoys for use on rainy days.

Finally, for some of our newer neighbors — the men building the highway — I ask one final gift. Certainly I don't want to see these men unemployed, so I ask you to grant my scheme to keep them busy. Have the State of Pennsylvania redesign its plans for Lancaster Pike, past Villanova, and put these fine men to work digging up and repaving the newly-erected roadway by the time we return from Christmas vacation. If nothing else, Mr. Claus, you would gain popularity of unbelievable proportions by such a move.

Yours truly, Santa
A VILLANOVAN

The Kingdom of Bohemia lost its independence after the Thirty Years War. It became a part of the Austrian Empire, and remained so until the end of World War I. On October 28, 1918, with the Hapsburg realm breaking up into its component parts, the great Masaryk led his nation to independence, with the formation of the Czech Republic.

quist" Hayes to tip the orphans on the latest word from Hopalong. Cartoon movies kept the kids still, if not quiet, for a while before Santa Claus (known in these parts as Bill McGarry) distributed the presents. Then came the food served by the Villanova students.

The doings Saturday saw an innovation in the buses that transported students from the campus to the orphanage and in the play "Cinderella" that was staged in Wanamaker's. The department store did a wonderful job in making both the orphans and the students feel at home. They served a turkey dinner below cost to the group in the beautiful LaFontaine Room and reserved a large block of seats for the play.

Santa Claus dropped in during lunch to greet the group and upon leaving was prompted to say that "this is the finest thing I've ever seen".

Saul and Filipski beside thanking all the students for their efforts held up Stev Berry, George Eberle and Joe Kenney along with Jack Kelly, Noel Spillane and Jack Kneafsey for special praise.

VACATION

The Christmas vacation begins after the last class today and will run until the first class Monday, January 5, 1953.

The next edition of the "VILLANOVAN" will appear on Tuesday, January 13. The deadline for that issue will be 4:00 P. M., Thursday, January 8.

Seniors May File For Membership In Honor Society

Delta Epsilon Sigma National Honor Society for Catholic Colleges received official approval from college authorities on December 8, and the Beta Chi chapter of the organization now exists on campus.

Membership in the society is limited to seniors majoring in Arts, biology, chemistry, mathematics, or physics and having a cumulative average of 3.00 or better.

A limit of twelve members has been set for the current year and a senior may become a member of the society only at his own request and upon submission of a paper to Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O.S.A., Dean of Arts and Sciences.

This paper must be either a five hundred (500) word work on the subject of "What I Intend to do with my College Education, and Why I Intend to do it" or a five hundred (500) word review and criticism of a recent book of the senior's own choosing.

Either work must be submitted to Father Sullivan's office no later than January 10, 1953.

Any further information can also be obtained at this office.

Concert Band's Organization To Be Complete By February

Villanova's Concert Band is on the ascendancy as the 35-piece formal college musical organization readies for another season of performances.

Don Brown, Senior, named last year as Concert Band conductor for 1952-53, revealed that rehearsals are under way. The group, according to Brown, will make its first appearance soon after final exams, or in the early part of February, 1953.

On the band's current schedule are performances at nearby college's, including Rosemont, Immaculata, Chestnut Hill, and Mater Misericordia Nursing School. Also scheduled is a command performance for the boys at St. John's Orphanage.

The highlight and finale of the Concert Band's season will be its joint concert with the college Glee Club as part of the Junior Week festivities on Mother's Day.

Brown disclosed that the repertoire of the band will include many martial airs by John Phillip Sousa in view of the forthcoming release of the film version of his life.

Students may audition for the Concert Band by contacting Don Brown, 206 Fedigan, or Rev. John Burns, O.S.A.,

Glee Club Obtains Eugene Sullivan As New Director

Directing the fortunes of the newly-reorganized Glee Club is Mr. Eugene Sullivan, professional vocal musician, recently engaged to direct the campus choral group by the administration.

Mr. Sullivan is also organist-director at Our Lady of the Rosary in Philadelphia. An ex-member of the faculty at the Pius X School of Liturgical Music in New York, the Glee Club's new leader has accompanied the Villiger Glee Club of Philadelphia, the Palestrina Choir, and the Paulist Choir of New York.

The rejuvenated Glee Club now boasts a roster of 55 members. Officers installed for 1952-53 include: Thomas L. Davis, president; Joseph Wyatt, vice-president; John O'Hara, secretary; Conrad. J. Urban, Librarian; Dave Smith, Student Council representative.

Since the club began rehearsals only two weeks ago, it was impossible to arrange a Christmas program. In the spring semester the club plans a tour of appearances at local colleges and nursing homes.

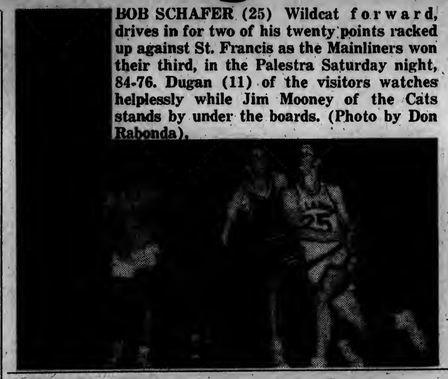
'Cats Bounce Back; Game Skein Alive As Gap Bows, 97-74

By Harry Nash

Villanova's amazing 47-game winning skein at the Field House remained intact Wednesday night as Al Severance's aggregation smothered an Indiantown Gap service team, 97 to 74, thanks to Nick Maguire's underhand driving shots and well-spread scoring power of the Wildcats' first team.

The win gave the 'Cats a 2-1 victory and partially salved the wounds suffered in the one-point loss to Quantico week before last.

Maguire, previously known more for his ball-handling and floor play than for any scoring potency, erupted for 20 points and played his usual fine floor game. His total came primarily on underhand fake shot down the middle, and he was in cahoots in this department with Sam Glassmire, who continually took off through the middle of the distraught opponents for easy lay-ups. Glassmire got 11.



The evenly-distributed scoring was probably the main factor in the Villanova win, however, with everybody on the first team hitting double numbers, Bobby Schaeffer was dead on sets and jumps and hung up 19 on the night. the first half especially, as he Long John Devine dunked 16, in a brilliant display of tapping and rebounding; and reliable Jim Mooney grapped rebounds with familiar ease and made off with a 15-point total. So the starters accounted for 81 of the teams points before reserves saw any action, toward the final period. Joe Maguire, who is making a habit of scoring like mad in the final period, racked nine for the second straight time. His first three attempts, all one-hand pushes, were successful.

Indiantown Gap, equipped with former St. Bonnie and Kentucky players, was harassed early in the game, which was fairly close until the latter stages of the second period, by a severe ankle sprain

Waugh, Matuszak Unanimous Pick On All Opponent Team

In this day and age when everybody picks all star teams, the Villanova decided they too should jump on the band wagon. We have listed below the men selected to all All Opponent team, which was chosen by the members of the 1952 Villanova Wildcats.

Two members of the team were unanimously named. They were fullback Howie Waugh and Guard Marvin Matuszak—both of Tulsa. Waugh, who was the nation's groundgainer of this year played one of the biggest roles in that horrendous affair the Cats had with the Hurricanes. Besides his great running, Waugh was an outstanding scorer and he also was named to the Missouri Valley Conference All Star team.

Matuszak, Tulsa's co-captain, is perhaps the most underrated lineman in the country. He was left off many All American teams which seems from this point of view to have been a great over sight. Marvin, however, was the outstanding guard in the conference and perhaps in the southwest.

Lewis Named

Of the others selected, Captain Jack Lewis of Wake Forrest missed a unanimous selection to the team by one vote. The big fellow played both offense and defense but the Cats remembered him best for his pass receiving. You may remember it was Lewis who made that amazing catch of a pass from Sonny George in the 20-0 defeat of the Deacon by Villanova.

Judd Plays Both Ways

Of all the players selected, only one man made the offensive and defensive teams and he was Bob Judd of Xavier. Bob made the team as a starting halfback and also was safety man. The other offensive halfback was Billy Hayes of Parris Island by way of North Carolina. In our opinion, Hayes was one of the best half backs playing ball today.

Marchibroda, Quarterback

The quarterback, in that fine offensive quartet, is Ted Marchibroda. The little star who hails from Franklin, Pa. is the nation's leader in total offense this year. He was the first quarterback ever to lead the country in this department. Marchibroda also set a record for the most yards gained in a single game, by passing, when he picked up 392 yards in the air against Tulsa.

The tackles selected were mammoth Rex Boggan of PI and Kaye Vaughn an All Conference player for Tulsa.

Bob Snelker, Parris Island's stellar end, John Topper, the Captain and center of B.C. and Tom Rodgers of Clemson round out the offensive line.

Both Ends From Xavier

Frank Fellerhoff, and Chuck Jawoski, won out in the race for defensive ends. At the tackle spot it was the same story as in many previous cases as Tulsa and P. I. each had a man named. Big Bob St. Clair was the choice for the Hurricanes and former pro-star Roscoe Hanson was the Marine chosen.

The safety man as we mentioned before was Bobby Judd of Xavier.

The rest of the defensive backfield was made up of Nobbie Noble of Clemson and Bill Travinick of Tulsa.

Scrappy Joe Coffey out of B. C. and George Radosevich another Marine do the linebacking. The defensive platoon is rounded out by guards Tom Barton of Clemson and Vito Korrell of the University of Kentucky.

Maguire's 26 Sparks Winners; Stokes Rims 27 For Visitors

By Dick Confoy

The Cats are starting to roll. Led by their invaluable back-court duo, Sam Glassmire and Nick Maguire, the Mainliners piled up a 17 point third quarter lead, blew it all, and then surged back to dump a strong St. Francis quintet, 84-76.

Villanova put on a defensive show in the first half, holding the up-state boys to 28 points and their sophomore giant, Maurice Stokes, to 7. In the early moments of the third period the Wildcats turned on the heat and added seven points to a half-time bulge of ten. Then John Devine, who had successfully bottled up Stokes all evening, was given a well deserved ret and things began to happen fast. Stokes got red-hot, the lead began to melt, and before Devine could get back in for the final period's opening tap St. Francis was just four points away. Two minutes later it was tied at 59 all.

Cats Strike Back

Then the Cats cut out the tomfoolery. Glassmire crashed through the line and floated in for a big two-pointer, and John Devine cashed another, but the lead was cut to two with just three minutes remaining. So Sam and Nick really went back to work. Glassmire would dribble upcourt for a while and then give it to Maguire, who in turn would give it back to Sam, etc, until finally one of them would pick up a couple nice fouls.

Mainliners Face Five Court Foes During Holidays

By Carl Valenti

While the rest of the student body wends their merry way home to spend the holidays merrymaking, Villanova's basketballers prepare for a heavy vacation schedule of basketball. The Wildcats play five games while we're home and three more from the time we return until the next issue of THE VILLANOVAN—a total of eight in all.

Thursday the eighteenth the University of Delaware visits the campus for a Field House encounter. The Blue Hens threw a scare into Penn last Saturday before losing 74-69 and showed flashes of brilliance, particularly Vernon Lamkin their towering center. Next Coach Al Severance's charges play their first away game of the season at the University of Conneticut. This contest will be staged Saturday the twentieth.

Off To Sugar Bowl

After Christmas, the Mainliners travel to New Orleans to participate in the annual Sugar Bowl Tournament on December 29th and 30th. Saint Louis University, Saint Bonaventure, and Louisiana State are the three other squads that will compete. Villanova meets L. S. U. in the first round and the winner of that contest will play the winner of the St. Louis-St. Bonaventure encounter for the championship.

Dukes in Town

Returning home, Mooney, Maguire and company come face to face with Duquesne in the Palestra Saturday, January third. The Dukes from Pittsburgh will be led into action by Ed Ricketts since Jim

The two tossed in ten free throws in the waning seconds to put the Wildcat's third victory in four starts on ice.

Cats Lead Whole Way

Villanova was never behind in the contest, but it was through no fault of St. Francis' uncanny foul accuracy (24 for 28) or Maury Stokes, the 6'6½" negro who poured in 27 for the night, a good part of them in the late comeback. The Cats truly can be grateful that they don't have to travel upstate and face the big boy again.

Maguire Leads

Nick Maguire had the team's high for the season with 26, with an amazing 10-15, .667 shooting percentage. Sam Glassmire had his highest total in many a moon, 20, and Bob Schafer, with another 20 game, raised his average to a fraction short of that figure.

In the preliminary, Penn held on desperately to an enormous lead to edge Delaware, 74-69. Vern Lamkin was high scorer with 27.

SPORTS CHATTER

Football Still Important

By Harry Anger

Rather than being opinionated this week we decided to call our little spot more of a suggestion corner. We simply want to outline a plan that has come to mind in recent weeks.

First off may we offer this: who ever is responsible for such things should see that Villanova football gets the play, in the press, that it deserves. Wouldn't now be a good time to start on a publicity campaign for the East's best for '53. In Gene Filipski we have undoubtedly the best back on the Atlantic Coast. Lets put this to full use. This team is loaded with potential All-Stars and we should let all the press know all the particulars on them.

"Press Agents" Backfield

In the backfield with "Flip" the Cats luckily possess Ben Addiego and Jack Helm—two boys who could easily rise to All-America stature themselves. A quarterback for this unit is still in doubt, but if he were Joe McNicholas—it would be a press agents dream. Mc Nick although only 160 pounds can go both ways and he excels on either offense or defense.

On the line we have quite a bit to beat the drum about. Bob Volinino, for one, may well the East's best defensive lineman, but again much depends on the way he is handled in press releases.

Kershaw Underrated

On one flank of what will probably be a stellar line the Mainliners have, a man who is undoubtly the most underrated end in the business today. We mean, of course, Roy Kershaw. Outside of this locale Roy isn't too well known, but we'd venture to say he is the type for the pro game. Now you may say he isn't too big, but then we can only say how about Jim Duncan of the New York Giants. As we just briefly run over the members of the team, I think you could see the chance for a good story building up. For once if Villanova is to do something different it might really pay off. Suppose all those people who produce pre-season ratings and dole out publicity were suddenly hit with some thing different in the football line? For instance the preseason brochure could be called "Villanova Presents It's All-America".

On this line we mean that the brochure would really impress the sports writers on the merits of the season to come. In it the staff of Villanova would nominate the individual members for sectional and national honors. Of course not every member of the team is suitable for this recognition, but for the previously unsung it would be a big boost.

Give Us A Break

We also think that the further fact that Villanova isn't a football factory should be impressed on those on the out side looking in. Unfortunately since the NCAA incident of a few years ago many feel that we are simply a country club with a football team. With a good press that complete lie would be dispelled, but without help in the magazines it looks impossible. Might we suggest an attempt for the "expose" type of story. We mean an unbaised feature on just exactly what Villanova is like. A proposed title is "Give Us A Chance".

Again it seems to be pretty elementary that you have to help yourself before anyone is going to help you out. If the Mainliners produced a press booklet such as the one suggested above then maybe the fans and press will realize we are the East's best in sports. Unless you go out on the limb and claim to be the best, then its a tough grind. For once Villanova should be played up by its own staff and students. The past has born out the fact nobody else will.

Basketball Team Superb

Off the subject of football for just a record, I think a plug is in order for the basketball team, minus Larry Hennessey the Cats have been a pleasant surprise. Nick McGuire, the new standout has finally begun to flash the form he did when he was a freshman.

Now the question must be posed, who will Larry replace when he is again eligible on the 26th of January?

That's not a question to be settled here, but we still must say even without Hennessey the Blue and White should put on quite a show for the fans in the Sugar Bowl.

Instead of the long sets that marked the Cats last appearance in New Orleans the fans will be thrilled with the fast breaking, driving, new style of play.

It does our sentimental strain good to see Sam Glassmire pouring them in. Saturday's twenty points were a surprise, but certainly well deserved. Of course the newly found eye of Joe McGuire is something to behold. McGuire hits in the Field House like Stan Musial does in Brooklyn.

Mooney Excels

With the honors that are being showered on the basketball squad, not enough can be said for the Captain Jim Mooney. The tall red-head from John Bartram High is one of the finest players and gentlemen on any College team today. He's the type that a coach dreams about but very seldom finds. Mooney only got seven points on Saturday, but he led the field in rebounding.

Intra-Mural Cage Season to Begin After Christmas

Tom Terranova the director of intra-mural athletics hopes to start the basketball season the week school begins after the Christmas holidays. Last Thursday meetings were held for the dayhop and resident managers at which arrangements for the different league schedules were made. Terranova will put into effect a new rule this season under which each team will supply a referee to work games other than those in which his own team is playing.

He is also looking for men to join the Officials Club. These men will learn how to officiate and will work the intra-mural games. They will also get to work a number of outide games for pay. Anyone interested should get in touch with Tom in Room 112, Alumni, the intra-mural office. There will be a meeting of the club Tuesday, Jan. 6, time and place to be announced.

suffered by the team's leading scorer, Kermit Keiske.

Walt Hirsch, the ex-Kentuckian, picked up 15 points, mostly from inside. The St. Bonnie alumnus, Fred Diute, flipped in hook after hook shot for 24, the majority of which were scored in the second half.

Ancient Innkeeper

No Room

The warmth from the Inn reddened the stranger's face, tears began to flow slowly down his cheek. Then Darius spoke. There was no room in his Inn. The stranger attempted to speak but a voice from inside the Inn bade Darius to shut the door. Darius shook his head at the man and quietly closed the door.

Lacked Compassion

Today, we know to whom Darius would not give shelter. There was a man who had an opportunity to be a witness to the Nativity if he had had compassion on those travelers and given them a room. We can safely suppose that if Darius knew now what he had done, he would surely never ceive Christ and that he would pass up another chance to retake full advantage of our opportunity of receiving Christ through Holy Communion on Christmas morning.

school in September 1953.

This announcement was released by Sister Margarella:

"The program presents an integrated basic curriculum in academic and professional subjects. During the first two years emphasis is placed on the humanities, the related physical and biological social sciences and communication skills, as well as factors which contribute to the health, social welfare and personal satisfaction of the student.

"During the remaining period of this curriculum emphasis is placed on the knowledge, skills, and attitudes specific to a mastery of professional nursing. The course of study during this clinical period will include instruction and practice in medical and surgical nursing, obstetric, pediatric, and tuberculosis nursing, psychiatric and public health nursing."

The Villanova Division of Nursing was established in June 1951. Part-time supplementary sessions leading to nursing degrees were originated in September 1951.

Behind Iron Curtain

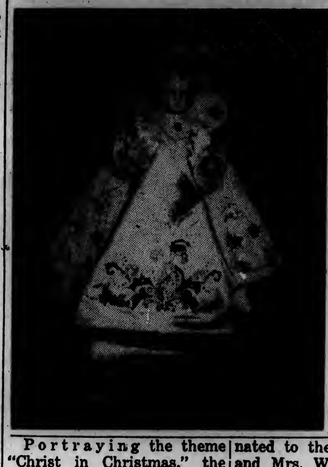
The country prospered under its new democratic constitution, which was based on that of the United States. But, located in the heart of Europe, at a point both strategically and politically important, Czechoslovakia became an early target for Nazi Germany. Berlin instituted a war of nerves against its peaceful neighbor, and fomented the spirit of discontent among a portion of the German minority living in the Sudetenland.

Abandoned by Allies

The small but well-trained Czech army was mobilized, prepared to defend the independence of the Republic, but was shamefully abandoned by its allies, Great Britain and France, at the infamous Munich Conference of 1938. The Sudetenland by the terms of this conference, including its country was stripped of the "Maginot Line" fortifications in the Sudeten Mountains. While its erstwhile allies feverishly prepared for the coming final showdown with Germany, Nazi armies marched into Prague, bringing to an end the First Czech Republic.

Now, the unhappy people of the ancient provinces of Bohemia, Slovakia and Ruthenia, called today Czechoslovakia, wait and pray for another liberation; for this predominantly Catholic people are suffering untold misery under the scourage of godless Communism.

Shamokinaki Ducats Go On Sale Jan. 5th



No Geisha girls, no Shinto shrines, but plenty of that crazy Square Dancing.

That will be the program for the Shamokinaki Square Dance to be held in the Field House on Friday, January 9, 1953 at 9 p. m.

Gene O'Donnell, campus representative for the event, announced that tickets will go on sale on Monday, Januray 5 in the Pie Shop from 11:30 a. m. to 1:30 p. m. daily. Tickets may also be purchased in Room 344, Mendel Hall.

O'Donnell stated that professionals will lead the square dancing and there will be straight dancing also.

Magnificent Statue Portrays Theme-"Christ In Christmas"

CENTERPIECE of the beautiful Christmas display in the library is the status of the Infant of Prague. The display cases and lobby have been decorated to back the theme of "Christ in Christmas". (Photo by Ned Staudt).

Portraying the theme "Christ in Christmas," the Villanova Library is exhibiting a magnificent statue (above) of the Infant of Prague as the centerpiece in its Yule decorations.

The 26-inch statue of the Child Jesus was recently donated to the library by Mr. and Mrs. William T. Cooke. Standing in the first display case on the main floor, the Infant is draped in cream-colored satin vestments and a velvet cape with pearls and sequins. The statue is crowned by a gold headpiece set with stones.

Vestments were designed and hand-sewn by the Carmelite Sisters.

Decoration of the library was under the supervsion of Rev. Michael O'Donnell, O.S.A.

In the second display case is a colorful Christmas Crib, and an impressive water color Madonna, painted by a local nun, is placed in the third case. The fourth and last case contains the words and music of popular Christmas Carols. Poinsettias adorn all the display cases.

Bulletin boards throughout the building convey the Christmas spirit. One board illustrates the various Yuletide customs with a brief history of each.

Three Awards Presented At Annual Football Banquet

bert '42; Paetrus Banmiller '35, winner of this year's Loyalty Award; head coach Art Raimo; Yale's Bob Hall, who gave the chief address; and Rev. Joseph M. Dougherty.

As Hall was the chief speaker of the evening and also the chairman of the controversial N.C.A.A. television committee, it was expected that he might make some important remarks concerning television but he kept quite clear of the subject.

He gave a fine talk stating that the two big ills of intercollegiate athletics (the danger of double athletic standards which are prevalent in some sections of the country and the necessity of charging admission to athletic events) must be controlled.

Great Cats

Hall mentioned a few times the great work which the Wildcats did this year and the fine work done at Yale by two former Villanova coaches, Jordan Olivar and Jerry Neri.

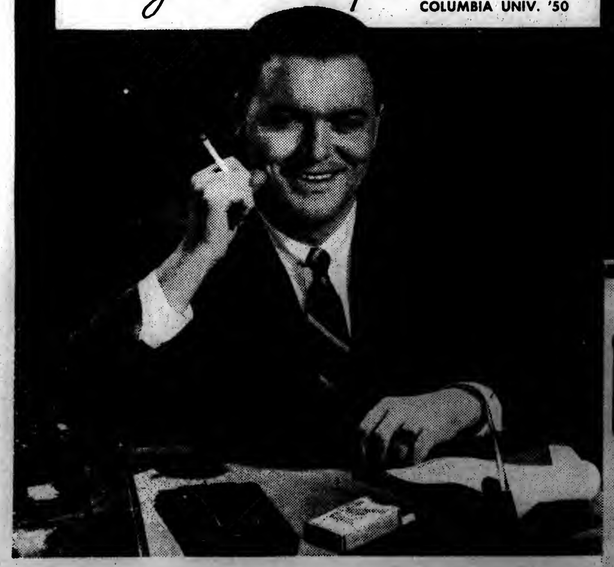
The biggest award of the evening went to Paetrus Banmiller who won the 21st Alumni Award. In accepting the award, Banmiller told how closely his life has been connected with the college. He was graduated in 1935, served as registrar from 1935 until 1943, was national alumni president in 1947 and is at present on the board of athletic control.

Art Raimo, after giving a recap of the season, asked Tommy Green to give his impersonation of one of Alex Bell's scouting report. What resulted was the most entertaining speech of the evening and the discovery of a 7 foot, 11 inch end.

Mr. Wolcott Lectures Marketing Club On Importance of Market Research

Mr. John Wolcott, head of the market research department of the Gray and Rogers advertising agency addressed the members of the Marketing Club on campus last Wednesday.

The importance of advertising agencies in market research was stressed by Mr. Wolcott, as compared to the functions of research agencies and industry in the field. "The market research department of an advertising agency handles investigations on the executive and trade levels leaving the consumer level to be handled by the market research agency", he stated.



The remainder of the talk was devoted to a description of several research campaigns in which Mr. Wolcott played a major role. He related his part in the pioneering of the new soapless detergents during the war. Consumer research showed that housewives wouldn't consider using a cleansing agent that didn't produce suds and foam. The results laid the foundation for the now immense soapless detergent industry.

The lecture was followed by an informal discussion of market research. The next meeting of the Marketing Club will probably not be until next semester.

Vol. 28—No. 10 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. Tuesday, Jan. 13, 1953

Exams Start Next Monday; 77 Days To Easter Recess

Christmas vacation is a shallow nine days in the past, but already study-minded Villanovans are counting the seventy-seven days remaining until the Easter recess commences on April 1.

NEXT ISSUE

Because of the mid-week examinations there will be no edition of the "Villanovan" next Tuesday. The next edition of this paper will appear on Tuesday, February 10. The deadline for this edition will be Thursday, February 5, at 4:00 P. M. in the Villanovan office.

Things aren't that bad, fellows! A brief respite is in the offing—in only ten days. It's the annual break for the second semester registration, scheduled to begin this year on Monday, January 26.

The ever popular final examinations have been set for the week of January 19-24 inclusive; registration for the next semester follows right on the trail of the exams, beginning on Monday, the 28th. Second semester classes will commence on Monday, February 2.

Following the precedent set last year, the annual four-day retreat will be conducted just prior to the Eastern recess.

A quick glance at the school year calendar will indicate that Villanovans are faced with the prospect of eight consecutive weeks of classes without as much as a single free day. Washington's Birthday falls on the fourth Sunday of the month, thereby robbing Villanova men of a respite.

There's hope though—the Student Council is due to request a date in the second semester for its official college-wide day off. Last year the Council selected March 17, St. Patrick's Day for its free day, with a three day weekend the result.

Seventy-seven days to go? Cheer up! Minus Saturdays, Sundays, finals, and the retreat, there are only 43 more schools days 'till Easter recess.

Sophomores Meet; Discuss Plans for Proposed Dance

The Sophomore class held a meeting last Thursday night at which Treas. Don McGahan announced that the recent Soph Cotillion cleared $1,480. This sum will be used to help finance next year's Junior Week and also to start a scholarship fund for needy students, said Father Henry J. Eagan, class moderator.

A new precedent was called for by Frank Licopoli, President, when he asked the 90 Sophomores present to discuss a second dance to be held on one of the few open dates next semester.

Licopoli hopes that more Sophomores will attend the next meeting for further discussion of the proposed dance.

Schafer's Kidnapping Adds A Novel Touch To Season

A touch of Sam Spade was added to the current basketball season when Bob Schafer, sophomore scoring ace was "kidnapped" for an hour last Tuesday night by four men who asked him "to be less active in future games".

This athletic Lindberg case began when Schafer received a phone call at his Good Counsel dormitory that a package was waiting for him down at the Post Office. This occured at 6:30 P. M..

Arriving there he noticed a car parked outside and a man got out and struck up a conversation. Despite Schafer's 6 foot, 200 pound size he was "pushed or crowded" into the car where three other men were seated. The group then proceeded to drive around the area for an hour or so during which time basketball was the topic of conversation.

Schafer at first thought the move to be a prank but when the group asked him to be less active in future games he became alarmed and tried to leave the car. In about an hour's time the group returned Schafer to the door of Good Counsel Hall.

Because of the darkness Schafer was unable to identify the men or the license plate of the car which he thought might have been a Mercury.

The F.B.I. was immediately called into the case along with the local authorities. The scare didn't seem to have much effect on Schafer as he scored twenty points against Millersville on Wednesday night and 33 against Xavier on Saturday.

Ambrose Dudley Appointed New Director Of Athletics

AMBROSE DUDLEY, (right) new athletic director receives the congratulations of Rev. James Donnellon, O.S.A., chairman of the board of athletic control, and Art Raimo, former athletic director, at a luncheon at the Bellevue-Stratford.

Administration Relieves Raimo Of Extra Job

Ambrose F. Dudley, Jr., was appointed as the new director of athletics at Villanova, it was announced at a luncheon at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel last Tuesday afternoon. Dudley replaces Art Raimo who held the post for ten months and who now will devote his full time to the football team.

The Rev. James A. Donnellon, chairman of the board of athletic control, in his talk at the luncheon, made it clear that the change was no reflection on Raimo.

"We think Art Raimo and his assistants, Eddie Micheals and Alex Bell, compose the best coaching staff in the country, Father Donnellon said, "Raimo just had too much to do as athletic director."

Attends Convention

Dudley's first official act as director was to attend the yearly convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association held last week in Washington, D. C. It was hoped that while there he might be able to fill some of the blanks on this year's football schedule.

Dudley, who was born and raised in Philadelphia, attended St. Joseph's Prep where he became a leading schoolboy football player, having been named on the All-scholastic team in 1937. In the same year he was the top schoolboy scorer.

He later attended the famed Kiski Prep, near Pittsburgh, where he competed in basketball, baseball and captained the football team. Following that, he matriculated to Notre Dame where he played both baseball and football, the latter under one of the famed "Four Horsemen" — Elmer Layden.

Enters Air Force

Dudley for three years was elected president of his class at Notre Dame and also headed the Monogram Club. After graduation in 1942, Dudley entered the Army Air Force in which he attained the rank of captain and became a navigator for a B-24 bomber group. He took part in 54 missions, including seven over

Lynx To Appear Tomorrow; Four Editions Are Planned

Lynx, the college literary magazine, will make its first appearance of the school year when the quarterly is published tomorrow.

Copies will go on sale tomorrow in the Pie Shop for $.25. Dick Cashman, Lynx Circulation Manager, promises that the first issue will be a good one. Subscriptions entitling the owner to the four Lynx issues to be published this year can be purchased from Cashman for $1.00.

Highlighting the new Lynx publication will be short stories by Villanovans Harry LeFever, Al Pandaleon, John Kennedy, Rudy Jones, and Cummin Clancy. Articles will also appear under the bylines of the three editors of the quarterly, Frank Thompson, editor; John Widmeier, co-editor; and Jim Glavin.

Rev. John J. McShea, O.S.A., faculty moderator of the magazine, stated that the high standard of art work which has characterized past issues of the Lynx will be found again this year. Art contributors for this issue were Ed Cormier and Dan McDonald.

Belle Masquers Dine and Dance In Philly Fete

Twenty-three Belle Masquers and their dates gathered last Saturday night in the Sansom House in Philadelphia at the Villanova dramatic society's annual dinner-dance.

Guest of honor at the affair was Rev. John Krupa, O.S.A., Belle Masque faculty moderator.

Chief topic of conversation for the evening was the society's forthcoming spring play, Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar."

The cast for "Julius Caesar" will be released, said Father Krupa, in time for publication in the next issue of the "Villanovan." The "Villanovan" will publish a series of articles prior to the production keeping students posted on the progress of the play.

N.Y. Alumni Club To Sponsor Dance

The New York Alumni Club has announced that it will sponsor an Alumni Dance in the Hotel McAlpin, 34th Street and Broadway, New York City on Friday evening, Jan. 30 at 9:00 p. m.

Tickets at $4.00 per couple may be purchased from Lou Blanchet, 214 Alumni.

A Different Policy

The appointment of Ambrose Dudley as Director of Athletics is a big step forward in the journey to athletic prominence now being undertaken at Villanova.

It shows a partial recognition of the fact that as the college in general, or any one phase of the college, expands, it is necessary for the men behind it, as well as the thinking behind it, to grow bigger also.

This is not to imply in the least that Art Raimo, during his one year at the helm, did anything short of an excellent job. Our football schedule was one of the finest in the school's history, and the team itself even exceeded that.

But the dual job of athletic director and head coach, is too much for any man. Each of the two positions is a full time job in itself.

In Mr. Dudley, Villanova has a man who should be able to carry its athletic program through to the utmost degree. His fine record in the past, along with his numerous friendships, acquaintances, and contacts, should serve him well in overcoming the scheduling difficulties which have cropped up in the last few years.

Difficulties which prevent us from playing many of the teams we should be playing, especially Eastern teams like Penn State, Holy Cross, Fordham and Pitt.

Under the schedule policy of the past few years we've made quite a name for ourselves in the South and Southwest but, unfortunately, too great a majority of the big time sportswriters are in the East, especially in the New York area.

This is one reason for Villanova's "one chance" reputation. In past years, while undefeated, our standing was high, but the first loss dropped us to the depths of the ratings faster then you could say "A. P. Poll".

An example of this was the 1950-51 basketball season. In January, with a 9-0 record, we were ninth. Our first loss, to Fordham, dropped us to nineteenth. At the same time North Carolina State, while undefeated, was seventh. Four losses, including two to us, dropped them only to eleventh.

Again this fall, our 7 won, 1 tied record had us thirteenth. The loss to Tulsa, granted that it was a clobbering dropped us out of the top thirty.

It shows that it was only our undefeated record, while we had it, that was before the eyes of the sportswriters.

So why not play more metropolitan teams. Granted that teams like St. John's, Manhattan and N.Y.U. play in the Garden, and relations between Ned Irish and Villanova being what they are, it does pose a problem. Still, something might be worked out. It's worth the try.

To Ambrose Dudley falls a big job. Like the administration, we feel that he's the man to do that job. To him goes our best wishes for every success in his attempts to put Villanova in its rightful niche in the world of sports.

Behind the Iron Curtain; No. 3 --- The Baltikum

By George Ferguson

In June of 1940, Soviet Russian armies marched across the borders of peaceful, diminutive Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia (known in Europe as Baltikum), in an act of deliberate, unprovoked aggresion. A regiment of the Latvian army put up stout resistance for three days to the Soviet aggressors, but was overwhelmed by vastly superior enemy forces. The other two countries surrendered without a shot being fired. Twenty two years of prosperous independence for the Baltic Republics was climaxed by their fall to ruthless Soviet Russian imperialism.

Victims of Invaders

Almost immediately, the dreary processions of unfortunate victims of Communism, an all too-familiar pattern in Red tactics, commenced throughout Baltikum. The first deportees were mostly members of the legal governments of these nations. A year later, invading German Wehrmacht troops, driving into Russia, pushed the retreating Reds out of Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia. At the same time, the people arose in revolt against the Russians, and proclaimed their independence anew. The Germans ignored the rights of the liberated states, and proceeded to set up their own military government, which eventually proved almost as harsh as the Balshevik regime.

The Germans restored to the inhabitants their churches, suppressed under Communist rule, but made these churches subservient to the Nazi state. In 1943, great numbers of Balts were compelled to leave their homes and go to Germany as forced laborers. Many others were impressed into Nazi military service. Meanwhile, the Latvian Minister in Washington declared that his countrymen would support the cause of the United Nations, and Latvian seamen and ships were placed at the disposal of the Allies. Great numbers of Balts fled to Germany before the Soviet re-occupation of their homelands in 1944.

The Bolsheviks, after the end of World War II, began a huge program of mass deportations of Baltic peoples from their native lands to areas deep inside the USSR. This great crime was perpetrated upon the helpless Latvians, Lithuanians and Estonians, partly so that Sovietization of Baltikum might be completed, partly in order to insure that never again would these valiant people be in a position to offer resistance to Russia's expansionist schemes. To complete their plans, the Reds resettled many thousands of Russians in the empty Baltic towns and villages.

Proud History

The history of the Baltikum goes back to ancient times, when Phoenician traders from the Mediterranean sailed past the Pillars of Hercules, around the northern coast of Europe, and into the Baltic Sea, to obtain the prized amber, found in quantity in this area.

Latvia is a land of rolling countryside, covering some 25,000 square miles; it has great evergreen forests and nearly three thousand lakes. The climate is rather mild. Its people have Nordic features; the pre-war population was two million.

Estonia is first mentioned in the 9th Century, as a separate country. In the 13th Century, it was invaded by German crusaders, the Order of the Teutonic Knights. The country was ruled for long periods by the Danes, the Germans and the Swedes, but the people never lost their national identity.

Predominantly Catholic

Lithuania is the only one of the Baltic countries which has ever achieved the distinction of becoming one of the great powers of Europe. From the 13th to the 15th Centuries the Lithuanian Empire was one of the great nations of the world. Lithuanians are proud of the fact that their language has a Latin base; the country is predominantly Catholic and one of the most highly civilized of the nations of the West.

Ringing Silence Follows Meeting Of New President And Ex-Commander

By Al Pandaleon

There is little doubt that General Douglas MacArthur still occupies a very important position on the American scene. Hence, when he expressed willingness to confer with President-elect Eisenhower on the prospects of bringing the Korean War to a successful conclusion, the entire nation eagerly awaited the meeting between the two men. Eisenhower wisely agreed to such a rendezvous in the hope that his former boss might have something valuable to contribute to the solution of the most vexing problem facing the new administration.

PANDALEON

Developments since the time of that meeting have been astounding if only for the silence engendered. Virtually nothing of the conversation that took place has been released to the public, outside of the usual comments that the conference was amicably conducted and both men felt it profitable. In fact, the hush-hush cloak thrown over the affair has just about obliterated it from the minds of most of us.

This turn of events would seem to be explainable through one of two alternatives. The first is that the former Pacific commander offered a definite plan that was both new in approach and safe in execution. It would have to avoid any possible risk of extending the conflict, and, at the same time, achieve an honorable peace without any compromise of principle. If MacArthur has offered such a program, then we can assume that the silence in Republican quarters indicates that the foreign affairs experts are hard at work ironing out the preliminary obstacles. Furthermore, the Eisenhower camp would be withholding action until the change of administration brought with it the power necessary to put MacArthur's plan into operation.

The second possibility, and quite the opposite, is that the meeting indicated to the President-elect little or nothing that he did not already know. Both by his personal trip to Korea and his conference with MacArthur, Eisenhower has shown his willingness to explore every possible means of concluding the war. Even before his election, he stated that he would not hesitate to call on the experience of Mac-

Lattimore Case Holds Importance; Can Opinions Help To Incriminate?

By Tom McDermott

One of the most controversial problems affecting government employees, the one concerned with how to determine the loyalty of federal government workers, has once more come on the scene; it is reflected in the recent indictent of Owen Lattimore for perjury. Owen Lattimore, as may be remembered, was called the chief Soviet agent in America by Senator McCarthy. Later this was modified, and the Senator from Wisconsin said that Lattimore was the chief "architect" in the State Department of our disastrous China policy.

McDERMOTT

Lattimore Cleared

This and other of the Senator's charges were investigated by a sub-committee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in 1950. This group led by Senator Millard Tydings, Democrat of Maryland, was instructed to: "Investigate whether there are employees in the State Department disloyal to the United States." Owen Lattimore, the Director of the Walter Hines Page School of International Relations at Johns Hopkins, was cleared by this sub-committee.

In reference to the Loyalty Program it should be remembered that it is possible to dismiss an employee from the federal government, "If there is a reasonable doubt as to loyalty of the person involved to the government of the United States." Therefore it need not be proven that an individual is a Communist Party member for him to be dismissed from government service. This is a very delicate situation which can and does cause serious repercussions at various intervals.

Unfair Formula?

Numerous solutions have been offered for this problem. One of the most limited answers was proposed by Thomas F. Murphy, prosecutor in the Alger Hiss trial, when he said, "Since it is hard these days to find anyone who admits he is a Communist, in order to detect subversives one must observe how closely a man's opinions have coincided with the Communist Party line."

Do Opinions Convict?

If this formula was applied to Mr. Lattimore, no doubt he would be convicted rather easily. In 1942 and 1943 the Russian Government was supporting the Chinese National-

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

HERE'S a sad Lobster tale. Sheedy was really in hot water. His girl kept saying, "The Maine thing I don't like about you is the way you pot your hair! Haven't you red about Wildroot Cream-Boil Hair Tonic? Non-alcoholic. Relieves annoying dryness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test. Perfect for you 'claws you need Lanolin on that water-soaked hair." Paul got Wildroot Cream-Oil and now he shore looks slick. In fact, he's in salad with every girl on campus. So if you're net-tled about your messy hair, butter shell out 29¢ at any toilet goods counter for a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil, "Your Hair's Best Friend." Ask for it at your barber's, antenna to one you'll be tickled pink!

Lattimore Case

ists because of its fears of a Japanese attack on Russia. Lattimore in a lecture at Claremont College praised Chiang and said that he was a statesman of real genius; there are many other statements showing this State Department expert's thoughts about Chiang Kai-shek during this period. However in 1949, when the Communist line changed to an attack on the Chinese Nationalists, Dr. Lattimore (incidentally the "when and how" he acquired the right to call himself Doctor Lattimore has never been made public; he is one of the few men on the Johns Hopkins' faculty who never obtained a bachelor's degree from any college) completely changed his position. In "The Situation in Asia" he wrote that the party that controlled China in 1937 owed nothing to elections or to representative forms of government. During 1942 and 1943 Owen Lattimore testified about the democratic character of the Nationalist Government of China, yet in 1949 he wrote that Chiang Kai-shek was influenced by "Fascist" theories and that "initiative at lower levels was regarded as subversive." Both of these statements are written about the same period in Chinese history, but at different times, with different perspectives.

Another case of this man's shifting tactics can be seen in his opinion of Nazi-Germany. In June 1940 Lattimore wrote in "Pacific Affairs" that he thought there was nothing to choose between the two sides in the European War, and that it was "one between the established master races and the claimant master races." After Germany attacked Russia, he was in favor of American intervention.

Other statements may be introduced by the prosecution in the coming perjury trial of Owen Lattimore, but it remains to be seen whether or not he can be convicted.

NAM In Error On Controls; Facts Prove Their Worth

By Tom Falin

"Price controls have been tried since ancient Rome—and they have never prevented inflation. Even death penalties for violations . . . failed completely." This is an excerpt from a pamphlet published recently by the National Association of Manufacturers.

It would be impossible to define creeping socialism to everyone's satisfaction. To some it is a grasping octopus named federal control throwing steadily growing tentacles around more and more facets of our lives. President Truman claims it is a scare word being foisted upon the American public by conservative politicians and self-seeking corporations.

Time Accepts

Although the phrase defies adequate definition, it is easily observable that what is socialistic in one decade is an accepted feature of our economy a few decades later, and creeping socialism has crept on to include a whole new set of controversial issues. A graduated income tax, social security, and federal insurance of bank deposits are generally accepted today but were formerly criticized as socialistic. Creeping socialism was not yet a part of our vocabulary. Today the cries of creeping socialism are loudest when compulsory health insurance or an extension of the public electric power program is mentioned. Between these two extremes are federal functions which are on the verge of being accepted as necessary, but which are still opposed by a few as being socialistic and inoperable. Federal imposition of price and wage controls in times of national emergency falls into this intermediate category.

"Protect, Don't Deter"

Price controls have never been intended to hold prices at an unchangeable level, but history seems to indicate that they at least help to prevent runaway inflations. The clamor which arose for direct controls when the Korean fighting broke out seems to show that the public is generally aware of this and realizes that in times of emergency price controls protect rather than deter free private enterprise.

Ike-Mac Meeting

Arthur if he felt it would be of use to his administration in solving the problems in the Far East. But if he received no real constructive plan from MacArthur, then the silence is only tacit consent to the charge that the meeting was fruitless.

The answer to the puzzle will no doubt be obvious soon enough. But from all indications, the latter alternative would seem to fit the facts. The chances are slim that one man, no matter what his qualifications, would be able to come up with an answer to a difficulty that has been tackled by a swarm of experts over a period of two and a half years. Naturally, all of us, in our desire to see the war ended, cling to the hope that MacArthur has put forth a possible solution. However, cooler reasoning seems to compel us to admit that such is not the case. In all probability, the overall effect of the discussion has merely been an additional briefing and clarification of the knotty problem facing the incoming administration.

"TWO TO TANGO", EIGHT TO SQUARE DANCE seems to be the theme as these city slickers live it up at the Shamokinaki dance held last Friday night in the college field house for the benefit of Rev. Thomas Purcell, O.S.A., now in Japan. (Photo by Don Rabenda)

East met West at a square dance in the Field House last Friday night.

Amid Oriental decorations of Japanese lanterns over 200 square dancers reeled and swung in typically Western garb of levis and ginham.

The occasion for the meeting of the Far East and the Old West was the Shamokinaki Square Dance, a benefit affair sponsored by a group of alumni to aid the Augustinian missions in Japan.

The dance, the first Villanova social event for 1953, was called a success in spite of the rain which kept many from attending.

Chief benefactor from the proceeds of the dance is Rev. Thomas Purcell, O.S.A., popular moderator of the class of 1951 who is now engaged in missionary work in Japan. Funds realized from the affair are being forwarded to Father Purcell's' mission.

Credit for organizing and sponsoring the dance went to Gene O'Donnell, Senior Dayhop, and alumni from the classes of 1951 and 1952. O'Donnell served as campus publicity agent.

Music for both the square and straight dances was supplied by Dick Hurley and his orchestra.

Death Claims Several During Yule Holidays

During the recent Christmas holiday, several Villanovans were bereaved by the death of loved ones. As the De Profundis bell tolls let us remember in our prayers:

The sister of Paul Pfeiffer, an Engineering sophomore.

The father of Alfred Staugo, an Arts school junior.

The Father of William Simpson, who graduated from the C&F school in 1949.

The mother of William Murray, who graduated from years ago with the C&F school.

The father of Danial McDonald, an Arts school senior.

The wife of Dr. Thomas Garrett. Dr. Garrett graduated from Villanova in 1931.

Rev. Thomas L. McLeod, OSA. Father Mc Leod graduated from Villanova in 1916. He was pastor of St. Thomas of Villanova Church for several years.

Rev. Philip Pambianco, OSA. Fr. Pambianco was ordained in 1901 and was stationed at the Augustinian Academy.

Juniors Are Singing Same Sad Song, "Ring Will Be a Little Late This Year"

Junior Class Ring Chairman Dick Brady and Class president Art Quinn announced last week that there will be an unavoidable delay in the delivery of Class rings. Although delivery was promised for early January, they will not arrive until the last week in January and will not come in until the middle of February.

Brady and Quinn expressed their regret and disappointment over the delay and explained that the "fault does not lie with the Bailey, Banks and Biddle Company or the Junior Class Committee." For the most part it was due to the uncertainty of the "University" status of the school. The rings will be engraved "Villanova College."

As the rings arrive, the names of the students whose rings are ready will be listed on the bulletin boards. The date on which the rings were ordered will have no effect on the date they are to be delivered.

Mainliners Win In Palestra 94-86 Over Xavier Univ.

By Dick Confoy

Villanova came through with probably its greatest game of the season Saturday night, as they broke the contest wide open with a minute remaining to defeat a red-hot Xavier squad, 94-86. The combined score—180 points—tied the Palestra scoring record set by Villanova and St. Francis a year ago when the clock ticked off an extra three minutes of play.

Bobby Schafer responded to the pressure by "taking it easy" for a respectable 33 in a game which also featured the return of Steven Gepp to his former rebounding brilliance. Nick Maguire with 21 clutch points, John Devine with 14 and 13 rebounds, and Sam Glassmire, setting things up as usual, all added outstanding individual performances to an impressive victory.

Fast Finish

The nets were really given a workout as the two teams raced to their whirlwind finish. The Ohioans, paced by co-captains Tom Simms and Huck Budde, matched the Cats point for point throughout, until Gepp, Schafer and Maguire sewed it up with last-second drive-ins. Simms, especially, kept Xavier within 2 or 3 points all the way to the bitter end by swishing 15 of 16 fouls to add to the visitor's unbelievable 32-37, .865 free throw percentage. All was for nought, however, as the Cats hit for 41 field goals—over 43 percent of their shots—with Schafer hitting for 15, just one short of the Palestra record.

Record at 8-4

The victory was the third in six nights for the Mainliners, and raised their season's record to eight and four. On Monday night, in one of their rare encounters with the Ivy League, Villanoca had another zone tossed at them, this time by the Princeton Tiger. After dilly-dallying around for 3½ quarters, the Cats finally broke the zone and the Tiger's heart to pull away to a 72-65 win. Nick Maguire drove in on the 2-1-2 defense for 22 points and the games high.

Two nights later, Millersville State slipped into town to gain the honor of being the Wildcat's 50th straight victim at the fieldhouse, a streak started in 1947. In a wide-open offensive game, Bob Schafer and John Devine each netted 20 and Steve Gepp 18 as the Teachers went under 88-79.

Frosh Win

In the preliminary, Penn sent their vaunted freshmen into the fieldhouse and got what was expected from a Villanova frosh squad playing only their second game. With all eleven members scoring, the Kats rolled up a 31 point lead and then eased up to win by 25.

Back to the varsity, with almost 40% of the season in the books, here's how some of the individual statistics shape up. Bobby Schafer, with the most points, 249, and the top average, 20.8, has done it with a .347 f.g. percentage and .602 from the line. The best percentage from the floor belongs to Nick Maguire, .464. Tops in free throws is Sam with .726, and Jim Mooney leads in rebounds with 121. John Devine is second in all 3 departments.

Mooney And Maguire Play Top Roles In 'Cat Success

Jim Mooney and Nick Maguire are two Wildcats whe have played no little part in determining the fortunes of Villanova's court quintet during the past few years. Both seniors, Jim and Nick have been members of the basketball varsity for three years, and in their freshman year, 1949, both were starters on the crack Frosh five that went undefeated during 18 games.

To everyone at Villanova the ability of carrot-top Mooney as a basketeer is well known. Since coming to the Mainline campus in 1949, following his graduation from John Bartram High School, "Moon" has established himself as one of the top players in the East.

Regarded in many circles as possibly the finest rebounder in the country, Mooney has not let himself be limited to this category. Jim possesses a good jump shot and set shot as his point average per game thus far this season testifies. And whenever Mr. Severance is looking for someone to put the clamps on the scoring efforts of the opponent's giant, it is always the six foot, three inch Mooney who receives the assignment.

Nick Maguire is another good example of a Mr. Severance find. It was while Nick was playing in an independent South Philadelphia league that Coach Severance first heard about "the drive-in kid". Once he had seen this La Salle High graduate in action, the Wildcat coach lost no time in getting him to come to Villanova. And Nick's sparkling play since 1949 has proved that the Cat mentor was definitely right.

In his frosh and sophomore years, Nick quickly established himself as a scorer. The fiery spark that had formerly characterized Nick's play seemed to disappear in his junior year, however, except for a few occasions. But the 1952-53 campaign has found a Nick that is better than the old Nick of 50-51 ever was. With his self-styled underhand drive-in, Nick has tickled the cords for markers in the first ten games, an average of 18.9 per game. What else may be said, but, "Keep it up, Nick."

Wheiler Third In 1000 As Cats Impress Capital Fans

By Harry Anger

Villanova's Fred Dwyer took the Washington Star mile run Saturday night before a good crowd of 5,500 in the Capital city's National Guard Armory. The little fellow from South Orange, N. J. outdistanced some pretty fair competition to win going away in 4:19.4.

Stur Lanquist, a Swedish Olympic runner finished in second spot four yards back of Fred. Lt. Warren Dreutzler, of the Army was third man across the finish line. Many had expected he and Bob McMillen of Occidential to be one-two, however both showed up very poorly when the final results were in. McMillen, an Olympic ace, turned in a very poor 4:38.2 to come in fifth.

As far as Dwyer is concerned he is capable of a much faster race. The three time IC4A mile champ ran 4:10 to place third in the Inquirer Mile last winter. On that evening he was beaten only by Fred Wilt and Don Gerhman. If Dywer can run close to that time in the Inquirer Meet next week he will be an odds on favorite to break the indoor IC4A record of 4:12, later this season. This time was set in 1941 by Les McMitchel of NYU.

Gaffney Wins 600

In the 600 yard run the crowd in huge armory saw slender Joe Gaffney breeze home ahead of Bill Smith of Boston University. The lead changed hands many times during the contest, but the former Middle Atlantic AAU champ came home the winner by five yards in 1:15.3.

Late Invitation

Joe had been invited when Mal Whitfield had chosen to compete in the Metropolitan AAU 600 in New York. In that race Mal finished in fourth position, as Reggie Pearman turned in a nice 1:-11.7 to win.

George Lynch of Michigan pulled the big surprise of the evening in the 1000 yard run. The Canadian-born collegian beat Walter Mollineaux of Brown and Villanova's Ray Wheiler. The time was 2:18.

Wheiler was the defending champion having won the race in 2:14.9 last season. In all fairness to Ray we must report he ran with his leg taped, a factor which no doubt hindered his performance.

The relay teams also had themselves a pretty fair evening. The mile quartet took a second place and the two-mile team finished fourth in their race.

Inquirer Meet

In the Inquirer Meet next week will have plenty of entries from the Mainline school. Dywer will be in the mile and Gaffney will try to repeat in the 600.

Ray Whieler will get his second start of the season in the 1000, and John Joe Barry, the man of eternal promise, has been slated for the distance of two miles.

Cagers Win Two; Lose To Uconns, LSU, Duquesne

For those who haven't heard yet, Villanova didn't fare too well basketball-wise over the holidays — unless two up and three down is considered acceptable. Anyhow, here are the sordid details:

Delaware

Dave Clune tossed in two free throws with just seconds left to hit the century mark for the first time this season as the Cats scored an impressive 100-79 victory over a Delaware club which had lost to Penn by five a week earlier. Bob Schafer poured in 31 and Nick Maguire 20 and Villanova was 4-1 as they prepared for their first away game.

Connecticut

Villanova had a zone thrown against them for the first time but it appeared to do Uconn little good as the Cats pulled away to an early 12 point lead. The home town boys came back for a half-time lead, but it looked like Villanova as they led by five going into the final three minutes. Then John Devine and Sam Glassmire fouled out, the refs came through with some really horrendous calls, and with the final seconds ticking off the clock, Nick Maguire let them know it. The technical was missed but it didn't matter because it was all over anyway. Uconn, 75-71.

LSU

Three Sugar Bowl team records were set in this one, Bobby Schafer had the season's high in points (32), and field goals (11), Nick Maguire had another great night with 22, and their bench showed up exceptionally well, but that was hardly consolation to the Mainliners as they went down in two overtime periods to L.S.U. Again Villanova failed to hold a 5 point lead late in the game as Bob (6'9") Pettit led the southerners to a 100-94 win and the finals.

St. Bonaventure

St. Bonnies took a half-time lead over the Wildcats but were almost run off the court in the second as they dropped to a minus twenty in the final

SPORTS CHATTER

This 'n That

By Carl Valenti

Welcome to Mr. Ambrose (Bud) Dudley, our new director of athletics. Now Coach Art Raimo can take a well-deserved rest. Raimo has been serving in a dual capacity since the resignation of William Connelley to retire to proviate business. While he served, Raimo shouldered the double responsibilities of Head Football Coach plus Director of Athletics. School authorities made it clear that the appointment of Dudley was in no way a reflection on Raimo. Rather, the appointment stresses the importance of each job and the necessity of a qaulified man devoting his full time to each post.

Congratulations to Freddie Dywer, Joe Gaffney and Ray Wheiler for their fine performances in the Washington Star meet. Dywer and Gaffney each took firsts in the mile and 600, respectively, while Wheiler finished third in the 1000 yard run. We sincerely hope they continue the fine work during the indoor season, especially in the forthcoming Philadelphia Inquirer meet.

Haner in East-West Game

While were congratulating people, let's not forget Bobby Haner's great showing in the annual East-West Bowl game. Playing alonside and opposite some of the finest football talent in the nation, Haner proved himself one of the best on the field. Bobby played almost the entire game offensively, calmly booting three out of three extra points. The third point after touchdown came with less than a minute remaining on a muddy field to break a 20-20 tie and give the victory to the East, 21-20. Even more outstanding, was his magnificent blocking which helped Tom O'Connell of Illinois set an East-West game passing record and highlighted many long rungs. After the game, Coach "Biggie" Munn of Michigan State said on a network radio interview that Haner was the best blocking back that he's seen in the country this year. And Munn gets around!

Schafer Acted Properly

Bobby Schafer is another boy who deserves a lot of credit for the way he handled himself in his recent experience with would-be game fixers. Taken for a "ride" and warned to be "less active" in future games, Schafer flatly refused and promptly reported the incident to his dormitory prefect, Rev. Thomas Burke, O.S.A. who brought the matter to the attention of the proper authorities. Had other players a few years back done the same thing upon being approached about fixing games, perhaps the infamous basketball scandal would never have occurred. Furthermore, Schafer proved his refusal to cooperate with such vermin by going out Saturday night and playing the best game of his career, scoring 33 points.

Scoring Phenom

Tiny Rio Grande College of Ohio is currently boasting the most phenominal scorer in collegiate basketball history in the person of Clarence (Bevo) Francis, six foot, nine inch center. Francis recently scored 116 points in a single game against Ashland College of Kentucky as Rio Grande won 150-85. The following night Bevo dumped in 63 to bring his season's total to 966 in 19 games. And he's only a freshman. At his current pace, he'll hit 6000 for his college career. WOW!

Haner Leads East To Victory Over West in Bowl Tilt

Playing with the more publicized Tommy O'Connell of Illinois and other top-notch college football names, Villanova's Bob Haner, the school's first East-West participant in many years, extended his regular season brilliance as he kicked three extra points to boost the East to a 21-20 victory December 28.

Haner's outstanding play in the Shine game wasn't limited to conversions, however, as the popular senior threw key blocks on several plays which gained the winners long ground gains.

His extra point accuracy was shown during the regular season, when he booted 21 point-afters on the way to his 99-point year's scoring total. Haner was also named on a second-string All-East grid club and voted the Wildcats' most valuable performer by his teammates.

quarter. Jim Mooney and Nick Maguire, with 22 and 18, led the team to a much-needed win as Bob Schafer sat out all but two minutes with an ailing stomach. The final, to win the third spot, was 75-66, and LSU cut down St. Louis to win the Sugar Bowl.

Duquesne

This one was the crusher, and the less said about it the better. A listless Villanova lost it mainly off the boards grabbing only 22 rebounds for their night's work. The score, thanks principally to Nick Maguire again, was tied at the quarter and half, but the Dukes rolled up a 12 point lead early in the third period and the Cats, although cutting it to 3 with 2 minutes left, never caught up.

As related earlier, two up and three down.

plicants may be married or single. He advised interested men to contact him in Room 113, of the Naval Science Building, for an interview.

Once selected, an applicant is enlisted in the Marine Corps School, Quantico, Virginia (35 miles from Washington, D. C.). Upon successful completion of this course, the candidate becomes a Second Lieutenant and serves for two years on active duty as a commissioned officer.

Application forms for the March class (and the July class, for June graduates), are available at Capt. Kirstein's office. He stated it is advisable for prospective candidates to apply as soon as possible.

Hughes cooperative plan for

MASTER OF SCIENCE DEGREES

Purpose TO ASSIST outstanding graduates in obtaining their Master of Science Degrees while employed in industry and making significant contributions to important military work.

Eligibility June 1953 college graduates and members of the armed services being honorably discharged prior to September, 1953, holding degrees in the following fields:
ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING
PHYSICS
MECHANICAL ENGINEERING
Those chosen to participate in this plan will be from the upper portion of their graduating classes and will have evidenced outstanding ability. They must also have displayed some degree of creative ability and possess personality traits enabling them to work well with others.

Citizenship Applicants must be United States citizens, and awards will be contingent upon obtaining appropriate security clearance, as work at the Hughes Research and Development Laboratories may be related to National Defense projects.

Universities Candidates for Master of Science Degrees must meet the entrance requirements for advanced study at the University of California at Los Angeles or the University of Southern California.

Program Under this Cooperative Plan, commencing June 1953, participants will follow this schedule of employment at Hughes:
FULL TIME—from June, 1953 to Sept., 1953.
HALF TIME—from Sept., 1953 to June, 1954.
FULL TIME—from June, 1954 to Sept., 1954.
HALF TIME—from Sept., 1954 to June, 1955.
Recipients will earn five-eighths of a normal salary each year and attend a university half time during regular sessions working on their Master's Degree.

Salaries The salary will be commensurate with the individual's ability and experience, and will reflect the average in the electronics industry. Salary growth will be on the same basis as for full-time members of the engineering staff. In addition, the individuals will be eligible for health, accident, and life insurance benefits, as well as other benefits accruing to full-time members.

Travel and Moving Expenses For those residing outside of the Southern California area, actual travel and moving expenses will be allowed up to ten per cent of the full starting annual salary.

Sponsorship Tuition, admission fee, and required books at either the University of California at Los Angeles or the University of Southern California, covering the required number of units necessary to obtain a Master's Degree, will be provided by Hughes Research and Development Laboratories.

Number of Awards Approximately one hundred Cooperative Awards are made each year, if sufficient qualified candidates present themselves.

Selection of Candidates Candidates will be selected by the Committee for Graduate Study of the Hughes Research and Development Laboratories.

Application Procedure Application forms should be obtained prior to February 15, 1953. Completed applications accompanied by up-to-date grade transcripts must be returned not later than February 28, 1953. Selections will be made during the month of March.

NAVCAD Interviews Tomorrow; Marine OCS Open To Seniors

The Naval Aviation Cadet training program will have a recruiting officer in the Placement Office tomorrow to greet and answer questions of anyone interested in joining this program.

Any unmarried senior who is an American citizen and between the ages of 18 and 27 is eligible to apply for this program. Those interested should contact George Harris in the Placement Office for an interview.

The training period is about eighteen months long and is conducted at the Pensacola Air Base, the "Annapolis of the Air". Upon graduation they will receive their Navy "Wings of Gold".

Marine Commissions Offered

A majority of the college seniors and graduates who enroll now for the Marine Corps Officer Candidate Course, which will be conducted in March 1953, will receive specialized training, Capt. Lee E. Kirstein, USMC, of the Villanova NROTC unit, announced today.

After completing basic officer training, 57% of the graduates of this program will be assigned to specialist schools at Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Virginia. The remaining 43% he stated, will be assigned infantry billets.

Capt. Kirstein said officer training programs are open to both college graduates and seniors who graduate between now and 1 March 1953. Ap-

The regional chairman of the Industrial Relations Club, Louis Lamanna has named the following Villanova students to the regional staff: Frank Cunning, co-chairman; Louis Cassella, secretary; Paul J. Macrie, clearing house director; Julian Smith, custodian of the file; Douglas Slade, publicity chairman, and Robert Gerstung, treasurer.

Lamanna has called the first Regional staff meeting for tonight at 7:30 in Seminar 3 of the Library.

Five Summer Tours Arranged By NFCCS To Europe, Mexico

The tours which the National Federation of Catholic College Students offers for 1953 are "the finest in the entire student travel market," claims Albert Bader, federation travel chairman. At a recent meeting in New York City Mr. Bader made public the program for next summer which includes five, low-cost, comprehensive tours of Europe and Mexico.

The European tours are "improved versions of the successful programs of the past three summers which have carried over 3,000 students and graduates across the Atlantic to instructive and exciting adventures on the Old Continents," said Mr. Bader. Four tours which range in length from 27 days to 49 days compose the new European program. All of the tours feature a proposed audience with Pope Pius XII at Castle Gondolfo and a tour of Vatican City during a four-day stay at Rome.

Three of the tours include participation in the Torchlight Procession at the shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes. Countries visited include Ireland, England, France, Italy, Switzerland, Belgium, Luxemburg, Germany, Spain and Holland.

Vacation Highlights

Vacation highlights will be the days spent on the French Riviera and in the Swiss Alps and Lakes District of Northern Italy. Four-motor planes, specially chartered from a scheduled airline, will provide the major part of the trans-Atlantic transportation. All-inclusive prices range from $719 on the 27 day tour to $949 on the 49 day trip.

The Mexico trip originates in San Antonio and returns there 33 days later. This tour visits 20 cities and points of interest including the shrine of Our Lady of Guadalupe, Mexico City, the capital, and Acapulco, the famous resort city. This tour is priced at $298.

"The fact that we are going to use chartered deluxe motor coaches both in Mexico and Europe is the newest feature of our travel program," stated Mr. Bader. "This will eliminate the usual time-consuming, tiring transfers from trains to hotels and will allow the tour members to become better acquainted," he said, "and will also allow the groups to visit many of the smaller towns which the average traveler never gets the chance to see." The NFCCS vice-president said that this would make it possible to arrange a tour which gives each participant "a true knowledge of the people and customs of the countries visited."

the Ploesti Oil Fields, considered one of the most dangerous air assignments of the last war.

He was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, plus the Air Medal with five clusters and seven battle stars. He played football with the Army All-Stars in 1945, and was discharged the following year. After returning home, he entered the wall paper business of his father, the late Ambrose Dudley, Sr., a sports figure in his own right. Dudley now is president of the Dudley Wallpaper Co.

Man of the Year

From 1948 to 1950 Dudley served as president of the Notre Dame Club of Philadelphia and was given the "Man of the Year" Award by that organization in 1950. Two years ago he became a member of the National executive board of the Pop Warner Foundation and is one of the governors of the Maxwell Memorial Football Club.

Dudley said it was just like homecoming with so many of his old friends of Villanova at the luncheon. "I've always followed Villanova and admired the fine football teams it has developed. Wherever I go, coaches ask me about Villanova. I hope I can be of some help to them."

. . . Whenever I think of this poem, I can't help but think of the GREAT effort put into the ORPHAN'S DAY by those who thought it worthy enough to devote their time to making it a success. . . What do you think? .....

"It ain't the guns nor armament nor funds that they can pay,
But the close cooperation that makes them win the day.
It ain't the individual nor the army as a whole,
But the everlasting teamwork of every single soul.

RECORD OF THE WEEK... A tune by Sonny Gale; "Stolen Waltz," should soon be a big hit....There is a funny story going around about the girl, who asked her mother what would happen on her first date with a college boy ....Her mother's reply was this; "I won't worry when he takes you to the movies, I won't worry when he takes you someplace for a Coke(?)

CAN YOU "take it" 6 days a week? For 52 weeks? Can you meet the high standards required to be an Aviation Cadet? If you can—then here's a man-size opportunity! An opportunity to serve your country and build a personal career that will fit you for responsible positions both in military and commercial aviation.

It won't be easy! Training discipline for Aviation Cadets is rigid. You'll work hard, study hard, play hard—especially for the first few weeks. But when it's over, you'll be a pro—with a career ahead of you that will take you as far as you want to go. You graduate as a 2nd Lieutenant in the Air Force, with pay of $5,300.00 a year. And this is only the beginning—your opportunities for advancement are unlimited.

ARE YOU ELIGIBLE?

To qualify as an Aviation Cadet, you must have completed at least two years of college. This is a minimum requirement—it's best if you stay in school and graduate. In addition, you must be between 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition.

YOU CAN CHOOSE BETWEEN PILOT OR AIRCRAFT OBSERVER

If you choose to be an Aircraft Observer, your training will be in Navigation, Bombardment, Radar Operation or Aircraft Performance Engineering.

New Aviation Cadet Training Classes Begin Every Few Weeks!

HERE'S WHAT TO DO:

1. Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
2. If application is accepted, the Air Force will arrange for you to take a physical examination.
3. Next, you will be given a written and manual aptitude test.
4. If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet Training Class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

Where to get more details: Visit your nearest Air Force Base or Air Force Recruiting Officer. OR WRITE TO: AVIATION CADET HEADQUARTERS, U. S. AIR FORCE, WASHINGTON 25, D. C.

'Blue Notes' To Supply Music At NFCCS Valentine Hop Fri.

The Valentine Hop will be presented this Friday evening, as the National Federation of Catholic College Students annual pre-Lenten dance. The Field House will be the scene of the dance staged by chairman Dan O'Connell and NFCCS chapter president, Joe Mullen.

FRANK TETI

This will be the first informal campus dance here to feature the music of Frank Teti's Blue Notes, the well-liked prom intermission band. Ex-Villanovan, Teti, has supplied the intermission music at every formal dance here since Spring, 1949. The popular combo is composed of piano, bass, trumpet and drums.

Chairman O'Connell will be aided by James Rath, Decorations; Don McGahan, refreshments; and Joe McNulty, publications. Tickets for the hop are obtainable anytime this week in the Pie Shop from Frank Cunning and Jack Hayes. The price of admission is $1.50, and all proceeds will be turned over to Father Powers in charge of the Augustinian Missions in Africa.

The Valentine Hop replaces the successful Snow Ball Frolic of last year. It will be Villanova's last social event prior to Lent, and the last big dance until Junior Week.

Placement Advice Offered Seniors At Career Forum

Villanova's annual Career Conference for Seniors was held in the Commerce and Finance Auditorium last Thursday, as approximately four hundred members of June's graduating class joined with a score of noted officials from the business world in a discussion on "job-seeking."

The Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O. S. A., Dean of the College School of Liberal Arts, presided at the meeting, which was arranged by George Harris, Villanova Placement Director.

Panel Discussion

Brief talks were delivered by Mr. Robert S. Hussey, Superintendent of Agencies for the New York Life Insurance Company; Mr. U. W. Fisher, President of the Schutte and Koerting Company; and, Mr. E. H. Weigle, Vice President of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania. Numerous other representatives of business joined with the Seniors in a question-and-answer discussion period which followed the talks.

Such subjects as "Preparation for the Interview," "What Does the Employer Look For in the Interview," and "What Information Should the Student expect from the Interview" were covered.

A general agreement in the opinion that industry is hiring "regardless of draft or military status" was one of salient factors impressed on the prospective graduates.

Vacancies Filled By Administration; 2 Officers Named

The start of the Spring semester finds two new officers among the ranks of the Villanova administration. Rev. John J. Curran, O.S.A. has been named Controller and Rev. Joseph W. Kemme, O. S. A., is the new Chaplain.

During the mid-semester vacation, the Prior Provincial of the Augustinian Order, Very Rev. Joseph M. Dougherty appointed Fr. Curran as successor to Rev. Edward J. Quinn, O. S. A., as controller. Fr. Quinn is now the Prior and Pastor of Our Lady of Consolation parish, Chestnut Hill.

As controller, Fr. Curran will handle the financial affairs of the college. He will also be in charge of the business office and oversee the maintenance of the campus and buildings.

REV. JOS. KEMME, O.S.A.

Fr. Curran was ordained in 1944 in Washington, D. C. He was then sent to Cuba where he was Procurator of St. Thomas of Villanova University. In 1951 he was transferred to Villanova and assumed duties here as purchasing agent for the school.

Acting Chaplain

Rev. Joseph W. Kemme, O. S. A., a Philadelphian, came to Villanova in 1942 after having been ordained to the priesthood in Washington in 1941. He received the degree of Master of Science from the Catholic University in 1942, and has been on the faculty in the Department of Mathematics since that time.

He became Assistant Chaplain of the college in 1951. He is well known to the seniors as the Moderator of their class and is also the Student Counselor of Mendel Hall.

10 Arts, 3 C&F Degrees Given Last Month

Thirteen January graduates received their degrees theoretically but not actually last week as they completed their four years at Villanova. Upon completion of the required subject, these seniors receive a certificate. They will return in June to receive their "Sheepskins" with the rest of the senior class.

The Mid-year graduates included ten Arts students and three Commerce and Finance students. Of these, four also accepted their commissions in the Navy and the Marine Corps.

The following men received their bachelor of arts degrees:

Stanley Stevens of Stroudsburg, Pa.; Vincent A. Lombardi, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Frederick R. Longo, Trenton, N. J.; John C. Saboe, Bridgeport, Conn.; Joseph P. Corcoran, Patterson, N. J.; and Francis W. Haskins, Camden, N. J.

Return Of Forum Seen In March

Chairman Bruderle Has Scheduled Three Lectures During Semester

"There will be a forum, one in March, one in April and one in May", it was stated by Mr. Charles Bruderle, chairman of the Villanova Forum. This clears up all doubts concerning the future of this campus activity.

When queried as to whom the guest speakers might be, Mr. Bruderle replied, "I can't mention any names at the present time, but I am presently negotiating with five or six possible choices. The Forum is definitely in the works for this semester".

Difficulties

In the November 4 edition of this paper, Mr. Bruderle said in an interview that the first forum would be held in December, and would continue at the rate of one a month, until the end of the scholastic year. He said that difficulties prevented it from taking place in December and that the final exams prevented the lecture from being held during January. The advent of the new semester was the reason given for the February lapse.

The Forum, which has been under the direction of Mr. Bruderle since its inception during the Spring of 1949, has been host to many outstanding speakers. The high-point of the talks probably occured during the 1950 season when Jacques Maritain spoke before an overflow audience. Maritain is considered by many to be the outstand-

Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" Is Spring Play

One of the most powerful of Shakespeare's tragedies will appear on the Field House stage during the third week of March when Belle Masque presents "Julius Caesar" as the society's spring production.

Opening date for the costume classic will miss the ides of March by four days; "Julius Caesar" will open Thursday night, March 19th and will run through Sunday, March 22nd.

According to Rev. William Krupa, O. S. A., moderator of the society and director, the production will be one of the most ambitious and expensive dramatic undertakings in Villanova's history. "The cost of the costumes alone will run over $500, with materials for construction of the set costing another $200."

Tom Hayden, Senior, will make his final appearance on the Villanovan stage in the famous Shakespearean play. Other leads have been assign-

Council Declares Holiday; Feb. 23 Wins Over Mar. 16

St. Patrick's Day, 1953 will be a pale green one for most Villanovans. March 17 will probably be just another Tuesday as a result of recent Student Council action which turned down the date for its annual school-wide holiday.

Chosen instead was Monday, February 23. Council Chairman Tom Ackerman reported last week that according to Rev. George McLaughlin, O. S. A. the date for the day off had been approved by the administration.

Voting Split

Sentiment in the Council to name Monday, March 16 as the big day was closely divided. At the group's last meeting motion by Hugh Sharp suggesting the Monday before St. Patrick's Day for the free day was defeated by a narrow margin.

The motion proposing Feb. 23 as the free day was made by Don Blaha, Senior Class President, and was passed unanimously.

Key Design Submitted

Ackerman accused Council members of indifference and apathy in their response to a campaign begun last semester to poll students and report the explanations of lack of spirit here. At the meeting, only two reports were handed in, with the "Villanovan" proposing the weekly free extra-curricular periods idea expressed in the "Villanovan" editorial of Dec. 9.

An Interpretation

In our opinion the scratchings and smears which are termed "modern art" defy interpretation and are not worth the trouble even if interpretation were possible.

However, there comes a time when even the strongest opinion must be reconsidered in the light of a new development. Such a development appeared before us a short time ago.

We are referring, of course, to the modernistic frontispiece which appeared in the excellent winter issue of the "Lynx".

As no explanation was given, as is ordinary with such illustrations, we put our editorial heads together and came up with the following interpretation.

Anything that looks like, smells, like, or sounds like, "line" at Villanova refers, of course, to the three-times daily fiasco outside the chow hall. The lolly-pop-like figure at the end of the line is the "sucker" who goes there rather then cut in at one of the three big entrance points as illustrated by the trio of wedges entering the line at various points.

The background of the entire picture is a T-bone steak, uppermost in the mind of all the line standers. The reward is rather disappointing, as shown by the apple he receives at the end.

The obvious moral to this is that the student is a "sucker" for standing at the end of the line.

'Suckers' Must Go

Despite all that has been said about this situation, despite the fact that it is number one gripe on campus, no corrective action has been attempted by either the administration or the student council. The latter, in whose realm the initation of any such action falls, has, after a few unsuccessful attempts in past year's, been content to sit back with a "we know it, but what can you do, so why try" attitude. Witness the reaction at the meeting following the October 21 issue.

There are only two ways to stop the man who goes to the end of the line from playing the part of the "sucker." The first is for everyone to play the part of his own volition, thereby making nobody one. But attempts to accomplish this have been unsuccessful.

The only remaining course is for some positive and persistent action by the student council in place of the defeatest attitude now in evidence.

It's high time the term "sucker" was eliminated from the Villanova vocabulary.

The Iron Curtain: No. 4 — Rumania

By George Ferguson

Until 1952, the name of Ana Pauker was one of the most prominent in the hierarchy of Communist officialdom. A perfect example of the "ideal" Communist, this aggressive, America-hating Red had come up from the ranks; had fought her way to the top; in 1949, she was named a Deputy Prime Minister, along with one Vasile Luca, of the Roumanian Peoples' Republic. She was feared by her political enemies, but, it has been said, liked by many of the peasants.

She is reported to have been the cause of the death of her husband, an engineer, who was killed in a Communist purge. Now Ana Pauker herself is the victim of the latest Red purge in unhappy Roumania. Deprived of her high position, she has faded away into obscurity. Her trial and conviction in a Moscow-style court may be only a matter of time.

King Michael

The Roumania which Ana Paulker controlled, along with a few other chosen Communists, was until 1948, a Kingdom, ruled by young, popular King Michael. When Red pressure forced him to abdicate, he left the country, going into exile in Western Europe. Michael had ascended the Roumanian throne in September of 1940, when his father, the controversial King Carol, abdicated in the face of national indignation caused by the Nazi take-over of the country.

Roumania is a rich land, encompassing, in 1939, the old provinces of Moldavia and Wallachia, in addition to Bessarabia, Bukovina, the Banat and Transylvania. This latter territory is considered as one of the lovliest areas on the continent of Europe. However, the living standard of the country is low, due in large measure to the long Turkish occupation, extending to well over three hundred years. Roumania was left a legacy of corruption by the Turks. This corruption is almost incredible in extent and reaches down to the lowest levels of Roumanian officialdom; it is gradually being overcome, but it cannot be erased completely in only two or three generations, for the Roumanians won their independence from the Turkish Empire only in 1877.

Wit & Intelligence

A definite movement to free the country from the decadent Ottoman Empire came in 1858. The people of Moldavia and Wallachia were permitted to elect a prince, but only on the condition that these provinces did not unite. But, as the Balkan expert Bernard Newman observes: "The Roumanians were never short of wit and intelligence: they thanked the Great Powers for their interest —and Wallachia and Moldavia proceeded to elect the same man as the prince of each state". This man was Alexander Cuza, whose far-sighted progressivism and idealism were years ahead of their time, and who as a result of opposition from the powerful landowners, was compelled to leave the country.

In 1881, four years after the Roumanian army helped the Russians defeat the Turks in the Russo-Turkish War, Prince Karl von Hohenzollern was crowned King of Roumania. The country engaged in the First and Second Balkan Wars, but remained neutral in World War I, until the summer of 1916, when it entered the conflict on the side of the Allies.

Roumania was overrun by the armies of the Central Powers, and her army suffered enormous casualties. She was forced out of the war by the Treaty of Bucharest, but reentered it when the Central Powers were crumbling under massive Allied blows. Roumanian troops helped to quell a Communist revolution in Hungary, at the end of World War I. In World War II, the Kingdom was the unwilling ally of Germany, and its army was forced by the Nazis to fight in Russia; as in the earlier war, this army suffered frightful casualties.

Villanova's Own Draftee: Bolivar Shagnassey

By Tomlinson

Bolivar Shagnassey burst into the office of draft board 84, waving an induction notice in one hand an demanding to see the bureaucratic nincompoop who had dared to send it to him.

"You can't take me," Bolivar shouted, "I go to Villanova. I took a deferment test. I'm physically unfit. I work at an essential occupation. I..."

"We know you go to Villanova and took the deferment test," a clerk interrupted, "but according to our records ..." (He flubbed it.)

Very Ill

Bolivar pulled a fistful of affidavidts concerning low blood pressure, chiblains, and neurasthenia out of his pocket and threw them on the desk.

"We've already checked on the medical record you sent us, but we haven't been able to locate the doctor who signed it," the clerk said. "You'll be given a physical examination, and if you're unfit we won't accept you."

"But my occupation is essential to the defense effort. I pass out hot coffee at NROTC drill sessions. Those boys love me. They call me Laughling Boy. I'm essential to their morale," Bolivar pleaded.

Wave No Less!

The clerk informed him that the Navy was aware of this and planned to send a WAVE to replace him.

"But I have a letter here from my mother and she says..."

"I'm sorry, son," the clerk interrupted, "but you're a big boy now.

This morning I saw recruit Shagnassey, bags packed, waiting at the railroad station. "Hey, Bud," he called to me, "want to know how to beat the draft for a five spot?"

'Green Plague' Hits U. S. As Admen Do It Again

By Tony Galati

Every so often the Madison Avenue build-up boys come up with a promotional campaign that no one can escape. Usually, they accomplish this by playing up a word or phrase which catches the public eye.

A few years ago, it was vitamins. All kinds of vitamins were added to all kinds of products. Later came the age of antihistamines. And even more recently there was the "milder" era of about a year ago.

"Milder"

During this period, as you remember (for how could anyone possibly forget) everything was milder—cigarettes, soap, shampoo, hair tonic, and teething rings. There were only a very few hopeless products which were not "guaranteed milder according to a recent national survey."

As the sun began to set on the "milder" day, it was inevitable that tomorrow the always alert admen would come up with something new, bigger, and better. Yesterday's tomorrow is today and that something new is upon us. This time the magic word is chlorophyll: the "green plague."

Even Dog Food

No longer does it matter whether products are milder, just so they contain chlorophyll. Everything must have chlorophyll — toothpaste, mouthwashes, chewing gum, breath sweetners, shampoos, body deodorants, hair restorers, reducing pills, anti-acid tablets, air purifiers, footpads, dog foods, and toilet tissues. And it is reported that one manufacturer will attempt to make chlorophyll socks as a boon to those with smelly feet.

The worst part of the whole green thing is that you cannot escape it. Whether it be television, newspapers, magazines, or radio, chlorophyll is the word.

Nothing New

Chlorophyll itself is, of course, nothing new. And it is healing powers apparently were recognized by primitive peoples, who wrapped their wounds in green leaves of certain plants. But whether this wonderful stuff is the cure-all the admen would have you believe is another story.

Poor Hercules!

As advertised, chlorophyll is supposed to make your breath kissing-sweet in 30 seconds. It should make your body smell as though you've just finished bathing in Taboo. Some products even claim to make dogs smell not like they usually do. (TOO BAD HERCULES HADN'T HEARD ABOUT THIS WHEN HE CLEANSED THE AUGEAN STABLES.) This last claim is just a little too much. If it were true, cows who eat grass all day should smell as though they were just sprayed with Chanel No. 5.

The chlorophyll boom began inconspicuously enough some 7 years ago, on a few drug counters which began displaying a new line of products, called Chloresium. Today more than forty companies are pushing more than eighty chlorophyll products.

Potential Ensigns, Lieutenants Now Entering Their Final Stages of Preparation Before Active Duty

The pre-commission physical examinations being given currently to all NROTC graduating seniors mark the final stages of the program for these men.

Between now and June there remain only a few more obstacles to hurdle, previous to accepting their assignments. By now, all the seniors who are to become Ensigns have already indicated their ship preference. Most of them have chosen from the four major categories—small combatant ships, large combatant ships, the auxiliaries, and the amphibious fleet.

To Sea Immediately

From past experience, it is almost certain that every man will be sent immediately to sea in order to supplement and apply his knowledge of the Navy. In addition to the choice of vessel, all seniors have also indicated whether they wish to serve with the Atlantic or Pacific fleet. It has been the policy of the Navy Department to honor both these choices, in as many cases as possible.

"STEADY THERE, DOC!" Al Bujarski looks on with mixed emotions as Lcdr. Cronemiller of the Navy Medical Corps gives him a tetanus shot in preparation for next summer's cruise. Midshipmen have been taking their annual physical exams during these two weeks. (Photo by Steve Lyons)

Gung Ho!

The group of prospective Marine officers, upon graduation, will all have a common destination. They will proceed to Quantico, Virginia, for a five month training period. After completion of this course, each man will then receive his individual assignment.

Within the next four months most of the preparation for entrance into the service will rest with the Navy Department. All remaining red tape will be eliminated, the relative standing of each man will be computed, and stations will be assigned.

Two Requirements

Here at the college, the prospective officers have two main requirements left to fulfill. First, all uniforms must be procured prior to commissioning. Sometime during the coming Spring, representatives of several companies will visit the campus for the purpose of displaying the proper wardrobe. In this way, the seniors can see for themselves what will be necessary.

The second requirement is that each graduate must take a three hour Officer Qualification Test. Generally speaking, the examination attempts to measure the various aptitudes of each man in order that better use can be made of his talent while he remains in the service.

Adieu!

Late in May, orders will arrive from the Department assigning each of the seniors to his station. The culmination of the entire process will come appropriately enough, on the day of graduation.

WVIL Poll Favors Sports, '20 And Out', Wax Works

Campusites Indicate Regular Listening

WVIL, Villanova's voice of the airwaves, completed one of the most comprehensive surveys ever undertaken on campus last week.

The college radio station set out to discern how many of the resident students listened to its programs, what were the most popular shows, and what additional programs were desired. An overwhelming majority of the campusites were polled, the canvassing being carried on on a dormitory basis.

Listeners

Bob Quin, Station Manager, reported that the poll indicated that nearly all residents are listeners of WVIL, and that it gave the station staff a good indication of the "likes" and "dislikes" of their audience.

The nightly, hour-long disc show, "Wet Wax Works," the weekly panel of "20 And Out," based on the old Twenty Questions game, and interviews held on the evening Sports program proved to be the most highly-rated programs.

SPORTCASTER HARRY ANGER interviews sophomore court ace Jack Devine on WVIL's Thursday night sports show.

Subjects submitted by students are used in efforts to "stump the panel." Bernie Coyne is "mc" of the show, Jim Glavin and Sue Fitzgerald, of Rosemont, are the regular panel members, and two guest panelists are selected each week. Sports Director Harry Anger and Jack Hayes handle the nightly sports show, which features the periodic interviews with outstanding campus sports luminaries. It is heard at 10 p. m. each evening.

WVIL began preparations yesterday to make some of the alterations in its format suggested by the poll.

Press Slow

Tony Galati, News Director, and Jim Glavin, Chief Announcer, reported that a new interview show, patterned after the nationally noted "Meet the Press," was now in preparation, and should be on the air, Monday evenings at 8:30 p. m., shortly. Galati said that outstanding students and members of the faculty would be interviews on the program.

The radio station broadcasts nightly, from 7 p. m. until 11 p. m., Sunday through Thursday, at 640 k. c

WVIL'S POPULAR QUIZ SHOW, "Twenty and Out" gets on with its weekly session. Patterned after "Twenty Questions", it is one of the many widely listened to campus radio features.

A desire for more "interview-type" shows, additional classical music offerings, and increased coverage of campus news and events were the most often suggested additions to WVIL.

Station Music Director Mike Roscoe is in charge of the popular "Wet Wax Works." It is heard nightly at 9 p. m., and plays requests regularly.

"20 And Out" is heard each Tuesday evening at 8:30 p.m.

KPK Names Pledge Prexy; PKP Initiates Fifty Members

The lethargic body of fraternity life at Villanova will be rejuvenated temporarily this Thursday evening when Phi Kappa Pi Engineering society, welcomes fifty new members to its organization.

The initiation ceremony itself, to be conducted in the labs of Mendel Hall, follows a three-day hazing period during which pledges carry a sign and T-square identifying themselves as Engineers and pledges. The proceedings are to be followed by a modest banquet in the cafeteria.

The initiation is the first burst of activity since the very successful Owl Hop sponsored by Phi Kap last fall. Heading the Initiation Committee is Junior Wally Miller, Mechanical Engineer, while Joe Matton, Student Council Representative, is handling the refreshments.

Phi Kap dates back to 1907 and is the oldest fraternity on campus. Although its activity does not come near that of years ago, it is climbing the grades to prominence and the apparent spirit of the incoming members gives notice of continued success in the near future.

At a recent meeting Joe Zator was elected Treasurer to replace the vacancy left by Hank Lavery.

The Villanova chapter of Kappa Phi Kappa, the professional education fraternity, held its annual initiation on December 15. Five new members initiated into the fraternity are Francis Colabrese, Richard Herman, John Oliveira, Robert Ranieri, and Francis Wright.

Following the initiation three of the new members, Robert Ranieri, Richard Herman, and John Oliveira, were elected to the following offices of president, vice-president, and secretary respectively.

Other officers are James Redfern, treasurer and George Jungerman, student council representative. Doctor Francis J. Donohue was unanimously elected faculty sponsor.

Dwyer Wins Again In Baxter Mile

PACE-SETTING LARRY HENNESSEY goes in and up for two more as he broke Paul Arizin's Palestra record with a dazzling 44 point display against Canisius as the Cats won their thirteenth of the campaign by a 93-80 count last Wednesday. Arizin's record was 42, racked up against Seton Hall back in the 1948-49 season.

Mainliners Down Iona, N. C. State, Bonnies; Lose Two

By Dick Confoy

Villanova's tournament-hopeful hoopsters battled their way into a more favorable although still weak, position for post-season activity over the annual semester break. Prior to the Canisus & Fordham wins (In which Hennessey and Schafer accounted for 70% of the points) here's how it went.

Kings

No contest. The Wildcats ran up a 14-1 lead against their weakest opposition of the season and then achieved the century mark for the second time (First, Delaware), Kings used a moving pivot which forced the Cats to exert more energy than usual under the circumstances, but the visitors' complete lack of height made it obvious from the start that it was 53 straight in the fieldhouse. Final 100-68.

Iona

Villanova returned to its accustomed role in this one, being once again the underdog as far as height was concerned. The game was a bruiser from the start, with the Mainliners getting most of the early lumps. Late in the third quarter it was the New Yorkers by 12 and seemingly a lost evening for the favored Wildcats. Then the boys got hot, Iona lost their poise, and the Blue scrapped to a nerve-shattering 70-67 win.

St. Bonaventure

The Bonnies tried for a little revenge in this one and erased a 17 point lead in the attempt, but class told again and the Cats pulled away to a nine point win as the Cats pulled away to a nine point win as in the Sugar Bowl victory. Jim Mooney was high with 21, and Sammy Glasmire provided the men of Olean with another good lesson in dribbling.

Duquesne

The second Duquesne game featured the return of the Unbelievable One to the wars, but, Wldcat joy was soused by 6'7" Dick Ricketts and two foul-happy refs. Although he played only the final three quarters and racked up 26 points, Larry took a back seat to Rickett's 38 and 4on5 basketball. Although winning at the half and trailing by but two with three minutes left, when the last of the starting five went out on personals and there were just four men left it was all over for the Cats. The Dukes 88-78.

N. C. State

A must win, and a real good, for Villanova five waiting for the Hall to come to town. Rated eighth in the nation, the Rebels looked good but were still no match for Hen-

Cats Upset Fordham 73-64; To Give Rams Third Defeat

The murderous two-gun attack of Larry Hennessey and Bobby Schafer proved too much for Fordham and the Rams went down to defeat for the third time this season. The final score was 73-64 with Schafer and Hennessey each winding up with 25 points. The loser's Ed Conlin also tied for individual honors as he too had a total of 25.

The Fordham plan had apparently been to stop Hennessey and thereby stop the Wildcats, they soon found out that it was a lot harder to do than they had expected.

Close First Half

The game was close for the first half with neither club able to pull away by more than five points. The lead see-sawed back and forth until Hennessey put the Mainliners out in front at the Half way mark, 30-29.

Third Quarter Spurt

In the third quarter Villanova actually sewed up the game. The Blue counted on Hennessey and Schafer to score from the outside and they started to pull away.

Mooney Hits

Then Jim Mooney, playing his final game, sunk a couple of real long ones that really hurt. A few more quick baskets and before the Rams knew it they were in the hole by 10 points.

From that point on in the game Fordham kept it interesting, but never really threatened. The crowd was very partisan, naturally, and kept hoping for the home team to pull it out of the fire. In the final few minutes of the contest the Rams gave Conlin a little assistance in the scoring department, but by then there was little they could de ex-

Hennessey Returns To Form; Snaps Two Palestra Records

The fact that Larry Hennessey has thrown in over 140 points since he returned to action has many a rabid Wildcat rooters up in arms. Some sceptics felt the 15 game suspension would have great effect on the amazing shooter from Blessed Sacrament High in New Rochelle, N. Y. However, as is the case with the movies Mr. Hennessey is better than ever.

In a way the success he has had this season is a great personal tribute to Larry. Many athletes confronted with his problem wouldn't have taken it the same way. A goodly number no doubt would have allowed themselves to get out of shape! Hennessey, however, worked into better shape than in any previous year and when the suspension was lifted the big boy was all set to go.

As the Cats dropped one on the road to Duquesne and the split with N. C. State and Seton Hall at the Palestra Larry was his usual sterling self.

Breaks Record

Against Canisus he broke into the realm of the unbelievable. On the evening of February 4, last Wednesday if you have no calendar handy, Mr. Lawrence Hennessey dropped 44 points through the hoop. Quite a feat at any time, and as far as the Palestra is concerned, the best individual scoring ever accomplished on that hallowed spot.

Arizin Held Mark

A former Villanovan, Paul Arizin held the individual scoring record, of 41 points which he set against Seton Hall in 1950. Another record which Larry grabbed that evening was the most field goals in one game, 18. The old record holder was Penn's Ernie Beck, who had 16 in

Unbeaten Cat Runs 4:09.8 Gaffney Has Good Night

By Harry Anger

Little Fred Dwyer added the Baxter Mile the list of his conquests Saturday as he sped home the winner for the sixth time this season. The 21-year-old senior did the 11 laps on the Garden boards in 4:09.8—which was slower than he had expected to run. Fred had said earlier in the week he felt he was ready for a 4:07 clocking, a time very close to the collegiate record held by Les McMitchell of N.Y.U.

The man who gave Dwyer the most trouble in the event was the FBI agent Fred Wilt, of the New York A. C. Wilt finished two yards back of the South Orange, N. J. star, with Joe LaPierre of Georgetown taking show money.

The former Indiana star made a great try to nail Fred at the wire but Dwyer was able to hold him off without too much trouble.

Ready For AAU Mile

Dwyer now will set his sights on the National mile championship which is at stake in the AAU meet in the Garden next weekend. If he can win again next Saturday Dwyer will join John Joe Barry, who is a former, National Mile Champion. Barry grabbed the honor when he was a freshman, just over from Ireland.

Barry Third

As far as Saturday's New York A. C. games were concerned Barry didn't fare too well. The former IC4A outdoor champ running third to Horace Ashenfelter in the Toussaint Two-Mile. Barry's clocking was a slow 9:26.6 which brought him in ahead of Charlie Capozzli, but still one lap behind the winner, Ashenfelter and second-place Browning Ross. For some reason the unpredictable John Joe couldn't improve on his time in Boston. In the Boston A.A. games he had run 9:11.

Whitfield Grabs 500

In the Buermeyer 500, Mal Whitfield set a new world record of 0:56.6. The old record had been set in 1949 by George Guida of Villanova. The Wildcat entry in that contest was Joe Gaffney who finished fourth.

At first sight that may not seem too impressive, but one must consider the competition and the time to really determine how well the Philadelphia junior did. Ollie Sax of Penn State and Herb McKenley were second and third, with Sax one-tenth of a second from the old mark and McKenley only two-tenths off Guida's time. Gaffney in finishing last, was only a little over a second from the record himself. Don't count him out yet, Joe's got plenty left and he'll give Sax a real run for his money in the IC4A meet in two weeks.

Nationals Next Week

In the Nationals next week Dwyer seems a sho-in for the mile title, but in all probability he will be the only Villanovan to come away with a victory. If Ray Whieler had been able to get in shape maybe he could have been a threat in the 1000 yard run, but that is out of the question now.

In the case of Barry, who

Hegarty & Connor Out Next Season; Bill Goes to Rams

As if things weren't bad enough around here with Jim Mooney gone for the rest of the season, now the football team must play with out Bill Hegarty and Dick Connor in the fall.

Under the "Five Year Plan" the ECAC last week eliminated the two tackles from any further college competition. It seems that both had originally enrolled in school in September of 1948, Hegarty at Georgia and Connor at Boston University.

In this part of the country Asa Bushnell and his flock say that you must use up the eligibility within a five year period. Now by a process of simple arithmetic it is easy to see that both men will have spent the five years in college at the beginning of next September.

Connor at present is a senior, but he has only played two years of varsiety ball. With this in mind Art Raimo had, no doubt, figured on Dick for plenty of action in the season of '53.

In the case of Hegarty, his problems have just begun, you see Bill signed with the Los Angeles Rams for the coming campaign. But just talking with the big fellow, along with seeing him play convinces one that he will make the grade.

Warriors Acquire Mooney for their Remaining Games

The Philadelphia Warriors announced late Saturday that they had acquired the services of Jim Mooney, ex Wildcat captain, for the remainder of the current season.

Mooney finished up his college career as the Cat's upset Fordham, Saturday night. In that game Jim had three field goals for six points. All told the former John Bartram star scored over 800 points while at the Mainline institution.

SPORTS CHATTER

Villanova's Publicity Man

By Carl Valenti

Much has been written about Freddy Dywer lately. With each victory, his press notices become more enthusiastic. This is Freddy's golden year. He has earned every word of praise he has received. He is the new indoor mile champion.

Before this season began, Fred was just another miler. True, he was the indoor IC4A mile champ for three consecutive years, but this was overlooked because he had not run against any real competition yet. Sport Magazine saw fit to give him but passing mention, in a pre-season roundup.

The former Seton Hall speedster took first in the Washington Star meet in the Capital City in the season's initial run with a time of 4:19.4 but the critics were unimpressed. This race was run on a flat track. Then Fred stepped down to the 1000 in the Boston K. of C. meet and again triumphed in 2:11.6. But his outstanding Victories were yet to come.

Into The Big Time

Then came the Philadelphia Inquirer meet where Fred would be running against the big-timers. Fred Wilt and Don Gehrman, who between them had a virtual monopoly in the mile event, would put the young upstart in his place—third or so. But Freddie crossed up the field and won with a 4:09.7. Scribes began to sit up and take notice.

The Milrose Games were next. Rolf Lamers joined the already impressive field which included the revenge-minded Wilt and Gehrman. But Freddie refused to take a back seat. At the finish, the other men were looking at his back. This Wannamaker Mile was Fred's best effort so far this year—4:08.2.

Boston Again

Back to Boston for the Hunter Mile and by this time it's becoming monotonous as Dywer does it again, this time in 4:09.2. And this past weekend, Fred led from the start to finish in the New York Athletic Club meet with a time of 4:09.8.

By this time Dywer is commanding attention everywhere and will continue to do so. The literate Mr. Red Smith, syndicated sports columnist of the New York Herald Tribune has referred to Fred as "cocky little Fred Dwyer of Villanova." Permit us to take opposition to Mr. Smith. Fred is not "cocky". Dywer is a modestly confident, intensely sincere young man. He accurately realizes his own capabilities. Last year, before the Philadelphia Inquirer meet, he was asked if he would be running in the mile. He replied, "Are you kidding? I'm not ready yet. Give me another year." Was he correct?

Called The Shot

Before the first meet this year, Fred was asked how he thought he'd do. "I think I'll take it." was the answer. He did. Dywer sets a rigorous training schedule for himself. He runs 35 miles a week to get in condition and 25 to stay in shape. Freddy thinks he may hit 4:07 this year. Next year he may try for the world indoor record of 4:05.3 held by Gil Dodds.

Gaffney Running Well

Dwyer's running mate, Joe Gaffney is also coming into his own this season. The slender junior from Philadelphia has won only once this winter, but some of the times he has run are really eye-openers. In fact the winning effort in Washington has been his slowest time. The kid from St. Thomas More High, was clocked at 1:11.2 in the Mal Sheppard 600 and then last Saturday he turned in a 0:58 in the Buermeyer 500.

Hennessey Returns

1951 against Dartmouth.

Great Shots

The total of 44 points in itself is excellent, to say the least, but Hennessey's variety of shots are unbelievable. Just as some artists have a great talent, so does the young Mr. Hennessey. He can put a basket ball through the hoop from almost any where on the floor, and in any manner of shooting yet invented. Actually some people seeing him for the first time might be inclined to believe he invents some of the shots as he travels through the air.

Whether he invents the shots or not is only Larry's business, the fact remains he makes a good percentage of his field goal attempts. In the Canisus game Hennessey scored on 47% of his shots from the floor.

Cats Upset Fordham

cept keep the game presentable.

The Cats, hitting on 42% of their shots took it going away 73-64.

REBOUNDS: .....
Fordham tried three different men on Hennessey, but still couldn't stop him. Parchinski, Larkin and Woods were the unlucky guys who drew the assignment. The loss of Mooney is really going to hurt the club....Rebounding chores fall almost completely on Devine and Gepp, both of whom are inclined to foul too much. Victory in New York should help the team more than any of the other victories. Fordham had only been beaten by St. Johns and Seton Hall. Conlin, who is only a sophomore is one of the brightest young stars in the game at the present. Just in passing, all reports seems to be pointed at Duquesne as the team to stop next season. Mooney left for Syracuse to join the Warriors right after the game on Saturday.

TRACK

knows, he's usually one extreme of the other, but I doubt if he'll stick with Ashenfelter and Capozzoli. As far as that's concerned no one has been able to get near Horace except Charlie. Capozzoli beat the G-Man B.F. (Before Flu).

Hoopsters

nessey and Schafer in the first half and John Devine's taps in the second. The lead changed hands about 87 times, but the Cats broke it open with 5 minutes left and they held on to win 89-81.

Seton Hall

When one man practically out rebounds your entire team, the net result is not usually favorable. The Blue had just a bit too much of 6'11" Walter Dukes in this one, although without the return to action of Arnie Ring things might have been different. Villanova had a point halftime lead, but were run into the floor by the fast-breaking Setonians and went down 84-76.

Leaming to Cover All Wildcat Games Again Next Season

For the third straight year, all Villanova College football games will be broadcast exclusively over WIP, it was announced today by the Reverend E. B. McKee, O. S. A., vice president and moderator of athletics at the college, and Benedict Gimbel, Jr., president and general manager of WIP.

Jim Leaming, WIP's sports director, has been assigned to cover the broadcasts of the games and will travel the thousands of miles with the Villanova team. A former grid star during his student days at the University of North Carolina, Leaming is one of Philadelphia's most outstanding sports reporters. Well known to listeners in the area, he is heard nightly on WIP's "SPORTS SHOTS" show broadcast between 6:30 and 6:45 p. m.

CAN YOU "take it" 6 days a week? For 52 weeks? Can you meet the high standards required to be an Aviation Cadet? If you can—then here's a man-size opportunity! An opportunity to serve your country and build a personal career that will fit you for responsible positions both in military and commercial aviation.

It won't be easy! Training discipline for Aviation Cadets is rigid. You'll work hard, study hard, play hard—especially for the first few weeks. But when it's over, you'll be a pro—with a career ahead of you that will take you as far as you want to go. You graduate as a 2nd Lieutenant in the Air Force, with pay of $5,300.00 a year. And this is only the beginning—your opportunities for advancement are unlimited.

ARE YOU ELIGIBLE?

To qualify as an Aviation Cadet, you must have completed at least two years of college. This is a minimum requirement—it's best if you stay in school and graduate. In addition, you must be between 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition.

YOU CAN CHOOSE BETWEEN PILOT OR AIRCRAFT OBSERVER

If you choose to be an Aircraft Observer, your training will be in Navigation, Bombardment, Radar Operation or Aircraft Performance Engineering.

New Aviation Cadet Training Classes Begin Every Few Weeks!

HERE'S WHAT TO DO:

1. Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
2. If application is accepted, the Air Force will arrange for you to take a physical examination.
3. Next, you will be given a written and manual aptitude test.
4. If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet Training Class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

Where to get more details: Visit your nearest Air Force Base or Air Force Recruiting Officer. OR WRITE TO: AVIATION CADET HEADQUARTERS, U. S. AIR FORCE, WASHINGTON 25, D. C.

Main Liners To Use Library; Informal Tea Initiates Plan

A tea was served in the college library last Sunday to mark the official opening of the library to the people of the surrounding area. Rev. Daniel Falvey, librarian, and Rev. Francis McGuire, president, spoke and expressed their appreciation of the work done by a committee of fourteen women from the Main Line area whose cooperation and work were the main factors in realizing this goal.

The object of the plan is to open the facilities of the library to the people of the local communities in order to aid them in becoming better informed citizens for greater contributions to their respective communities and to their country. Another object of the plan is to help strengthen the bond of friendship between the college and the surrounding community.

New Tennis Courts To Be Near Pie Shop

It was reported by the Procurator, Rev John Curran, O. S. A., that the breaking of ground for the new tennis courts had been completed, and that construction would begin at the earliest possible time. The old tennis courts, which were located near the P & W station, were removed and replaced by additional parking facilities.

Tennis Anyone!

The new courts will be located approximately north of the Pie Shop and between the Pie Shop and St. Mary's Hall and when weather permits actual construction will begin. The Villanovan will publish any further information received on this subject.

Freshman Killed By Auto In Lancaster Pike Accident

Mass will be offered in the College Chapel on Thursday at 7:30 A. M. for the repose of the soul of Robert Ellis, 20, freshman Commerce and Finance student, who was killed by an automobile at the intersection of Lancaster pike and Ithan ave. last Thursday night.

ROBERT ELLIS

A resident of Barracks I, Ellis was struck by a speeding car while he was crossing the pike in front of the Field House. The victim was given conditional absolution at the scene of the accident by Rev. George McLaughlin, O. S. A. and was anointed with holy oils by Rev. Joseph W. Kemme, O. S. A., College Chaplain.

Ellis graduated from Bordentown Military before coming to Villanova in September 1952. He was named as high-school all-state guard and had talked of going out for spring football practice.

Requiem mass was celebrated at St. Helena's R.C. Church in Philadelphia this morning. The father of the deceased is Mr. A. J. Ellis, 701 Chelten ave., Oak Lane, Pa.

Father Kemme placed the number of fatalities having occured at the Lancaster pike —Ithan ave. crossing at 16.

Initial Orders of Jr. Rrings Arrive; Blazers Promised

About one hundred Villanova rings were delivered last Thursday to members of the Junior Class. These were the first of about 285 rings which have been ordered.

Another 50 are due to arrive today and the remainder will be delivered in the very near future.

With the delivery of the last rings, Dick Brady, who has been handling the ring company-junior class negotiations, will finish his job as ring chairman. All of Brady's attentions will now be directed toward his job as Vice-President of the class.

Although he had a few rough moments during early relations with the Bailey, Banks, and Biddle Co., Brady said that he thought that the rings were very satisfactory.

"If any of the boys need minor changes in their rings," said Chairman Brady, "Mr. Miehl, the company's campus representative, will be here next week to take care of them."

Blazers Coming

Jack Birle, Blazer Chairman, tells us that the Blazers will be delivered Friday, Feb. 27 from 11 to 2 P.M., in Austin Lounge. Almost 100 members of this year's junior class have ordered blazers. This is the highest percentage of a class to buy the traditional school jacket in several years.

Birle's choice of the Robert Rollins Co., of New York was a good one. They have offered many conveniences for fitting and styling which many other blazer companies would not offer.

Guild Benefit On Apr. 30

Fr. John J. Coffey, O.S.A., has announced that the fourth annual Augustinian Seminary Guild show will be presented April 30, the Thursday before Junior Week, in the Field House.

The contract negotiations for entertainers have not yet been completed, but it is certain that this show will maintain the standard set by the three preceding shows.

The first show, presented in 1949, grossed $1,000 and the show last year netted $5,000 for the Guild. The show in 1952 was a sellout and even standing room was at a premium.

Fresh Name Council Nominees at Meeting

The first organized meeting of the freshman class was held last night at 5:30 P.M. in the Commerce and Finance auditorium. Presided over by Joe Roy, chairman of the Student Council Elections Committee and a senior in the Education school, the frosh named candidates for two Student Council seats.

First Pre-Cana Lecture To Be Held On March 1

The traditional lenten season Pre-Cana Conferences, under the direction of Rev. Robert Regan, O. S. A., will begin Sunday, March and continue each Sunday for four weeks.

These interesting discussions by outstanding authorities on marriage problems are presented especially for students who are engaged or contemplating marriage but all are invited to attend.

"The purpose of the series, explains Fr. Regan," is threefold: 1 to stimulate an awareness of the moral and religious aspects of marriage, 2. a wholesome attitude in regard to it, and 3. a deep appreciation of its spiritual values."

According to Fr. Regan, the pattern of the 1953 conference series will be the same as previous years; discussion of the phases of marriage preparation. "More time will be spent this year, said Fr. Regan," on the question and answer period following each talk."

A tentative listing of the speakers who will be heard on the first four Sunday afternoons of March include: Rev. Dr. Thomas Welsh, J. C. D.; Rev. Dr. Gilbert McDevitt, J. C. D.; and Dr. James P. Quindlen. It is expected that the opening session of the conference will be addresses by its moderator, Fr. Regan.

While intended primarily for the benefit of Villanova College men, these conferences are open to all young men and women of eighteen years and over who have any interest in the vocation of marriage. It is hoped and expected that students from neighboring colleges will attend.

Council Prods Clubs, Charges Ticket Snafu

Villanova's Student Council opened the new semester last Monday night in 215 Mendel by shaking its parliamentary finger at lethargic campus organizations and decrying alleged ticket office mismanagement.

They also asked out loud for larger Sunday brunches, sought to speed up announcement of marks, favored abolition of the present mid-term registration procedure, and set up machinery for Freshman class elections.

The Council also voiced complaints against the Administration's withholding of information from students and the "Villanovan" on the topics of university status, establishment of a law school, and construction of a Student union and new domitories.

Delta Pi Mu, the Arts school fraternity which has not met since spring 1952, came under fire for inactivity. Also mentioned were the Sophomore Class, Kappa Phi Kappa, German Club, Interracial Club, Turf and Tinsel, and the Spanish Club. Rev. George McLaughlin, O.S.A., Student Council moderator, reported that these organizations failed to submit fall organizational reports.

The Council went on record as favoring two meals on Sunday, but unanimously voted for the increase of servings at the "brunch" meal.

Hugh Sharp, editor of the Villanova "Engineer," sought an explanation for the ticket office's denial of tickets to students for basketball games with Seton Hall. Sharp charged officials with providing too few tickets for Villanovans and assigning them to seats in far-flung sections of the Palestra on Jan. 31.

Alleging that only 100 tickets were allocated to Villanova men for the last Seton Hall game, Sharp agreed to undertake a Council investigation of the situation.

Council members, in other business, went on record as opposing the mid-term registration, which according to Council members, interferes a mid-term recess. Fr. McLaughlin stated that "the interval between semesters is not a vacation, but part of the school year. At present authorities are working on a registration mail system."

March 9 Deadline For Deferment Test Given This Spring

All eligible students who intend to take the Selective Service College Qualification Test in 1953 should file applications at once for the April 23 administration, Selective Service National Headquarters advised today.

An application and a bulletin of information may be obtained at any Selective Service local board. Following instructions in the bulletin, a student should fill out his application immediately and mail it in the special envelope provided. Applications must be postmarked no later than midnight, March 9, 1953. Early filing will be greatly to the student's advantage.

Answer To Bromfield

We have recently finished reading an article in the March issue of "Esquire", the contemporary American anthology of pin-ups, styles and fiction, entitled THE SHAME OF OUR COLLEGES, and written by the noted author Louis Bromfield.

Although it merely puts in writing the sentiments which are heard whenever the topic of American colleges comes up in conversation, it is a concrete statement and as such we would like to take excepti on to it.

Three main points are advanced by Mr. Bromfield: "our failure to discipline our children, our tolerance of downright subversion in the schools, and our emphasis on the college degree rather then the college education."

Granted that one, two or possibly all three of these faults can be found in some, or most, colleges, making the implied generalization that they exist throughout the American education system is entirely out of order.

We feel that Villanova, and probably any Catholic institution, can stand up against these charges without too much trouble.

Catholic Discipline Strong

From his statement that ". . . the lack of discipline begins at an early age in the classroom", it is obvious that Mr. Bromfield was never exposed to the strong right arm of the good nuns who do such an exemplary job in disciplining as well as educating in the lower grades. This same lack of discipline in the secondary schools and colleges, he continues, is due to the so-called "progressive" system of education. We can agree with this statement but, as mentioned above, not with the generalization as to its use. The theory that the "child should do as he pleases, study what he pleases, when it pleases him . . . " was never in evidence here or at any other Catholic school we know of. The "choosing" of electives every registration day is at least one witness to this fact that we can think of.

The point which Mr. Bromfield dwells the longest on is, however, the subject of subversion in the schools. He feels that the arguments concerning Marxian socialism and Democracy should be presented with complete objectivity and finality, and then the student should make up his mind. This, however, he states, is rarely done.

An Answer to Subversion

In answer to this we have to go no further then Father McFadden's course in the Philosophy of Communism which gives just such a presentation logically and simply and, without hedging on any of the arguments for or against, leaves the student little trouble in making up his mind.

As for preaching Communist propoganda in the classroom, to accuse a Catholic institution of doing this would be like accusing the Holy Ghost of financing the devil's operations.

Because such a large percentage of American colleges are run by the Catholic church, we feel that, especially on this point, some qualification should have been made because, as far as we know, no Catholic institution was ever accused of sponsoring anything subversive.

The statement that too many people go to school, not to acquire knowledge, but to get away from home, please their parents, or merely to get a job somewhere, is definitely true. But the fault in this lies, not with the colleges who cannot, at least for a while, know the students motive, but with the student himself. And, at least here, we've never heard a professor emphasize the degree rather then the education. Again, this fault would lie primarily with the student.

It is not our intention to assert that Mr. Bromfield's article is all wrong. On the contrary, we feel it well worth reading, but we wish to make it clear that the faults he finds with American colleges are not found at all American colleges.

It is also not our intention to set ourselves up as paragons of all that is good, holy, and ideal. We would be the last ones to say that the Catholic education system in general, and Villanova in particular, does not have its weak points.

But lack of discipline, subversion, and emphasis on the degree rather then the education can not be numbered among them.

Glavin Worried About:

Alma Mater's 'Loyal Sons of Villanova..'

An infiltrative movement began obscurely enough at Villanova last year. A WOMAN began attending regular class sessions with "us men."

GLAVIN

As is consuetudinary with all infiltrations by the female of the species, this imbuement was destined to spread. It has. This year there are more of this strange cult (at least strange at Villanova) satisfying their educational appetite at our hallowed institution. MORE ARE ON THE WAY!!

Twomp Knew!!

Far be it from us to question the right of a woman to an education. The eminent philosopher on womanhood, Oscar Twomp, exhaustively discussed the subject in this journal a few years ago, including an illuminating and precise analysis of the value of educating women in the arts of furnace-tending and window-washing.

No, the right of a woman to an education is not in question. Merely, questioned is the right of a woman to an education at VILLANOVA.

Minor Problems

We are not concerned with any of the minor attendant problems. "Where will they live on campus," some ask. Minor problem: They will live in the cage in the library, of course. Elementary!

"What will happen to Rosemont's tea dances?" Still minor. Villanova's new coeds will have "coffee congas" in Alumni Gym.

Then, there are those overjoyed at prospective benefits attendant upon more coeds: "Gee, Girl Cheerleaders!! And, maybe a drum-majorETTE!"

The Problem

These are inconsequential. There is only ONE major problem. What, pray tell, is to be the destiny of Villanova's ALMA MATER, replete with its "Loyal Sons of Villanova. . ?"

There is a problem. Are we to change this time-honored song? Or, alternatively, are we to reverse our course, and reject women?

There can be but one answer. THE ALMA MATER MUST ENDURE!

Search Commences For A Junior Week Queen

All Members of Class of 1954 Eligible to Enter Prom Dates

Attention: Juniors who have been waiting for three years for a chance to show off your favorite girl to everyone at Villanova.

Now is the time.

The Annual Queen of Junior Week contest begins today. Jointly sponsored by the "Villanovan," and the Junior Class, the contest will determine who will reign over Junior Week, 1953, her "Lady-in-Waiting," and her court.

Judges for the Queen contest will be celebrities in the fields of entertainment, modeling, and sports. Their identities will be revealed in the "Villanovan" in subsequent issues.

Picture Judging

Judging, as in previous years, will be carried on on a picture basis only. Juniors should submit pictures of their prom dates to the "Villanovan" office, in the basement of the Commerce and Finance building, or to room 220, Alumni Hall. Deadline for the contest is midnight, April 21.

Pictures submitted early will be eligible for publication in this paper during the period between today and Junior Week. Two or three entries will be pictured each week, so get your entry in early.

Announced in Paper

The "Queen," "Lady-in-Waiting," and "Court," will be announced, as usual, in the annual Junior Week edition of the "Villanovan." The "Queen" will be presented throughout Junior Week, and the Queen and her Lady-in-Waiting, and Court, will be presented and honored at the Junior Prom, Friday evening, May 8.

As has been the custom of previous years, the popular band leader at the Prom will present the royal sovereign with her crown at the prom, and she will reign over a coronation dance.

The Royal Party will attend Junior Week Activities as guests of the Junior Class, and if the Queen is not from the immediate area, she will receive all hotel accommodations, etc., as a gift.

Personal gifts will also be presented to all winners, and each of the girls will receive a beautiful array of flowers.

Stop Talking

So, Juniors, Don't Delay! You've been talking about her for three years! Now show her off! Here's your chance to make her Queen of Junior Week!

The General Rules for the "Queen of Junior Week" contest are as follows.

1. All Juniors are eligible to enter one picture in the contest, with these exceptions, chairmen of Junior Week committees and members of the "Villanovan staff."

2. Pictures (preferably at least 5x7), must be submitted at the "Villanovan" office, basement of Commerce and Finance building, or to room 220, Alumni Hall.

3. Pictures must be submitted before midnight, Tuesday, April 21.

4. Judging will be done by pictures only. All pictures submitted will be given to the judges for consideration.

5. All pictures will be returned immediately after Junior Week.

6. Runner-up to the Queen will be her Lady-in-Waiting, and the next successive four finishers will be the "court."

7. All pictures must be accompanied by the following information, on a separate piece of paper attached to the picture, or, on the back of the picture: Girl's name, address, age, height, weight, color of eyes, color of hair, present occupation, schools attended; also, Junior's name, campus or home address, telephone number, and school in the college (arts, C & F, etc.).

Advice, Groans Free To All Aspiring Campus Chess Aces

By George Ferguson

Noteworthy among recent developments at Villanova is the growing stature of chess as a campus activity. In the Pie Shoppe, in the various dormitories, even in empty classrooms, students gather together for the daily contest of wits between the white army and the red (or black, as the case may be). There is an attraction surrounding the chessmen which is virtually irresistible, once the game is learned.

Old gentlemen in their club easy chairs play the game in a leisurely fashion while puffing contentedly on their meerschaum pipes, but the college lad takes his game seriously, pursuing it with great gusto and aggressiveness. The spectators at these matches watch eagerly with that penetrating TV stare on their faces.

Silence Reigns

In an official tournament, conversation is taboo, but the campus game is liberally punctuated with free advice, loud groans, insulting remarks, and even occasional querulous cross-examination of a player by the onlookers, all of whom could easily see that the poor fellow should have traded queens when he had the chance. There are also stimulating words of encouragement to the loser, like, "you should have your head examined, after a move like that"!

If a "master" is playing against a beginner, the old hands gather 'round like a pack of wolves, waiting quietly for the kill. When two "experts" are fencing, their colleagues watch breathlessly for each immortal move of these future Copablancas. But when two beginners lock horns, everyone comes running to watch the slaughter.

Suicidal Attacks

Chess knows no funnier moments; it is well known that two novices simply feed their armies into the jaws of death —queens, rooks, knights, everything goes flying off the board in one great banzai charge. No quarter is asked or given; it's all over in fifteen minutes and may be properly compared to a slugfest between cave men, with bludgeons as the chief and only weapon. And, when at last the board is cleared, except for the two opposing kings, these boys spend the next two hours trying to checkmate each other.

GATHERED AROUND THE CHESS TABLES in the poor man's Student Union, better known as the Pie Shop, the campus' newest fad has many interested on-lookers during the day-long sessions. (Photo by Ed Barry)

Known centuries ago as the Game of Kings, chess is now called the King of Games. Its origin is lost in antiquity, but it is believed to have been played in China, long before the Christian era. In its modern form, Chess goes back about five hundred years. One may learn the rules of the royal game in a half hour, and become a fairly good player in less than six months.

Time Element Varies

Contrary to popular notions, a good chess game does not require five or six hours, but an average of only forty-five minutes. Many games are completed within a quarter hour. Chess is fun to learn and more fun to play. Another popular misconception is that chance plays a large part in this fascinating pastime. Nothing could be farther from the truth. It is skill, and skill alone which counts.

Also, some people believe that the game is played for money; happily, Chess is singularly free from such a taint. This writer has witnessed more than a thousand matches of the royal game on four continents, during the past several years, and never once found gambling in Chess.

The King of Games is invaluable in developing a keen mind, a sense of values, self-confidence and initiative. A good set may be procured for less than ten dollars, but many run up to a hundred dollars, and some more than a thousand. Presently, three organizations at Villanova are engaged in teaching the game and developing student skill: The Villanova Chess Club, The Kingsway Chess Club and the Florentine Chess Club.

Americana Exhibition In Library; Gift Of Former Editor's Family

By Bill Quinn

Honoring the first Villanovan to be killed in World War II, Miss Emily Maloney of Waterbury has donated a number of Currier and Ives prints to the Library. They were presented in memory of the late Lt. J. Benedict Maloney '37 and the Maloney family. "Ben" was Editor-in-Chief of the Villanovan in 1937, a four-year member of the Holy Name Society, and a three-year member of the track squad.

The prints now on display in the Library are works relating to Presidents, campaign banners, and historical items. For those of us in the "ignorance is bliss" frame of mind, the prints were made by N. Currier, Currier and Ives, Kellogg, Gleason and Case, and Skinner. The prints impart a contemporary's view of American history to the viewer, and are recommended as an integral part of a college education. If you never go into the Library, here's your chance. They are just inside the door, up the stairs, and to your left, so don't worry about any long trek. The trip is worth it.

These lithographs are the collection of Dr. D. J. Maloney. Known during the early part of the century as an enthusiastic collector of early American prints, Dr. Maloney's collection includes a set of presidents of the United States from Washington to Johnson. Contained in the prints donated are also a fine array of political campaign posters and banners in which the Doctor specialized. The Lincoln-Hamlin campaign banner is especially interesting because it represents the candidates of the first Republican ticket to be elected. The Library is now in possession of the first political poster ever printed by N. Currier. The envy of collectors, this poster was used during the campaign of Henry Clay and Freylinghuysen. If you don't know who the latter was, at least you can find out what he looked like.

RECENTLY ADDED TO THE LIBRARY, a collection of valuable Currier and Ives originals are now on display in the lobby. Depicting various political events and personages, they were donated by the mother of a former Villanovan. (Photo by Steve Lyons)

Since there were no illustrations in the newspapers of the time, Currier and Ives put these prints out as supplementary news about the time of the Civil War. They have since become a famous part of the heritage of this country and they constitute a valuable addition to the Villanova Library. Currier and Ives give a good cross-cut of Americans, even to one lithograph entitled "John Quincy Adams taking a fit in the House of Commons, Feb. 21, 1848."

Spanish Club Members Choose LAM As Site of Gala "Cervantes Night"

The Lodge of Antonio Mucci (LAM) in Norristown will be the site of this year's Cervantes Night, to be held April 18, announced Spanish Club moderator Rev. Lorenzo Lozano, O.S.A. at a meeting of the members held last Wednesday night in 206 C&F.

The annual social event will again be the highlight of the year for club members and their invited guests. Prominent diplomats from Spanish-speaking countries will again be entertained at the dinner-dance. John Parolin, president of the Club, is in charge of the arrangements for the affair.

Essay-Poetry Contest

Father Lozano also announced that once again this year the club would hold an essay and poetry writing contest in conjunction with the Spanish Institute of Columbia University.

For the best essay on the life of Cervantes, written in Spanish, the club and the Institute will award a medal and a diploma.

Father also said that as soon as possible, he would contact the main speaker to confirm the arrangements. As usual, it will be an outstanding representative from a Spanish - speaking country. Last year's speaker was Don Jose Maria Cortes, Chancellor of the Spanish Consulate. Presentation of prizes was made last year by Doctor Luis Villaba, consul from Spain.

DPE Elects Sheehan S. C. Representative

In a special election held last Wednesday, Ted Sheehan was elected student council representative for Delta Pi Epsilon business fraternity. He replaces John Serena who was drafted from school last December.

In other matters, the fraternity discussed plans for their dinner dance to be held in Philadelphia in late April. Two specimen fraternity pins were presented to the brothers for their consideration as the official insignia of the organization.

Fred Dwyer Wins A.A.U. Mile Event With 4:12.4 Time

Overcoming the hazards of a fourteen man field, Fred Dwyer sped to his sixth victory in the mile this winter at the National A. A. U. Meet Saturday in New York. Freddie had to come from behind in the last lap to speed by the fading Fred Wilt and Walter Molineux to win in the time of 4:12.4. Oddly enough it was the first title he won this year, but his slowest time in the Garden.

The size of the field was the main factor in the comparatively slow time. Dwyer had been pushed all over in his early attempts to take the lead. As late as the ninth lap, Fred was back in eighth place and it seemed as though he were trapped in a pocket. Somehow he got himself out of a jam and on the next to the last turn shouldered his way past Molineux and then drove on to nail Wilt by three yards. Dwyer ran the last quarter under sixty seconds which is good anytime but amazing in these conditions.

IC4A Next Week

Fred now seems a sure thing for the IC4A title on the same Garden boards next Saturday night. Walter Molineux at present figures to give him the toughest battle but, of course, one can't overlook Joe LaPierre of Georgetown, who defeated Fred last year for the IC4A outdoor mile championship. As they say in Brooklyn, "That was last year!" And this year, we have a completely new Dwyer who probably won't be stopped unless one of the boards springs, up and hits him in the face.

Without the likes of Wilt and Geherman around the only question on the college mile would be the time. In all probability time will be about 4:11 or maybe a second or two faster. Both Dwyer and Molineux are capable of faster time, but the afternoon heats take a lot out of a fellow.

If the field is small then we could get the best college mile ever run indoors.

Without the tiring afternoon trials then the three top-notchers, Dwyer, Molineux and LaPierre could put on quite a show.

At any rate we are inclined to believe that Les McMitchell's 4:12 will fall by the wayside and Fred Dwyer will be the new IC4A indoor record holder.

Barry Comback?

Next Saturday could also see the rebirth of John Joe Barry in the annals of American trackdom. John Joe admittedly is in better shape this year than last winter and could be a surprise in the two mile.

WILDCAT GUARD, NICK MaGUIRE goes high in the air to dunk in a deuce in a losing cause as the Mainliners dropped a 94-72 contest to the North Carolina State quintet at Raleigh last week. After topping the Wolfpack 89-81 earlier, the Cats found themselves to be impotent against the full-court press

Casemen Club 'Cats, 94-72 Hennessey Nets 32 In Loss

By Harry Nash

Villanova's visions of a successful invasion of Dixie's potent basketball domain were shattered at Raleigh's spacious R. J. Reynolds Coliseum Wednesday, as Everett Case's N. C. State Wolfpack employed a full-court press to stiffle the Wildcats and dump the Yankee visitors, 94-72.

Avenges Earlier Loss

The win for the nationally twelfth - ranked Carolinians avenged a previous 89-81 loss to the Mainline club. Villanova's hopes for a NIT or NCAA tourney bid, already dim because of six earlier losses, grew even fainter as the result of the one-sided loss in the Staters' ballyard, which was nearly filled to its 12,000 capacity for the contest.

Larry Hennessey, already nearing 200 points for his six-game return performance so far, bagged 32 points in a futile attempt to pull the 'Cats back into the ball game. State led by four, 40-36, at the half, and slowly widened the edge in the second half on the pinpoint shooting of forward Bob Speight and guard Bill Kukoy.

Mooney's Absence Tells

The loss of Jim Mooney via ineligibility decidedly decreased the team's rebounding capabilities. Bernie Yurin and Mel Thompson controlled the boards throughout despite the efforts of Villanova's Steve Gepp and John Devine, who was greatly hampered by a bruised knee.

The defeat left Al Severance's boys with a 14-7 record, with 10 more games on tap. Last year the Wildcats knocked off the 'Pack twice, the second time on the State stomping grounds.

Sam Glassmire managed to hang up 13 points to aid the cause somewhat. Bob Schafer was held to three markers by the smothering State defensive strategy.

Glassmire's Play Brings Back The Small Man To Basketball

By Tom Mentzer

During the past week the sport pages of both Philadelphia papers carried headlines to the effect that "Villanova Nominates Glassmire", "Glassmire Appointed to 'Small' All-American Five." To the court fans who follow closely the fortunes of the Villanova quintet, these tributes paid to the Cat guard, Sam Glassmire, come as no surprise. For three consecutive years this blond backcourt ace has directed the Mainliner's attack. Never a big scorer, Sammy has contented himself with feeding long range snipers such as Hennessey, Schafer, and Co.

In addition to this role as playmaker, Sam has also been, and is still, regarded by mentor Severence as the team's outstanding defensive player. Ample evidence of this fact was given by Sam when he was only a Sophomore. In two contests with North Carolina State, Sammy held All-American Sam Ranzino, whose point average was over 20 a game, to a combined two-game total of 12 points. This is but one instance in a brilliant court career.

Great Play at NC State

There have been other occasions during his three varsity years on which Sam has climbed the basketball heights to electrify the crowd with his fiery play. His fouls in the dying moments of the 1951 North Carolina State game which brought a Cat victory, his all-around court wizardry characterized by the inter-

Three Palestra Marks Fall; Schafer Leads Rebounders

Larry Hennessey was back on the rampage Saturday night as he broke his own two records of just a week ago and led the Wildcats to a runaway 105-73 Palestra win over hapless Boston College. No contest from the start, it was merely a question of how many the New Rochelle All-American would toss in and whether or not the Cats would hit a hundred. When the dust finally cleared, Villanova had become the first team in the Palestra's 25 year history to hit triple figures, and Hennessey had made past history out of last week's record-breaking Canisius spree by hitting for 19 field goals and 45 points.

Schafer Outstanding

Bobby Schafer, meanwhile, though netting only a respectable 18 (for him), was putting on quite a show of his own. The night's big gun off the boards, Dutch gave a good preview of the tremendous rebounding he is capable of doing. Sam and Nick too, can thank the Blond One's quick passes for many of their all-alone lay-ups.

Tony Daukas, B. C.'s 6'6" classy junior, saved the Eagles from complete annihilation. Racking up 15 in the first quarter (including all the Beantowners f.g.'s), and 28 for the night, the big center moved into some fast company as one of the best the Mainliners have seen.

Watch Siena

Rebounds: Both Sam and 12 and 18 respectively..... Nick had good nights, netting madman as usual (5 shots all John Devine, heaving like a night), had his average drop out of the double figures for the first time this season. Shoot, drat you, Andy..... Hennessey, in seven games, has already passed Devine's seasons total and tied Mooney's. Fantastic.....At this writing, Jim Mooney has 43 points in 5 games for the Warriors. His last second field goal gave the Celtics their first loss to Philly all season . . . Steve Gepp did a tremendous job on Daukas, holding him to 13 in almost 3 periods. The "Gepper" could be the key . . . Referee Frank Hoerst seems to enjoy the view from the Palestra floor .....Siena coach Dan Cunha's comment after his team's loss to Seton Hall: "Jessee James rode again" (the Hall won by 7, was awarded 37 foul tries to 9 for Siena). Asked if he thought SH would go all the way, Cunha muttered, "With those refs, they could beat the Knickerbockers". This interesting gentleman brings his Indians and their stall to the Palestra Thursday. They beat Fordham 51-47, Watch out Cats!

Cats Face Siena Thursday; Mules at Field House Sat.

Thursday night, Coach Al Severance's Mainliners will meet a Siena quintet at the University of Pennsylvania's Palestra in the second game of a doubleheader. The first game will see Penn playing host to Syracuse. The Villanova-Siena affair is scheduled to get under way at 9:45 P. M.

Larry to Lead

Larry Hennessey, the basket splasher, who has been knocking over records as if they were bowling pins lately, will lead the Wildcats into action. Siena, which is one a comeback trail after an early-season affliction of mediocracy, knocked off powerful Fordham in their most recent outing. Coach Dan Cunha's charges are confidant that they can handle Capt. Sam Glassmire and Co. In their Seton Hall contest, the Indians outscored Dukes and Co. from the floor by 12 points, which is an indication of their ability. The difference was made up at the foul line.

Penn should have little trouble taking care of Syracuse. The Saltine Warriors were dumped by Colgate, 106-88, recently. Seems to be a habit they picked up in the Sugar Bowl.

Mules in Field House

Saturday, February 21, the Mules of Muhlenberg will come into the Field House to engage the 'Cats. The Allentown cagers could very well surprise Villanova. In their last game, they caused Seton Hall some anxious moments before falling prey to the South Oranges' late-game rally 88-75.

Frank Cutko is Muhlenberg"s key man. He sets up the Mules' offensive and is a prolific scorer while proving his talents as a feeder. Larry Friedman and Dick Rudolph are two more boys who seem to be able to score at random.

Basketball Roundup

By Dick Confoy

The Cat's new captain, Sam Glassmire, became Villanova's first All-American of the season last week although you'd never know it by the Philly papers. Sam, the cool pressure operator, made the U.P.'s "Small America" first team (5'10" and under) along with Johnny and Eddie O. of Seattle, Jim Lamkin of DePaul, and Gus Ollrich of Drake..... Speaking of All-Americans, it didn't take long to establish the identity of the greatest shot in the nation. Hennessey grabbed the country's scoring lead from Beck and Dukes after his 44 point spree against Canisius and doesn't intend to give it back. Asa Bushnell figured out the only way possible to stop Herman.....The Mainliners were 21st in the U.P. poll last week. Dunkel's power index has us third in the East behind LaSalle and the Hall and ahead of Fordham, H. C., St. Bonnies, Duquesne, Iona, and Niagara. Yet although the Cats have won four games from teams on this list, see who gets the tournament bids.....Barring difficulties (draft, etc.) Arizin, Beck, Hennessey, Gola, and Johnston, plus Mooney and Schafer. But that's in 3 years, so how about this starting lineup next season: Johnston, Mooney, Beck, Hennessey, and-Sam?.....Watch Steve Gepp fill Jim Mooney's shoes off the boards. He's always had the heart and the ability and now he's finally got the chance .....Here's some statistics through the BC game: Nick Maguire leads in f.g. accuracy (.462) with Hennessey second; (.442) Larry leads Glassmire in foul shooting, .797 to .725; and with the Moon gone, John Devine takes over the rebounds lead (203, 9.2 per game). Andy has the most personals, 82, and Bobby Schafer tops the club in field goals, 154. The Cats are 6th in the nation in scoring.....Larry Hennessey will tour with the College All-Stars against the Globetrotters. He needs only 16 a game to break Paul Arizin's scoring record (1596 points).....Prediction: Bob Schafer will break THAT record in two years.....How would Rio Grande's wonder club do against big-time opposition? Dunkel's ratings say Villanova by 15 over Bevo and Co.....Next years most active players: Devine, Schafer, Cirino, plus Emery, Milligan, Clune, Tierney, Meade and Jim Smith, top-notch addition from West Catholic over the semester..... If the Cats get nothing from the NCAA or NIT, how about taking the Catholic Tourney and winding up some great careers with a little glory? A Tournament win would be a fitting end to a great era in Villanova basketball history .....The Warriors may not be too financially stable, but they're doling out plenty to have the Moon fly back and forth from classes to Syracuse, Ft. Wayne, etc. Eddie Gottlieb knows he's got the beginnings of a real ballclub in the soft-spoken redhead.....Notice who's jumping at center tap now (Schafer). With a little help from the right quarters, Dutch could be the answer to the Mainliners ever-present rebounding problems.....Although Villanova's 1949-50 freshman team had gone undefeated, the club, captained by Sophomore Jim Mooney, wasn't given a prayer in the 1950 pre-season crystal-balling. Seems Paul Arizin had just graduated and four sophs were starting.....The team ended up 25-5 and got three post-season tournament bids (NCAA, NIT, Bradley).....Moon captained the club longer and got more rebounds (993) than any player in Villanova history.

Rifle Team Wins Second Match of Season at VFMA

On February 4, 1953 the NROTC Nimrods won their second shoulder to shoulder rifle match out of three such meetings. They defeated Valley Forge Military Academy 1366-1360 on the VFMA range. Midshipman Gilligan had the best meet score with 286 points.

Under the direction of M/sgt. John E. Waryha, USMC, the rifle team won a match over the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science and lost to Temple University.

On the present schedule, seven matches are set for the future: LaSalle, PMC (2), return matches with VFMA and Temple, and a triangle meet with Pennsylvania and Princeton.

Plans are being made by the team instructor to put the pistol team into action in the near future.

Villanova scoring against VFMA:

Gilligan	286
Trunzo	277

cepting of passes, the breaking up of plays, and the dribbling through an entire team time and again to make incredible shots which broke a close struggle with the 1952 Xavier squad wide open, are two more instances of Sam's great ability as a basketeer.

From West Philadelphia

This ability was first given its chance to develop in Sam's own West Philadelphia neighborhood. A member of Most Blessed Sacrament Parish, a parish which literally breeds basketball stars, Sammy soon became a member of one of its many basketball teams. Utilizing his speed and amazing stamina to overcome his lack of height, the blond youngster quickly moved up the ladder until he became a member of the M.B.S. Senior five which had on its squad such players as Ernie Beck, the "incomparable, our own Jim Mooney, and Jimmy Young, the Canisus ace.

"Big" All American

For four years, now, Sam has displayed court talents to Wildcat followers, which make him we feel, not a "Small" All-American, but a "Big" All-American.

League Leaders Make Move As I-M Season Nears Half

By John Gillman

The first third of the I-M basketball season has gone by and the leaders in the various leagues are beginning to show up. In the A league, the Pistons seem to be the team to beat. Art McCune poured in 29 points to lead them to a 43-42 win over the Zips and they also knocked off the Troopers, 57-40. McNicholas had 26 as his team, the Hotshots, took the Troopers, 59-44. Beggy and Volonino got 18 apiece to pace their Delury mates to a 59-56 overtime victory over Mendel. Good Counsel is also in the running, having beaten Delury, 47-41, in their single outing.

In the B league the Flyers, Scattas, and Good Counsel are tied for first with 2-0 records. The Flyers with Bergen netting 25 beat Mendel, 52-30, and topped the Grand Old Men, 37-31. Good Counsel's Meany threw in 26 as his team edged the Rummies, 49-48. They also beat the Mighty Mites, 36-18. The Scattas also hold a decision over Mendel by virtue of a 47-31 count.

Two Lead B Loop

The Shamrocks and the Nightriders appear to have the situation well in hand in the Barracks league. Both are undefeated but the Shamrocks must be given preference because of their 80 point per game average. They trounced the Ballhawks, 72-36, and humbled the Hotrods, 88-39. The Nightriders hold an impressive 65-31 win over Barracks 3 but they just squeezed by the Hotrods, 48-44. Barracks 2 is also undefeated, having set down Barracks 1, 44-38.

Lovers on Top

The Lovers are at the top of the American league with a 3-0 record. In their first game D'Lonzo with 20 and Lucas with 17 pulled them up from the short end of a 41-26 half time count to a 57-55 victory over the Rowers. Westhead had 20 for the losers. In their next game Lucas came thru with 19 to pace them to a 52-49 win over the Boro Boys. Tomko got 25 for them when they handed the Foshes a 52-40 defeat.

The Toads appear to be the class of the National league sporting a 3-0 record. In their first outing, they beat the Conshy Cats, 55-47, behind Kazmierczak's 25 points. This is the Cats' only loss so far. The Toads set an I-M record in their second game romping over the Royals, 97-44, and followed that with a 70-45 trouncing of the Cavaliers. All other teams in the league have at least one loss except the Warriors who beat the Cavaliers, 36-32.

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

"HURRMPH"! trumpeted Sheedy, "What a elephant time to have my hair act up. Might as well break my date and get trunk!" Luckily he was overheard by a Pachydermitologist who said, "Tusk, tusk! You've got a messy big top from pouring those buckets of water on your head. Get out of your ivory tower and visit any toilet goods counter for a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil, "Your Hair's Best Friend". Non-alcoholic. Contains soothing Lanolin. Relieves dryness. Removes loose, ugly dandruff. Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test." Paul got Wildroot Cream-Oil, and now all the girls tent to him more than ever. So why don't you try Wildroot Cream-Oil? It only costs peanuts —29¢. And once you try it, you'll really have a circus.

Set for "Caesar" Takes Shape; Cast Readies Tragedy

Over 1200 man-hours of labor will have been expended on the set for Belle Masque's "Julius Caesar," before it is revealed for first-nighter audiences in the Field House on March 19.

Maury Murphy, stage manager for the dramatic society, disclosed that his eleven-man stage crew is well ahead of schedule in constructing the set for the Shakespearean classic.

Murphy's problems include a complex eight-scene play which involves six separate changes of the set.

Airborne Scenery

"To get around the backstage space problem," said Murphy, "We've rigged all the houses, trees, columns, and walls 55 feet above the stage and we'll lower them when needed. We've built a 14 foot platform, mounted on truck casters — that too will probably be rigged overhead."

Assisting Murphy is Bill Cunningham, co-stage manager. Art work on the set will be contributed by Eileen O'Brien and Jean Ward of Rosemont and Belle Masque's Dave Damiano.

Lead roles in the society's spring play went to Dave Leahy, Tony Della Rocca, Tom Hayden and Bernie Coyne.

In the twenty-eight supporting roles are: Jim Mink, Bob Ewing, Jack Casanave, Bill and Pete Quinn, Dave Damiano, Pete Tulli, Frank Killmona, Charlie McGee.

From Rosemont's Jest and Gesture club are Joan Cookenburg, Mimi Heffernan, Joan Theurkauf, Ethel Dagit, Barbara McVey, Barbara Burman and Maureen Shedlesky.

"Julius Caesar" will be presented in the Field House from March 19 through March 22.

Phi Kappa Pi Frat Takes Over Mendel In Pledging Fifty

The blast-furnace temperature of the basement of Mendel Hall did little to dampen the wild spirits of some fifty pledges to Phi Kappa Pi, Villanova's Engineering fraternity, last Thursday night.

Officially, it was initiation night; unofficially it was a good excuse for the upperclass engineers to put their budding fraternity men thru a carefully-considered plan for mental collapse. The pledges ran the gamut from simple "paddling" to an ingenious electric chair. The latter was a product of Charles Quinn's diabolical imagination.

Walt Miller was chairman of the initiation which marked, rather emphatically, the end of a week of hazing. During this time the pledges were required to carry paddles built to definite specifications, T-squares, and a supply of cigarettes.

Jack Redmond, President of PKP, presided over the banquet which followed in the cafeteria. Members of the faculty who were invited to the banquet included Mr. J. Gallen, Father J. Klekotka, Dr. R. Koob, and Dean Stanley Morehouse.

Belle Air's Reorganization Proceeding On Schedule

Despite the complete reorganization of the layout, the work on the 1953 Belle Air is progressing according to schedule. Having passed the Dec. 18 deadline for the senior, faculty and class sections, all that remains is the submitting of final sports and college publications tomorrow.

According to Lou Oberle, editor of the Belle Air, the book this year will be radically different. As far as possible they have eliminated the standard sections of the book and have introduced a more logical set-up.

In this new plan, buildings will be used as dividers and each building will be followed by the organizations and phase of college life which the student usually associates with it. They are attempting to return the focus of the book to the campus and the college life where it belongs.

Johnny Long's Orchestra Choice For Junior Prom

Johnny Long, currently starring at the Paramount Theatre, New York, has been signed to play at the Villanova Junior Prom, May 8. Probably the number one college band in the country, Johnny Long and his boys are all-time favorites with students everywhere and have the most impressive prom record in the history of the music business.

JOHNNY LONG

Long's band began as a college outfit at Duke University in 1931 and since then he has aimed to keep his music right for the college-age crowd. He is careful to see that all his arrangements strike the proper balance for excellent dance music. Evan his theme song, "Sweetheart of Sigma Nu," is of collegiate origin.

Started Early

The handsome, blonde bandleader started his career in music at the age of 5 when he began taking violin lessons. A year later his left hand was knawed by a hungry pig and he was forced to become a south-paw violinist. Today he has become quite proficient as a "backward fiddler".

During his high-school years Long did concert work and when he entered Duke in '31 he got together a group known on the campus as "The Freshman Orchestra". This band stayed together during their years at Duke and they played at a resort during the summers. In 1935 they graduated as "The Duke Collegians," and began their professional career. The going was tough for several years but Johnny Long and his band continued to rise in the public eye.

"Shantytown"

A few years later he recorded his famous "In A Shanty In Old Shantytown" and zoomed to the top among popular band leaders. His fans still demand "Shantytown" and other tunes done in his famous style such as "Blue Skies", and "Just Like That," which Long wrote himself.

During the war he entertained in camps, bases, and hospitals. His biggest thrill, however, came in 1941 when he played at the President's Birthday Ball in Washington.

In the past six years, Johnny Long has become the top college prom attraction from Maine to California. His busy schedule has included over 100 college engagements, among then: Notre Dame, Duke, Dartmouth, Univ. of Kentucky, Washington and Lee, and the Univ. of Michigan.

He has also delighted millions with his unbeatable style

Panel Discusses U.S. Foreign Policy At Penn Friday

The Sixth Annual Foreign Policy Institute, co-sponsored by the World Affairs Council of Philadelphia and the University of Pennsylvania, will be held on Friday, February 27 at the University of Pennsylvania Museum.

Villanova was well represented by a large delegation at the Institute last year and participated in the discussion on European unity. This year the conference will discuss "United States Economic Foreign Policy: Trade or Aid?"

Dr. Robert Strauz-Haupe, Chairman, International Relations Group Committee of the University of Pennsylvania, will preside and the conference will receive official greetings from Dr. William H. DuBarry, Acting President, University of Pennsylvania, and Charles G. Berwind, Executive Committee, World Affairs Council of Philadelphia.

The conference will feature at the 9:45 a. m. panel session, Dr. Herbert Feis, Princeton University, Edwin M. Martin, U. S. Dpt. of State, and Duncan Mowat, British Trade Promotion Center, New York.

The afternoon conference will be divided into three discussion groups presided over by: J. Brown, Associate Professor of International Politics, Temple University: Dr. E. Coddington, Dpt. of History, Lafayette College; and Dean C. Balderston, of The Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, University of Pennsylvania.

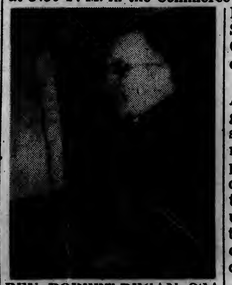
Father Regan To Discuss 'Marriage Aspects' Sunday

Lenten Rules For Students

Rev. Joseph Kemme, College Chaplain, has announced the following Lenten regulations:

1. The Law of Fasting regulates the quantity of food.
2. The Law of Abstenence prohibits the use of meat on certain days.
3. For Students:

A. Those engaged in exhaustive mental work may take three full meals a day including meat.



B. The same students must observe the law of abstinence on:

1. All Fridays of Lent.
2. Holy Saturday until noon.

4. Those who are excused or dispensed from fasting or abstinence or both should practice some other form of mortification.
5. Remember the purpose of Lent: Self-discipline and union with Christ.

Pre-Cana Conferences Open In C&F Building; Three More Talks Set

"The Vocational and Sacramental Aspects of Marriage" will be the topic of the first Pre-Cana Conference this Sunday at 3:30 P. M. in the Commerce and Finance auditorium, The Rev. Robert E. Regan, O.S.A., S.T.D., moderator of both the Cana and Pre-Cana Conferences, will be the speaker.

REV. ROBERT REGAN, OSA

Fr. Regan, who is also the Associate Professor of Religion at Villanova, has stressed that these discussions on marriage problems are not presented exclusively for students who are engaged or contemplating marriage, and he urges all who desire to do so to attend. The Conferences are complenentary to the senior courses in religion.

Marriage Judge

On Sunday, March 8, the speaker will be the Rev. Thomas J. Welsh, J.C.D., judge of the matrimonial court of the arch-diocese of Philadelphia. Fr. Welsh's topic will be "Christian Courtship and Engagement." The following Sunday finds another judge of the matrimonial court scheduled for the rostrum. The Rev. Gilbert J. McDevitt's topic will be "The Mutual Duties of Husband and Wife."

For his final speaker of the year on March 22, Father Regan has succeeded in obtaining an outstanding Catholic layman who is the chief of Pediatrics at Jefferson Hospital in Philadelphia. Dr. Norman M. MacNeill will speak on "The Child in the Home" to complete the conference series.

All the discussions will be held on Sunday afternoons during March in the Commerce and Finance auditorium.

Marketers Travel To Acme, Inquirer On March 10 Trip

Mr. Jack Hyland, director of publicity and public relations for WFIL radio and television stations was the guest of the Villanova Chapter of the American Marketing Association at an important meeting last Thursday.

"The Effect of TV on Public Relations", as discussed by Mr. Hyland, who pointed out the advertising and publicity principles as applied to the television networks. The stimulating question and answer period that followed the talk, exhibited the students' keen interest in the television phase of marketing and advertising.

Club president, Pete Bailey, later outlined the plans for the annual field trip proposed for Tuesday, March 10. The group will visit the new American Store Warehouse in the morning. The usual luncheon will be given at the Warwick Hotel followed by a guided tour of the Philadelphia Inquirer building. Arrangements have been made for transportation to and from the college.

Colonial Dames Run Essay Contest For Penna. Colleges

A special essay contest under the direction of the Colonial Dames Of America is being conducted throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania with the first prize being $100.

Mr. Henry Rofinot of the History Department has been appointed by the Dames as campus representative at Villanova and he reports that already nine students have entered.

Although the contest is open to the field of American History, Mr. Rofinot is limiting the scope to any topic dealing with colonial or revolutionary history. The essays entered from this school will be judged by a committee and the best one will be forwarded

Bp. Sheen At Rosemont

At their annual retreat on Feb. 25 and 26, the student body of Rosemont College will be honored by the presence of Bishop Fulton J. Sheen, noted author and television personality. The Bishop has conducted many retreats at Rosemont since his initial appearance in 1929.

This year, Bishop Sheen will open the retreat on Wednesday night with prayers, meditation, and Benediction. The following day, six meditations will be given and Holy Mass will be offered. In the evening, the Bishop will close the girl's retreat with Benediction, concluding meditation, and his blessing.

As in the past, Bishop Sheen will have only a limited time to spend at Rosemont and and so will speak to only the Rosemont College student body and faculty.

Editorial

Try Our Brand!

It has been the custom of the paper this year to offer some sungested improvements to this campus.

In the "VILLANOVAN" of December 9 we offered a suggestion to alleviate the lack of interest among the day students in the various extra-ciricular activities on the campus.

In doing it, we also realized that the situation could not be helped by the present conditions and that something new had to be employed if the problem were to be solved.

At the time this paper suggested that a certain hour be set aside each week when no classes would be held and during which hour the various clubs would hold their meetings.

We thought at that time, as we still think now, that that answer is the best way to solve lagging spirit. Up to now the measure has gained no new support so while we're batting .000 we will try to raise our average with a new solution for a different problem.

This is the problem of having students cutting in on the cafeteria line.

Unfortunately, the student council and the administration have been playing Alphone and Gaston over who must crack down on the problem. Meanwhile the cutting-in continues. If one of the buildings on campus were to catch fire it certainly would be a very sorry sight to see the Wayne and Bryn Mawr Fire Departments arguing over who had the right to pour water on the blaze first.

We think that a system of detachable numbers (with no connection or infringement upon matriculation cards) should be set up ranging in numerical order from 1-500. Placed on the table nearest to the trays and silverware, the students would get his number and wait in line.

He would surrender this number upon showing his matriculation card whereupon it would be used again, and anyone found without one of these numerical cards or out of numerical sequence would be moved back to his proper place. This would insure against some person moving in ahead of another.

The question is now raised, "Who will take care to see that this system is respected?" The answer to that is any employee of the cafeteria, not a student. Even if a little force has to be used at first it will more than be repaid finally.

This same system is used in the commercial world in many retail stores to cut down on the percentage of "customer cutins". If it can be successfully employed against a group of howling housewives it certainly ought to be workable with a group of more rational college students.

If anyone has a better idea come forward and be heard, but let's do something constructive soon.

Guinti View:

Chow Line Capers

In the early part of last semester, there appeared in this paper a column concerning the deplorable conduct of students in and around the dining hall.

Now, about one semester having passed, it is time to see if the situation has changed any. And, strange as it may seem, the situation has changed . . . but not for the better, t doesn't require uncommonly keen powers of observation or profuodn logic to arrive at this conclusion. Perhaps it was too much to hope for that college men would do something to solve one of their own problems.

More Prevalent

Undoubtedly everyone has noticed that line-cutting is more prevalent now than it ever was. It is only on very rare occasions that one spends less than fifteen minutes waiting in line to be served. And all this because a few boorish individuals consider themselves above the lowly practice of standing in line. Could it be that these elite few don't realize that there are other people in the world besides themselves? It is unjust to jump at conclusions but there comes a time when it's the only thing one can do.

No Longer Sly

There was a time when line-cutting was done in a sly sneaky manner. No longer is this true. Now the line-cutter has become a bold animal, who travels in a pack and who barges in at the head of the line with complete disrespect for all others.

There is one suggestion for, if not solving the problem, at least alleviating the situation at lunch time when it seems to be at its worst. That is, have the dining hall begin serving about fifteen minutes earlier. This would eliminate some of the rush after ten thirty classes and will probably save the dining hall door from being battered down by starving students.

Inadequate Facilities

It must be as apparen to the administration as it is to the students that there is a crying need for a new dining hall. The present set up was intended for only several hundred students ,not for the more than eight hudred that are served at each meal. But dining halls are not built overnight. And until a new and bigger dining hall is built, it is up to the individual student to make the best of that which we have.

Whose Responsibility

The administration has taken a passive view to the whole business of line-cutting and perhaps justly so. The problem is ours and not theirs. We should be able to remedy the situation. The student council, apparently, cannot cope with this problem. Therefore, it would seem that the ultimate solution to this irritation situation rests with the individual student.

t is high time that we stop gripping and passing the buck and that we do something about this condition for which we ourselves are to blem. Everyone of us can help by doing just one thing. Stop cutting in line.

Misericordiae Senior First Of 'Queen' Entries

By Ward Welsh

"Quality but not quantity . . . " seems to be the by-word with Juniors during the opening week of the Junior Week Queen Contest. Entries have been few but each girl is a "queen" in her own right.

Blonde, blue-eyed Janet Murray was our first entry. Janet will attend Junior Week activities with her favorite Villanovan, Mark Carmack. A resident of Rosemont, she is a senior at Misericordiae Academy.

JANET MURRAY

Increase Expected

The flow of entries is expected to increase gradually as the contest progresses and more men have decided who their lucky date will be. Early entries, however, are more eligible for publication in the Villanovan.

6 Winners Out of 42

Speaking of quantity . . . . Do you know how many entries there were in last years contest? 179? or maybe 93? No. You're wrong. There were exactly 42 pictures entered last year and 6 of them were winners. It doesn't take a "C&Fer" to figure those odds . . . .

For those who overlooked the contest details last week, I'll review:

The contest will decide the Queen and her court for Junior Week and the Junior Prom. All juniors except Junior Week committee chairmen and members of the Villanovan staff, may enter one picture.

Pictures should be submitted at the Villanovan office in the basement of the C&F building or to Ward Welsh, Room 220, Alumni Hall.

All pictures must be accompanied by the following information: Girl's name, address, age, height, weight, eye color, hair color, schools attended, and occupation, and the Juniors name, campus address or telephone number, and the school he attends, (Arts, C&F,).

So, Juniors, Don't Delay! You've been talking about her for three years! Now show her off! Here's your chance to make her Queen of Junior Week!

Trade Or Aid Question Looms Most Important

By Alec Pandaleon

When the sixth annual Foreign Policy Institute convenes at the University of Pennsylvania this month, it will bring before its audience a very important problem of United States policy. The topic to be discussed is: United States Economic Foreign Policy; Trade or Aid?

PANDALEON

On hand to illuminate the debate will be Dr. Herbert Feis, economist and author; Mr. Edwin Martin, special assistant to the Secretary for Mutual Security Affairs in the State Department; and Mr. Duncan Mowat, Head of the British Trade Promotion Center in New York.

In view of the recent trip to Europe of Secretary of State Dulles and Mutual Security Administrator Stassen, the question of trade or aid is by no means merely academic. It should be obvious from the tone of the Eisenhower approach thus far that the new administration plans to chart what it terms a more realistic course in our relations with Europe.

Well Chosen

The three panel members chosen by the Institute should be able to shed considerable light on the problem. The first, Mr. Feis, represents the detached view of the economist. Mr. Martin, a member of the State Department, will bring with him the policy of the government. The position of Britain will be defended by Mr. Mowat.

As has been the case in past years, the Institute is conducted principally for the college students of the Philadelphia area. In the afternoon session group discussions with the authorities will give the students an opportunity to ask questions concerning specific problems under the main topic.

Importance

In view of the contemporary importance of our economic relations with Europe, the Institute hopes that as many students as possible interested in foreign affairs attend the conference—particularly those majoring in the fields of history and political science.

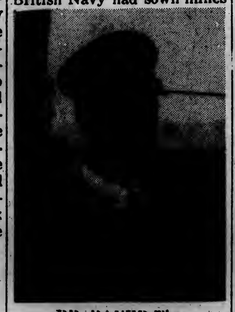
Dr. Bauer Recalls Past Adventures As German Minesweeper Captain

By George Ferguson

The Human and Social Geography class waited expectantly as the instructor entered the lecture room in Mendel Hall, on the opening day in September.

After signing the roster, the class settled back for the introductory lecture by one of Villanova's most popular professors, in one of the most interesting courses offered by the college.

Colorful Career



Only a few of those present realized that the scholarly, unassuming man addressing them is the possessor probably of one of the most colorful careers ever to be found in a distinguished college professor.

Dr. Hubert A. Bauer is presently Professor of Geography at Villanova. During World War I, he was a Captain Lieutenant in the Navy of His Imperial Majesty, the Emperor William II of Germany; afterwards, world traveller and lecturer, Adviser to the Governor of Alaska, noted cartographer and oceanographer. An immigrant to the United States, Dr. Bauer offers eloquent proof that here in America a man can still achieve the heights of success if he is willing to work hard enough and persevere until the goal is reached.

High School to High Seas

Born in Tuerkheim, Bavaria, in November 1886, the Doctor received his early education there and was graduated from high school at the age of 17. From school he went to sea, as many an adventuresome lad, infected with the wanderlust, did in those days. Young Hubert Bauer travelled all over the world, making nine trips around the Horn, in the great three-masted sailing vessels of the late 19th Century. In 1911, he became an officer of the North German Lloyd lines, and served in that capacity for three years.

When the Great European War enveloped the Continent, Lieutenant Bauer of the Imperial German Navy Reserve was assigned to command a group of minesweepers and scout boats attached to the North Sea Squadron. The British Navy had sown mines in the North Sea in an attempt to cut Germany off from the rest of the world. It was the duty of the minesweeper squadron to remove these floating globes of TNT and keep Germany's sea lanes open.

DR. BAUER Then

300 Mines One Day

Lieutenant Bauer had many exciting exploits during his war service, and experienced narrow escapes from death when two of his ships were blown up under him. In one day alone his boats destroyed three hundred British mines, as well as German defensive mines which had broken loose from their moorings. The usual method of disposing of a sea mine was by rifle fire. Often, the ships were nearly wrecked by the explosions and occasionally a man would be killed by flying shrapnel.

Battled Weather

In addition to man-made dangers, including roving British destroyers, the minesweeper crews had to battle the tempestuous, bleak North Sea, with its icy gales and heavy fogs. Dr. Bauer happily states that he never had to kill anyone during the war, but was responsible for many lives being saved.

Probably his most daring assignment was to cut the international cable between Denmark and France. The German government had learned that classified information regarding Germany's war plans was being transmitted to the French government via the North Sea cable from Denmark. It was considered imperative that this flow of information be halted; accordingly, upon orders from Berlin, Lieutenant Bauer set forth with his flotilla and after a three week search, located and severed the undersea line. For this he was awarded the Iron Cross, 1st Class.

ON A NORTH SEA TRAWLER, similar to the one shown in this picture, Dr. Bauer then in the service of Kaiser Wilhelm cut the underwater diplomatic cable between Denmark and France. This feat won for him the Iron Cross from the Kaiser.

Marries Seattle Girl

After the Armistice of 1918, the Doctor returned to civilian life and went into business for himself. In 1925 he married an American girl from Seattle; he and his wife sailed for America the same year, and settled on the West Coast. Two years later, after having worked in Alaska as a common laborer, the professor began his teaching career, at the University of Seattle.

Concerning these difficult early years of establishing himself in a new country, Dr. Bauer states: "those first years of struggle were a good way of adjusting myself to a new environment . . . a good apprenticeship, so to speak, for American citizenship."

Rises to Fame

Professor Bauer returned to Alaska in 1937, this time as Consultant for the Alaska Planning Board. After his early experiences in America, and his eventual rise to fame as a cartographer and geographer, the Doctor declared: "I appreciated America more than ever before as a land of unlimited possibilities."

In 1946, he came to Villanova. In addition to his Geography courses, Dr. Bauer has classes in the German language at the college. This summer, he expects to conduct two guided sightseeing tours to Europe. The first will leave in mid-June; both will include Germany, Austria, Switzerland, France, Belgium and Holland.

NYU To Award Scholarships; Med. Schools Like MCAT Results

Two Tests Planned In May, November

Candidates for admission to medical school in the fall of 1954 are advised to take the Medical College Admission Test in May, it was announced today by Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the test for the Association of American Medical Colleges. These tests, required of applicants by almost every medical college throughout the country, will be given twice during the current calendar year. Candidates taking the May test, however, will be able to furnish scores to institutions in early fall, when many medical colleges begin the selection of their next entering class.

Candidates may take the MCAT on Saturday, May 9, 1953, or on Monday, November 2, 1953, at administrations to be held at more than 300 local centers in all parts of the country. The Association of American Medical Colleges recommends that candidates for admission to classes starting in the fall of 1954 take the May test.

Application forms and a Bulletin of Information, which gives details of registration and administration, as well as sample questions, are available from pre-medical advisers or directly from Educational Testing Service, Box 592, Princeton, N. J. Completed applications must reach the ETS office by April 25 and October 19, respectively.

March 1 Deadline Set For Root-Tilden Aids

New York University's School of Law has set March 1 as the 1953 deadline for applications for the 20 Root-Tilden Scholarships awarded annually at the School. Qualified college seniors from this state who apply will be interviewed shortly after the deadline date.

Culminating in a bachelor of laws degree, the program under which Root-Tilden Scholars study at NYU's Law Center includes individual tutoring in courses related to law as well as special lectures and seminars with distinguished members of the bench and bar.

Faculty Wives Club To See Madonnas At March Lecture

A lecture and exhibit of a world-wide collection of Madonnas will be featured at the next meeting of the Faculty Wives Club. Mrs. Dilworth, who is a well-known collector and lecturer on Madonnas, will present the lecture in the Naval Science Building on March 17, 1953 at 8:15 p. m.

The February meeting of the club heard a talk given by Capt. John Frazer, Medical Officer of the 4th Naval District, who spoke on the present-day facilities and operations of Hospital Ships of the U. S. Navy. The highlight of the Captain's speech was his account of his World War II experiences on hospital ships.

Student Reaction Surprising As Bowling Alleys Opened

That dark room in the Field House is finally open. Thanks to the clamor of the Student Council and the efforts of Father Curran, O.S.A., the bowling alleys are now available for student use.

Tom Trettis and Terry Cook are the proprietors of the two bowling alleys, which have been the least-used, albeit one of the most expensive facilities of the Field House. The number of bowlers has been surprisingly few however, since the alleys opened on the 16th of this month.

The alleys will be open seven nights a week from 7:30 to 10:30 P. M. The charge per game is only $.25, which is almost half the price of neighboring public alleys. It is hoped that Villanovans will take advantage of this much-sought after campus facility, and show their appreciation by supporting it.

Anyone wishing to attend the conference should notify Professor Henry Rofinot, Dept. of History.

Dwyer Breaks IC4A Mile Mark

Sets Meet Record Of 4:08.1 Gaffney, Barry Also Score

By Tom Mentzer

Refusing to fall victim to the traditional jinx of mile runs, Villanova's Fred Dwyer became the first runner in track history to capture both the National AAU and ICAAAA indoor mile crowns in the same season. The second half of the feat was accomplished last Saturday as Fred took the IC4A mile in 4:08.1, a meet record, at Madison Square Garden.

The invincible Dwyer, in the annexing of his seventh consecutive 1953 indoor mile victory ,performed a feat which had escaped such outstanding milers as Gene Venzke of Penn and Leslie MacMitchell of New York University.

His time of 4:08.1, in addition to erasing the former meet mark of 4:11.0 set in 1950 by Bill Mack of Michigan State, also constitutes the fastest clocking for that distance during the current campaign, bettering by a tenth of a second his own time of 4:08.2.

No doubt remembering last week's difficulty in the AAU championships, Fred broke fast at the starting gun, loosed himself quickly from the pack, and hit the quarter pole in 60.2 seconds, fastest of the season. Despite the absence of any at-the-heel competition, the 140 pound speedster maintained this sprinter-like pace and hit the half-mile and three-quarter posts in 2:02.9 and 3:04.8 respectively. At the tape his closest competitor, Lewis Olive, Army, previously unbeaten, was a half-lap behind.

Cited By Experts

In thus continuing his 1952-53 unbeaten skein, Fred substantiated his claim to this year's Master-of-the-Mile title and gave added courage to those track experts who are already hailing him as America's best miler since Gil Dodds.

Barry Runs 2nd

In last Saturday's two mile run, John Joe Barry's determined quest to regain the title which he had won in 1950 was thwarted by a last-minute change. With Charlie Cappazoli, the Georgetown ace, still not fully recovered from the effects of a flu attack, Joe LaPierre, a Hoya teammate, decided to switch from the mile, an event in which he has achieved some notable recognition largely through being the last conqueror of Dwyer at that distance, to the two mile event. The switch paid off for Georgetown as LaPierre covered the distance in 9:08.9. In his best running shape in a long time, John Joe pressed LaPierre until the last three laps, when the Hoya sprinted out to a comfortable lead.

Gaffney Scores

The Blue and White's third entry in the meet, Joe Gaffney slipped a bit from his pace of previous weeks. Running in his specialty, the 600 yards, Joe finished fifth behind Ollie Sax, Penn State, who set a new meet record of 1:10.4, Curotta, eton Hall, and Jones and Dixon, both from Manhattan.

Fred Dwyer, shown here winning the National Amateur Athletic Union mile run, did it again last week at Madison Square Garden as he took the IC4A mile event in a record time of 4:08.1.

Wildcats Conquer Muhlenberg, 95-88, In Field House

By Carl Valenti

Muhlenberg became Villanova's 51st straight Field House victim Saturday night as the Wildcats triumphed, 95-88 before 1100 fans. As usual, Larry Hennessey led the victors with 32 counters. The victory also kept the Mainliners' hope alive for a bid to a major post-season tournament.

The first period was marked by amazing set shooting on the part of both quintets. Bobby Schafer led the parade as he rimmed 12 markers himself. The score after just 10 minutes of play was 27-17.

Cats Play Lax

The Wildcats' play slackened off in the 2nd quarter but Muhlenberg continued a steady pace led by Larry Friedman and at the halftime the gap had been narrowed to 44-37.

The Mules continued on the comeback trail and the 'Cats continued their mediocracy until midway in the third period when the Allentown Collegians were a scant two points behind, 49-47. Then the home team came alive as Hennessey started connecting on some of the shots he had been taking and Villanova once more began to build up a substantial margin to lead, 64-56, going into the final quarter.

Friedman Leads

In the last 10 minutes it was pretty much a basket-for-basket ball game. Friedman, who led the Mules' scoring with 28, kept them in the game with his fine set shooting. Hennessey's shooting, on the other hand, was not up to snuff — by Hennessey standards, that is. Larry took 38 shots but hit on only 13.

For Villanova, Schafer was second in scoring with 24 and Sam Glassmire and Nick Maguire chipped in with 16 and 14, respectively. Jack Devine was the man who took charge of grabbing all the rebounds.

HENNESSEY AFTER RECORD

Larry Hennessey needs just 22 points tonight to break the immortal Paul Arizin's all-time record of 1596 points.

Larry has a three year total of 1575 to date. His sophomore year was his greatest as far as total scoring is concerned when he dropped in 703 counters. Last year Hennessey splashed 567 throug the nets.

Though seriously hampered by a 15-game suspension the first half of this season, Lanky Larry has overcome the drawback to average better than 30 points in ten games for a 305 total.

So those who see tonight's game against Dayton will probably see Villanova history made.

Severancemen Down Siena; Lose 2nd Time To Seton Hall

By Dick Confoy

Villanova's Wildcats took a giant stride towards a tournament last Thursday night, as they swept past Siena and its stall to a 67-48 Palestra win. The man with the built-in radar, Larry Hennessey, poured in a mere 32 this time, to barely keep pace with his own impossible nation-leading scoring pace of better than thirty a game.

After an annoying 27-25 first half, the Main Liners broke things wide open with a little weave and a lot of Larry, and took an 18 point three-quarters lead. During the final period the Cats were content with just winning the ball game and let Siena Coach, Dan Gunha, keep his miserable possession game.

TV Debut Flops

Up at Seton Hall last Monday, Al Severance had Villanova try some of the stall stuff themselves, but thought better of it after the Hall hit for a 64% first half, and was nesting cozily on a 13 point bulge. The Cats matched the Pirates nearly point-for-point (40-42) in the second half, but minus 10 with 5 minutes left was as close as they came, going down for their eighth defeat in 23 encounters.

REBOUNDS: Bobby Schafer gave away seven inches to Siena's Tom Pottenburgh (6'9"), but controlled the center tap 3 of the 4 times anyway. Siena guard Billy Kirsch, took his eye off foxy Nick Maguire for just a split second to survey the field. Chalk up one basket. . . Larry Hennessey failed to break any Palestra marks this time, but two records went down anyway. Larry made the most points (32) and the most field goals (14) ever put in against a Siena Club in their history . . . It was really a gala night for Nick Maguire. Besides guarding Siena's high-scoring captain (giving away 4 inches and 75 pounds) and out-pointing him 16-13, he also led the game's rebounders with 14.

Rogers Named Frosh Coach; Ryan New Athletic Secretary

ROGERS

Two important additions to the Athletic Department were named last week. Joe Rogers was named as a Freshman Football Coach for the 1953 season and Bill Ryan is the new Athletic Secretary to Ambrose "Bud" Dudley, Director of Athletics.

Villanova fans will remember Joe Rogers as the scrappy little halfback who wound up his colorful gridiron career for the Wildcats in 1949. For the past few years Joe has been an important part of the Athletic Department of the Waldron Academy on Montgomery Pike.

Bill Ryan is an old associate of Bud Dudley's. During the war, they were in the service together. In fact, Ryan was Publicity Director getting out press notices on Dudley while Bud was showing the military men how to play football.

These announcements further point out the new, added emphasis Villanova is placing on sports in general and football in particular. Already the Athletic Department is building for next year's football season. The next announcement will be next year's schedule which promises to be the biggest and best in the school's history.

St. Francis Game Changed; Dayton In Town Tonight

The doubleheader which pits Villanova against Saint Francis of Brooklyn and the University of Pennsylvania against Princeton University has been rescheduled and will be played at the Palestra this Thursday, February 26th. The twin-bill, which was originally planned for March 14th, was changed so that Penn will be free to participate in the NCAA tournament in the event that they win the Ivy League title. However, Penn's hopes were considerably dampened last Saturday when Dartmouth surprised everybody by dumping the Quakers out of first place with a 65-55 upset.

Cats Can Take Bid

As it turns out, the Wildcats, too, are in a more favorable position to accept a bid to a post-season tourney—The National Invitation Tournament, for instance. However, the Mainliners would also have to cancel or reschedule the Parris Island contest slated for March 11th and the Valpariso game listed for March 7th. A few more days may reveal all.

Play Dayton Tonight

Besides meeting St. Francis Thursday, the Blue and White play host to the Dayton Flyers tonight while Penn entertains Notre Dame at the Palestra. Coach Tommy Blackburn's charges come into Philly boasting of two victories over Duquesne, both coming in double overtimes.

Saturday night the Severancemen are in the Palestra again. This time Lemoyne will be the guests. Harvard will furnish the opposition for Penn in the first game which will get under way at 8:00 p. m.

Golden Age?

By Harry Anger

In the few short weeks he has been at Villanova, Bud Dudley has shown all concerned that he can do more for Wildcat athletics than any man who preceded him.

The problems that stumped his predecessors have become non-existant before the aggressive Mr. Dudley. It now seems that no longer will rivals slam doors in the face of a Villanova representative. The Notre Dame alumnus is a man of national prestige and in his association with this noble institution that prestige will no doubt rub off on every facet of Villanova life.

Many Acquaintances

His Alma Mater made her name first through athletics, and at Wildcat town Mr. Dudley is prepared to effect the same change. His pass of entry to any athletic bigwig's office is not because he represents somebody or something, but simply because he is Bud Dudley. With this requisite one can see the vast possibilities that lie before us all.

Just in the first week two appointments made by our new athletic head point the way for the new things to come. Last Monday, a former service companion of Dudley's, Bill Ryan made his entrance to Villanova.

Ryan Has Experience

Ryan a resident of Trenton, N. J. seems to be made of the same stuff as Bud, which isn't bad any time. Bill's capacity at Villanova will be as athletic assistant, a position for which he is well qualified. Young Mr. Ryan was manager and publicity director for an Air Force team on which Dudley was the star halfback.

In a brief talk with our new assistant, your reporter became convinced that Bill Ryan is an ambitious young man with plenty of ideas that are designed to boost Villanova higher than ever before. Ryan seems convinced that with proper promotion Villanova can draw 40,000 in Philadelphia.

Frosh Get Coach

Dudley's second appointee was Joe Rogers as the new freshman football coach. It seems now that finally Villanova is ready to make its move into the "Big Time" in a big time way. If this is any sign, then perhaps we have finally thrown half-way measures into the waste basket.

The question of big league sports has long been a Villanova problem. For some reason, probably much more than meets the eye, the Athletic Board hasn't been able to do as much on a big scale as it would liked to have done. This year though the Board has been in a better position because of our more recent success in all the major sports.

So far the latest and most progressive move of this controlling body has begun to pay off. Through its appointment of Dudley, athletic policies at Villanova have taken a sudden jump into a class with the best in the nation.

This is a position long desired, but until now never held by Willy Wildcat. As it looks, we may well be on verge of Villanova's first "Golden AGE" in sports. From this point only time and Bill Dudley can tell the rest of the story.

Shamrocks And Lovers Pace Intra-mural Court Leagues

By John Gillman

Last week's action in the I-M basketball league saw Good Counsel drop from the ranks of the undefeated after a 36-31 beating by the Pistons. Healy led the winners with 16 points. Good Counsel is now tied for first place in the A league with Delury. The latter paced by O'Donnell and Beggy, who scored 15 apiece, dumped Simpson,56-38.

Shamrocks Set Pace

The Shamrocks continued burning up the Barrack's league, and increased their points per game average to 81.3, rolling over Barracks 3, 84-33. Their big scorer, Dirk, also kept up his pace with 28 points. The Shamrocks are now in sole possession of first place since the previously unbeaten Night Riders dropped a 48-43 decision to Barracks 4. Sutliff had 20 for the winners and O'Connell 15 for the Riders. The Hotrods took their first win at the expense of Barracks 2, 59-44. Bergin getting 17 for the Hotrods.

Also last week Good Counsel dropped the Hotshots 34-31. In the B league The Dukes took a close one from the Old Men 38-37. Gable pushed in 23 for the Dukes to take scoring honors. The Fedigan Flyers kept their record unblemished and continued to lead the league as Ronchetti's 16 points paced them to an easy 68-32 win over the Mites.

D'Alonzo Scores

In the American league D'Alonzo got 22 and Marcus 20 when their team, the Lovers, whipped the Midgets 77-27. The Lovers now have a 3-0 record. National league action saw the Vandals top the Royals 47-45. Sproule notched 15 for the winners. Craig and Sillett threw in 29 and 22 respectively in a losing cause; the other Warriors getting only 12 among them as they lost to the Cats 66-63. Hinnigan got 21 for the Cats. Craig's 29 points tied the season's high as did Fitzgerald's 29 when he led the Cavaliers to a 59-56 triumph over the Vandals.

Your Future as a Chance Vought... engineer

R. B. DONAHUE, A. E., Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Chief of Design Section, Chance Vought Aircraft, will interview graduates of the class of '53 in the Placement Office, MARCH 9. Mr. Donahue is looking forward to the opportunity of discussing with you...

Chance Vought Aircraft, a designer and builder of military aircraft for 35 years, offers the graduating engineer and scientist an opportunity to join in the design and manufacture of fighter aircraft and guided missiles.

The design of fighter aircraft is constantly being improved as new materials and more powerful engines become available. Guided missile design is in the pioneering stage and progress up to this point, in our opinion, can be compared to the period of development of piloted aircraft prior to World War I. Imaginative thinking as well as sound engineering is an important part of these programs. The young engineer through his creative thinking can rapidly assume a position of engineering responsibility in the Chance Vought organization.

Almost every type of academic specialization can be utilized in some phase of the design, development and test of a jet fighter or guided missile. Technical assignments are available in the design and analysis of specialized electronic components, structural and hydraulic testing, structural and mechanical design, applied aerodynamics, power plant analysis and testing, stress and vibration analysis and flight testing.

If you are receiving a degree in Aeronautical Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Mathematics or Physics, Chance Vought invites you to discuss your future in these fighter aircraft and guided missile programs. Contact your Placement Director for an appointment with the Chance Vought Aircraft representative.

Campus-Wide Ticket Campaign For 'Caesar' Underway Soon

Actors, stagehands, set designers, directors, and press agents will collaborate starting next week when Belle Masque undertakes an extensive ticket Sales Campaign which aims to draw over 2000 patrons to the Field House from March 19, through 22 to attend the society's production of "Julius Caesar."

In Title Role

DAVE LEAHY

Walt Doyle, ticket chairman for Belle Masque, disclosed that 50 high schools and colleges in the area have been given special invitations to attend the Shakespearean tragedy since it will provide, according to Doyle, "top notch entertainment and exposition of a literary form".

A booth in the Pie Shop to be manned at every hour that the store is open will be headquarters for the campus ticket drive. Tickets will sell for $1.00 and $1.25 for students and adults respectively.

In the leading roles for the dramatic society's spring production are Dave Leahy as Caesar, Tom Hayden as Marc Antony, Tony Della Rocca as Brutus, and Bernie Coyne as Cassius.

In supporting roles are Joan Kuckenberg, Bob Ewing, Mimi Hefferman, Mark McCormick, Pete and Bill Quinn, Julian Smith, Basil Sullivan, Dave Damiano, and Walt Doyle.

"Julius Caesar" will be presented in the Field House from March 19 through March 22.

Frosh Nominate For S.C. Rep

Joe Roy, chairman of the Student Council Election Committee stated on February 19 that there will be slight delay in the announcement of the qualified nominees for the Freshmen Class Student Council representatives. Names of the nominees for the two seats open for the election, which will take place on the first week in March, are being held by the Administration pending approval.

There was a good turnout at the meeting of the Freshmen Class on February 16 when the candidates were nominated, about 150 members of the class were present. Other members of the Committee are Dolph Bergen and Don Miller.

Forum Postponed; Talks May Resume Next September

Mr. Charles Bruderle erected a tombstone over this year's Forum with his statement to the Villanovan last week.

In charge of the Forum since its inception, Mr. Bruderle said Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, OSA President of Villanova, informed him that "due to various circumstances, it has been deemed necessary to postpone the Forum for this academic year."

Plans are now underway for the reinstitution of the Forum in 1953-54 academic year. Mr. Bruderle has said that regardless of the state of things now, there will definitely be a Villanovan Forum in that year.

The Forum is the same organization which made it possible for students at Villanova to hear Jacques Maritain and other well-known personalities.

The loss of the Forum for the year is a serious one, in that it has proven interesting as well as educational to the student body.

Full-time Law School Starts Dr. Reuschlein Named Dean

The million-dollar Villanova College Library will play host, starting next September, to Pennsylvania's first Catholic, full-time, day law school. The Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire O.S.A., president of Villanova, hoped that approximately 250 students would eventually comprise the enrollment of the school. A formal opening of the school, to be known as The Villanova College School of Law, will be held in the spring.

Second Pre-Cana Lecture Features Marriage Judge

Villanovans will be given the opportunity to hear advice on married life from someone intimately concerned with its problems and disasters this unday when the second Pre-Cana Conference of the present series is given this Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the C&F auditorium.

This 3 o'clock time is a correction of what was announced in last week's edition.

The Rev. Thomas J. Welsh, J.C.D., judge of the matrimonial court of the arch-diocese of Philadelphia, is well versed in the problems concerning married and pre-marital life.

Rev. Robert Reagan, O.S.A., director of the conferences, opened the sessions with a talk on the "Sacramental and Vocation Aspects of Marriage" last Sunday. Before an informal audience of approximately 100, Father Regan, discussed the place of marriage in the general scheme of the vocations which are placed before man in the attainment of his ultimate goal.

Outlining the history of the Pre-Cana Conference, Father Regan told how the conferences were started back in the 1930's by a Jesuit priest as Family Retreat, and, when the need for pre-marriage guidance was also requested, the present type of lectures was introduced to complement the initial program.

Although the turnout for the first lecture was gratifying, Father Regan expressed hope that even more would be on hand to hear Father Welsh's address on next Sunday.

Sign Now For Mkt. Club Trip

Tomorrow is the deadline for signing up for next week's Marketing Club field trip,, president Pete Bailey announced today.

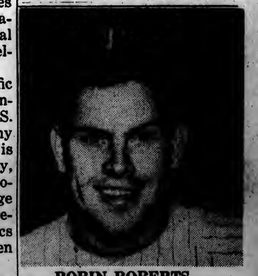
The annual field trip will be held next Tuesday and will include visits to the American Stores warehouse and the Inquirer building in Philadelphia. The usual luncheon will be served at the Hotel Warwick.

The cost per student will be $3.25 with an additional 50c charge for members needing transportation to and from the city. Interested members and guests should contact Pete Bailey, 202 Austin Hall or Alfred Airoldi, 106 Alumni Hall.

Pick Singer, Phil's Ace, Beauty King

Three of the most famous personalities in the fields of entertainment, modeling, and sports are going to select our Queen of Junior Week this year.

Perry Como, recording and TV star; Harry Conover, founder and head of the "Conover Girl" Model Agency in New York; and Robin Roberts, Philadelphia Phillies pitching ace, will be the judges.



PERRY COMO

It will be up to these distinguished gentlemen to decide which of our lovely contest entries will reign over Junior Week and be crowned by Johnny Long at the Prom on May 8th.

Mr. Como, long one of the country's top vocalists, and the star of his own TV show, is a native of Canonsburg, Pa. At the age of 15 he opened a barbershop there and began a prosperous business.

Several years later, Como, an up-and-coming barber went to Ohio for a vacation. While there, he heard Freddie Carlone's orchestra and decided to try for a job as a vocalist. He made the grade and gave up his hair cutting in Pa. Perry then married his "school-days" sweetheart and made an 18-month tour of the country. After the birth of their son Ronnie, the Comos decided that they would have to settle down.

ROBIN ROBERTS

He went back to Pennsylvania and started hunting for a good location for a barbershop.

Then the break came, Como received a call from an agent in New York who offered him a job right in New York with pay enough to afford an apartment.

That was ten years ago. Since then Perry Como has wowed them from Hollywood to New York. He now lives on Long Island where he spends most of his spare time at home with his family and on the golf course.

Conover Girl

Everyone has heard of the Famous "Conover Girl." She

Navy Commander To Inform Seniors Of OCS Program

First-hand information about the Navy's Officer Candidate School will be brought to the campus tomorrow, by Lieutenant Commander James A. Reed, USN, a representative of the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, Philadelphia, Pa.

There are no longer specific course requirements for enrollment in the Navy's OCS. Any college graduate, or any senior whose graduation is less than four months away, may now apply for this program regardless of his college major. A previous requirement of some mathematics training has recently been eliminated.

Mr. Reed will be on campus from 9:30 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. in the placement office. He will have data sheets giving details of the Officer Candidate program and will interview and answer the questions of interested seniors.

The Navy's Officer Candidate School is located at Newport, R. I. Classes convene every two months, and the majority of each class remains for four months training for duty afloat. A portion of each class, however, is assigned to special fields and commissioned after two months. This group completes its training at various Navy centers for specialized duty. These specialist commissions require specialized educational backgrounds.

Fish 'n Things

Why the Villanova "inferiority complex"? Why does the Wildcat carry his tail between his legs?

Some answers to this question are carried in another column on this page, but one of the more evident answers was given last Saturday night at the week's second "fish fry" at the Palestra.

We say the answer was given Saturday, not Thursday, because we believe that the two incidents should be considered in an entirely different light.

The events on Thursday could, without too much trouble, be excused or even condoned. For the clambake at the St. Francis game was spontaneous, it was unanimous, and it showed, at least partially, a revival of the old spirit which has lain so dormant during the past few months.

It was evidence that at least somebody cared, and, despite the fact that it was given publicity, we do not feel that the school lost any stature because of it.

The Saturday night fiasco was everything that the preceeding events weren't. It wasn't spontaneous, but planned; it wasn't unanimous, but the work of a few; and it wasn't a show of spirit, but an indication of how childish and asinine some college students can become.

It accomplished nothing more than to make Villanova and everyone from Villanova look pretty foolish.

And from the publicity given to this, we did lose stature. The second run show never measures up to opening night, and the same people who, understanding the events leading up to the reaction Thursday, smiled, looked on in disgust when the same stunt was pulled on Saturday.

Even from a practical outlook, the perpetrators should have known better, because it was asking too much to think the same thing could happen again without somebody getting his fingers burnt.

Why is there an inferiority complex here at Villanova? Why is it "fightin' words" to call somebody "Ivy League". That's one of the reasons.

Maybe, however, in future years, this, too, will pass away. Then the stigmatic question will be, "What's the matter, you Mainline"?

New Law Dean .... Dr. H. G. Reuschlein

By Bernie Coyne

When the first full-time day Catholic law school in Pennsylvania's history opens at Villanova next September, a man who is as accomplished in the fields of music, writing, and teaching, as he is in law will hold the Dean's chair. His name is Dr. Harold Gill Reuschlein.

Situated In Library

Dr. Reuschlein will head the new law school, reportedly to be situated in the south wing of the library. According to information released to the Philadelphia press by this college, Dr. Reuschlein will head a school which, it is hoped, will reach an enrollment of 250 students.

DR. REUSCHLEIN

A pleasant, vibrant man, Dr. Reuschlein, has compiled in his forty-nine years, a record of significant successes. He received his A.B. degree from Iowa University. In 1928 he went to Yale University graduate school. Mr. Reuschlein taught history at NYU from 1930-32. He received his Bachelor of Law degree from Yale in 1933. Cornell then gave him a fellowship and he received his Doctor of Laws from that university the following year.

Insurance Lawyer

For a short time he was assistant to the general counsel of the law department of Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance Co. In 1934 he went to Georgetown University, where he rose from assistant professor to professor of laws, in one year, and remained until 1946. From there he went to Notre Dame as Professor of Law for one year; thence to Syracuse University, where he held the same position and finally, in 1948, he became Professor of Law at the University of Pittsburgh; where for the last few years he has been director of the Public Health Law Project, teaching a multitude of various courses, ranging from Business Organization to Jurisprudence.

Judge Advocate Aide

During the war, Dr. Reuschlein, on a leave of absence from Georgetown, became Captain in the Judge Advocate Department. He rose to the rank of Colonel and Chief of Legislative Services. For his services in the Army he was awarded the Legion of Merit.

Law Author

Dr. Reuschlein began his writing career as Faculty advisor to the Georgetown University Law Journal. Since that time he has published articles in various law reviews and insurance journals, especially the Pittsburgh Law Review. He is the author of two books, both well received in the world of law, "Jurisprudence, Its American Prophets," and "The Schools of Corporate Reform."

Music, too, is a conquest of the versatile man. He has been a choir master and organist since 1927.

Supreme Court Barrister

Dr. Reuschlein is a member of both the New York and Wisconsin Bars, and has been admitted to practice in the U. S. Supreme Court.

From this list of achievements it is quite evident that Villanova's new law school has gained a capable man as its first dean.

In Which The Wildcat Has His Tail Between His Legs

By Dick Winfield

"You guys at Villanova are suffering from a severe inferiority complex."

The party was breaking up and my friend from another college who made the observation had just witnessed a rite peculiar to all Villanova parties. Soon after the songs and the alma maters had been sung, every Villanova man was on his feet and the belligerent chant of "To Hell, To Hell With Pennsylvania" filled the room.

My friend confirmed his diagnosis when he was told that the song was in the repertoire of every social Villanovan and was an integral part of our gatherings.

Let's examine this diagnosis.

Here, one of the highest forms of vilification is the label "Ivy League," loosely applied to men whose dress is considered hyper-collegiate. "Ivy League" on this campus is a derogatory remark connoting scorn and bitter sarcasm. It is a manifestation of something more than envy; it is a sympton of undeserved frustration and an equally unreasonable sense of insecurity and inferiority. Not only limited to comparisons with Penn, Princeton, et al, the prevailing campus attitude is voiced in: "Holy Cross has this place beat by miles," and "The Jesuits at Fordham don't teach it that way."

And Another Sign

This hangdog, beaten-cur reflex of the Wildcat is forcibly indicated in the lachry mose wails heard ecery morning when the sports pages of the "Philadelphia Inquirer" are read and examined for pro-Villanova news and commentaries. "Why don't they give us more publicity—look at Penn—you'd almost think Ernie Beck was running for governor," is the invariable cry. The same keen rises again on the chow line at dinner where the sports pages of the "Evening Bulletin" are sold, read and condemned.

There has been a factor which is at once the cause and effect of the attitude, and that is mediocrity — the complacent mediocrity which characterizes many phases of student activity on this campus. Inactivity among some alumni chapters and the lethargic state of many extra-curricular groups bears testimony to this.

Again it must be pointed out that this pervading one-horse spirit is not restricted to envy alone, but ranges from the cringing, self-conscious Milquetoast outlook to the affected "chip-on-the-shoulder." This last should not be confused with the traditional collegiate chauvinism of beating drums, waving banners, and hoarse threats of athletic mayhem.

Having discovered the symptoms and the causes, it remains to determine what means must be used to abolish this complex, to cure the patient. Two separate paths of action are available to the policy makers: "ad astra," (to the stars) and "primus inter pares" (first among equals.)

An "ad astra" policy would be an extension of the current drive toward national recognition. Supremacy in all fields is the ultimate theoretical goal, but in reaching for this height, administrators should be cautious, lest some ideals fall by the wayside. And in this striving, all in responsible positions must safeguard against the common error of allowing athletic pre-eminence, usually first arrived at and so often the measure of overall pre-eminence, to effect misplaced emphasis with a resultant drop in scholastic standards.

A "primus inter pares" policy on the other hand, would entail the placing of Villanova in a satisfactory niche in prestige and sports. The enrollment itself would undergo no drastic revision in either direction, but raising of admission standards would be evident.

These alternate courses of action are as plain as they are contradictory. But until either is followed to its completion, the Wildcat of Villanova will still have his tail between his legs.

'Hugo Myway,' Villanova's Ace Private-Eye

By George Fero

"Hugo Myway?" asks a shady character from the underworld, as he enters the ramshackle office of the world's "greatest" detective. "That all depends on where you're going," responds Hugo, removing his feet from a dusty desk, and lighting up a big Havana cigar. With these opening remarks, WVIL's most unusual radio show is off again, with fifteen minutes of delightful nonsense.

"Hugo" is the brain-child of Jack Kistner and Tom McNichol, Midshipmen in the U.S. Navy ROTC, class of '54. Jack and Tom conceived the idea for Hugo during a Pie Shoppe discussion of serious detective shows on radio and television. The boys got together and decided that people needed a change, so they came up with what they believe to be the answer: "Hugo Myway, Private Eyelash."

Wide Appeal

Writing the entire script themselves, they began airing their detective satire over the Villanova transmitter, WVIL, on alternate Thursdays at 8:30 p. m.

Hugo Myway, Private Eyelash, is a complete presentation — with commercials. But you never heard commercials like these before! They are calculated to make the audience roar with laughter, and they succeed admirably. Advertising a fictitious brand of hair tonic, KK Formula No. 1, Tom asks earnestly: "Folks, have you ever run your hand through the hair of a gorilla? Of course you haven't. But Don Zoltura has. And do you know what he found? (pause) Lice! Thousands of 'em — strong, healthy lice!" Tom then urges his listeners to go right out and buy a case of KK Formula No. 1 hair tonic — "You see, folks, the reason we're pushing KK Formula No. 1 is because the stuff just isn't moving; so buy a case now, and you'll receive absolutely free a real live gorilla, so you too may run your hand through its hair, just like Don Zoltura does!"

"Fall Guy"

Hugo Myway, played by Jack, is the story of the adventures of a private detective. But there the resemblance between Hugo and any other private eye ends. For, although Hugo is a likeable character, he is a "fall guy". He's dumb, slow to catch on, and he captures the crooks only because of the timely arrival of the police. Hugo wouldn't know evidence if he fell over it. Other people's names are hopelessly confusing to him, and he is delighted when a client offers him an invitation to an afternoon tea,

But, Father, you gotta admit it's off campus!

Bernie Coyne, Production Manager of WVIL, has done an outstanding job in supervising the show. The engineers, particularly Jack Kelly, are responsible for the fine technical cooperation, including sound effects, which makes the broadcast possible. Miss Joan Hessert, of Rosemont College, gives superior performances in the female roles, such as the sophisticated telephone operator, whose repertoire of polysyllabic words brings down the house. George Ferguson and Jack Kneafsey do an excellent portrayal of the minor roles, which in Hugo Myway, are generally the major roles.

N.F.C.C.S. Food & Clothing Collection For Needy Begins on Campus Monday

The N.F.C.C.S. will conduct a FOOD AND CLOTHING drive on the campus beginning next Monday, March 9th, and continuing for two weeks.

Non-perishable foods, (canned or dried foods) and old clothing will be collected in all the halls and sent to the New College of South India, The Home for Displaced Students in Paris, and Pius XII Catholic University in South Africa.

Large boxes will be placed in all the halls for the purpose and day-hops can leave their contributions in a box which will be placed in the Pie Shoppe.

The following students will be the Drive directors in their respective halls: Tom Abrahams, Delurey; Joe Mullin, O'Dwyer; Jack Hayes, Simpson; Don McGahan, Mendel; Russ Clarke, Austin; Bill Kohler, Good Counsel; Joe McNulty, Alumni; J. Porreca, Barracks 2; Mike Horan, Barracks 1, and Bob Irvin, Fedigan.

There will be an N.F.C.C.S. meeting this afternoon at 4:30 in room 202 C & F.

Cats Dump Dayton; Drop St. Francis In Palestra Tifs

By G. Rice Keats

Thursday night at the Palestra the fans saw what might be termed the most interesting contest played by the Wildcats this year. After a whistle - blowing contest in which no less than four Villanovans were banished due to a maximum number of personal fouls, Larry Hennessey sank the winning goal as the whistle sounded. The victims were Saint Francis of Brooklyn who protested violently that Larry's basket was not released in time.

Dayton Dumped

Earlier in the week on Tuesday, the Mainliners dumped Dayton University, 80-70. This game which was also player at the Palestra, was a nip and tuck affair all the way. However in the final minutes Villanova accumulated a ten point lead to take the encounter by that margin.

St. Flrancis on the other hand didn't provide much excitement until the final moments. The Wildcats scored early and often and didn't seem to be having much trouble until their fouls started catching up to them. Then the complexion of the game changed. Bob Schafer left midway in the third period. In the fourth Jack Devine, Sam Glassmire, and Steven Gepp made their exits.

Stokes Sparks

Slowly, deliberately St. Francis gained ground. The principal stars for the Brooklyn team's comeback were Vernon tokes, who chipped in with 32 points, Hank Daubenschmidt, the 6'8" center and Frank Dentico who kept pecking away with timely set shots.

The Wildcats, led by Larry Hennessey and Nick Maguire, were holding on desperately, but the Terriers seemed inspired. The margin grew slimmer and slimmer. George Stanko was fighting. Dave Clune proved his coolness by sinking two Crucial foul shots. Time was running out but the Terriers were gaining fast. With 45 seconds remaining, Stokes tied it all up at 79-79.

Hennessey Scores

At this point the Wildcats took possession and frove the ball hoping to free Hennessey for one final shot. Whe the clock showed but four seconds, Joe Maguire snapped the ball to Larry in the corner who leaped in the air and shot. The ball hit the rim of the basket and bounced right back toward Hennessey who grabbed it and hastily sent it once more toward the net as the final buzzer sounded, this time it split the cords cleanly as whistleman Len Toff signaled that it was good.

"LANKY LARRY" Hennessey goes up and over for another deuce as the Wildcats rolled to their twentieth win of the campaign over LeMoyne 62-57 in the Palestra last Saturday. In a game replete with every thing from fish to fumbles, the Cats led throughout the entire game and Hennessey increased his point total 22

Moundsmen Report Early; Mahon Greets 9 Lettermen

By Harry Nash

The stretch of mild weather coaxed out a scattering of baseball pitching candidates last week, as Coach Art Mahan got the first look-see at the embryo of his 1953 diamond corps.

Facing the problem of rebuilding his pitching staff and re-stabilizing his infield after the loss of first-baseman Walter Hauck, Mahan looked over about a half dozen potential starters limbering up cautiously on the field behind the Stadium.

Nine Lettermen Back

The rest of the candidates will report this week, including nine returning lettermen: Don Sommers, a pitcher who tossed a neat two-hitter last year against Penn State, the team that eventually downed the Cats in the District NCAA play-off finals; Bob Ricianni, a junior third-baseman who will attempt a fling at pitching; senior Ken Lowe, a good defensive catcher who was troubled with a sore arm most of '52; and Dick Shannon, a junior who made like a nomad in the infield last season before finally settling down at third base, while finding time to compile a .380 BA. The other V holders who will be out are Ralph Cecere, a junior shortstop better known for his football accomplishments; Harry LeFever, a long-ball hitting right - fielder; Chuck McGuckin, center-field, a spe-

Hennessey Breaks Record; Collier's Overlooks Cat's Star

By Harry Anger

While some of the things that happened after the Dayton game were extremely unpleasant, the record breaking performance of Larry Hennessey did give the faithful some little reason to be elated.

As the Cats dumped the Flyers 80-70 Hennessey threw in 25 points to surpass Paul Arizin's former record at Villanova. In an eighty game college career the tall one dropped in 1595, while Hennessey in seventy contests managed to score an even 1600 total points. Even though Larry had to make a comeback, so to speak, this season he has been better than in any previous year. In all his games Herman has sparked the Cats more than any other player with the exception of Sam Glassmire. When the big boy is in there the boys seem to have more confidence and polish than at other times.

Old Pro

If college ball clubs have an "old pro" then Mr. Hennessey is the Mainliners leading nominee for such honors. He is the type of player who never freezes up no matter how tough the competition is. Whenever in doubt the other four on the Blue and White can always give the ball to Larry and he'll get the big one for them.

In spite of all of the feats the stellar senior has performed this season he was completely overlooked by Colliers Magazine in its All-America selections. As far as that goes not one single player on the squad even was mentioned on the All District teams. The case isn't a new one, one can only look in amazement and wonder why such things happen repeatedly in this fair institution.

Cats Rap LeMoyne Last Game Against Valparaiso Sat'day

By Dick Confoy

The Wildcats had it plenty eas yat the Palestra last Saturday night even though the 62-57 final might cause the casual observer to believe LeMoyne really gave the boys a run for their money. Holding the victims to a powerful 5 points at the quarter and leading by around 12 throughout, Villanova's 20th victory was in the bag from the start.

Entire Squad Plays

Larry Hennessey's nation-leading average took a drop down to 29.3 as he managed to hoop only a paltry 22, his second lowest endeavor of the season (low—21, N. C. State). Nick Maguire, with 8 fouls and one field goal, was the only other Villanovan to hit double figures as the Judge voluntarily threw in an entire corps of reserves for the first time since the return of Hennessey. When Jim Brady substituted for Larry with four minutes left, he joined fellow sophomores Joe Donnelly, Dave Clune, Bill Sigalove, and lone senior George Stanko in the lineup. This quintet held LeMoyne even for all but the final thirty seconds when the visitors tossed in three quick field goals to cut the lead to five at the gun.

Final Saturday

Rebounds: John Devine's 17 rebounds was the club's individual high since the days of the Moon . . . Hennessey was named on the A. P.'s third team ALL-American . . . Bobby Schafer took his draft physical last week. Flunked . . . The Mainliners try for 52 straight in the field house tonight against Parris Island. Hennessey needs 39 to raise his average back to 30 per . . . Saturday night at the Palestra is the end of the line for one of Villanova's finest squads. Bowing out with the incomparable Larry Hennessey are captain Sam Glassmire and his backcourt mate Nick Maguire, the ever-popular Steve Gepp and capable subs Joe Maguire and George Stanko. Even if the Valparaiso game doesn't appeal, let's put fifty cents on the line and give a great team a great farewell. Remember — this Saturday night, the Palestra—make it a sellout.

4:11.3 Effort Annexes Cup In New York Season's Finale

By Tom Mentzer

Dwyer did it again! Before 14,000 onlookers at the Knights of Columbus indoor meet, the incredible Fred raced to his ninth consecutive 1953 indoor victory by capturing the Columbian Mile in 4:11.3 last Saturday night.

By his victory in this race, the finale of the major indoor miles for the regular 1953 campaign, the Villanova ace established himself as the undefeated 1953 Indoor Mile Champion.

This triumph was not one of Fred's easier ones. Extended from the outset by the FBI agent, Wilt and Brown University's Walt Molineux, Dwyer was forced to "kick" on the final lap to insure his first place finish by a three yard margin.

Early Jump

Breaking fast at the gun, Wilt, Molineux, and Fred soon sped far out into the fore leaving no doubt in the crowd's mind that this was to be strictly a three-man affair. There was a continued jockeying for position ,as each refused to give any lee way to the other two. For three laps this was the case, but as the gun sounded signifying the start of the final lap, the wiry Villanovan put on a burst of speed that enabled him to open up a three yard lead over his two pursuers. Approaching the Straightaway, Wilt, running for the New York A. C., launched his challenge, Dwyer, however, was equal to the occasion and maintained his small margin to the final tape.

Unbeaten Indoors

Unbeaten indoors in 1953, "Flying" Fred is now setting his sights on the rapidly approachin goutdoor season. It was last spring in the IC4A outdoor mile that he last tasted collegiate defeat, the loss coming at the hands of Georgetown's Joe LaPierre. Anxious to avenge the loss and to sustain his mastery over all comers at the dime distance, Fred will seek to further his unblemished record on the cinders.

Whitfield Stars

Sharing the Madison Square Garden spotlight with Dwyer last Saturday was iron man Mal Whitfield. Defying the experts, the graceful Whitfield attempted to capture the 600 yard title after having annexed the 880 yard run in 1:50.9, the fastest half-mile ever run in the garden. Not only did he win the 600 race and thus accomplish his mankilling feat, but he set two world records in the process.

He sped over the 600 yard distance in 1:09.5 thus lowering the old world mark of 1:10.2 set by John Borican in 1941, and while in route to this record, he hit the 500 meter mark in 1:02.9 thus breaking the old indoor mark of 1:04.9 set by Wes Wallace, Fordham in 1939.

SPORTS CHATTER

An Old Refrain . . .

By Carl Valenti

Give our regards to Broadway.
Remember us to Modison Square.
Tell all the gang on 49th Street
That we will not be there.

Tell them how we are yearning
To mingle with the big-time crowd.
Give ou regards to old Broadway
And tell them we were nearly there.

NEWS ITEM . . . Villanova athletic director Ambrose (Bud) Dudley announced yesterday that the Wildcats' basketball team "regretfully is unable to accept on offer to compete in the National Invitation Tournament."

Dudley disclosed the NIT sent Villanova a feeler Tuesday, and yesterday the Main Line school's atheltic board discussed it.

"We are very appreciative and highly honored that the NIT should consider us," Dudley continued, "but the players, coach Alex Severance, our athletic board and myself feel we're not in a position to accept this year.

"Our strenuous 31game schedule takes us right up to the tournament, and we have previous commitments through the days of the tourney that we're unable to relinquish.

"We certainly don't want anyone thinking we have a policy against post seasoo games in any sport. But, for this season, we feel it would be a bit too much for our boys."

The foregoing article appeared in the Philadelphia Inquirer for Thursday, February 26. Let us look in on a little scene that took place on Tuesday, the 24th, the night before the announcement was made. The place is the Villanova dressing room at the Palestra just before the Dayton game. "Bud" Dudley is addressing the basketball team. He tells them that they have been invited to play in the NIT regardless of the outcome of the game they are about to play. He states further that should they beat Dayton, an invitation to the NCAA tournament is expected. He adds that the choice will be left to the team. Coach Severance chimes in that he'll lead the boys to any tourney they choose. The players are overjoyed.

Out on the floor the players decide that they want to go to the NIT whether they receive a bid from the NCAA or not. To prove their ability, and inspired with the realization of their dreams, they conquer Dayton 80-70.

The next day the above release was given to the press. There seems to be an inconsistency. The sentiments of the team, the coach and the athletic director were known before the release. The sentiments of the athletic board were not. Apparently the athletic board has the final say.

The decision was an extremely unpopular one among students and players alike but, like it or not, it will remain. The decision was based on important, pertinent considerations.

We have "previous commitments". Penn, too, had previous commitments but did something about them. They changed the Princeton game even before it was decided whether they would receive a bid to a post-season tourney. At the same time, one of Villanova's previous commitments was rescheduled. The others, we are told cannot be relinquished.

Vandals Post Record Score Toads, Foshes Pace I-M Loops

By John Gillman

The National league Vandals, in two games last week, were involved in the breaking of almost every Intra-Mural basketball scoring record. They set records for total points for one team and number of field goals when they slaughtered the No Names 119-58. Both teams used only five men and one player scored less than 10 points. The scoring for the Vandals was McCabe 18, Mancuso 20, Sproule 30, Tulli 24 and Torrance 27. Albertús was high for the No Names with 15. In their second game the Vandals helped to post a new two-team total of 198 points but unfortunately for them they were on the wrong end of the scoring as the undefeated Toads trounced them 113-85. All the Toads hit double figures and their high man, Kelly, set an individual high for this season of 31 points. McCabe and Sproule each had 28 for the losers. The Toads are now averaging 83.7 points per game.

Diesels Go Down

American league action saw the Foshes top the Diesels 77-45. Becotte paced the Foshes with 18 and Zimmerman had 16 for the losers. In the same league the Rowers took a close decision over the Boro Boys 69-67. McCue and Owczykowski divided 38 equally between them while Cabrey of the losers took scoring honors with 22.

In the only game in the A league Helm's 19 were not enough for the Hotshots as they bowed to Mendel 60-47. Howson led the losers with 15. The Scattas are still undefeated in the B league by virtue of a 54-52 win over the Mites. Leary of the Scattas and Meaney of the Mites each got 14. The Rummies, paced by Chessock's 13 markers, bounced back from their one point loss to Good Counsel to wallop the Dukes 48-29.

Nightriders Win

The Shamrocks who had been running wild in the Barracks league ran into some surprise opposition and just managed to eke out a 33-30 win over Barr. 4. The tight defense thrown up by the Barracks caused the Shamrocks to drop 48 points below their pre-game average. Aldeman's 26 paced the rebounding Hotrods to a 56-32 victory over the Ballhawks. Also in the Barracks league the Nightriders topped Barr. 1 by a 46-43 count. Perma had 15 for the winners.

cialist in line-drive hitting; left-fielder Jack Peters, a promising sophomore; and Bob Maurer, a talk-it-up second baseman who managed a .306 average last year.

Must Replace Watson

Perhaps Mahan's biggest headache will be finding a pitcher to replace John Watson, last year's clutch hurler, who is still a student but lost his eligibility when he signed a pro ball contract with Albany of the Eastern League last summer for a reported $20,000. He won two and lost one for the Red Sox farm, while marking up a 3.17 ERA in only 18 ball games.

Other than the loss of Hauch and Watson, the entire team will be back—the same club that lost out in the district finals of the collegiate play-offs last season to Penn State, a team that had been dropped by the Wildcats earlier in the campaign, 12-1.

The schedule is still being made up, but in all probability Villanova will play in the vicinity of 20 games.

TWO AND THE GAME. Larry Hennessey gets set to explode at the final gun for the deuce that sent St. Francis of Brooklyn down to defeat at the hands of the Mainliners, 81-79. Although this shot hit the rim and bounced out, Larry grabbed the rebound and dropped it through for the clincher. (Photo by Steve Lyons)

J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

What does a C.V.A. Engineer... do

Using the basic principles of engineering and science he designs, develops and tests jet aircraft or guided missiles for specific military missions. His tools are his college training, the company's 35 years of experience in fighter aircraft design, the knowledge available from basic and applied research in many fields, the excellent facilities for research and testing and the cooperative efforts of his fellow engineers. Under youthful leadership he perfects his technical skill and develops his ability to direct others in the design and production of jet aircraft and guided missiles.

Engineering the jet aircraft and guided missiles of tomorrow requires the application of knowledge from many fields. Technical assignments are available in such types of work as the design and analysis of specialized electronic components, structural and hydraulic testing, structural and mechanical design, applied aerodynamics, power plant analysis and testing, stress and vibration analysis and flight testing.

If you are receiving a degree in Aeronautical Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Mathematics or Physics, we invite you to discuss your future in the aviation industry with us. Contact your Placement Director for an appointment for your interview with the Chance Vought Aircraft representative.

R. B. DONAHUE, A. E. Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Chief of Design Section, Chance Vought Aircraft, will interview graduates of the class of '53 in the Placement Office, MARCH 9. Mr. Donahue is looking forward to the opportunity of discussing with you your future as a Chance Vought Engineer.

Concert Band Starts Season With Musical College Tour

The Villanova Concert Band under the direction of Don Brown is in the midst of its yearly concert tour. The band opened its season at the St. John's Orphanage on Feb. 16. Following this concert the band gave performances at the St. Joseph's Nurses' Home and at the Sacred Heart Academy in Overbrook.

All three concerts were very sucessful and prospects for having the best concert tour in years are very promising.

Arrangements have been completed for concerts on the ninth and sixteenth of March at the Misericordia and Fitzgerald Mercy hospital respectively. After the Easter vacation, the band will undertake a tour of several of the nearby colleges. Father Joseph Burns O.S.A., the moderator of the band, is in the process of completing the plans for this part of the concert tour.

Besides a large collection of the all-time march favorites, the musical program consists of such famous works as the Desert Song by Romberg, the Orpheus Overture by Offenbach, and the Overture from The Chocolate Soldier by Straus.

has become an American tradition of beauty and charm. The man who founded this great school for American beauties and is still its head is Harry Conover.

Mr. Conover, who has an eye for modeling talent, has always stressed the fine points of personality and intelligence in the choice of his finest models. He will lend his professional talents to the Junior Week Queen Contest when the pictures are brought to him for his judgment.

Air Force Interviews

A representative from the U. S. Air Force will be at the placement office on Monday, March 9th. He will interview students interested in the two Air Force programs, the Pilot and Aircraft Observer Training and the U. S. A. F. Aviation Cadets.

Any Villanovan interested in either of these programs, may contact the placement office for further information.

Robin Roberts came to the Phillies direct from the campus of Michigan State University. He is one of the few "bonus babies" who really payed off for the Phillies. Roberts, who is a consistent 20 game winner, was a member of last year's National League All-Star Team.

In 1951 he won 28 games for the Phils. This is the most games any pitcher has won in a season since Hal Newhouser won 29 for Detroit in 1945.

Roberts is a family man and lives in Philadelphia. At the present, however, he is in spring training in Florida.

Pictures for the "Queen" contest should be submitted to the Villanovan office in the C & F building or to Ward Welsh, 220 Alumni Hall. Remember, early entries will be eligible for publication in the Villanovan.

'Julius Caesar' Tix On Sale; Cast Readies Four Day Run

When the "Julius Caesar" ticket booth began operation in the Pie Shop yesterday, a large part of its business had already been done.

According to Walt Doyle, ticket chairman for the Belle Masque Shakesperan production, "a number of schools in the area have already reserved whole blocks of tickets for the spring play."

He added "there is no fear that Villanova men and their dates will be turned away at the door. 'Caesar' will run from Thursday through Sunday evenings, March 19, through the 22nd."

Tickets for the play will be sold in the Pie Shop during its business hours up through Saturday, March 21.

In other developments on "Julius Caesar," Rev. William Krupa, O.S.A., who is directing the tragedy, disclosed last week that the "tempo of rehearsals and overall preparation is picking up."

In leading roles for the Belle Masque production are Tom Hayden as Marc Antony, Tony Della Rocca as Brutus, Bernie Coyne as Cassius, and Dave Leahy in the title role.

"The entire production, even at this stage, is shaping up nicely," said Father Krupa.

Ticket prices for students and adults have been announced at $1.00 and $1.25. Curtain time for all performances is 8 p. m.

New Elections Setup Aired At Crowded Council Session

Villanova's congress for student representation met last Monday in 215 Mendel Hall. The meeting was marked by the presence of 35 student visitors who were welcomed by the Student Council. It was the first time this year that so many visitors attended.

Council member Joe Kenney proposed that there should be two non-resident Council representatives elected from each of the three schools, thereby revising the present system of electors to the Student Council.

Representative Kenny also recommended that the election of representatives from the Education department be abolished since it does not constitute a school, but merely a part of the Arts department.

It was hoped that these proposals, if sanctioned by the Council, would stimulate the lagging non-resident interest in the organization for student government.

Plan Won't Work

The much-mauled but still tantamount question of "cutting in" on the lines of the cafeteria was once again thrown before the Council. A numbers system, similar to those used in large bakeries, was proposed. Rev. John J. Curran, O.S.A., who is in charge of the cafeteria, said that such a plan would not

Honor Fraternity Admits 9 Seniors

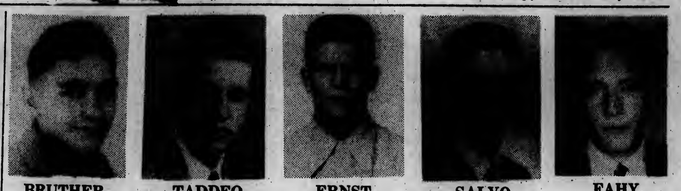
Nine seniors have been admitted to the Delta Epsilon Sigma Fraternity, the National Catholic College Honors Fraternity for Arts and Sciences. This school was just recently enrolled in the honors fraternity and this is the first group of Villanovans appointed as charter members of the society.

The nine students selected are: Frank DeMaio, Paul Hanrahan, Harry LeFever, Edgar Lucidi, Edward J. McNelis, Alec Pandeleon, Ernest Pitelli, Donald Yadusky and Ronald Yadusky. This group was chosen from sixteen eligible students. They will be formally inducted on March 30.

Selection Basis

Members are selected for this honor on the basis of: (1) effective scholarship as evidenced by academic grades; (2) indications of capacity to make learning effective by bringing the principles of Catholic philosophy to bear upon the problems of a modern free society.

Duties of Husband and Wife Topic For Cana Talk Sunday



"Marriage is permanent. So make sure that the girl you pick is one you'll want to look at over the breakfast table for the rest of your life."

The finality of a Catholic marriage, and hence the necessity of choosing the right partner, was the keynote of the second lecture of the current Pre-Cana series as given

WHAT TO LOOK FOR in a marriage partner was discussed by Rev. Thomas Welsh, J.C.D., at the second Pre-Cana lecture last Sunday. The need for reason along with emotion in this choice was stressed.

Freshmen Hold Elections For SC Representatives

Two Seats At Stake Tomorrow P. M. As Class Begins Its Active Role

The Freshman class will go to the polls tomorrow to make its first assertion of student government in the Alumni Hall gym between noon and 3 p. m.

At stake in the election are two seats in the Student Council.

The candidates as screened by the administration, are: Richard Bruther, Resident, Engineer, Morrisville, Pa.; Edward Ernst, Resident, Engineer, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Michael Fahy, Resident, Engineer, Bethlehem, Pa.; John Salvo, Resident, Engineer, Hammonton, N. J.; Phillip Taddeo, Dayhop, Arts, St. David's, Pa.

To insure the integrity of the election, Joe Roy, Senior, Chairman of the Student Council Committee on Elections, declared that all freshmen will be required to present their own matriculation cards for inspection before they are allowed to cast their ballots.

All candidates were invited to submit personal information to the Villanovan for publication, and these statements were received.

Salvo

Barry Ballister, one of the campaign managers, gave this release to the Villanovan: "John Salvo was president of his senior class, editor of his yearbook, and delegate to the New Jersey Boy's State. He was a member of the varsity baseball team, and captained his basetball team."

Taddeo

Jim Lombardi, another manager submitted this release: "Phi Taddeo, a likeable day-hop garnered necessary experience while serving as president of his high schcol's student council as a senior." Taddeo and Salvo are running on the same ticket, according to reports.

Bruther

A spokesman for Dick Bruther reported that he is "a graduate of Trenton Catholic Boy's High, a consistent honor student, received high honors for Latin for four years,

Winfield Promoted As Sheehan Resigns

Dick Winfield, News Editor of the Leading Campus Weekly, has taken on the added chore of Managing Editor with the resignation of Ted Sheehan, from that post.

Pressing outside activities such as Chairman of Mother's Day, Student Council representative and other Junior Class activities was the reason advanced by Sheehan, who was last year's Sports Editor.

Air Force Needs Weather Officers; Interviews Thurs.

All seniors who are scheduled to graduate in June, 1953, and who are interested in serving as commissioned weather officers on active duty with the United States Air Force should contact Mr. George Harris in his office on Thursday, March 12th. The Air Weather Service representative will be here on that date.

Qualifications Wanted

Interested seniors must possess these specific requirements: 1) Their mathematics instruction must include a course in integral calculus. 2) They must have successfully completed at least one year of College Physics. 3) They must have maintained at least a "C" average in Physics and Mathematics.

4) They must be less than 27 years of age as of September, 1953. 5) Conscientious objectors may not apply. 6) No applicant may be separated from any armed force under conditions other than honorable. 7) Applicants must be medically qualified for service as an officer. 8) At the time of their application, all seniors who have been ordered Eligible seniors are urged to take advantage of this opportunity.

"Ides of March" Will Go Unheeded By Belle Masque

(Picture on Page 7)

Scholars the world over will mark next Sunday as the 2009th anniversary of the assassination of Julius Caesar, but it appears doubtful that many of Villanova's Belle Masquers will find much time to honor the memory of the man whose death they will portray the following week.

The ides of March, the historical date in 44 B. C. on which Caesar was slain by eight conspiring senators, falls on this coming Sunday.

Last Minute Work

But on Sunday, March 15, the dramatic society's eleventh-hour preparations for Shapespeare's "Julius Caesar," their spring production, will afford little time for commemorative exercises.

"Julius Caesar" opens in the Field House on Thursday, March 19 and will continue nightly through Sunday, March 22. Curtain time for all performances will be 8 P. M.

Under the direction of Rev. William Krupa, O.S.A., the finishing touches are being applied to make "Caesar," one of the greatest of Shakespeare's ten tragedies, a dramatic triumph on the Villanova stage.

Leads Named

In the figure of Brutus is Senior Tony Della Rocca; Sophomore Bernie Coyne holds down another leading role as Cassius; and Tom Hayden, president of Belle Masque and a Senior will portray Mark Anthony. The title role

The Finale

When "Tall Paul" Arizin and Co. left the Palestra floor three years ago after taking the measure of mighty Duquesne we told ourselves that there would never be another team here that would equal the feats of the great quintet.

It only took eight months for Hennessey, Mooney, Glassmire, Maguire, Gepp, and McGuire, Inc. to prove to us that our assumption was a bit rash.

For in the three years that this combine carried the basketball fortunes of Villanova into the far corners of the States, Wildcat followers have been treated to some of the finest basketball ever produced under the blue and white colors.

On Saturday this great era come to a close after a season in which they boasted a record of twenty-two wins, nine losses, and one disappointment.

Having been at full strength for only five of the thirty-one games, this is a record of which they can well be proud. And that this is not merely local pride was proven by the invitation to the tournament of the giants, the N. I. T.

But again, the Prophet was without honor in his own country and the Wildcat stayed in his own lair without getting a chance to really prove himself against the titans of the hardwood.

But for the three seasons of play which saw many of the mightiest powers crumble before the Mainline five, this year's edition will go down in the books as the greatest.

To the men who made that team great we express our sincerest congratulations and thanks for giving us the kind of basketball that we wanted to see.

Snow or Not

The sudden blizzard of last Saturday put a slight crimp what we intended for this editorial, but nevertheless we'll go through with it anyway.

We're referring, of course, to the food and clothing drive which the N.F.C.C.S. is sponsoring at the present time.

In the years since the late war the need for these two items in the impoverished countries of Europe and Asia has not slackened but the collections have.

This is a collection which will cause no pain to anyone. Unlike the parish collections at home, the contributions will not have to be take to the church. Boxes will be placed in every hall and the Pie Shop for convenience.

Even with the referred-to snow which snuck in on us over the weekend, it won't be too long until the campus green is bedecked with the traditional mud of early spring, so let's do our housecleaning a little earlier this year and throw those unwanted garments in the direction of the nearest collection depot.

The Villanova Grad: Ten Years Hence

By Jim Glavin

With the horrors of winter long since past (we hope), and the sun remaining with us longer each day, and with two pages already torn from the 1953 calendar, it seems only normal that a senior's thoughts might cavort wildly to the day about three months hence when he will receive his degree, and to the days that are destined to follow.

GLAVIN

What do those days hold in store for the Villanova graduate?

About a year ago a compact, fact-packed volume of statistics and relevant interpretations was published, entitled "They Went To College." Based on a survey of U. S. College Graduates made by Time magazine, and analyzed by the Columbia University Bureau of Applied Social Research, the book is a compilation of facts, figures, and tables indicating, with whatever accuracy might be possible, the state of the college grad after he has left the campus.

Ten Years Hence

We decided to take a quick rundown of the exhibits, probables, and their like that are pertinent to an average "Bill Villanova," let's say ten years hence.

According to the volume, a graduate, in Villanova's assigned category, if he be a median graduate, will be earning in the neighborhood of $4,235 a year.

Lawyers, Doctors Lead

The chosen field of endeavor will manifest a vast difference in this respect, though. If our graduate turns out as a lawyer, doctor, or dentist, and is still a median case, he will be earning in excess of $7,500 per annum, and will be the most successful of our graduates, monetarily speaking. If he steps into engineering, his average income will range from $8,000 to $7,500. Those heading into business, teaching, or government work can look forward to a yearly stipend that covers a $3,000-$5,000 range.

Profitable Study

On the monetary side, still, our graduate will find it was very profitable to go to college. The average college graduate, in his thirties, makes a little over $4,000 a year, as compared to a non-grad's annual income of about $2,500 for the same age category. Also on the good side of the ledger, the grad's annual income is constantly on the rise, while his non-grad counterpart reaches leveling-off and declining stages.

According to the figure-filberts who compiled the book, you've a better chance of earning more if your family paid your way through college. 32% of those who had their fare paid go on to earn over $7,500, while the work-thru-college category has only 23% in this financial classification.

Marriage

Turning to the vastly, remotely different category (or is it?) of Marriage, the college grad will find his education was well worthwhile. Only 13% of the college graduates remain bachelors through their thirties, a figure below the national average. And, only 1 in every 100 of those who get a sheepskin will ever get a divorce. Considering divorce, separation, etc., 91% of your college grads stay married, while only 78% of the non-campusites can make a similar claim. Of all college-bred men, 79% will wind up as fathers.

Democrat or Independent

In the field of Politics, as a Catholic graduate you will most likely wind up either as a Democrat or as an Independent, a status far different from your non-Catholic college

Jr. Week Queen Search Continues

By Ward Welsh

Tickets for the Prom and Dinner-Dance, engraved personal gifts, flowers, free hotel accommodations for "out-of-towners", and a "Royal" Junior Week . . . all these things are in store for Queen of Junior Week and her Lady-in-Wating . . . not to mention the other beautiful prizes for the four members of the "Queen's" court.

These girls and their escorts will be honored at the Junior Prom, May 8th, when the Queen will be crowned by Johnny Long.

Current Entries

Among this week's entries for the coveted title is popular Rosemontite, Maureen Shedleski. Dubbed "Mary" by her closer friends, the blonde, blue-eyed junior is majoring in English. Junior Class Veep, Dick Brady, will escort Maureen whose home is Kingston, Pa.

PEGGY DE ANGELO

MAUREEN SHEDLESKI

. . . but engineer Dwight Zink has a new angle. He's all for strawberry blondes and just to show that he knows what he's talking about, Dwight presents lovely Peggy De Angelo. Twenty-year-old Peggy graduated from Gwynned Jr. College and is now working as a secretary for a psychiatrist. She hails from Jenkintown.

The deadline for the Queen contest is the 21st of next month. Juniors, however, are urged to submit their entries early to assure publication in the paper. Only about 15 more pics will be eligible for publication and earliest entries will be considered first. Why not have YOUR date's picture in this column next week.

Pictures should be brought to the Villanovan office in the basement of the C&F building or to Room 220 Alumni Hall. Each picture should be accompanied by the information: (Arts, C&F).

Remember, Juniors, you can't enter next year! This is your one and only chance to make her "Queen". Enter today!

Pandaleon Says:

Foreign Policy Institute Proceedings Disappointing To Those Attending

The proceedings of the Foreign Policy Institute held at the University of Pennsylvania last week were generally disappointing to those who attended. For the most part, the blame may be laid on the speakers themselves. Without exception, they seemed unable even to point to a solution to the problem of trade or aid.

PANDALEON

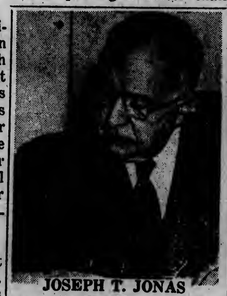
The three gentlemen apparently had an adequate understanding of the causes and effects of the world's economic ills, but that was as far as they were able to go. Dr. Goldenweiser could suggest nothing better than continued trade coupled with sound investment as a cure.

Schuman Plan

Perhaps one of the more significant comments of the day came from the British representative, Mr. Mowat, when he was questioned concerning England's refusal to join the Schuman Plan. He defended his country's position on the grounds that; 1) such an action would disrupt the economic unity of the Commonwealth and 2) the primary purpose of the plan was not to reduce tariff barriers but to impose a check on German renascence.

Whatever the merits of his explanation, it serves chiefly to emphasize once again the tremendous difficulties facing not merely Britain, but the entire commercial world. Conditions have changed so rapidly within the past fifteen years that whatever economic stabilty may have been in sight is totally upset today.

More Than Dollar Gap



The question facing us is not merely one of the dollar gap, the Soviet bloc, or the Reciprocal Trade Agreements, although these are all important aspects of the same general dilemma. Through the advances of science and communications, the world is no longer capable of division into spheres of influence and self-sufficient areas. More than ever before, we are conscious of the concept of one world. And until statesmen realize this, both economically and otherwise, there can be little hope for a solution to the vast problems disrupting society.

'Beta Gamma,' Debating Society Now Completing A Full Season

By Jack Kistner

One of the most interesting of the intellectual student activities here at Villanova is probably one of the least popular! namely, Beta Gamma Debating Society. To some students it probably comes as quite a surprise to learn that Villanova is represented throughout the country in the form of a thoughtful vocal discourse. Perhaps it is time that the students get behind the Beta Gamma Society who are sporting a better than .500 average this year.

Beta Gamma Debating Society was officially organized in 1928. This year is the 25th anniversary of the Club and it is stronger now than it was in those earlier years. This interest could be accounted for by the enthusiasm of the club's moderator, Professor Jonas. Mr. Jonas is well known on the campus as our popular Public Speaking teacher.

JOSEPH T. JONAS

Thirty-five Debates

Together with the student officers of Beta Gamma, Mr. Jonas has scheduled debates with at least thirty-five colleges throughout the country. This is the most active season prior to World War II. After the war, the art of debating hit an all-time low on the campus.

The students, as we all know, are the machinery that makes or breaks a school activity. Beta Gamma is very proud of the fine leadership shown by such officers as Frank Cunning, who was chosen as its President, and Lou Lamanna, Vice President.

The correspondence Secretary's job is filled by George Minser. Recording Secretary is Frank Saul, while Joe Roddy acts as Treasurer. The fellows have built a sound organization.

Other well known debaters are Dick Hayes, Bob Tomonto, Bob Gerstung, and Frank D'Alia.

Itinerary

The team's intinerary consists of such schools as Catholic Univ., Fordham, Columbia, Manhattan, La Salle, Rutgers, Seton Hall, St. Joseph's, and many more. The national topic that the team is discussing this year is entitled "Resolved That The Congress of The United States Should Adopt A Compusory Fair Employment Practices Act". Presently, these debates are held in the Villanova Library.

Inter. Relations

The International Relations Club will hold a reorganization meeting tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in room 215 Mendel. Adoption of a program and nomination of officers will take place. All interested upperclassmen are invited.

'Ides Of March'

will be filled by another senior, Dave Leahy.

A supporting cast of 28, including seven actresses from Rosemont College, are listed in the playbill. Authentic Roman costumes will be supplied by Van Horn & Son, Philadelphia.

In Three Acts

The classic will appear in three acts, and will involve six changes of the set. Maury Murphy and Bill Cunningham, co-stage managers, are handling the complex staging and lighting problems of the production, one of Belle Masque's largest and most expensive.

Tickets for "Julius Caesar" may be purchased in the Pie Shop until close of business on Saturday, March 21. The box office in the Field House will also be open on the nights of the performance for the sale of tickets.

Grads, 10 Years

brethren. The average college grad in the country winds up a Republican; but not so with the Catholic alumni — only 22% of them ever support the elephant.

Still speaking politically, in addition to being a Democrat or an Independent, you will have strong faith in the free enterprise system, supposedly, a few years hence. And, you will be a very strong supporter of the United Nations and similar enterprises. As a Catholic graduate, your foreign policy outlook will be slightly different from the average grad. You will be neither an isolationist nor an internationalist; you will be just a "Mr. In-between."

Church-Minded

Ten years from now 79%, quasi, of Villanova's grads this June will be attending church regularly. The Catholic graduate may well be proud of the record in this respect. Whereas the Catholic graduates are 79% perfect in regular attendance, only 46% of the Protestant graduates are regular church-goers, and the Jewish grades have a 12% record.

Your Story?

According to the figures, facts, graphs, and tables that's the story. A good income, a happy marriage, children, a Democrat or an Independent, and a regular attendant at church—that's supposedly the story a few years hence.

Will it be your story?

'54 Rings Arrive; Remaining Blazers To Be Sent C.O.D.

Rings, blazers and the Junior Prom band held the spotlight in Junior class news this week. With the big Junior Week activities only a scant two months away, plans are rapidly picking up.

Approximately 65 blazers were delivered to the Juniors on Friday, February 27, with another 30 remaining to be delivered. They will be sent C. O. D. to the men who ordered them and were unable to pick them up. For the resident students, they will be sent to the Villanova Post Office and those coming to the day students will be sent directly to their homes. They should arrive sometime this week.

Oval Seal

The new blazer features the round school seal woven into the pocket. It is slightly smaller than the seal used last year and is woven with a silver-tinted thread. This conforms to the wishes of the class and the Juniors seems to be well pleased with them.

On behalf of the class, President Art Quinn wished to express thanks to Mr. Robert Kirsch of the Robert Rollins Company which made the blazers this year. "He was thoroughly courteous and cooperative and it was a pleasure to do business with him", said Quinn.

Last of Rings

The final shipment of rings will be delivered today. Mr. Mell will receive complaints some day this week. The day will be publicized on the bulletin boards around campus.

Final negotiations have been completed with Johnny Long as Junior Prom band. Again on behalf of the class, Quinn wished to express his thanks to Mr. Howard Sinnott of the General Artists Corporation. Quinn declared, "It was through him that the class was able to secure such a fine band. We are deeply grateful for his persistent efforts on our behalf."

"Rendezvous of the College Set"

It's the size of the FIGHT in the man!

That's right! In the U. S. Air Force, it's not the size of the man in the fight—it's the size of the FIGHT IN THE MAN! And Aviation Cadets must have plenty of it. For Cadet training is rugged. If you're good enough . . . tough enough . . . smart enough . . . if you can take it while you're learning to dish it out, you can have one of the most fascinating careers in the world. You'll be equipped to fly the latest, hottest planes. You'll be prepared to take your position as an executive, both in military and commercial aviation as well as in industry. And while you're helping yourself you'll be helping your country.

WIN YOUR WINGS! It takes little over a year to win your wings as a Pilot or Aircraft Observer (Navigator, Bombardier, Radar Operator or Aircraft Performance Engineer). But at the end of your training you graduate as a 2nd Lieutenant in the Air Force, with pay of $5,300.00 a year.

ARE YOU ELIGIBLE? To qualify as an Aviation Cadet, you must have completed at least two years of college. This is a minimum requirement—it's best if you stay in school and graduate. In addition, you must be between 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition.

New Aviation Cadet Training Classes Begin Every Few Weeks!

HERE'S WHAT TO DO:

1. Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
2. If application is accepted, the Air Force will give you a physical examination.
3. Next, you take a written and manual aptitude test.
4. If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet training class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

WHERE TO GET MORE DETAILS:

Cats Lose, Finish Season 22-9

Field House Skein Stretched To 54; Rider, Marines Bow

Larry Hennessey and his senior court - mates made their final Field House performances impressive ones last week—with able assistance from a couple of sophomores—and vanquished Parris Island's Marines and Rider College of New Jersey in a pair of fast-moving, high-scoring contests. The wins were Villanova's 53rd and 54th straight at the Field House.

The 'Cats dropped the visiting Leathernecks Tuesday night, 83-78, taking an early lead and then slacking off slightly toward the end, and whipped the Rider aggregation the following evening, 96-75.

The End Of A Sports Era

By Dick Confoy

A fabulous era in Villanova basketball history came to a close last Saturday night in the Palestra, for the freshman team which assembled almost 4 years ago and remained intact as practically the entire varsity squad for 3 seasons was one of the greatest teams in the annals of the Mainline.

What might be termed the "Hennessey Era" began on the night of December 3, 1949, when a green Villanova freshman team took on the frosh of Arnold College in the field house. It was a greatly inexperienced squad that took the floor that night, for although Larry Hennessey, Sam Glassmire, and Steve Gepp were all proven players, starters Jim Mooney and Nick Maguire had but a half year of high school between them. The Wildcats annihilated Arnold 85-30 and, with Nick Maguire leading the scoring race, they swept a 16 game schedule to become the first and only undefeated freshman team in Villanova history.

Sophomore's Start

But the 1949-50 campaign was Tall Paul's senior year and no-one was watching the progress of the freshman squad too closely, so when the 1950 season opened the experts just crossed Villanova off the list. With nary a senior on the team, Al Severance's starting five included 4 sophomores and one lone junior (Tom Brennan).

The Cats opened up with a 77-59 win over Iona and no one noticed, but when a dark-haired soph from New Rochelle, N. Y., started bombing from outside and the team raced through Loyola, Louisville, N. C. State, Duquesne, and Seton Hall, people finally caught on—Villanova had another powerhouse. Larry Hennessey had the most points ever scored by a sophomore in history that season, and the Mainliners had a 25-5 record and invitations to three post-season tournaments.

19-8 As Juniors

The 1951-52 season had its violent ups and downs, with the Cats going from wiping out the only unbeaten team left in the nation (Duquesne) to being dumped by mediocre U. Conn. to lose a National Invitational bid. Although the juniors racked up wins over N. C. State, Louisville, and St. Bonnies, and Larry Hennessey made Colliers second team All American, this year (19-8 record) has to be counted the dark one of the era.

Then came the blow that really hurt. With Hennessey and Villanova on the threshhold of their finest year, the ECAC declared Larry ineligible for the first semester for playing in a charity affair for his home-town parish.

The team took things in stride though (as well as anyone could take throwing 30 points a game down the sewer) and held on well until the return of the Big Gun. Then the ECAC declared captain Jim Mooney ineligible. Nevertheless the Cats rolled to a 22-9 season, bowling over Fordham, N. C. State, St. Bonnies (twice) and Dayton. There could have been a Cinderella finish to the story too, but Fate robbed the Wildcats of their big chance. For the NCAA turned its back on Villanova, and Villanova turned its back on the Garden. The curtain just fell to soon on a great basketball club.

Valparaiso Dumps Blue and White at Palestra, 64-62

By Tom Mentzer

An aggressive Valparaiso five rallied to overcome a third quarter 15 point deficit and then went on to eke out a 64-62, dying-seconds win over the Wildcats in the second game of the regular season's final double seader at the Palestra last Saturday night. A crowd of 5702 watched as Valparaiso, sparked by Don Bielke, a 6-8 giant who totaled 38 points, rose from a 51-36 disadvantage to a 54-54 deadlock with 7:26 remaining in the final quarter.

Here Nick Maguire a fighting demon all night who had personally answered each previous Valparaiso challenge, drove in for two goals. These

EAST-WEST TICKETS

Business Manager Bob Whelan announced today that tickets will be available in the near future for the East-West game to be held in Madison Square Garden on Saturday evening, March 28. The tickets will be sold at a special half-price student rate. On that night Larry Hennessey will represent Villanova on the East squad.

Trio Of All-Americans

Good Counsel Rolls On to Lead IM Basketball Loop

Good Counsel continued to hold their first place position in the A league following a 47-31 win over the Zips. Mayok led the way with 15 markers. Paced by Raab's 18 the Hotshots bounced back to dump the Elbow Benders 58-40. There was only one game in the B league last week and only one point separated the two teams at the end of it. The Fedigan Flyers taking the nod over Good Counsel 34-33.

The loss was the first of the season for Good Counsel and Fedigan continues unbeaten. In the Barracks league the Shamrocks are still in the lead. In their last outing behind 16 point performances by both Prestwick and Dirk they breezed past the Nightriders 60-40.

In the same league Barracks 3 dropped two games last week. The first one a 45-30 affair with Barracks 2 coming out on top. Foley, of the winners, and Keane, of the losers, each had 14. In the second game, despite Daracoski's 25 points they went down before the Ballhawks 67-53. Carter had 22 for the victors.

The undefeated Toads continue to roll along at their high scoring clip in the National league. Kirschner with 23 and Usher with 22 led them to an easy 85-39 win over the Nothings. Tomlin was high for the losers, netting 15. In the same league the once beaten Conshy Cats kept a tight grip on second place by dumping the Cavaliers 51-39 behind Derham's 16 markers.

The Lovers, kingpins in the American league, made their record 5-0 last week at the expense of the Diesels. Paced by D'Alonzo, with 26 points, they swept past them 55-37. The Foshes, steadily climbing since an early season loss, made it one more with a 60-54 decision over the Boro Boys. Brown of the losers was high man with 23.

VILLANOVA'S ALL-OPPONENT TEAM

Rider, Marines

The seniors displaying their wares for the last time on the Main Line floor—George Stanko, Steve Gepp, Hennessey, Nick and Joe Maguire and Sam Glassmire — all turned in efforts ranging from spectacular to creditable in both games.

The fellow who has shattered all previous Villanova scoring marks, Hennessey, supplied the spectacular element by bucketing 79 points in the two games to boost his nation-leading average to a remarkable 30 per game.

The starting sophomores, Bob Schafer and Jake Devine played a large part in both wins. Devine, in spite of his reluctance to shoot, hit nicely on tap-ins and left-hand hooks; Schafer hit 17 against P. I., and played perhaps the best all-around game versus Rider. He was effective on defensive rebounds, and hit over 50% on his shots. Ditto for Steve Gepp, who started off the second half against Rider and was successful in three out of six tap-in attempts.

Sportsman Award Won by Glassmire; Follows Mooney

The Mainliner's hard-driving captain, Sam Glassmire, has been named the winner of Pennsylvania's Class of 1948 third annual Sportsmanship Award along with Penn's Ernie Beck. Glassmire was selected by a note of the Penn basketball squad, while Villanova's team named Beck. Previous winners of the award were ex-Wildcat Warrior ace Jim Mooney and the aforementioned Ernie Beck.

Glassmire, the pint-sized leader who has led the Wildcats in assists for three consecutive seasons, was also selected recently on the U.P.'s "Small America" five.

Sports Dept. Head Valenti Resigns; Served Two Years

Senior Carl Valenti, co-sports Editor of the Villanovan, resigned his post on the staff last week. The resignation was accepted by the paper's moderator, Rev. J. A. Klekotka.

Valenti was in his second year with the Villanovan. He served on the sports staff last year, and covered numerous basketball and football games, in addition to writing his occasional column.

Valenti, a resident of New Brunswick, New Jersey, attended St. Peter's Prep in Jersey City before entering Villanova. He is pursuing a C&F pre-law course.

He resigned in order to devote more time to his studies, since he plans to enter law school next year.

Hennessey, Dwyer, Filipski Put Cats On Top In Sports

By Harry Anger & Dick Confoy

Last Saturday night Villanova's Larry Hennessey finished the season with an average of 29.2 points per game, thus becoming holder of the second highest scoring average ever attained in major college play. In doing this Larry joined two other Villanova undergraduates, Fred Dwyer, the Mile King, and Gene Filipski, the brilliant halfback, in forming one of the greatest trios of All-Americans in collegiate history. In his 2½ year collegiate career, Hennessey broke the Villanova scoring record which had been set by Paul Arizin when Larry was a freshman. As a sophomore, Hennessey poured in 703 points, a record which still stands as the greatest number of points scored by a second year ballplayer.

In 1951 Hennessey set a Sugar Bowl mark of 67 points in/two games, with 31 coming against St. Louis University. After the game, Billiken coach Ed Hickey called Hennessey "the greatest outside shot I have seen in my coaching career."

In averaging over 29 points in his senior year, Larry also smashed the Palestra single game point and field goal marks set by Arizin and Penn's Ernie Beck.

Dwyer Unbeaten

When it comes time to pick Track's Man of the Year, Fred Dwyer, the undefeated leader of the mile, should give the Villanova Wildcats excellent representation.

On his performances this winter, Dwyer has definitely established himself as the best college miler of the last decade. When Fred won the AAU and IC4A miles in one year, he accomplished a feat which eluded Les MacMitchell and other racing greats of the past.

Dwyer's winning time of 4:08.1 in the IC4A meet was the fourth fastest indoor mile ever run and, as Fred is only 21, it would seem almost a certainty that he will break Gil Dodd's world indoor mark of 4:05.3.

Pro Draft Choice

Already a draft choice of the Cleveland Browns while only a junior, Gene Filipski completes the trio of Villanova's All-Americans.

Filipski gained almost 900 yards in his nine games last year, averaging 6.4 yards per carry to lead Villanova to a 7-1-1 record. Gene finally received the recognition to which he is entitled when he was named to Grantland Rice's Look All-America squad. Villanova today is probably the only college which can claim three athletes of this caliber in these three major sports. No doubt this is the start of the Wildcats drive toward national sports recognition.

together with a long set by Schafer gave the Blue and White a 60-55 lead. But Bielke then spun around for two baskets. Fouls, two by Plinke and one by the same Bielke, moved Valparaiso in front for the first time since the initial quarter. Nick promptly restored the lead with another of his twisting specialties.

A foul by Bielke tied it at 62, and then following a three minute Valparaiso freeze, Bielke got the ball in the slot and pivoted for his fourteenth twin-pointer of the night. Only 12 seconds remained and following a time out, the Wildcat strategy called for Larry to attempt a three-quarter

Vocation Months

Call To Priesthood From God Is Not Of Our Own Choosing

(Editor's Note—March has been named as Vocation Month by Holy Mother Church. In keeping with the spirit of this idea, the Villanovan will run a series of three articles on vocations to the priesthood during this time.

These articles, of which this is the first, were written by members of the Augustinian Vocation Seminar in Washington).

A vocation to the priesthood is a free gift from God. No one can ever say that he has earned it or that it was due to him. Considering many of the persons who have gone away to study for the priesthood, many times one is led to exclaim, "He's got his nerve! of all the people in the world he is the last one I'd consider to have a vocation!" Well, that is just the core of the whole mystery: he did not do the choosing. "You have not chosen Me, but I have chosen you", says Christ.

The night of the Last Supper, the night before he died, Christ celebrated the first Mass. He instituted the Sacrament of Holy Orders when He told the Apostles, His first priests, "Do this in commemoration of Me." Since then He has repeated this command to those chosen souls who have heeded the Divine work.

It was also suggested that the rear door to the cafeteria be closed in order to stop "cutting in" near the trays. Father Curran once again stated the impracticality of the idea.

The student visitors, stirred by refused NIT bids and flying fish, were most concerned with the small amount of interest displayed by the administration in the Council.

NROTC Riflemen Win Three More; 2nd In Area Meet

During the past three weeks, the Villanova NROTC Rifle Team has outfired three more teams to bring their season record to 5 wins against 1 loss. In addition, the team, under their coach, M/Sgt. J. E. Waryha, USMC, placed tenth in the Hearst Trophy Match out of a field of 78 teams and qualified for the National NROTC Rifle Championship matches by placing second in the area elimination matches.

In the shoulder-to-shoulder matches, the Navy nimrods triumphed over the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science 1344-1192, Temple U. ROTC 1359-1226, and a return match with Valley Forge Military Academy 1338-1296.

Mid'n J. H. Gilligan was consistently high man with an average point score of 282 for the three matches.

M/Sgt. Waryha also announced that pistols have been obtained and the unit pistol team is presently practicing subsequent to participation in the Secretary of the Navy Pistol Championship in the near future.

by Rev. Thomas Welsh, J.C.D., of the marriage court of the archdiocese of Philadelphia last Sunday in the C&F auditorium.

The next lecture, "The Mutual Duties of Husband and Wife," will be heard this Sunday at 3 o'clock at the same place. The speaker on this topic will be Rev. Gilbert J. McDevitt, also of the marriage court.

Drawing on his vast experience gained through work on the court Father Welsh portrayed in vivid style just what one should be on the lookout for in selecting a mate.

"If this talks is a success," he said, "some of you couples should change your minds this afternoon."

Keeping the hour long lecture informal with varied humorous comments, Father Welsh also spoke on the Church's stand on mixed marriages and also their inadvisability from a strictly practical standpoint.

Call To Priesthood

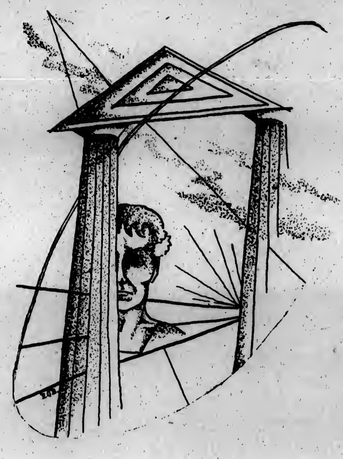
Invitation, "Come, follow me."



This invitation of Christ is not restricted by position, by wealth, or by education. It has been given to souls for the last nineteen centuries and will continue to be given as long as the world lasts. But because man has free will, because he has a mind of his own, Christ does no more than plant in the heart the seed of a vocation. The acceptance of the invitation, the cooperation with the grace depends

Anyone who feels he would like to be a priest owes it to Christ above all and then to himself carefully and prayerfully to investigate this desire, to find out more about on the individual. In this light alone may it be said that a person decides to become a priest.

The invitation of Christ to become a priest is no small matter, for as it is freely given, so it may be freely taken away. No one would be so foolhardy as to launch into a career as a doctor or a lawyer without inquiring as to his fitness for the career.

the life of a priest, his duties, the years of preparation, and the purpose of such a wonderful vocation. In this way one may measure his idea with the reality and discover if this call, this leaning toward the priestly life is really and truly a call from God.

Possibly you feel attracted to the priestly life, happily in your love of God and your desire to serve Him perhaps you wish for that closer union with Christ who told his first priests, "I will now call you friends." If so, do something about it; do it today. Do it now.

No Parental Authority Is Shown As Chief Rift Cause

Doctor Gaffney And Wife To Speak At Final Conference On Sunday

"A major cause of present day marital breakdowns is a lack of parental authority on the part of parents, who don't realize their obligations".

REV. G. J. McDEVITT

The mutual duties of husband and wife was the subject of the third of a series of Pre-Cana Conferences, conducted by Rev. Gilbert J. McDevitt, J.C.D. The importance of the husband in family authority was stressed as an underlying factor in family security.

A marriage followed by the departure of the head of the family to war was advised against by Fr. McDevitt, who said it would not be morally wrong, but would be psychologically unsound.

An interesting question and answer period followed the discussion. The problems of impotency, sterility, and the effect of operations on either partner, were discussed in connection with the validity of the marriage. The morality of rhythm was debated, with the conclusion that it may only be used with the permission of one's confessor.

Due to the illness of Dr. MacNeill, who was scheduled to conduct the fourth lecture, that lecture will be handled by Dr. Leo B. Gaffney, a Villanova alumnus of the late 1920's. He will be assisted by Mrs. Gaffney, who is also an M.D. After the lecture, separate question and answer periods will be handled by Dr. and Mrs. Gaffney for the men and women guests respectively.

Bloodmobile Here In April; Good Results Are Expected

The Red Cross Bloodmobile is due to arrive on the College campus on Wednesday, April 15, 1953, and will be set up in Commodore John Barry Hall. All students and especially the NROTC group are requested to donate one pint of their blood at this time. Coffee and donuts will be served afterwards.

Of necessity, the Red Cross has placed a quota on the amount of Blood which can be accepted on that day but it is hoped that the student response will be equal to that of last year. Last year the Red Cross was quite pleased with the cooperation and response of the students. 206 pints of blood were donated in the single day visit.

Application blanks will be available for NROTC students on March 24 and for the rest of the student body on April 13 and 14 in the CPO office in Barry Hall. Students are requested to register between 1 P. M. and 3 P. M. Applicants should be over 21 years of age but those under 21 may apply if they obtain their parent's permission. More specific requirements will be available at a later date.

The Bloodmobile which will visit Villanova next month is under the direction of Mrs. Stanley D. Hartshorne of the Wayne Branch of the American Red Cross.

Although over 200 pints of blood were donated last year, another 200 donors were turned away. The Red Cross exhausted its supply of blood containers, because of the excessive response. It is hoped that a higher quota will be set this year.

Rev. J. G. Sherman Conducts Retreat During Holy Week

The Annual College Retreat will begin a week from Sunday (Palm Sunday) at 7:30 p. m. in the Field House. All Catholic Students are required to attend the three day program of devotions to the Blessed Sacrament and timely lectures. Closing exercises will comprise a solemn High Mass, Benediction and a general Communion of all Villanova men Wednesday morning, April 1st.

All students should pick up their attendence cards at the Chaplain's office next Wednesday and Thursday, March 25th, and 26th. These cards must be handed in at each of the conferences.

Rev. James G. Sherman, O.S.A., will be retreat master. Fr. Sherman, a former instructor at the Augustinian Academy in Staten Island, is now a member of the Augustinian Mission Band, a group which devotes its time entirely to retreat and mission work. His home parish is located at Cambridge, New York.

Rev. Joseph W. Kemme, College Chaplain, reminds us that the retreat is conducted strictly for the spiritual welfare of

Field House Stage To Echo Orations Of Belle Masque

Sellout crowds are expected to jam the Field House starting Thursday evening when the curtain opens at 8:00 p. m. on Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar", Belle Masque's spring production.

Ticket sales have reached an unprecedented height, but the society's ticket manager, Walt Doyle, doubts the possibility of a turnaway crowd. Performances are scheduled for Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings.

This week climaxes intensive advertising, publicity and ticket sales campaigns which have resulted in great interest and support of the play, not only on this campus, but also in nearby colleges and residential areas. Whole blocks of seats have been reserved for nearby schools.

Ticket Chariot

This week, the "Colosseum Express", and authentic reproduction of a Roman chariot, is traversing the campus, manned with Belle Masquers selling tickets.

The entire production is under the direction of Rev. William Krupa, O.S.A.

Starring in the great Shakespearean tragedy are Seniors, Tom Hayden, Tony Della Rocca, Dave Leahy, and Sophomore Bernie Coyne. In the large (32) cast are seven actresses from Rosemont's Jest and Gesture Society. Playing the feminine roles are Joan Kuckenberg, Mimi Heffernan, Ethel Daget, Barbara McVey, Joan Thevkauf, Maureen Shedleski and Barbara Burman.

Cast Members

Others in the large cast include: Joe Blimm, Jack Casanave, Dave Damiano, Bill Cunningham, Al Dillon, Jack Eddinger, Marty Egan, Frank Killmond and Jack McGee.

Also, Carmen Mancuso, Mark McCormick, Jim Mink, Bill and Pete Quinn, Julian Smith, Basil Sullivan, Pete Tulli, Bill Steele, Maury Murphy and Tony Mika.

The classic, to be staged in three acts, is a costume presentation of the tragedy of William Shakespeare, depicting the assassination of Julius Caesar and previous and subsequent events.

Why We're Here

"Here we are and what for?"

The primary goal of Villanova education is the graduation of educated Catholic gentlemen. As a Catholic school, Villanova has a particular attribute, a certain flavor, that differs it from non-Catholic schools. Whether the goal is achieved, and how marked this distinction is, depends upon the effort of Villanovans.

In the Catholic school there is no need to deny truth, and more than this, truth is studied and advocated. Other schools may mask and shroud this most important aspect of study.

The treasure in this truth is the Catholic faith, and the object of Villanova education consists mainly in increasing and learning to distribute this prize. And the more it is spread, the greater it becomes. To be scholarly is no virtue in itself, nor does athletic ability necessarily increase sanctity. But it is vice to be mediocre in the important matter.

There is just one field in which Villanova must be uncommon, and that is in the striving for its formal goal. This means that there is but one area in which Villanovans must be superior, and that is in their effort to become enlightened Catholic gentlemen. At times, this idea is abused, and when it is, Villanova has lost its distinction.

When the tail takes hold and struggles to wag the wildcat, it never gets the job done, and Villanova becomes common. We don't need to struggle for athletic or esthetic brilliance, because any school can do the same thing. And there is no achievement at all if the main goal is not reached.

We must live with materialism and exist in a practical way, but what is more practical than making a road straighter by removing obstacles? In this fight compromise is failure.

In a world whose trend is away from God, a lot can be done just by example and more can be done with greater effort. We are created in the image of God, and it is the Catholic objective to live in imitation of Christ's life. This is the means to the ultimate end and should be the rule of our lives. It means restraint, struggle, and suffering, but it guarantees success.

If God be with us, who can prevail against us; who can be better? The educated Catholic gentleman is the product of a school which offers knowledge and manners, but all, a way of life which is stable and lasting. It is a way of life that practices truth and avoids error.

This is the season of Lent, in which the spirit of penance predominates. It is a wonderful time for Villanova to remember its purpose and for Villanovans to act. It is a time for rededication and resolution.

Galati Sneers:

"Common Man" Is A Modern-day God

A number of years ago, a movement began which had as its purpose the defense of the common man. Today we are able to see some of the results of that movement which, at the beginning, had such a noble intention.

GALATI

Today, the common man, is exalted to a point where he is considered to be a god. Everyone, it seems, wants to be a common man. Business tycoons spend thousands of dollars on public relation campaigns trying to convince people that they are common men. Political candidates emphasize that they too were born in white frame houses, went to public schools and therefore, belong to this common clan.

"Regular Guy"

If one wants to succeed, being common is an invaluable asset. As a common man you are automatically considered to be a "regular guy" and you deserve to get ahead. If you should happen to be uncommon you are doomed to the category of the odd.

This nonsensical philosophy seems to stem from our overemphasis of quantitative rather than qualitative standards of judgement. In short, we are "statistics crazy." We are interested in how many people do a certain thing or how many articles are produced. We are unconcerned about the correctness of people's actions or the quality of the articles produced. We are interested in how many are going to college rather than the quality of the education; how many people read books rather than how good the books are; how many people listen to the radio rather than how good the programs are.

Our whole life seems to be geared to the tastes of this new diety. Everyone wants what his neighbors have; to do what they do, not because it's better but because everybody else is doing it.

Conformity

This adolescent passion for conformity is constantly exploited. We are told to smoke El Ropos, not because they're better but because more people smoke them. Best sellers are not necessarily the best books but merely what most people buy, and the ones we must read unless we want to be thought of as inferior. What is popular must be good and must be accepted. Is this logic or is this sheer nonsense?

"Egghead"

Any extraordinarily brave soul who dares display his uncommon intelligence is immediately classified as a member of that subversive group known of the intellectuals. And in modern society, there is no greater sin than to be an intellectual, sometimes affectionately referred to as a "egghead."

The Age of the Common Man could be a great era if held to its original principle; to give every man the opportunity to become as superior as he can. The movement should foster superiority, not condemn it. It should attempt to raise the tastes of the common man, not lower the standards of excellence to conform to the common.

Normality Over Excellence

However, as it is today, the Age of the Common Man has abandoned its original principle. Normality has almost completely replaced excellence. It is now sufficient to be average. Terms such as integrity, and truth become practically meaningless. The question is no longer how one ought to act but how do most people act. Uncommon excellence is looked at with suspicion as though it were a threat to our society. Ideas which do not conform with the mediocre standard of the common are automatically discarded.

Unfortunately, the Age of the Common Man is rapidly degenerating into the age of the Common Denominator.

Glavin Points Out:

Home Games, Fall Rivalry A Wildcat Football Need

Four years at college consist of many things. They're not all study, nor are they composed entirely of dances, nor are the big football and basketball games the complete story of college. Each aspect of life during the four years of college contributes its part. There is study, there are dances, there are games—and their are lots of other things. All of them go to shape the man that leaves a college, diploma in hand, four years after he entered.

GLAVIN

Autumn

Perhaps the most memorable times of college life are the autumns. The sunlit afternoons, not hot nor cool; the renewal of friendships after a three month interval; the afternoons spent in a stadium watching a little piece of pigskin sail through the air and be navigated up and down a stretch of grass by accomplished performers. Unfortunately, this last type of afternoon came in extremely small doses for those rounding out their four years this year.

The football fan, the student fanatically urging on his classmates, his campus brethren, gets his biggest thrill on the afternoons when "his" team is home; when he can watch them play. And, perhaps, his biggest excitement manifests itself when "his" team meets its traditional rival in the annual game.

Home Games?

For those who have "spent" their four seasons watching the men in blue and white cavort on the gridiron the home games have been few and far between; the traditional "rivalry" games non-existent. We only hope it will not be so for those embarking on their four years at Villanova as we leave.

For four years the three hundred plus members of this year's Senior Class have followed Wildcat football fortunes: to Texas, to California, to Louisiana, to Oklahoma, to Kentucky, to Alabama, to Florida, to South Carolina, to Michigan, to Ohio, to Massachusetts—and once in a while, between trains, they saw them in action at Shibe Park, or Franklin Field, or even in our own stadium.

Rivalry?

The traditional autumn rivalry? That BIG game, on that eagerly awaited Saturday? It is still awaited.

Off and on, for four years, we have heard fond, nostalgic reminiscences of the long-since terminated rivalry with Temple. We have heard of all the color and excitement attendant upon the rivalry. Lately, from an item in this columnist's work or that in the Philadelphia papers, we have collected rumors that perhaps, maybe, it's possible that that rivalry will someday be renewed. Maybe it will. If it is to be as good as people tell you it used to be, we hope so.

Often we have looked longingly at the schedule of a football team of a school several miles to the east, nor infrequently posting as many as eight home games in a season. We have never known half that number.

"Mr. In-Between"

Villanova College. That little football power on the Main Line, the giant-killing bunch of Wildcats, has scheduling difficulties. "Mr. In-Between." That could be the title. Too tough for colleges in your own class. The big boys don't want to take a chance. That's probably one of the reasons.

But, somehow, whatever the reasons, we wish our successors luck: more home games, no "home" games at Allentown or some such remote place, and a traditional rivalry each fall! These are things that could add a lot to four years in college.

Pandaleon Speaking:

Non-Native Sons Are Often Leaders, Some Even Dictators Of Countries

The recent death of Premier Stalin brings to the fore a curious characteristic of history. The son of a peasant shoemaker, the Soviet leader was strictly speaking not a Russian at all. Actually, he was by birth a Georgian. The interesting point here is that more than a few times in history one finds the supreme seat of authority in a state held by a man who, while ethnically related to the people of that country, is not a native.

PANDALEON

Stalin's former ally, Adoph Hitler, is another case in point. The Nazi dictator rose from his humble birth in Upper Austria to the position of top man in Germany. Moving to a more remote period of history, the example of Napoleon Bonoparte can be brought forward. Napoleon came to France from the island of Corsica, which had strong ties with Italian Tuscany. In fact, he was born just a year after the reunion of the island with France. Napoleon's family had shown reluctance at first to accede to French rule over the island.

this . . . and that

For many moons now, this paper has been looking high and low for a columist . . . it still is . . . but we're going to fill some space while the search is going on.

The 20-room home of the Jordans in Ithan, from which Father Gilligan rescued seven people last Wednesday, is completely gutted and considered to be a total loss. Mr. Jordan fought through smoke-filled hallways to reach his two youngest children and then was trapped with his family in one room on the second floor of the white stone mansion. Father Gilligan, who was on his way to say mass at Notre Dame Academy when he noticed the flames, pulled a ladder from the Jordan garage and brought the family to safety. The house burned for over three hours.

"Letter to the Editor" in the Main Line Times a while back charged that the terrible accident which occurred on the Pike in February was due for a long time. The writer, a daily driver along the new highway in front of the school, claims that mobs of students cross against the light every morning . . . inviting an accident.

Rosemont: Who is going out with whom, where, and seen doing what? Speaking of the college, the NROTC spring formal will have to struggle without them—it's their Easter vacation.

The "fish kid" was not expelled; just suspended.

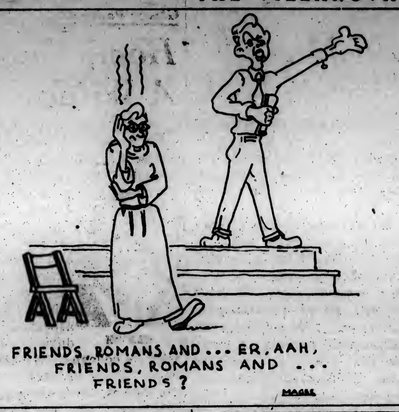
Tom Hayden's speech over Caesar's corpse in "Julius Caesar" will shake the Field House rafters . . . We've seen the rehearsals and the tragedy should be powerful if Cassius's bald pate doesn't blind the audience.



Physics lecture now known as the "Mystery Hour" . . . Meanwhile; back at the ranch house. In Memoriam — Josef Stalin is now vacationing. He's cruising the Styx with Charon.

Anyone who has been hitting the PRE-CANA CONFERENCES for the last few weeks will tell you they're great . . . Why not hear the last one this Sunday at 3 . . .

Who was throwing ladders out of a second floor window in Alumni Hall the other day? And who the devil gave the cigarette machine in the Chow Hall a physic?—produced 18 free packs of cigarettes.

The writers of this column may be seen pulling a chariot in "Julius Caesar" this week end. Dig us, by all means!

Congratulations to the gents who are rising an hour earlier these mornings. The attendance at Mass these past few weeks has been great.

QUEEN PIX

Entries for the Junior Queen contest should be submitted to the Villanovan Office, basement of Commerce and Finance building, or to Ward Welsh, Alumni Hall.

The earlier the date of entrance, the better the chance will be that the picture and a writeup on the girl and her date will appear in the VILLANOVAN.

Simon Bolivar is another example of the phenomenon. A native of Venezuela, the great Liberator had a hand in the independence movements of Peru, Columbia, and Ecuador, not to mention his own country. In tribute to his efforts, Bolivia took her name from his.

What explains this curiosity? Perhaps it is nothing more than coincidence. And yet there may very well be a reasonable explanation for it. Assuredly, it is extremely difficult, if not impossible, to attempt to formulate any laws of history. But this does not in the least lessen the efforts to do so.

The reason here could easily lie in the fact that each of these men had acquired a famous reputation for his achievements without at the same time having his faults exposed to a serious degree. Accordingly, he was held in awe by the masses of people. His position was further strengthened by the close connection in origin that he shared with them.

3 More Vie To Be Queen

"Five foot two, eyes of blue . . ."; a good description of Miss Joan Schmidt, a recent entry in the Junior Week Queen Contest. Joan lives in Rochester, N. Y. and is coming to Villanova for the "best time of her life" with Don Miller, an engineer.

Also looking forward to that fabulous Spring weekend is Irene Terenzio of Pleasantville, N. Y. A freshman at Our Lady of Good Counsel College in White Plains, Joan is majoring in Art. She has brown hair, blue eyes, and a Prom date with Bobby Tomanto. Take a good look, Gents, she may be our "Queen."

Enter Your 'Queen'

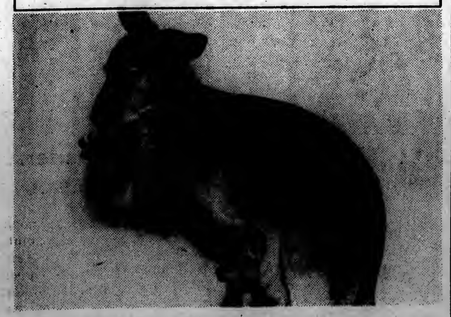
While we're on the subject of beautiful women . . . Where is your date's picture? Have you entered it yet? Maybe you don't want her picture to leave your desk for a few days or is it that you can't sleep without it under your pillow? Well, be a man and think of her! This is her opportunity to become "Queen-for-a-week".

IRENE TERENZIO

JOAN SCHMIDT

John Yavorsky, a C&F student has entered his choice Jeanine Villane. A rare combination of nut brown hair and dark brown eyes is going to boost Jeanine's chances for the coveted title. She is a Senior at Wilson Boro High School, Easton, Pa.

Only Five Weeks



Just five short weeks from today the contest entries will be brought to Robin Roberts, Perry Como, and Harry Conover for judging. It will be too late then to wish you entered your date.

If you're one of those pessimistic persons who thinks the odds are against you remember . . . . "the odds are 100 to 0 against you if you don't even enter."

Salvo And Taddeo Victors In Lopsided Frosh Election

WINNAHS AND NEW REPRESENTATIVES for Class of 1956 are Phil Taddeo (left) and John Salvo. Both men, running on the same ticket were victorious in last Wednesday's Frosh elections.

The first official function of the Class of '56—the election of two men to Student Council posts—resulted in a one-sided selection of resident Engineer John Salvo and day-hop Arts Phil Taddeo, as about a third of the Freshman Class went to the polls last Wednesday.

Salvo, from Hammonton, N. J., collected 155 votes to out-poll Taddeo by 14 ballots. The other three candidates, Ernst, Fahy and Bruther collected 59, 41 and 39 votes, respectively. The positions took effect last night.

Salvo was president of his senior high school class, captain of his basketball team at St. Joseph's and played on the baseball club. His chief backers (and Taddeo's as well, since the two combined their drives) were Barry Ballister, Jack Padova, Jim Lombardi, Noel Hazzard and Ronald Girioni.

A native of St. David's, Penn., Taddeo attended Radnor High School, where he was the president of the Student Council in his senior year, president of the Athletic Association, and a member of the football squad. Here at Villanova he participates in the band, playing the French horn.

Ernst, like Fahy and Bruther an engineering student, is a resident from Fort Wayne, Ind.; while Fahy is from Bethlehem, Penn., and Bruther from Morrisville, Penn.

Both men expressed a desire to have students who have any matters pertaining to their new positions come to talk with them.

USMC Offers Regular Commissions; PLC & OCS Members May Qualify

The Marine Corps has announced that due to the current expansion of its regular officer strength, it will offer approximately 3,000 regular commissions between now and June 1956.

The Marines expect to appoint a large number of these 3,000 regular officers from their two reserve officer candidate programs, the OFFICER CANDIDATE COURSE and the PLATOON LEADERS CLASS.

Captain L. Kirstein, USMC, said these two officer candidate training programs are open to both married and single college students. He advised interested college men to contact him in Room 111 in John Barry Hall for an interview. The next class for college graduates convenes July 9. Reserve officer graduates of the OFFICER CANDIDATE COURSE and the PLATOON LEADERS CLASS programs may qualify for regular Marine Corps commissions upon their graduation from the five-month Special Basic Course which they attend upon being commissioned.

International Relations Club Rejuvenated By Mr. Rofinot

Mr. Rofinot's participation in the International Relations Club promises to make the organization, if it receives the support it deserves, one of the best on campus.

In the meeting held last Wednesday in 214 Mendel, Donald McGahan, who has spearheaded the rejuvenation of the club, explained the purpose of the group to the 27 students present. It seems that ever since the last president of the club ran off with its constitution three years ago, there has been no organization on campus to initiate extra-curricula interest in international affairs.

Mr. Rofinot stated that the World Affairs Council offers speakers on international relations and for three years Villanova has had no organization to welcome them. The purpose of the club is to rectify these two conditions.

The actual limitations of the club will be left up to the members.

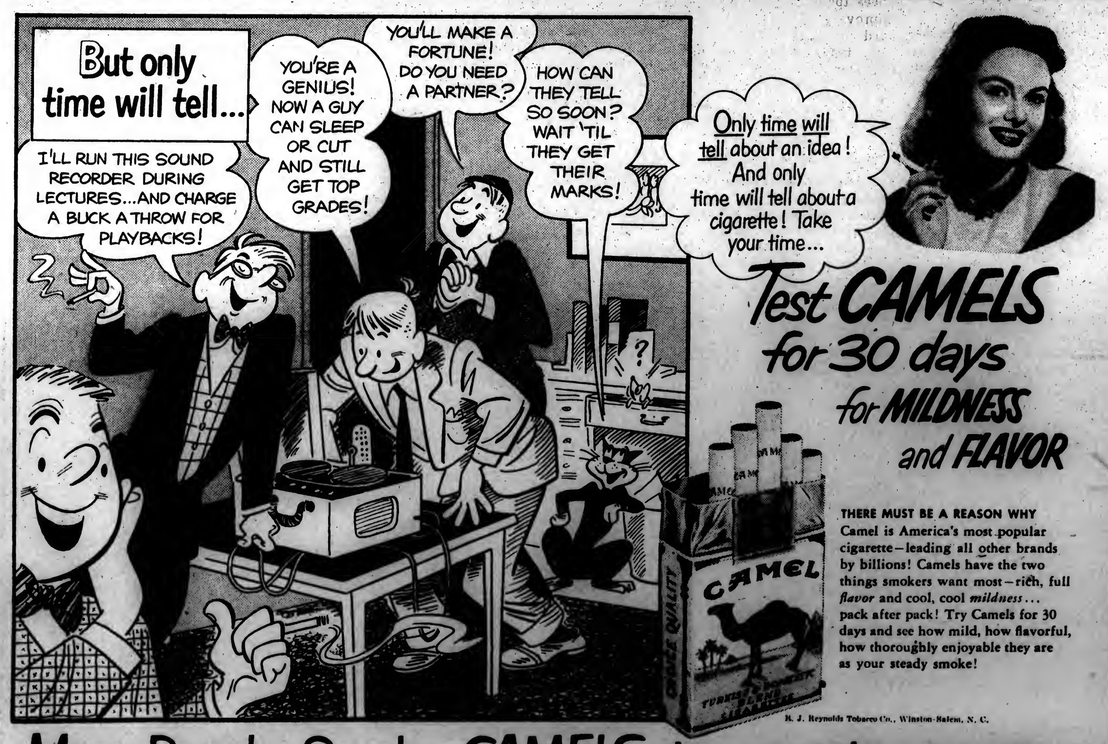
Don McGahan announced that there will be a symposium held at St. Joseph's College this Saturday afternoon entitled "Pope Pius XII and Reconstruction of National Order."

AIR RAID

Civil Defense authorities have announced the following instructions in case of an enemy attack. They should be clipped out and posted in a handy place.

RED ALERT (one three minute warbling signal or series of short blasts.)

Go to the nearest approved building or shelter. If on campus, go to nearest solid, ground floor, along inside wall away from glass. Lie down and bury face in arms.



IF ATTACK COMES WITHOUT WARNING

If inside, drop to floor, out of line of windows. Bury face in arms. If in the open, drop to ground. If cover is close, dive for it. Bury face in arms.

ALL CLEAR SIGNAL (three 1-minute blasts; two minutes silence between them.)

Do not rush outside. Stand by for instructions from warden.

20-Game Baseball List Announced; Rain Hampers Club

By Harry Nash

Villanova's '53 baseball schedule, a 20-game listing, was announced last week by assistant Athletic Director Bill Ryan, as Coach Art Mahan found himself faced with another problem—the miserable weather.

With the first contest only about two weeks hence—April 1—against Equitable Life Insurance — Mahan has been forced by the recent snow, rain and cold weather to keep his squad of candidates in the field house in daily workouts.

Team In Good Shape

So far it appears the problem isn't overly serious, since Mahan believes that most of his boys are in pretty good shape, anyway, especially his pitchers. But the indoor conditioning activities are hampering his infielders and outfielders no little—what with no fielding and batting practice, which Mahan plans to emphasize greatly when the weather man makes it possible.

The schedule, on an 11-9 home-away basis being on the first of April and extends to the 23rd of May. It includes get-togethers with such eastern powers as Army, Penn State, Penn, Princeton and Seton Hall!

Equitable Life, a more colorful club than the name would imply, toured Europe last summer and hold several AAU crowns. The Moravian game, originally listed as away on May 4, has been transferred to home as an added feature of Junior Week. Incidentally, Equitable was beaten by the Wildcats last season for the first time in a four-game series. Al and Emil Mele, brothers of Sam Mele, formerly of the Boston Red Sox and now a varsity outfielder with the Chicago White Sox play with the amateur club.

FIRST REAL SIGN OF SPRING is the annual unveiling of the Wildcat batting cage down behind the Field House. Outdoor practice, is expected to get underway this week with just a little help from the weatherman.

Gaffney Carries Mainline Colors At Middle Distances

By Tom Mentzer

Another Villanovan who occupied the limelight along with Fred Dwyer during the recent indoor campaign was a curly-haired junior by the name of Joe Gaffney. A 600 yard competitor, Joe, in ine meets finished in the winner's circle once and in one of the first three positions on six other occasions.

No small feat considering the fact that he was matching strides and wits with such experienced and gifted runners as Mal Whitfield, the Olympic Champion, Ollie Sax the fast-rising Penn State speedster, Herb McKenley, the Jamaican Olympic star and others of like quality. Those performances together with his ever-improving time at the 600 yard distance have caused some track observers to hail him along with Sax and Vernon Dixon of Manhattan, as three youngsters who bear close watching in the future.

Early Days

For its beginnings Joe's career as a thin clad goes back to his grade school days in the Philadelphia parish of Our Mother of Sorrows where as an eighth grader he anchored his school relay team to the Parochial Schools' Championship in the 1946 Penn Relays.

He thence proceeded to St. Thomas Moore High School where some fast talking by Track Coach John Kelly and several faculty sports moderators "persuaded" Joe to abandon his intention to go out for basketball. And how fortunate it is that they did! For today the name of Gaffney and track at St. Thomas Moore are practically synonomous. Jogging Joe holds every St. Thomas track record from the 440 to the 100 yard dash mark, and this included the broad jump mark.

In his junior and senior years as captain of the track team he led St. Thomas Moore to Catholic, City and State titles and was unbeaten in the 220 or the 440 through these two years.

Stars at Franklin Field

On one memorable occasion before some 15,000 people in Franklin Field, Joe was running the final 440 leg in an Invitational Mile relay. As he received the baton he found

Dukes And Ricketts Top Cat All Opponent Squad For '53

By "Sick" Keatfoy

When it comes to picking All teams we here at the Villanovan are no different than any body also this year. In a recent poll our voters choose Walter Dukes 3tol. Walt led the way, but the four others with him on the first team don't have to take a back seat to anyone when it comes to playing basketball.

Height Prevails

With Dick Ricketts at 6'6, Bob Pettit a cool 6'9 and Ed Conlin and Vernon Stokes the "short" men at 6'4 and 6'2 respectively the Cats have one of the tallest All-Opponents select over this past season.

As if the tremendous height weren't enough, the entire bunch of them were outstanding scorers, and every member of the first squad was an AllSectional or All-American choice after last season.

Stars On Second Team

The second team lists a pretty good bunch of boys too, the outstanding one being Richie Regan of Seton Hall. Mr. Regan is one of the finest in the East on most occasions, but against the Wildcats in recent years he has been the spark on the Pirate ball club. Big Maury Stokes of St. Francis, though only a youngster has made quite a name for himself in the two appearances he has made on the Palestra floor. Both times his club was dumped, but Stokes showed himself to be one of top players on the court.

On most occasions both of the aforementioned would have made the first team, but with all the talent Mainliners possessed we just couldn't fit them in.

Top Flight Club

The team, counting the first and second strings is as good an "All" club as you'll find in the country today. And in a way it just proves what a great job the Cats did in compiling that 22-9 record. Anytime you play against the likes of these fellows, brother you're playing the best.

Turf and Tinsel Again Stars Top Wildcat Athletes

By Jim Nolin

"Robin Hoodwink", a musical satire on the life of the famed archer of Sherwood Forest, will be Turf and Tinsel's spring offering this year, Bob Whalen announced last week.

William Kelley wrote the book and lyrics, and our own Bob Whelan composed the music. This will be the sixth presentation of the group since its reorganization in 1948.

Founded in 1933

Turf and Tinsel first became a part of Villanova in 1933 under the guiding hand of Harry Stuhldreher, varsity football coach at the time and a former Notre Dame All-American. The first T&T show combined the talents of the football stalwarts of the college with those of the musically inclined students. Annual T&T productions followed for several years through the thirties.

In 1948 the group was reorganized under Rev. Michael O'Donnell, O.S.A. and Whelan.

Athletes Star

This year's production will again feature the football players. Slated for leading roles are last year's stars — Bob Haner, Tom Green, Paul Tomko and our track ace, Fred Dwyer.

Much promising talent has already tried out for parts said Whelan,but the cast is far from filled. A cast of about

Of Policy Making

By Carl Valenti

We, at Villanova, are extremely interested observers in the events that are taking place at the University of Pennsylvania concerning the football team and the football schedule for 1953 and spring training.

It seems Penn's football team is up in arms over a matter of spring training and scheduling. To make their views known, the team, in letters to 58 athletic, administrative and alumni officials, criticised Penn's schedule-making policy and charged that Coach George Munger had "not been consulted" in its preparation—a statement in which Munger later concurred. The team complains of being deprived of the benefits of spring practice which is banned by the Ivy League. Eight out of nine of the teams on next year's schedule do have spring practice.

In their petition the players pointed out that if they were expected to play big-time football they should be permitted spring training and proper physical preparation. The petition made public by the Daily Pennsylvanian (student paper) has caused quite a bit of excitement. The Philadelphia dailies have made an issue of it. A "Harmony Dinner" has been revealed as an attempt to beat the players into line. The dispute has reached such proportions that it's hinted either Coach George Munger or athletic director Franny Murray may lose his job.

Other Schools Do It

All this business was begun by the team and revealed by the school paper. Furthermore the student paper is urging student representation on an athletic council — a practice which is in effect in other Ivy league colleges—which theoretically would tend to eliminate future misunderstandings of this type and promote mutual trust and confidence between the student body and the administration.

Actually what the team is trying to do is have a voice in making policy. This is no new idea. As the Daily Pennsylvanian pointed out students are represented on athletic councils in other Ivy league colleges. So why not Penn? And we add, "Why not any college? Why not Villanova?" After all the decisions of athletic boards vitally effect athletes and students so it would seem only just and democratic that their voice be heard in determining policy.

Here at Villanova we have had a vivid recent example of the results that misunderstanding can have when it develops due to the lack of harmony between the athletes and the students on the one hand and the athletic policy-making board on the other. We are witnessing the disasterous results a similar situation is causing at Penn. Many schools are faced with the same problem.

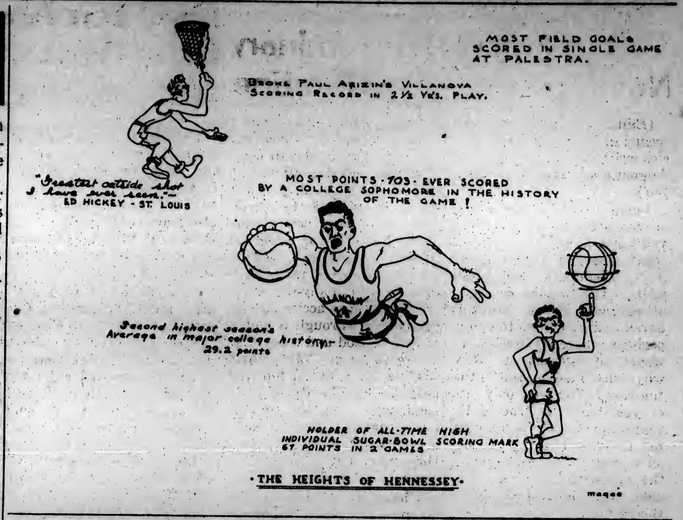
Trust Needed

We sincerely believe that things like this simply would not happen if there existed complete trust and confidence between the athletic board and the students. "Students" includes athletes, too, in spite of what some people would have you think. We further believe that trust and confidence would be greatly enhanced by the presence of a student voice on the athletic board of control. The question remains: to what extent should the students have a voice in the determination of athletic policy?

In answer we submit the following plan. We suggest that the student council be permitted to select two members—possibly officers—to sit with the athletic board when it meets. In addition, each major sport—football, basketball, etc.—elect one representative to sit with the athletic board when it meets. The representatives' duties will be to advise only. They shall have no vote. They will merely keep the board informed as to the special feelings, problems and opinions of the groups they represent. In this way the athletic board will keep in constant touch with the student point of view.

Distrust Eliminated

Furthermore it is proposed that the student representatives be present at all meetings of the board during the academic year, and present during the entire meeting. This way the students will have the assurance that their interests are at least being heard. The distrust that closed doors arouse will be eliminated. Many of the past incidents that have come might very well have been eliminated if the student point of view has been known beforehand.



Athletic programs are for the benefit of the students. The students are entitled to at least have their interests considered in the planning and policy-making of athletic programs.

himself about 12 yards behind the leader. While the shocked spectators looked on he sped over the cinders in 51.0 seconds, the fastest quarter mile ever run by a school up until that time in Franklin Field, to win by 5 yards.

And at Villanova he has maintained this pace. Ever-advancing towards his prime, Joe Gaffney is a track coaches dream, a seemingly flawless machine on the cinders whose effortless stride spells victory for Villanova!

Moons, Rummies Win, Shamrocks Remain Unbeaten

By John Gillman

In the A league the Mendel Moons split in the only two contests of the week. Blackwood with 25 points led the Troopers to a 51-47 win over the Moons. Hewson had 12 for the losers. However Mendel bounced right back to pin a 39-37 defeat on the high flying Good Counsel five. Mayok of the losers was high man with 14 points but Soldutti was the hero as far as the Moons were concerned by virtue of his overtime, game winning basket.

B league action saw the Rummies romp to a 72-86 decision over the Mites. Chessock paced the winners with 24 while McElroy had 16 for the Mites. The undefeated Fedigan Flyers squeezed through to their second one point win in a row by edging the Scattas 53-52, behind Bergen's 14 points. Maffy of the Scattas had the game high of 15. The Dukes used seven men all of whom scored in double figures in beating the Kays 97-49. Gable of the Dukes and Kraft of the Kays tied for high man with 17 apiece.

The Shamrocks took another step toward a clean sweep in the Barracks league when they clubbed Barracks 1—74-34. Dirk and Simonic had 21 and 17 respectively for the winners while Fitzpatrick paced the losers with 11.

Battle in Infield

Mahan says that he has definite hopes of getting outside this week, to get a look at his 30-odd candidates in practice. Jack Helm, a varsity footballer, is a newcomer out for third base, and will compete with Dick Shannon for that post. Shannon, especially versitile in the infield, may end up at first base to plug up the only gap caused by graduation.

The other returning infield aspirants are shortstop Ralph Cecere and second-baseman Bob Maurer. The lettermen outfielders are Jack Peters, Harry LeFever and Chuck McGuckin. The top catching candidate is senior Ken Lowe; former third-baseman Bob Ricianni will get a fling at pitching.

Daily Life In The Seminary Not Regimentalized Routine

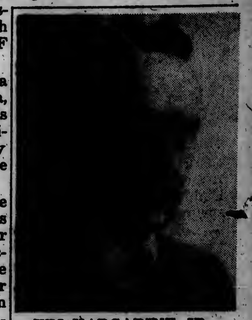
(Editor's note—This is the second in a series of three articles written by members of the Augustinian Vocation Seminar).

Being as near to a seminary as you are here at Villanova, you have, no doubt, wondered what goes on inside those high, seemingly cold stone walls. The picture you have of seminary life is probably harsh and severe, to the point perhaps where its inhabitants would not recognize it. Why, why, why, I ask myself is this the case? It is not only true of you, but it is true of the vast majority. Take my word for it—you've got the story all wrong. You're looking at the tapestry from the wrong side. Come around with me to the right side.

Let's first clear up this notion of the daily schedule that you have. From the observance of externals you've no doubt jumped to the conclusion that every day is a mechanical, rigidly regimentalized lay in the seminary. Surely, I have to admit that seminarians live by the bell, are guarded and guided by rules, and have a pretty full day of prayer, study, and recreation. But, as someone has said, seminary life is not geared to crush, grind and form seminarians into "a string of identical, clerical sausages." You've got to be yourself in the seminary as well as anywhere else, subduing those accidental imperfections through a motive of love of God and a heartfelt desire to be an "alter Christus," as far as that is humanly possible. Familiarity with the seminary schedule doesn't breed contempt, but rather an appreciation of the purpose of the raison d'etre and end of the daily schedule.

I have not tried to exhaust the many aspects of seminary life. That was not my purpose. I just wanted you to look at the tapestry from the proper angle. On the one hand, we saw the way in which the seminary schedule fits into the picture of seminary life. On the other hand, I tried to describe the spirit of charity which is the life principle to every seminary. I couldn't show it to you adequately. It is planted in the very fabric of the tapestry.

NFCCS Drive Pace Set by Fedigan; Drive Ends Soon



Fedigan Hall, thanks to the work of Bob Ervin, is setting the pace in the N.F.C.C.S. Clothing and Food Drive on the campus. Collections have also been good in Alumni and Delurey Halls but the response has been rather slow otherwise.

This is the last week of the drive and Chairman Bob Gold urges all students to clean out the corners of their closets and the bottom drawers of their dressers and get rid of all their old clothes. Here is an opportunity to do some spring cleaning and a little charity work at the same time.

Boxes are waiting to be filled in each of the dormitories and there is one in the Pie Shop for Day Hops. The clothes and food will be given to unfortunate students in Europe, Africa and the Far East.

Wage-Hour Director Speaks To IRC Members Tomorrow

William Hargadine, Jr., Regional Director of the U. S. Department of Labor's Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Division is listed as the guest speaker at a meeting of the Industrial Relations Commission tomorrow night, March 18 at 8:15 p. m. in the C&F building.

WM. HARGADINE, JR.

Mr. Hargadine, in this area which includes Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware, is the top law enforcement officer for both the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act and the Fair Labor Standards Act.

During World War II, the Wage and Hour Division was used extensively by the War Labor Board, the War Production Board, the Office of Price Administration, and the War Manpower Commission in carrying out economic and industrial investigations and studies in these agencies' compliance programs. Mr. Hargadine, at that time Assistant Regional Director of the Divisions, directed the Region's wage stabilization activities.

He is a graduate of the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce of the University of Pennsylvania. Prior to service with the Labor Department, he was associated with the duPont Company, the United Engineers & Constructors, Inc., and the U. S. Treasury Department.

He is a member of the executive committee of the Federal Business Association of Philadelphia and is Chairman of the Federal Safety Council of Philadelphia,

Robert J. Gerstung, president of the commission invited all students to hear the address, and stated that delegates from Rosemont and Manor Colleges will attend.

the students of Villanova. He urges all students to enter into it whole-heartedly and to use every moment of this three days spiritual exercise to the best of their advantage.

The General Program will be as follows:

Palm Sunday Evening: Opening Exercices — Conference and Benediction.

Monday: Morning Mass, Conferences during the day, a Holy Hour in the afternoon, and a short service at night for resident students.

Tuesday: Same schedule as Monday. The Blessed Sacrament will be exposed at 8:15 and remain exposed for adoration all through the night until Mass Wednesday morning.

Wednesday: Closing exercises: Mass, Communion, Solemn Benediction, Renewal of Baptismal Vows, and a Papal Blessing.

Confessions will be heard every morning and after every conference to give every man an opportunity to attend and receive Holy Communion on Wednesday morning.

Council Corrects Error Concerning Election Proposal

The "Villanovan's" political pundit fell through last week.

In last week's issue, the account of the Student Council meeting erred in a detail concerning a constitutional amendment which was proposed. The motion's proponents, Steve Berry, Jack Kneafsey, Jack Birle, Dick Kelly, and Ray Lavanture, submitted the following correction:

Revise System

"Our proposal would substitute the method of electing four representatives from each class to Council — one representative from each School in the class — to a system whereby two representatives would be elected from the resident group in each class, and two from the non-resident group.

Same Number

"At the last meeting of Student Council, we presented five reasons why the present method of elections for Council is outmoded and not entirely fair. Our proposal would still maintain the same number of members in Council, provide for more equal representation, and, at the same time, help increase the student interest in the activities of the College, especially among the non-residents."

Guild Show Signs Mariner Quartet

THE MARINERS, nationally famous singing group featured on the Arthur Godfrey Show, have been signed for the Augustinian Seminary Show to be held in the Field House on April 30.

The contract for the feature act of the Seminary Guild Show has been signed. This year the show will feature one of the best quartets in the country, the Mariners. This famous quartet is a standard on the Arthur Godfrey Show and anyone who has ever heard them sing will assure everyone that this act will make the 1953 Seminary Guild Show one to be remembered for a long time.

The Mariners began singing as a quartet while they were in the Coast Guard during the war. Jim Lewis worked for the morale officer and received instructions to form a quartet. He, himself, was a trained singer and because of the short time given him to put together the quartet he sought out three other men who had been professional vocalists.

The quartet was an immediate sensation and the Coast Guard sent them to War Bond rallies all over the country and to Pacific outposts for morale purposes. After the war the Mariners decided to stick together and they were outstanding successes on guest spots of several big radio shows and were finally signed to a long-term contract by Arthur Godfrey.

The two outstanding characteristics of the Mariners are the versatility and high quality of their harmony. These characteristics can be traced to the fact that each one of the Mariners is a trained singer and an individualist. Each of the Mariners had studied concert music for many years before entering the service and each still takes private lessons every week.

Therefore the Mariners are individually fine musicians who really love music and can do justice to any type of music. But, although they blend their voices together to produce beautiful harmony, each member of the Mariners is an individualist.

Retreat Devotions Open This Sunday; Theme Announced

Rev. James G. Sherman, O. S. A., will open the Annual College Retreat this coming Sunday, (Palm Sunday) at 7:30 p.m., in the Field House. All Catholic students are required to attend the three days of devotions and conferences.

The theme of Father Sherman's series of talks will be "Let me know myself; let me know Thee," St. Augustine. The importance of self-knowledge will be stressed throughout the whole of the conferences.

Mission Band

Fr. Sherman, a member of the Mission Band, was ordained in Washington in 1942. He received his M.A. at Catholic University and did post graduate work at New York University.

He taught Latin, Greek and dramatics at the Augustinian Academy on Staten Island for several years before he began his life of preaching and conducting missions and retreats in 1950.

All students must pick up their attendance cards at the Chaplain's Office tomorrow and Thursday. These cards must be presented at each of the retreat functions.

Rev. Joseph W. Kemme, College Chaplain reminds students: "Although this retreat is compulsory, it is conducted strictly for the good of the students. Enter into it wholeheartedly and gain the full benefit of it. Your will only get as much out of it as you are willing to put into it."

BLOOD DONATIONS

College students are requested to give blood for Korean veterans. The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at Commodore John Barry Hall on Wednesday, April 15.

All students are asked to donate a pint of blood. Last year Villanova support exceeded the facilities of the unit assigned here.

Application blanks will be available for NROTC students on March 24 and for the rest of the student body on April 13 and 14 in the CPO office in Barry Hall.

Jrs. Review Plans For Active Week

The progress of all the Junior Week Committees was reviewed at a class meeting in the C&F Auditorium last Wednesday evening. President Art Quinn presided over the meeting and introduced the following committee chairmen:

Ted Sheehan, Mother's Day, has made arrangements with a caterer for Monday of Junior Week. He also had the Rutgers of South Jersey baseball game changed to a home game for the benefit of the mothers. Sheehan is looking for men who are willing to give up a few hours of their time on Mother's Day to act as ushers, etc., during the various activities.

Joe Bradley, Miscellaneous chairman, is making arrangements for a concert Tuesday, May 5th. Admission will be free to the program, presented by the Villanova band and various vocal groups. Bradley also announced that the Junior Class as a whole has been invited to a picnic on the following Thursday. Only Juniors will be admitted and they will need tickets to attend.

Jack Birle, Blazer chairman (and Blazer Ball) was unable to attend the meeting but Art Quinn announced that the Blazer Ball will be strictly an informal affair. Music for the evening's dancing will be supplied by the Blue Notes and a female vocalist.

Joe Zator, Prom chairman, announced that Johnny Long will be the featured band with intermission music by a smaller outfit. Zator stressed the point that enough money has to be made on the prom to offset the losses incurred by the less profitable activities of Junior Week, (especially the Dinner Dance).

Soliciting for boosters for the program will begin next week. Jim Magee and Tony Pearson have completed work on the program. The biggest job now will be the decoration of the Field House. The theme of the prom will be kept a mystery until the night of the dance. "There is one way to find out what the theme will be," Zator pointed out, "Come down and help decorate!"

Harry Anger, Dinner Dance chairman, (also responsible for the fine Prom Band) has made much headway. All arrangements have been made at the Walt Whitman Hotel in Camden. Flowers and the catering have also been taken care of. The dinner and dance music will be by Tony Des-

St. John's Law To Aid Senior

A full tuition three-year scholarship to St. John's (Brooklyn) Law School will be awarded to some Villanova Senior this year. The senior will be named by the Dean of the College if he meets the screening requirements establishd by St. John's and by Villanova.

Any Senior who is going to study law may apply for nomination by inquiring at the office of the Dean of his Division.

The conditions for award laid down by St. John's are these:

(1) The student must be in the upper 10% of his senior class.

(2) He must have scored at least 5.75 on the Law School Admission Test.

(3) He must be nominated by the Dean of Villanova College and approved by the President of Villanova.

(4) He must be acceptable to the Admission Committee of St. John's Law School.

The selection of the nominee at Villanova will begin with the fulfillment of the conditions established at St. John's.

Medical Aspects Of Marriage Discussed In Final Cana Talk

The current series of Pre-Cana Conferences came to a close on a medical aspect last Sunday as Dr. Leo B. Gaffney and his wife, also an M.D., spoke before what Rev. Robert Regan, O.S.A., considered a "disappointing crowd."

Featuring the innovation of having separate question and answer sessions for the men and women conducted by the two speakers, the lecture removed the inhibitions sometimes present when the "best gal" is sitting next to you.

Treating on the married life from a married man's point of view, Dr. Gaffney spent the first part of the afternoon discussing the practical aspects of marriage—economic, social, and religious.

The men's question and answer period was one of the most interesting and informative of the series, discussing the questions which can be answered competently only by a doctor.

What the women talked about, we can only guess.

DR. & MRS. GAFFNEY

This brought to a close what was probably the most interesting and informative series of talks to be presented here in recent years under the guidance of Father Regan.

Campus Politicus

Hugh Sharp, journalistic brother of ours, edits the "Villanova Engineer." Came out with a pretty good piece in the current issue on the subject of the hand-shaking hypocrites who will ply their wares in the middle of May when the campus is seized with recurring fits of elections.

Editor Sharp has the right idea, we think. Here's what he has to say.

"With spring on its way, those faint rumblings which you may have noticed mean only that the well-known character THE CAMPUS POLITICIAN is coming out of his winter-long hibernation to solicit your vote. When elections are over, and another activity to be added to future application forms is safely tucked away, he'll return again to restful slumber.

"Don't get us wrong. Not all officers of clubs and classes are in this category, but some of them are and it's this deadwood that should be cut away, that new life may be given to the organization.

"The last several meetings of your Student Council have been marked by a common characteristic — many unexcused absentees. These were the ones who told you last spring that they would represent YOU, air YOUR gripes, see that YOUR viewpoint was presented to the Council. They promised everything; all you had to do was vote for them. But now they're too busy to attend. They have the extra line in the yearbook which they were after. YOU have nothing.

"Fortunately, people of this type are in the minority. However, it's this miority which obstructs everyone else. Therefore, it's up to you to keep your eyes open, check the VILLANOVAN to see who's doing what, and when election time rolls around vote, and vote intelligently.

"Better yet ,if you feel that you could do a better job than has been done don't hesitate to run for office yourself. There is a great deal to be gained from participation in extra-curricular activities but it takes a little effort to make it worthwhile. Moreover, if you do take an active part in the various activities you'll soon find that you are getting a great deal more out of them than mere yearbook listings.

"When election time finally arrives, if you feel that you can contribute something, run for office. In any event, don't be taken in by promises. Vote for the best man for every post. For if the best qualified man doesn't win, YOU lose!"

Amen, brother.

If, in the class and club elections which are looming, we can put good men in the right places and trounce the Budding Politico at the polls, we'll be well on our way toward placing all extra-curricular groups on a respectable level of activity once more.

Which Form Superior: Monarchy-Democracy?

By George Ferguson

Dispatches from Madrid within the last year seem to indicate that El Caudillo, General Francisco Franco, is considering the restoration of the Spanish throne, probably within the next five years. Accordingly, the young heir-apparent to the crown is being quietly prepared to assume his role as King of Spain. In 1951, when the former Italian colony of Lybia gained its independence, provided for by a United Nations agreement, its people chose a King as their head of state. A few years after the end of World War II, a quiet movement to restore the monarchy got under way in one of the nations of continental Europe. The attempt failed, because of Socialist opposition and the presence of Soviet Russian troops in that country.

FERGUSON

What advantages, if any, are to be found in a monarchial-type government? Do the developments outlined above constitute the beginning of a new trend toward restoration of the crown in those European countries, which effected a change of government after 1918? The answers to these questions could fill a book; they are to be found mainly in the study of history, comparative government, sociology and international relations.

Three Types

Briefly, sociology teaches us that there are basically three good types of government: monarchy, artisocracy and democracy. Further, that ideally speaking, monarchy is the best type. However, we find that democracy is, for many nations, the most practical system. But the success of any type of government in a nation-state depends largely on the political maturity of its people, and the honesty, sincerity and maturity of its leaders. The monarchy in some countries stands as a symbol of unity; in others it has helped in fostering stability. In Great Britain, The Netherlands, and the Scandinavian countries, the tradition of the crown has endured throughout many centuries, not only as indicative of unity and stability, but bceuase of the gradual successful changeover from absolute to constitutional monarchy. In these countries the prestige and popularity of the crowned heads is high, due in great part to the ability of the royal families to adapt themselves to the development of democracy within their respective realms, and to the personal characteristics of intelligence, discretion and affability exercised by each ruler.

Displacing Crown

Defeat in a major war is likely to be a strong factor in the displacement of the crown. In the case of Germany, the United States made the blunder of refusing to make peace with that country after World War I, until the German Emperor had renounced his rights to the throne. Germany was forced to experiment with democracy. After World War I, the United States refused to make peace with Germany until the Emperor William II had renounced his right to the throne. The Germans were forced to experiment with democracy; an experience totally new and strange to them. The result was the weak Weimar Republic, which ended with a Socialist dictatorship, far more undemocratic than the Empire had ever been.

Not Again

Fortunately, the same mistakes was not made after our victory over the Japanese Empire in 1945. Japan today continues to maintain its traditional form of government, while broadening the scope of democratic processes, under its new constitution. It is still probably too early to determine whether a definite trend is in the making, with regard to monarchial restoration in Europe. The ultimate answer must wait until the advent of a new, democratic regime in Russia, and the holding of free general elections in the staties of central and eastern Europe.

Glavin Reveals

Ironical Case: Nobody Can Spell All-American's Name

The arts of newspaper-writing and publicity—release—writing have many requirements. Style, clarity, compactness—these are all virtues in these professions. But, most important, beyond any doubt, is accuracy!

GLAVIN

This column today is a tale of one of the biggest boneheads of inaccuracy ever perpetrated in the fields of journalism and public relations. It is a tale that may seem impossible, because the victim of the inaccuracy was available to the errant writer day-in-and-day-out for four years! Its ludicrousness almost makes one think that it was dreamed up by a national sportscaster for a weekly show of strange happenings.

Ludicrous

It is a strange happening, most certainly. Ludicrous? Yes. And pertinent, very pertinent, because it happened at Villanova.

Four years ago a tall, dark-haired youth from New Rochelle, New York, first matriculated at Villanova. He was like any other student, except for one thing: he could propel a basketball through a basket better than any man of his era.

Fame Grew

As the four years of his collegiate matriculation progressed, so did his fame. He was literally a member of the "basketball elite" of America. He filled gymnasiums. He won games for his team and school. And, he kept firing basketballs through the netting for points with his characteristic uncanny accuracy and unbelievable frequency and consistency.

His name? You've guessed it by now. It's Larry Hennessey—ONLY IT ISN'T.

For, utilizing accuracy unknown in the press reports and college publicity releases for four years, we shall call him Larry HENNESSY . . . yes, without the "E."

Happened Here!

Believe it or not, it's the truth. It happened here at Villanova! For four long years an All-American's name has been misspelled. All anyone had to do was check. Evidently no one did.

We salute an All-American: LARRY HENNESSY.

The New One:

Library, Now 4 Years Old, Is Already An Institution

On Sunday, February 8, 1953, the new Library of Villanova College was formally opened to the public. The three hundred guests present for the occasion were welcomed by Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, OSA, President of the College. Father Falvey, Library Direstor explained the building and its facilities.

Dates to 1796

The history of the Villanova Library begins with the foundation of the Augustinian Fathers in America, when they started construction of St. Augustine's Church in Philadelphia in 1796.

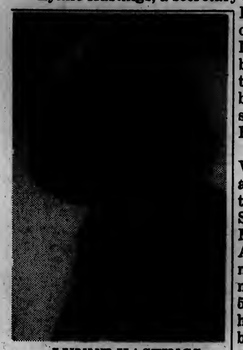
Around the year 1900, Villanova underwent a program of expansion. Its collection of books was divided between two libraries, one for students, located in Mendel Hall, the other for the faculty, on the top floor of the Monastery.

100,000 Volumes

The new edifice, opened in 1949, contains at present about one hundred thousand volumes, with a full capacity of more than four hundred thousand. Father Falvey stated that the new policy of making the library available to the surrounding communities is working well. The system is planned so that it will not interfere with either student or faculty use of books.

One of the outstanding donations made to the Villanova College Library recently is a number of prints of Currier and Ives, given by Miss Emily Maloney of Waterbury. Currier and Ives were cartoonists as well as recorders of contemporary events, and their prints in this latter vein had, on one hand, a sting and bitteress typical of the period, and on the other, in the case of such "comics" as the Darktown and other series a broad and boisterous humor that is happily, perhaps, lacking in their successors of the present day.

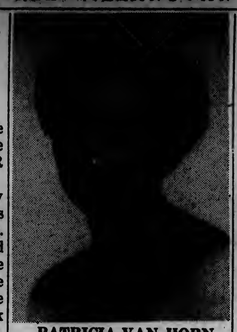
Presents Opportunity



The opening of the college library to the public will give all the people of Radnor Township the opportunity to see that within our boundaries exists a great and respected institution of learning, with 110 years of achievement behind it

The library can give to the residents of surrounding communities access to many technical volumes not to be found outside of Philadelphia. It can make available to those interested, one of the foremost collections of Irish-American literature, the Joseph McGarrity Collection. And, of course, there are thousands of other books on many subjects, which can be borrowed by any resident of this area.

Junior Quest For Queen Rolls On To April Finale



In just 28 DAYS the Junior Week Queen Contest will be ended. Just four short weeks from today the pictures will be presented to our judges for their final decision. Is YOUR date entered yet?

Lynne Hastings, a secretary at the U. S. Naval Air Supply Depot in Philadelphia, leads our list of entries this week. Lynne has brown hair and brown eyes and a fine chance to be Queen (as you can see by her picture). She will be seen at Junior Week with Jack Buckley, a general arts major.

LYNNE HASTINGS

Another local girl, Patricia Van Horn of Drexel Hill is also making her bid for Queen this week. A graduate of Grier School and the Philadelphia Museum School of Industrial Arts, Pat is now advertising manager of a Camden department store. She is a tall, slim 5 ft. 9 inch and has brown hair. John Howley is the lucky boy.

PATRICIA VAN HORN

Charlie Langfeld, a business major, is bringing Ina Adams of Brooklyn, N. Y., down for Junior Week. A charming red head, Ina is a graduate of Franklin K. Lane High School and is now employed at the Oakite Products Co., in New York. She is 22 years old.

INA ADAMS

Why not put your girl's picture right on this page in our next issue? There is still time to get your entries in early enough for publication.

Bring either to the Villanovan office or to Room 220 Alumni Hall.

The next meeting of the Delta Pi Epsilon Fraternity will be held on April 15. Nominations for next year's officers will be made at the meeting.

"This and That"

By W. W.

If the "unfortunate students of Africa and the Far East" were voting this month for a Great White Chief, Bob Ervin would bring home the title. Bob collected enough old clothes in the N.F.C.C.S. drive to outfit a tribe of Zulus for the Easter Parade. . . . "I am not here to praise Caesar . . . " but I'm going to do it anyway. Certain Shakespearean authorities have challenged the ability of a student dramatic group to present such a classic successfully. Tom Hayden and Co. met the challenge. . . .

Our society editor reports that several of our more social minded brethren vacationing in New York last week enjoyed a quiet afternoon at the sophisticated Biltmore Lounge and also saw a fine show, "The Woman in the White Suit."

Shakespeare's Julius Caesar A Masque Dramatic Triumph

"FRIENDS, ROMANS, COUNTRYMEN!" Mark Antony (Tom Hayden) begins his eulogy over the dead form of Julius Caesar. This was the high spot in a fine performance given by the Belle Masque last week.—(Photo by Steve Lyons).

Although a few days overdue, the Ides of March visited the college Field House in an unusually auspicious manner last weekend. The occasion was the Belle Masque Society's prsentation of "Julius Caesar". Judging from most reports, the concensus was that the college dramatists did an excellent job in handling the Shakespearean tragedy.

Dave Leahy as the proud Caesar, Tony Della Rocca as the idealistic Brutus, and Tom Hayden as the opportunistic Antony all turned in fine performances. Particularly effective were the efforts of Bernie Coyne in the role of Cassius. The supporting cast, also, helped make the play a success.

Walter Doyle, as Casca, and Peter Tulli, as the soothsayer, both carried their parts well. No less valuable were Mimi Heffernan and Joan Kuckenberg as the wives of Caesar and Brutus, respectively.

Few who saw the drama failed to appreciate the excellent work done by the production staff. The settings and vivid sound effects contributed in no small way to the play's success.

Father Krupa and his group deserve a sincere congratulations for the hard work devoted in making "Julius Caesar" one of the Belle Masque's finest productions.

Dormitory Housing 400 Men Planned; $1.2 Million Grant

A loan of $1,218,000 has been granted Villanova for the construction of a new dormitory, it was announced last week by Senator Edward Martin, chairman of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, the committee which made the loan.

Appropriations for the new dormitory, which will house approximately 400 men, were okayed because military needs are served by the college. It was pointed out that both the Navy Reserve Officer Training Corps and research contracts with the Army and the Navy fall into this category.

A Villanova spokesman said that the dormitory has been in the planning stage for some time, contingent only on governmental approval. Although the plans in present form lack official approval, it appears that the four-story building will be somewhere north-east of the Commerce and Finance Building. Finished in smooth and rough stone, the dorm will follow the same style as the library and the Navy building, which were erected in 1948. Besides sleeping accommodations, the new dorm will include a smoking room and a fairly elaborate recreation and lounge room.

It is reported that the proposed student union building which will house a new 1000-capacity cafeteria is to be constructed near the dorm. The present dining hall holds just over two hundred students at one time.

Construction work is expected to begin late next September on the dormitory, preceding by as much as a year the initial work on the student union undertaking.

Augustinians Meet Church's Needs With Missionary Work

Unlike most religious Orders, the Augustinians are not devoted to any specific type of work, but were founded to meet the needs of the Church, whatever they might be. Late in the eighteenth century, the Augustinians came to the United States from Ireland to do missionary work. These missions later became parishes, and as a result, the Order has at the present time about thirty-eight parishes.

The Augustinian parish, however, is not like an ordinary parish. In addition to the regular parochial duties of the parish, the Fathers maintain the traditional Augustinian devotions and retain their common life.

Another field of labor in which we are engaged is the preaching of missions, retreats and novenas. The Fathers of the Augustinian Mission Band lead a life of constant preaching, long hours in the confessional and continuous traveling. These self-sacrificing priests reside at various centrally located houses, and after preaching for several weeks, return to their community for a breathing spell or to prepare new sermons.

It was not long after their arrival in America that the Fathers entered the educational field. The Augustinians were among the first to open high schools, academies and colleges where the Catholic youth of our young nation could not only be taught the usual subjects, but also be given solid training in the teaching of their Faith.

At present the Order maintains high schools and colleges of various types from coast to coast. In an effort to keep abreast of the times and realize more fully the wide scope of Catholic education, the Fathers introduced technical training in their schools, a unique feat for religious teachers.

This move was hailed in educational circles as the beginning of a new trend in Catholic education. Besides the regular schools, there are seminaries. The training of future Augustinian priests and brothers is a task not taken lightly by the Order.

Such is the variety of work done by the American Augustinians. God alone knows what the future labors of the Order will be. But we as Augustinians know, however, that whatever may be the needs of the Church, we will ever be ready to lend our efforts for the cause of Christ.

Shamrocks Finish Unbeaten as I-M Tourney Starts

By John Gillman

St. Patrick's day was a great day for the Shamrocks, inspiring them to break two I-M records in their 126-37 rout of the Barracks 2 team. The 126 point total is the highest ever, breaking the mark of 119 set by the Vandals several weeks ago. Their 62 field goals also set a new standard. The four top men for the Shamrocks were O'Neil, O'Prestwick, and McDurk with 30 apiece and McSimonic with 20. Thus the Shamrocks finish their regular season play with a 7-0 mark, and advance into the quarter finals of the All-Villanova basketball tournament. They will play Barracks 4, the second place team in the Barracks League. Barracks 4 gained this dubious privilege by beating the Ballhawks 42-34. Butler had 15 for the winners while the loser's Carter had 12. In their last contest Barracks 1 came out on top for the first time this season, topping Barracks 3 by a 48-40 count. Gobillot and Fitzpatrick paced the winners with 14 apiece but Deerkoski of the losers was high man with 20.

NROTC Riflemen Sink Princeton, Penn in Big Meet

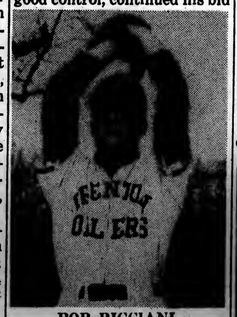
The NROTC Rifle team caused people to take notice when they won the shoulder to shoulder triangle match with Pennsylvania and Princeton. In the Area match Pennsylvania had taken the first position by a handy score, with Villanova second. When faced with a shoulder to shoulder match, however, they cracked and Villanova came through to win under pressure. The final results—Villanova 1346, Pennsylvania 1331, Princeton 1266.

Inspired with recent significant victories, Team Captain Sam Fanelli says, "We expect to end the season with the finest record in the history of the team."

Matches remaining to be fired by the Midshipmen in the near future include the National Match and the Secretary of the Navy Pistol Match. Both are pistol matches. On the pistol team are Midshipmen Delaney, Joliat, Trunzo, Byrne, Danko, and Fanelli.

Mahanmen Sharpen Hitting, Fielding; Opener Nearing

Coach Art Mahan's baseball hopefuls turned on the steam to sweat off the excess poundage and sharpen the batting eyes last week, as over 30 candidates took advantage of the streak of good weather to get in several long afternoon workouts behind the stadium.



The clear skies for the better part of the week gave Mahan a chance to see his proteges display their wares in the batting cage and on the field, for the first times.

Vets, Newcomers Impressive

Several veterans and a couple of newcomers were impressive in the early workouts. Shortstop Ralph Cecere clubbed a few long drives in batting practice, as did outfielder Harry LeFever.

Dick Scott, Bob Weidenman, of Freeport, L. I., Bob Eichorn and Tom Gear, of Norristown alternated serving up hitting practice, but all were rather wild, as can be reasonably expected, since there have been few outdoor work-outs.

Lefty Don Sommers, displaying a sharp curve and fairly good control, continued his bid for a top starting position with a short but impressive mound stint.

Last year's pitching ace, John Watson, now in the Boston Red Sox farm system, was hitting fungoes to the outfielders Thursday afternoon. Jack Peters made one notably nice catch during the hour-long fly-shagging activity. Bob Haner is also out for an outfield post.

Spotlight On Fielding

Ron Schnorbus, a day-hop, while not overly-pretentious at the plate, went down in the dirt nicely at first base several times for low pegs. He may provide a good deal of competition for that position. Another smooth fielding exhibition was supplied by Don Mouchetti, who definitely has an eye on the third base job.

Meanwhile, a former infielder trying his hand at pitching, Bob Richianni, was warming up with catcher Ken Lowe, displaying good control and serving notice that he may be the stopper the club will need to replace Watson.

With the opening game only eight days away, against Equitable Life Insurance, Mahan is stressing more inter-squad contests, and more running for his pitchers, in hopes of fielding a well-conditioned aggregation next Wednesday.

Six Engagements Listed For Thinclads; Includes IC4-A

By Tom Mentzer

Six running dates, including one in the Los Angeles Coliseum, make up the 1953 Outdoor Track season for Villanova's thinclads. Included in the schedule are three relay engagements, one dual meet, one triangular meet, and the IC4A championships.

The official opening of the campaign will take place on April 17th and 18th when Coach Elliot's lads journey to New Jersey to take part in the Seton Hall Relays. Although this date is still three weeks in the future, diligent practice on the cinders has been underway since the close of the indoor season. Rain and the recent snow have kept the track "slow," and as a result, there haven't been any exceptional practice trials. However, Mr. Elliot expects this situation to be improved with the advent of good weather.

Following the Seton Hall curtain raiser, the Wildcat runners will participate in the Annual Penn Relays at Franklin Field. There is then a two-week interlude which will serve as a get-ready period prior to a four-week grind. Beginning on May 9th and continuing through three subsequent weeks, the Blue and White cindermen will meet Seton Hall in a home dual meet, will take part in the California Relays — Fred Dwyer and a two-mile relay team will make the trip—will be participants in a triangular meet in New York with Fordham University and New York University, and, finally, will attempt to cop the Outdoor Track College championship in the IC4-A meet.

Foremost in the 1953 array of tracksters are Fred Dwyer, once-defeated thus far in 1953, Joe Gaffney, the smooth-striding middle distance ace, Ray Wheiler, who hopes his ankle injury is sufficiently healed to enable him to better his great 880 performances of 1952, and the veteran John Joe Barry, on whose shoulders rests the Blue and White's chances in the two mile. Others who are certain to play a large part in the coming campaign are Bill Rock, Jerry Utter, Mike Quinn, and Bart Maynahan.

Former OSU Star Wins Second Mile; Dwyer Is Fourth

The nation's hottest miler, Fred Dwyer, was beaten last Friday night by a boy who has become even hotter in the last two weeks. The former Ohio State star, Len Truex, has suddenly blossomed into the foreground of the winter track picture.

For most of the season, Mr.

FRED DWYER

Truex could get no better than a rear view shot of any of his competitors. When he apparently couldn't stand this highly embarrassing position any longer, young Truex decided to assert himself and he certainly did. First in Milwaukee too weeks ago, and then once again in Cleveland on Friday night.

The Milwaukee showing put on by Len was the best mile turned in by anyone in the last two years. Truex was clocked in 4:07.9, which is pretty good time in anybody's league.

In the lake front city of Cleveland the time was considerably slower, as Truex led everybody in the dash to the finish line. On Friday the judges caught Len in 4:11.8 for the eight furlongs.

Now even with these two races it is doubtful if the Ohioan could have taken Fred Dwyer, if Freddie had been in his usual condition. Fred has had a bout with the flu lately and it has taken a lot out of him. For this reason, Coach Jumbo Elliot has pulled little Dwyer out of the Banker's Mile in Chicago nert week.

It was too bad for Freddie's sake that he couldn't go through the season unbeaten, but as in everything, a man can have a bad night. He wouldn't be human if things like this didn't happen once in a while.

EAST-WEST GAME

Villanova's All-American, Larry Hennessy, will take part in the annual East-West College All-Star game to be played in Madison Square Garden this Saturday, March 28. The game, which will provide some of the greatest collegiate cage talent in the entire country, will be played for the benefit of the New York Herald Tribune's Fresh-Air Fund for under-privileged children. LaSalle's Norm Grekin, Walt Dukes of Seton Hall and many other nationally-known stars will participate.

SPORTS CHATTER

Double Dribbles

By Dick Confoy

Now that the NIT and the Flying Flounders are just faded memories, how about a glance at some pertinent facts involving Ned Irish's Dream Tourney. The NIT final was played before the largest crowd—18,496—ever to see a basketball game in the Garden's history. Wouldn't this seem to be perhaps a vote of confidence on the part of the fans in Madison Square Garden and basketball as it is played there?

Of the twelve teams entered in the tournament, eight—Duquesne, Georgetown, Seton Hall, Niagara, St. John's, St. Louis, Manhattan, and LaSalle—were Catholic colleges, and the year before there were 11 out of 12. The three major Catholic schools that played in the NCAA tournament — Notre Dame, Seattle, and Holy Cross—make it a policy to schedule a Garden game almost every year. Wouldn't this seem to be an indication by these colleges that in their opinion the Garden today is free of any taint or undesirable influence left over from the scandals of 1950? Huh?

Protesting their University's dropping of football, NYU's student paper is organizing an intercollegiate marble team to replace the rejected sport. The paper has announced that spring practice will begin soon, and attempts are being made to establish a scholarship fund to recruit players. A leading New York dignitary is being sought to throw out the first marble. Wonder if the school will accept a bid to the NIT (Nibs Invitational Tournament)?

As is explained in fuller detail on page two of this issue, Larry Hennessey, that is, Hennessy, has had his name misspelled for his entire Villanova career. But lest the casual reader think this boo-boo is a once-in-a-lifetime, here are a few more recent beauties: When Bobby Schafer, who has suffered through the entire season seeing his name spelled Schaefer and Schaeffer in the local sheets, got his gold basketball award last week, the engraving read—B. Schaffer. And not only did the press releases informing the papers that trainer Jake Nevin had been honored for long years of service spell Jake's name wrong, but so did the plaque that was awarded him. Thuts a foct.

There are still some tickets left at the fieldhouse for the East-West game at Madison Square Garden this coming Saturday. Student rates, one dollar for three buck seats. Larry Hennessy will also be tossing them in for the College All-Stars against the fabulous Harlem Globetrotters this Sunday (afternoon and night) at the Garden and next Tuesday night at Convention Hall. Tickets are $1.30 and $1.95 at the Hall . . . Villanova's 1953 football slate will definitely include Georgia, Texas, Kentucky, BC, BU, Detroit, and Wake Forest, plus 2 or 3 more. Georgia and Detroit are, so far, the only home games. News Item: Lou Perini announce that he will sell Braves Field as a factory site by June. Villianova is scheduled to play BC at Braves Field in October, and BU is using Fenway Park that same weekend. Another home tilt, maybe?

Nick Maguire MVP, John Devine New Court Captain

John Devine, the Wildcats' sophomore defensive ace, was named captain of the 1953-54 basketball squad at a dinner given in honor of the team by the Villanova Club of South Jersey. John, who succeeds Sam Glassmire at the helm, averaged nine points a game for the past season and was club's number one rebounder.

Nick Maguire, the Cats' foxy driver who compiled an uncanny .480 lifetime field goal percentage, was an overwhelming choice for the Most Valuable Player award. An uncertain starter when the season opened, Nick kept the Hennessy-less ball club moving and wound up the campaign with almost a 15 point average.

Trainer Jake Nevin was also honored at the dinner, the little man receiving a plaque for meritorious and unheralded service to the school.

Unanimous All-City

Larry Hennessy became the second player in Villanova's history to be named a unanimous All-City choice. Sam Glassmire was seventh man on the same team, and Bobby Schafer, Nick Maguire, and Jim Mooney received honorable mentions. Larry was also named to Duquesne's All-Opponent team and Schafer was sixth man. Sam Glassmire was voted one of the five best ball players to appear at Buffalo Auditorium all season. Niagara, St. Bonaventure, Canisius, and Buffalo play most of their home games at the Auditorium.

other team, probably either the Scattas or Good Counsel, to be picked. All three of these teams won their games last week. The Flyers took the Rummies 56-50, to finish their season unbeaten. Good Counsel beat the Old Men 30-26 and the Scattas, behind Maffy's 23 points, also took the Old Men, but by a more impressive 62-36 count.

representatives will be here for Personal Interviews on March 26

There are many openings for engineers in American industry today. But we honestly believe that there are few which offer benefits equal to those at Hamilton Standard:

- Good starting salary with excellent chance for advancement based on ability.
- Opportunity to use your complete education on a wide variety of problems. Not just one product but many. In addition to our world-famous propellers, we are successfully marketing a growing line of jet aircraft equipment, such as engine starters, fuel control systems, cockpit refrigeration units and hydraulic pumps. Many other designs are still in the early stages of development.
- Association with an exceptionally high calibre engineering staff, which has a record of steady growth throughout our 33 year history.
- Ideal location midway between Hartford, Conn., and Springfield, Mass., the center of an area known for its cultural and recreational advantages.
- New plant, with modern air-conditioned offices, in attractive country setting. Group insurance and many other employee benefits.

Our representative will be glad to answer your questions and tell you more about the opportunities in our growing organization.

WINDSOR LOCKS, CONNECTICUT

IF YOU CAN WIN THESE WINGS YOU CAN EARN OVER $5,000 A YEAR AFTER GRADUATION

Important facts about the opportunities for YOU as a Commissioned Officer—Pilot or Aircraft Observer—in the United States Air Force

Must I be a college graduate to take Aviation Cadet Training?

No. But you must have completed a minimum of 60 semester hours or 90 quarter hours toward a degree. In addition, under the new Aviation Cadet training program, you must be between the ages of 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition—with high requirements for eyes, ears, heart and teeth.

How long before I get my commission?

60 calendar weeks. You will receive the finest aviation training in the world—training that not only equips you to fly modern military aircraft but prepares you for executive and administrative work as well. At the completion of your training, you will have acquired a commission as a 2nd Lieutenant and the coveted silver wings of the United States Air Force.

Where do I take my training?

Pre-flight training will be at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas. Primary, basic and advanced training will be taken at any one of the many Air Force bases located throughout the South and Southwest.

What happens if I flunk the training course?

Every effort is made to help students whose progress is unsatisfactory. You can expect extra instructions and whatever individual attention you may require. However, if you fail to complete the course as an Aviation Cadet, you will be required to serve a two-year enlistment to fulfill the minimum requirement under Selective Service laws. Veterans who have completed a tour of military service will be discharged upon request if they fail to complete the course.

What pay do I get as an Aviation Cadet? And after?

As an Aviation Cadet you draw $109.20 a month pay. In addition, you get summer and winter uniforms, flight clothes, equipment, food, housing, medical and dental care and insurance . . . all free. After you are commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant you will be earning $5,300.00 a year—with unlimited opportunities for advancement.

Are all Aviation Cadets trained to be Pilots?

No. You can choose between becoming a Pilot or an Aircraft Observer. Men who choose the latter will become commissioned officers in Navigation, Bombardment, Radar Operation, or Aircraft Performance Engineering.

Do Aircraft Observers get flying training, too?

Yes. Aircraft Observer Cadets receive approximately 200 hours of "in the air" instructions. The primary phase of Aircraft Observer training is the same for all branches (navigation, bombardment, etc.). The basic and advanced phases of training vary, depending on the specific course you pursue.

What kind of airplanes will I fly?

You will fly jets. The Pilot Cadet takes his first instructions in a light, civilian-type plane of approximately 100 horsepower, then graduates to the 600 horsepower T-6 "Texan" before receiving transition training in jets. You then advance gradually until you are flying such famous first-line aircraft as F-86 Sabre, F-89 Scorpion, B-47 Stratojet, B-50 Superfortress. Observer Cadets take flight instructions in the C-47 Dakota, the T-29 Convair, and the TB-50 Superfortress before advancing to first-line aircraft such as the F-89 Scorpion, B-47 Stratojet.

Will my commission be in the Regular Air Force or Reserve?

Aviation Cadet graduates, both Pilots and Aircraft Observers, get Reserve commissions as 2nd Lieutenants and become eligible to apply for a regular Air Force Commission when they have completed 18 months of active duty.

How long must I remain in Service?

After graduation from the Aviation Cadet Program, you are tendered an indefinite appointment in the United States Air Force Reserve and are called to active duty with the United States Air Force for a period of three years.

What recreation and leisure time will I have as a Cadet?

Discipline will be rigid—especially for the first few weeks. However, it is not all work. You'll find swimming pools, handball courts, movies and other forms of recreation on the post.

Where will I be stationed when I get my commission?

You may be stationed anywhere in the world . . . Hawaii, Far East, Europe, Puerto Rico, elsewhere. During your tour of duty, you will be in close touch with the latest developments in new flying techniques. You will continue to build up your flying experience and later should have no difficulty securing a CAA commercial pilot or navigator rating.

Your future is assured if you can qualify! Here's what to do:

1. Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
2. If application is accepted, the Air Force will arrange for you to take a physical examination at government expense.
3. Next, you will be given a written and manual aptitude test.
4. If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet training class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

Wives Club Hears Mrs. W. Dilworth

The Faculty Wives Group held their regular meeting on Tuesday evening, March 17, in the library of the Naval Science Building, with the president, Mrs. J. Stanley Morehouse in charge.

After a brief business session, the program of the evening followed, at which time an unusual exhibit of objects of art from around the world was displayed by Mrs. Walter Dilworth, of Bywood. Mrs. Dilworth, a noted world traveler and lecturer, centered her talk on the many reproductions of the Madonna, Madonna and Child, scenes from The Nativity, The Last Supper, and the Crucifixion.

Mrs. Dilworth has made her collection with the idea of representing as many arts and crafts in her objects as was possible, rather than a large quantity of any one subject.

Tomko Thumps Thug

Pa. Has Most Wage Violators IRC Members Are Informed

Mr. William Hargadine, divisional director for the hour, wage, and public contracts division of the Labor Department was the guest speaker last Wednesday night at the meeting of the Industrial Relations Commission. Approximately one hundred students from Villanova and Manor College attended the meeting.

Mr. Hargadine spoke on wage and hour legislation and his role in controlling violations.

Present legislation controls minimum wages (at seventy-five cents an hour), child labor, and overtime compensation, he said. The Wage and Hour Commission investigates violations of these laws but has in itself no power to prosecute violators, he explained. Employees or the Department of Labor must do the filing of suits against violators.

Mr. Hargadine gave statistics to prove that "Pennsylvania has more violators of the minimum wage laws than does any state north of the Mason-Dixon line." However, he said, in violations of child labor laws and overtime compensation Pennsylvania may be proud of its low infraction rate, he said.

A question and answer period followed the talk. Mr. Hargadine's assistant, Mr. Kelly, joined in the explanations.

Refreshments were served after the question and answer period.

Middies to Hold Spring Formal in Philly April 10

Details for the annual Spring Formal of the NROTC Unit have been announced by the Recreation Committee. The Midshipman social will take place on April 10, 1953, n the Penn Sheraton Hotel, 37th and Chestnut Streets, Phila. Howard Cook will provide the music for dancing from 9 to 1. Dance Chairman Jack Kistner has announced that the dance will be a strictly formal affair for all the midshipmen and their dates.

In the past the midshipman dances have been of the finest at Villanova and it is expected that this will be no exception. It will be the first sanctioned function of a college group since the beginning of Lent and will open the Spring social season.

Allan Stewart is chairman of the recreation committee, which arranges the details and LCDR W. B. O'Brien, USN, is the officer advisor.

Servo Motor Analysis Topic Of Mathematics Frat Session

The Mu Alpha Theta Honorary Mathematics Society will hold a meeting on Tuesday, March 24, 1953 in room 215 Mendel Hall at 7:30 p.m.

All students are invited to attend this meeting and hear Mr. Thomas C. Linahan give a talk on "Modern Methods of Servo Motor Analysis."

Mr. Linahan graduated from Villanova College in 1952 and is now working for the Brown Instrument Co. in Philadelphia. He is in the Mathematics Department and has been working on the project of determining time constants from frequency response curves.

The lecture will be of interest to all engineers including the Freshmen. Mr. Amelotti is moderator of the Mathematics Club, Donald Sayce is President, Dan Kerrisk is Vice President and Ted Kuligowski is Secretary-treasurer. All students interested in becoming members of this society should sign up Tuesday night.

Art Quinn Named Belle Air Editor; Plans Portraits

Work on the 1954 Belle Air was officially begun last week with the announcement by Rev. Daniel P. Falvey, O.S.A. that Arthur L. Quinn would be editor-in-chief.

Quinn, who graduated from Georgetown Prep, Washington, D. C., is a resident of Washington, D. C., is currently president of the junior class at Villanova and worked on the sports and copy staffs of the 1953 Belle Air.

Plans are being made by Quinn and Joseph Zator, of Shamokin, Pa., for the senior portraits to be taken by Zamsky Studios from May 11 to May 22 on the campus. Two photographers from Zamsky will be on hand to take the portraits for the yearbook. Further details will be published at a later date.

The new editor-in-chief has chosen Joe Zator as his layout editor and Harry Anger as Sports Editor. Other editorial positions will be filled by Quinn in the near future.

All men, Juniors and underclassmen, interested in working on the 1954 Belle Air should contact Art Quinn in Room 212, Fedigan Hall.

JR. WEEK TICKETS

A central agency for the sale of tickets for all the Junior Week events — Mother's Day, the Blazer Ball, the Junior Prom, and the Junior Dinner-Dance—opened yesterday in the Pie Shop. The Junior ticket booth will be open daily for the next two weeks.

At the ticket booth, Juniors are also urged to sign up for Senior Portrait appointments.

New Council Representation System Proposed, Debated

Although one proposed amendment to the Constitution of the Student Council has already been rejected, it seems fairly certain that day-hops of the school will have a much stronger voice in student affairs in years to come.

At the most recent meeting of the Student Council, a plan suggesting the replacement of representation from each school — the Arts school, the Engineering school, the Commerce and Finance school, and the Education school — with equal representation in the junior and senior classes between residents and day-hops, was vetoed because it was felt that the balance of power among the schools should be maintained.

An alternate measure was proferred by Student Council Secretary Dick Boehling. An unofficial show of hands appeared to favor this bill. The proposal was a compromise between the existing article and the already-mentioned plan, with one notable exception. Boehling's amendment would take from the Education Department the privilege of nominating a candidate. It was pointed out that, in truth, the Education "school" is not a school at all, but a division of Arts.

A motion was approved to have Tom Ackerman, president of the Student Council, confer with faculty leaders in an attempt to get free time during the day to hold future nominations and elections. This is another move to aid off-campus residents.

Other Council business included official recognition for the Villanova College Intercollegiate Conference on Government.

Absentees included Bob Quinn, Jim Moser, Harry LeFever, George Eberle, Lou Oberle, and Don Brown.

Blood Donor Drive A Great Success; Receives 130 Pints

The Chairman of the Bloodmobile Unit, which visited the campus last Wednesday, reports that the drive was a great success. Mrs. Stanley D. Hartshorn, Blood Chairman of the Wayne Branch of the American Red Cross says that "she cannot emphasize too much her gratitude for the wonderful cooperation which she received from the NROTC Unit and the student body as a whole."

A total of 130 pints were received during the one day visit. Of this, 80% will go directly to Korea, 10% will go to civilian use, and 10% will be placed in the Red Cross blood "stockpile."

All "operations" went very smoothly except for a few fainting cases and these were due to the fact that the boys did not eat breakfast before donating.

Mrs. Hartshorn pointed out that most of the donors were Navy students and seniors. The percentage of underclassmen was rather low. "This is due," said the chairman, "to the fact that most students do not realize what a simple, painless matter it is to donate blood."

The bloodmobile unit will visit the campus again in October.

Tickets On Sale For Mother's Day; Final Plans Set

Final arrangements for the opening of the Class of 1954's Junior Week—Mother's Day—are almost completed, according to chairman Ted Sheehan. The same activities of last year's Mother Day will be followed again.

"The Day through the years has been so well planned, that this year we have concentrated all our efforts in making sure that each event of the day is the best ever," Sheehan asserted.

Tickets for the day are on sale in the Pie Shop now and will be on sale until Friday, May 1. After that, all orders for corsages or banquet tickets will have to be discontinued. The tickets total $7.25. The corsage sells at one dollar and the evening banquet is $6.25.

Sheehan emphisized that he is looking for about ten Juniors, whose mothers will be unable to attend the festivities, to act as ushers during the day. If any one cares to be an usher, he is urged to see Sheehan as soon as possible.

The day begins annually with the celebration of Mass in the College Chapel at 11:00 a.m. At 12:15 the class tree will be planted to the right of the chapel. Following this will be a luncheon in the student cafeteria at 12:45. Since the cafeteria is unable to handle the crowd at one time, the committee is working out a system whereby the luncheon can be staggered.

Prior to the Mass at 11:00, the Mother's Day corsages will be distributed. After the luncheon, an entertainment in the Field House, featuring the concert band and excerpts from the coming Turf and Tinsel Show will be presented at 2:15. During this a baseball game with Rutgers of South Jersey will be played on the college field.

A special contest will be staged in the Library at 4:00, and Benediction will be held in the chapel at 5:15. The day will close with the third annual Mother's Day banquet in the Field House at 6:00 P.M.

The corsages which will be distributed at the start of the day will be carnations, the traditional Mother's Day flower, made up with suitable Villanova buntings.

Schools Open To Marine Lts.

Sixteen schools are opened to newly commissioned Marine Corps officers who graduate from the Officer Candidate Course, and Platoon Leaders Class programs, Captain L. Kirstein, U.S.M.C., declared today. Included are courses for flight training, photographic interpretation, naval gunfire spotting, armored motor officer, supply, communications officer, engineers officer, and others.

"The Marine Corps today is a highly trained technical force in readiness," stated Captain Kirstein. "While all Marine Corps officers are commissioned as general duty officers, they must also be trained to carry out special duties peculiar to the many land, air, and sea supporting units. More than half of our new junior officers are being assigned and trained in these special duties after being commissioned and upon completion of the Special Basic Course."

"Assignments to these schools are made according to college background of the individual officer, the needs of the Marine Corps, and the preference of the individual.

Filipski Heads 72 Man Cast Of T&T's 'Robin Hoodwink'

Gene Filipski, Villanova's football All-American, heads the seventy-two man cast for this year's gala Turf and Tinsel production, Robin Hoodwink, which will run May 13, 14, 15, and 16 in the Field House.

Filipski will play the role of Robin in the musical satire on the life of the famed archer of Sherwood Forest. Others in the cast include:

Football captain Bob Haner as Friar Tuck, the fat, tough chaplain of the famous band; Tom Green, singing star of last year's production, as Will Stutely; Tony Della Rocca, Belle Masque mainstay, as Sir Maudlin; Bernie Finan as the sheriff of Nottingham; Leo Gagion as Sir Percival; and Joe Blimm as Maid Marian.

Also: big Jude O'Donnell as Lady Bessie; Hugh Flaherty as Bloody Roger; Barry Schmitt, who had the lead last year, is back as Sir John; Walt Doyle, another Belle Masquer, as Lady Bertha; and Paul Cassidy as Reginald.

Jack Kelly, '52, former T&T star, is acting as assistant director for the production. He

Academic Freedom

Whether or not he meant what it sounded like he did, Senator Robert A. Taft expressed a dangerous sentiment when he reportedly said: "... As a member of the board of trustees of a University, I would not favor firing any (teacher) simply for being a Communist unless I was certain he was teaching Communism ..." This is just one statement arising from the aggressive congressional investigation of U. S. college and universities. The investigational dynamo has produced more heat than light, but some findings have been valuable.

There are some Communists in the teaching profession, and the question of how to deal with them has been controversial; in reaction to the statement of Senator Taft, Sidney Hook of New York University asserted: "Senator Taft's proposal would necessitate a kind of adminsitrative supervision and check which would demoralize our school system Convincing evidence that a teacher is a member of the Communist Party is prima facie evidence of educational unfitness".

"Academic Freedom," according to the American Association of University Professor's "Bulletin," means "unrestricted research and inquiry, freedom of teaching within the college or university and freedom of extra-mural expression and action." Whether Communists should be allowed to teach depends largely upon acceptance of unqualified academic freedom.

A student entering college is not a mature individual, and educators should consider the influence that teachers have on this novice. It would be improper to contend that the student should be allowed to "leap upon his educational horse and ride off in all directions", but at the same time the influence should be one of guidance and direction rather than a shoving around.

A teacher must be more than objective; he is in some degree a molder of thought and as such is in an especially responsible position. The Communist teacher or any teacher committed to a subversive ideology is not bound by fair play. It is he who takes advantage of his position because he is bound above everything to spreading his doctrine, false though it is.

And above all, error has no rights. Communism is error. Ergo . . .

Time ex Cathedra

So widely read among Villanovans that it is referred to as the "campus Bible" Time magazine is rarely considered fallible on matters of national crisis or international intrigue. The April 20 issue is no exception; five pages after Christine, Time nominates four men for Pope.

In trying to be objective and at the same time maintain its characteristic breezy, purplish journalism, Time falls all over itself. The death of the present pontiff is an unhappy though inevitable eventuality, but we suggest that "Time" leave the choice of his successor to the College of Cardinals and his successor's judgment to God.

REAL TOUGHIES: The rumor that Syracuse might fill an empty spot on our gridiron schedule next fall seems to have been squelched . . . The mighty Orange of Alabama-Orange Bowl fame is playing two real "big-time" elevens on the week-ends before and after—powerful Colgate and gigantic Cornell!! . . . Oh! . . . Pity the poor Orange!!!

ROTC CAPERS: The 72 seniors of the NROTC unit were toasted and wished "Good Luck" at their final Spring Formal . . . Although the "Sea Chanteys" were not heard reverberating, the Navyites kept tradition with a glass in one hand and a woman in the other . . . One of the highlights was Midshipman Charley Butler cavorting with his charming drag . . . RINGSIDE: "Shades of Marciano and Walcott"—Two of the "Hired Hands" of Brown Prep fame came to blows in back of the chow hall . . . Commotion was finally quieted by a few members of the football squad . . . REVEALING TOURS: With Junior Week rapidly approaching on the horizon, many mothers will get a view for the first time of the rooms in which their sons spend most of their time . . . Just keep them west of Kelley's Men!!! . . . Visitors to Moscow bring reports of a new political slogan: "Vote for Georgi Malenkov . . . the life you save may be your own." . . . MR. BASKETBALL: The Randolph theater in Philadelphia (12th and Chestnut) has a film entitled "Basketball 1953" running with its feature . . . It has Larry Hennessy (portraying himself, naturally) dropping in a few in the East-West game . . . Then the sharpshooter is shown doing his stuff in a game with the Globetrotters . . . Since when has it become a FEDERAL OFFENSE to tamper with the cold fruit drink machines in the Commerce and Finance Building?????? . . . Beware: J. Edgar's boys are on the prowl there . . .

TEA HOUSE CAPERS: (??) Joan Bollo, Julie Ditchy, Marsha Luce, and Gail Teevan are recuperating rapidly at Bryn Mawr hospital . . . Since "Pete" Petersen left, the hospital hasn't been quite the same . . . Joan's room seems to be rapidly taking on the functions of the famed (?) "Tea House" . . . BLUB, BLUB!! . . . There is a new addition to Villanova's Athletic Department in the person of one congenial Ed Gueisz. An ex-LaSalle College swimming star of a few years ago, Ed has already tentatively planned a swimming schedule for next fall which will finally give the Wildcat aquamen a crack at the "Power House" colleges of pool-fame (swimming) in the district . . . POLITICAL HACKS?? . . . There's a rising cresendo of political garble going on in the campus itself with senior elections rapidly drawing near . . . Shady characters of all types and descriptions can be seen popping into rooms and offering to "throw" Simpson and Austin this way or that way if so and so gets the nomination . . .

CRYSTAL GAZING: Red Smith went out on his perennial "limb" to again predict that the "Fightin' Phizz Kids" will take the pennant. He may be right if Connie Ryan's booming bat comes through again this year . . . And, might we inquire as to how the Philadelphia Apathetics are faring?? . . . Along the sports trail, still, big things are envisioned for Villanova when golf and tennis teams are incorporated in our sports activities again. Next Year, did we hear?? . . . Bishop Sheen predicted that with any serious peace proposals from Russia, the U. S. could expect another Pearl Harbor . . . Says the peace Russia wants is a piece of Poland, of China, of the U. S., etc . . .

. . . DOPE SHEET: In line with the plans for the new Villanova Law School, a catalog has been published AN ELABORATE ONE PAGE JOB . . . Remember men: "Tolle Lege, Tolle Lege!!

PLAY BALL:

Baseball Is National Game; The President Made It!

By Jim Glavin

We knew baseball was definitely in the air when the perennial picture of Washington's Clark Griffith calling on the President in the White House made its annual appearance. It should have been more than slightly different this year, though, what with a new tenant in the house on Pennsylvania Avenue in the nation's capitol.

GLAVIN

But, it was more than slightly different! For, the usual story did not accompany the picture; no, the President could not make the opening game, he was going to PLAY GOLF that day! A relief pitcher would have to be called from the exiles of the vice-presidency bullpen to hurl the initial toss.

The American Game

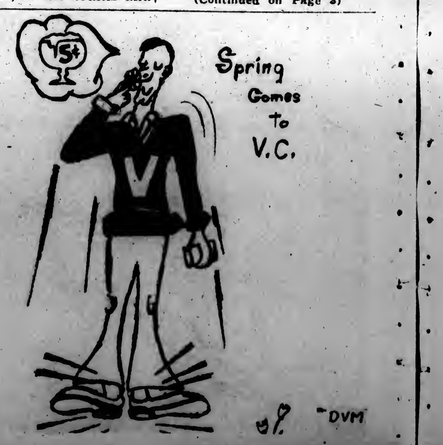
Perhaps if it had been the opening hockey game, or the first football game, or the first "tiddle" or "wink" or whatever it is of the tiddly-winks season it would have provoked less of a stir. But, baseball is the American game. It's a part of contemporary life in the country. The hot dog, a "coke," a Saturday-night date, afternoon at the ball game—that's America.

Maybe if the President had exited from the game because of the pressure of business, or if he had planned to go and had some unforseeable block arise at the last moment, it would have been understood. But, unfortunately in this case, and not to ajudge the veracity of the statement, there exists in many quarters a definition of golf as "a rich man's game." Probably it's no longer true, but you hear it said.

Some Rain, Some Mail . . .

It was a ticklish situation. But, some rain, some mail to the White House, and a newspaper's editors conference lent a hand. The opener was postponed. On the new date it happened that the President was flying home, even interrupting his golf, to address the editors. Yes, he would throw out the ball at the new "opener."

It was only fitting—for Baseball is the American game.



Will Katz, Says His Roomate, A Real Doll, Spelled D-U-L-L

By Bob Rock

The boys are always kidding around about what type roommates they have and telling all who will listen, about the carryings-on of their respective cell-sharers. Some may be true BUT let me tell you about the character to top all . . . My roommate, Will, is the typical college "bum" (or I should say "bummer") . . . He'll borrow anything from a Ten to a tooth brush . . . Will has the best wardrobe around the campus because he wears only everyone's finest; the only thing that he has that belongs to himself, is his brains and sometimes he makes you think he borrowed them from an idiot.

In fact, I think he's living on "borrowed" time. And talk about easy courses — His schedule consists of a 7 credit course of T.H. (Tea House) 3:30; a 5-credit subject called Sack-Time; and his toughest course is an Engineering one (The Study of the Architecture of Bar Stool's) . . . Will was the only freshman to have a degree when he entered Villanova. He was a B.M.O.C.! . . . But he takes his studying

Today Is Entry Deadline In Jr. Queen Contest

By Ward Welsh

Today is the deadline for the Junior Week Queen Contest. All pictures must be entered today to Ward Walsh, Room 220 Alumni Hall or to the Villanovan Office. No pictures will be accepted later.

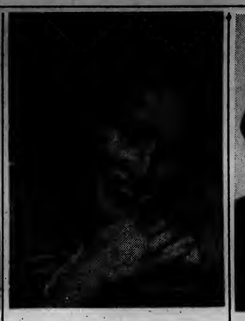
Tomorrow morning the pictures will be brough to Perry Como in New York. After Mr. Como has chosen his favorites they will be delivered to Harry Conover, famous New York model agent for his decisions.

Later this week, after the "professional test," the entries will be shown to Robin Roberts, pitching ace of the Phillies, for his views. The judges' choices, sealed individually, will be opened just before the Villanovan goes to press for the Junior Week Edition.

Latest Entries

Pictured today are five of the more recent of our entries: Peggy Daniels, a secretary at the Philadelphia Electric Company, will celebrate Junior Week with C & F student Tony Pearson. Peggy has brown hair and blue eyes.

A freshman at Marymount College, in New York, Beth Neary, is coming down for the Prom with Ed Barry, an Engineer. Eighteen year-old Beth also has brown hair and blue eyes.



Vince Parisi, an Arts major, has entered Mary Lou Heatherington of Perkasie, Pa. to vie for the title of Queen. She is a student at Mercy Junior College, Gwyned, studying to be a medical secretary.

Also going into the field of medicine is Marianne Ruppert. She is a student nurse at Fitzgerald Mercy Hospital. Marianne has blonde hair, blue eyes, and will enjoy junior week on the arm of Phil Ryan.

Mary Donovan, in her last year at Mt. Aloysius Junior College, Cresson, Pa., has brown hair and brown eyes. She lives on Long Island, as does her date, Tom Fellenz. Mary is nineteen years old.

Smart, Too

And is he smart! He heard that Beaver College was having a "mixer" so he took his cocktail shaker with him . . . And was he "eager for Beaver" . . . But one thing about Will, he's not a campus "politician"; his philosophy is "why complain, it doesn't do any good anyway."

He should try going to a Student Council meeting once. Watch out for Will, though, with the Junior Prom coming up . . . he's starting to borrow money now with the idea in mind "to borrow now, avoid the rush" . . . But Will is one of those few college boys who has no vices . . . He doesn't smoke (what's that you say, he bummed a cigarette from you yesterday? Oh! He just saves them and sells them to anyone who'll take the chance and buy them . . .)

Smoke Trouble

But speaking of smoking, Will ran into trouble once when he went out with a local college miss and she had forgotten to bring her own smokes along and when she asked Will for a cigarette, he said he didn't indulge . . . had a terrible time because she thought he had something wrong with him, treated him like an animal, but that's life! . . . Although for Will, the habit of not smoking got him off on the wrong foot as soon as he entered college . . . Someone asked for a butt casually, and when Will informed the borrower he didn't smoke, the guy walked away mumbling under his breath nasty words.

. . . From that day forward people started avoiding him, he had no one to talk to and that's why he took to borrowing things from people . . . He had to have some one to talk to even if they said only "Get away," or "Beat it" or just plain old "No" . . . But then people started to accept him into their closely knit circles, but poor Will cannot break himself of being a "bummer" and sometimes I don't think he particularly wants to . . . But next week let me come into your cozy little cells and tell you more of "My Roommate, Will." . . .

Club News:

DPE Dinner Dance Saturday; IRC Elects Officers Tomorrow

Constitution Set For New Club

The recently reactivated International Relations Club nominated officers for the remainder of the year at a meeting Wednesday.

The election of officers will take place at a meeting tomorrow at 4:30 in 215 Mendel Hall. The following nominees have been submitted: President, Bill Phipps, Ed Daly, Don McGahon; Vice-President, Don Skelly, Dick Winfield, Ray Pierri; Secretary-Treasurer, Ward Welsh, Bill Quinn, Basil Sullivan. If members of the organization wish to nominate any others they may do so with Mr. Rofinot, moderator

Also on the agenda Wednesday was the approval of the Constitution. It was unanimously approved as drawn up by Joe Kenny and Bill Phipps and is now awaiting administrative "OK."

C&F Frat Dines At Sansom House

The Sansom House located in Philadelphia at 13th and Walnut Streets will be the site of the annual Delta Pi Epsilon Dinner Dance on this Saturday night starting at 7:00 p. m.

Usually restricted to fraternity brothers only, social chairman J. Douglas Stark announced last week that the event this year would be open to all students from Villanova. Anyone wishing to attend should procure their tickets in 226 Fedigan Hall or 218 Austin before tonight. Tickets sell at $7.00.

Stark pointed out that the dinner is the same night as the Rosemont Prom and that students going to their prom could have dinner in a "good setting" before proceeding to the prom.

In other DPE news nominations were held last Wednesday night for next year's offices. Elections will be held on Tuesday, May 14.

Cost Accountant Books in Library

The Philadelphia Chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants has recently placed in the college library a set of papers on the subject, "Taking Inventory of Inventory Practices."

These manuscripts were prepared by leading accountants and are on matters of current interest. They may prove of value as supplement reading material in your accounting courses.

All men who are majoring in accounting or in any way interested in the subject are invited to inspect this, the latest addition to the library's collection of currently interesting manuscripts.

is coaching the cast. George Noake, director of all T&T shows since 1948, is again acting in that capacity.

William Kelley wrote the book and lyrics for the musical, and as usual Villanova's Bob Whelan composed the music. Whelan said that this year's cast is the largest in T&T history. Rehearsals have been under way since the first week in March, with a break at Easter. Whelan expressed satisfaction at the way the students were giving their wholehearted cooperation to the play. The 40-man chorus and 20-man glee club especially pleased him.

The play will be staged Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, May 13, 14, 15, and 16.

GRADUATION

Graduation announcements for seniors are now being ordered in the Belle Air bookstore. The deadline for orders is April 30. Cost is 10¢ apiece.

The number of invitations which may be ordered is not limited.

White House Tour Included in Trip To Nation's Capital

A conference at the White House, an interview with Senator Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.), attendance at chamber sessions of the two houses of Congress and an alphabet agency itinerary comprised an event-filled three-day trip to the nation's capital for 31 upperclassmen last week.

The tenth annual American Government class trip to Washington, D. C., was conducted by Dr. Harold F. Hartman, History Department head, and Rev. John Dunne, O.S.A., History professor.

Leaving the college at 6:30 a. m. Tuesday, the group boarded buses, arrived in Washington, and visited the White House after preliminary conferences with Dr. Hartman and Fr. Dunne. At the Presidential mansion, the students met with members of the Chief Executive's staff.

NFCCS Drive Goes Over Top

CHECKING A SMALL PART of the clothing collected in their annual drive for needy foreign institutions, members of the NFCCS collection committee prepare the clothes for shipment to their destination. J. Paul Sheedy* Switched to Wildroot Cream-Oil Because He Flunked The Finger-Nail Test

"LISTEN, BIRD-BRAIN, don't get soar, but I cooed never love you," said Sheedy's little chickadee. "Your hair's strictly for the birds! Better remember the tree cardinal rules for social success so you won't be an also-wren. 1. Hop to a toilet goods counter. 2. Peck up a bottle or tube of Wildroot Cream-Oil, America's Favorite Hair Tonic. Contains Lanolin. Non-alcholic. Grooms the hair. Relieves dryness. Removes goose, ugly dandruff. Helps you pass the Finger-Nail Test. 3. Use it daily and people will love you." Paul got Wildroot Cream-Oil for himself and a diamond wing for his tweetie-pie. Better buy a bottle or tube today. Or ask for it at your barber's. If you don't you're cookoo!

Harriers Win Hall 2-Mile Relay

Also Place in 4-Mile, Distance Events at Newark

The outdoor track season for Villanova College began last Saturday afternoon upon the quagmired cinders of the Newark School Stadium when the Seton Hall Relays were staged in a cold, driving downpour.

The Wildcats came through in the trying weather conditions with a first place in the two-mile relay, defending the laurels won last year. In the distance medley relay, where the Main Liners were also defending, Villanova came in second behind the crack Georgetown Boya quartet.

Big Surprise

However, the surprise of the day, as far as Villanova was concerned, was the tie for third place in the high jump taken by the erstwhile hoopster, Jim Brady of Panama.

RAY WHEILER

The two team, mile relay in performing its winning feat for the second time, had a much harder task of it this year than last. The weather at Newark over the weekend, unfortunately, strongly resembled the horrid Penn Relays of last year. Running with the quartet of Joe Gaffney, John Joe Barry, Ray Wheiler and Fred Dwyer, they served notice to the track world and to the Los Angeles Relays, next month, in particular, that the Wildcats are again to be watched. In their winning effort they downed Fordham, host Seton Hall and up-and-coming LaSalle. The time was 8:10:5—attesting to the track's horrendous condition.

Dwyer Gains

In the distance medley relay, all chances for retention of their crown were lost when Fred Dwyer received the baton with a 100-yard deficit. That was too much for even the game Dwyer to overcome. He was able to win back some twenty yards of the gap but that was all.

Browning Ross, who helped the Wildcats win many a medal when the Seton Hall Relays just started pulled a major upset of the whole wet affair by taking the count of Olympic champion Horace Ashenfelter of the New York Athletic Club in the special invitation two mile run.

Wildcat Hurlers' Wildness Hurts; Hitting Great

Wild and erratic pitching has been the biggest obstacle in Villanova's early season baseball path, and the Wildcats' 3-4 mark so far bears out this conclusion.

But the losses to Equitable Life, Drexel, Rider and Penn State and the wins over Itaca and Haverford have brought to light another fact — this one more encouraging—that the Main Line lads are not gun-shy, by any means.

Hitting Hard

For in the first six get-togethers, Villanova has racked up its opposing pitchers to the tune of 57 runs (an average of over 6 a game) and 58 hits (an average of 9.6 per game) The trouble is that the club's hurlers have been experiencing no end of difficulty keeping the opposition off the bases, especially via the gratis variety.

Sommers Blanks Ithaca

Don Sommers, a bespectacled lefty who was the club's second starter last year, blanked Ithaca in the Cats' third game with a nifty four-hitter, 6-0, but he dropped decisions to Equitable and Penn State, mainly because of inability to locate the plate. He walked 14 in the first three frames of the E. L. tilt in losing 10-5, and was little better in the control department in the Penn loss.

Bob Richianni, a stylish right-hander who was formerly a third-baseman, took the rap for the other setbacks. He deserved a better fate in losing to Drexel, 4-3, on a ninth-inning winning single, as he struck out seven and walked five. His other defeat was at the hands of Rider of New Jersey, 8-4.

Gather 13 Hits

However, and especially in the triumphs over Ithaca and Haverford, the hitters have been showing no respect for the slants of rival pitchers. In the Ithaca game, the Villanovans banged out 13 base hits in support of Sommers' steady mound work. In fact, in six of the seven games to date, the Mahanmen have outhit the opposition, being outdone at the plate only in the Drexel game. The Haverford

Haner Monogram Club Head

By V. Keats

The newest organization on the Villanova campus was formed late in March when the Monogram Club held its first organizational meeting. The club is a revival of the Varsity Club, which passed out of existence at Villanova many years ago. At the March meeting senior football captain Bob Haner was unanimously named to serve as the club's first president.

One of the first undertakings of the organization will be the sponsoring of Blue and White Day on May ninth, after which a dinner will be held, honoring all those alumni participating in the action. Father Edward McKee, OSA, spoke to the group of attending athletes, stressing the point that the club could become an influential student and alumni organization. Father also advanced many suggestions for club activities in the future, including the task of presenting the trophies in the Field House lobby in a more attractive manner.

BOB HANER

Other Monogram Club officers were also elected at the meeting. These men will only hold their positions for the remainder of the school year. The successful candidates were: Chuck McGuckin, Vice President, Joe Faragalli, Secretary, and Tom Green, Treasurer. It was suggested that the club moderator should be Father Dante Girolami.

President Haner and his other officers have already made much progress on the impending Blue and White day, and by all indications the turn out of Old-Timers should be very responsive. As is the usual case, the Monogram Club will not be recognized by the Student Council for one year.

Swimming Team Renewed; Golf Opens Season Thursday

Villanova's rise to athletic prominence became even more apparent last week with the announcement by Director of Athletics Bud Dudley that golf and swimming would be renewed as minor sports in the college. Once very active in intercollegiate swimming, Villanova disbanded the sport before World War II, while the golf team had its last year in 1950.

Edward Geisz, an outstanding swimming performer at LaSalle College, has been named swimming coach for the 1953 season. Geisz won the Eastern Catholic Intercollegiate championship in the breaststroke while at LaSalle and was a member of the school's medley relay team which broke many records. Regularly employed as a promotional director at Woodside Park, Geisz's coaching at Villanova will be on a part time basis.

A swimming clinic was planned to have been held at Villanova on April 25, with Joe Verdeur and other outstanding swimmers present. Conflict with the Penn Relays has caused the Clinic to be cancelled, however, and it will probably be held next Fall.

Swimming Candidates

All those interested in swimming are asked to report to the Field House swimming pool at 3 P. M. this Thursday. Ed Geisz, newly appointed swimming coach, will be on hand to see all candidates. Plans are being made for the organization of a team which will participate in eight meets this Fall.

Cage Club Invited To '53 Kentucky Holiday Tourney

In a formal statement issued last week, Mr. Bill Dudley 'Cat Athletic Director, announced that the 1953-54 Villanova court squad had accepted an invitation to participate in the first annual Kentucky Invitation Tournament to be held in Louisville, Kentucky on December 28th, 29th, and 30th. This holiday competition will replace the Sugar Bowl Tourney in which the Wildcats have played for the last two seasons.

From the looks of the other teams which have also accepted bids, Mr. Severence's boys will really have to be in mid-season form if they expect to cop the tournament championship. Of the seven other colleges taking part, three competed in post-season tournament play in 1953, two in the National Invitational Tournament in Madison Square Garden, and one in the NCAA playoffs.

Western Kentucky and Louisville were the two NIT participants. Western Kentucky lost out in the quarter finals to St. John"s and Louisville, one of the two teams to defeat Honey Russell's Seton Hall five last year, was nipped in one of the preliminary-round games by the Billikens of St. Louis.

The last member of this select trio is Eastern Kentucky, which advanced to the quarter finals of the NCAA elimination before losing to

SPORTS CHATTER

Sports Carnival

By Harry Anger

The man who wrote the song, "What a Difference a Day Makes" surely knew what he was talking about. That fact can be well borne out by the difference in Villanova athletics since the day Bud Dudley moved into the Athletic Directorship.

Up to just a few short months ago the athletic policies of this fair institution were about as orderly as the home of an unkempt pack rat. To the casual observer it seems things were never well thought out, they happened if we were lucky, and if not—so what?

Why when Mr. Dudley took over there were only five football games on the schedule for next year, and nothing more seemed possible, unless the opponents were service teams.

Football Schedule

Since the new regime moved in though the picture has changed—the Wildcats now figure to play nine or possibly ten games, and all of them are against top flight COLLEGE opposition. Just in case you're worried Tulsa won't haunt us next season. That series is buried at least for a while.

Big Event

As odd as it may seem though the football schedule is not the best of Bud's achievements, now something even bigger is in the offing. The fertile brain of Mrs. Dudley's son has come up with one of the biggest athletic attractions ever presented in the Philadelphia area.

This gigantic presentation is a Sports Carnival, on the size of a Junior Olympics. It features just about everyone in sports except Larry McPhail, and even he might show up, if he plays nice with the Maryland State Troopers.

The guest of honor seriously though will be Capt. Hank Christman, a Korean vet, and a former Villanova football great. Hank will preside over all the activities, which include a baseball game, a track meet and then to cap off the festival a football game between the Old-Timers and the Villanova Varsity.

Coaches Invited

There are also many other invited guests scheduled to be at Villanova on that Saturday and among them will be fifty high school coaches. For them in particular Mr. Dudley plans a "clinic" with fellows like Steve Rominick and John Sandusky demonstrating the way the pros play the game.

All over the country Catholic schools are struggling to keep their collective heads above water, and for quite a while Villanova was in the same state, but now the picture has changed a good bit. The new athletic policy at the Mainline College has become progressive, efficient and business-like. It is the kind of policy that makes any business a successful one, and let's face it, athletics are big business and should be run accordingly.

This sports carnival is the first of its kind attempted, as far as we know, in this section. It's not very often that Villanova has been able to claim such a notable first in any field.

The average sports fan in Philadelphia can now come out to the Mainline and catch some of America's finest athletes in action, and for the laughingly low price of only one dollar.

For the Villanova student things are even better, he gets in for free. Of for those who require feminine companionship there will be a slight extra charge. It's sort of a ladies day in reverse. The guy gets the free pass while it costs a buck for the little woman.

The spectator will have other advantages, too. The refreshment situation has finally been straightened out, and for the first time there will be four stands setup in Goodreau Stadium. In the past fans have only found one such stand and that was usually so well hidden you didn't dare make the trip without an Indian guide.

Parking Problem

Another notable headache seems to be finally solved. Namely the parking situation; for this affair the parking lots will be run by a professional outfit. From this we can hope crinkled fenders and various forms of name calling are a forgotten thing.

The brainchild of Mr. Dudley will be run under the auspices of the newly formed Monogram Club. For this organization it will be their "baptism under fire", so let's really get behind the field day and make it a rousing success.

This is the best way to get our start for next fall, and possibly to make our first big move to the front page of the various local newspapers. If this festival makes the grade this year then we really have something to look forward to in the years to come.

DeLurey New IM Champs; Fedigan Loses Final, 47-37

By John Gillman

Delury Hall's team is the new I-M basketball champ. In an all resident final Delury beat the Fedigan Flyers 47-37 to break Alumni Hall's four year stint as champions. Jude O'Donnell with 14 and Richard Beggy with 11 led the new champs. Stewart who fouled out had 10 for the losers.

In other tournament games the Conshy Cats behind Dick Burke's 15 point performance edged the Toads 45-44. The Toad's loss was their first of the year. The Flyers took their first round game 46-33 over the Scattas. Maffee of the losers was high man with 18. Delury's first tournament game was their toughest as they squeezed past Good Counsel 42-38. The next game saw the Flyers knock the previously undefeated Shamrocks out of contention by a 47-43 count. Bergen paced both teams with 22 for the winners. The Flyers had little trouble with the Cats beating them 50-34. Bergen was again high man with 20. Delury also had little trouble in their semi-final game, breezing past the Mendel Moons 60-37, O'Donnell and Volonino combining for half of the victors' total.

Softball Starts

The I-M softball season was scheduled to start yesterday and it will run until about the middle of May. As in former years the teams have been divided into two leagues which will play on the Austin and Mendel field respectively. Each league is divided into two sections, the A sections to play at 4:30 and the B sections to play at 6:00. The Austin A section has the Bloodhounds, Dirty Dozen, Engineers, Nightriders, Foshes and The Clan.

WEEK'S SPORTS

Coach Art Mahan's baseball club, winners of only three of its six contests so far, play host to Rutgers tomorrow afternoon on the Villanova diamond behind the stadium. Saturday afternoon the team invades River Park in downtown Philly to meet Pennsylvania.

Friday and Saturday the track team takes part in the Penn Relays in Franklin Field. It will be the trackers' first outdoor dual meet.

The baseball team has lost to Equitable Life, Penn State, Drexel, and Rider, while stopping Ithaca, Haverford and West Chester.

Golf Opens Thursday

The golf team, meanwhile, is getting ready for action immediately and will open the season this Thursday against Muhlenburg at the Aronimink Country Club. Villanova has already scheduled matches with Haverford and Penn, and attempts are being made to play Princeton, Temple, Fordham, West Chester, and Maryland.

Bill Albertus, a junior from Philadelphia and a scratch golfer, is expected to be the mainstay of the team. Additional members are wanted, however, and they are asked to contact Mike Burke in Delurey Hall.

CAN YOU "take it" 6 days a week? For 52 weeks? Can you meet the high standards required to be an Aviation Cadet? If you can—then here's a man-size opportunity! An opportunity to serve your country and build a personal career that will fit you for responsible positions both in military and commercial aviation.

It won't be easy! Training discipline for Aviation Cadets is rigid. You'll work hard, study hard, play hard—especially for the first few weeks. But when it's over, you'll be a pro—with a career ahead of you that will take you as far as you want to go. You graduate as a 2nd Lieutenant in the Air Force, with pay of $5,300.00 a year. And this is only the beginning—your opportunities for advancement are unlimited.

ARE YOU ELIGIBLE?

To qualify as an Aviation Cadet, you must have completed at least two years of college. This is a minimum requirement—it's best if you stay in school and graduate. In addition, you must be between 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition.

YOU CAN CHOOSE BETWEEN PILOT OR AIRCRAFT OBSERVER

If you choose to be an Aircraft Observer, your training will be in Navigation, Bombardment, Radar Operation or Aircraft Performance Engineering.

New Aviation Cadet Training Classes Begin Every Few Weeks!

HERE'S WHAT TO DO:

1. Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
2. If application is accepted, the Air Force will arrange for you to take a physical examination.
3. Next, you will be given a written and manual aptitude test.
4. If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet Training Class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

Where to get more details: Visit your nearest Air Force Base or Air Force Recruiting Officer. OR WRITE TO: AVIATION CADET HEADQUARTERS, U. S. AIR FORCE, WASHINGTON 25, D. C.

BOWLING ALLEYS

The school bowling alleys in the Field House, which have been closed since the week preceding Easter, are now open. The alleys were temporarily shut down to be thoroughly waxed, oiled, and cleaned.

As usual, they will be open every evening from 7:30 to 10:30. The fee remains twenty-five cents per game. Only shoes without heels are permitted to be worn.

Students Impress Retreat Master At 110th Retreat

Rev. James G. Sherman, O.S.A., master of the Annual Retreat, held during Holy Week, was well pleased with his undertaking. "I enjoyed giving the retreat very much" said Father Sherman, "And I was very impressed by the number of men who received the Sacraments during it."

At the last exercise of the retreat, the General Communion of Villanova Students, the entire student body, with only a few exceptions was present at the altar rail.

Rev. Joseph Kemme, O.S.A., Chaplain, lauded the work of the Schola Cantorum for the singing and Joe Billera, President of the Sanctuary Society, for his work arranging the attendance details of the retreat. Father Kemme also expressed his gratitude to all students, who cooperated so well in this, the 110th annual retreat.

Any students who have not yet been Confirmed, and wish to be, should contact the Chaplain's office. An adult class for Confirmation instructions is being formed now.

The Confirmation ceremonies will take place at St. Stephen's Church.

Daly Wins In Essay Contest

Edwin K. Daly, an Arts school sophomore who intends to major in history, was notified recently that he has been been awarded second prize in a state-wide essay contest sponsored by the Colonial Dames of Pennsylvania. Daly chose as his subject "Conservatives versus Radicals in Pennsylvania, 1776-1782."

Daly, in his first attempt at competition, was likewise the first Villanova student ever to participate in this contest. His subject includes a discussion of John Dickinson, Ben Franklin, and Joseph Reed, men who played vital roles in the formation of democracy in the United States.

Mr. Henry Rofinot, of the History Department, represented the sponsoring organization on campus.

Staff Dinner-Dance At Barclay, May 16

The Mirage Room of the Hotel Barclay will be the scene of the annual dinner-dance for the editors and staff of the "Villanovan" on Saturday evening, May 16. Reservations should be made through Managing Editor Dick Winfield.

In order to facilitate seating, it is requested that staffers arrange tables of four couples before making reservations.

DE PROFUNDIS:

Sophomore, '52 Grad Killed; Death Claims 9 Over Easter

Alvin Bujarski, a sophomore in the Arts school, died in Bryn Mawr Hospital on Sunday, March 29, of injuries sustained in an auto accident the day before. He was a resident of Wichita, Kansas, lived in Austin Hall, and was a Regular student in the Villanova NROTC unit.

Ensign Thomas F. Donavan, a graduate of Villanova last year, was killed March 20th in a plane crash near Robertsdale, Alabama.

Donavan, who was stationed at Pensacola, Florida for Navy flight training failed to escape from his training craft when it collided in mid-air with another plane.

Donavan entered the Naval Air Cadet Program after receiving his commission from the NROTC Unit here at Villanova.

In recent weeks several Villanovans have been deprived of their loved ones. We extend our sympathy to them.

Deceased are:

The father of Thomas Fitzpatrick, C & F, Junior.

The father of Paul Zavodny, Education, Senior.

The father of William McGarry, C & F, Sophomore.

The father of Joe McConlogue, C & F, Senior.

The mother of James McDade, Engineer, Sophomore.

Robert Reid, a graduate engineer of the class of '27.

Eugene Voss, '52, (killed in Korea).

As the De Profundis bell is tolled daily at 7 p.m., you are asked to remember the dead in your prayers.

Sousa Selections Feature Programs Of Concert Band

Villanova's musical emissaries, the Concert Band, began their second lap of the current concert season last Monday night with a program at Laurel Springs, N. J., for the united sodalities of the area. Featured in the entertainment was music from the motion picture, "Stars and Stripes Forever," with such Sousa marches as "El Capitan," "Semper Fidelis," as well as the title number.

Arrangements are being completed for a concert "on the road," director Don Brown announced. The season will be culminated with the formal Band Concert on Tuesday night of Junior Week.

Mariners Will Be Feature Of Guild Show Thursday Nite

Rev. John Coffey, U.S.A., announced that the entire program for the Augustinian Seminary Guild Show has been completed. One of the advertised acts, the Clark Bros., has been cancelled but their place is more than adequately filled by the addition of two new acts, Ken Barry and Estelle Sloan.

ESTELLE SLOAN

This program is well balanced and certainly will maintain the standard of top-quality entertainment established by the four preceding Seminary Guild Shows. The cause is a very worthy one and deserves to be supported by everyone.

Mariners Featured

The feature act is the Mariners, nationally famous quartet featured on the Arthur Godfrey Show. Each of the Mariners had been trained for the concert stage and their combination has resulted in one of the finest quartets in the country.

Villanova will be happy to welcome back Ruth Daye who was an outstanding success in the 1951 Guild Show. Miss Daye is a lovely xylophone impressario who has appeared on outstanding engagements

Jr. Week Tickets Going Fast Quinn Suggests Early Buying

Class President Art Quinn urges all juniors to buy Junior Week tickets as early as possible because they are "going fast." A limit has been set on the Prom and Dinner Dance tickets and Quinn is sure that crowds at both will set new records, although this year's junior class is smaller than the last.

Activities for the Juniors' "week of weeks" will start rolling Monday morning at 11 o'clock at a Mass. Corsages will be distributed before the Mass in front of the Chapel so juniors should allow time for this. Mother's Day will also include the Tree Planting at 12:30 beside the Chapel, a luncheon in the dining room, a concert and a baseball game in the afternoon, and Benediction in the Chapel at 5 P. M. The climax of the day will be a banquet in the field house at six.

Ted Sheehan, chairman, announces that pictures of juniors and their mothers will be taken during the day by a professional studio for those who want them.

Tuesday afternoon is the date set for the intramural Track Meet this year. At 8 P. M. the Band and Glee Club will present a free concert in the Field House. Intermission music will be played by the newly formed campus swing band. The musical organizations and chairman Joe Bradley have worked hard

Mirage Room Set For Staff Dinner

"The Pen is Mightier than the Sword," so the old quote runs, but parties are needed to keep the ink flowing. In accordance with this, the staff of the Villanova will hold its annual Dinner Dance in the beautiful Mirage Room of the Barclay Hotel, Saturday, May 16.

The "Riders of the Purple Headlines" intend to make the evening a memorable one with the "Rhythmaires" supplying the music.

Reservations should be made through Managing Editor Dick Winfield. In order to facilitate seating, it is requested that staff members arrange tables of four couples before making reservations.

It is anticipated that a total of some 75 people will attend the event. Arrangements regarding menus, etc., are now being made. Because of the large number of couples expected, it is urgently suggested that all those interested make their reservations as soon as possible.

CLASS NOMINATIONS

Classes will be cancelled today at 1:30 p. m. to allow for separate meetings of the Freshman, Sophomore, and Junior classes for the purpose of nominating candidates for class offices.

Juniors will meet in room 215 Mendel.

Sophomores will meet in the C & F auditorium.

Freshmen will meet in the Field House.

Rev. George McLaughlin, O.S.A., Dean of Men activities, asserted that with the free period at 1:30, full attendance is anticipated at the respective class meetings.

Naval Aviation Lt. Interviews Qualified Men

Qualified Villanova students will have the opportunity of discussing Naval Aviation with representatives of the Naval Air Station, Willow Grove, Pennsylvania tomorrow and Thursday, in the Placement Office.

Requirements

To meet the requirements, you must be single, a United States citizen, between the ages of 18 and 27, have completed two or more years of college, possess 20-20 vision uncorrected. If you meet these standards, stop in and see Lieutenant Coburn, USNR, or T-SGT. McKeon, USMC., in the Villanova Placement Office anytime after 10:30.

DEADLINE

The Special Junior Week Edition of the "Villanovan" will be published next Monday, May 4, celebrating Mother's Day of Junior Week.

Deadline for this issue is 4 p. m. today, Tuesday.

Free Period Today For Class Meetings

In order that all may have the opportunity of nominating men for office for the coming school year, no classes will be held at 1:30 P. M. on Tuesday, April 28.

Seeking to nominate a president, a vice-president, a treasurer, a secretary, an alumni representative, and four Student Council representatives, one each from the Arts, Engineering, Commerce and Finance, and Education schools, the juniors — the Class of 1954—will meet in 215 Mendel Hall. The meeting will be directed by Dick Boehling and Lou Oberle.

The sophomores, in a meeting under the supervision of Harry Baird and Don Blaha, are to name a president, a vice-president, a treasurer, and a secretary, and four Student Council representatives in the same manner as the juniors. The nominations will be held in the C & F Auditorium.

Freshmen will name for election candidates for president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer and Student Council, one to be elected for each position. Tom Ackerman and Jim Moser will be in the Field House to conduct the nominations.

One Office Per Year

Father McLaughlin, Dean of Student Activities, reminds those running for office that only one office in any campus organization can be held at one time during the school year, including class offices.

Elections will be held on Wednesday, May 13, between the hours of 10 A. M. and 3 P. M. in Alumni Hall Gym, but no public campaigning, such as posting of signs, is to begin before Friday, May 8.

Names of those approved for office will be posted on the Bulletin Boards as soon as they are available from the Chalain's Office, where the individuals' records are checked.

T&T's Musical In Last Stage; Seats On Sale

Tickets are on sale now for "Robin Hoodwink," Turf and Tinsel's Musical presentation for this year, Bob Whelan announced last week.

They may be bought from any of the members of the cast, or from ticket offices in the Field House and in the Bookstore, he said. Tom Blackmore is ticket manager.

"Robin Hoodwink" has almost reached the final stages of preparation said Whelan. George Noake, director of the show, praised the whole cast and announced that he is well pleased with the way rehearsals have been going.

The show stars Gene Filipski as "Robin," with Bob Haner as Friar Tuck, Tom Green as Will Stutely, and Bernie Finan as the crafty Sheriff of Nottingham.

The forty-man dancing chorus is rounding into shape and all concerned with the show expressed satisfaction with the whole-hearted cooperation they have been receiving. Jack Kelly, '52, is acting as Assistant Director for the production.

The book and lyrics for "Robin Hoodwink" were written by William Kelley. Bob Whelan composed the music.

The show will be presented on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, May 13 ,14, 15, and 16.

Lynch Paper Takes Second

Villanova's civil engineers came through with flying transits at the fifteenth annual student convention of the American Society of Civil Engineers last Monday, as Robert D. Lynch copped second prize for his presentation of a paper entitled, "Preliminary Investigation of the Properties of Pressure Motor."

Villanova played host to the 176 students and professors, who represented 10 colleges and universities in the area. First prize in the student paper contest was won by Swarthmore; third, Princeton; fourth, Lehigh; fifth, Penn.

The paper which Lynch presented was prepared by Elpidio Ciarocca and Frederick Linck.

Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., and Dr. Francis S. Friel, local A.S.C.E. Director addressed the group at a luncheon in the college cafeteria.

'Engineer' Dinner Tomorrow Night

"The Villanova Engineer" will hold its annual dinner tomorrow night at the Cloverleaf Inn on Baltimore Pike. Rev. J. J. Vranna, O.S.A., is scheduled to be the speaker at the publication's affair.

Commencing at 7 P. M., the dinner will be the occasion for the announcing of next year's editorial appointments. Keys will be presented to senior members of the staff.

Another Giant Step

The granting of a free hour by the administration for the purpose of holding nominations for class officers and Student Council representatives is another giant step forward in the process of obtaining better student government and more equal representation between the residents and the day-hops.

In the past the lack of day student participation has been appalling, not only on the class officer roster, but also on the bigger and more important Student Council. More important, of course, because it is only here that matters of college policy affecting them can be discussed and brought to the attention of the administration.

From time to time, and most noticably in recent weeks, there have been many and varied suggestions as to how a better representation of day-hops could be obtained for the Student Council.

Foremost among these was a proposed amendment that it be mandatory for an equal number of residents and day-hops to be elected at the annual pollings.

We could not agree with this idea mainly because the day-hops had every opportunityto elect the men they want. Actually they outnumber the residents by quite a bit and hence it was only because of their apparent disinterest at election time that they did not get their men in.

The adopted solution to this, which will be in evidence today, appears to be the best and most workable one.

There will be no excuse whatever now for the day-hops not to nominate their best men and, following this, show the interest necessary to put them into office by active campaigning.

The Student Council in proposing this free period, and the administration in approving it, have given evidence that they are interested in obtaining for the day-hop the representation he wants in the matters that affect him.

They have done their part.

The rest can only be done by the students themselves—today at the nominations and at the polls on May 13.

Guild Show

The Augustinian Seminary Guild Show to be held in the Field House this Thursday is well worth the attendance of all Villanovans.

Not only will it be one of the best variety shows to be presented under one roof for a stipend as small as $2.00, but it is for a group which, it is almost needless to say, we should all support.

The need for priests in the ever widening Augustinian educational circle is obvious. This show is one of their main sources of income, a source without which the going would be much rougher.

The show Thursday fills a two-fold purpose—an evening of solid entertainment and a participation in aiding those who have received. God's highest calling.

FACE FACTS:

Reality, Not Wishes, Should Guide Critics

By Al Pandaleon

If there is one salient characteristic we may demand of a critical observer, it is that he repreesnt to his mind things as they really are, and not solely as he would wish them to be. Unfortunately, today, such men are few and far between. Perhaps that explains why it is so important to heed their words when we come upon them.

Mr. J. Donald Adams, literary critic of the New York Times, recently presented a series of articles dealing with the American "intellectual", in which he examined his subject in relation to our national culture. He carefully restricted the meaning of the word to that unique group distinguished by either of two peculiarities: 1) those whose thinking is both "muddied and muddled" and 2) those who, while placing great faith in the rational capacity of man, at the same time underestimate the intuitive promptings of his heart.

Valuable Observations

In the development of his theme, Mr. Adams made several valuable observations. Distillusion and pessimism are vital tenets of the intellectual's credo. Often, he stated, these people find it difficult to grasp the tragic sense of life without succumbing to despair.

They are quick to climb aboard the bandwagon of whatever "ism'" is fashionable at the moment. Moreover, it is often sufficient for the majority to believe in something for the intellectuals to oppose it.

Literary Viewpoint

Obviously, Mr. Adams was probing the problem from the literary viewpoint. But it is not limited to that field alone. We find it today in politics, in the press, even in education itself.

To the point of nausea, we see critics, both professional and amateur, taking upon themselves this attitude. In one, vast oversimplified process they attempt to label Americans the victims of a mass culture.

And to them, the word "mass" always carries with it the connotation of banality. Or again, they constantly harp upon the weaknesses of our political system, failing to perceive the qualities that have rendered it durable and effective for over a century and a half.

Can Be Improved

It would be foolhardy for Americans to sit back contently and claim their way of life is ideal. But it is just as foolhardy for our present-day intellectuals to regard it as beyond improvement.

We do not mean to say that the point at issue is one of conformity or non-conformity. Rather, as Sidey Hook has observed, only let either alternative be based upon voluntary and sound judgment.

No Menace

There is no real menace in the popular forms of culture. The true artist should regard them, not as obstacles, but as challenges to his ingenuity. Instead of sneering at them, he would do well to try to lend direction to their potentialities.

He should realize, as Mr. Hook continues, that our writers and speakers are no more chauvinistic when they are intelligently appreciative of the United States, than they are un-American when intelligently critical.

Constructive Side, Too

After all, criticism is an analytical procedure having its constructive, as well as destructive, side. And the sooner the current brand of intellectuals comes to appreciate this, the sooner the rest of us can expect to see improvements in our national life, be they ever so slow in arriving.

"Scoop" Glavin Speaking:

Harvard 'Peace Dove' Item Is Signpost Of The Times

GLAVIN

Last week, there appeared in the daily papers a small, insignificant item; insignificant, that is, save for the fact that it afforded a remarkable signpost of the times in which we live.

The article was short and to the point. It seems the editors of the Harvard University, "Crimson," daily student paper, cordially invited the Russian delegate to the United Nations to their campus, and in all seriousness presented him with a wellworn, blackened "peace dove" statue. It was to be selected for some college in Russia, they explained, a true expression of friendship.

Egads! Stolen!

Then the water came over the dam. The "statue" had been stolen by the "Crimson" from atop the building of the Harvard "Lampoon," the college's humor magazine.

The "Lampoon" editors were perturbed to say the least. They immediately contacted the U.N. delegate of the Soviet Union, who had by this time returned to United Nations headquarters. The "misunderstanding" was cautiously explained; fortunately the Russian understood, and the "peace dove" was returned to its owners.

Then, to return the unappreciated jesting of their counterparts on the "Crimson," the "Lampoon" editors decided to play a "gag" of their own. They telegrammed Senator Joseph McCarthy, of Wisconsin, who has a reputation as an investigator and other sundry things, of the episode. The "dove adventure" was duly described as the latest of the many "leftist actions," characteristic of the "Crimson." They mockingly demanded an investigation of its staff by the Senator and his cohorts.

Are You Next?

Something like this should have been expected sooner of later. It certainly did possess humor. That's the trouble with the whole thing. It used to be that the Congress of the United States commanded respect from all, or should have. Today? On the tail of expletive Congressional Investigations encompassing everyone from government workers to authors, school teachers to clergymen, it truly begins to seem that "you are nobody unless you've been investigated."

Next, they will be "investigating the investigators."

1953's Jazz Concert Tour Reason Is Record Demand

By Tom McDermott

Once again the music world has been enlivened through the medium of the record. However, this time the music has not been forced upon the American public by the disc jockeys. It has been accepted by the listeners who have not had to hear it every time they turned the dial. This new impetus takes the form of a Benny Goodman Jazz Concert. The demand for the recordings of the Carnegie Hall Jazz Concert of 1938 and various other concerts undoubtedly played a major role in bringing about this new tour. Since the records of the New York session were released, many words have been written concerning the possibility of a new concert program. With the inevitability of high operating expenses, B.G. had to be certain of financial success before he could take the risk. Evidently the time has arrived.

The first session in Carnegie Hall in 1938 marked the beginning of Goodman's fame. Before the concert the "King of Jazz" invited some other well known musicians to sit in. Among them were Harry Carney, Johnny Hodges, Cootie Williams, and Count Basie who would join the regular members, Gene Krupa, Harry James, and Vernon Brown. The throng which gathered proved that many were interested in Goodman's type of music, and his name became a household word overnight.

Classic Arrangers

Most of the arrangements of the tunes which were played that night were supplied by Fletcher Henderson, Edgar Sampson, and Jimmy Mundy. One of Mundy's tunes, Don't Be That Way, has become a jazz classic which, today is included in the repertoire of many groups; his arrangement of Sing Sing Sing brought Gene Krupa to the attention of the public. It is true that many of the original members of the group are missing, but some of the most capable musicians of these times will be featured in the present aggregation including Louis Armstrong, one of the all-time greats of American music. Helen Ward, who performed so capably in the past with Benny Goodman, will once more handle the vocals.

Queen Pictures In, Verdict Monday

As you read this, the pictures of a record number of Junior Week Queen contestants are in New York being judged by radio and television star Perry Como and Harry Conover, model agent, and originator of the famous Conover girl.

Robin Roberts, ace hurler for the Phillies, viewed and rated the the 57 hopeful entries last Thursday shortly before his go against the Dodgers. Roberts' decisions will be unsealed along with the other judges', just before the Junior Week edition of the Villanovan goes to press.

The Queen, Her Lady-in-Waiting, and her Court of four will be revealed next Monday in this paper.

Coronation

Let's review the royal week which is in store for our Queen and her court:

Her majesty will be a guest of honor at all the functions of Junior Week including

PERRY COMO

HARRY CONOVER

Mother's Day, the Prom and the Dinner Dance. She and her court will be introduced at the Prom Friday night.

Our Queen will be crowned by Johnny Long and all six girls will be presented with flowers and gifts. Hotel accommodations will be taken care of by the Junior Class if Her Highness is visiting from out-oftown.

The Junior Week Queen Committee wishes to thank all the entrans who helped to make this the largest Queen Contest Villanova has seen. All pictures may be picked up this Friday in Room 220 Alumni Hall.

Will Goes To A Tea Dance, Ends Up Before 'Gal' Jury

By Bob Rock

We now find our hero, Will, at a nearby establishment . . . He's got a problem and it isn't lack of money or date or car for the Junior Prom . . . His big problem is that he doesn't know how to DANCE!! . . . To him it always seemed foolish to see all those people pushing each other around on the dance floor, and besides, to him the shortest distance between two points was a straight line . . . None of this stuff of taking a girl from one side of the room to the other slowly . . . And to music yet!! . . . He'd just pick her up gently by her hair and carry her . . . But back to his problem and why he never learned to dance. His trouble all began at the last tea dance he went to . . . He had gone to twenty-two tea dances before (at which he consumed four cases of coke and a bushel of pretzels), but this time it was different. . . . She slowly sneaked up behind him and after pinning him against the wall, asked him why he stood around with blank look on his face . . . Then he saw the big badge on her dress which labeled her a "fixer-upper" and knew he was cornered . . . He then answered "Can't dance" while he threw another coke down. "Oh yes you can" the squeaky voice answered "and I know just the girl for you and she is real cute."

Cornered Again

"Yeah," answered Will, "I bet she is" . . . . And before he knew it, he was being pushed on the dance floor, being prodded by a broken coke bottle, and now he was trapped in the camp of the enemy and he tried to look nonchalant . . . He suffered to the best of his ability and looked down at the girl he was dancing with . . . She smiled at him and cooed "Hi!! My name is Mary. The music has stopped" . . .("Ah ha!!!" he said to himself," this is a chance for routine No. 108") . . . "Can you blame me?" he said softly. "When I dance with you, I hear nothing but music. A gentle breeze becomes a wonderful rhapsody when you're around." (And he said to himself "Just watch this kid melt, this line never fails") . . . But then everything broke loose . . . She immediately burst into six minutes of laughter

Drs. Cuadra, Caso Lecture, Award at "Cervantes Night"

"The Spanish Language is like a bond that unites all kinds of races," said Doctor Ricardo Cuadra at Saturday's Cervantes Night dinner-dance, held by the Spanish Club at the Lodge Antonio Muccio, Norristown.

Doctor Cuadra expanded on this theme in his talk before the one-hundred and thirty people present at the affair. He said that the Spanish explorers had brought Spanish to the New World and it had been used here ever since. Dr. Cuadra is one of the greatest poets in South America, said Father Lozano, O.S.A. in his introduction.

Also in attendance at the annual dinner-dance was the Consul from Spain, Don German Caso, who distributed the prizes after the dinner. It was his first appearance at a public affair since arriving here from Spain.

Dorris Wins

Winner of the competition for the best essay in Spanish about the author of Don Quixote was Joseph Dorris. Dorris showed that Don Quixote and Sancho Panza are, really universal figures, the Don representing idealism and his companion the practical side of life.

James G. Miller received the prize for the best poem in English about Cervantes. Both winners will be listed in the Spanish Cultural Index.

WILL THIS SUIT FIT YOU?

If you can make the grade, you can fly the latest, hottest, fanciest jobs in the air— and do it within one year.

IT TAKES a good, tough, serious guy to wear the gear of an Aviation Cadet. But if you can measure up, here's your chance to get the finest in aviation training—training that equips you to fly the most modern airplanes in the world and prepares you for responsible executive positions, both in military and commercial aviation.

It won't be easy! Training discipline for Aviation Cadets is rigid. You'll work hard, study hard, play hard—especially for the first few weeks. But when it's over, you'll be a pro—with a career ahead of you that will take you as far as you want to go. You graduate as a 2nd Lieutenant in the Air Force, with pay of $5,300.00 a year. And this is only the beginning—your opportunities for advancement are unlimited.

ARE YOU ELIGIBLE? To qualify as an Aviation Cadet, you must have completed at least two years of college. This is a minimum requirement—it's best if you stay in school and graduate! In addition, you must be between 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition.

YOU CAN CHOOSE BETWEEN PILOT OR AIRCRAFT OBSERVER
If you choose to be an Aircraft Observer, your training will be in Navigation, Bombardment, Radar Operation or Aircraft Performance Engineering.

New Aviation Cadet Training Classes Begin Every Few Weeks!

HERE'S WHAT TO DO:

1. Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
2. If application is accepted, the Air Force will arrange for you to take a physical examination at government expense.
3. Next, you will be given a written and manual aptitude test.
4. If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet training class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

Where to get more details:
Visit your nearest Air Force Base or Air Force Recruiting Officer. Or write to: Aviation Cadet, Headquarters, U. S. Air Force, Washington 25, D. C.

Sommer's Hurling Stops Pirates

Left Hander Pitches 2-Hitter; Wins Game With Triple In 7th

Lefty Don Sommers flashed a semblance of his 1952 mound form and still found time to hit a game-winning triple at South Orange, N. J. last week, as the visiting Villanovans edged past a potent Seton Hall baseball club, 2-1.

The win was the Wildcats' fifth against four losses.

Sommers, now owning a 3-2 record, lashed the three-baser in the seventh inning to account for both of his team's runs, wiping out a one-run lead held temporarily by the Pirates since the fourth frame.

His newly-discovered plate prowess didn't distract the curve-balling hurler from accomplishing his primary mission. He struck out six, walked four and doled out a miserly two hits, both of which came in the fourth and produced the lone Setonia run.

Second-baseman Bob Maurer chalked up two of the winners' five safeties. Bill McGarry got one, as did reliable Charles McGuckin, in addition to Sommers.

The Main Liners played errorless ball; Seton Hall was guilty of two boots. Bill Bradshaw was the loser, keeping in hot water throughout by wildness. His infield chipped in nice glove support, however, and prevented further damage.

Dick Shannon, last year's regular third-baseman, spelled Don Mouchetti at that position and scored the tying run, although he went hitless. The clincher was scored by catcher Ken Lowe.

The loss was No. 1 for Seton Hall in four contests.

Sidelights . . . The won-lost records now look like this: Sommers—3-2; Scott—2-0; Riccianni—0-2 . . . The pitching of lefty Dick Scott, who licked Haverford and Rutgers, the latter a neat 2-0 shut-out, has been a pleasant surpriseto coach Art Mahan . . . The club's infield play has been increasing steadily. Don Mouchetti, although he hasn't been drawing any rave notices on his hitting, has been doing a nice job around the hot corner . . . The sore arm that bothered catcher Ken Lowe last season still hasn't fully recovered . . . The Moravian game, originally scheduled as away, has been transferred to the Villanova field as an added feature of Junior Week. It will be played May 4 .

Blue & White Runs Second and Third in Penn Relays

By Tom Mentzer

Though unable to cop any gold metal laurels, Villanova's fleet sons, sparked by the anchor running of indoor mile king, Fred Dwyer, did carry away the silver and bronze medals for one second and one third place finish in two championships events in this year's runnin gof the 59th annual Penn Relays. A total of 32,000 fans watched the two day proceedings in which the Wildcats took third in the medley race on Friday and second in the 2-mile on Saturday.

Dispelling any fears that he wasn't the same "on the cinders as on the boards", Fred thrilled the Friday onlookers as he almost did the impossible of making a 75 yard deficit in the medley relay. It was a tough one to lose after shuch a remarkable comeback Ray Wheiler, weakened by a slight illness suffered during the preceding week, got off to a bad start, and as he handed the baton to Joe Gaffney at the end of the 880 yard initial leg distance, the Wildcats found themselves in eight spot. Covering the quarter mile in 0:49.o, the smooth-striding Gaffney passed two opponents on the way.

Barry Spurts

John Joe Barry then took over in the ¾ leg. Content to match stride for stride with a Penn Man through the first lap and a half, John Joe then spurted on the gun lap to push Villanova up into fourth place. Michigan, Penn State, and Army were all out in front as Dwyer, 75 yards behind the leader, received the baton. Not able to set the pace as in ar individual race Fred was forced to go all out from the start The State man fell behind as Fred finished his third blazing lap.

Leaders Kick

Sensing Dwyer at their heels the Wolverine Ross, Big Ten Mile Champ, and Army's Lou Olive spurted out to a 12 yard advantage. But Freddy would not quit. With another burst of speed, he came abreast of the two of them. But it was too much, for as they approached the stretch Ross forged into the lead with Olive second and Fred a gallant third.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Deadline for the ordering of graduation announcements is this Thursday, April 30. Orders are being taken in the book store. Price is 10c a piece.

Turf and Tinsel tickets are now on sale in the Athletic office in the Field House, the Pie Shop, and Mendel Hall. General admission $1.50. Students 75c.

Golf Team Wins First Match 8-1, Over Muhlenberg

Villanova's newly formed golf team won their first match of the season last Thursday afternoon 8-1 over Muhlenberg College. It was a terrific match from the Wildcat point of view as every member of the team won his match with the exception of Gene Schramm. In all fairness to Gene though it must be said his play was way below the form he normally shows.

The site of this first dual meet of the season was Aronimink Country Club, and the tough course diffently had an effect on both teams. For most of the players it was the first time they had played on those links.

Bohmert Low Man

The Cats number one man, Billy Albertus normally a scratch golfer carded an eight over par 78 in beating his man, Muhlenburg's Hassel 6 and 5. The best card of the day was turned in by Charlie Bohmert, playing as the Mainliers number two man. The blond senior had a 77 for the 18 holes and nicely whipped his man Teta 7 & 5. For Charlie this is a little above what he'll usually shoot, so we can probably expect improvement here, too.

In the second foursome, Frank Stone of Villanova equalled Albertus's score as he too shot a 78. Stone had a chance for a par 35 on the front nine. He had birdied the third and sixth holes, but went four over par on the last three to give him a nine hole total of 39. The streak kept on though and Reupp of the Mules lost the match 5&3.

The only victory of the afternoon for the Allentowners came in this group when Ambrose took advantage of Gene Schramm's off-day and beat the Kid from Baldwin, N. Y., 5&4.

Hunt, McDermott Win

In the final two matches Al Hunt and Jake McDermott, though not really in their best form came through in fine style to win 8&7 and 4&2 respectively. All in all though the showing of the team was very good, and certainly seems to indicate that this will be another good Villanova team.

Cats Bounce Back To Beat Rutgers And West Chester

By Harry Nash

Port-siders Dick Scott and Don Summers contributed some newly-found and greatly-needed pitching power last week, which in addition to the club's usual good hitting, handed Villanova's base-ballers their third and fourth wins of the year—over West Chester and Rutgers University.

The pair of victories hiked the 'Cats' record up to 4-4, and no doubt pleased Coach Art Mahan no end, for the team showed signs in both games of finally making with effective hitting-pitching collaboration.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

SPORT SHORTS . . . The intra-mural softball schedule has been moving along nicely, with a break from the weatherman as of late. Interest so far has been very high . . . Blue and White Day, to be staged May 9 as a feature of Junior Week, could become a colorful annual tradition at Villanova if sufficient interest and response's shown this year . . . If the baseball club's hitting continues as well as in the past few weeks, and the pitching stays on the upswing, the 'Cats may end up with a very creditable record despite the poor start . . . The control comeback of Don Sommers is one encouraging factor . . . Big things are being planned for next year by swimming mentor Ed Geisz . . . Second-baseman Bob Maurer has made only one miscue in the team's first nine games. He's been banging out those base knocks with consistency, too . . In addition to getting Larry Hennessey next season, the Warriors will also pick up Norm Grekin and Fred Iehle of LaSalle . . . baseball coach Art Mahan played for the Phillies back in the late '30's . . . Senior John Watson will begin pitching for Albany in the Boston Red Sox farm system as soon as he graduates.

The 2-0 calsomining job that Scott fashioned over the New Jersey visitors, incidentally, constituted the first whitewashing that Rutgers has suffered in its past 78 tilts over a three-year span.

Sommers Wins

Sommers' 6-3 chore against the Teachers was backed with some clutch stick work by Bill McGarry, Jack Helm and Ralph Cecere. The Main

DICK SCOTT

Liners took an early lead in the second inning on a left-field homer by Helm with no one on. The losers retaliated with one apiece in the fifth and sixth, and held that margin until the bottom of the seventh. Then the roof fell in on WC starter Bob Quinn. With one gone, McGarry singled to right on the ground, pilfered second; Bob Maurer singled to right, scoring McGarry; then Chuck McGuckin drove one through the same spot past WC's line-hugging first-baseman, with Maurer scoring. Then Cecere tripled into deep left-center to drive in the fourth run, and at this point Charles Ross spelled Quinn.

Helm then greeted Ross with a single to right, send-

Swimming Team to Compete in Fall; 53 Attend Meeting

The first organization meeting of the swimming team was held last Thursday at the pool in the field house. Newly appointed coach Eddie Geisz greeted some 53 candidates who turned out.

Thursday's get - together consisted of many trial heats designed to let the coach see just what he can expect for next fall. In general the prospects looked pretty good, although Geisz felt that all of them will need plenty of work to get in top-notch shape.

Will Compete Next Fall

The former Malvern Prep swim mentor talked to the entire group and outlined the situation for the coming season. It is planned to have at least eight meets before next Christmas. The total number of meets for the campaign will probably be about twelve.

Swim Clinic

It was also announced that there will be a swim clinic held here in the fall. Original plans called for this event to be held on Saturday last, but the conflict with the Penn Relay Carnival caused the postponement. The reason being many of the top swimming officials also work at track meets, and weren't available at the time.

The new coach incidentally still holds a Villanova pool mark, set when he was a breaststroke champion at Northeast Catholic High The record was set when the Mainline college was host to the Interscholastics just before the second World War.

A graduate of LaSalle College, Geisz still holds many of that schools swimming marks. At present he is regularly employed as a promotional director at Woodside Park. His coaching at Villanova will be on a part time basis.

I-M Track Meet To Be Run May 5, Softball Continues

The fourth annual Intra-Mural track meet will be held May 5, the Tuesday of Junior Week, at 3:30. As in the past the meet will consist of the 100, 220, 440, 880, broad jump, high jump, javelin, 440 relay, and 880 relay. $168 worth of medals will be awarded to the first three finishers in each individual event and to the members of the first three teams in each relay event. Watch the bulletin boards for the names of the class coaches and the practice dates.

Intra-mural softball saw the Clan, with Brady pitching, roll up 10 runs in the first inning and then coast to a 15-10 win over the Nightriders. In the other game the Losers really lived up to their name, taking an 18-5 belting at the hands of the Troopers.

Meanwhile, the Wildcat infield was contributing top-notch support, holding up the lead that Cecere established in the first frame, on a two-run triple. There were few scoring threats after that, with both clubs displaying defensive finesse throughout.

Try For Third Straight Win Gets Drill Team Up At Dawn

The pride of the Villanova NROTC is practicing once again to win the Fourth Naval District Drill Championship. Under the commands of Drill Leader Midshipman Robert Crevier, and its instructor, M/Sgt John Waryha, USMC, the 24-man drill team get up before the birds in the morning to begin their practice at 7:30.

Armed Forces Day will witness the drill competition between Villanova, University of Pennsylvania and possibly Princeton at the Villanova Stadium. Villanova has won the district championship for the last two years and a victory this year will mean permanent retention of the trophy.

Since 1949

The drill team at Villanova was organized in 1949 by M/Sgt. Desphegel, USMC, and led by Gil Hazard, now a 1st Lieut. in the Marine Corps. The group numbered 48 men and performed once during the year in Franklin Field. Only standard marching maneuvers were used.

The following year, under Frank Haskins, the number was cut, fancy movements were introduced, and the Fourth Naval District Drill Championship was won for the first time. Competition included Penn, Princeton and Temple ROTC.

Champs Again

In 1951, Midshipman Crevier, fresh from a tour with the Sea Bees, assumed the leadership of the group. The number was again cut, seniors were eliminated, more maneuvers were introduced, and the championship won for the second time.

The present team consists of 11 freshmen and 6 sophomores, who will be the backbone of the team next year. Of the 7 juniors on it, Tom McNichol stands out as the veteran, having been with the team for three years.

These men are hard at the task of polishing off the rough edges for the competition on May 16, 1953, and their attitude is optimistic.

throughout the country with great success.

One of the latest additions to the program is Ken Barry TV's newest comic sensation who will be the Master of Ceremonies for the show. He has appeared at the Latin Quarter, Ciro's and other leading theatres and night clubs throughout the United States and has been the subject of rave notices in many newspapers.

Another late addition to the program is Estelle Sloan. Miss Sloan combines the intricacies of Russian Ballet, modern tap and pantomine to present a dance programme that for sheer color and excitement has seldom been equalled anywhere. Miss Sloan is a headliner in hotels and clubs such as the Waldorf Astoria and the Copacabana, has starred on the Broadway stage and has been featured in motion pictures, notably "Night and Day."

The program will be enlivened by Clem Foust, outstanding European comedy juggling sensation who has recently returned from a very successful tour of the continent.

Jr. Week Tickets

arranging a top flight program for this evening.

Wednesday night is the time and the Field House is the place for the annual Blazer Ball. The Blue Notes will supply the music for this pleasant and informal affair. Their lovely vocalist will also be on hand. Jack Birle is chairman of the dance and Bob Gold is handling the decorations.

Thursday is the one open day of Junior Week. This will give students a day to rest up and prepare for the final weekend.

Friday night Villanova will witness one of the biggest and best Proms in the school's history. "Young America's favorite" Johnny Long will take charge and promises a full evening of the best music. The Joey Singer Trio, an up and coming young group of Philadelphia song stylists, will be on hand for the intermission music. Months of planning and work by chairmen Joe Zator and Joe McGarrigle have produced the finest in decorations and other added attractions.

Saturday afternoon, athletic director Bud Dudley and the new Monogram Club have planned a Sports Carnival. During this afternoon the baseball team will take on Loyola of Baltimore, the trackmen will face Seton Hall, and the football team will oppose an outfit of "oldtimers."

Sold Out

Tickets were sold out for the Dinner Dance a full week ago although chairman Harry Anger planned for a larger crowd than last year. Anger is trying to get the use of a connecting room of the main banquet room in the Walt Whitman Hotel, Camden, to accommodate more people. Tony Desmond will play for dinner and dancing afterwards. Bill Rooney and Jack Graziano did a great job as ticket chairman for this, the final affair of Junior Week.

Mothers Feted As Week Starts

Mass, Lunch, Banquet Set; Class Of 1954 Honors Mom

Over 300 Juniors will play host to their Mothers today as the 15th Annual Mother's Day celebration gets underway at 11:30 with the celebration of Mass in the College Chapel. This will also mark the official opening of Junior Week for the Class of 1954.

Corsages of carnations, the Mother's Day flower, will be distributed before the Mass in front of the Chapel. Rev. John R. Dunne, class moderator, will be the celebrant and The Very Rev. Francis X. McGuire will preach the sermon.

At 12:30, the class tree will be planted to the right of the chapel by the chairman of the Mother's Day Committee, Ted Sheehan. A photographer from the Zamsky Studio will be on campus from noon to 5 P. M. to take the picture of any Junior and his mother who might wish to keep a picture remembrance of the day.

Lunch At 12:45

A luncheon in the cafeteria will begin at 12:45 with two shifts being planned to handle the large crowd. After lunch the Mothers are invited to tour the campus with their sons. At 2:15 the scene will change to the College Field House where the Mothers will be entertained by a band and Glee Club recital. A feature of this show, besides the Sousa numbers which the band will play, will be a preview of the Turf and Tinsel show, "Robin Hoodwink". Excerpts from the show will be presented for the Mothers.

One of the innovations of the day will be an elaborate 12-page program for the entire day, listing all information of any interest concerning the day for the Juniors and their Mothers.

"Diaper Dan" Returns

The committee has again decided to run the "Diaper Dan" contest and letters were sent out to all the Juniors' Mothers in early March, asking them to submit baby pictures of their sons. The returns have been gratifying and they will be displayed along with the contest winner in the Library at 4 P. M.

Father Dunne will officate at the Benediction in the Chapel at 5 and the day will close with the Third Annual Mother's Day Banquet in the Field House at 6 o'clock. Guests at the banquet will include: Fathers Dunne, McKee, Dwyer, McLaughlin and Curran, and Mr. Ambrose F. Dudley, the newly appointed Athletic Director.

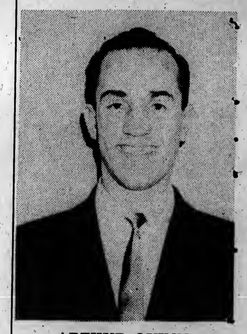
The Cover

The theme of this edition, the third "Villanovan" to be dedicated to the Junior classes, is embodied in the cover. Villanova College is in its 111th year and we feel that the ivy-covered rock wall symbolizes all that is Villanova: the staunchness of its Catholic teachings, and the strength of its tradition and products.

A Message Of Thanks

Dear Mothers and Men of the Class of 1954:

This message is one that I give gratefully for it affords me an opportunity to give lasting thanks to many.



If I may take the liberty to become a spokesman for the men of the class, I will give thanks to our Mothers. Our way of giving thanks to you is by making Junior Mother's Day one of your happiest experiences. You do so much for us, and since we are able to give compartively little in return, we joyfully take this opportunity to demonstrate our gratitude.

I would like to give thanks and praise to all who worked so very hard to make our Junior Year a success. Our Moderator, Fr. John R. Dunne, and the activity chairmen and their committees, are especially deserving of credit. They directly, by their tireless efforts, have made the year successful.

Lastly, I would like to thank the entire Junior Class for their constant, active interest, complete cooperation, and harmonious spirit. Without these the success of the year would have been impossible.

It has been a great privilege to serve as president, and will always be an honor to be a member of the Class of 1954.

Day's History Traced Back To 1934

Austerity Marked Original Program

By Ted Sheehan

The activity which we celebrate today as Mothe'r Day began on the Villanova campus almost twenty years ago as a very austere and quiet ladies' reception. Since that time it has continued to grow until today we find it a full day's activity.

On April 24, 1934, a reception was held at 1:30 in Mendel Hall for the visiting mothers. After the reception was over the visiting mothers were treated to a laboratory tour where "short, interesting experiments had been arranged." The tour continued as everyone tripped down to the Field House pool to view a swimming show and the day closed with a very, very proper 4:00 tea.

Luncheon In '35

In 1935, the day was expanded to include a luncheon for the hungry mothers. (The Juniors probably realized that those tea sandwiches weren't enough to satisfy their appetites). Once again though, the "short experiments" were staged.

The following year, the annual flag raising ceremony was held to open the week and afterwards the Mothers were introduced to "their day."

with a luncheon and, you guessed it, experiments. The mothers were then treated to a movie in the Commerce and Finance Auditorium entitled "Life at Villanova".

The same open house theme, which had been carried on since the day began, was maintained in 1937, but the mothers that year had to do without that celluloid masterpiece, "Life at Villanova".

When Mother's Day was held in 1939 it only cost the mothers $2.73 to ride on the Pennsylvania Railroad from New York to Philadelphia and the "Villanovan" of that day was advertising tailor made suits for students at the low, low price of $24.75. By this time the day's activities included lunch, musicale, science and engineering experiments, and the day closed with Benediction.

The highlight of the day in 1940 was the re-unveiling of the portrait of Father Fedigan which now hangs in the Library. It seems that it was lost after the Monastery fire of 1932 and misplaced in an attic for all that time. In the afternoon the Belle Masque and the Spanish Club put on shows for the visitors.

Suspended by War

War had come to the college in 1942 and all Junior Week activities were suspended. This was to last until 1947 when things finally got back to normal.

In that year the day took much of the form that it still has today. The activities began with an 11:00 Mass in the College Chapel with corsages being distributed beforehand. The class tree was planted following this and then everyone went to lunch. A musical was held in the afternoon and the day closed with benediction.

In 1949 a "Junior of Junior Week" contest was held for the sons of the then juniors. (The class was made up of veterans for the most part). In 1951, the Juniors decided to try something new so they introduced the idea of the "Diaper Dan" contest and they closed the day with a catered banquet in the Field House.

Changes Wrought In 19-Year Growth

OH YOU KID! Villanovans of 21 years ago with their dates at the first dance ever to be held in the Field House. The date is April 1, 1932, and the occasion is the formal opening of the gym. This is a reprint of a very rare photo from the archives of the Villanova Library.

Band And Glee Club Concert Season's Final Presentation

By Bill Quinn

The Band and Glee Club concert tomorrow night will mark the end of these activities on campus for this year. Joe Bradley, in charge of the concert as a Junior Week event, stated that attendance in previous years has been poor. He also expressed the wish that Juniors and their friends would support this event given in their honor.

Admission to the concert, which will be held in the Field House at 8:30, is free. The Concert Band is directed by Don Brown and both the Band and the Glee Club are under the supervision of Rev. Joseph Burns, O.S.A.

Sousa Marches Listed

Featured in the entertainment will be music from the picture "Stars and Stripes Forever." Selections include John Philip Sousa's "El Capitan" and "Semper Fidelis", as well as the title song.

Classical Numbers

In contrast with these gay Sousa marches, the band will offer a few selections a little more on the concert side. Included among these will be the "Overture From the Chocolate Soldier", "The Desert Song", and the "Orpheus Overture".

These and many other tunes on the lighter side will be offered for the Class of '54 and their guests.

Roses, Long's Music Set Stage For Prom

By Jim Nolin

Villanovans and their dates will dance in a "Rose Room" setting with a Philadelphia skyline in the background at this year's Junior Prom, social high spot of the Junior Week.

Centerpiece

Johnny Long and his fine dance band will play, as some six hundred couples swirl about a multi-colored fountain in the center of the floor.

Behind the orchestra the Philadelphia skyline may be made out. Joe Zator, Prom chairman, and Joe McGarigle, Decorations chairman, have been working on ideas for the decorations for several months and have come up with something beautiful.

City Skylines

Around the other walls will be composite skylines of New York, with its magnificent Empire State Building; San Francisco and its "Golden Gate; Chicago and its lakefront area; and most of the other big cities throughout the United States.

Three Chandeliers

Lighting for the "Rose Room" will be supplied by three chandeliers hanging from the ceiling.

Refreshments will be served on the dance floor and in the Blue Room of the Field House.

The dance will last from 9 to 1. Highpoint of the evening will come about 10:30 when the "Queen of Junior Week" will ascend the stage, followed by her "Lady-in-wating" and the rest of the "Royal Court". Then she will be crowned and presented with many gifts.

Queen's Waltz

Johnny Long will play a royal waltz and the "Queen" and her entourage will dance.

Southpaw violinist Johnny Long and his boys are regarded by many as the best college dance band in the country. Since their start at Duke University in 1931 they have been keeping their music right in step with the college crowds. Even his theme song, "Sweetheart of Sigma Nu", is of collegiate origin.

Sometime during the evening we can be sure that he will play his famous "In a Shanty in Old Shantytown", probably his most popular tune, and "Just Like That", which he wrote himself.

With Long will be his lovely vocalist Barbara Hammond, Rod Kinder, Dick Perry and the Long Shots, and the Glee Club.

Inexpensive Blazer Ball Is Slated For Wednesday Nite

By Pete Petersen

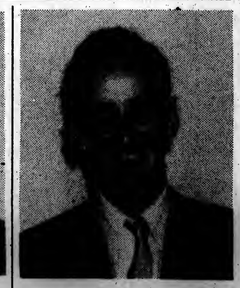
With emphasis on musical entertainment the Class of 1954 will continue Junior week with the annual Blazer Ball on Wednesday evening in the Villanova College Fieldhouse from 9 till 1 o'clock.

In the estimation of Chairman Jack Birle "this dance should be one of the best ever." As proof of this, one only has to look at the enthusiastic support shown by the student body as a whole. Music will be provided by a five-piece orchestra, the Blue Notes. This will be supplemented by a female vocalist.

All Students Welcome

Jack and the entire Blazer Ball committee would like to offer a special invitation to the underclassmen since the dance has always proven to be quite popular with the student body as a whole. He stressed that it was not necessary to wear a blazer to attend.

Seal Is Theme



The theme of the '54 Blazer Ball, Junior Week's only informal dance, will emphasize the seal of the class of 1954 with a huge replica of the blazer seal as the main attraction. The seal will be placed over the Field House stage with the band situated just to the right of the stage surrounded by two gigantic bows. Special appreciation should be extended to Bob Gold and Steve Berry for their work as co-chairmen of decorations.

Tickets for the Blazer Ball are priced $1.75. They can be procured at the special Junior week booth in the Pie Shop or from one of the many campus representatives.

Admission to the concert, which will be held in the Field House at 8:30, is free. The Concert Band is directed by Don Brown and both the Band and the Glee Club are under the supervision of Rev. Joseph Burns, O.S.A.

Sousa Marches Listed

Featured in the entertainment will be music from the picture "Stars and Stripes Forever." Selections include John Philip Sousa's "El Capitan" and "Semper Fidelis", as well as the title song.

Classical Numbers

In contrast with these gay Sousa marches, the band will offer a few selections a little more on the concert side. Included among these will be the "Overture From the Chocolate Soldier", "The Desert Song", and the "Orpheus Overture".

These and many other tunes on the lighter side will be offered for the Class of '54 and their guests.

Inexpensive Blazer Ball Is Slated For Wednesday Nite

By Pete Petersen

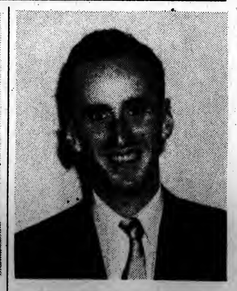
With emphasis on musical entertainment the Class of 1954 will continue Junior week with the annual Blazer Ball on Wednesday evening in the Villanova College Fieldhouse from 9 till 1 o'clock.

In the estimation of Chairman Jack Birle "this dance should be one of the best ever." As proof of this, one only has to look at the enthusiastic support shown by the student body as a whole. Music will be provided by a five-piece orchestra, the Blue Notes. This will be supplemented by a female vocalist.

All Students Welcome

Jack and the entire Blazer Ball committee would like to offer a special invitation to the underclassmen since the dance has always proven to be quite popular with the student body as a whole. He stressed that it was not necessary to wear a blazer to attend.

Seal Is Theme



The theme of the '54 Blazer Ball, Junior Week's only informal dance, will emphasize the seal of the class of 1954 with a huge replica of the blazer seal as the main attraction. The seal will be placed over the Field House stage with the band situated just to the right of the stage surrounded by two gigantic bows. Special appreciation should be extended to Bob Gold and Steve Berry for their work as co-chairmen of decorations.

Tickets for the Blazer Ball are priced $1.75. They can be procured at the special Junior week booth in the Pie Shop or from one of the many campus representatives.

Committee Bares All in Hush-Hush "Beauty Contest"

By Ward Welsh

For over a month now, the Mother's Day Committee has been searching behind the backs of unsuspecting juniors for the traditional "king" of Junior Week, Diaper Dan.

Just before Easter letters were sent to all the Mothers of juniors asking them to send in baby pictures of their sons as contestants in a "cutest baby" contest. The mothers responded willingly in this good-natured conspiracy against their sons with a deluge of pictures.

Last week the judging committee, still working secretly, viewed the pile of entries. Facial expression, humor and originality were all considered as the committee narrowed the field down to 30 pictures and finaly came to a decision.

Today, Mother's Day, the news is out!

Pictured here is the "Little King" himself, Robert A. Gold. Baby Bob was a little embarrassed when the candid camera caught him "in the tub" at his summer home in Mount Pleasant, Pa. But that was back in '33 and Bob has outgrown his childhood shyness now.

A resident of Narberth all his life, "Goldy" graduated from St. Joe's Prep in Philadelphia before coming to Villanova to major in Finance.

He spends a good deal of his time here at school as an active member of the N.F.C.C.S., the Turf & Tinsel Society and the Glue Club. During the Fall he lends his talents to our 150-lb. football team as an able lineman.

Bob has also shown his interest in class activities as a member of the steering committee and as a candidate for student council representative for next year . . . a worthy man, our "Diaper Dan".

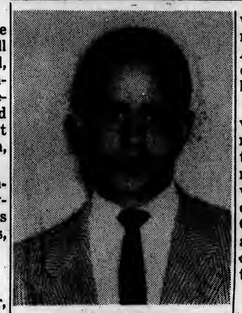
The pictures of all the entries in the Diaper Dan Contest are on display today in Austin Lounge.

Setting A New Record –

Anticipate Sellout Crowd To Attend Dinner-Dance

By Bill Quinn

As in Junior Weeks of the past, the class of 1954 will end its week with the formal, and comparatively quiet Dinner-Dance on Saturday evening. The affair will be held in the ball room of the Walt Whitman Hotel in Camden, New Jersey.



The dinner menu will consist of consomme, roast Maryland Tom turkey, Dutchess potatoes, peas, string beans, cherry tarts and coffee.

New High

According to Harry Anger, Chairman of this year's Dinner-Dance there will be a record crowd of some 245 couples present at the event, which tops an all time high by 35 couples. The seating plan is arranged so that there will be 480 people at the floor tables and 20 at the head table. Guests will include officers of the administration and the Prom Queen.

Chairman Anger also wishes to express his appreciation for the work done by ticket chairmen Bill Rooney and Jack Graziano, and to Jack Soley, Russ Clarke, Dick Brady, Ward Welsh, and Joe Bradley.

There is absolutely no one holding tickets now who is not a Junior. Of the 215 tickets sold, 200 of them were sold through the booth in the Pie Shoppe. Six additional tables have been sold, bringing the total to 49.

Music by Desmond

Music for the dance will be supplied by Tony Desmond. This same band was enjoyed by those who attended last year's Dinner-Dance. There will also be a trio present for music during dinner itself. After-dinner speeches will be concise and limited in number.

The Walt Whitman Hotel is very easily reached by automobile. Students driving to the dance are advised to immediaely turn right on Broadway after crossing the bridge connecting Philadelphia with Camden. Parking facilities are adequate and are available directly across the street from the hotel.

JUNIOR CLASS STEERING COMMITTEE has been the advisory organ of the class this year. From its numbers were picked most of the chairmen for the various activities of the Class of '54. Sitting: Joe Bradley, Dick Brady, Fr. Dunne, Art Quinn, Ted Sheehan. Standing—First Row: Frank Georgio, Harry Anger, Bob Gold, Jack Birle, Joe McGarrigle, Russ Clark, Frank Saul. Second Row: Jim Boyle, Jim Cleary, Paul Strep, Joe Zator, George Eberle, Jim Nolin, Don Miller, Jack Graziano, John Van Stone. Last Row: Leo Denlea, Joe Kenney, Jack Hayes, Charlie McGuckin, Ward Welsh, Tom Kern, Steve Berry, Jack Kneafsy, Mike Quinn. Chosen for their inter-est, leadership, and ambition in school affairs, these men have contributed greatly to a successful junior year for the whole class.

C&F School Holds Most Juniors Title

Because the mortality rate levels off after the Sophomore year, these statistics should give a fairly accurate look at the Junior class. At present, there are 391 members in the class of '54, with the group in the C&F school numbering 217. The Liberal Arts and Engineering schools have practically the same enrollment; 62 and 63 respectively. The remainder are dispersed into smaller groups.

In all, 212 men have joined the ranks of the missing since 603 Freshmen entered in September, 1950.

By Ward Welsh

Miss Janet Murray, a senior at Mater Misericordia Academy, Merion, will reign as Queen of Junior Week, 1953, accompanied by Mark Carmack, a Commerce and Finance junior.

Local Girl

Janet, whose home is in nearby Rosemont, was given a first place nod by both judges, Robin Roberts and Perry Como.

She and Mark will be guests of the Class at all Junior Week functions and Janet will be formally coronated—"Queen" at the Prom, Friday night.

Scholarship Student

Janet was born in New York City 17 years ago. She moved to the Mainline a short time later and has lived here ever since.

Possessing not only beauty but brains, Janet was recently awarded a full tuition scholarship to Gwynedd-Mercy Junior College in Gwynedd Valley. She will start there next fall to study for a medical secretary career.

Her blue eyes, blonde hair and a radiant smile helped Janet to gain the favor of all the judges. She is five feet, five inches tall and weighs a very neat 112 pounds.

Lady-in-Waiting

Model agent Harry Conover's first choice was lovely Mary Lou Davenport of Upper Darby who is attending Junior Week affairs with C&F student Spence Thomas.

Mary Lou, second in view of the combined ballots of Conover, Como, and Roberts, will also be a guest at the Prom and Dinner Dance and will be honored and awarded at the Prom along with the Queen and the court.

Short and Sweet

Our Lady-in-Waiting, a short but sweet 5 feet 2½ inch, 110 pound beauty lives in Upper Darby and is employed as a secretary at the General Electric Corporation in Philadelphia.

A graduate of Notre Dame Girls High in Moylan, Pa., Mary Lou has brown hair and blue eyes. She is 18 years old.

Other Awards

Janet and Mary Lou were chosen by the judges entirely from pictures entered in the contest during the past two months. They also chose four other lovely girls to act as a court for Her Royal Highness. Each of these girls will be presented at the Prom and awarded gifts and bouquets by the Junior Class.

Queen Of Junior Week '53

. . . Her Lady -In-Waiting

PEGGY TIERNEY of Philadelphia, will be honored at the prom along with the other members of the Queen's court. Peggy, the date of Lou Flick, an Arts major, has brown hair, brown eyes, and is a secretary at the Philco Corporation.

MARY LOU HANLON, a senior at Notre Dame academy, Moylan, lives in Drexel Park Gardens. She will be seen at Villanova this week on the arm of Bill Murphy, a C&F student. Mary is 18 years old, has brown hair and blue eyes.

BUNNY RUF, Prom date of Tom Baum, a C&F student, lives in Philadelphia and is employed in the adjustments department of Strawbridge and Clothier. Bunny is 5'6" tall and weighs 125 pounds. She is 23 years old, has light brown hair and blue eyes, and graduated from Little Flower High in Philadelphia.

BETTY LOU FARLEY, another comely secretary, will attend the Prom with John Devine. Betty's chestnut hair and green eyes certainly gained the favor of the judges. She is 18 years old and stands 5'3".

Honor Thy Mother

The two most famous women in history are mothers; one was the mother of man, and the other was the mother of man's redeemer. Eve brought ruin to man, and Mary brought redemption.

These are the only women in history created without original sin on their souls; one lost her high position and the other retained it. It took God's blessing upon the second mother to restore dignity to womanhood.

Mary, the Mother of God, is the greatest saint; she did not sin. She was a masterpiece of femininity whose life gave motherhood dignity and nobility which it has treasured ever since. The Blessed Mother has given to many mothers, as to mankind in general, inspiration toward holiness.

Among these, Monica, the mother of St. Augustine, is a great saint with whose life we are made familiar by the writings of her holy son who wrote in his Confessions: . . . "And thou didst send thy hand from above and drewest my soul out of that profound darkness, my mother, thy faithful one, weeping to thee for me more than mothers weep the bodily deaths of their children." St. Augustine describes the tremendous and unwavering faith of his mother, who never despaired of her son's conversation. Her life was largely dedicated to that end.

Saint Elizabeth, the mother of John the Baptist, and Saint Ann, the mother of Mary, are among the great saints. Down through the centuries there have been many holy mothers. And the noble vacation of motherhood has been honored and respected.

"Honor thy Mother . . .", is one of the commandments which are the outline of the plan of salvation. Sacred Scripture, repeatedly advises us to honor Mother, and often it is stated that there can be no limit to our gratitude for her love. In the words of Robert Browning:

> . . . "There is a vision in the heart of each, of justice, mercy, wisdom, tenderness to wrong and pain, and knowledge of their cure; . . ."

May is the month of Mary, and the first Monday in May is traditionally dedicated to our mother. Although it is not proper to limit the honor to either The Blessed Virgin or our mother to one month or one day, it is fitting that certain times are set aside for special remembrance.

In the court of heaven which is presided over by a righteous and merciful creator, our best advocate is our heavenly Mother of Good Counsel. Our voice through Mary is more pleasing to God.

Our mothers draw inspiration from the life on earth of Mary; in the trials of the world we have a ready defender in Mother.

Dear Mom:

We have invited you here today to celebrate with us the Twentieth Annual Mother's Day at Villanova.

It is no coincidence that this, the most anticipated, most important week of our college years begins with a day dedicated to you. Who is more deserving?

You, Mother, have led us through the innocent years of our childhood, consoled us during the confused years of our adolescence, and guided us to maturity here at Villanova. Many of us are only now realizing the great gifts of love, sacrifice and prayers which you have bestowed upon us.

Villanova opens her heart to you today. We hope that in this small way we can express the gratitude and the love which we hold in our hearts for you—our Mothers.

Your Loving Sons.

This 'n That

By W. W.

THINK how many of us were just a glow in Daddy's eye when the first Mother's Day was celebrated here at Villanova. And how many more of us were still wetting the diapers which we so proudly display in Austin Lounge today.

Little did we dream then that a fateful week was awaiting us in the Spring of '53 . . . "tempus has fugited" and here it is . . . the week that Sonny prays for and Daddy pays for . . . Mrs. X. Exclaims, "Oh, there's my Boopsie", as she climbs off the train and runs up to her mammoth son standing among his football cohorts.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS: Mom asks junior to show her the "lovely new library where he spends all his time" . . . is a little shook up when she finds he has to ask directions to get there.

Take a good look at "Sonny", Mom . . . wasn't it worth all the sleepless nights, the heating bottles, the changing diapers, the sweat and tears? WHO was that who said No.

"THE BISHOPS" will be taking a well deserved bow today to acknowledge applause for a job well done. I'll bet Mommy Bishop is pretty proud . . .

REMEMBER, Mom, when you used to tell us the story of The Three Bears? and we used to ask "Why did this happen, Why that? etc.? . . . Is it true that Mommy Bear and Daddy Bear and Baby Bear were called "bears" beacuse "they couldn't afford to buy clothes?" or have I been disillusioned?

ASK any junior what he's looking for in the way of a future spouse and he'll answer with the familiar tune "I Want A Girl Just Like The Girl that Married Dear Old Dad" . . . a gal who can cook like Mom, clean house like Mom, sew like Mom, wash like Mom, laugh like Mom, cry like Mom, give like Mom, take like Mom, live like Mom and love like Mom . . . What A COMBINATION! You can't beat her . . . I tend to agree with the joker who said "Mothers are nice things and no family should be without one" . . . As a matter of fact I'd go so far as to say: Motorcats may come and go . . . straw hats have seen their day but who will disagree with me that "Mom's are here to stay".

Leave It To Harry Hasbeen To Beat The Financial Rap

By Noel Spillane

This week is going down in economic history. Never before have so many spent so much in so short a time. Expenses incurred by us Juniors this week will make the Federal Budget look like the assets of a Bowery derelict in comparison. Many and devious ways of beating the financial rap have been devised. This leads us to Harry Hasbeen.

Harry Hasbeen, typical broke Junior, was one financial fretter, but with a little fore-thought, he is now able to face the weekend with little apprehension. Harry's got some striking silver-stretching ideas. His weekend includes Michelob cocktails before dinner at Ben and Yetta's. Breakfast at Nedicks (12 cents; this beats Louie's breakfast by a nickel), and girl's room at the Y.W.C.A. He has even saved two bent

P.T.C. bus tokens for the plate collection at Sunday Mass.

Harry takes a size 42 long tuxedo, but because nobody would rent him a 21 short tux at half price he got sore. He finally licked this problem by sewing silk lapels on his ROTACY uniform.

Harry is importing talent for the prom weekend. He was going to have her sent Railway Express but he couldn't decide whether to insure her or not.

The best deal Harry found was at Hertz-U-Drive-It—they have a special rental rate on a 1929 Pierce-Arrow hearse!

Most of the Juniors are budget balancing like Harry is. But seriously, there are two events that no one wants to skimp on. Mother's Day is one; there is nothing too good for our best girls. The other is the Junior pic-HIC-nic, and who wants to skimp on that?

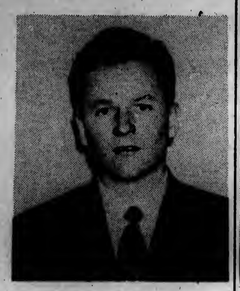
Of course, there's the Blazer Ball, but what expense can be cut from the poor man's Junior Prom?

There are a few Juniors who are financially stable.

One quick-witted third year man has created a monopoly on black shoe polish and hopes to clean up. Another bought the aspirin concession on campus and is figuring on retiring to clip coupons after he graduates.

An economizing Junior must be careful that he doesn't carry this expense cutting too far. Last year, one fellow tried making his own corsage. Pin, ribbon, and a box were nine cents and the fine for picking flowers in a public park was five dollars. It would have been cheaper to pick them up at Penn Fruit.

Please don't worry, fellows; last year, the rich and the poor woke up on Monday morning with equally fabulous hangovers.



Oh yes—one last note!

A Full Lifetime Of Service To God & Country: Fr. Dunne

By Bob Ford

Born and raised in the Bronx, a student at the Augustinian Academy on Staten Island and later at Villanova College, an instructor in a college in Havan and then at his alma mater, Villanova, where he has since then taught: this, briefly, is the life of Reverend John R. Dunne, O.S.A., junior class moderator.

Father Dunne, known to all for his intense interest in atheltics at Villaova, graduated from the Auguistinian Academy in 1925 after starring in baseball there. Choosing the religious life in the order of Saint Augustine, he entered the novitiate in 1925 and came to Villanova one year later. He graduated from Villanova in 1929 with a Bachelor of Arts degree, then enrolled at Catholic University where he earned a Master of Arts in American History, in 1933. In 1932, John R. Dunne was ordained a priest.

Assigned to Cuba

Soon after receiving his degree, Father Dunne was sent on his first assignment, to Havana, Cuba. While there he was attached to the Augustinian parish of Iglesio del Cristo, teaching in the interim at Colegio de San Augustin. Beginning in 1937, Father Dunne taught history and religion at Villanova for five years. Because of World War II he was granted a leave of absence to enter the Chaplain's Corps of the Army.

After being commissioned a first lieutenant, Fr. Dunne served with the First Army Air Force at Richmond Army Air Base in Virginia. In December of 1943 he was sent to the South Pacific as chaplain of the 1897 Aviation Engineering Battalion.

After a short stay in Finch Haven, New Guinea, the 1897 A. E. B. was sent on the operations in Hollandia and Sansapor in Dutch New Guinea. As the war progressed and the Allies' crept closer and closer to the Japanese mainland, it was the 1897th. Aviation Engineering Battalion which did the lion's share of airfield-building. According to The Military Engineer Magazine, the job done on the airbase at Tanauan by the 1897th in conjunction with one other engineering battalion was one of the "greatest in history".

Stayed With 1897th

Father Dunne was with the 1897th throughout the Leyte Campaign and then took part in the Southern Philippines Campaign at Palawan in the port of Puero Principa—a port known in literature as "The Port of Lost Souls".

In September of 1945, Father Dunne was assigned to work with the occupation troops in Japan. He spent six months in this position at Wakiama, Osaka, and Kobe.

After 26 months overseas Father Dunne returned to the States as an Army major. He received his discharge from Fort Dix.

While still on terminal leave from the Army, Father Dunne reassumed his teaching duties at Villanova, where the Spring semester had just begun. In addition to taking his position as Professor in the History and Religion Departments, he became Moderator of Intramurals and prefect of Delurey Hall; positions which he still holds.

His other "extra-curricular activities" include co-directorship of intramurals from 1937 to 1942 with Father McKee, Moderator of the class of 1941, prefect in Alumni Hall, 1937-1942, and present-day moderator of the International Relations Club.

This 'n That

By W. W.

THINK how many of us were just a glow in Daddy's eye when the first Mother's Day was celebrated here at Villanova. And how many more of us were still wetting the diapers which we so proudly display in Austin Lounge today.

Little did we dream then that a fateful week was awaiting us in the Spring of '53 . . . "tempus has fugited" and here it is . . . the week that Sonny prays for and Daddy pays for . . . Mrs. X. Exclaims, "Oh, there's my Boopsie", as she climbs off the train and runs up to her mammoth son standing among his football cohorts.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS: Mom asks junior to show her the "lovely new library where he spends all his time" . . . is a little shook up when she finds he has to ask directions to get there.

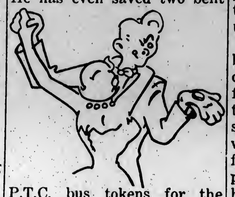
Take a good look at "Sonny", Mom . . . wasn't it worth all the sleepless nights, the heating bottles, the changing diapers, the sweat and tears? WHO was that who said No.

"THE BISHOPS" will be taking a well deserved bow today to acknowledge applause for a job well done. I'll bet Mommy Bishop is pretty proud . . .

REMEMBER, Mom, when you used to tell us the story of The Three Bears? and we used to ask "Why did this happen, Why that? etc.? . . . Is it true that Mommy Bear and Daddy Bear and Baby Bear were called "bears" beacuse "they couldn't afford to buy clothes?" or have I been disillusioned?

ASK any junior what he's looking for in the way of a future spouse and he'll answer with the familiar tune "I Want A Girl Just Like The Girl that Married Dear Old Dad" . . . a gal who can cook like Mom, clean house like Mom, sew like Mom, wash like Mom, laugh like Mom, cry like Mom, give like Mom, take like Mom, live like Mom and love like Mom . . . What A COMBINATION! You can't beat her . . . I tend to agree with the joker who said "Mothers are nice things and no family should be without one" . . . As a matter of fact I'd go so far as to say: Motorcats may come and go . . . straw hats have seen their day but who will disagree with me that "Mom's are here to stay".

Leave It To Harry Hasbeen To Beat The Financial Rap



By Noel Spillane

This week is going down in economic history. Never before have so many spent so much in so short a time. Expenses incurred by us Juniors this week will make the Federal Budget look like the assets of a Bowery derelict in comparison. Many and devious ways of beating the financial rap have been devised. This leads us to Harry Hasbeen.

Harry Hasbeen, typical broke Junior, was one financial fretter, but with a little fore-thought, he is now able to face the weekend with little apprehension. Harry's got some striking silver-stretching ideas. His weekend includes Michelob cocktails before dinner at Ben and Yetta's. Breakfast at Nedicks (12 cents; this beats Louie's breakfast by a nickel), and girl's room at the Y.W.C.A. He has even saved two bent

P.T.C. bus tokens for the plate collection at Sunday Mass.

Harry takes a size 42 long tuxedo, but because nobody would rent him a 21 short tux at half price he got sore. He finally licked this problem by sewing silk lapels on his ROTACY uniform.

Harry is importing talent for the prom weekend. He was going to have her sent Railway Express but he couldn't decide whether to insure her or not.

The best deal Harry found was at Hertz-U-Drive-It — they have a special rental rate on a 1929 Pierce-Arrow hearse!

Most of the Juniors are budget balancing like Harry is. But seriously, there are two events that no one wants to skimp on. Mother's Day is one; there is nothing too good for our best girls. The other is the Junior pic-HIC-nic, and who wants to skimp on that?

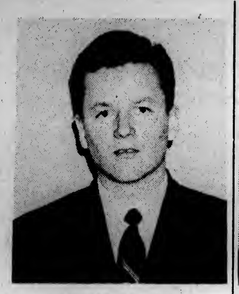
Of course, there's the Blazer Ball, but what expense can be cut from the poor man's Junior Prom?

There are a few Juniors who are financially stable.

One quick-witted third year man has created a monopoly on black shoe polish and hopes to clean up. Another bought the aspirin concession on campus and is figuring on retiring to clip coupons after he graduates.

An economizing Junior must be careful that he doesn't carry this expense cutting too far. Last year, one fellow tried making his own corsage. Pin, ribbon, and a box were nine cents and the fine for picking flowers in a public park was five dollars. It would have been cheaper to pick them up at Penn Fruit.

Please don't worry, fellows; last year, the rich and the poor woke up on Monday morning with equally fabulous hangovers.



Oh yes—one last note!

A Full Lifetime Of Service To God & Country: Fr. Dunne

By Bob Ford

Born and raised in the Bronx, a student at the Augustinian Academy on Staten Island and later at Villanova College, an instructor in a college in Havan and then at his alma mater, Villanova, where he has since then taught: this, briefly, is the life of Reverend John R. Dunne, O.S.A., junior class moderator.

Father Dunne, known to all for his intense interest in atheltics at Villaova, graduated from the Auguistinian Academy in 1925 after starring in baseball there. Choosing the religious life in the order of Saint Augustine, he entered the novitiate in 1925 and came to Villanova one year later. He graduated from Villanova in 1929 with a Bachelor of Arts degree, then enrolled at Catholic University where he earned a Master of Arts in American History, in 1933. In 1932, John R. Dunne was ordained a priest.

Assigned to Cuba

Soon after receiving his degree, Father Dunne was sent on his first assignment, to Havana, Cuba. While there he was attached to the Augustinian parish of Iglesio del Cristo, teaching in the interim at Colegio de San Augustin. Beginning in 1937, Father Dunne taught history and religion at Villanova for five years. Because of World War II he was granted a leave of absence to enter the Chaplain's Corps of the Army.

After being commissioned a first lieutenant, Fr. Dunne served with the First Army Air Force at Richmond Army Air Base in Virginia. In December of 1943 he was sent to the South Pacific as chaplain of the 1897 Aviation Engineering Battalion.

After a short stay in Finch Haven, New Guinea, the 1897 A. E. B. was sent on the operations in Hollandia and Sansapor in Dutch New Guinea. As the war progressed and the Allies' crept closer and closer to the Japanese mainland, it was the 1897th. Aviation Engineering Battalion which did the lion's share of airfield-building. According to The Military Engineer Magazine, the job done on the airbase at Tanauan by the 1897th in conjunction with one other engineering battalion was one of the "greatest in history".

Stayed With 1897th

Father Dunne was with the 1897th throughout the Leyte Campaign and then took part in the Southern Philippines Campaign at Palawan in the port of Puero Principa—a port known in literature as "The Port of Lost Souls".

In September of 1945, Father Dunne was assigned to work with the occupation troops in Japan. He spent six months in this position at Wakiama, Osaka, and Kobe.

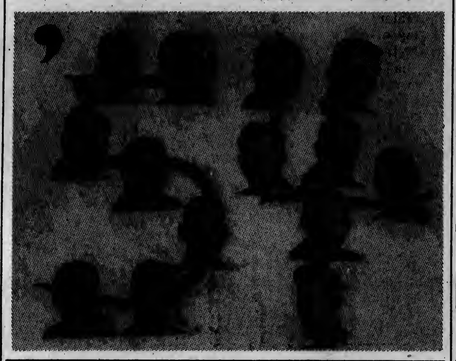
After 26 months overseas Father Dunne returned to the States as an Army major. He received his discharge from Fort Dix.

While still on terminal leave from the Army, Father Dunne reassumed his teaching duties at Villanova, where the Spring semester had just begun. In addition to taking his position as Professor in the History and Religion Departments, he became Moderator of Intramurals and prefect of Delurey Hall; positions which he still holds.

His other "extra-curricular activities" include co-directorship of intramurals from 1937 to 1942 with Father McKee, Moderator of the class of 1941, prefect in Alumni Hall, 1937-1942, and present-day moderator of the International Relations Club.

Junior Athletes Lead Wildcats

'54 Wildkittens to Draw Heavily From Top Junior Stars



By John Gillman

150-pound football, a real student's sport is one in which the Junior Class figured quite prominently. The nucleus of what should be a strong club next year is formed by some outstanding members of the class of 1954.

The starting offensive backfield listed such fellows as Joe Kenny, Lefty Spencer and Dom Conicelli. Of course behind these speedsters there was valuable reserve strength in Franny McGurk, the kind of guy who can go both ways if need be. The other three junior backs, too, have shown by experience that they can readily adapt themselves to the single-platoon system of ball that will be used next fall. As far as that goes the backfield situation for Coach Bob Ervin looks pretty good, he has these men backed up by excellent sophomores and freshmen.

Good Line

In the line the situation isn't bad either, the Kittens' fans can count on plenty of action from Bob Gold, a linebacker on the '53 team, and a tough performer all around. John Dougherty, a rough operative at the offensive right tackle post gave all indications last fall that he too will be ready for full time duty. In the middle of the forward wall Ervin will get plenty of good work from Bob Sur, an agresive center whom the boys like to call the "Bear Cat". As you can easily see with these kids in their fighting the next edition of the lightweights will really be a tough outfit to stop.

Faragalli And Filipski Spark Jr.-Dominated '53 Eleven

By Dick Confoy

When the football members of the class of 1954 play their last game this coming season, coach Art Raimo is going to be faced with his greatest rebuilding job. Because for the second straight year the class of '54 is going to represent practically Villanova's entire starting lineup. Led by Captain-elect Joe Faragalli and All-American Gene Filipski, the Junior class boasts 14 returning veterans, including ten of last year's starting team.

Figuring to take over Bill Brannau's quaerback slot, Joe McNicholas started last year at defensive halfback and led the nation in pass interceptions down to the final two weeks of the season. In his limited offensive role at qb., McNick completed 11 passes in 18 attempts, two of them good for touchdowns.

Returning to their starting positions of last season, Gene Filipski and Ben Addiego will again rate as the finest halfbacks on any team in the East. Gene, who racked up just short of 900 yards in nine games for a 6.4 yard average per carry, will be gunning for his second straight year of All-American recognition. Addiego, the flashy broken field runner who was All-Catholic All-American in his sophomore year, is an all-around back who can pass and receive as well as hit the line.

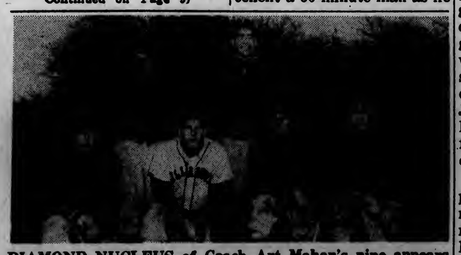
Outstanding Linemen

Going across the line, the Class of '54 has representatives at every slot. At left end, Roy Kershaw, the team's Most Consistent Player of 1952, is expected to be as excellent a 60-minute man as he was playing only defensive ball. A standout regular for two years now, Kershaw will be one of the mainstays of an outstanding line. The Juniors will have a tower of strength at left tackle, but unfortunately he won't be wearing a Villanova uniform. Bill Hegarty, the 240-pound titan, will probably be opening up for the Pro Rams come next season, and Bobby Ervin, another possible starter, has been forced to retire because of injuries and will coach the 150-pound team.

Fitzy At Center

Tom Fitzpatrick, last year's starting defensive guard, will probably be moved to center to fill up the big hole left by graduating Joe DeRose. Fitzy, from Iona Prep in New Rochelle, could be the key to a big Wildcat year this coming season.

The probable starting guards, Bob Volonino and Pete Carrieri, are both Juniors and both regulars on last year's squad. Backing up these two are a trio of second classmen, Bob Berg, Art Knowlton, and Ed Prorok. At the right tackle position for his third year of action is Joe Faragalli, Captain-elect and newly elected treasurer of the Monogram club. Joe, who went both ways in his sophomore year, should be ready for his greatest season. At right end the Juniors nominate 6'7" Ray Rigney, who caught 23 passes for 243 yards to lead the receivers last season.



Last, but far from least, is possibly the most versatile member of the cast; punter, runner, and defensive stalwart Ralph Cecere. Ralph can fill in anywhere in the backfield, and would surprise no-one as a full-fledged 60-minute man.

Six Juniors Are Leaders On Current Baseball Squad

By Harry Nash

Six men from the Class of 1954—Don Sommers, Ralph Cecere, Chuck McGuckin, Dick Shannon, Bob Riccianni and Bob Weiderman—are members of the current edition of Villanova's baseball squad, and practically all are vastly important cogs in Art Mahan's diamond machine.

Of these six juniors, two are starting pitchers, two more are infield and outfield regulars, and the third pair figure in the club's utility make-up.

Sommers Improves

Sommers, who seems to have overcome that wildness bugaboo that plagued him earlier, is the top moundsman this year after understudying John Watson on the '52 club. A left-hander, Sommers finest effort to date has been a 6-0 stint over Ithaca, a tough aggregation as college caliber goes.

Also known for his football prowess, shortstop Cecere has been one of the mainstays of the Wildcats all year. Ralph's infield play has been steady, and his bat has been producing a goodly share of the team's hits, especially those extra-basers that go far to the making or breaking of a club's offense.

Chuck McGuckin has been excellent in centerfield so far, his hitting has been timely and consistent. A good all-around performer, Chuck seems to improve as the season progresses, and the weather improves. McGuckin hit about .280 last year, but he was haunted by a habit of hitting line drives right into somebody's hands.

Shannon played right field, first, second and third base on last year's team, but has been relegated to utility duty in '53. He pinch hits here and there and is ready to fill in practically anywhere should a regular run into a slump or an injury. Shanon had a great BA last year—in the .380's.

Ricciani Pitches

A right-handed pitcher who alternates starting assignments with Sommers and Dick Scott, Bob Ricciani played the first half of last season at third base, but was converted to the hill by Mahan this year. He lost a tough one to Drexel several weeks ago in the ninth inning, after going all the way and pitching very well.

Juniors Play Big Roles in Wildcat Intramural Sports

By John Gillman

As in everything else the Juniors have been the big news in Intra-Mural athletics, too. Two undefeated junior studded teams met in the football final, the Foshes winning on first downs over Good Counsel. Two of the better G.C. players all season were John Van tone and Rich Naclerio.

Volonino and Rigney Star

In basketball, juniors Bob Volonino and Ray Rigney were important cogs in Delury Hall's march to the championship. Juniors were well represented on every basketball team except those from the Barracks and they made up the whole roster of the Alumni Pistons who were undefeated during the regular season.

Track Stars

As thinclads the Juniors have done very well for themselves. They took the annual track meet when they were Freshmen and came in second last year. In the last meet Bill Belleville took first in the 880, second in the javelin and third in the 440. Ben Addiego was first in the broad jump as was Jack Lewis in the high jump.

I-M TRACK MEET

Tomorrow afternoon in the Stadium the annual Intramural track meet will be held. Starting time for this event will be 4:30. There will be 440 and 880 relays run along with many individual track and field events. As usual the frosh will be odds-on favorites to win the meet. The victorious freshman team of a year ago picked 48 points to win by twelve over the Sophs.

TRACK AND FIELD STANDOUTS among the men of the Class of '54 include (l. to r. Bart Moynahan, Mike Quinn, Joe Gaffney and Ray Wheiler.

SPORTS CHATTER

A Junior Story

By Harry Angor

As Junior Week comes on us today most of the members of the Class of 1954 can proudly look back on some of the most wonderful years in Villanova's long sports history. During our three-year stay here we have seen the Mainline college move consistently forward in all forms of athletics. Our first taste of the Wildcat in action came way back in 1950, the first few days of our (undergraduate) existence.

On a hot September afternoon, a scared crew of frosh, most of us still pretty much in awe over the varied facts of college life, marched into Goodreau Stadium for our first football game as college men. For many of us the first glimpse of Villanova in action was a stirring one.

Opening Run

A big fullback named Pete D'Alonzo grabbed the opening kick-off and raced 70 yards up the sidelines to the Duquesne 5-yard line. It all happened so fast that most of the forsh were still thumbing frantically through the program to find out just who this guy was. We found out quickly enough, for through that entire season the biggest treat for any Wildcat rooter was to watch the bull from Orange, New Jersey in action.

In the winter things got even brighter, this time we were sitting at the opening of an new era in basketball. The tall kid with the mussed hair was gone and Al Severance had a team of sophomores who were undefeated in college. The sophs weren't undefeated that season, but they made history as one of the finest sophomore teams in recent college annals. A dark-haired yougster out of New Rochelle, N. Y., became the big man in our minds. The uncanny shooting accuracy of Larry Henessy won him him a spot in our sports album second only to Paul Arizin, the man who has become known as Mr. Villanova in the (hard-wood) game.

Spring Sports

Baseball in the Spring of '51 was on the way back. The Cats had it rough that year, but they did win some thrilling ones. Against NYU, popular Benny Moeskal came into the hero's circle with a game-winning hit, and of course throughout the season the play of one Red Wright was always the best anyone could ever desire. The following fall the class of '54 took its place in the ranks of the upperclassmen, and we gathered various implements of merriment and made off for the shores of the Hudson.

Football At Army

That day Red Blaik's undermanned Cadets were present at the unveiling of one of the finest offensive weapons a team ever had—Ben Addeigo. The Collingswood speedster faked and lightfooted his way to three touchdowns and the first Villanova victory over Army in thirty-six years.

Football was bright for part of that season, especially when the Raimomen rolled over a highly touted Alabama squad in one of the top upsets of the year. But later in the schedule the Cats fell victims to a big upset themselves, then injuries caught up with the boys and the going was kinda rough at the end. Basketball in our second year wasn't up to the previous year's standard, although Hennessy and his gang pulled off a beauty in stopping previously unbeate Duquesne. The juniors of that season had a good ball club and with breaks we might have seen them in tournaments again. (Somehow, though, the right cards didn't come in to our hands and the tourney hopes for that year went back on the shelf.

In baseball, '52 was a big season, the brilliant young Diamond-Cats went to the District Two play-offs before they were finally knocked out of the running. John Watson was a stopper all the way his able support came in the person of Don Sommers. In the offensive side of the game the names of Ralph Cecere and Charlie McGuckin were big ones for Art Mahan. These were boys who made their coming of age, for Villanova a resounding one. Then before we knew it we were full-fledged juniors—boys who had grown in just two years. For us the past had been bright, but the future loomed brighter.

From Arizin to Hennessey

They gave us a great show of spirit and their attitude, typified by Sam Glassmire was, "Play every game to win". They might not have won them all, but they got 22 big conquests under their belt. This afternoon there is more to come, for the men who play the diamond sport. It's been a hard season, but now they are on their way to a good year after surviving an early knockdown. They'll be tough to beat because they are playing every game like it meant that long sought trip to Omaha. For us it has been a fabulous three years—we got here at the start of a great story and from our present position it doesn't look like the end is anywhere near in sight.

Ervin to Coach Lightweight Team For Next Season

Junior Bob Ervin, a first-string offensive performer at right-tackle for the Villanova football varsity last year has been named head coach of the 150-pound Wildcat squad, beginning with the fall season.

Ervin was so severely injured in the Tulsa game that he has been unable to play in spring practice and will be out of action in September.

Ervin is C&F Marketing major from Rochester, N. Y. He has taken part in several extra-curriculars — including Sanctuary Society, DPE, the C&F fraternity, and he was a hall chairman of the recent NFCCS clothing drive. Incidentally his hall collected the most clothes.

Bob played high school foot ball at Aquinas High in his home town. He was a schoolmate of Bill Hegarty, Bill Grief and Ray Rigney in Rochester; and now three of these Aquinas alumni are out of Villanova's football plans due to injuries or ineligibility. Hagerty has been declared ineligible by the ECAC, and Grief is out with an injured back. Rigney is still playing thrower Mike Quinn.

Gaffney is the St. Thomas More High School product, who performed so creditably on the boards during the past indoor campaign. A smooth-striding middle distance man, Joe is considered to be the blue and white's chief threat in the 440 on the cinders. Coach Elliot has also tagged Joe for a spot on the mile relay team.

TYPICAL ACTION of the 1949 gridiron season will be recreated on Saturday, May 9 with Ralph Pasquariello.

Blue & White Day Features Six Team, Colorful Events

Villanova's first tri-sport athletic carnival, Blue and White Day, will be held the afternoon of May 9, providing an interesting and highly colorful sidelight of Junior Week.

Three Wildcat teams—baseball, track and football—will compete with regularly-scheduled opponents during the proceeding of the newly-arranged brainchild of athletic director Ambrose "Bud" Dudley.

The baseball club, in its 14th engagement of the season, entertains Loyola of Baltimore in the opening event at 1 o'clock on the diamond behind the stadium. Then at 2, Jim "Jumbo" Elliott's harriers play host to Seton Hall's cindermen in an outdoor meet on the stadium track.

At 3 o'clock, the football aggregation, winding up almost a month of spring practice, will take with the "Old-Timers" a collection of former Villanova grid participants.

Dwyer To Run

The track team's ace miler, Fred Dwyer, who won nine straight indoor miles this year, will display his fleet-footed wares in a special mile encounter between halves of the football game, as well as taking part in the various events of the regular 2 o'clock track meet.

Art Raimo's crew has been working hard in anticipation of next fall's one-platoon set-up, and with spring work-outs meaning a lot as far as position-winning is concerned, the boys won't be exactly playing patsy against the alumni. The officials too will all be former Viallanovans.

Local Fans Invited

The afternoon of high-caliber athletic events will give local Villanova fans and anyone interested in seeing three variations of college sports a chance for some real enjoyment. And it won't cost them a fortune, either—only one bill per spectator. And students can get in by just flashing their matric cards.

May Be Annual Event

It should prove to be a great afternoon, what with some top-notch competition, two good ball games and a track meet with some big names attached all wrapped up into one program. If successful, it may mean the start of an annual "Blue and White Day" series.

DiPaolo Delivers First Prize Paper At Bucknell U.

Louis DiPaolo, Electrical Engineer Senior, won the first prize of $25 in a competition at Bucknell University last Saturday.

The offering delivered by DiPaolo was judged the best from among sixteen colleges taking part in the District II, American Institute of Electrical Engineers student prize paper competition.

Entitled "The Linear Variable Differential Transformer", the paper was written in collaboration with classmates Alan Kane and Charles Quinn.

In addition to the prize money, DiPaolo will be given a trip to the AIEE summer convention to be held in Atlantic City, June 15-19. The Radio Corporation of America has also invited him to visit the David Sarnoff laboratories in Princeton, N. J.

Second prize in the competition was taken by Johns Hopkins University and third prize by Bucknell.

SENIOR ELECTRICAL ENGINEER Louis Di Paolo, flanked by Charles A. Quinn on the left and Alan J. Kane on the right, has been awarded first prize in competition at Bucknell University for his paper on "The Linear Variable Differential Transformer". Di Paolo received assistance in research for the paper from Quinn and Kane.

TRIPLE THREAT MAN!

The Brains of the Team

Teamwork can work miracles. In a football game the man who sparks these miracles is the quarterback. He's the man who calls the signals. There's a man who calls the signals for an Air Force flying team, too!

They call him an Aircraft Observer.

Do YOU have what it takes to become an Aircraft Observer?

It isn't easy. It's tough. You have to be a MAN to qualify as an Aircraft Observer. But when you are one, brother, you're SOMEBODY! The success or failure of a mission involving over a million dollars worth of flight equipment depends on you.

THE AIRCRAFT OBSERVER IS THE SOMEBODY WHO:

As Bombardment Officer, is number one man on a bombing run, the man who controls the plane in the target area!

As Navigation Officer, is the pilot's guiding hand on every flight!

As Radar Officer, is master of a new science and operator of the device that sees beyond human sight!

As Aircraft Performance Engineer Officer, is the one who "keeps the plane flying", the man who knows his plane inside and out, who keeps it fit for the skies and sees that it stays there!

If YOU can accept a challenge like this, you'll take your place beside the best—you'll find your future in the clouds!

TO BE QUALIFIED you must be single, a citizen, between 19 and 26½ years old, have had at least 2 years of college and be in tip top physical shape. If this describes you, then YOU, too, can qualify. Today!

HERE'S WHAT YOU'LL GET! The world's best training. Good food and plenty of it. Uniforms, flight clothes, equipment. Medical and dental care. Free insurance. Flight training in Uncle Sam's greatest aircraft.

AND THEN, AFTER GRADUATION, you'll win your silver wings, and earn more than $5000 a year as an Air Force Lieutenant. You'll enjoy an adventurous, exciting career with a hand-picked crew of real men. You'll be THE BRAINS OF THE TEAM, A TRIPLE THREAT MAN . . . as a Bombardment Officer, as a Navigation Officer, as a Radar Officer, as an Aircraft Performance Engineer.

THE SOONER YOU APPLY, THE SOONER YOU FLY!

GET THE DETAILS: Visit your nearest Air Force Base or Air Force Recruiting Officer. Or write to Director of Training, Headquarters, USAF, Washington 25, D.C., Attention: Aviation Cadet Branch. If you are in a school that has an Air Force ROTC program, see your Professor of Air Science and Tactics.

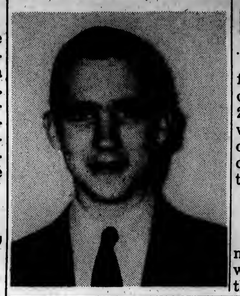
Open House, Drill, Parade Highlight Armed Forces Day

The Navy Department has announced that in celebration of Armed Forces Day on May 16, 1953, an invitation is extended to the public to inspect the equipment and facilities used in the training of Naval Midshipmen at Villanova College. Commencing at 12 noon, the Naval Science Building will be open for inspection.

At 2 P. M. a program of events will originate in the Villanova Stadium. Besides the customary parade and review of the Midshipmen, there will be competition between the drill teams from Villanova and the University of Pennsylvania, presentation of awards and an address.

Upon completion of the ceremonies, the Villanova NROTC Unit will sponsor a tea-dance for the participants and for friends of Villanova College in the Field House adjoining the stadium.

Mon. Deadline for May Draft List



College students intending to take the May 21 Selective Service College Qualification Test must submit their applications to the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey, not later than midnight May 11.

The May 21 test is primarily for students prevented by illness or other emergencies from taking the test April 23, but this does not bar any qualified student from taking the test if his application is mailed before the deadline.

Students who have a certificate of admission for the April 23 test which they failed to use on the assigned date must submit new applications if they wish to take the May 21 test.

Underclassmen Nominate Officers

The nomination of class officers for next year was held on Tuesday afternoon, April 28 at 1:30 p. m. A free period was granted to all classes in order to give all students a chance to nominate men for the different offices.

Various Meetings

The Junior class held their meeting in 215 Mendel Hall, while the Sophomores met in the C&F auditorium and the Freshman in the Field House.

To Be Posted

All the names of those nominated for class offices will be posted on the bulletin boards as soon as they have been approved by the Chaplain's office.

Father McLaughlin, Dean of Student Activities, has announced that the elections will be held on Wednesday, May 13, between the hours of 10 A. M. and 3 P. M. in Alumni Gym.

Begin May 8

Father McLaughlin also announced that those running for office will be allowed to post posters and campaign signs, but not before Friday, May 8. Private campaigning may be started as soon as the different men have been approved and their names listed on the Bulletin Boards.

Vol. 28—No. 21 VILLANOVA COLLEGE, VILLANOVA, PA. Tuesday, May 12, 1953

COURT JESTER PETER CASSIDY tries to make Bloody Roger, (Hubert Flaherty) an old meany from 'way back, crack a smile in a scene from T&T's Robin Hoodwink to be presented in the Field House tomorrow thru Saturday.

T&T's 'Hoodwink' Opens Wed. Nite

Take the strains of Bob Whelan's music, the tricky dance creations of George Noake, a many-talented cast, a great Turf & Tinsel reputation of smash hits; add a clever book written by William Kelley, and you have it — the World Premiere of T & T's latest production, Robin Hoodwink.

For the sixth consecutive year since its rebirth in 1948, T & T will put on the boards an original musical comedy hit for those who like their sock and buskin with song and dance. Robin Hoodwink, a musical satire on the fabled archer of Sherwood Forest, will open tomorrow evening at 8:30 and run until Saturday with a matinee for the nuns on Thursday.

Kelly Assists

Assisting Whelan and Roake in this year's production is Jack Kelly, '52, a familiar figure to the Villanova stage, being a formidable Belle Masquer and T & T'er of recent years. Don Straka again is credited with orchestrations and vocal arrangements.

In the high standards of Turf and Tinsel, the cast features a variety of talent in acting, singing, dancing, costuming, and scenery. Gene Filipski, in the title role of Robin, Bob Haner as Friar Tuck, and Tom Green as the colorful Will Stutely, are ably supported by Barry Schmitt as Sir John, Tony Della Rocca as Sir Maudlin, Bernie Finan as the Sheriff of Nottingham, Leo Gagion as Percival, Joe Blimm as Maid Marian, Jude O'Donnell as Bessie, Hugh Flaherty as Bloody Roger, Walt Doyle as Bertha, and Paul Cassidy as Reginald.

Present Keys To 13 Seniors At Sat. Dance

Thirteen graduating editors and staff members of the "Villanovan" will trade in their eyeshades and typewriters for gold keys in recognition of their service to the paper at the "Villanovan's" annual dinner dance in the Mirage Room of the Hotel Barclay next Saturday.

Highlights of the affair will be the presentation of the keys by Rev. John Klekotka, O.S.A., moderator, and the announcement of next year's editors and staff heads.

Reservations for all staff members who wish to attend must be made before tomorrow with Managing Editor Dick Winfield. For the convenience of the guests, staffers are urged to arrange tables of four couples each before making reservations. The dinner dance is scheduled to begin at 7:15 p.m.

RESERVATIONS

Tomorrow is the dead line for reservations from staff members for the annual "Villanovan" dinner dance. Reservations should be made in the Villanovan office from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Class Offices, SC Seats At Stake In E-Day Tom'w

Announce June 1 Graduation Date; Exercises at 2:30

Commencement exercises for the class of 1953 will be held in the Field House. Contained in this announcement from the President's office was the explanation that the warm weather anticipated for commencement day would make it mandatory that ceremonies be held indoors.

Baccalaureate mass will be held in the Field House also. The mass is scheduled for 10 a.m. on Sunday, May 31, the day immediately preceding graduation.

All measurements for caps and gowns have already been processed through the office of Rev. E. McKee, O.S.A., vice-president of Villanova. Seniors may obtain announcements for the graduation exercises in the book store.

Members of the graduating class have been instructed that the facilities which will be available for the event limit the number of invited guests to five per man. Arrangements are now under way for a number of guest speakers.

The ceremonies will begin at 2:30 p.m. on Monday, June 1.

DEADLINE

All classes scheduled for Thursday have been cancelled in celebration of Ascension Thursday, a holy day of obligation.

Deadline for all copy for the next issue of the "Villanovan" will be tomorrow at 4:00 p.m. sharp.

Polls Open From 9:30-3:30 Record Number Is Expected

From 82 candidates — 23 juniors, 31 sophomores and 28 freshmen — students will choose men to fill twenty-five offices in the elections tomorrow, Wednesday, May 13, between the hours of 9:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. in the Alumni Hall Gymnasium.

To Be Elected

The juniors will elect candidates for president, vice-president, treasurer and secretary, as well as four Student Council posts and one Alumni representative. One president, a vice-president, a secretary, a treasurer, and four Student Council representatives will be elected by the sophomore class, with the freshmen class choosing a president, a vice-president, a secretary, a treasurer and one Council member.

The campaigns got under way late last Thursday night, with signs being posted in conspicuous spots around the campus, ready to greet the early-morning risers. By Friday night everyone had begun his drive and yesterday bandwagons, some strangely resembling automobiles, made their appearance for the first time.

69% Voted

In pointing out that 69% of the student body went to the polls last year, Father McLaughlin, Dean of Student Activities, urged all to come out and vote for their favorite candidates. He also emphasized that posters should be placed on bulletin boards only. Voters, in order to enter Alumni gym, must present matriculation cards to those conducting the elections.

ELECTION RULES

1. All classes will elect four officers (president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer). In addition Freshmen will choose one Student Council representatives; Sophomores, four; Juniors, four and one Senior Alumni representative.

2. Use of sound equipment is restricted to the periods between classes.

3. Notices in Mendel hall and the C&F building are to be posted only on bulletin boards.

4. Posters must be removed immediately after elections are completed.

5. Elections will be held in Alumni hall gymnasium Wednesday, May 13, from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

NOTE. As soon as possible all organizations having representation on the Student Council are to hold elections so that the Council may be reorganized late this month.

New Bill Faces Council Vote

"The Education division is a department of the Arts and Science School," this, the decision of the Student Faculty Committee. The drawn-out battle concerning seats in the Student Council is, but for final approval of a bill by the Council, finished. Art Quinn will attempt to present to the Ways and Means Committee a new amendment which will include the revised method of representation.

The last Student-Faculty meeting also included a discussion of free periods for class nominations, and an activities period for the entire student body.

Rev. George McLaughlin, O.S.A., who lent his assistance to the discussion of class elections, also issued a request that all budgeted clubs turn in to him expenditure sheets within the next two weeks.

Several members of the Villanova Radio Station were present and asked for a seat on the Council for the station.

Publications

BELLE AIR

The 1953 edition of the BELLE AIR YEARBOOK will be distributed on Monday and Tuesday, May 18 and 19. Distribution at the Yearbook Office, in the basement in Mendel Hall, will be between the hours of 11:30 and 4:30.

All students who have paid full matriculation fee will be entitled to a book.

ENGINEER

Edward F. McMahon, editor of the Villanova "Engineer" for 1953-54 announced last week that the entire "Engineer" staff will meet next Monday, May 18, at 11:30 a.m., in the Mendel Hall drawing room.

McMahon invited all underclassmen who are interested in working on the magazine next year to attend this meeting.

LYNX

There will be a meeting of all those interested in serving on the "Lynx" staff next year, and of all current staff members, with the editorial staff in 215 Mendel at 3:30 tomorrow (Wednesday).

GOOD MAN, BUT KIND OF CONSERVATIVE—

Editorial

One Last Word

Judging from the multitude of circulars, posters, banners and well-dressed candidates displaying their political wares, we can only conclude that in spring a young man's fancy turns lightly to thoughts of politics at Villanova.

And judging from the intensity of many campaigns, the thoughts are by no means universally light. If we were non-students, we could laugh the whole thing off as undergraduate frivolity; few outsiders could be convinced of the alleged importance of campus

We cannot, however, afford the luxury of a blase' attitute toward elections. Whether our interest be active or passive, there must be interest. A lack of concern is an irrational, unhealthy sign that we're kidding ourselves, that we give neither a hoot nor a holler about our well-being in the next school year.

There are more fallacies in this pose than there are campaign blurbs on the chow hall bulletin boards.

To put it simply and personally, the results of class elections tomorrow will determine the quality of the social events which you will attend next year. Successful dances, Fathers' Days, proms, and Junior weeks can only happen if competent men direct them. Not only must the officers themselves be competent, but the men with whom they now associate — the men who will be appointed committee chairmen and steering committee members—these too must be reliable and equal to responsibility.

Finally, we would pass along some advice to a few interested parties:

Victorious candidates—the preliminaries and the fireworks are over — now get down to work.

Losing candidates—if you can't beat 'em, join 'em.

Voters—vote independently, vote wisely!

Pandaleon Asks:

The Lattimore Case --Loyalty or Opinion?

The latest development in the cast of Owen Lattimore came ten days ago when Judge Luther W. Youngdahl dismissed four counts of the seven-count perjury indictment against the Johns Hopkins profesor. With reference to the remaining three charges, Judge Youngdahl stated that there was serious doubt as to their strength.

PANDALEON

Mr. Lattimore has long been a target of Senator McCarthy and other critics of United States foreign policy in the Far East. Much of the criticism has been levelled at his association with the Institute of Pacific Relations—an organization that many regard as not only having been tainted with Communist influence, but also with having exerted policy pressure on the State Department. The entire indictment, however, is based upon his twelve days of testimony before the McCarran subcommittee in 1952.

By order of the judge, Mr. Lattimore is to stand trial October 6th on the remaining counts. None of them, incidentally, charges the defedant with lying in denying that he was a Communist or a member of the Communist Party. They relate only to matters of facts concerning former acquaintances and meetings—events that occurred fifteen to twenty years before the subcommittee hearings.

Whether Mr. Lattimore is guilty or not is a question to be decided next fall in the federal court. What is important now is that we pause to consider the significance of his case, regardless of its ultimate outcome.

Two conclusions are generally accepted by all observers. For one, there seems to be little doubt that Communist infiltration in the American government during the late thirities and early war years was an actuality. Secondly, several of our foreign affairs experts, among others, fell for the Soviet propaganda line during that period.

Under our judicial system, a man is supposed to remain innocent until proven guilty. As a citizen, Mr. Lattimore must be accorded this protection despite any personal opinion we may hold with respect to the truth or falsity of his testimony.

On the other hand, if he and others have in any way contributed knowingly to the truth or falsity of his testimony.

On the other hand, if he and others have in any way contributed knowingly to the undermining of our government, we are perfectly justified in demanding their conviction and punishment. No one expects that for the sake of "freedom" we permit our own destruction.

In all such similar affairs, we must guard against destroying the wheat with the chaff. The problem of protecting our constitutional rights while at the same time ensuring their free exercises is a delicate undertaking. It is far from being solved yet, but unless

However, the prevailing opinion today is that men like Owen Lattimore were not merely deceived thinkers but outright traitors. Judging in retrospect, more than a few well-meaning individuals see a deliberate conspiracy at the basis of our current problems.

It should be clear that this attitude presents a subtle threat to our American freedom. Reduced to simple terms, we are failing to distinguish between questions of loyalty and questions of opinion. As Judge Youngdahl indicates, the dismissed charges were so nebulous and indefinite that, in effect, the jury was being asked to determine the issue on the grounds of conjecture alone. Once this practice were accepted, it is not difficult to imagine what would happen to our cherished rights.

Americans learn a way in the not too distant future, they could conceivably find themselves victims of the very evils they seek to avoid.

New Look:

Dudley and Ryan Bring A New Era

By Jim Glavin

When one walks into the athletic offices in the Field House these days, he immediately senses that there has been a change. There has. He discerns that today Villanova's athletic offices are occupied, all day long, that something is "always popping" there, and, somehow, the impression manifests itself that the men in the offices know what they're doing, why they're doing it, and how to do it.

Early this year, Villanova's Board of Athletic Control fashioned a change in the college's athletic setup, one of the most fertile moves in the Villanova athletic picture in years. Indeed, the impression is not difficult to gather that that move of early 1953 may not be long in becoming known as "the turning point in Villanova athletics." The change: it encompassed the addition ow two energetic, perceptive men to posts of vital importance.

"Bud" to "Bill"

Ambrose F. "Bud" Dudley, Jr., a graduate of Notre Dame University, and president of the Dudley Wallpaper Co., of Philadelphia, was engaged as Director of Athletics. William P. "Bill" Ryan, a man with a background of over fifteen years in sports and promotional work, became the new Athletic Secretary, shortly thereafter.

MAPPING OUT THE NEW LOOK for Villanova athletics, 'Bud' Dudley (sitting) and Bill Ryan chart next year's program.

Last Friday we wandered down to the athletic offices for a chat with the new athletic chieftains. We were glad we did. Bud Dudley and Bill Ryan are two men Villanova can be proud of, and, just as important, who are proud to be working for Villanova.

Army Roommates

Bud Dudley was a star backfield man at Notre Dame, no "puny" in gridiron circles. "The Fighting Irish" are still close to the heart of this capable executive, who is a past President of the Notre Dame Club of Philadelphia, and currently National President of the Notre Dame Foundation. At the current time, Bud is also a member of the national board of the Sandlot Football Association. Bud first met Bill Ryan during the war, when they were roommates at the Air Force's Personnel Distribution Center. Bud was a back on the base team that included such illustrations pigskin names as Glenn Dobbs, and Bill was traveling secretary and publicity director for the team.

Bill Ryan first received a degree in Business Management from Rider College, then took courses in Athletic Management, and Athletic Business Management at Florida Southern College and at Washington and Lee University. He has served in the front offices of both the Trenton Giants and Columbia Cardinals, in minor league baseball, performing tasks similar to his contemporary ones at Villanova. Presently, in addition to his Villanova chores, Bill is Secretary and Publicity Director of the Trenton Parochial Basketball League.

More Home Games

Football-wise, Dudley and Ryan plan to put our Wildcats "up with the best." Bud told us he has already carded nine games for this fall, including such powers as Texas, Georgia, Kentuckly and others, and is currently hopeful of adding a tenth game. "We already have three home games sheduled," he said, "and if we get that tenth game, that, too, will be a home game." Four home games? Wildcat football followers will find this hard to believe, but will find it all the more reason for singing the praises of Mssrs. Dudley and Ryan.

We asked Bud about the prevalent rumors concerning the televising of the Georgia game, a home encounter, September 19. Bud told us that frankly there was nothing definite he could say in this con-

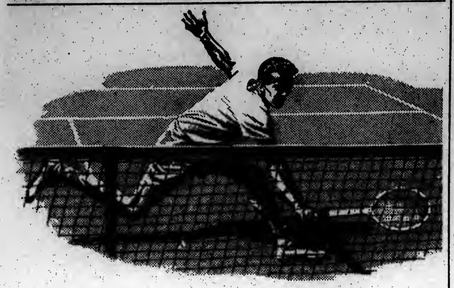
Katzadventures

Examinations Are Simple Problem For Our Hero, Mr. Will Katz, Esq.

We find Will on the campus green (Rosemont's) contemplating the up-coming exams, but there's no frown on our hero's face. . . . Why?? . . . . Because he has a system this year. . . . No more does he need to make up "study aids" such as writing on his tongue and bringing a mirror to the exam to read the same. . . . Or bringing a miniature "stable" with him (ponies, that is, for those who never thought of using them. . . . Will, this time, has discovered certain characteristics about the finals which make them a snap and he secretly confided them in me. . . . So I'll secretly confide them to you also.



FIRST, there's the True and False test. . . . You cover up all the questions except the spaces for the T's and F's and after doing this, fill the spaces in, using any combo that suits you (all T's; all F's; TFTFTF, it doesn't matter). . . . Now, it stands to reason, that half are wrong so erase half of the answers and change them. . . . Now they are all right. . . . SECOND, there is the multiple choice type of question and now caution must be exercised. . . . If five answers are given, one can be thrown out as ridiculous, and you can determine this one by the eeny, meeny, miny, mo system. . . . Of the four left, two will be completely wrong if the other two are right and to find the correct two, flip a coin. . . . One of the two correct answers is more correct than the other so now read both over carefully and then choose the one with the most vowels. . . . As in the true-false test, there is no need to look at the questions. . . .

Don't Commit Yourself

THIRD, there is the essay type. . . . Here you have to read the question and if it begins with "Develop" or "Trace," the shrewd student will write at great length about a lot in general, but nothing in particular. . . . Never, no NEVER commit yourself!!! . . . As long as the first paragraph sounds O.K. you are assured of success and if the question starts with "Comment on," here you can really show your intelligence. Quote a few lines of Shakespeare, or some of Da Vinci's principles, maybe some of Aristotle's philosophy and top it all off with a Latin phrase or two. . . . A good mark is assured.

General Snow—Job

If you get a question to identify somebody, use generalization and it will get you by . . . (For example, Michaelangelo was a great painter).

nection now but he did say that it was only natural that rumors have some basis in fact.

26 Hoop Games

On the basketball front, Bill Ryan showed us a completed twenty-six game card for 1953-54. The season will find Lebanon Valley's Flying Dutchmen, a NCAA tourney surprise this year, an early opponent, and will see several other power-laden newcomers presenting themselves. Highlight of the list is the December 28-29-30 WIT (Kentucky Invitational Tournament) at Louisville, Ky., where the 'Cats will mix in with such powers as Louisville, Western Kentucky, and others. Such familiar names as North Carolina State, Seton Hall, Canisius, Duquesne, Iona, iena and others will be back. Seventeen home games are carded. Once again, in '53-'54, we'll be in twin-bill play at the Palestra.

Last Friday, "Blue-White" day preparations for aSturday were uppermost in both men's minds. This idea is plainly their "brain-child" (and a successful one it was, too). The "big day" will be a permanent addition to Wildcat athletics, and plans are aimed at making it "bigger and better" each succeeding year.

On the minor sports scene, Ryan told us a 21 game card is being finished off for next year's baseball nine, including such additios as Navy, University of Vermont, Colby, and others.

Add 2 Sports

Most important in the minor sport picture, swimming and galf have been added this year under Dudley's stewardship, and tennis is a definite possibility in another year.

Golf-wise, Bill Ryan pulled out the files for next year, and commented that eight or more matches are on ahe agenda.

Swimming is going to make its debut in a big way. Bleachers are to be constructed around the pool for 300-400. Eddie Geisz, a man who knows his way around in aquatic circles has been obtained as coach. "In three or four years we'll have one of the most powerful swimming teams in the ast," Ryan said.

"This 'n That"

By Jim Borden and Bill Quinn

ANIMAL CORNER: Mr. Rofinot wishes to announce that for the rest of the semester his classes will lack the "excitement of the chase." In one of his classes last week, a nun stepped on the tail of a "wee mouse" who was evidently tired of his old cage in the Biology laboratory and in search of higher education . . . Mr. Rofinot supervised activities from the top of his desk . . . the dog that wandered into Physics lecture caused little disturbance until he started to investigate the legs of the desk . . . JUNIOR PROMS: As a couple of social outcasts, we've just heard that the decorations for Rosemont's prom were as hot as the temperatures which usually prevail in the basement of Mendel Hall ...And how about that "little" girl who sang with Johnny Long's band at the V.C. prom? NAVY NEWS: NROTC unit will march on Armed Forces Day, the 16th . . . At last week's inspection, as the unit passed in review, the band played "Anchors Aweigh" and the "Marine Hymn"—unfortunately both numbers were played at the same time . . . At least it sounded that way . . . JUNIOR WEEK RESULTS: Pleased mothers, blue Blazers, tired feet, empty wallets and Bromo-Seltzer . . . SLUSH, SLUSH: Rumor has it that plans are being considered for a swimming race which will be held in the pool between C & F and Belle Air . . . Speaking of mud; the political campaigns will soon be in full swing . . . Are you in the club? If not, leave your automobile parked on one of the campus roads . . .and you, too may find a ticket under your windshield wiper . . . Since this is our last column we'd like to fulfill some promises: Bill McDuffee, Dick Kean, and Hank Hayman.

Dwyer, Varsity Top Blue-White Day

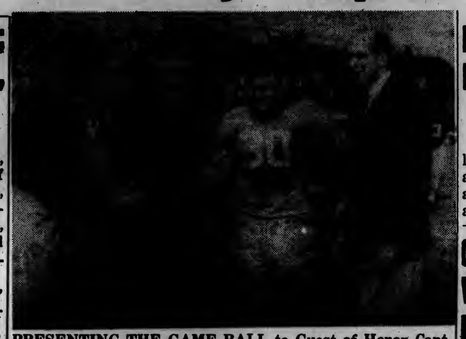
Rutgers Bows, 10-0; Scott Posts Fourth, Second Shut-out

Left-hander Dick Scott, showing more breaking stuff than in his first three wins, stifled Rutgers of South Jersey, last Monday afternoon, 8-0, and in so doing stretched his scoreless skein to 18 consecutive innings.

The win was the wildcats' seventh win against four losses.

Scott, the club's leading hurler, now has humbled Haverford, 10-4, Muhlenberg, 10-1, Rutgers, of Brunswick, 2-0, and the South Jersey edition, 8-0. He hasn't lost a game.

He received excellent batting support, mainly from Bob Maurer, Ken Lowe, who singled in two runs in the first inning, and Chuck McGuckin. Bill McGarry made a pair of nice below-the-knees catches to get Scott out of hot water, one of the graps resulting in a double play that saved a run.



Grab Early Lead

Villanova seized a two-run lead in the first, and then added the remainder of the markers in the last three frames. The contest was a lack-lustre affair, owing partially to the heat and the inertia of the visitors, who played like clowns in the first three innings in the field and swung futilely at Scott's sinker and curve all afternoon.

Other than in seventh and ninth frames, the losers didn't even cook up any semblance of a rally. The Rutgers pitching was creditable, but was hardly capably backed up defensively, or offensively, for that matter.

Inserts Reserves

Coach Art Mahan inserted several reserves late in the ball game—putting Don Mouchetti at second for Maurer, Dick Shannon at third to spell Bob Richianni, who played a good glove game and got one base hit, and senior Ron Schnorbus, took over at first for Jack Helm. Jack Peters started again in right field, and collected one safety. Bill Pearson, a sophomore receiver, replaced Lowe in the late innings, and lashed out a line drive single to left field in his first collegiate time at bat.

Sophomore Star Dick Scott Excels On Diamond, Gridiron

By Dick Confoy

The Giant's Hoyt Wilhelm may not have given up an earned run this season, but he's getting competition from Villanova's new mound mainstay, Dick Scott. A flashy sophomore from Camden Catholic, Scotty has allowed just four earned runs in 51 innings this year for a slightly sensational 0.71 earned run average.

Two shutout relief assignments again Penn State and Rider gave Scotty his first start, at a time when Villanova was really on the rocks with four losses in five starts. Dick whipped Haverford 10-4, to start the Wildcats on a still-running eight game win skein, and came back a week later to shut out a Rutgers club which had averted the whitewash for 84 consecutive games. Next on the Scott list was Muhlenburg who took a 10-1 drubbing, and then Dick posted his fourth win and second shutout job, a neat two hitter over Rutgers of South Jersey.

All-Around Star

Scotty's quick rise to prominence is no surprise to those who followed the youthful three letter man's career through Camden Catholic. There the soft-spoken, talented Mr. Scott was an All-City basketball selection and All-South Jersey gridiron star in addition to his work on the mound. At Vilanova on a football scholarship, Dick was a starting defensive halfback last year even though he was the youngest member of the entire squad at nineteen.

Football appears to be Dick's first love, but when the play-for-pay days come, the choice will probably be baseball. "I'd like to try pro football," Scotty said with a shudder as he watched Ralph Pasquariello run down an unhappy defenseman, "but I guess that's out of the question."

Those professional days are a long way off though, especially as Dick has a jaunt in the Marines to look forward to after Villanova. Right now Scotty's main worry is keeping his record of never being knocked out of the box intact. Think how many pitchers around wish they had that to worry about.

Mile Ace To Enter Villanova; Holds World H.S. Mile Mark

Villanova's track futures were given a decided shot in the arm last week when Johnny Kopil, holder of the world high school mile record, announced that he would enter Villanova in September. Two teammates at Bayonne High, George Brown, a miler, and Al Peterson, a half-miler, will enter Villanova with Kopil.

National Relay Champs

Three of the greatest high school stars in the country, Kopil, Browne, and Peterson led Bayonne to the National relay record at both two and four miles. The trio finished 1-2-3 in the New Jersey mile championships in March, and won the American championship distance medley at the Penn Relays.

Ran 4:20.1 Mile

Kopil became the fastest high school miler in history last January when he ran a 4:20.1 mile on an indoor track in New York. This performance bettered the old mark of 4:21:2 set by Lou Zamperini in 1934, and clipped 2.1 seconds off the best outdoor time since then, set by Les MacMitchell in 1938.

Miler Breaks Own Mark; OldTimers Lose; Sommers Spins Two-Hitter

By Harry Nash

The attraction of six athletic aggregations, a top miler, a good collegiate football club and its former members, and an afternoon of thrills and laughs alike combined Saturday to make Villanova's first annual Blue and White Day a spanking success, as an estimated crowd of 6,000 turned out to watch the Wildcats' initial tri-sport carnival.

The results of the afternoon-long activities were varied, including a slightly one-sided victory for the baseball club, a keen performance by Art Raimo's spring practice-conditioned footballers, a close and very interesting track meet, and what will probably turn out to be a lot of aches and pains for Wildcat Alumni who represented "Old-Timers" in their game against the varsity.

Baseballers Win

A diamond get-together which ended up as a fiasco opened the program, with Loyola College of Baltimore providing the opposition for Art Mahan's boys, who won handily, to say that very least, 19-1, running their steadily - improving season's record to 9-4.

A track and field encounter between the harriers of Jim "Jumbo" Elliott, and the visitors from Seton Hall got started a bit before two o'clock and drew most of the attention from the rout that was taking place behind Goodreau Stadium on the baseball field. The Pirates, piling up an early lead in the high and low hurdles, watched the lead diminish slowly during the long-distance events, as scintillating Fred Dwyer showed his heels to the field in the mile run, and as other Wildcats trimmed the Setonians in discus, shot put, high jump, javelin and the two-mile run.

These late-event wins pulled Villanova into a 59-58 lead with one more race, the 220-yard dash, to be run. Seton Hall placed first and third in that event, and edged out a 64-62 win.

Dywer Wins Easily

Dywer's mile run, during the half of the football game, was the attraction that captured the attention of the stands. The lean, easy-pacing senior strode to an easy win, breaking his previously-established stadium mark of 4.18.6 with a time of 4.11.9.

Several professional football players, all National Leaguers, took part in the Varsity-Old-Timers grid contest that came off at three o'clock. All, of

Cunningham, Finan Win Two as Sophs Romp Intramurals

They just don't make Freshmen like they used to. At least that is the way it seemed at the fourth annual Intra-Mural track meet last Tuesday afternoon. The Sophomores took first place with a total of 54½ points, breaking a three-year domination of the event by the Freshmen. A surprising Senior team took second with 28½, the Freshmen got third with 15, and the Juniors, undoubtedly tired from Mother's Day, only got 4½ for last place.

Cunningham Starts Rout

The Sophomores, in running up their point total, either won outright or tied for first in every event except the mile relay where they were second. Bill Cunningham started off the parade by taking the 100-yard dash in 10.8, his team mate Loggi grabbing fourth. Seniors Ron Ritter and Joe Matton got second and third respectively. In the 880, Bernie Finan of the Sophs won his first of two gold medals with a 2.10.8 effort. Drew Higgins, Craig of the Frosh and Joe Birch of the Seniors followed in that order. The 220 saw Leonard and Murphy get first and third for the Sophs. Bill Mullee, the high point man for the Seniors, was second and Kertscher was fourth for the Frosh.

Finan, Trunzo and Higgins finished in that order in the 440 to grab ten big points for the Sophomore team. "Smilin' Jack" Tracey was fourth for the Seniors. It was in the shot that the Seniors showed their best stuff. Oschelle, Haner and Neville were first, second and fourth while Bill Murphy of the Juniors was third. The high jump ended in a three-way tie for first among Devine of the Soph's, Lewis of the Juniors and Mullee of the Seniors. Vaughn of the Frosh team was fourth.

Four Minute Relay

In the javelin, Giordano threw the spear 150' 10" for another first place for the Soph's. His team mate Barna was second, Steve Gepp was third and Vincent got fourth for the Juniors. The 440 relay went to the Sophomore team of Cunningham, Mulligan, Murphy and Leonard. The Frosh were second and the Seniors were third. This year for the first time, a mile relay was substituted for the 880 relay and the Freshmen won it in 4 minutes flat. The Soph's were second and the Seniors again third.

SPORTS CHATTER

Blue & White Day

By Harry Anger

Late last Saturday afternoon, the man on the P. A system asked if the owner of a certain car would move his auto so the Loyola bus could make a quick exit to the never-never land. At the time one felt the car shouldn't have been there in the first place, and in the long run it would have saved the Baltimore squad a good part of their embarassment.

To be beaten 19-1 is bad enough, but at least they could have gone about it gracefully. The manner in which Loyola collapsed could easily be compared to that of an obese commuter when he misses the first step after a half mile run.

First Inning Rout

The cats began their slaughter in the first inning fiasco off a gentleman named Cox. Mr. Cox is nodoubt a person of upstanding character and an outstanding citize of Baltimore, but his future does not lie in the pitching world. It is doubtful whether or not he is really a shoemaker as some of the patrons seemed to think, but as a suggestion if he is to learn a trade it should be the manly art of self-defense.

Relief Pitchers

The other young gentlemen who appeared in relief of Mr. Cox all seemed to have sparkling personalities, and we hope a good sense of humor. For without a sense of humor life could become quite a source of frustration for the young men simply because they could get no one out. In passing it could be said that for the most part the relief pitchers all had nice gloves, but this of course could have been a safety measure designed only to protect oneself at all times.

If the Baltimore squad continues on its present path, it is reasonable to assume that the bus driver will get instructios to keep the motor warmed up at every moment of the future games. The boys were playing some game, but it certainly was not baseball. The game they were playing was obviously the confidence game, somehow the coach had been conned into thinking he had 9 men who could play a diamond contest. The get together was little more than a well organized batting practice.

Football Game

The football game on the other hand was a slow affair for the first half, with neither team able to score. The Varsity handled the oldtimers pretty well, but you can't help wondering what might have happened if Ralph Pasquariello had run the ball very much. Ralph's one sprint around end looked like it was a move designed to remodel the south side of Goodreau Stadium. After blasting through two men Pasquariello finally came to rest when the Varsity, collectively grabbed themselves a piggy-back ride.

Butts a Guest

Wally Butts, the Georgia coach was around for the afternoon, and he is probably very thankful Villanova won't be sending the likes of one Bill Hegarty against his team on September 19. The manner in which Bill hit Filipski is enough to scare even the most experienced coach. Its all in the game, but you can imagine what Mr. Hegarty would do to someone who wasn't his roommate.

Track Meet

In the track portion of the program Freddie Dwyer pretty much stole the show. If the little champion continues to win the way he did on Saturday he could easily feel not wanted. After all it can be very lonely winning by so much every time out. Fred was so far ahead the slower contestants thought his finish was only a humor.

The "Day" was certainly a resounding success for all involved, and from this corner we hope it can be continued as an annual affair. From a spectator point of view it will be hard to find another Fred Dwyer for the mile. Maybe though Mr. Dudley can talk Fred into coming back. At his present rate Dwyer could keep knocking that stadium record down every week.

The events were all run smoothly and the day came off efficiently, our only complaint would be the fact that no one publicly acknowledged the "Joe College" attire of one Bill Ryan.

The eminent Mr. Ryan looked magnificent, its only too bad he didn't have one of those crazy hats to go with the wild canvas bucks. Bill—I dig you the most.

course, were former Wildcat stars—Steve Romanik, quarterback of the Chicago Bears, Eddie Berrang, Washington Redskin end, John Sandusky, a tackle with the Cleveland Browns, and Lou Ferry, now a lineman with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Addiego Stars

These talented gentlemen combined with over a dozen graduating varsity-men to play the regulars on even terms throughout the first half, but the difference in condition began to show in the second half, ad Raimo's crew ran off with a 26-7 win. Bennie Addiego scored twice for the Varsity, both in the last half. Charley Bruno and Frank D'Alonzo scampered across for the other pair of scoring thrusts. D'Alonzo, only a freshman, took off for a 49-yard sprint from fullback, on his way to a leading 86-yard ground-gaining total.

Bob Haner, last season's Wildcat fullback stalwart, took a pass in the flat from Al Schmid, and romped 55 yards to set up the only Old-Timer score. Haner was bumped out of bounds on the five, but Paul Tomko, another Wildcat stand-out last fall, tossed to Joe Restic for pay dirt.

Barry, Clancy Excel

In addition to Dwyer's fancy footwork, John Joe Barry, the former Irish Olympian, won the two-mile rather easily with a 9.27 time. His Erin teammate, Cummin Clancy, tossed the discus 161.6 feet to shatter his own stadium mark. Jumpin' Jim Brady leaped six feet to win the high jump, besting three Seton Hallers who were unable to clear that level. Brady also finished second in the low hurdles. Jerry Utter placed third in the two-mile run; Joe Gaffney came in second in the 220-yard dash, and Guy Speciale and Jim Moran of Villanova finished in the place slot in the 880 and the 100-yard dash, respectively. Villanova won all three positions in the discus, the shot put, and the jajvelin events, the last event being won by John Giordano.

'Cats Win Ninth

Lefty Don Summers' two-hitter sewed up the baseball encounter. Loyola kicked the ball all over the infield while the Wildcats were chipping in with 16 bingles to insure the Main Liners of their ninth win. Everybody on the ball club hit; the longest drive was a high fly over the edge of the stadium by Chuck McGuckin.

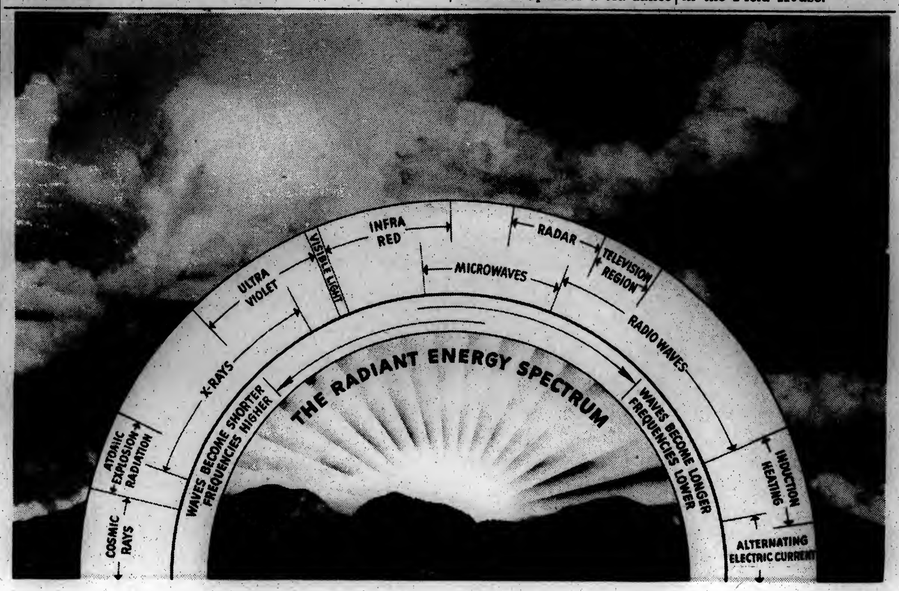
Armed Forces Day Hears Fr. McGuire; Drill Teams Vie

Very Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, O.S.A., will deliver the main address at the Armed Forces Day celebration in the Villanova Stadium on May 16, 1953.



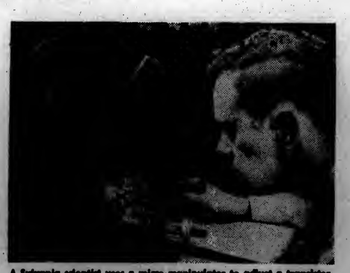
Commencing at 12 noon, the Naval Science building will be open for public inspection of the equipment and facilities used to train naval midshipmen at Villanova. At 2 p.m. a program of competition and awards will begin in the stadium. The drill teams from Villanova and Penn will compete for the Fourth Naval District Drill Championship, the Unit Colors will be presented to Able Company by the Villanova NROTC Queen, awards for outstanding achievements in Naval Science will be made and the midshipmen will pass in review.

Drill Team Tries For Third

VILLANOVA'S CHAMPIONSHIP DRILL TEAM, winner in the Fourth Naval District competition for two years running, will be after their third straight at Armed Forces Day exercises at the Stadium Saturday. A win would mean permanent possession of the Commandant's trophy. Ceremonies will include open house at Barry Hall starting at noon, the drill competition and review of the battalion, the latter exercises beginning at 2 o'clock.

Upon completion of the ceremonies, the Villanova Unit will sponsor a tea-dance for the participants and for friends of Villanova College in the Field House.

This is our HORIZON



This is the "radiant energy spectrum" — the horizon for the 1600 professional engineers engaged in research and development work at Sylvania's more than a dozen laboratories.

The research and development under way at Sylvania's laboratories reaches, in some way, into virtually every phase of this spectrum. In the broad fields of lighting, radio, electronics, television, Sylvania engineers are constantly finding new challenges to stimulate their imagination, new opportunities to further their careers in a steadily growing company.

Sylvania offers college graduates expanding opportunities to build a truly successful and challenging professional career.

The Junior Week Story

1. JUNIOR WEEK GETS OFF TO A FINE START with a highly successful Mother's Day on Monday, May 4. 300 Juniors with their moms toured the campus, attended Mass in the college chapel, attended a luncheon and a banquet, heard a band concert and planted the class tree. Here are the mothers and men of the class of 1954 in the Field House enjoying the evening banquet. Beautiful weather smiled on the campus on Mother's Day, as it did for the rest of the week.

2. BRASS SECTION OF THE COLLEGE BAND fills the Field House with the strident cadence of a Sousa march at the band and Glee Club concert on Tuesday evening. In the foreground with his back to the camera and directing the band is Don Brown '53 Concert Bandmaster. Approximately 150 persons atended the musical festival.

3. GOING SOUTH OF THE BORDER at the Blazer Ball, informal dance of Junior Week, is Janet Murray, then uncrowned Queen of Junior Week with her escort, Mark Carmack. The Field House was the scene of the affair; 150 couples danced and whirled to the music of the Blue Notes on Wednesday night. Jack Birle and his committee hung a five foot replica of the junior class seal in the gym representing the theme of the dance.

4. STRAINS OF "POMP AND CIRCUMSTANCE" were followed by good natured laughter from onlookers when bandleader Johnny Long found some trouble in crowning Janet Murray as Queen of Junior Week. The clip on the rhinestoe tiara just wouldn't catch. Prom Chairman Joe Zator (at the mike) and the royal court watch anxiously. Prom, highlight of the Big Week, was attended by 550 couples. Centerpiece in the Field House 5 Friday night was a dry-type fountain in a "Rose Room setting."

5. WILL 'O THE WISP MILER FRED DWYER flying home to a new home-track record of 4:11.9 in the much-heralded feature mile run of the first annual Blue and White day. Dwyer, outstanding figure in recent indoor track season with nine victories, received standing ovations each time he raced by the stands which held an estimated 6,000 tri-sport fans. Villanova's varsity defeated the Old Timers in an out of season grid foray 26-7, and southpaw Don Sommers held Loyola of Baltimore to two hits in a 19-1 rout.

Sheehan, Finan, Steinfelt Win Presidential Elections

Just one hour and twenty minutes after the last ballot was cast last Wednesday, election day, it was announced by Father McLaughlin, Dean of Student Activities, that 64% of the eligible voters on campus cast their ballots in electing class officers and Student Council representatives.

Seventy-four percent of the junior class turned out to name as president Ted Sheenan, New York City's gift to Villanova. A tie between Jim Boyle and Dick Kelly for treasurer was typical of the many close races.

Two hundred and seventy-five sophomores—a disappointing 65% of the class—voted Bernie Finan of Maplewood, N. J. into the president's chair. In another close contest, Bernie Steinfelt edged Dick Fitzpatrick 88 to 84 to cop presidential laurels in the freshman class.

The 64% figure represents a drop of nearly five percent off last year"s record-establishing mark of 68.7% and a drop of two percent off the old record, set in 1951. In all, 924 of the 1,440 eligible voters took advantage of their privilege.

Class of '54

Thomas E. (Ted) Sheehan of the state of New York was elected president of the Class of '54 last Thursday as a record number of juniors turned out to vote. Sheehan's competitors, George Eberle and Harry Anger finished in that order as he rolled up 133 of the 293 votes cast.

Jack Birle, former Blazer Chairman from Drexel Hill ran away with the vice-presidential vote and led his runner-up, Jim McGee by 76 votes.

Class of '55

With a 25-vote margin over his closest competitor, the sophomore class placed Bernie Finan at the helm of their Junior year. Finan, a resident student in the Arts school, headed a party which accounted for four of the seven offices which were in dispute.

Ted Clarkson, of Havertown, was chosen as class vice-president, and "Bud" Ford was swept into the post of class secretary. Treasurer of the next junior class will be Frank Baker.

Class of '56

Bernard Steinfelt of Barracks 4 was elected President of the class of 1956 as fifty-seven percent of the class participated in the voting. Steinfelt, a graduate of York Catholic High, York, Pa., defeated Dick Fitzpatrick by the count of 88 to 84.

The Vice-Presidency will be held by Leroy Zimmerman of Harrisburg, who won by a large plurality over the rest of the candidates, who were bunched with from 30 to 68 votes.

The position of Secretary will be filled by Jules Wettlaufer of Belmont, Mass., who beat out Frank Hartmann by the score of 148 to 144.

Mario DiVincenzo from Coatesville, Pa., won by a majority of 50 votes over Bill Doyle of Pittsburgh in the race for Treasurer.

The Student Council contest had its votes widely distributed, but Bob Fredericks of Staten Island with 88 votes nosed out Ed Ernst of Fort Wayne, Indiana, by 9 votes.

Steinfelt said when contacted, "I wish to thank all those who supported me and my party, and I will try to fulfill their confidence in me. With cooperation from everyone, we can have the most active Sophomore class in Villanova's history."

Bob Fredericks is a Chemistry major while the other men are from Commerce & Finance.

Only one Student Council representative was elected by the frosh since a preliminary election, in accordance with the Council Constitution, was held on March 11, with Phil Taddeo and John Salvo coming out victorious in the Council seats race.

Winfield Succeeds Maynes As Editor Of College Weekly

With the retirement of Dave Maynes, graduating editor-in-chief of the "Villanovan," a sophomore in the Arts school, Richard Winfield, will assume the top editorial post on the college's weekly newspaper.

Announcement of newly appointed staff heads was made at the paper's annual dinner-dance Saturday night in the Hotel Barclay by Rev. John Klekotka, O.S.A. moderator.

Maynes, who served as Managing Editor in his junior year before becoming editor-in-chief, graduates in June and will receive his commission through the NROTC Unit as an Ensign.

470 Men To Obtain Degrees At Ceremonies On June 1

Harry L. LeFever, a history major from the school of Arts and Sciences, has been named Valedictorian of the Class of '53 for graduation ceremonies to be held in the Field House on Monday, June 1.

The name of the principal speaker and the list of the distinguished men who will receive honorary degress from the college has not as yet been released.

HARRY LE FEVER

Four hundred and seventy men will receive their baccalaureate degrees in the various fields of study at the ceremonies which are scheduled to begin at 2:30 p.m. Each graduating senior will be allowed only three invitations due to the limited seating capacity of the Field House.

Of the 470 men to receive degrees, 68 will also be commissioned Ensigns in the U.S. Navy or 2nd Lieutenants in the Marine Corps.

Honor Man

LeFever, the valedictorian, is a day student hailing from Upper Darby. He is a member of Delta Epsilon Sigma, the National Catholic Honor Society, the Student Council, and was a regular with the varsity baseball team for two years.

Battalion Commander of the N.R.O.T.C. unit here, LeFever will be commissioned in the Marines Corps at graduation.

Baccalaureate

Baccalaureate services will be held in the Field House on Sunday, May 31, at 10 a. m. The academic procession for this ceremony will form in front of the C&F Building at 9:30.

Commencement exercises the following day will begin with the procession forming at the same place at 1:30.

The exact schedule of all events, times and places for picking up caps and gowns and degree hoods, etc., is posted on the various bulletin boards about the campus.

College officials, deans, and professors will receive the graduates and their relatives and friends in their respective offices immediately after the commencement exercises.

This is the first time that exercises have been scheduled in the afternoon in the Field House in recent years, except when rain made it a necessity. Various reasons were given—besides being too hot outside in the morning, it would also conflict with ceremonies at Rosemont and Malvern Prep.

200 Will Receive Merit Awards At Convocation Today

Merit awards will be distributed to about two hundred Villanovans at this afternoon's convocation in the Field House.

All classes will be suspended for the duration of the meeting, which will start at 1:30, and end about 3:00.

Dave Smith, Joe Mullen and Bob Brabson will receive five merit awards each to head the list. Rev. Robert M. Sullivan, O. S. A., dean of the school of Arts and Sciences, will present Edwin K. Daly with the Colonial Dames of America award for his historical composition.

Program Outline

Mr. Thomas M. Laffin, head of the Program Counsel of the American City Bureau, will address the students after the awards have been given out. Mr. Laffin will speak on the long-range plans to improve the school. Remodeling of the dining hall heads the list of improvements sought by the administration. Mr. Laffin will be chief adviser to school authorities in the current planning campaign.

At the last meeting of the Student Council he impressed the members very favorably with his comments.

Following the convocation Rev. E. B. McKee will conduct a rehearsal for graduation.

The merit award is a certificate of recognition of service to an extra-curricular cativity which is presented to deserving students by organizations at the compition of each academic year. At the convocation last year 230 men received merit awards.

BELLE AIR

The 1953 Belle Air Yearbook is being distributed today in the Belle Air office in the basement of Mendel Hall. All men who have paid full matriculation fee are entitled to a book.

Students who have been here only one semester may obtain a copy for $3.00.

The Junior Week Story

1. JUNIOR WEEK GETS OFF TO A FINE START with a highly successful Mother's Day on Monday, May 4. 300 Juniors with their moms toured the campus, attended Mass in the college chapel, attended a luncheon and a banquet, heard a band concert and planted the class tree. Here are the mothers and men of the class of 1954 in the Field House enjoying the evening banquet. Beautiful weather smiled on the campus on Mother's Day, as it did for the rest of the week.

2. BRASS SECTION OF THE COLLEGE BAND fills the Field House with the strident cadence of a Sousa march at the band and Glee Club concert on Tuesday evening. In the foreground with his back to the camera and directing the band is Don Brown '53 Concert Bandmaster. Approximately 150 persons atended the musical festival.

3. GOING SOUTH OF THE BORDER at the Blazer Ball, informal dance of Junior Week, is Janet Murray, then uncrowned Queen of Junior Week with her escort, Mark Carmack. The Field House was the scene of the affair; 150 couples danced and whirled to the music of the Blue Notes on Wednesday night. Jack Birle and his committee hung a five foot replica of the junior class seal in the gym representing the theme of the dance.

4. STRAINS OF "POMP AND CIRCUMSTANCE" were followed by good natured laughter from onlookers when bandleader Johnny Long found some trouble in crowning Janet Murray as Queen of Junior Week. The clip on the rhinestoe tiara just wouldn't catch. Prom Chairman Joe Zator (at the mike) and the royal court watch anxiously. Prom, highlight of the Big Week, was attended by 550 couples. Centerpiece in the Field House 5 Friday night was a dry-type fountain in a "Rose Room setting."

5. WILL 'O THE WISP MILER FRED DWYER flying home to a new home-track record of 4:11.9 in the much-heralded feature mile run of the first annual Blue and White day. Dwyer, outstanding figure in recent indoor track season with nine victories, received standing ovations each time he raced by the stands which held an estimated 6,000 tri-sport fans. Villanova's varsity defeated the Old Timers in an out of season grid foray 26-7, and southpaw Don Sommers held Loyola of Baltimore to two hits in a 19-1 rout.

LeFever Is Named Valedictorian

Sheehan, Finan, Steinfelt Win Presidential Elections

Just one hour and twenty minutes after the last ballot was cast last Wednesday, election day, it was announced by Father McLaughlin, Dean of Student Activities, that 64% of the eligible voters on campus cast their ballots in electing class officers and Student Council representatives.

Seventy-four percent of the junior class turned out to name as president Ted Sheenan, New York City's gift to Villanova. A tie between Jim Boyle and Dick Kelly for treasurer was typical of the many close races.

Two hundred and seventy-five sophomores—a disappointing 65% of the class—voted Bernie Finan of Maplewood, N. J. into the president's chair. In another close contest, Bernie Steinfelt edged Dick Fitzpatrick 88 to 84 to cop presidential laurels in the freshman class.

The 64% figure represents a drop of nearly five percent off last year"s record-establishing mark of 68.7% and a drop of two percent off the old record, set in 1951. In all, 924 of the 1,440 eligible voters took advantage of their privilege.

Class of '54

Thomas E. (Ted) Sheehan of the state of New York was elected president of the Class of '54 last Thursday as a record number of juniors turned out to vote. Sheehan's competitors, George Eberle and Harry Anger finished in that order as he rolled up 133 of the 293 votes cast.

Jack Birle, former Blazer Chairman from Drexel Hill ran away with the vice-presidential vote and led his runner-up, Jim McGee by 76 votes.

Class of '55

With a 25-vote margin over his closest competitor, the sophomore class placed Bernie Finan at the helm of their Junior year. Finan, a resident student in the Arts school, headed a party which accounted for four of the seven offices which were in dispute.

Ted Clarkson, of Havertown, was chosen as class vice-president, and "Bud" Ford was swept into the post of class secretary. Treasurer of the next junior class will be Frank Baker.

Class of '56

Bernard Steinfelt of Barracks 4 was elected President of the class of 1956 as fifty-seven percent of the class participated in the voting. Steinfelt, a graduate of York Catholic High, York, Pa., defeated Dick Fitzpatrick by the count of 88 to 84.

The Vice-Presidency will be held by Leroy Zimmerman of Harrisburg, who won by a large plurality over the rest of the candidates, who were bunched with from 30 to 68 votes.

The position of Secretary will be filled by Jules Wettlaufer of Belmont, Mass., who beat out Frank Hartmann by the score of 148 to 144.

Mario DiVincenzo from Coatesville, Pa., won by a majority of 50 votes over Bill Doyle of Pittsburgh in the race for Treasurer.

Editorial

It's Been Real

It doesn't seem like it was too long ago that we were sitting here attempting to pound out our first editorial of the current year.

That was in October and now, time flying as it does, we find ourselves at the other end of the rope wondering what to say in this journalistic valediction.

Despite the usual looking forward to the time when we'd "put the paper to bed" for the last time, it comes with a certain sense of letdown.

And the passing of our collegiate careers brings at least some sense of realization that, despite all our gripes and the continual looking forward to Commencement, it wasn't too bad after all, especially when we look back over the past four years.

They've been full ones, as much as, and probably more than we expected them to be. For we've enjoyed the best and we've gimaced at the worst.

We saw two Wildcat grid teams go through the season with only one blotch on their record; we cheered back in '50 when "tall Paul" was proving himself the best in the country; we cheered again the following year when the class of '53's amazing sophs set the courts afire with their play; we sat in shocked silence when the great Nick Liotta passed away at the height of his colorful career.

We were present at the start of the greatest era in Villanova history, the first class to enjoy the full benefits of the newly dedicated library, naval science, and chem engineering buildings. And before we left plans were made for a new dormitory, stadium, and student union building.

A law school and a nursing school were a reality, and a bill to make Villanova a university was before the state senate.

But, as the frontspiece in the 1953 Belle Air states, "the students are the important element in any college." Possibly at no place is that more in evidence than here.

But had Villanova never produced a Paul Arizin, built a library, or started a law school the four years here could still have been put on the asset side of the ledger. For, and we'd like to borrow another phrase, the class of '53 was a clique, in that everybody belonged.

Nothing we undertook was anything but successful. Naturally we had our fallings out along the way, but in the final analysis it was everybody working together which guaranteed a record studded with "biggest and best"—from our Soph Cotillion to our Senior Dinner-Dance.

Looking back, it is these things we'll remember, at least so the sentimentalists claim. Whatever the case, the record is there for all to see.

And so, as we bid adieu, we'd like to wish the best of luck to each and every one, continuing progress for Villanova, and a sincere "God bless you."

To the men who worked on this publication and gave so selflessly of their time and effort, we wish to express publicly our thanks. They made it a year that we'll always remember; a year that could not have been successful without the wonderful cooperation that was shown at all times.

To incoming editor Dick Winfield and the other men who are returning next year, we wish the best of luck in the job that confronts them come September.

"Terrible Place" Becomes "Dear .Old .Alma .Mater"

By Tony Galati

June 1 is just around the corner and the time is drawing near, when, as some celebrated wit once said, "This terrible place becomes our dear old Alma Mater." The day of reckoning is close at hand and sentimentality makes us look back with a certain inexplicable delight on our college days.

It all began some four years ago when a very impressive letter from the Registrar informed you that you had been accepted to Villanova College. Then there followed parties, banquets and fond farewells along with strong promises to write to certain people at least twice a week.

Before you knew it, it was a warm, sunny September day and you were miles from home in some strange field house going through the registration ritual, which in those pre- IBM card days lasted at least five hours.

Table To Table

Like the proverbial chicken with its head cut off you wandered from table to table, secretary to dean and back again. At a point dangerously close to complete exhaustion, some crazy White Hat pounds a blue dink on your aching dome and shouts "O.K. frosh, you've had it, now roll up those cuffs and get the hello habit."

Your college days had begun. And there was no blare of trumpets and roll of drums, as, your bloated high school senior ego had led you to expect.

Loaded down with blankets and other essential periphernalia, you stumbled toward your dorm. Anxious to get into the swing of things and make an impression, you attempt to put the famous hello habit into practice and find that it brings only a "what-is-it-with-you kid" look.

After a few days of indoctrination or orientation, which included speeches, cheering sessions, more speeches, tests and more speeches, the real fun began. It took only several months of beating and battering on that inflated ego and you were quite convinced that you were a nothing.

A Year Passes

But amazingly enough, after numerous quizes, mid-terms and finals that grueling freshman year passed. And in much the same way so did the next two years. It wasn't all work and no play. There have been cotillions, proms, hops, picnics, parties and an occasional "brawl." There's plenty of material for future bull-sessions and for telling grandchildren hidden in these years.

By Junior year everyone was dreaming of graduation day and by the beginning of senior year the real eager beavers were already counting the days 'til June 1. Some are anxious to leave while others will hate to go.

Whether you belong to one group or the other you must admit that in just twelve days one of the happiest phases of our lives will have slipped into the soon forgotten past. These past few years fostered friendships among people from throughout the country.

These years have seen boys grow into men who have come to understand their fellow man and to appreciate his problems.

As is quite natural, there have been gripes during the past years, some valid and some not so valid. However, in the final analysis Villanova has given us fine spiritual and intellectual training.

It is our task to put this training to its proper use. The time has come to "sing a hymn of praise, to our dear old Alma Mater and our college days."

Scoop Fades Away

Out Into The World As Four Years Pass

By Jim Glavin

Over three hundred remain of the mass of straggling, awed, youthful high school graduates who invaded this Main Line mecca of education on a hot September day in the fall of 1949. The columnist was and is proud to be a member of that group, the Class of 1953.

There have been many cold days in the four intervening years. There have been other hot days, there have been mild days, there have been innumerable damp, foggy, rainy days, and there have even been the eccentric days when snow actually dotted the campus.

G-Day

And, now, for the three hundred who are winding up their days at Villanova, there approaches on the horizon the important day, Graduation Day, G-Day.

Not only at Villanova, but all over the country there will be long lines of men, and of women, two weeks hence, waiting to grasp that valued piece of paper called a diploma, a piece of paper for which they have been working, sweating, hoping, praying for four years.

The first week in June will come and go; so will the first year away from college; and, the succeeding years. This year's college graduates will be just plain Mr. American's. There will be lawyers, protecting our greatest heritage, freedom and justice; there will be doctors and nurses, guarding our health; there will be teachers . . . writers . . . . engineers . . . these will be the Class of '53 in the years that lie ahead.

"New Corps"

In a sense this year's graduates are a "new corps" in the ranks of college graduates.

In the '20's the collegian was portrayed for posterity as a Charleston-dancing, flask-waving, raccoon coat-wearing wild man. He stands as a symbol of the times, the Boom or Bust years, the Teapot Dome years, the years when the nation was on a bender, not visioning the inevitable hangever that lay ahead.

In the '30's after a nation had been mismanaged into its worst depression, card-carrying communists were vogue on the campus; "campus pacifists" stoned ROTC's. These were turbulent years, the years of breadlines, "Hooverville's," Veterans' Marches, and then a new hand at the helm and a remarkably quick and effective recovery.

GI Student

Then: War. And, as an aftermath, came the GI to the campus. He was serious, methodical; if he lacked "genius" he made up for it with plain studying. He washed diapers and supported a wife between classes. Teachers liked his ilk. He was "serious."

And, then, came 1949. At Villanova, as elsewhere, the "new corps" made its debut. Some of the veterans were still around to "orientate" the Frosh. But, the young high school grads were not to follow the ultra conservative path of their immediate predecessors. They were more vociferous, liberal, and candid — and the columnist thinks it was for the better.

Verdict?

What will history's verdict be of the Graduates of 1953? That decision will probably be a few years in the making, a few more to solidify.

But, we are not so much concerned with what history will say of the collegiate careers of the '53ers, as we are with what the graduates of 1953 will do in the years that lie ahead.

Some claim that the political reactions on the campus last fall during the presidential campaign portended the course to be followed by this year's graduates. Last fall campusites were avid, perhaps more so than since the early thirties, in their political opinions. Even such "conservatives" as Princeton and Yale students joined in the general national campus avalanche to a mid-western liberal Democrat named Adlai Stevenson. Stevenson's intellectual capacities, candor, and excellence of expression fired the imagination of the students. At Villanova "it was Stevenson by-two to one" in a campus poll.

Today's graduates have been watching and learning. They have learned to love their freedoms, and, per se, to bitterly despise such aliens to a free land as the wild and publicity-seeking "professional investigators," who in recent days have even trod on the sacred ground of "freedom of the press."

Watchful Waiting

The graduates of 1953 have been watching the global and national scenes for twenty-one years, with intensified interest for the last five or six years. Now, there comes both the end and the beginning. The end of watching has arrived, and the days of "doing" have begun.

The graduates of 1953? We

A Message Of Thanks

Dear Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to publicly extend my thanks to the members of the Student Council for their cooperation and efforts during the past year. The success that was met during the year was due to the combined efforts of the council, and to enumerate anyone individually for their work would be to list every member of the council.

I would also like to thank our moderator, Rev. George McLaughlin, O.S.A. for his help and guidance, without which little would have been accomplished.

In closing I would like to wish every success to the Council for next year.

Sincerely,
Tom Ackerman,
Chairman, Student Council.

Species "College Girl" Undergoes Some Close Scrutiny by Will Katz

By Bob Rock

Now that the school year is closing upon us, Will thought that he would favor us with a dissertation upon the favorite subject of the college boys, and that is the college girl . . . It seems that one time Will had a date with a local college girl and all she kept intimating was that she really broke her back over the rough courses that she had and when my roommate laughed —POW!!

So that little incident about the black eye led my roomy to give his discourse upon returning to our little cell . . . And I quote, "You know" he said "these college dames are too much . . . It's ridiculous when they tell how hard they study . . . Leave me tell you, their are two general types of college girls . . . The first type are those who want to go to college to get an education and these actually study . . . (Besides they might as well hit the books because no one wants to take them out anyway).

But you have to give credit to these very few girls because they'll get more out of college life than prom invites . . . And then there is the other type!! Their parents might as well not send them to college because all they're after is a man. (They should write to a lonely hearts club or something) . . . This kind of girl counts her success at college not in the number of credits she has but in the number of dates she has . . . Some are the worse type of social-climbers yet (Maybe IVY-climbers is a better title). . . .

But we never have to worry about coming into contact with these socialites because they are never around their respective colleges campuses except to attend those classes which they can't cut . . . You can usually find them on some other boy's green on the week-ends . . . But alas and alack, ces't la vie. You know, they should have two types of colleges . . . One for those who would like to get an education and one for those who would like to get a man . . . The latter type would be a strictly social college (as if some aren't now) where the courses would be (1) How to get a Man, (2) How to act towards the opposite sex, (3) How to knife your girl-friend in the back without her knowing it (The Painless Method), and (4) Social graces. . . ."

Well, by this time, my roomy is foaming at the mouth and he hasn't even started yet, so we quietly tip toe out of the rom and bid adieu to Will until next year.

THIS 'N THAT

POLL CAT: A hectic week of campaigning has passed and peace and quiet once more settles upon our campus. Thomas E. Sheehan, senior presidential candidate from the Bronx reached political heights as he swept both himself and most of his WILDCAT PARTY to victory . . THE BISHOP has worked long and hard for this.

We thought Bill (Go-Getter) Ryan was running for office last week the way he flashed those crazy white bucks around.

ANCHORS AWEIGH: About 95 landlubbing sailors have received their orders to various ships. Summers at the shore and at the golf club are all over for a while, Gentlemen, you're gonna see the world.

SPEAKING OF THE SHORE: When Seniors Dave McConney, Joe Tracey, Gene Rosenquist and Ken Lowe leave these hallowed halls next week they'll retire to their favorite "resort," Spring Lake. Also understand that H. Baird is planning a small celebration for early June . . Such fun!! BABY BOBBY GOLD stepped right out of his diapers into a student council position for next year. The Gold home in Narberth looks like the Penn Sheraton every weekend. The crowds come in all the way from Pittsburgh to enjoy a little of that Gold-en hospitality.

NFCCS Donates All Funds To Japanese, African Missions

REV. JOHN M. DOUGHERTY, O.S.A., Provincial of the Augustinian Order, receives a check from Joe Mullen, chairman of the Villanova NFCCS chapter, for benefit of the Augustinian Missions in Japan and Africa. (Photo by Rabenda)

Augustinian missions in Africa and Japan will be $300 wealthier very soon as a result of the campus NFCCS chapter's decision to liquidate its present treasury and donate its funds to the foreign missionaries.

Scheduled to benefit from the disbursement are Rev. John Powers, O.S.A. of the Augustinian mission in Africa and Rev. Thomas Purcell, O.S.A. of the Augustinian mission in Japan. Both missions will be granted $150.

An additional $100 from the NFCCS treasury will be donated for the relief of needy Catholic students in Europe.

In other NFCCS news, delegates were named for the summer national congress to be held in Cincinnati, Ohio on August 26, and lasting for 6 days. Delegates from the Villanova chapter will be Ed Kerney, Joe McNulty and Jim Rath.

Senior Engineers Cop Third Prize in Contest

A paper entitled "Accelerated Polishing Technique of Magnesium for Metallographic Examination" won third prize for Albert J. Impink, Zbigniew S. Borowik, and Harry A. Quigley in a competition at the Engineers' Club in Phila. last Thursday.

The contest, sponsored by the Phila. Chapter of the American Society for Metals, was participated in by seven colleges. First and second prizes were won by Temple University and the University of Pennsylvania, respectively.

In addition to the prize taken in the contest, Villanova representatives also took first prize for attendance.

STAFF MEETING

The entire "Villanovan" staff—will meet in the newspaper office this afternoon at 4:30 p.m. All staff members returning next year are urged to attend.

Underclassmen who wish to work on the staff of the paper as reporters, sportswriters, photographers, artists, and circulation men are also urged to attend.

Long-range Plans For Development Are Outlined By College Authorities

At a special meeting of the Student Council, called especially for the purpose, Monday, May 11th, the Administration of Villanova College made public for the first time, plans for a long-range development program for the college.

Thomas Laffin, speaking for the College, outlined the broad objectives of the program to the student leaders. Mr. Laffin is the resident representative of the American City Bureau, the organization that has been retained by Villanova to guide and counsel the college in this undertaking.

The decision to embark on a long-range development program was made by the Board of Trustees of Villanova College in response to greatly increased demands upon the college. Recognizing that existing facilities cannot accommodate the annually increasing number that seek admission, the Board moved to institute a program based on careful planning that aims to provide a physical plant and organization capable of accommodating all students who qualify for admission.

Currently a survey is being made of the existing college plant and program which will reveal the changes and additions necessary to handle the current and anticipated student load effectively.

The cost of implementing the development plants will be provided to a great degree by a long-term fund raising program. Such a program will include a request for cooperation from all friends of Villanova, Alumni, Industry and any one who is interested in providing higher education in the best Christian tradition.

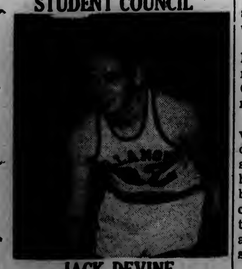
Wildcats Tie Army After Defeating Delaware at Home

A two-run rally by Army's baseball Cadets in the bottom of the 10th inning pulled the West Pointers up to a 6-6 tie against the Wildcats last Thursday, and the game was called because of darkness at that point, in a game that followed the Main Liners' 8-3 victory over Delaware earlier in the week.

The Army splurge wiped out a two-run Wildcat lead taken in the top of the 10th, and deprived Art Mahan's club of its ninth straight win.

The team's eighth straight triumph came in the form of the win over the visiting Delaware club two days earlier, as Dick Scott racked up number five without a loss. Scott, who was to defeat Penn Friday, gave up only five hits, was backed up at the plate by good hitting on the part of Chuck McGuckin, Jack Peters and Ralph Cecere.



BILL McGARRY

The Army game, played at West Point, saw lefty Don Sommers start, and go fairly well until he was removed after 8 1/3 innings in favor of Scott. Scott relieved with two men on and got out of the inning without further trouble. But, in the 10th, with men at second and third, a grounder was hit to Dick Shannon at third; Shannon threw to first as one runner scored, and, as the batter tripped Jack Helm at first, preventing the first-baseman from getting off a good throw to the plate, the sixth run scored.

Villanova had gone ahead in the top of the 10th, after gaining and blowing a 4-2 lead earlier in the game. Bob Mauerer drove in two runs against Army.

Homers By Cecere And Helm Set Pace As Cats Stop Penn

By Harry Nash

The long-ball power of Villanova's Wildcats lashed into two University of Penn pitchers last Friday and sent the Ivy League contending Quakers reeling to a decisive, clear-cut 7-4 defeat, as Art Mahan's inspired baseballers grasped their 10th win, and their ninth in a row.

Perhaps the play of the Main Liners is best exemplified by a remark made by a Penn team manager to Villanova Athletic Director Ambrose "Bud" Dudley: "What have you been feeding these guys, steaks?" The comment was nicely timed, too, for it came right after Ralph Cecere and Jack Helm had picked out choice Penn pitches and lambasted them far and wide over the left center and left field fences, respectively.

Cecere Homers

Cecere's blast, coming after Bill McGarry had scored the opening run after a triple and a fielder's choice, easily cleared the screen barrier between the two large trees in deep left-center, traveling a good 360 feet, at least. The visiting pitcher had hardly composed himself after Ralph's poke, when first-baseman Helm stepped into a fast curve and pulled it over the wall in dead left, that being a goodly blow also, to be conservative.

So the Wildcats, playing steadily in the field too, were off and running to a 3-0 margin by the end of the first frame. Penn managed to score a loner in the top of the second, but Villanova came back on the strength of a walk, two fielder's choices, two singles—by McGarry and Chuck McGurkin—in the bottom of the second to widen the lead to 5-1.

Cecere came up again in the bottom of the third, and, with one down, pumped a high liner into left field that cleared the fence by about eight feet, for his second homer of the game and of the season. This discouraging development (for the Penn starter) plus a walk, brought in a new hurler for the visitors and sent the opening moundsman behind the screen for a bit of practice.

Scoring Slacks

Scoring slacked off somewhat after the third inning, with Villanova marking up its final run in the fifth, and Pennsylvania pecking away at Dick Scott's offerings for singletons in the fifth, eighth and ninth. Scott, in winning his sixth straight without a loss, gave up 10 hits, and although he had not the stuff that was so evident in his last

Confoy, Nash Heads '53-'54 Sport Staff, Replacing Anger

This marks the final issue of the Villanovan for the 1952-53 scholastic year. As the Villanovan comes out for the last time, we must announce some new job assignments.

Starting with the first issue in the fall, Dick Confoy and Harry Nash will take over as new heads of the sports departments. They assume the sports editorship, replacing Harry Anger. Originally Anger and Carl Valenti had been co-editors, but Valenti resigned earlier this year.

Confoy, who hails from Rockville Center, Long Island, is just completing his first year on the staff. During the past year, Dick has covered football, track and basketball for the leading campus weekly. In addition to these duties, he also wrote many action-packed columns for the sports page.

Nash, who will be a sophomore next fall, is also in his first year with the paper. His experience, however, has been vast in addition to this paper, as he covered Class B baseball for the daily paper in his hometown, Portsmouth, Virginia. Nash's work on the staff included 150-pound football, basketball and this spring, baseball.

Diamond Squad To Play Final 2 Games On Road This Week

With the season drawing rapidly to a close, Art Mahan's diamond charges will take to the road for their final two regular season games. Tomorrow the boys oppose Westchester for the second time this season and then Saturday, in the finale for this spring, the squad goes to Princeton.

The Westchester team was the victim of a rout the first time the two teams met this year. Tomorrow they are cast in the role of the spoiler as the Wildcats are a vastly improved ball club. The choice of starting pitcher for Mahan tomorrow will probably be Dick Scott who is undefeated in six games. In his last job Scotty stopped Penn 7-4.

Princeton Tough

On Saturday the affair at Princeton figures to be an even tougher one. The Tigers last season gave the Villanova squad a hard time, as John Watson got tagged with the loss. Mahan's choice for that one will most likely be Don Sommers.

After such a horrible start the Cats have come a long way and victories in these final two games could mean consideration for a post season tournament.

In the spring of '52 the Villanova team went to a playoff for the District Two titles only to be beaten by Penn State in a heartbreaker. The boys have been looking for that trip to Omaha for a long time, now we can only hope it is finally coming. If this team can get the good pitching, they are as good as any college squad in country.

Track Team Fails To Finish Relay; Dwyer Drops Out

Last Friday night in Los Angeles the 13th annual Coliseum Relays proved to be very unlucky for the harriers of Jim "Jumbo" Elliot. The defending Villanova two-mile relay team made the trip in vain, for they were unable to finish in their race.

Seemingly the same illness that plagued the Manhattan College squad took its toll with the Wildcats. The Jaspers wound up in the hospital, luckily the situation was better as far a the Mainliners were concerned.

In the mile run, too, the Villanova representation went for nil. Freddie Dwyer was finally stopped by stomach cramps and was forced to drop out of the contest. From most reports the

Sports Final

A Delightful Evening

By P. O. Keats

I must confess that I'm not as sad about this being the final edition of the "Villanovan" as some of my cohorts are. In the year to come it will be a pleasure to retire to the relative quiet of the Bele Air and simply stare at pictures all day, rather than the horrible yellow copy paper provided by this sheet. In some ways perhaps the yellow paper is fitting for the brand of copy that has filled these pages since last September. It was at times a struggle to fill the pages, but all in all it was worth the effort. I say worth the effort because at the end of the year all members of the staff are invited to the palatial home of the editor for dinner.

Last Saturday night your reporter was fortunate enough to receive an invitation to this same affair. Before the evening was too old, one could quickly see the affair was more than a dinner, it was also a coming-out party for the "Fighting Boy editor," Dick Winfield. Mr. Winfield, for the young lad that he is, accepted the green lampshade, that is significant of his office with a great deal of poise and charm.

It was, in a way, sad that the wheels of progress had to roll over Dave Maynes at the veritable prime of his life. The Horiato Alger story of Maynes's rise from the Intramural desk in the sports department to the role of a two-fisted editor is one that made him not only a local hero in Allentown, but also in the far flung sections of Mendel Hall.

After we had finished the meal and my waiter, who incidentally looked like a spy in a Herbert Marshall movie, had cleared the dishes, we all settled back for a long evening of slumber. The sleep however was soon interrupted by the brilliance of Mr. Maynes wit. Maynes worked cleverly and efficiently, sending the crowd into fits of hysteria with every word uttered.

As he continued on, the smart money in the place began to sense something had gone wrong. It seemed as if the old pro was making one last ditch stand against the aggressive boy editor. But the die was cast and before long Winfield moved into the number one spot. It was a great fight, but youth and speed had won again. Winfield had truly made great strides in his fight to the top, but we all wondered if his new position warranted the band playing "Hail to the Chief" as he walked to the rostrum.

As he stood there speaking we were all stirred by his magnificent oration; that finally gave some the courage to rush the band and make firewood out of the instruments they were using to disturb the peace.

Year In Review

By Jim Glavin

It is said that things assume their proper. proportion only when viewed in retrospect. If that be true, and who are we to object, the past year in sports has been a big one at Villanova.

There was a football team rightfully tagged "the best in the east" (Syracuse conclusively proved that in the Orange Bowl); there was a basketball team fully worthy of the National Invitational Tournament Bid it received, only to have it purloined from its deserving hands; there were three All-Americans in three sports:: Gene Filipski, Larry Hennessey, and Fred Dwyer; there were successful baseball and track seasons; two sports were added to Villanova's repertoire; a successful new extravaganza named "Blue-White Day" made its first appearance on the Main Line; and, two capable men, who took only days to prove their mettle, assumed important athletic posts.

There were nine months, nine months filled with thrills, victories, a loss once in a while, innovations, honors, and even a disappointment or two. This is the way they lined up:

SEPTEMBER . . . The Raimo gridiron machine upended another pack of 'Cats who travel under the name of Kentucky, 25-6 . . . A week later the Wildcats from the Main Line continued their march through Dixie, beating a good Clemson team, 14-7 . . . There began premature talk of a "bowl team" west of Philadelphia.

OCTOBER . . . Detroit's Titans didn't look so titantic against the Blue and White as Gene Filipski and Company rolled in 21-7 . . . Gene had a personal hand in this one, rolling up 191 yards alone, more than the entire Detroit team . . . Wake Forest rolled into Franklin Field, and was carried out a few hours later . . . It was a 20-0 this time . . . The bowl talk didn't seem so premature now . . . Boston's College's Eagles were looking for an upset the next week, up in Beantown . . . They were still looking when the weekend was over . . . It was Villanova, 28-7 this time . . . "Fillip" added 117 yards to his total, and took the nation's rushing lead . . . The 150 pound Wild kittens made an inauspicious debut, bowing to Rutgers . . . Out into Ohio, the Raimomen trekked, and rolled up an early lead, then coasted, 34-20 . . . The 150's were beginning to drown. Princeton took them into camp . . . Goodreau Stadium's turf shook and rumbled under a massive Parris Island eleven . . . The 'Cats rolled with the punches, and kept fighting . . . it was a draw . . . 20-20.

NOVEMBER . . . The bowl talk began to falter . . . Tulsa 42, Villanova 6. 'Nuff said? . . . Larry Hennessey banned for 15 games . . . Into Shibe Park rolled Villanova . . . Orange Bowl talk was still in the air . . . A muddy turf, a "twelfth player" against the 'Cats . . . Harry Agganis stopped . . . Villanova 51, Boston University 6 . . . Seasonal Log: 7-1-1 . . . Haner third in national scoring . . . Orange Bowl committee had their eyes shut, though . . . The 150's went down for the third time . . . A winless season . . . Syracuse picked for Orange Bowl . . . Word "fishy" began to make its appearance in Villanova circles after that.

DECEMBER . . . Al Severance's Hennessy-less charges romped over Fort Dix, 92-57 . . . Quantico 76, Villanova 74 in a last second thriller . . . Froshes win intramural football league title . . . Gene Filipski named what everyone knew he was: All-American . . . Bobby Haner, Bob Volonino, Bill Hegarty named All-East . . . Waugh and Matuszak of Tulsa were unanimous choices as gridiron All-Opponents . . . St. Francis topped 84-76 . . . Haner named MVP, Roy Kershaw Most Consistent at annual Football Banquet . . . Delaware invades Field House, is carried out: 100-79 for Bobby Schafer and Co. . . . UConns upset the applecart: 71-75 . . . Three overtimes and a cord-ripping 32 by Dutch Schafer stood in their way, but SLU won 94-100 in a Sugar Bowl thriller . . . Next Night: Villanova 75, St. Bonaventure 66.

JANUARY . . . Duquesne tops 'Cats . . . Soph Sensation Bob Schafer is kidnapped from campus, given beating, told to "ease up" . . . Bobby "eases up" to the tune of 33 against Xavier: Villanova 94, Xavier 86 . . . Fred Dwyer wins Washington Post mile . . . Many more destined to follow . . . Big Move: Bud Dudley named Athletic Director . . . Severancemen win 53rd straight in Field House, 100-68 over Kings . . . Iona is next in a 70-67 hairraiser . . . Out in Buffalo, a second win over the Bonnies . . . Ref's foul out all but four men in Duquesne game at Pittsburgh, Dukes win . . . Genial Al Severance had more men on bench at end than in the game . . . Hennessey returns: Nets 26 in 3 quarters.

FEBRUARY . . . Villanova tops North Carolina State in a national upset- 89-81 as Messrs. Schafer and Hennessey rip the cords wide open . . . Setonians from South Orange top Hennessy, Schafer, and crew by 8 . . . Canisius roars into Palestra, crawls out: 'Cats romp as Hennessey sets new Palestra marks of 44 points and 18 field goals in a game . . . Boston College invades Philadelphia, finds Larry was just warming up against Canisius; Palestra programs rewritten again as Larry hits 45, chucks in over 60% of his shots as he hits 19 field goals . . . Up to Fordham, where Coach Johnny Bach was going to "stop Hennessey." He did: Larry got only 25, but Bobby Schafer joined with an equal total to lead the Severancemen to a rout. Jim Mooney played his last game in this one, and left the floor to the tune of the Villanovans who journeyed to Rose Hill. The "steady redhead" joins the Pro Warriors . . . Penn U. Publicist Mort Berry has recovered from Hennessey's Palestra record feats, announces: 105 points scored by team vs. BC most ever in Palestra; Hennessey's 45 and 19 rf's also tops . . . North Carolina upsets the 'Cats at Raleigh . . . Stops Hennessey with 32 . . . Dwyer still running: wins Baxter Mile. AAU mile, IC4A mile . . . Sets 4:08.1 record in latter . . . first miler ever to win AAU and IC4A treks in same year . . . Siena invades Palestra with its possession game, didn't even have posses-

McGuckin Again Joins McGarry In Winning Combine

By Scoop Keats

Art Mahan's star centerfielder, Charlie McGuckin was at one time one of the most promising scholastic football stars on Long Island. The strong armed junior from Chaminade High School made quite a name for himself in the island gridiron circles. As a quarterback Chuck starred on a ball club that featured another Cat baseball star, Bill McGarry.

Team Again

The two of them are at present making history again under the careful guidance of Art Mahan. In high school McGarry and McGuckin were two names that automatically came to mind when one talked about outstanding players. Bill was the leading scorer in the county and his sidekick McGuckin was just about the best Quarterback you could hope to find.

Here at Villanova the youngsters have taken to another sport equally as well. Both have proved themselves with the glove and course with those all important hits.

One could easily say "the Mc's have it" and it looks as though both of them may well take it with them right up to the major leagues.

Cats vs. Penn

start, the sophomore lefty was tough in the clinch and stingy with base hits with men on base.

Bill McGarry hit the ball well, as did Cecere and Helm, and picked up a pair of hits for his day's work. McGuckin continued meeting the ball solidly, collecting one safety, as did Helm, Dick Shannon, Jack Peters and Scott. Cecere also marked up a single in addition to his pair of long-distance clouts.,

Track Team Fails

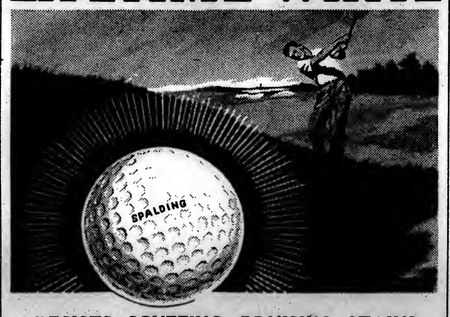
water is the factor that upset the boys' and caused the cramps.

Last year in the same two-mile relay Villanova, sparked by a brilliant 1:50.5 half on the part of Ray Wheller, won the invitation affair. The time for the entire race was an excellent 7:32.6.

The trackmen go into action again next Saturday afternoon in New York. On that day they engage Fordham and NYU in a triangular meet.



Shamrocks Yet To Lose; Defeat Feds Sleepers Also Win

In the B section of the Mendel league The Shamrocks are undefeated. They beat the Fedigan Feds 5-0, in their first game. The Feds however bounced right back with a close 3-2 win over the Sleepers. In their next game the Shamrocks topped the Mad Medics by a decisive 7-1 margin. After the Shamrocks won over the Feds and the Sleepers lost to the same team the contest between these two figured as another win for the Shamrocks but the Sleepers put up a strong fight and at the end of nine innings the game had to be called on account of darkness with the game all tied up at 6-6.

TRIPLE THREAT MAN!

The Brains of the Team

Teamwork can work miracles. In a football game the man who sparks these miracles is the quarterback. He's the man who calls the signals. There's a man who calls the signals for an Air Force flying team, too!

They call him an Aircraft Observer.

Do YOU have what it takes to become an Aircraft Observer?

It isn't easy. It's tough. You have to be a MAN to qualify as an Aircraft Observer. But when you are one, brother, you're SOMEBODY! The success or failure of a mission involving over a million dollars worth of flight equipment depends on you.

THE AIRCRAFT OBSERVER IS THE SOMEBODY WHO:

As Bombardment Officer, is number one man on a bombing run, the man who controls the plane in the target area!

As Navigation Officer, is the pilot's guiding hand on every flight!

As Radar Officer, is master of a new science and operator of the device that sees beyond human sight!

As Aircraft Performance Engineer Officer, is the one who "keeps the plane flying", the man who knows his plane inside and out, who keeps it fit for the skies and sees that it stays there!

If YOU can accept a challenge like this, you'll take your place beside the best—you'll find your future in the clouds!

TO BE QUALIFIED you must be single, a citizen, between 19 and 26½ years old, have had at least 2 years of college and be in tip top physical shape. If this describes you, then YOU, too, can qualify. Today!

HERE'S WHAT YOU'LL GET! The world's best training. Good food and plenty of it. Uniforms, flight clothes, equipment. Medical and dental care. Free insurance. Flight training in Uncle Sam's greatest aircraft.

Class of '54

In the Secretarial race, Gene Filipski showed the way. Filipski, an Arts student from California, beat dayhop Tony Pearson by 16 votes. The three other candidates for secretary, were Tom Cogins, Dave Smith and Bill Murphy.

Jim Boyle, a Hazleton, Pa., C&F student, and Dick Kelly, a dayhop C&F student tied in the contest for Treasurer of the class of '54. Both men received 103 votes. Jim Cleary was a close runner-up.

This tie will be broken at the first meeting of the class next fall.

Student Council representatives for the class will be: Bob Gold, a dayhop, C&F; Jack Kneafsy, another dayhop, Arts; Joe Zator, resident, Engineering; and John Gillman, resident, Education.

In the Arts school race, Kneafsey just nosed out Ward Welsh for the victory.

Class of '55

Student Council representatives chosen in last week's voting included Don McGahan, Arts; John Devine, C&F; and Joseph Welsh, Engineering.

The elections were disappointing in the percentage of students that voted. Only 65% of the sophomore class went to the polls. In comparison with other classes, this percentage is close to the average that usually prevails. In the past, however, since the Junior year contains many strenuous duties for the class officers, the number of voters in a sophomore class has been much higher and competition much more hectic.

Finan garnered 91 votes to carry his office, Clarkson swept his with 70, and Ford gained his with 147 supporters. The highest count was held by Frank Baker, who polled 169 votes in taking the Treasurer's position.

The closest competitor to Bernie Finan was Tom Ulrich, with a total of 66 votes. Frank Gunther and Tom Baroody received 44 votes apiece in the same race. Jim Dorris, of the "Action Party," received 30 votes.

Drill Team Named District Champs At Armed Forces Day Celebration

The Villanova NROTC Unit celebrated Armed Forces Day last Saturday afternoon with a drill competition and a battalion review in the College Stadium. Very Rev. Francis X. N. McGuire, OSA, President, delivered the main address. Miss Marylin Epifanio presented the colors to the winning company.

Our Drill Team defeated the team from U. of P. to win the Fourth Naval District Championship for the third straight year, thus retiring the trophy at Villanova.

After the presentation of scholastic awards to the ten outstanding midshipmen, Capt. C. E. Harrison, representing the Commandant of the 4th Naval district, announced the results of the various rifle and pistol competitions. In the National Rifle Match, Villanova placed 7th in a field of 99 service teams and 1st among the Navy teams. In the SecNav Rifle and pistol Match, our pistol team took 1st place while the 1st rifle team and the 2nd rifle team captured 4th and 9th places respectively. Mid'n J. J. Delaney emerged as the national pistol champion for the 3rd straight year.

Mid'n Delaney, pistol team captain, expressed his congratulations to his team and stated: "We all expect great things next year, and are counting heavily on Caesar Trunzo. He is one of the best."

Belle Air Here; Staff Holds Dinner

In celebration of the arrival of the new yearbooks from the printers, the staff of the 1953 Belle Air held their dinner at the Lamp Post Inn, Wayne, last Tuesday night. A total of 35 people attended the affair at which Rev. F.X.N. Maguire, O.S.A., was the principal speaker.

Special tribute was paid to the late Al Bujarski, who worked on the Art Staff. A yearbook which will be presented to his parents was autographed by all those present at the dinner.

Immediately after the dinner yearbooks were given to everyone. After the new edition had been inspected by those present, the after dinner speakers gave praise to the staff as a whole and to the editorial staff in particular.

Moderators of the Belle Air were Fr. Falvey, O.S.A. and Fr. Sullivan, O.S.A. The book is being distributed to the students on Monday and Tuesday of this week.

JUNIORS

The reorganized Steering Committee for the Class of 1954 will meet tomorrow night at 7:15 in Room 215 Mendel Hall. The committee will discuss dates for next year's Father's day and Senior Weekend. New class officers Sheehan, Birle, and Filipski will preside.

Staff Changes

spring following the resignation of Junior Ted Sheehan. Coming from Valley Stream, L. I., Winfield is enrolled in the NROTC Unit of the college.

Managing Editor of the "Villanovan" next year will be Ward Welsh, Junior English Major. Welsh, whose home is in Malverne, L. I., worked on the news and feature staffs this past year.

Co-News editors are Robert Ford, Arts freshman, and James Nolin, Junior English major.

William Quinn, a sophomore in the Arts school, became Feature Editor replacing James Glavin. George Ferguson, Junior Arts, will step into the post as Newsfeature Editor.

Harry Anger, incumbent Sports Editor, will step down to take up the same position on next year's "Belle Air." Replacing him will be Richard Confoy, sophomore C&F, and Harry Nash, freshman arts.

Mike Maliniak, Junior C&F, was appointed Business Manager, replacing Joseph Mullen. Nicholas Elsier continues as in his position as Circulation Manager of the newspaper.

YEARS AHEAD OF THEM ALL!

1. THE QUALITY CONTRAST between Chesterfield and other leading cigarettes is a revealing story. Recent chemical analyses give an index of good quality for the country's six leading cigarette brands.

The index of good quality table—a ratio of high sugar to low nicotine—shows Chesterfield quality highest

. . . 15% higher than its nearest competitor and Chesterfield quality 31% higher than the average of the five other leading brands.

2. First to Give You Premium Quality in Regular and King-size . . . much milder with an extraordinarily good taste—and for your pocketbook, Chesterfield is today's best cigarette buy.

3. A Report Never Before Made About a Cigarette. For well over a year a medical specialist has been giving a group of Chesterfield smokers regular examinations every two months. He reports . . . no adverse effects to nose, throat and sinuses from smoking Chesterfield.
